has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.
Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.

SWEEPING SALE

SWEEPING OUT!

Our Stock Must Be Sold Inside of TEN DAYS

Nice Linen Summer Clothing on hand yet. Shoes, Hats, Ladies' Slippers, Children's Slippers, Ladies' Shirt-Waists—sell them at half price.

Blue and Pink and Yellow Lawn at 4 c.—10 cent value goes at 4 cents a yard.

Linon de l' Inde, dead black, at 2½ c a yard—10 c value

Ball Thread, Ten balls for 5 cents.

100 more bargains, but not enough space to mention them. Come and see them.

Our Mr. H. Touro is going to New York by the 10th inst, and we want to sweep out all the goods we have on hand to make room for new goods.

We are paying for good washed Wool. 35 c a pound.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

A man always puts his best foot forward; a mule puts his backward.

A Warning to Mothers

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old fashioned castor oil and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipiency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

MARRIED

At Concord church, Aug. 18 Mr G W. Hicks and Miss Bertie Hyde. Rev. Job Reynolds performing the ceremony.

At Riderville, Aug 19. Mr John T. Young and Miss Ella P. Cunninghom, G. B. Reed, J. P., officiating.

God's Wrath is Close at Hand

Lesson No. 15. Evening of same day. And God said "The heading shall be God's wrath is close at hand," and said this matter must be put in the Banner six months without ceasing. He said I think the Editor is a Christian man, and said if anybody wants a message direct from God, apply to NEWTON COOPER, Verbena, Ala., R. F. D. No. 2.

Peculiar Disappearance!

J. D. Runyan, of Butlerville, O., laid the pecular disappearance of his painful symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy, for dizziness, sour stomach, headache, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co., 25c.

M. F. CANNON & SONS
SUCCESSORS TO
CLANTON FURNITURE CO.
CLANTON, ALA.

We have bought out the above firm with intention of opening up a general store at Clanton, and the Furniture on hand all being new, including the new Fall Styles that have just arrived, we do not wish to ship it away, or to pack it back in our warehouse, so we commence to-day, August 15th, this Clearing Sale which will only last 20 days as our other goods will soon begin to arrive, and we must make room for them at a sacrifice.

The line consists of a beautiful line of Furniture, including Chairs, Trunks, Hall Trees, Mattresses, Springs, Wardrobes, Side Boards, Odd Dressers, Iron Beds, UP-TO-DATE SUITS

Stoves Window Shades Lace Curtains
Hammocks, etc.

Remember, this entire line must be closed out at once at some price. Mr. Robinson, whom we leave in charge, will take pleasure in showing you through.

M. F. CANNON & SONS.

Position guaranteed by a $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
R. R. Fare Paid. Board taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day.
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Fairview.

Dear Editor: Allow me a space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to our debate. A grand success it was. Misses Melissa Howell and Gatie Sims, representing the negative, proved that woman's intellectual power was equal to man's. J. Toy Williams, Howard Roper and Miss Lottie Johnson, representing the affirmative, brought out good points, but were pleased to congratulate the negative on winning

Our next debate will be at the Popwell school house Sept 2d. Subject: Resolved, that intemperance is a greater evil than war. Affirmative, J. T. Williams, Miss Etta Roper, J. J. Sims. Negative, Jerome Williams, Miss Gatie Sims and Howard Roper.

Speakers would be glad to have just such an audience as before Best wishes to the Banner and its many readers. TWO JAYS.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere, and nine out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Obe Witmer, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customers, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell and recommend this preparation." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Farmers' Union

Last Monday delegates assembled by call from the several beats of the county and organized a branch of the Farmers' Union

The more rapidly a man goes, the more likely he is to be overtaken by misfortune.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

Administratrix's Notice.

All claims against the Estate of Dr. F. D. DuBose must be presented within the time allowed by law or they will barred.
ANNA G. DUBOSE, Administratrix.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Alabama, and to me directed whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain decree recently obtained against Joseph Spigener in favor of Ann Spigener, and to the use of court officers, out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said Joseph Spigener, I have levied on the following property, to-wit:

Ne ¼ of nw ¼ Section 17 and se ¼ of sw ¼ Section 8, all in Township 21, Range 16, Chilton county, Alabama.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named Joseph Spigener in and to the above described property, on MONDAY, the 4th day of SEPTEMBER, 1905, during the legal hours of sale, at the court house door in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Dated at Clanton, Ala., this 29 h day of July, 1905.
J. M. MORGAN,
Sheriff of Chilton county.

Early Risers
THE FAMOUS LITTLE PILLS.

For quick relief from Biliousness, Sick Headache, Torpid Liver, Jaundice, Dizziness, and all troubles arising from an inactive or sluggish liver, DeWitt's Little Early Risers are unequalled.

They act promptly and never gripe. They are so dainty that it is a pleasure to take them. One to two act as a mild laxative; two or four act as a pleasant and effective cathartic. They are purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. They tonic the liver.

PREPARED ONLY BY
E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

The Exchequer.

In past times it was the custom for the king's justiciar and his subordinates to make up the royal accounts twice a year, at Easter and Michaelmas, on a table which was the most striking object in the chamber in which they assembled. This table was covered with dark russet cloth divided into squares, which gave it a checkered, chessboard-like appearance, and in the columns and spaces the accounts rendered by the sheriffs and great landowners who attended for that purpose, were entered and reckoned up. It was the checkered cloth, so conspicuous throughout the proceedings, that gave rise to the name exchequer, just as the stars painted on the ceiling of another historic room originated the name "star chamber."—London Globe.

Didn't Work.

A new soprano was needed to fill a vacancy in the church choir, and there were a lot of applicants. Each chose her own music, the idea being to allow the candidates to show off to best advantage. One young woman sang a "piece" which began, "Turn me not away." She was turned away notwithstanding.

EVANGELIST

We wish to say to that the following p paid on our tent the here given :

J. B. Gray, Mountain
Dr J. R. Dawson, Marbury
Dorman, Marbury, $1.00;
Mountain Creek, Rev. P.
Mountain Creek, $1.00;
Mountain Creek, $1.00;
rish, Mountain Creek, $1
Dennis, Mountain Creek
Pinson, Mountain Creek
Traywick, Verbena, $1.00 ton, Marbury, $1.00; J. S. bury, $1.00; A. L. Davis
A. H. Hust, Jemison, $1.00
der, Marbury, $1.00; T. J.
Mountain Creek, $1.00; Mr Mountain Creek, $1.00; H. B.
Mountain Creek, $1.00; Dr
Dennis, Verbena, $5.00; John Montgomery, $10.00; P. C.
ton, $1.00; F. O. Dudley, C
J. H. Gibbons, Dentaville, $
Gray, Birmingham $5.00; Pr
Verbena, $2.00; Prof. J
Clanton, $1.00; James L
Wadsworth, $20.00; Jake C
Montgomery $1.00; Henry Verbena $1.00; Col. A. C ton, $1.00; The Banner C
W. H. Sartor, Clanton, $1.00
Clanton $4.00, Private D
W. D. Sims, Marbury $1.00
bes, Birmingham, $5.00.

We trust and pray that delinquent ones will come next week, and that God fifty or one hundred givers by next issue and will be ours. Hail whom all blessings flow.
Yours in Christ,
S. J. J

The Only Way

There is no way to health and strength of body except by nourishment is no way to nourish except the stomach. The stomach kept healthy, pure and strength will let down will set up. No appetite strength, nervousness,
constipation, bad breath
ings, rifting, indigestion,
and all stomach troubles
curable are quickly cured
of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and ens the whole digestive Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Take Down the Old Hang

We present elsewhere nouncement of our new ment, whereby we can readers The Weekly the Banner and the most hensive and practical bama ever published This places within the every person two papers
the demand of every ho
The Weekly Advertiser surpassed facilities for news will print each week
news of the entire world.
The news of Alabama given and short stories writers, the most instr page in the South.
Our paper will give the best local and county county is covered by our ial correspondents, and of importance will be fu curately told.
The black map is the made of heavy map pa sides, Japaned sticks top a Shows new railroads, Houston county. Comp population cities, counties
Send us $1.50 today b offer is withdrawn. C office and see the map has to be sent by mail, cents extra for postage

Herbine

Renders the bile more thus helps the blood to for, is prompt relief from indigestion, sick and nerv aches, and over-indulge and drink.
G. L. Caldwell, Agt. M
R R. Checotah, Ind. Te April 18, 1903: "I s over two years with chr
the liver and spleen. Th didme no good, and I up all hope of being c
my druggist advised Herbine. It has made m well." Sold by Upchurch

$2.25. By special we are enabled to offer bama Baptist ($2.00 and ner ($1.00) both papers for $2,25

KILL THE CO
AND CURE THE L
WITH Dr. Kin
New Disc
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Surest and Quickest THROAT and L
LES, or MONEY

MAN ON THE CORN

the Sights He Saw, and Se Saw Not.

first day of Septemb marks an era in the c
the year is ended, the
The farmer who has ll the year, through col now hopes to realize a for his labor, and wi vigor proceeds to pic
The ginner, after a re onths, has put his mach
r and cheerfully again to work; early and late for all the cotton that c rchant, who has been customers, hails with son when he can beg his just debts and pay he owes. Cotton is ll are proud to do him hon season opens, in som in great promise. The are getting about ten und for their cotton, good reason to believe nts should be the mini but it is to be hoped for than one, that there too much of a rush o t in the early part of the

There is no doubt but op is small, reduced acr bad season has effected and if the farmer procee t his crop leisurely, he he situation, but a rush a t time would have the e reciating the market. B w seems the best advice.

of the happiest places i been my good fortune to the hospitable home of C Alba at Coden by-the-Captain is a man of an in s of mind, and manag life pleasant by all sort vances to lesson the lab Driving through the
the gate opens and clos accord. Up the steps porch, and a moving c
you to sit down, and e se, made by its own mot resting a few minutes in asks you to walk into and before you know it xuriating in an easy ch on the table in front of y of-of-of-er-Coca-cola, thing else, is phizzing
g, the stopper appare come out of its volition.
you are getting used working automatically, ntarily you extend your glass to your lips and-w the rest, of course. Ou tiful grape arbor all sort and seats await you, a believe some of them ar ived that as you lazily sw ards and forwards the gr into your mouth. I w for this, but it wouldn't me if it was so. Then in has a boatswain's lo ously arranged with e d appliance for all imag
nts. The Captain can sp en heart on the main br nd a plow or a cracked h t water from the bottom ll, or a drink from some o
, can draw a tooth, or ty of fish out of the bay telling the ingenious arrangements.
y, he's a prince of good nd so they all are at Co s Souci.

missioner Moses Robin
ught the lot on Sixth st
Mrs. M. M. Smith, and d to erect a residence for himself and family.
n is so frequently in to that he cannot be c a new comer, but Clan pleased to welcome is wife and family.

H. I. Honeycutt

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

. XIII CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1905 No 46

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

The Baptist church presented a ly sight Sunday night, when protracted meeting was brought close. Every seat was occu- and chairs were requisitioned the court house and the aisles , while numbers found stand- room at the rear of the church several were unable to obtain ittance at all. Never before the church so crowded and it have been gratifying indeed the Rev. A. C. Swindall and his hful colleague, the Rev. Up- , whose work has been so ly appreciated during the ting. Rev. Upshaw preached rring sermon and Bro. Swindall tised six converts, five ladies one gentleman. The meeting been one of the most enthusias- held in Clanton for a long time, we believe has accomplished h good. A spirit of earnest- has prevaded the meeting all ugh, and a revival of religious ught is apparent.

With three ginneries in operation Clanton this season, farmers can g their cotton to town with the rance they will not be kept iting. Wade's ginnery started iness a week ago and is ready all comers. The Clanton gin- y has been put in order and its trade. The new ginnery the Chilton Warehouse Company ll very soon be in operation. e building is practically finished, the machinery is now being in place. Come on with your ton is the cry.

ATH OF HON. H. A. WILSON.

On Sunday evening Mr. H. A. ilson was stricken with paralysis his home at Lomax, and died at five o'clock Monday morning. was born in Talladega county, for many years had been a ident of Chilton, and few men re better known in the county. roughout the State he was also ll known, being a prominent n in Republican circles. For eral years he had been a United tes Commissioner, with offices Birmingham, where he also ed- d and published the Times, a ding Republican paper.

Mr. Wilson was a man of strong victions and of a genial disposi- which made him many friends. leaves a widow and one daugh- , Mrs. T. C. Marcus, to mourn e loss of a fond husband and ectionate father, and they have deepest sympathy of all in their dden bereavement.

Mr. Wilson was in Clanton but a days ago, apparently in his al health, and his sudden demise as a shock to the community. The funeral took place at the metery at Clanton, Tuesday after , a large number of friends ing their last tribute of respect the deceased by their presence at final resting place.

Death of Joseph Johnson

About six o'clock Tuesday even- Joe Johnson died from an over- of morphine. Shortly before, had been on the streets, in a er despondent mood, and after rning to the Clanton Drug store procured a bottle of morphine before he could be prevented swallowed a big dose. Every t was made to neutralize the cts of the drug, but in vain, and passed quietly away. Great pathy is felt for Mrs. Johnson the family. He was only 20 rs of age.

ing on the Market Equal to Chamber- 's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Rem- edy.

This fact is well known to drug- everywhere, and nine out of will give their customers this ation when the best is asked Mr. Obe Witmer, a promi- nt druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a ular to his customers, says: ere is nothing on the market the way of patent medicine ch equals Chamberlain's Colic, lera and Diarrhoea Remedy bowel complaints. We sell and mend this preparation." For by Upchurch Drug co., Clan- , A. Horn, Thorsby.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 c.

Sardis.

Cotton picking is all the go these days, but I don't think it will be long, for there is not going to be much to pick.

Rev. Robt. Jones filled his regular appointment Sunday and preached an excellent sermon.

Our school at the Deason school house closed last Friday; it was a grand success. Everybody is well pleased with Mrs. Etta Mae Roper, she is a good teacher; we hope she will be our next one at this place. The children entertained the people Friday afternoon with 30 recitations, several songs, a debate and spelling match, and everything was a success in every respect. We are sorry indeed that she had to leave us, but may God be with her in all of her undertakings.

Success to the Banner and its many readers. A SCHOOL GIRL.

A Touching Story

is the saving from death of the baby girl of Geo. A. Eyler, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "at the age of 11 months, our little girl was in declining health, with serious Throat Trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair, when we resolved to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured, and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. At Upchurch Drug co.; 50c and $1.00 guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

New Cedron.

The health of this community is very good, and farmers are busy gathering their cotton.

Bro. Deason filled his regular appointment at this place Sunday.

Some of the young people visited Fairview Sunday.

The Fairview boys came down Saturday evening and played a good game of ball with the Center Point team; the score was 12 to 2 in favor of Fairview. Come again, boys, you played well.

Messrs. Smith and Sorrell are drilling some fine wells in this part of the country.

We are glad to see Mr. John Sims back from Mississippi.

There will be singing at this place next Sunday evening.

Mr. Davis' school at this place is progressing nicely.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Public is Aroused

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St Clair Ave., Columbus, Ohio, writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak, from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guranteed at Upchurch Drug co price 50c.

Death of Miss Emily McDaniel

After a sickness of about a week, Miss Emily McDaniel died of pneumonia, at the home of her brother, Mr. Ed McDaniel, at East Birmingham, Sunday night, aged 67 years. For many years the good lady had made her home in Chilton county, where she has numerous friends and relatives. For thirty years she was a consistent member of the Methodist church, and was a good Christian women.

The mortal remains were brought to Clanton Tuesday morning, relatives from Stanton and Marbury, as well as those in Clanton, attending, Rev. J. T. Eckford officiating. Three brothers and three sisters survive her, who have our heartfelt sympathy.

A little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Anyone who makes it a rule to keep Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand knows this to be a fact. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. HOLLOWAY, President. W. T. CALLEN, Cashier.
W. I. MULLINS, Vice-President. JOHN A. THOMAS, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

Chilton Cotton Association.

The Chilton Cotton Association will meet at Clanton, Saturday, September 2, 1905, for the transaction of such business as may come before it.

W. H. CONWAY, Pres.

A Pioneer.

Woman has found another occupation for herself. The woman minstrel appeared the other morning, going through the back yards of a block of flat houses near the Park. The tenants heard the musical tinkle of a mandolin and a sweet voice singing a ballad in fairly good style. Many heads popped out of the windows, to behold a young woman in conventional clothes, with no attempt at gypsy make-up, playing her own accompaniment and singing with a businesslike air. The usual bits of paper-wrapped money were tossed down to her. She nodded her thanks and after another song went her cheerful way, while the busy housewives withdrew after a sigh of longing for the free and easy life of the highway which throbs in the blood of almost every human being when music and the sunshine thrill the heart in early summer.—New York Sun.

When the door is opened on selfishness love dies on the threshold.

Do that assigned to you, and you cannot hope too much or dare too much.

"We are never beneath hope, while above hell; nor above hope, while beneath heaven."

If I cannot succeed in doing anything myself, I will not grudge another the doing of something noble.—Epictetus.

There is one thing will warm up the man who preaches in an ice box, and that is to see people looking for a more genial climate.—Henry F. Cope, in Chicago Tribune.

Miserable thou art, whosoever thou art or whithersoever thou turnest, unless thou turn thyself to God. Keep thy heart free and lifted up to Him.—Thomas a Kempis.

Whenever you speak, watch yourself; repentance follows every word which gladdens no heart. Let every thorn which people sow in thy road bloom in the lustre of thy smiles.—Persian.

The great law of affinity, which is seen everywhere in nature, holds with the same unalterable, unmeasured force in the spiritual world. Every shade of mind draws its like, or is attracted by kindred minds.

We never know through what divine mysteries of compensation the Great Father of the universe may be carrying out His sublime plan; and those three words, "God is love," ought to contain to every doubting soul the solution of all things.—Miss Muloch.

All carnivorous animals lap up water with the tongue. Herbivorous animals, as the horse and ox, suck it up.

Fiendish Suffering

is often caused by sores, ulcers and cancers, that eat away your skin. Wm. Bedell, of Flat Rock, Mich., says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, for Ulcers, Sores, Cancers. It is the best healing dressing I ever found." Soothes and heals cuts, burns and scalds. 25c at Upchurch Drug co; guranteed.

A BOLD, BAD BOOK AGENT.

How He Disposed of Three Bibles on Smith's Wedding Anniversary.

One day an enterprising agent who had informed himself approached a Mr. Smith with the interested suggestion:

"Now, Mr. Smith, I know that to-day is your wedding anniversary. Don't you want to give Mrs. Smith a handsome Bible as an anniversary present? I can let you have a beautiful $15 Bible for $5."

After some discussion Mr. Smith took the Bible. Just here the plot thickens. The book agent pocketed the proceeds, then promptly ran up to Mr. Smith's house, called for Mrs. Smith, and asked if she wouldn't like to make her husband a present of a fine Bible on this anniversary. He said that, as he was anxious to dispose of all his books before going to Cleveland at 6 o'clock, he would sacrifice a beautiful $15 Bible for $5. After some hesitation Mrs. Smith bought the Bible.

When Mr. Smith reached home that evening and presented his wife with a large package containing an anniversary gift she went into the next room and produced its mate.

Tableau! Smith vowed vengeance with all the heat of a warm disposition. However, there was a fine festal supper waiting, so he contented himself for the present with a telephonic appeal to one Lewis Johnson, a nearby friend.

"Lewis," he urged, "I want you to hurry down to the station and stop a book agent who is going to Cleveland at 6 o'clock. I must see him before he leaves town. You just hold him until I can finish supper and get there." Then he gave a brief description of the man and rushed back to his supper.

The good Lewis hopped on a passing car and swept down upon the book agent just as the train pulled in.

"See here," he explained, "Smith says that he must see you and that you are to wait over a train for him."

"Sorry; I'd like to oblige him, but it's impossible. I'm due in Cleveland at 8.30, and have got to be there. But I know what Mr. Smith wants. He was thinking of buying a Bible of mine for his wife's anniversary present. It's really a handsome book, which I usually sell for $15, but as it is the last one I have, I offered it to him for $5 (producing the Bible). He was to let me know if he wanted it. Couldn't you take it to him, as I can't possibly wait? He'd be disappointed not to have it, I know."

The obliging Lewis thereupon hastily produced $5 for the agent, acquired the Bible, and with the best intentions in the world trotted back to the Smiths with the book.

Second tableau! Fortunately their sense of humor saved the situation, and with chastened spirits they display all three books of Holy Writ to the initiated.—Lippincott's.

Lewisburg, Tenn.—Marshall county was visited by a severe rain storm Friday. Reports of great damage come from the southern part of the county, in the Growers and Roberson Fork neighborhoods, where the corn is almost totally ruined.

Humboldt, Tenn.—The registration books closed Friday night. The number registered was 552 out of a possible 800 voters in the district. The negro registration was light, there being not over 110. The majority of non-registers were negroes.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. MULLINS, President E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier
W. H. SARTOR, Vice President E. B. DEASON, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

THE JERSEY BULL—Mona's Lowland King No. 68,780; Dam Mona's Addie No. 163,371; Sire Lowland King No. 53,894. Bred by M. C. Campbell, Spring Hill, Tenn. Will make the season 1905 at the farm of P. T. HINKLE, Clanton, Ala.

A GURANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggist refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case, no matter of how long standing, 6 to 14 days. First supplication gives ease and rest. 50c. If your druggist hasn't it send 50c in stamps and it will be forwarded post paid by Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND
AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
CLANTON - ALA

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts.
Office at the Adams' plant
CLANTON - - - ALA

A. C. Smith J. O. Middleton
SMITH & MIDDLETON
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
Office in Smith Building opposite Courthouse
CLANTON - - ALA

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
CLANTON, - - ALA

RO M E. KNOX,
AT RNEY-AT-LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

Fourth District Agricultural School

SYLACAUGA, ALA.

Competent and experienced instructors. Scientific and Agricultural Courses. Thorough preparation for College. Beautiful and well arranged buildings and grounds.

Next Session begins Tuesday, September 12th.

For further information and catalogue, address,

T. C. MOORE, President.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

A School For Teachers.

Enrollment 436 last session from 52 counties of Alabama. Prepares for State Examination. Board $10,00 per month. Tuition free. High and healthful location. Twenty-third session begins September 19, 1905. For catalogue, address,

C. W. DAUGETTE, President.

Send for Catalogue of the

FIFTH DISTRICT AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

WETUMPKA, ALA.

CATALOGUE FREE. SCHOOL FREE.

TEN TEACHERS—FOUR MEN, SIX WOMEN.

OPENS SEPT. 12. NINE MONTHS. 328 LAST SESSION.

H. J. WILLINGHAM, President.

Alabama Girls' Industrial School

MONTEVALLO, ALA.

Rev. Francis M. Peterson, A. M., D. D., President.

Academic Pedagogical Scientific Commercial Industrial Domestic Musical Artistic

Session begins Thursday, Sept. 14

Tuition Free; Living expenses $92.00 per session.

For information address President.

ATHENS FEMALE COLLEGE

ATHENS, ALA.

Owned and Controlled by the North Alabama Conference. Founded 1842.

We offer the advantages of a full collegiate course in the Departments of Mathematics, Languages, Science and Literature under competent instructors. The college building is handsome and commodious, with steam heat, electric lights and enameled baths, while ten thousand dollars appropriated at the last session of the North Alabama Conference will be expended this summer in improving the equipment and in increasing the capacity of the dormitories.

Special advantages offered in Music and Fine Arts.

The health record of the college is absolutely unsurpassed. The boarding capacity of the institution is limited to one hundred students, and those desiring to enter should apply early. Catalogue sent on application.

MARY NORMAN MOORE, President,
(P. O. Drawer 63) Athens, Ala.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

Mine Under Mine.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company has begun making soundings for its mines at Mary Lee, in this county, looking to sinking a shaft to the Black Creek vein, which is supposed to be 200 feet under the present mine. In other words, it is intenced to sink a mine under the present mine. The present seam of coal being worked is known as the New Castle seam and is a fine quality of coking coal. It is proposed, if the scheme can be worked, to bring out the coal from the Black Creek seam to the mine and handle it through the present opening. This is the first mine of the kind ever opened in the state, and the progress is being watched closely.

Shoulder Was Broken.

Mobile, Ala.—Mr. W. L. Pate, a local contractor, met with an accident on Thursday evening at Old Shell Road and Lafayette streets which came very near putting him out of business. He passed a number of men who were raising a telephone pole. Knowing several of the men Mr. Pate volunteered to give them a hand. While thus engaged the pole got away from the men and in falling struck Mr. Pate on the left shoulder, knocking him senseless for a half hour. His shoulder bone was found to have been fractured and the side of his head was much bruised. He is suffering very much.

Mines on Fire.

Birmingham, Ala.—A report comes from Sumter mines, in the Blue Creek region, in the southern part of Jefferson county, that the fire which started several months ago in that place, and which was supposed to have been entirely extinguished, has broken out again and now threatens to do considerable damage. The Sumter mine is one of the best in the state, the coal from there being used both for domestic and coking purposes. The fire will be fought, and as before the mouth of the mine will be sealed in the hope of smothering the flames.

Big Rattler Killed.

Mobile, Ala.—Robert Page, a white man living near Spring Hill, wears the plume for killing the largest rattler for this year so far as noted. He saw the reptile crossing Spring Hill road, coming out of Moffatt's road. Mr. Page shot the snake's head off. When measured the snake was found to be six feet long and five inches in diameter. It had thirteen rattles and the usual button. Mr. Page had the snake skinned and will preserve the skin as a trophy.

A Fatal Fall.

Battelle, Ala.—W. W. Bailey, a well-known furnaceman, fell eighty-five feet from the top of the furnace here Friday afternoon and was instantly killed. Mr. Bailey was seen near the top of the furnace, but it is not known how he happened to fall. Mr. Bailey was 26 years old, and was an Odd Fellow. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Chadwick, of Oxmoor, and two small children. The funeral took place in Oxmoor Saturday.

Freight Train Wrecked.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—Southern freight train No. 72, eastbound, was wrecked at Hobgood's, four miles east of Tuscumbia. Fourteen cars were derailed, blocking the tracks for several hours and necessitating Nos. 5 and 6 to transfer passengers for Memphis and Huntsville. The track was torn up for a distance of a quarter of a mile. The cause of the wreck has not been learned.

A Fall Breaks Two Ribs.

Mobile, Ala.—Capt. Joseph Lawrence, a well-nown member of the single tax colony at Fairhope, Baldwin county, met with a serious accident Friday morning. He was at work on a scaffold and the ropes broke. He fell to the ground, breaking two ribs.

Fowler Released.

Huntsville, Ala.—A writ of habeas corpus was allowed by Judge W. T. Lawler Thursday afternoon in the case of R. Frank Fowler, charged with embezzling money from the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Fowler has made good his alleged defalcation and the prosecution has been withdrawn.

Wants His Child.

Gadsden, Ala.—George Staples, of Attalla, through his attorney, has sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Probate Judge Penn praying for the custody of his son, Ralph, who he says is being illegally held by his wife and mother-in-law.

Young Burglar Arrested.

Mobile, Ala.—Jailer Frank Cazalas late Thursday night arrested a 12-year-old negro boy named Sherman Deans on a warrant charging burglary. The house of Mr. Thomas Stein, on Spring Hill, had been burglarized of $56 and he had reason to suspect Deans. Jailer Cazalas states that he has sufficient evidence on which to convict the boy.

Another battleship division is maneuvring off Cronstadt, preparatory to starting to reinforce Rojestvensky.

OUR GIRLS AND BOYS

IN CANDY LAND.

"In Candy Land the little folks
Wear candy buttons on their cloaks,
And candy buttons on their shoes—
Indeed, on everything they use."

"Why, I should think the things would break!"

"They do; and then the children take
The broken pieces, great and small,
And eat until they've eaten all.

"In Candy Land the girls all know
With candy needles they must sew;
The boys who work have candy tools,
And they have candy books in school.

"In Candy Land they think it nice,
To go to skate on candy ice;
They rest themselves in candy chairs,
And go to bed up candy stairs."

The candy-lover on my knee
In wonderment still questioned me:

"And if the candy stairs should break?"

"The children must the pieces take,
And very quickly down must sit
And eat up every single bit."

"What if the candy buttons break?"

"The pieces then the children take,
And very calmly down they sit
And eat up every single bit.

"In Candy Land the girls and boys Play every day with candy toys;
They always eat from candy plates,
And do their sums on candy slates.

"Sometimes the children eat all day
To get the broken bits away."

"And must the children eat them all?"

"Yes, every piece, both great and small,
This is the law in Candy Land;
And you must own 'tis wisely planned;
For in that land, as you can see,
So many things must broken be
That bits of candy soon would strew
The sidewalks, roads, and houses, too;
So children must the pieces eat
That Candy Land be clean and neat."

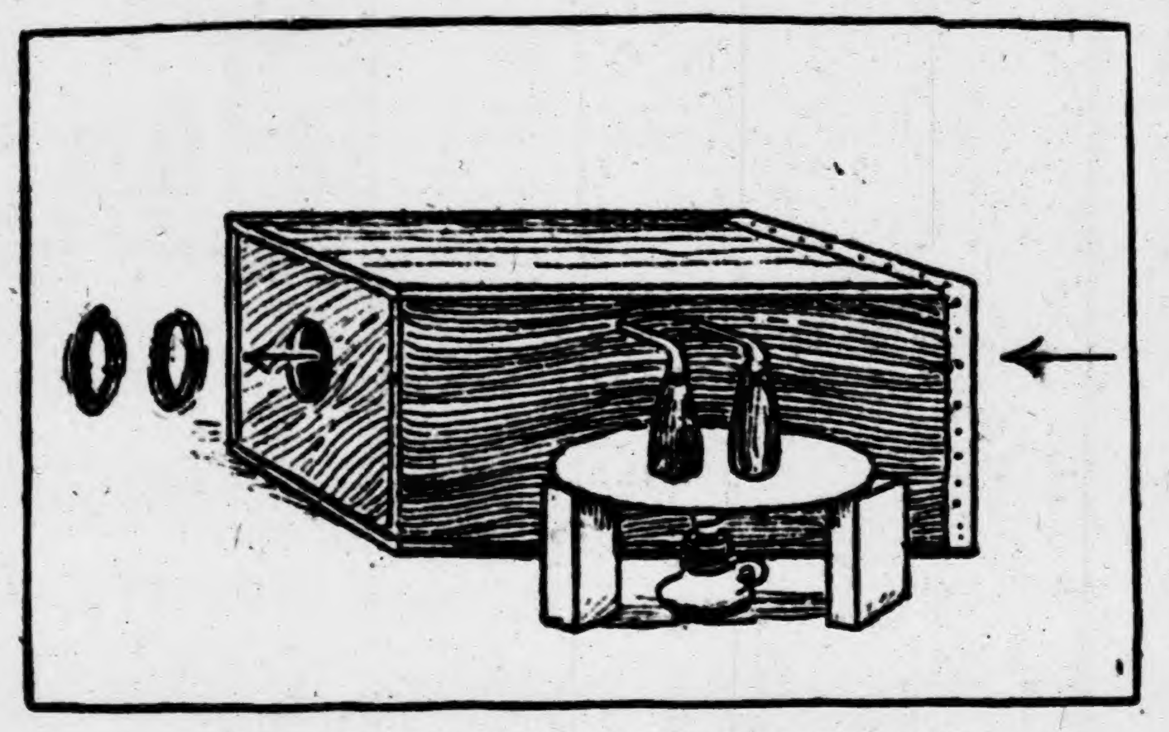
The candy-lover on my knee
In blank amaze looked up at me.

"Why, Candy Land's a dreadful place!"—
Then dawned a wise look on his face—
"I used to think it would be grand
To go to live in Candy Land;
But now I only wish to go
Each day and stay an hour or so!"
—St. Nicholas.

FUN IN MAKING SMOKE RINGS.

Have you ever watched a smoker blow rings of smoke from his mouth? Here is a way to make smoke rings without being a smoker, and it will be found one of the prettiest experiments that you ever made.

You must have a pasteboard box about a foot square at the bottom, and in the middle of the bottom cut a round hole as large as a silver dollar. Pin a handkerchief tightly over the open top of the box and then burn touchpaper in the hole until the box is full of smoke.



THE SMOKE RINGS AND THE SMOKE BOX.

Now rest the box on its side, and when you lightly tap the handkerchief smoke rings will come out of the hole just like those from the smoker's mouth.

To make larger rings of smoke and to perform little feats with them, get a wooden box instead of the pasteboard one and let it be about two feet square at the bottom. Over the open top tack tightly a piece of heavy muslin and stand the box on its side, as before. The hole in this box should be three or four inches in diameter. To keep the box full of smoke arrange two bottles, one filled with strong ammonia and the other with hydrochloric acid, and support them on asbestos so that they can be heated from below by an alcohol lamp. The corks of the bottles will have to have either rubber or bent glass tubes fitted in them, the other ends of the tubes entering the box by means of two small holes.

When you heat the bottles with the lamp the fumes will rise through the tubes and enter the box, where they will mix and form a dense white smoke. Having filled the box in this way the bottles need not be heated again until the smoke becomes thin.

When you tap on the muslin, large, beautiful rings of smoke will come out of the hole, and you can bring them out forcibly and fast if you tap the muslin hard, or gently and slowly if you tap it lightly.

You will perhaps be surprised to hear that you can make one of the smoke rings blow out a lighted candle that is placed across the room from the box. Of course the candle must be placed exactly opposite to the hole, when a quick, hard tap on the muslin will send a ring of smoke that will extinguish it.

And your friends will be surprised when you blow out the candle by tapping the muslin on the box, even after the box has been emptied of smoke. The tap on the muslin sends a current of air strong enough to extinguish the flame.

The accompanying illustration shows how the box should be arranged. Any boy can make it.—New York Evening Mail.

THE STRENGTH OF BIRDS.

Birds can eat and digest from ten to thirty times as much food in proportion to their size as men can. If a man could eat as much in proportion to his size as a sparrow is able to consume he would need a whole sheep for dinner, a couple of dozen chickens for breakfast and six turkeys for his evening meal. A tree sparrow has been known to eat 700 grass seeds in a day. Relative to the bird's size, these seeds were as big as an ordinary lunch basket would be to a full grown man.

A bird's strength is equally amazing, says the Indianapolis News. A white-tailed eagle weighing twelve pounds, with a wing-spread of six feet, has been known to pounce on a pig weighing forty-two pounds, raise it to a height of 100 feet and fly off with it. The bird had covered a distance of half a mile before the pig's owner succeeded in shooting the thief.

Birds can and do work far harder than human beings. A pair of house martins when nesting will feed their young ones in twenty seconds—that is, each bird, male and female, makes ninety journeys to and fro in an hour, or about 1000 a day. It must be remembered that on each journey the bird has the added weight of catching the worm.

Even so tiny a bird as the wren has been counted to make 110 trips to and from its nest within 430 minutes, and the prey it carried home consisted of larger, heavier and harder-to-find insects than were caught by the sparrows. Among them were twenty good-sized caterpillars, ten grasshoppers, seven spiders, eleven worms and more than one fat chrysalis.

ANTS' COWSHEDS.

One of the most interesting studies of insect life is the relationship between ants and plant-lice, or aphids. These plant-lice supply honeydew from the juices which they take as food from plants. The ants are very fond of this sweet substance, and care for the aphids in a manner that seems to us surprisingly intelligent. They sometimes carry them bodily to a better feeding ground and drive away certain of their enemies. It is claimed that they even build sheds of mud in the crotches of shrubs and small trees. On account of this insect relationship, one may truthfully call the ants "farmers," the aphids "cows," and these protecting mud cases "cowsheds."—St. Nicholas.

MOTHER GOOSE GEOGRAPHY.

The old "Banbury Cross" familiar from the Mother Goose rhyme was a real cross in the English town of Banbury. For a long time it was in ruined condition, but was restored some twenty years ago, possibly because tourists would ask to see it. But the "Old Lady" upon the white horse, with all her bells and rings, is gone forever, music and all. "Primrose Hill" is another real locality, being in London near Regent's Park. "St. Ives," on the road from which "seven wives" were met, is the town where Oliver Cromwell passed five years in farming.—St. Nicholas.

PIGEON CARRIED THE NOTICE.

A carrier pigeon, writes the Redding (Cal.) correspondent of the Sacramento Bee, played a part the other afternoon in the filing of a mining location notice and several amended notices with the County Recorder by Clinton Johnson, manager of the Gold Kings Mining Company.

The pigeon was liberated at the mines, four miles west of this city, and reached Mr. Johnson just four minutes later, bringing to him the word that the notices had all been properly posted on the claims. Thereupon he filed duplicates with the County Recorder, and was just in time to do so before the office closed for the day.

STATE HAPPENINGS

Of General and Local Interest as They Occur.

Madman Played Havoc.

Girard, Ala.—With a piece of heavy piping in hand, secured by wrenching loose the water works fixtures in his cell, Gube Beard, a man of unsound mind, defied Marshal Perry, and it was some time before the officer could recapture his prisoner.

Beard made a desperate attempt to destroy the jail and came near wrecking the building. It required almost superhuman strength to twist loose the piece of water works pipe leading to the sink in his cell. The tops are very hard to untwist, even when a wrench is used, and great wonder was expressed at Beard's feat. He smashed the windows and everything else in his reach and was in a terrible rage when the officer went to the jail to give him breakfast. The marshal was warned not to enter the jail, as people on the outside had seen him smash the windows and heard his cries, and thought at first he was armed with an iron bar. Beard was finally persuaded to shut the door of his cell, and when he did the door was locked from the outside by means of a lever.

He at once began to curse in a fearful manner, saying that he had been tricked and was separated from his "tools." When the officer entered the jail his attitude changed completely and he complained of feeling ill. He eats and sleeps but little, and his condition daily grows worse. It is supposed that he will be sent back to the Alabama insane asylum, where he was sent a few months ago, and from which institution he escaped.

Selma's Library Inspected.

Selma, Ala.—A committee composed of some of the most prominent citizens of Ensley visited Selma Friday morning to make an inspection of the Carnegie Library building in this city.

The inspection is being made for the purpose of examining the different library buildings so that they can adopt or recommend the plans of the building that they think will be best suited to their city for a public library. This is considered a wise step by many in this city who are interested in public libraries, and will no doubt result in Ensley securing a building that will be well suited for the purpose and one that will please the citizens of that city.

Recently Andrew Carnegie has answered a request from Ensley and has appropriated a certain sum for the building of a public library in that town. The committee of citizens who have the matter are now about ready to start to work on the construction of the building, but before doing so it was considered best to have a committee to inspect the different Carnegie library buildings before work was started, so that the inspection of the other buildings would help them in the selection of plans for the building that they would erect. The committee were shown over the Carnegie library building and their stay was made as pleasant as possible.

Cotton Suffers in Tuscaloosa.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The cotton crop throughout this section is suffering very materially from the unusual conditions of the weather. It is estimated that in this county the crop has deteriorated at least 15 per cent during the past thirty days and that the crop will be only 65 per cent as large as last year's. Thus far very little picking has been done, both because of insufficiency of labor and the very wet weather. There seems to be a disposition on the part of the farmers to hold what cotton has been picked, expecting to get better prices. The rains have made a wonderful improvement in the late corn crop, and there will doubtless be a very large harvest.

A Negro Tragedy.

Demopolis, Ala.—On Friday night about 8 o'clock a tragedy occurred on Franklin street across the railroad from the Lister Hotel, in which a negro named Glover was shot dead for beating a negro woman. T. P. Sampson, a printer for the Demopolis Printing Co., attempted to interfere when the brute made at him with his club. Sampson ran into the hotel to get a gun, and by that time a colored brakeman appeared on the scene and fired three shots at Glover, one of which passed through his stomach, from which death resulted instantly. It was all over before the officers could get to the scene, and upon learning the facts from the eye witnesses Chief of Police H. A. Monnier told the negro brakeman who did the shooting that he had done his duty and could go on with his train. The negro woman was carried to Dr. Goodloe's office, where her wounds were dressed. Her skull was crushed and both arms broken, and she will probably die.

Charles H. Hix Is Superintendent.

Norfolk, Va.—President James M. Barr, of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, has issued a circular announcing the resignation of Frank Huger, general superintendent of the Seaboard system, and the appointment in his place of Charles H. Hix, at present division superintendent of the Seaboard, with headquarters at Richmon, Va. His headquarters at general superintendent will be at Portsmouth, Va.

Burglary Anticipated.

Mobile, Ala.—When A. J. Rob opened up his store, corner of Adams and Bayou streets, Friday morning he made a peculiar discovery. Hidden away beneath a counter he found a negro boy named Willie Curtis, alias Freeman. When asked how he happened to be there he said a negro man had sent him in the store Thursday night. He was told to hide until the store was closed and then to open a door for the man, so he could enter and rob the place. The boy said that after he hid away he went to sleep and forgot to wake up. A deputy sheriff was sent for and the boy taken to jail. Here he gave the name of Alphonse Ryan as the man who sent him into the store. Ryan was afterwards apprehended, and is also in jail.

Robbed by Negroes.

Huntsville, Ala.—J. T. Neil, a farmer who resides three miles from the city, was held up in his orchard Friday afternoon by Jim Robertson and Mary Garth, a negro man and woman, and robbed of all the money in his pockets, amounting to about $45. The robbery was planned with deliberation, evidently, and was carried off without a hitch. Mr. Neil is quite an old man, and the combined attack of the man and woman was too much for him to fight against. The negroes had been discharged by Mr. Neil, and they returned to his place and found him alone working in his orchard.

Find Burglar in Room.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—On Friday morning the Misses Montgomery and a young lady visitor residing on Twenty-third avenue and Fourth street were awakened to find a man in the middle of their room trying to strike a match. One of the young women screamed when the intruder disappeared through an open window through which he had entered the room. For some time watch was kept by young men who have rooms in the upper story. The burglar returned later to the window and was trying to enter, when the watchers in trying to catch him made too much noise and he escaped. He was pursued, but disappeared in the darkness.

Shot From Ambush.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—S. M. Black, one of the most substantial citizens of this county, was shot and very seriously wounded Friday night. From what can be learned it seems that Mr. Black was in his yard, when he saw a man loitering around his homestead and commanded him to holt. The man made no reply, when Mr. Black began shooting. The unknown man returned the fire, the ball entering Mr. Black's groin. The wound is of a very serious nature and may cause death. Deputy Sheriff Latham has gone to the scene to make a thorough search for the guilty party.

Hanged In Cell.

Cullman, Ala.—The first hanging that ever occurred in this city took place Saturday between the hours of 10:30 and 11 a. m., when Willian Lepsic took his own life in the county jail. About ten years ago he came to this county and settled near Hanceville, with a good and faithful wife that he brought from Hanover, Germany. They lived happily together for some years, but finally the grim reaper came around and claimed his first choice. Later on he wedded Mrs. Fred Grunt, a grass widow, and for nine months he has been unhappy.

Old Road Disappearing.

Oak Bowery, Ala.—The work of dismantling the old Lafayette Railway goes steadily on. The large crew of hands engaged in taking up the track passed here this week, and is now within seven miles of Opelika, where all the material is being delivered. The farmers along the line finally had the injunction withdrawn upon a compromise of $3,700 damages, which is to be paid when the road is entirely dismantled. There are numerous speculations in regard to the rebuilding of a new road upon the old grade, but nothing definite is known.

Fever Among Cattle.

Opelika, Ala.—Veterinary Surgeon M. F. Jackson announces that there is considerable Texas fever among the cattle and that within the past two months he has treated a large number. When treated in the early stages of the disease Dr. Jackson states that the number of fatalities is small. Symptoms of the disease are abrupt falling off in quantity of milk given, loss of appetite, the dropping of the ears and general restlessness, and lated high fever develops. If allowed to reach this stage the death rate is much larger.

Badly Wanted.

Mobile, Ala.—B. R. Slaughter is badly wanted at Bay Springs, Miss., for embezzlement of funds from section hands of the Mobile, Jackson and that place to the amount of $1,000. A reward of $200 has been offered for his apprehension.

Serious Situation in Warsaw.

Warsaw.—A serious situation prevails here. Business is almost suspended. Police patrol are stopping all persons in the streets, including the occupants of carriages, demanding from them proofs of their identity. There have been many arrests and many persons have been injured in the disturbances. The prisons are overflowing.

sted.
J. Roh open of Adams and rning he made hidden away und a negro , alias Free
he happened egro man had ursday night.
the store was door for the and rob the after he hid and forgot to riff was sent o jail Here onse Ryan as nto the store, apprehended,

rces.
Nell, a farmer
rom the city, rd Friday af n and Mary woman, and in his pock
45. The rob deliberation, l off without an old man, of the man
h for him to es had been and they re found him ard

Room.
Friday morn mery and a on Twenty street were n the middle like a match, n screamed ared through which he had some time men who story. The the window when the h him made scaped. He ared in the

ush.
Black, one of zens of this ry seriously om what can
Mr. Black saw a man estead and
The man
Black began han returned Mr. Black's very serious
ath. Deputy to the scene roh for the l.

st hanging s city took he hours of William Lep county jail.
came to this Hanceville, wife that he Germany.
er for some reaper came first choice.
Fred. Grunt, nine months

ring.
work of dis tte Railway rge crew of up the track and is now elika, where delivered.
e finally had upon a com
s, which is l is entirely merous spec rebuilding of l grade, but ttle.

ry Surgeon that there is among the e past two rge number.
ly stages of ates that the mall. Symp brupt falling ven, loss of he ears and lated high ed to reach te is much ghter is bad s, Miss., for rom section ackson and of $1,000. A offered for Warsaw. tuation pre almost sus stopping all cluding the demanding eir identity.

arrests and injured in prisons are

SCIENCE & MECHANICS

According to the Egyp had a day of "blaring sunshine" 14, which "sent the temperature sixty-eight degrees."

Sheerness, England, though an portant naval station and a town more than 15,000 inhabitants, does possess a single telephone.

Rosa Wedsted, the Finnish giant of Helsingfors, has now reached height of seven feet two inches is twenty four years old and is growing.

A bee that works only at night found in the jungles of India. It unusually large insect. The comb often six feet long and from six inches thick.

The Prince of Monaco, a devotee deep-sea curiosities, has found inous shrimps living at great where all is dark. When put aquarium they lose their light-giving properties.

While a small engine weighing fi tons, used by the railway contrac was crossing the Victoria Falls br just after nightfall it ran over thing on the line, says South Af The driver pulled up to ascertain nature of the obstacle, and was siderably surprised to find an enor leopard lying terribly injured betw the rails. The brute expired in a moments. It measured eight f length, and a marvelous feature of incident is that the engine was not railed.

In an address delivered before Section of Anthropology of the A can Association for the Advance of Science, Mr. E. L. Blackshear tains the proposition that the se of islands, peninsulas and bays most of the coast line of contine Africa has directly exerted a profo influence on the character of the in itants of Africa, by isolating from all the great world movemen history. Deprived of the stimulu commercial and maritime influ they have remained stationary and mant with regard to the organic li the human species.

His Sunday at Home.

An Atchison man who was compe to spend yesterday at home becau the rain had neglected to lay in a ply of newspapers, and had to back upon his wife's kind of rea matter to kill time. At 11 o'clock picked up her favorite. When called him to dinner at 1 o'clock noticed a wild glare in his eyes, ate in silence, putting olive oil in coffee and sugar on his cucum but still she suspected nothing. returned to his reading after d and at 4, when she was sitting chair near him reading "The Dr of Gladys," and thinking how love was to have a rainy Sunday and husband all to herself, giving him portunity to read what she liked to discuss it with her afterward, suddenly gave a loud yell, threw the book, grabbed her by the hair tried to cut her throat with a h brush. The man had read her fav novel through and had gone mad required five neighbor men to hold all night, but this morning he was quieter. He has had a violent only once to-day, and that was his eyes, wandering around the fell upon some of his wife's fav literature on the side table. It was essary upon this occasion to give morphine.—Atchison Globe.

The Jonah Woman.

Street car conductors regard in tive women passengers with sup tious dread. The other day a blew out in a Broadway car and car was hitched on as a trailer to one ahead. Presently a woman to ask questions.

"What would happen," she said the fuse were to blow out in that ahead? What would become of Would the car ahead of that be to drag both these cars?"

"I don't know," said the condu "But don't worry. We won't ha chance to find out. A double acc of that kind has never happened car of mine yet, and it isn't like happen once in a hundred years."

Just then there was an exp ahead and both cars came to a still. The fuse had blown out.

"Confound that woman," the conductor. "That is all her This wouldn't have happened hadn't asked so many fool qu She's a Jonah."—New York Press.

Still Useful.

"Since you have installed dy guns to check tornadoes and winds," said the Eastern man, "I pose you have no further use for cyclone cellar."

"Yaas, stranger," drawled the sas farmer, "them cyclone ce mighty useful sometimes. Here! Look at that cloud on the h Run fer th' cellar!"

Grasping the Eastern man by arm he whirled him off on the that refuge, and battened d door just as a rumbling sound earthquakes filled the air.

"Was that a cyclone?" asked Easterner, wonderingly.

"Wuss, far wuss, stranger," Kansan. "Thet was Cholly de leigh in his 200 H. P. automobile in' to cut down th' record N'Yawk and 'Frisco to ty minutes and four onds."

PEACE DECLARED.

The Japanese Have Decided to Accept Division of Sakhalin Without Payment of Money, or Other Indemnity.

JAPS WILL RETURN INTERNED SHIPS

The Conference is Now at Work on Elaboration of the Treaty, Which Will Soon be Completed.

Portsmouth, N. H.—The long and bloody war between Japan and Russia is ended. The terms of peace were settled by M. Witte and Baron Komura at the session of the conference Tuesday morning, and this afternoon preliminary arrangements for an armistice were concluded, and the actual work of framing the "Treaty of Portsmouth" was by mutual agreement turned over to Mr. De Martens, Russia's great international lawyer, and Mr. Dennison, who for twenty-five years has acted as the legal adviser of the Japanese foreign office.

The treaty is expected to be completed by the end of the week.

This happy conclusion of the conference which a week ago would have been shipwrecked had it not been for the heroic intercession of President Roosevelt was sudden and dramatic. For the sake of peace, Japan, with the magnanimity of a victory, at the last moment yielded everything still at issue. Russia refused to budge from the ultimatum Emperor Nicholas had given to President Roosevelt through Ambassador Meyer. No indemnity under any guise, but an agreement to divide Sakhalin, and reimburse Japan for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners, were his last words. They had been repeatedly reiterated in M. Witte's instructions, and in the form of a written reply to the Japanese compromise proposal of last Wednesday they were delivered to Baron Komura Tuesday morning.

M. Witte went to the conference declaring he was powerless to change the dot of an "i" or the crossing of a "t" in his instructions. Emperor Nicholas' word had been given not only to him, but to President Roosevelt, the head of a foreign state.

Psychological Moment Ushered In By Witte.

When Baron Komura therefore first offered the new basis of compromise Tuesday night (the complete renunciation of indemnity, coupled with a proposition for the reduction of Sakhalin at a price to be fixed by a mixed tribunal, consisting of representatives of the neutral powers—in fact, if not in words, the project offered by the President, M. Witte again returned a non possumus. It was what M. Witte termed in his interview with the Associated Press the "psychological moment." M. Witte did not flinch. He expected a rupture as he expressed it afterwards; he was stunned by what had happened. Baron Komura gave way on all the disputed points. With the prescience that enabled the Japanese to gauge the mentality of their adversaries on the field of battle and upon the sea, they had realized in advance that peace could be obtained in no other way. They had warned their government. President Roosevelt, it is said, also advised Japan it was better to meet the Russian position than to take the responsibility of continuing the war for the purpose of collecting tribute.

The Mikado at the session of the cabinet and elder statesmen Tuesday had sanctioned the final concession. Then Baron Komura yielded the rest was mere child's play.

Envoys Determined to Neutralize Sakhalin.

Articles 10 and 11 (interned warships and limitation of Russia's power in the far east) were withdrawn. Japan agreed that only that portion of the Chinese Eastern railroad south of Chantfu, the position occupied by Oyama, should be ceded to Japan. Both sides, once the deadlock was broken, wanted a "just and lasting peace," and in that spirit it was decided to practically neutralize Sakhalin, each country binding itself not to fortify its half of the island, and Japan assuming an obligation not to fortify the La Perouse strait between Sakhalin and Hokkaido, which would bar Russia's commercial route to the Pacific.

The plenipotentiaries went further. They decided to add a new clause in the nature of a broad provision for mutual commercial privileges by which each country will secure for the other the benefit of the "most favored nation" clause, and the "open door."

The new treaty, therefore, will be a wonderfully friendly document of a character, almost, to raise the suspicion that the two countries have not negotiated peace, but have ratified the basis of a future alliance. There is, however, no evidence as rumored that any secret clauses are to be appended to the present treaty.

Before leaving the conference building felicitations were exchanged with the President at Oyster Bay. Both Baron Komura and M. Witte telegraphed. The former confined himself to apprising Mr. Roosevelt of the conditions upon which peace had been concluded.

Witte Praises President.

M. Witte frankly laid the tribute at the President's feet. In his message he said:

"History will ascribe to you the glory," and added the expression of Russia's hearty appreciation of the President's generous initiative. Mr. Roosevelt replied with words of thanks and congratulations.

Then began the jubilation. M. Witte and Baron de Rosen returned to the hotel for luncheon. The Japanese had returned at the conference hall to take luncheon with Mr. Peirce. The news that peace had been concluded had preceded the Russian plenipotentiaries and such scenes of wild rejoicing have never before been witnessed in the state of New Hampshire as greeted them upon their arrival at the hotel. M. Witte, dazed at the sudden and happy termination of the conference, was fairly overpowered by the tremendous ovation he received. He could only express his gratitude by shaking the hands of everybody, and in response to the volley of questions fired at him as to the terms, he murmured "we pay not a copee and we get half of Sakhalin."

Later, in his room, when he had partially recovered himself, he declared that he could not have dreamed of such a victory, for, that he regards it as a diplomatic triumph of the first magnitude he makes no attempt to conceal. And that is the verdict here. The Russians are overjoyed at the result.

"We have had our Liao Yangs and Mukdens on land," they say, "and our Tsushimas on sea, but the Japanese have their Portsmouth."

Declared That M. Witte Has Outwitted the Japs.

Although M. Witte is not a diplomatist, they declare that he has outmaneuvered the Japanese, yielding one by one to the conditions until he forced them into a corner on the main issue of indemnity and left them no escape except surrender or to convert the war into a war to collect tribute. The Russians declared that diplomatically the Japanese made their colossal blunder when they agreed to consider the conditions seriatim.

The Japanese correspondents plainly showed their disaffection with the terms during the afternoon. They stood aloof, silent in the midst of general jubilation for as the afternoon advanced the air was filled with the sounds of rejoicing. Bells were ringing in Portsmouth and in Newcastle and the fleet in the harbor was adding to the din with their sirens and bells. One of the Japanese, however, gave the true note when he remarked:

"Tell me that the Mikado has approved it, and I shall be satisfied."

In that sentence is compressed the Spartan heroism of the Japanese nation, and later when Mr. Sato issued the offcial explanation of the reasons that moved the Japanese plenipotentiaries, and it showed that the Emperor had approved, there was a perceptible change in the feelings of the Japaneso. Considerable disappointment continued to be manifested. Baron Komura followed the rule he has set himself and declined to make any statement. Mr. Takahira said:

"For the sake of humanity and civilization, and as we believe in the interest of both countries, and the world at large, we have made peace.

Japanese Contend That They Acted for the Best.

"The Russians may indulge in boasting now. They may call it a decisive victory, but we are confident that upon calm consideration the world will applaud our course. To yield on the question of our expenses of the war was the only road to peace. We had attained the object of the war, we had established our predominant position in Corea, we had obtained the lease to Port Arthur and the adjacent territory, we had obtained the Chinese Eastern railroad and the evacuation of Manchuria. We had even obtained important fishing rights along the Russian littoral. These covered the objects which we have kept steadily in view for nineteen months of bloody war. These objects insured the resumption of the great works of peace we had planned. To have now set ourselves a new object—that of obtaining money from Russia to defray the expenses of the war—would have involved a continuation of the sacrifice of blood and treasure. At the end—what? We could not go to Moscow or St. Petersburg. The internal conditions in Russia had to be considered. Our very successes might have created conditions which would make it impossible to secure indemnity. Besides in the final analysis there was the recognition of the fact that to obtain indemnity a country must hold the other by the throat. That is the lesson of history. We renounced such a purpose that our people might return to peaceful work and that commerce and normal life of the world might proceed."

The work of drafting the treaty will probably be completed by the end of this week. It is expected that it will not be a difficult task, as the treaty, except for phraseology, is included in the minutes of the meeting.

Mr. De Martens has authorized Mr. Dennison to do work in his room at his hotel.

Enthusiastic Ovation is Tendered the Japs.

The whole truth they learned when Mr. Sato made the Japanese official announcement later in the evening. The great Japanese demonstration did not begin until after 6 o'clock in the evening, as the Japanese plenipotentiaries and their official secretaries remained at the yard during the afternoon. When it came it was even more remarkable than that for the Russians, for all present appreciated the sacrifices the heroic little nation had made for peace. The crowd which awaited them as they dashed up in an auto was even larger than that which greeted M. Witte. The cheering came in volleys. Again and again the crowd hurrahed and waved their hats. As the car came under the porte cochere, both plenipotentiaries gravely lifted their hats and held them in their hands as they passed through the line of cheering people to the elevator. Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira looked straight ahead and seemed almost embrrassed by the ovations. Even the ringing cheers from all sides did not move them. Only the gravity of the day's work seemed to impress them. They felt the full responsibility which had been upon their shoulders. Solemnity was written upon their faces as they entered the hotel, and the sounds of jubilation greeting them on every side did not shut out from their thoughts the home country and the possible effects of the news of the sacrifice that had been made for peace. Neither plenipotentiary stepped to shake hands, but accompanied by Mr. Sato, they immediately went to their rooms.

"I'll be back in a moment," said Mr. Sato, as the elevator took him to the second floor, where he deposited in Baron Komura's room the precious records of the day's proceedings. When Mr. Sato entered the lobby a few minutes later with the official announcement, even the summer girls crowded in and pushed and sought to get on the inner circle. Mr. Sato fairly fought his way to the rear veranda and ascending the band stand read the Japanese statement in the same monotone in which all of his previous announcements have been made.

Jap Correspondents Can't Believe the News.

Near by the group stood the still incredulous Japanese correspondents. They waited for the last word to be read. It confirmed M. Witte's announcement that Japan received nothing for the cost of the war and gave up half of Sakhalin.

"We did not believe it this morning, said Mr. Fukotimi, correspondent for the Osaki Asahi, as he walked away, shaking his head. "Japan expected a great deal more than this. Division of Sakhalin was not to be thought of. It was ours by the blood of our soldiers and we should have kept it. Russia brought on this war, and should have paid for it."

He was interrupted by a reporter:

"But the Emperor ordered it."

"Yes," said one, "it's the Emperor's work."

The attitude of the group at the mention of the emperor's name immediately changed.

"Yes," assented one, "the Emperor has spoken, and Japan will obey. The Emperor is all-wise and Japan is satisfied."

The incident was a striking illustration of that wonderful devotion of the Japanese for their sovereign and of the implicit confidence they place in his every action. Disposed at first to criticise Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira for yielding, when they reflected that this had been done by order of the emperor, their criticisms ceased, and a few moments later some of the more conservative were commending the Emperor's magnanimous act.

News Received in London.

London.—The announcement that the Portsmouth conference had concluded peace was received in London just in time for brief bulletins to be printed in the Tuesday afternoon papers.

Sir Eric's first expression, after he had been handed the dispatch, was:

"It is simply extraordinary."

The foreign office, according to Sir Eric, had no idea that Japan intended to yield on all points.

Sir Eric Barrington also said that the treaty was released by the announcement of the decision of the Portsmouth conference, but that the terms would not be given out till the government had been officially notified of the result of the peace conference.

Jap Explanation.

Portsmouth, N. H.—The following statement was issued by Mr. Sato on behalf of the Japanese plenipotentiaries:

"The question of the final disposition of the island of Sakhalin and the reimbursement to Japan of her war expenses, have, from the first, been issues on which absolute divergence of views existed. The difference of opinion upon these points—not one, but both—has frequently threatened the existence of the conference. But his majesty, the Emperor of Japan, responding to the dictates of humanity and civilization, has in a spirit of perfect conciliation and in the interest of peace, authorized his plenipotentiaries to waive the question of reimbursement of war expenses, and has consented to a division of Sakhain upon terms which are mutually acceptable, thus making it possible to bring the important work of the conference to a successful issue."

The official account of this afternoon's meeting was given by Mr. Sato on his arrival at the hotel. It is as follows:

"In the afternoon session of August 29 the conference discussed the details of the treaty of peace. It has been decided to entrust the drafting of the clauses to Privy Councillor De Martens and Mr. Dennison, legal adviser of the foreign office of Japan, with instructions to finish the work as soon as possible."

Roosevelt First Figure.

Berlin—Japan has won a great moral victory, Russia a great diplomatic one, and President Roosevelt becomes the first figure in international statesmanship, that is what Berlin thinks of the result of the Portsmouth conference.

Astonishment at the result was felt by the foreign office, as it was everywhere else. Certainly it was the first exclamation of one of Russia's principal bankers who was expecting a different outcome. That Russia would not have to pay any indemnity was at first scarcely believable. The Berlin stock exchange had been preparing for news of a rupture of the negotiations, and for consequent disorder in the market.

St. Petersburg Electrified.

St. Petersburg—The dispatches from Portsmouth brought the first news of the ending of the peace conference. The news came as an electrifying surprise, as official and diplomatic circles had been practically without hope of peace all during the day.

President Roosevelt and household received the joyful tidings with immense gratification.

Saw Battle of Waterloo.

A Belgian woman, Mme. Rolland, of Seneffe, attained her 104th birthday on June 12. She is credited in Belgium with being the only surviving witness of the battle of Waterloo, having been seated on a wall in the neighborhood of the battlefield during a part of the engagement. Last year, when the French monument to Waterloo heroes was unveiled on the battlefield, Mme. Rolland was allotted a place of honor as the most noteworthy spectator present at the ceremony.

The British Museum has in its collection a rare butterfly, which was obtained in a remarkable manner. On a steamship bound for Sidney, N. S. W., several men were shooting at a mark with a revolver. As one of them was about to fire he noticed a butterfly hovering over the ship. He shot at it and brought it to the deck, considerably mangled. The insect was so beautiful that the pieces were collected and sent to an English entomologist. The butterfly proved to be of a species entirely unknown to the scientific world.

The Australian jungle fowl, instead of a nest builds a huge earth mound, often fifteen feet in height, with a circumference of 150 feet. These mounds are under cover and are so enveloped in foliage that in spite of their size they can scarcely be discovered.

Appeal in Walker Case.

An appeal from the decision of the Federal Court of Alabama to the United States Court was filed Friday in the case in which Capt. B. W. Walker, ex-United States marshal, is endeavoring to collect $2,268 which he claims is due him by the government for fees, mileage and other allowances, while he was in the United States Marshal's office.

The case in Judge Jones court was decided in favor of Capt. Walker. The appeal from this decision was filed by District Attorney Warren Reese acting for the government.

FAMINE IN SPAIN

Whole Provinces Around Seville Threatened With Starvation.

MANY THOUSANDS OUT OF WORK

Men Commit Crimes So as to Be Put in Jail, Where They Can Get Food—Rioting Begun.

Seville, Spain.—Heart-rending reports continue to reach the provincial authorities from the outlying famine-stricken districts. The latest reports received are from Osuna and Almogia the respective mayors of which notify the authorities that their resources are exhausted and that they are unable to further assist the famished laborers and the women and children, as the distress is too acute. At Ecija the population has looted the baker stores.

The mortality among infants and aged persons is attaining terrifying proportions, and in many localities the working people are living on roots. The government has organized public works on a small scale, employing about 600 men, but this is a mere drop in the ocean of misery, as a moderate calculation shows that 200,000 are out of employment.

Cardinal Sancha, having exhausted the available charitable funds, is going from house to house in Seville begging for contributions, while the employes of several banks and commercial houses have decided to devote a portion of their wages toward the relief of the destitute.

Count Romannones, minister of agriculture, has just concluded a personal inquiry in the depressed districts, following on the relief of a fund of $800,000 voted by the government. His report creates the impression that heroic measures for relief are necessary. The count journeyed from end to end of Andalusia, and everywhere in the four provinces comprised therein he was confronted with pictures of desolation.

The territory most stricken forms a circle, embracing Seville, Jerez, Cadiz, Malaga and Cordova, where natural forces appear to have combined against the people's welfare. The rivers for years past have been gradually filling with sand, hindering navigation and commerce. The district always has been dry, but this year a two months' drouth, beginning in the spring, destroyed all hopes for the reaping of crops and rendered the landscape practically a desert, resembling portions of Morocco.

The population is almost entirely composed of day laborers, who depend on agricultural employment, and when that fails, which is a frequent occurrence, though more marked this year than ever before, practically everybody is thrown into a condition of indigence.

Most Robust Citizens Emigrate.

It is calculated that a third of the population emigrated in recent years to South America, and these immigrants naturally included the most robust. The conditions of the interior were ameliorated thereby. The soil, owing to lack of irrigation, is becoming more and more unproductive, and the patience of the people is now nearly exhausted.

The absence of the landlords and unfulfilled electioneering promises, added to the fact that women and children are suffering the agonies of slow starvation, have led the people to listen to agitators who incite them to violence, the result of which is seen in attacks on farms, the seizure and killing of flocks of sheep and the threat of armed invasion of the towns.

Murmurs of revolution awakened apprehension, and the farmers everywhere are taking refuge in the cities, while the police regard acts of pillage with indifference, refusing to arrest men who frequently accuse themselves in order to obtain food.

Attache Dismissed.

Washington, D. C.—The secretary of the interior has dismissed from the service of that department Inspector George F. Wilson on account of disclosures made in connection with the investigation of the charge made against United States Senator Mitchell, of Oregon. It was stated by some of the witnesses in that case that Wilson had promised favorable recommendations in some of the cases in which the witnesses were interested for a consideration in money, and it was claimed in one case that he had accepted $200. When called upon for an explanation he admitted that he had received the money, but said that it had been exacted to entrap the man from whom it was taken and that he had intended to return the amount. This explanation was unsatisfactory, and Wilson was removed. Wilson was appointed from Rhode Island.

Cornersville, Tenn.—At a recent meeting of the City Council C. J. Hale was elected mayor to succeed F. M. Massey, who resigned on account of moving just outside of the corporation. J. B. Gambill was re elected Recorder, and H. H. Austin re-elected Captain of Police.

Cotton and iron constitute the south's great allies for prosperity.

Strange as Fiction.

New York.—A story as strange as that constituting the plot of any novel will be told to Governor Higgins, of New York, by a New York city lawyer who he endeavors to secure the pardon of a man who chose to serve a sentence of three years' imprisonment in Sing Sing prison for theft, of which he was innocent, to shield the name of a woman from scandal. Carl Fisher-Hansen, the lawyer, said that he would at once appeal for the pardon of the prisoner, whose name he would not reveal, at the request of the woman whose reputation the prisoner had saved at an expense of his own liberty. The woman, Mr. Fisher-Hansen said, had visited his office within a few days and said that her husband had just died and that she now wanted to do justice to the prisoner. They had been friends, and more than a year ago, when her husband returned unexpectedly, he caught the other running away. To save her from scandal the man confessed that he had broken into her home to steal, whereupon he was arrested, and is now in Sing Sing.

The prisoner was a young college student, who disappeared from one of the colleges when he was arrested. No one has ever known what became of him, as he was tried and sentenced under an assumed name.

The woman in the case has also paid a penalty for her indiscretion, as a servant who knew of the affair has collected $86,000 in blackmail from her. She is a member of one of the best families in New York, and her husband owned several factories in New Jersey.

Burned to Death.

Readfield, Me.—Three persons lost their lives early Saturday in a fire which destroyed the Maranacook Hotel at Lake Maranacook. Five other persons were burned or otherwise injured. The hotel management believes the bodies are those of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Martin and child, of Boston, for the reason that all the other guests have been located and the bodies corresponded with theirs. More than four score guests and employes escaped in night attire, many of them leaping from the windows. That there had been loss of life was not known until a search of ruins revealed the charred bodies.

Limits Powers of Prefects.

St. Petersburg—The fears expressed by the liberals that elections to the douma among the peasantry would be swayed by the government administrative officials, who hitherto have exerted a great influence in consunal affairs, has been met by the issuance of an order by the ministry of the interior strictly limiting the powers of the prefects to the extent of their punitive authority, which insures the independence of the communes in matters of local self-government. The execution of this order is considered to be a guarantee of the independence of the peasantry in the conduct of the elections.

Shot From Ambush.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Long distance telephone messages to Chattanooga from Tracy City, Tenn., tell of a tragedy which occurred there at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, in which two nonunion miners were killed and two others seriously wounded by unknown parties. The men were shot from ambush, and a reward of $1,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the parties who committed the terrible deed.

On Thursday morning the mines of the Tennessee Consolidated Coal Company were opened for the first time in fourteen months. Scarcely had the men started to work when fire was opened upon them from ambush, and in less than a minute Mine Foreman J. B. Rust and Dick Hentey were instantly killed, while John McGovern, also a mine foreman, and another man whose name has not been learned were seriously wounded. McGovern was shot through the leg and will recover. The other man is not fatally wounded.

Negroes Commend Lynchers.

Chicago, Ill.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Dallas, Tex., says: "The burning at the stake of Tom William, a negro, for attacking a white woman, was commended at the state convention of negro Baptists here Friday. Rev. Mr. Jackson, of Dallas, declared that if any action was taken by the convention in reference to the lynching a resolution should be passed commending the whites. Other pastors asserted the negroes aided the whites in the capture of Williams. Every law-abiding negro was said to be in favor of lynch law in cases of the kind. The convention refused to pass resolutions denouncing the burning."

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Phelps Binion, a negro, was arrested Thursday evening at Holt charged with having made an attempted criminal assault on Mrs. Joseph Cunningham. It is reported that had the screams of Mrs. Cunningham not frightened him from his purpose the crime would have been committed.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Huntsville Railway, Light and Power Company, Francis Lawton manager, is inaugurating numbers of valuable improvements in its service. The boiler room is being completely overhauled and all of the electrical work is being gone over.

The senate is where presidential aspirants are sidetracked.

The Kaiser owns eight automobiles, all big touring cars.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton. Ala.

A BREAKDOWN.

IN the nearly thirteen years we have been printing and publishing THE BANNER at Clanton there have been several times when accidents have delayed our getting out on time, but in every case the trouble was soon got over and publication but little delayed.

Last Thursday, however, was a regular breakdown and there was no way possible of getting over it. After printing about 500 or 600 papers, there was a smash and the press came to a stop. It was at once found to be impossible to print any more papers, and it being within a few minutes of train time, there was no time to pack up type, etc., but hastening to Birmingham, we succeeded in getting out a paper, with a short explanation, accounting for the absence of county and local news. This was printed late Thursday evening, shipped to Clanton Friday morning and mailed to subscribers that day. But misfortunes never come singly, and it was found that by a miscalculation we were still some 200 papers short. As a last resort, a part of the first page of The Barner was made up and printed on the biggest job press, and finally mailing to our 1400 subscribers was finished, although we must confess in a very unsatisfactory manner.

The substitutes for our regular paper were very poor, but it was the best that could be done under the circumstances, and we rely upon the generosity of our subscribers to overlook it.

The broken part of the press has been shipped to the makers, and we hope to be running alright again in a very short time. This week we have shipped the type to Birmingham and hope to be out with the paper on time as usual, but "Man proposes, and God disposes" in this as in all other matters.

A Brooklyn centenarian says Americans eat too much and drink too little.

Until the grafter becomes generally regarded as a commercial porch-climber and pickpocket we can not hope to eliminate this type of pest from our affairs, declares the Kansas City Journal. Our young men must be taught that the grafter is no better than a common thief.

W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has organized a housecleaning company in New York. It ought to popularize housecleaning when you can wave your hand airily in the direction of spick-and-span parlor and say: "I had Mr. Vanderbilt in this year and I think he has done his work well," asserts the Minneapolis Journal.

As a hint to the knight of the jimmy observes the Brooklyn Standard-Union, the American Bankers' Association gives out the cold facts that bank burglaries in the past year netted on an average but a little over a thousan ddollars each, while the burglars who were caught are now serving sentences aggregating a hundred and fifty years.

Even the greatest authors now and then make a little slip in their English, remarks St. Nicholas. Thus Sir Walter Scott in his "Legend of Montrose" has this sentence: "But ere Montrose could almost see what happened, Allan McAulay had rushed past him." The "almost" should come before "ere," in order to express the author's meaning.

Republics are ungrateful and it is quite consistent for the United States to lavish sentiment on the discovery of Paul Jones' body and its transfer to American soil, after he was so shamefully neglected in his lifetime, avows the Pathfinder. He went into voluntary exile because his country showed him no gratitude, and died in Paris in poverty and without friends.

ITEMS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

Renewed Litigation.

Henry B. Gray, of Birmingham, has filed quo warranto proceedings against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company in the city court of Montgomery. He wants to know by what authority the Louisville and Nashville is operating a railroad from Montgomery to Decatur.

The proceedings were filed Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The answer of the Louisville and Nashville was made returnable before Judge A. D. Sayre on September 4.

Mr. Gray, who is a stockholder of the South and North Company, claims that the general assembly of 1854 gave a franchise to the South and North Railroad of Alabama, a domestic corporation, to operate this railroad, and that operation by the Louisville and Nashville is an usurpation of the granted privilege.

Henry Byrd Caught.

Henry Byrd, the confessed murderer of his wife, Ellen Byrd, was caught hiding and skulking in the woods on the Griel place, five miles from town, Friday morning. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff S S. Belser, assisted by J. Lee Walker, and Patrolmen D. F. Lowe and J. A. LaPrade.

"Yes, sah, I killed her. I killed her because I loved her. I wanted her ter come back ter me, an' she wouldn't do it and I shot her."

This was what Byrd told his captors. He met the woman in the road Saturday night as she left the home of her employer, Mr. J. A. Barnes. He says he begged her to come back to him, and when she refused he put the pistol to her head and pulled the trigger. He dragged her body to the ditch and partially covered it with weeds.

A Remedy Offered.

A woman in Sylacauga has heard that yellow fever "air regin'" in Montgomery and she writes to the "citty mayyor" to tell him she has an infallible remedy for it and to offer it to the city for a moderate price.

The letter is quite a literary gem. The Sylacauga woman was misinformed as to the yellow fever situation in Montgomery. She is on a hopeless quest when she seeks to sell Montgomery a remedy for yellow fever, for even if the city should ever be unfortunate enough to harbor another refugee with yellow fever, the disease would be fought out on the stegomyia mosquito theory. The Sylacauga correspondent of the mayor avers, however, that her remedy was the only one which stopped the fever in her home town when it prevailed some years ago. She does not in the least indicate the nature of her remedy, holding that information in reserve until the negotiations have gotten under way.

Executive Appointments.

C. T. Weatherly, of Benton, Lowndes county, was Saturday appointed a notary public and ex-officio justice of the peace by the Governor.

Other executive appointments Saturday were as follows:

Constable—J. B. Knight, of Elba.

Notaries Public—J. C. Travis, of Evergreen, A. S. Boyd, of Birmingham; Eugene Heilpern, of Montgomery, and J. A. Welsh, of Mobile.

Can Ride in Sleepers.

All passengers from Montgomery, Mobile and Birmingham who expect to spend seven days out of Alabama will hereafter be given the privilege of boarding refugee sleepers. This modification of a quarantine regulation of the state which has been carefully enforced in the past was made Friday by State Health Officer W. H. Sanders. The order was issued Friday afternoon and copies were sent to the quarantine supervisors stationed at Mobile, Montgomery and Birmingham.

To Improve Grounds.

The special committee of the Capitol Building Commission, composed of State Treasurer J. Craig Smith and Dr. Thomas M. Owen, Secretary, have let the contract for grading and improving the South half of Capitol Square.

The work of filling in will begin at once, and as soon as possible thereafter the important work of landscape gardening will begin.

Will Be Settled.

No communication has been held between Governor Jelks and State Health Officer W. H. Sanders about the justice of Alabama quarantine officers interfering with through passenger traffic. The complaint of Governor Blanchard and Louisianians on this score, therefore, which threatens a controversy between him and Governor Jelks will be attended to by the latter himself unless the matter is later taken up with Dr. Sanders.

Notice of the incorporation of the Day Stove Foundry Company of Bessemer, with a capital stock of $10,000, was yesterday filed with the Secretary of State. The incorporators are J. R. Day, Pinckney Scott, G. L. Scott, J. A. Fitzpatrick and J. A. Lewis.

Officers of the Long Distance Telephone and Telegraph Company of Decatur, Saturday notified the Secretary of State of an increase of the capital stock from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

TO A CRITIC.

I sometimes wonder which the earliest thrived,
The mind creative or the analytic;
Whether the writer first arrived,
Or first the critic.

'Tis certain that in Paleolithic times
Men fully understood the art of slating;
And earlier than the birth of rhymes
They practiced rating.

Dear Critic, do not think we value less
The potency of your perennial function
Because you sometimes curse and bless In strange conjunction.

'Tis true that as the generations pass,
There is a deal of reputation breaking;
The ages write you down an ass,
And no mistaking.

But let not this disturb your candid mind;
The donkey's ears are very slow in showing;
The lion's skin you hide behind
Is vast and flowing.

You need not think about posterity,
When bolstering the false or scouting beauty.
To rectify your faults will be Oblivion's duty.

—Pall Mall Gazette.

FLASHES OF FUN

Tommy—"Pop, what is the difference between charity and philanthropy?" Tommy's Pop—"Merely, my son, that philanthropy can afford to hire a press agent."—Philadelphia Record.

Ragged Robert (at Stony Point) — "It's poor Christians these folks is." Jagged Jake—"When ye ask fer bread they give ye a stone." Ragged Robert —"I wouldn't mind if they'd just give th' stone to me; but they throw it."—New York Weekly.

This life is but a mass of woes
And sorrows at the most;
For many months we nearly froze
And now we nearly roast.

Muggins—"My daughter will be a great catch for some one. She can cook or write poetry with equal ease and effectiveness." Juggins—"Well, my daughter can write poetry; I never saw her try to cook it but I'll bet she could."—Cleveland Leader.

"Is Mrs. Gabbie at home?" asked the caller. "Be good luck, ma'am, she's not," replied the wise servant girl, "but ye'd best lave yer card an' skeedaddle out o' here, ma'am, fur she's like ter be back most anny minute now."—Philadelphia Press.

"Authors assuredly have a right to complain of the severity of literary critics," said the writing man. "Yes," answered the editor; "and yet if we want a particularly caustic and severe criticism of an author we get another author to write it."—Washington Star.

I'm father of a bouncing boy,
Aye, truly "bouncing's" quite
The right expression to employ—He's up and down all night.
—Philadelphia Press.

Mistress — "Mary Ann, you have a new beau in the kitchen every week. Now this must stop." Maid—"Well, mum, if ye'd buy a betther quality av food, I could keep 'em longer than a week, an' wouldn't have to be gittin' new ones all th' time!" — Cleveland Leader.

"Some people," said the timid man, "are criminally reckless. Now the fellow who jumps on a moving train is a fool." "Well," replied the clumsy fellow, "if he's not a fool he feels like one when the woman who owns the train glares at him."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Some of the saleswomen in that big department store look pretty, don't they?" "I don't know." "Do you mean to say you never noticed how they look?" "Oh, yes; I've noticed that they invariably look in the opposite direction when I want them to wait on me."—Philadelphia Press.

Kathlene—"It's little ye love me, or ye wud niver stay away from me as ye did last evening, jist because av a wee bit o' rain." Dundee Mike—"Sure, it wor a pourin' down floods, mavourneen, but it wor not th' rain thet kep' me away from th' loight av y'r hivenly eyes." Kathlene—"An' wot wor it?" Dundee Mike—"It wor th' lack av an umbrella."—New York Weekly.

The Man They Wanted.

The great ship labored in the storm. Ever and anon a giant wave would throw the steel leviathan on her beam ends, and at each shock the heads of the passengers would knock in an anvil chorus against the sides of their berths. At this critical moment, with a roar that rose above the fury of the hurricane, a mob of determined men burst upon the deck.

"Mutiny!" gasped the mate.

"No, they are cabin passengers," said the captain. "Now, gentlemen, you must go below. There really is no danger."

"Yes, there is—danger for a Jonah who is on this ship!" came back the answering chorus.

"Who do you mean, gentlemen?" asked the captain.

"Show us!" they howled. "Show us that fellow who was singing 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep' only a few hours ago. Let us at him!"

New South Wales is overrun with mice. In one store in the town of Merrion the other day 10,000 were caught.

Mother's Ear

A WORD IN MOTHER'S EAR: WHEN NURSING AN INFANT, AND IN THE MONTHS THAT COME BEFORE THAT TIME,

SCOTT'S EMULSION

SUPPLIES THE EXTRA STRENGTH AND NOURISHMENT SO NECESSARY FOR THE HEALTH OF BOTH MOTHER AND CHILD.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Please Your Hair

Don't have a falling out with your hair. It might leave you! Then what? Better please it by giving it a good hair-food—Ayer's Hair Vigor. The hair stops coming out, becomes soft and smooth, and all the deep, rich color of youth comes back to gray hair.

"I was troubled greatly with dandruff until I used Ayer's Hair Vigor. It completely cured the dandruff and also stopped my hair from falling out. It serves me very nicely also in arranging my hair in any style I wish."—MISS MABOIE COOK, Divide, W. Va.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. CHERRY PECTORAL.

NOTICE.

Applications have been received by the Board of Education of Chilton county for the following changes in school districts:

(1) To form a new district from districts Nos. 39 and 40 as follows: Beginning on east boundary line of Sec 16, T 22, R 14 east, and ¼ mile from se corner; thence west ¾ mile; thence south ¼ mile to south boundary line of said Sec 16; thence west ¼ mile to sw corner said Sec 16; thence south 1½ miles to half mile stake on west boundary line of Sec 28, T 22, R 14 east; thence down "Hurricane Branch" to its mouth; thence down Goose Pond Swamp to railroad; thence northwesterly along line of said railroad to point of beginning.

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' farm, which is now in no district, be added to district No 40. Also a certain territory now in district No. 43, Cane Creek, be added to district No. 40, as follows: Beginning at sw corner Sec 11, T 22, R 14; thence ¼ mile east; thence north to Yellowleaf creek; thence up said creek to district No. 40, Lomax.

(3) To make west boundary line of district No. 13 a continuous straight line.

(4) To make the following change in district No. 47, Mineral Springs: Beginning at se corner of Sec 25, T 23, R 14; thence south to Yellowleaf creek; thence up said creek to the mouth of Turkey creek; thence up said Turkey creek to south boundary line of Sec 16, T 23, R 14 east; thence east along said line to the southwest corner of Sec 14, east.

(5) To divide district No. 16 as follows: Dividing line to begin at Southwest corner of Sec 16, T 20, R 16; thence north to Chestnut creek; new district to be known as Canaan.

The above applications will be passed upon by the Board of Education at the Court House in Clanton, on 7th day of September, 1905.

Done by order of Board in session Aug. 12, 1905. G. L. SPEER, Sec. Board of Education.

Pleasantly Effective.

Never in the way, no trouble to carry, easy to take, pleasant and never failing in results are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills are a certain gurantee against headache, biliousness, torpid liver and all the ills resulting from constipation. They tonic and strengthen the liver. Cure Jaundice. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Big talk, it may not be denied, is an American characteristic, says the Philadelphia Record. Had our navy achieved such a wonderful success, say, under the command of Admiral Bob Evans, as Admiral Togo brought about the other day at Tsu straits, how we should have shouted and cavorted! We may learn something to our advantage by studying the self-contained restraint of the Japanese hero and his countrymen under great, almost unexampled, victorious provocation.

The prevention of damage to the estimated extent of $585,000,000 wrought by insects each year upon crops in this country would enable the United States to create a new gold reserve greater than that of Russia, states the New York Times. The Chicago Daily News has obtained statistics from experts of the Department of Agriculture at Washington showing that the aggregate operations of insect pests upon staple and miscellaneous crops, and upon the forests and products in granaries and storehouses, occasion annual losses amounting to about $785,100,000.

Take Kodol After Eating.

After a hearty meal a dose of Kodol Dyspepia Cure will prevent an attack of Indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guranteed cure for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Weak Heart, Sour Risings, Bad Breath and all Stomach troubles. L. A. Soper of Little Rock, Ky., says: "Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but, of course, she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her. We feel grateful for the benefit derived from its use and would not be without it." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Disco

Liberal long time loans on Impro
Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Prope
ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on co ton being held now, either on farms or warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

COME AND BE PLEASE

Prices and terms upon which we are sell the most beautiful and attractive goods the season will certainly please and surpr
you. The styles on which fashion has sta her approval for the coming season are shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardw Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - . . . ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular P
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 [illegible]
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 [illegible]
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 [illegible]
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 [illegible]
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 [illegible]
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 [illegible]
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 [illegible]
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 [illegible]
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	1 [illegible]
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	2 [illegible]
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 [illegible]
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	1 [illegible]
Old Lincoln County	65	1 [illegible]
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 [illegible]
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	[illegible]

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per g
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - . . . A

Always Remember the Full N
Laxative Bromo Qui
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in T
E. W. Grove on Box. 25c.

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] Court meets [illegible]
in February, first Monday
[illegible] Monday in June, [illegible] [illegible] second Monday in [illegible] Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART.

day	10 @ 10¼
received to date	bales
& Co.	4614
Malone	3542
Wilson	512
Jones	895
Sartor (12 Rd.)	6
Farms
Total	9573

These figures are obtained local cotton buyers Wed five o'clock.

STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS
original Grove's Tast Tonic. You know what
ing. It is iron and qui teless form No cure,
50c.

J. Arlege of Gatliff, Te has been visiting here last, is very sick, aft visit to Verbena.

Ona Belle Dejarnette
d to her home in the ca ter a pleasant visit to fri nton.

Bruce McKee of Montgom
p this week for a few d
n.

cold soda water alw
s on tap at Upchurc store.

J. F. Peterson of Tho town Monday.

Flossie Robinson is vis andmother at Jumbo.

L. A. Campbelle wen ville Monday.

J. D. McKenzie of G
was in town last Thursd

J. M. Thackerson of M Creek was in town Tue for a location for a bl and repair shop.

Minnie Muse is in Atl
her fall stock.

WS—Having bought ou dairy at Opelika, Ala., I few very fine cows for P. T. HINKLE, Clanto

Clara Mullins returned uis last Saturday, where several days buying inery for W. Kanter & tting the latest styles fo season.

S. E. Gantt of Stanton
leasant call Tuesday.

Sam Hopkins, who has his brother, Dr. Hopk
d to his home in Besse
y.

riff Morgan jailed two ne y evening, wanted in Co ault with a knife.

headache results from a stomach and is qui by Chamberlain's Stom ver Tablets. Sold by Drug co., Clanton, A. H
y.

nice lot of station received at Upchurc
store.

riage licenses have been iss eek by the Probate Judge lowing persons.

Walter T. Abbott and M
C. Johnson.

Soothing and Cooling salve that heals witho DeWitt's Witch Hazel Sa
edy effects such speedy re ws out inflamation, soo nd heals all cuts, burns
A sure cure for Piles seases. DeWitt's is the e Witch Hazel Salve. Bew nterfeits, they are danger
y Upchurch Drug co.

ADVERTISED LETTERS

of letters remaining uncalle Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for Aug 28, 1905. Persons ca e will please say "advertis date. One cent must be letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

A. M. Baker, Mr. Moses M
est Thomas, Mr. Dosy Tho
S. E. Netter.

LADIES' LIST.

Sallie Bayed, Mary Lee Hou ttie Moore, Miss Sallie M ndy Tracy.

letters will be sent to the ffice, Sept. 11, 1905, if not before.

Rheumatism.

Pains or irritation e part of the body, the sp of Ballard's Snow Linim mpt relief. E. W. Sa op. Sullivan House, El R rites, June 6, 1902: "I in recommending Ballar iment to all who are affl
h rheumatism. It is the o
I have found that gi nt relief." 25c, 50c
Sold by Upchurch Drug

. GULLEDGE

e, Loans and Discou

long time loans on Improve Life Insurance Policies.

ans on good Personal Proper g Crops.

ral advances offered on cotld now, either on farms or i Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

ND BE PLEASE

terms upon which we are selli iful and attractive goods certainly please and surpris s on which fashion has stamp r the coming season are n est materials.

INE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
ND BOY'S CLOTHING OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
en's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear H ant in Dress Goods, Hardwar
y and Florence Wagons.

C. JONES
. . . ALA.

---

g Mail Order House!
CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
ng at Cut Prices!
s Your Mail Orders.
TTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Pri
Whiskey	75	1 00
key	75	1 00
skey	75	1 00
Rye	50	75
e	60	1 00
Rye	65	1 00
d Virginia Rye	75	1 00
	75	1 00
Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
ia Rye	1 00	1 50
Rye	1 25	2 00
Rye	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
e	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
l in bond	1 00	1 50
l in bond	1 25	1 75
bond	1 50	2 00
key without a headache	1 00	1 25
rn	50	75
n	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
andy	50	75
rt	50	75

of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per ga
rn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.
	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.
	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.
	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.
	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.
andy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.
Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.

list. We carry a full line of wines a not handle low grade goods.

LIER DRUG COMPANY
CUT RATE DRUG STORE
E BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Everything
d Everything of the b

Fancy Groceri
OODS, CLOTHIN
ES, HATS, ETC.

JONES & BRO.
. . . . .AL

---

member the Full N e Bromo Quin
d in One Day, Grip in T Grove on Box. 25c.

TOWN ITEMS

Court meets second Monday in February, first Monday in June, second Monday in August, second Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART
day...... 10 @ 10 1/8

received to date	1904	1905
& Co.	4614	2699
Mullins	3542	2196
Wilson	512	405
Jones	295	376
Sartor (12 Rd.)	6	802
Firms		163
Total	9572	6639

above figures are obtained from cotton buyers Wednesday five o'clock.

STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS
original GROVE'S Tasteless Tonic. You know what you taking. It is iron and quinine tasteless form. No cure, no 50c.

T. J. Arlege of Gatliff, Tenn., has been visiting here since last, is very sick, after a visit to Verbena.

Ona Belle Dejarnette has ed to her home in the capital after a pleasant visit to friends anton.

Bruce McKee of Montgomery up this week for a few days' on.

cold soda water always on tap at Upchurch's store.

J. F. Peterson of Thorsby n town Monday.

Flossie Robinson is visiting randmother at Jumbo.

L. A. Campbelle went to ville Monday.

J. D. McKenzie of Good was in town last Thursday.

J. M. Thackerson of Moun Creek was in town Tuesday g for a location for a black and repair shop.

Minnie Muse is in Atlanta, g her fall stock.

WS—Having bought out the dairy at Opelika, Ala., I will a few very fine cows for sale.
P. T. HINKLE, Clanton.

Clara Mullins returned from uis last Saturday, where she several days buying a stock llinery for W. Kanter & Bro., tting the latest styles for the g season.

S. E. Gantt of Stanton gave pleasant call Tuesday.

Sam Hopkins, who has been g his brother, Dr. Hopkins, ed to his home in Bessemer y.

eriff Morgan jailed two negroe y evening, wanted in Coosas sault with a knife.

headache results from a disd stomach and is quickly by Chamberlain's Stomach Liver Tablets. Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, by.

nice lot of stationery received at Upchurch's store.

rriage licenses have been issued eek by the Probate Judge to llowing persons.
Walter T. Abbott and Miss e C. Johnson.

Soothing and Cooling.
salve that heals without a DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. edy effects such speedy relief. ws out inflamation, soothes. and heals all cuts, burns and . A sure cure for Piles and iseases. DeWitt's is the only e Witch Hazel Salve. Beware nterfeits, they are dangerous. by Upchurch Drug co.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.
of letters remaining uncalled fo Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week g Aug 29, 1905. Persons calling me will please say "advertised," e date. One cent must be paid h letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.
A. M. Baker, Mr. Moses Moore, bert Thomas, Mr. Dosy Thomas, m. E. Netter.

LADIES' LIST.
Gussie Bavel, Mary Lee Houston, Carrie Moore, Miss Sallie More, Mandy Tracy.
e letters will be sent to the dead office, Sept. 11, 1905, if not de d before.

Rheumatism.
n pains or irritation exist y part of the body, the application of Ballard's Snow Liniment prompt relief. E. W. Sullivan, Prop. Sullivan House, El Reno, Oklahoma, Jan. 6, 1902: "I take e in recommending Ballard's Liniment to all who are afflicted with rheumatism. It is the only y I have found that gives nt relief." 25c, 50c and Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys,

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Czar Receives Our Ambassador.
Mr. Meyer, the American Ambassador, was received in audience by the Russian Emperor at Peterhof, Russia, and remained there three hours. A long dispatch was sent to President Roosevelt.

Girl Slept in Park.
A girl who said she was Florence Kelly told the police she had slept in Central Park, New York City, for the past month and subsisted on scraps of food discarded by picnickers.

Japs Refloat Destroyer.
The Japanese refloated the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Silni at Port Arthur.

American Bar Association Meets.
The twentieth annual session of the American Bar Association was held at Narragansett Pier.

University of Chicago to Build.
President Harper announced that the University of Chicago, at Chicago, Ill., had $6,000,000 for building purposes.

WATCH THIS SPACE FOR A NEW ADV.
C. R. MULLINS, Agent.
SINGER OFFICE
CLANTON

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 12 1-2 Cents per Dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"
W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave.
CLANTON

J. R BROADHEAD & SON
—DEALERS IN—
General Merchandise

Fine Groceries
None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

PROGRAM

Chilton county Teachers' Institute, to be held at Isabella, Sept. 15 and 16, 1905.

FRIDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercises, Toy Williams.

10:30. Welcome address, G. L. Speer. Response, J. W. Moore.

11. Ends to be accomplished by teachers' institutes. R. E. R. Hicks.

11:30. Teacher's preparation for class work, H. A. Harris, Mrs. A. G. Dunlap.

12. Noon.

2 p.m. Valu of school entertainments, V. J. Gragg, Miss Janie Roebuck.

3. School discipline, Institute.

SATURDAY, 9 a.m. Devotional exercises.

9:30 How may patrons help their teachers? W. B. Speer, Miss Etta Roper.

10. Requisites to successful teaching, R. E. Sessions, Mrs. W. B. Speer.

11. Educational address, Hon. Sydney J. Bowie.

There will be conveyances for those coming by rail to Maplesville and Thorsby.

This being the last institute of the year, all teachers are earnestly requested to attend.

Educational Board—J. W. Moore, G. L. Speer, R. A. Rasco, H. L. Davis.

BIRMINGHAM
Paint & Glass Co.

Sash	Oil
Doors	Stains
Blinds	Mirrors
Lead	Bent Glass

Window Glass

2016-18, Third Avenue
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Write us for prices, color cards and estimates.

We do not handle adulterations or sell goods under misleading brands.

They Appeal to Our Sympathies.

The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. There is not one of them however who cannot be brought back to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. They also regulate the bowels. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Every one knows that the East cannot compete with the West in beef production, says Country Life in America. But not every one knows of a new scheme for raising beef that is profitable in the east, or wherever land and feed are high. This new plan might be called "forced feeding," since the animal is marketed at twelve or fourteen months instead of four or five years as was done a generation ago. There is an intimate relation between the length of the feeding periods and the gains in weight. Animals in the wild state eat enough to keep themselves and maintain a vigorous bodily condition. They may take on extra fat when food is plentiful to tide themselves over the season of scarcity. Man has interfered with natural processes for the purpose of securing greater production. One of the chief objects kept in mind in animal breeding is to secure breeds which can consume the largest possible quantities of feed and make good and profitable use of it.

Personal Gossip.

Secretary Root went to Labrador fishing.

Dr. Horatio W. Parker is dean of the Yale Musical School.

Dr. W. G. Grace is the most famous cricketer in England.

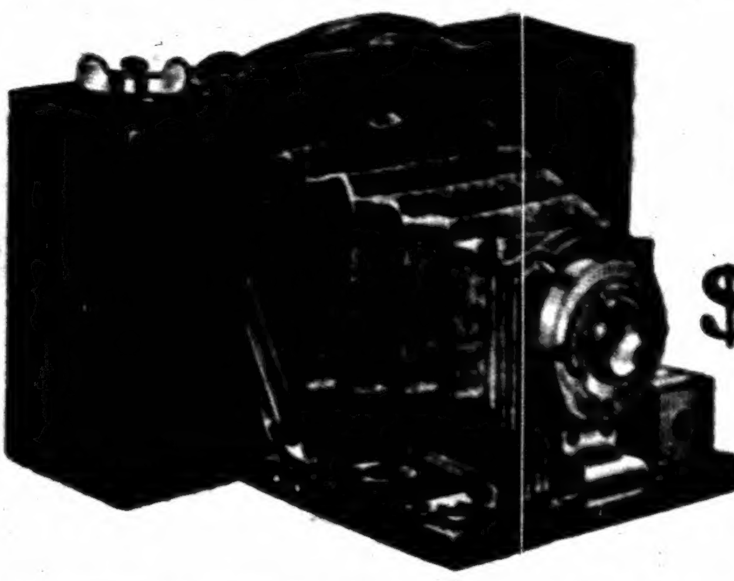
Sarasate, the great Spanish violinist, has a belief in talismans.

Colonel Daniel S. Lamont left residuary bequests to his daughters.

Peculiar Disappearance!

J. D. Runyan, of Butlerville, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy, for dizziness, sour stomach, headache, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at Upchurch Drug co., 25c.

No. 2 Folding
Brownie



Price,
$5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Grocerie

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Limbs and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and others

—DELICATESSEN—
Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.
Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTON
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
OPPOSITE THE BANKS
CLANTON

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS
CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN
CURES NEURALGIA, SPRAINS, CUTS, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, OLD SORES, CRICK IN BACK, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, STIFF JOINTS, CONTRACTED MUSCLES, SPRAINED ANKLES, CORN HUSKER'S SPRAINED WRISTS, FROSTED FEET, CORNS, BUNIONS, CHILBLAINS, AND ALL INFLAMMATIONS OF MAN OR BEAST.

BALLARD'S
SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

YELLOW FEVER NEWS.

The Latest Reports From the Infected District.

New Orleans, La.—The fever situation at 6 p. m. Monday was as follows: New cases, 45; total cases to date, [illegible]; deaths, 5; total deaths to date, [illegible]; new foci, 13; total foci to date, [illegible]; cases under treatment, 181.

The daily record shows a continued diminution in the number of cases. Monday is usually a very heavy day, the figures for the past three months being in the sixties, so today's record is a source of gratification, following upon the low record of Sunday. Of the deaths, one was a child in Algiers, and the others were down town. One is Sister Mary Engelhesta, of the convent of Perpetual Adoration, on Marais street, and her case was not reported until her death. It is the first from that institution, though there have been several cases in that neighborhood.

There was nothing startling in the news from the country. Acting on the request of the people of Natchez, Surgeon Guiteras will be sent there tomorrow by Dr. White. This morning Surgeon von Ezford left for Leeville, and Surgeon Guiteras made another trip to Patterson, to inaugurate a fumigation campaign under the new auspices prevailing there. The people of Lake Providence want to depopulate the town of negroes, owing to the prevalence of the fever among that element, and ask for tents to house them in on the outskirts.

Outside Reports.

Reports from the country tonight are:

Patterson—Six cases.

Eighth Ward of Jefferson Parish—One case.

Shrewsbury—One death.

Kennor—Four cases.

Hanson City—Two cases and one death.

Donaldsonville—One case.

This is a new development and is traced to Port Barrow across the bayou.

Port Barrow—One case.

St. Rose—Three cases.

Pecan Grove—One case.

Good Hope plantation—One death.

Waveland plantation, south of Patterson—Six cases.

Bellesein plantation (previously called DeLizen), west of Patterson—Four cases.

Gulfport reports one new case, and Mississippi City none.

Natchez makes no report of new cases, the people deciding to await the arrival of an expert before accepting the statement that there is yellow fever

Escatawapa, Miss., near Moss Point, reports four cases.

Panic at Leeville.

Dr. Deveron, the physician of the state board in charge at Leeville, in the course of a report on the situation there says:

"I found things worse than Dr. Stark could have seen them a few days before. The people were in a panic. They had no medicine, no doctor, and they were dying from too much experimenting with different remedies which they thought might do. I find that more than half the population of 500 people are sick; they are distracted and many are on the verge of lunacy from fright and grief."

Confidence has been restored among them since Dr. Deveron's arrivel, and he now has two assistants, and half a dozen nurses, and the people of Thibodeaux have sent down a boat load of provisions.

Holt and Kohnke Clash.

Quite a controversy has developed between City Health Officer Kohnke and Dr. Joseph Holt, at one time president of the state board of health. Dr. Holt in the course of an address before a meeting, passed some severe strictures on the city health officer, who when he read the papers, wrote him asking if he had been correctly quoted. Dr. Holt made a rather warm reply, in the course of which he said:

"You are evidently trying a bluff game, but whether so or not, you can pop your whip and wade in, for I make to you neither apology nor explanation."

To this Dr. Kohnke made response, in which he told him politely that he should have ascertained the correctness of his impressions before giving them public utterance.

Dr. Holt had several thousand copies of Dr. Kohnke's first letter and his own thereto struck off, and generally distributed in the city. Dr. Kohnke has written a letter to the public giving all correspondence and concludes with this statement:

"The heat of battle of this community against a common enemy affords the opportunity for the improper exhibition of personal antagonism and individual preference against which those who are busily engaged in serious work find little time to defend themselves. At the proper time it will be shown that the health officer acted promptly, properly and vigorously in the emergency presented. Until then fairminded men will reserve their judgment."

Crowds Detained at Cairo.

Cairo, Ill.—Crowds of through passengers were detained Sunday at the central station because they were not supplied with permits and a guard was placed over them until they could be sent on their way. A number of arrests were made of persons who were trying to evade the quarantine officers. A lady arrived on a steamer from Memphis Sunday en route to Indianapolis. She had no permit and her train did not leave till in the morning. She was permitted to go to a hotel and was pledged to stay inside of the place until her train departed. Many similar cases were experienced.

The editor of the Paducah Register arrived from the north Saturday night without a permit. He was allowed to go to a hotel last night on condition he would leave the city Sunday morning. A car containing thirty people bound from Chicago to Paducah arrived late Saturday night, and their train was held for several hours. It is said they were abusive to the inspectors and were locked in the car by the guards until the train pulled out this morning.

Situation at Natchez.

Vicksburg. — Physicians of the Natchez board of health at noon Sunday examined and pronounced as yellow fever two patients, a white woman and a negro man. Examining further, five negroes convalescent from yellow fever were found in the northeast end of town, together with seventeen suspicious cases of sickness, thirteen of which are undoubtedly yellow fever. The infection is traced to a negro woman who came from New Orleans on uly 19th. Lake Providence, La., reports five new cases, making a total of fifteen.

Mississippi Will Not Quarantine.

Jackson.—No state quarantine will be established against Memphis. Governor Vardaman and Secretary Hunter, of the state board of health, have thoroughly satisfied themselves from a personal investigation that no yellow fever exists in that city, and a clear bill of health is given.

Decatur Quarantines.

Decatur, Ala.—Decatur has quarantined against Mississippi and Louisiana and against Tennessee on a straight line north of Corinth, Miss., on account of yellow fever. The quarantine went into effect at noon Sunday. No person from the sections named, will be permitted to stop in Decatur without a health certificate.

Refugees Evade the Law.

St. Louis, Mo.—The constabulary of St. Louis, East St. Louis and St. Clair counties patrolled the Mississippi front Friday night in vain efforts to locate a steam launch bearing the name of Eva Alma, which passed the quarantine station without stopping Thursday night. The launch is believed to be the same one that kept towns along the river from Memphis to Cape Girardeau in a state of uneasiness, it being reported that the occupants were yellow fever refugees. It is reported from Jefferson barracks that United States soliders have captured the launch and the refugees were taken off and placed in quarantine.

Cornersville's New Mayor.

Cornersville, Tenn.—At a recent meeting of the City Council C. J. Hale was elected mayor to succeed F. M. Massey, who resigned on account of moving just outside of the corporation. J. B. Gambill was re elected Recorder, and H. H. Austin re-elected Captain of Police.

Cotton and iron constitute the south's great allies for prosperity.

Must Have Immigrants.

Birmingham, Ala.—Col. R. A. Mitchell, president of the Dwight Cotton Mills, of Alabama City, and vice-president of the Alabama State Immigration Society, said that the society was determined to have plenty of immigrants, and have them quickly, as the state was certainly very much in need of them. Some of the other organizations of the state, said Colonel Mitchell, whose object is to promote immigration, have displayed a feeling of hostility toward the society, as if the society were in some way working against them. This, said Mr. Mitchell, is an entirely erroneous idea, and the Alabama State Immigration Society will be glad to co-operate with these organizations in securing immigration and do all in their power to accomplish this end.

Nashville Open to Refugees.

Nashville, Tenn.—At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, Thursday there was a lengthy discussion held on the yellow fever situation, and it was decided to send out to the commercial bodies throughout the South a statement that this city was not and never had been closed against the inhabitants of infected cities.

King Edward is an omnivorous newspaper reader, and on many occasions has shown himself to be a good friend of the press. He keeps a number of albums for clippings.

Street Railway Improvements.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Huntsville Railway, Light and Power Company, Francis Lawton manager, is inaugurating numbers of valuable improvements in its service. The boiler room is being completely overhauled and all of the electrical work is being gone over.

The senate is where presidential aspirants are sidetracked.

The Kaiser owns eight automobiles, all big touring cars.

Raids on Distilleries.

Birmingham, Ala.—Raids upon alleged illicit distilleries have been reported to the office of Collector J. O. Thompson as follows:

Three miles southeast of Lamar, Randolph county, by Deputy Collector J. N. Ware and W. A. Farmer; no arrests made.

Three miles south of Big Creek, Houston county, Deputy Collector Knox Booth and C. L. Pittman arrested Jack Braxton and carried him to Troy. He was arraigned there before Commissioner C. S. Tutwiler and held to the federal grand judy in a $200 bond.

Five miles west of Big Creek, Houston county, Revenue Agent D. A. Gates; no arrests.

Near Big Creek, Houston county, D. A. Gates; no arrests.

A Murder and Suicide.

Norfolk, Va.—Capt. E. W. Jones, of Company E, Seventy-first regiment, Virginia Volunteers, on Friday killed Maud Robinson, better known as Maud Cameron, by almost severing the woman's head from her shoulders with a razor, and then attempted suicide by cutting his own throat from ear to ear with the razor which he used on the woman. Jones is now in St. Vincent's Hospital. The murdered woman was 23 years of age. Captain Jones is about 30 years old and unmarried. The tragedy occurred at the woman's house.

Yellow Scourge at Honduras.

Los Angeles, Cal.—While New Orleans has been fighting yellow fever, the little government of Honduras has been battling with the dread scourge since May 25, on which date it broke out in Puerto Cortez, the principal seaport on the northern coast. Advices received from A. Ellsworth, a large plantation owner, state that the fever is spreading and in all probability will not be stamped out before November. Scores of deaths occur daily in some towns.

Killed by Train.

Birmingham, Ala.—The remains of M. Wopson, a flagman of the Southern Railway, who was run over and fatally injured by a freight train Thursday afternoon, were Friday morning sent to Littleton, Ala. The accident occurred near Littleton. Both legs were cut off, and other injuries were inflicted. It seems that the unfortunate man had sat down on the railroad track for some reason. Whether or not he lost consciousness or fell asleep will probably never be known, but he seems to have been unaware of the approach of the train. Deceased was unmarried.

Horses Were Killed.

Nashville, Tenn.—As the result of an accident on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad at Edgefield Junction, twelve miles north of here, twenty-eight horses were killed outright, another died of his injuries and twelve more were so badly maimed that they were destroyed.

The horses were shipped from East St. Louis to a Nashville firm and had been unloaded to be driven into the city. As they reached a railroad crossing Louisville and Nashville pasenger train No. 54, bound for St. Louis, swept around a curve and plunged full speed into the drove. Strange to say, the train suffered no damage, and after a slight delay continued its run.

Killed by a Fall.

Gadsden, Ala.—A little 5-year-old son of Cicero Bagwell, of Fry, Marshall county, was killed late Friday afternoon by a fall. The little boy had climbed up to the roof of the house in his efforts to catch his kitten, which had gotten away from him, and he lost his foothold and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet.

Must Give Up Frenchman.

Paris.—As the result of a special meeting of the council of ministers it was announced that a military demonstration will be made against Morocco unless the sultan promptly yields to the French demands for the release of the French Algerian citizen, a merchant named Bouzian, who was unjustly arrested at Gharb, a Moroccan town on the Algerian frontier.

Machine Plant Destroyed.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—On Thursday the foundry and machine shops of Strickland Bros. were consumed by fire. The loss will probably amount to $60,000. The amount of insurance was only $15,000. The company employed nearly sixty men and the pay roll amounted to nearly $900 per month.

Employes Remember Mr. Hungerford.

Jackson, Tenn.—The trainmen on the Jackson division of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad have purchased a $150 diamond stud for H. L. Hungerford, late train master of this division, and will present it to him as a token of their regard for him. Mr. Hungerford has been transferred from Jackson to the Murphysboro and St. Louis division.

Birmingham, Ala.—J. B. Griffin, the young man who was arrested, tried and convicted before Judge Feagin the other day on a charge of stealing for the purpose of getting food for his wife and baby, has been released, and has gone to work for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company. Superintendent Griggs, of the Alabama Great Southern Railroad, as soon as the matter was brought to his attention declared that his company would no longer prosecute the charges.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. F. E. TAYLOR.

Subject: Christ and the Multitude.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Sunday morning, in the Greene Avenue Baptist Church, the Rev. Frederick E. Taylor preached on "Christ and the Multitude." The text was from Matthew, ix:35-38: "And Jesus went about all the cities and the villages," etc. Mr. Taylor said:

For nearly two years Jesus had mingled with the people of Palestine. He had visited their towns and villages, had seen life in all its different phases, and had been a source of blessing to all who sought His favor. He had witnessed the hollow mockery which passed for religion among the Pharisees and had burned with indignation as He saw the people receiving stones instead of bread from those whose duty it was to feed their souls. The whole nation had been astonished by His miracles, and after a year of comparative obscurity, He had entered upon one of popular favor. His popularity was now at its height, and thousands were found eagerly listening to the words of authority with which He spake. Notwithstanding His great popularity a careful observer would have noticed that instead of a look of triumph, His face indicated tender concern for the great multitudes which were continually seeking Him. He was beginning to realize more and more the awful need of the people, and His spirit was stirred within Him as He saw the possibilities for good among those who flocked to hear His words of life and peace.

Living in a great city, surrounded by thousands of men and women who are careless and indifferent about their earthly welfare, we are constantly facing the problem of how to reach and help those for whom Christ died. What was the attitude of Christ toward those unsaved masses? How did He seek to solve the problem of reaching them? Is there any way of our helping the people of our day and generation? These are some of the questions which we shall attempt to answer. I believe that when the church of God follows the example of the Master in His treatment of the masses, the masses will be reached and saved.

In the first place, I notice that Jesus was filled with compassion for them. "When He saw the multitudes He was moved with compassion for them because they were distressed and scattered as sheep not having a shepherd."

Compassion is the keyword to the life of Jesus Christ. We find the evangelists reporting instances of His compassion again and again. When a leper comes seeking health, Jesus, moved with compassion, puts forth His hand and with a touch restores him to his wonted strength and vigor. When the great multitude, filled with curiosity, followed Him away from their source of supplies and were without food, He is filled with compassion and creates food enough to supply their need. It was the compassion of Jesus that led to the healing of the two blind men near Jericho, and it was this same feeling that prompted the resurrection of the widow's son at Nain.

Not only in His acts of kindness, but in all His teaching we find that the spirit of compassion is dominant. The best known parables uttered by the Saviour are the parable of the Good Samaritan and the parable of the Prodigal Son, and compassion is the key word to both. The compassion of a Samaritan leads to the saving of an enemy, and it was this same spirit on the part of the father which made the home coming so sweet to the Prodigal.

This is the need of the disciples of Christ to-day. The multitudes are all about us. They are careless, indifferent, sinful; but only because they do not know the love of Christ. Deep down in their lives there is a hunger for something better, and in many cases men are groping after light on the pathway of life. The church can and should meet the need, but only a realization of the need and an infilling of the spirit of Christ to meet it will solve the problem.

If the great heart of the Master was moved with compassion for the multitudes of His day, what would He think—nay, what does He think—when He sees the vast multitudes in our great city who are going about as sheep without a shepherd? I believe that if we are true disciples of our Lord we will feel as He felt, and instead of ignoring or condemning those who know not Christ, we will leave no stone unturned until they come to know Him, whom to know is eternal life.

In the second place, I notice that Jesus saw a harvest ready for the reaper. He said, "The harvest truly is plenteous." He saw the possibilities among those who flocked around Him, and knew that among them there were many who could easily be led into the paths of righteousness. And this was characteristic of Christ. It is true that much of His time was spent in sowing the good seed of the kingdom, but it is also true that He was constantly finding opportunities to reap rich harvests of souls wherever He went.

He goes to the seaside and finds a harvest among the fishermen. He stops at a well side and reaps the first fruits of a splendid revival among the despised Samaritans. At the seat of custom He finds one who is to be an apostle and write down the good news for the Hebrew people. Wherever He went Jesus always found the fields white and ready for the reaper. And, brethren, I believe that those who possess the spirit of the Master will always find abundant opportunities for rich harvests of souls.

On one of these occasions Jesus said to His disciples, "Say not ye there are yet four months and then cometh harvest? Behold, I say unto you, lift up your eyes and look on the fields, for they are white already to harvest." The trouble with us is unbelief in the possibility of a harvest here and now. Some time in the dim future we expect to reap, but the years pass on and the conditions grow less and less hopeful and golden opportunities are lost forever.

But I notice in the third place that Jesus not only saw a great need, but He told His disciples how it could be met. "The harvest truly is plenteous," said He, "but the laborers are few." Surely no one ever felt the need of laborers more than Jesus Christ. Face to face with thousands who yearned to know the way of life, and limited by His humanity, so that it was only possible to deal with a very few of those who came to Him, He felt the need of laborers as no other ever did. It is true that He had a band of chosen disciples to carry on the work that He began, but at this time they could not be trusted to do very much, as they themselves only knew the truth imperfectly.

Every true servant of God has felt his heart sink within him more than once, as, looking out over the multitudes, he has seen the great need for men and women, who, counting their lives not dear unto themselves, would lay them down at the Master's feet to be spent in loyal service for those who knew Him not. It is not necessary to discuss the need for laborers; this is so apparent that it needs no discussion. What we need to-day is to know the remedy and then apply it to the disease. More than one earnest minister of the Gospel has presented the needs of his field, and then supposed that the people would flock to his support, only to be sadly disappointed. No, the Master's way is the best way. He did not tell the disciples to go out and exhort the people to become laborers for Him. He sent them to the owner of the vineyard with a request that he send forth laborers into his harvest; "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that He send forth laborers into His harvest." Prayer is the divine method, and I believe that more workmen have gone forth in response to definite, earnest petition offered by men and women who have felt the need for laborers than by the use of any other method. Let the members of the church begin to feel the multitudes without, let them begin to pray that the people may be saved, let them ask the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers and hundreds of those who are to-day within the very shadow of our churches will be led into the way of life.

And now, in conclusion, may I say that those who are led to pray for the multitude are usually led into a larger service on their behalf. Thirty years ago, says a recent writer in a religious paper, the region about London docks contained as large a population as any district in Africa. Back of the huge warehouses were innumerable courts and alleys filled with fog and dirt, and every horror of sight and sound and smell. It was a rendezvous for the lowest types of humanity. The wealthy and influential classes in this settlement were the rumsellers and gamblers. Children were born and grew to middle age in these precincts who never heard the name of Jesus except in an oath. Thirty thousand souls were included in one parish here, but the clergyman never ventured out of the church to teach. A young man named Charles Lowder, belonging to an old English family, happened to pass through the district just before leaving Oxford. His classmates were going into politics, or the army, or the bar, full of ambition and hope, to make a name in the world; but Lowder heard, as he said, "a cry of mingled agony, suffering, laughter and blasphemy coming from those depths, that rang in his ears go where he would." On his knees before his Maker he asked that help might be sent to those who were dying for the Water of Life. God graciously led him to see that the man who felt the need the most would be the one who could do the most for the people, and he gave up all plans for his life and went to labor among those for whom he had prayed. He took a house in the lowest slums and lived in it. He preached every day in the streets, and for months was pelted with brickbats, shot at and driven back with curses. He had unfortunuately no eloquence with which to reach them; he was a slow, stammering speaker, but he was bold, patient and in earnest. Even the worst ruffian learned to respect the tall thin curate, whom he saw stopping the worst street fights, nursing the victim of Asiatic cholera and facing mobs bent on taking his life.

Mr. Lowder lived in London docks twenty-three years. Night schools were opened, industrial schools and a refuge for drunkards, discharged prisoners and fallen women. A large church was built and several mission chapels. His chief assistants in the work were the men and women whom he had rescued from the paths that abut on hell. A visitor said that the church differed from others in that "all were in such deadly earnest." Mr. Lowder broke down under his work and died in a village in the Tyrol whither he had gone for a rest. He was brought back to the docks where he had worked so long. Across the bridge where he had once been chased by a mob bent on taking his life, his body was reverently carried while the police were obliged to keep back the crowd of sobbing people who pressed forward to get a glimpse of "Father" Lowder, as they called him. No such funeral, says a London paper, has ever been seen in England. The whole population of East London turned out, stopping work for that day; the special trains run to Chiselhurst were filled, and thousands followed on foot, miserable men and women whom he had lifted up from barbarism to life and hope.

Charles Lowder had seen the multitude, the compassion of Christ had filled his heart, his prayer had been answered, and if he could have looked over the battlements of Heaven that day he would have realized that his labor had not been in vain in the Lord.

Joy.

True Christian joy is glorified joy, says the Apostle Paul. That is, it has the glory of Heaven shining upon it, filling, suffusing, transfiguring it, intensifying it. In other words, there is no other joy anything like so rich, so deep, so full, so blessed as the joy which comes with religion, which springs out of faith. "Believing we rejoice."

It is a joy, too, that rises above all sorrow and trouble. Suffering saints have often been the most joyful. "We rejoice, though now for a season, if need be, we are in heaviness." "As sorrowful, yet always rejoicing."

It is our duty to be joyful and our privilege to spread joy among others. It is also an effective means of commending the religion of Christ to others.

Take joy home,
And make a place in thy heart for her;
And give her time to grow, and cherish her;
Then she will come and sing to thee.

—G. B. F. Hallock, D. D.

THE SUNDAY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON
FOR SEPTEMBER

Subject: The Captivity of Chron. xxxvi. 11-2
Num. xxxii. 23—
—Commentary on the

1. Zedekiah's
(vs. 11-13). 11. Zedekiah one of the younger sons of siah and uncle of Jehoiachin a weak king, with acter to do what he knew Anxious to follow the miah, but without courage became the mere at last was brought flict with Babylon
ter judgment. 12.
self." Although Jeremiah entreated Zedekiah
of the Lord, yet the king pride of his heart fending his princes to the prophet's

13. "Rebelled height of folly. Had dom and courage words of Jeremiah to his allegiance to might not have been him swear." Nebuchadnezzar bound Zedekiah by a to keep the peace by conqueror who had set him throne. In Jer. 27:3
gers from the kings of Edom
Ammon, Tyre and Zidon with Hezekiah, perhaps plan to throw off the Babylonian and in Ezek. 17:15. Zedekiah sented as sending his ambassadors Egypt that they might give him
and much people. Thus he have laid broad plans for his and in all this he was encouraged the false prophets of his time

II. God's effort to save (vs. 14, 15).

14. "Trangressed very much we see the vile depths dah had fallen. All classes rupted. Restraint was thrown the people openly practiced heathen abominations even the house of the Lord.

15. "The Lord—sent to them
did everything He wisely vent His people from rushing their own destruction. He them several lesser evils
These were devastations of the
from which a few years to recover. Then Jerusalem
tured and part of its treasure but the city was not destroyed temple stood. Kings were tive as a warning to coming Prophets were sent to warn treat.

III. Judah utterly rejects
(v. 16).

16. "Mocked," etc. Jeremiah imprisoned, beaten and with death; Urijah was put (Jer. 26:20-23). "No remedy."
tion had gone beyond all body was hopelessly corrupt possible to sin too long the day of grace. O sinner repent.

IV. Jerusalem destroyed 17. "Therefore." Because great wickedness. "He brought Chaldees." The siege lasted year and six months. The tions were strong, and the brave and skilful. The battering rams shook the walls night: archers made the creasingly hard by constant arrows from the high catapaults of all sizes into the town with a force as that of modern bullets tipped with fire kindled the the houses; mines were dug walls, and attempts at ladders were renewed at every able opportunity. "Who
The siege was full of city was reduced to the last Fearful pictures are presented emiah in his prophecy and mentations. The the besiegers was aided by famine (Jer. 38:9) and all expedients had been tried wretched inhabitants of town are forced to resort Mothers boiled and ate their their own infants (Lam.
5:10); ladies in magnificent dered about searching the
for a morsel of food (Lam.
"No compassion."
the cruelties practiced by tors upon their captives not for the most sculpture and perpetrators glory in their should hardly believe men to treat their with such barbarity ants were once masters of an indiscriminate slaughter to have succeeded generally given over to The prisoners were either subjected to horrible ried away as slaves
etc. God permitted the thus destroy Jerusalem have done to Nebuchadnezzar
what He did to Sennacherib

20. "Carried he away"
Chaldeans finally entered king and his men of war fled were pursued and kiah's sons were slain his eyes were then put out carried to Babylon in chains put in prison till the day (Jer. 52:7-11). "To him and There were three kings
chadnezzar before Cyrus Persian rule: Evil-Merodach
25:27), Neriglissar and

21. "Fulfill the word"
11, 12; 29:10. "Enjoyed
See Lev. 26:34, 35, 43.
manded them to let the
every seventh year, and had violated this posed to give the land
bath, or rest, for seventy

Open Cotton

Gadsden, Ala.—A great
ton is reported as being out this section of the
is very unusual and is vere drouth, which
than a month.

Nagasaki.—The British
along and the Japanese gio collided at 10 o'clock in the Inland sea. The sunk and 160 men

ENTINA GONZALES,
CENTRAL AMERICA,
RESTORED TO HEALTH
PE-RU-NA THE REME

Clementina Gonzales, Hotel
Guatemala, C. A., in a recent Cleveland Ave., Chicago,

Peruna for a worn-out
I was so run down sleep at night, had no
and felt tired in the morn tried many tonics, but Peru only thing which helped least. After I had taken bottle I felt much better used it use for three weeks completely restored to hea was able to take up my stu
I had been forced to is nothing better than Peru up the system."—Clem Gonzales.

The Peruna Medicine
Ohio, for instructive free catarrh.

of the Geological ada, believes that is hidden between the
and Hudson's Bay.

permanently cured. No fits or nerv first day's use of Dr. Kline's Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise
Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila.

Archduke Leopold has become
in the Swiss Army.

Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Chi soften the gums, reduces inflam pain, cures wind colic. 25c. a bo

Stokes, of New Jersey,
of bachelors.

Piso's Cure for Consumption three years ago.—Mrs. Thomas Maple st., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17

has over 115 miles of

Avoid Yellow Fever.

great antiseptic preventat Liniment. Six drops of on a teaspoonful of sugar fever and malaria germs

Jacob Astor owns twenty two

RHEUM ON HAND

Agony and Had to Wear Banda
Time—Another Cure by Cuticu cure by Cuticura is told of Cable, of Waupaca, Wis grateful letter: "My husb agony with salt rheum on and I had to keep them banda time. We tried everything but nothing helped him unti Cuticura. One set of Cuticura and Pills cured him entir hands have been as smooth as since. I hope this letter wi of helping other sufferers."

retired New York busin been chosen first reader Christian Science church sixth street and Central p finest edifice of all in cult. He is Edwin T. who has been a student in York Christian Institute un Augusta E. Stetson. Mr. Hatf son of a noted New York who officiated for twenty-th at the Seventh Presbyte

Rural 'Phones.

are said to be nearly fifty rural telephone lines in Cr county, Kansas, owned by fa

SENATOR SULLIVAN

Has Found Doan's Kidney P in Treating Sick Kidneys

Timothy D. Sullivan, of Member of Congress from New York District and one the Democr leaders of York Sta strongly rec mends Doa Kidney Pills.

Senator S
van writes:
It is a ple
ure to endors remedy
Doan's Kid Pills, havi them of the greatest value the distress caused by and in restoring those org condition of health. My exp with your valuable remedy gratifying as that of seve friends. Yours truly,

TIMOTHY D. SULLIVAN
Milburn Co., Buffalo, N.
by all druggists. Price,

fe, and limited at it was only a very few of
m. He felt the other ever did.
ed a band of y on the work this time they do very much,
knew the truth

f God has felt him more than ver the multi-great need for counting their mselves, would Master's feet to for those who ot necessary to aborers; this is eeds no discus-to-day is to then apply it an one earnest has presented and then sup-would flock to e sadly disap-r's way is the
the disciples people to be-
He sent them neyard with a forth laborers ye therefore that He send His harvest."
thod, and I been have gone
efinite earnest n and women
l for laborers other method.
church begin without, let the people may he Lord of the laborers and re to-day withour churches of life.
Bu, may I say to pray for the d into a larger Thirty years
r in a religious London docks
pulation as any k of the huge nerable courts
g and dirt, and nd sound and ezvous for the y. The wealthy n this settle-ers and gam-
rn and grew to precincts who f Jesus except and souls were here, but the ed out of the ng man named ing to an old ened to pass before leaving es were going
y, or the bar, pe, to make a Lowder heard, mingled agony,
d blasphemy
s, that rang in ould." On his he asked that hose who were Life. God grathat the man most would be the most for e up all plans
o labor among l prayed. He est slums and t every day in ths was pelted nd driven back unfortunately to reach them;
ering speaker,
and in earnest,
learned to re-ate, whom he t street fights, Asiatic cholera on taking his

London docks
ht schools were ls and a refuge
rged prisoners rge church was chapels. His work were the he had rescued ult on hell. A hurch differed t were in such Lowder broke
d died in a vil-r he had gone ought back to nd worked so where he had mob bent on was reverently were obliged of sobbing peoard to get a wder, as they uneral, says a been seen in population of stopping work trains run to and thousands able men and fted up from ope.
een the multi-of Christ had yer had been ld have looked Heaven that lized that his n in the Lord.

glorified joy.
That is, it has ining upon it, guring it, in-words, there like so rich, sed as the joy eligion, which "Believing we rises above all uffering saints

t joyful. "We r a season, if viness." "As ejoicing."
joyful and our among others, means of com-Christ to othheart for her;

ow, and cherish

ng to thee.
Malock, D. D.

THE SUNDAY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON
FOR SEPTEMBER

Subject: The Captivity
Chron. xxxvi., 11-
Num. xxxii., 23—M
—Commentary on the

1. Zedekiah's character
(vs. 11-13). 11. "Zedekiah one of the younger sons of the siah and uncle of Jehoiachi a weak king, with no streng
acter to do what he knew Anxious to follow the counse
miah, but without courage became the mere sport of at last was brought into flict with Babylon against his ter judgment. 12. "Humbled
self." Although Jeremiah entreated Zedekiah to obey
of the Lord, yet the king pride of his heart and for fending his princes would to the prophet's advice.

13. "Rebelled," etc. This height of folly. Had he pos dom and courage enough to words of Jeremiah and rem to his allegiance to Babylon, J might not have been destroyed him swear." Nebuchadn bound Zedekiah by a most to keep the peace by fidelity
conqueror who had set him throne. In Jer. 27:3 we find
gers from the kings of Edom,
Ammon, Tyre and Zidon
with Hezekiah, perhaps conc plan to throw off the Babylonia and in Ezek. 17:15, Zedekiah is sented as sending his ambassa Egypt that they might give him
and much people. Thus he have laid broad plans for his re and in all this he was encour
the false prophets of his time (

II. God's effort to save His
(vs. 14, 15).

14. "Trangressed very much."
we see the vile depths into wh dah had fallen. All classes w rupted. Restraint was thrown
the people openly practiced heathen abominations, even p
the house of the Lord.

15. "The Lord—sent to them."
did everything He wisely could vent His people from rushing their own destruction. He laid them several lesser evils as wa
These were devastations of the from which a few years would to recover. Then Jerusalem w tured and part of its treasure re
but the city was not destroyed, temple stood. Kings were ma
tive as a warning to coming Prophets were sent to warn treat.

III. Judah utterly rejects the
(v. 16).

16. "Mocked," etc. Jeremiah imprisoned, beaten and thr with death; Urijah was put to (Jer. 26:20-23). "No remedy."
tion had gone beyond all hope
body was hopelessly corrupt.
possible to sin too long, to sin
the day of grace. O sinner,
repent.

IV. Jerusalem destroyed (vs.
17. "Therefore." Because of great wickedness. "He broug Chaldees." The siege lasted ab year and six months. The fo tions were strong, and the defe brave and skilful. The third battering rams shook the walls night; archers made the defe creasingly hard by constant sho arrows from the high wooden catapaults of all sizes hurled into the town with a force as as that of modern bullets, and tipped with fire kindled the r the houses; mines were dug u walls, and attempts at escal
ladders were renewed at every able opportunity. "Who slew
The siege was full of horrors city was reduced to the last ex Fearful pictures are presented emiah in his prophecy and in mentations. The destructive the besiegers was aided by a famine (Jer. 38:9), and all the expedients had been tried to w wretched inhabitants of a b town are forced to resort in su Mothers boiled and ate the
their own infants (Lam. 4:1 5:10); ladies in magnificent ro dered about searching the refu
for a morsel of food (Lam.
"No compassion." So hideo the cruelties practiced by Orie tors upon their captors that not for the most convincing ev Scripture and inscription, w perpetrators glory in their d should hardly believe it pos men to treat their fellow c with such barbarity. When th ants were once masters of th an indiscriminate slaughter to have succeeded, and the c generally given over to the
The prisoners were either imp subjected to horrible torments ried away as slaves. "He gave etc. God permitted the Chal thus destroy Jerusalem. He have done to Nebuchadnezza what He did to Sennacherib's

20. "Carried he away." W Chaldeans finally entered the king and his men of war fled were pursued and captured.
kiah's sons were slain before his eyes were then put out and carried to Babylon in chains put in prison till the day of (Jer. 52:7-11). "To him and h
There were three kings aft
chadnezzar before Cyrus
Persian rule: Evil-Merodach
25:27), Neriglissar and Nab

21. "Fulfill the word."
11, 12; 29:10. "Enjoyed her See Lev. 26:34, 35, 43. Go
manded them to let the
every seventh year, and had violated this command
posed to give the land
bath or rest, for seventy

Open Cotton

Gadsden, Ala.—A great
ton is reported as being out this section of the
is very unusual and is d vere drouth, which l
than a month.

Nagasaki.—The Britis
along and the Japanese
gio collided at 10 o'cl
in the Inland sea. The sunk and 160 men

ENTINA GONZALES,
F CENTRAL AMERICA,
RESTORED TO HEALTH,
PE-RU-NA THE REMEDY

Clementina Gonzales, Hotel Pro-
Guatemala, C. A., in a recent letter
37 Cleveland Ave., Chicago, Ill.,

Peruna for a worn-out con-
. I was so run down that I not sleep at night, had no ap-and felt tired in the morning.
ried many tonics, but Peruna
e only thing which helped me least. After I had taken but bottle I felt much better. I ued its use for three weeks and completely restored to health, was able to take up my studies
I had been forced to drop.
is nothing better than Peruna
ild up the system."—Clemen-Gonzales.

The Peruna Medicine Co., of Ohio, for instructive free literacatarrh.

of the Geological Society, nada, believes that diamond is hidden between the Great and Hudson's Bay.

rmanently cured. No fits or nervous-first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise free
Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Archduke Leopold has become a
in the Swiss Army.

Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children softens the gums, reduces inflamma-pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

Stakes, of New Jersey, favors
of bachelors.

Piso's Cure for Consumption saved years ago.—Mrs. Thomas Rob-
Maple St., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17, 1900

has over 115 miles of tram-

Avoid Yellow Fever.

great antiseptic preventative, Liniment. Six drops of Sloan's on a teaspoonful of sugar will fever and malaria germs.

Jacob Astor owns twenty-two auto-

T RHEUM ON HANDS

Agony and Had to Wear Bandages Time—Another Cure by Cuticura.

cure by Cuticura is told of by Caroline Cable, of Waupoca, Wis., in lowing grateful letter: "My husband agony with salt rheum on his and I had to keep them bandaged time. We tried everything we t, but nothing helped him until he Cuticura. One set of Cuticura Soap, t and Pills cured him entirely,
hands have been as smooth as pos-ever since. I hope this letter will be of helping other sufferers."

retired New York business has been chosen first reader in w Christian Science church at ixth street and Central park,
the finest edifice of all in Mrs.
cult. He is Edwin T. Hatwho has been a student in the York Christian Institute under Augusta E. Stetson. Mr. Hatfield son of a noted New York clerwho officiated for twenty-three at the Seventh Presbyterian h.

Rural Phones.

e are said to be nearly fifty difrural telephone lines in Craw-unty, Kansas, owned by farm-

SENATOR SULLIVAN

He Has Found Doan's Kidney Pills able in Treating Sick Kidneys.

Timothy D. Sullivan, of New Member of Congress from the New York District and one of the Democratic leaders of New York State, strongly recommends Doan's Kidney Pills.

Senator Sullivan writes:

It is a pleasure to endorse a remedy like Doan's Kidney Pills, having them of the greatest value in ing the distress caused by sick
s, and in restoring those organs ondition of health. My experiwith your valuable remedy was as gratifying as that of several friends. Yours truly,

TIMOTHY D. SULLIVAN.

Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
le by all druggists. Price, 50 per box.

TO CLEAN BRASS.

To clean very dirty brass, scrub with a nailbrush, dipped in powdered bath-brick dust and paraffin. Even the most tarnished brass can be cleaned in this way. Polish with the dry dust and a soft duster.

FURNISHING THE KITCHEN.

In furnishing a kitchen one may make the mistake of having too many utensils and too many patented contrivances. The average servant girl, who is only used to the simplest and most ordinary utensils at home, will invariably leave the patented things on the shelf and use any common makeshift.

THE BEDROOM.

Now that all wash goods are offered for sale, the shopper is tempted to purchase lengths of flowered organdie or dimity for bedroom curtains. A charming cottage bedroom, hung with a wallpaper all huge yellow roses, was made still more charming by curtains of organdie in which the yellow rose design was repeated, but in much paler tones. In fact, the effect was as if the roses on the walls cast their shadows on the sheer white curtains. The idea is worth studying and adapting to other flower rooms.

REMOVING INK STAINS.

Ink stains may be removed from white goods with lemon and salt. Cover the stain with fine salt, squeeze the lemon juice on it, and rub between the hands. A second application will be necessary when the ink is obstinate. Ink may be removed successfully from colored clothes by soaking them in sweet milk. Mildew will usually disappear if soaked in sour milk, and then washed in the usual manner. Chloride of lime will also remove mildew stains, but it must be well diluted and carefully used.—The Pilgram.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

Good housekeeping is surely an art, for besides seeing that every room in the house is perfection in every detail, window curtains always fresh and clean, floors spotless, not a fleck of dust anywhere, everything at hand for the toilet—the service must be faultless, your maid in a neat black gown, white apron, stiff white collar and cuffs, her manner deferential when she opens the door for you or waits upon you at the table.

The cooking, of course, has to be delicious, the kind that melts in your mouth, the washing must be unquestionable, and the ironing a picture in itself. All these things and many more are simply parts of good housekeeping, and if a woman is able to carry on and control a house of her own in the right kind of way, her work is inferior to no man's and she deserves just as much credit and oftentimes a great deal more.—American Cultivator.

RECIPES.

Chicken Rolls.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter, add a pinch of salt, a little pepper and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Mix with this one cupful of minced chicken; add one-third cupful of milk and thicken with a little flour. Mould into rolls or croquettes and fry in hot fat. Serve with a white sauce seasoned with lemon juice.

An Excellent Ice.—Here is an excellent ice. Slice bananas and sprinkle the slices with lemon juice. Place on the ice for an hour, then mash with a wooden spoon, and stir into the mixture three-quarters of a cup of powdered sugar and the beaten whites of two eggs. Freeze for five minutes, and add a pint more or less, of whipped cream, and a cupful of chopped English walnuts, from which the skins have been removed.

A Tomato Dish.—An Italian dish of tomatoes is described in Good Housekeeping. Select not too ripe tomatoes and cut off about a quarter of an inch from the blossom end, using a very sharp knife. Scoop out part of the pulp and fill the tomato cup with well-washed and soaked rice, in which has been mixed a little chopped parsley, a pinch of several pungent herbs, salt, red pepper and a good portion of olive oil. Bake the tomatoes in a deep baking dish in seasoned olive oil, two-thirds of a cup to nine tomatoes. Cook in a moderate oven until the rice is quite tender, and the skins of the tomatoes begin to wrinkle. Serve hot with a little of the oil in which they were baked.

Rich Sago Pudding.—Here is a recipe for the favorite pudding of a housekeeper of the last generation, who served it to her family after the simple Sunday dinner customary in her day: Soak six heaping teaspoonfuls of sago in a quart of sweet milk for five hours. Then add a quart of boiling milk. Cook till soft. Beat the yolks of six eggs in a pudding dish with a teacup of sugar and a little nutmeg. Then when the sago is soft stir it into the eggs and sugar. Bake twenty minutes. After the pudding has been set away to cool beat up the whites of the six eggs until they are a stiff froth and fold into them three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Spread this meringue over the top of the pudding and brown it in the oven. A little jelly is sometimes spread over the pudding before adding the meringue.

A Sliding Boat.

The sliding boat of M. de Lambert, a French inventor, is designed to avoid friction by skimming on the surface of the water, and it is made to do this by inclined planes fixed under the boat at carefully regulated distances apart and at an angle determined by many trials. When at rest the weight is supported on two narrow parallel floats resembling certain Asiatic canoes, the sliding planes sinking just beneath the surface. A light weight model of wood and aluminum is twenty feet long and ten feet wide between the inclined planes, and while it weighs 1,200 pounds, it requires a motor of only twelve horse-power, although other boats of the capacity need motor of sixty to 100 horsepower. As the boat is started the planes rise on the water, where they are supported by a thin layer of air, and easily glide along at fifteen to twenty-two miles per hour.

A Story of Pearls.

There is a romantic story attaching to the great rope of pearls worn by the Princess Fredericka of Hanover, at recent functions. They are magnificent specimens and very old. Centuries ago a princess of the house loved them so that they were buried with her. But in process of time the great grief of her relatives grew gradually fainter and fainter until they began to whisper what a shame it was that such glorious jewels should be wasted. Then one day the princess' tomb was opened, the pearl necklace taken from her neck. But the pearls were spoilt; they had lost their luster and beauty. Their new owner wept over them and dreamed about them, and her dream told her that three generations of lovely women would have to wear them before their luster returned. Three lovely princesses did wear them and they are now pearls without peers.

Father John of Cronstadt.

Father John of Cronstadt, whose extraordinary influence over the czar, no less than his propaganda against the revolutionaries, continually rouses the ire of the secret committee, is 86 years of age. In personality he answers to the description of the average Russian peasant, only in his case abstemiousness has wrought a refining effect on his features. He is short of stature, with a somewhat florid complexion, and his small, twinkling gray eyes have that furtive appearance characteristic of the Russian working classes. In spite of his great age he is remarkably active, and his long brown hair is untouched with silver. Father John was once esteemed a miracle worker, but it is said he has lost his reputation since the ships he blessed were sunk and the men he blessed were killed in battle with the Japs.

Shot a Rare Butterfly.

In the British museum is a rare butterfly, which was obtained in a most unusual way. Probably no other butterfly in any collection in the world was taken in the same manner. On the steamship bound to Sydney, New South Wales, several men were amusing themselves by shooting at a mark with a revolver. Just as one man was about to shoot he noticed a remarkably large butterfly fluttering toward the ship. When it hovered above the dock he fired and actually managed to hit it. The insect fell to the deck, considerably mangled. The creature was so beautiful, even in its mutilated condition, that the pieces were carefully collected and finally they reached a British entomologist, who found that it was a specimen of an entirely new species never before seen by the scientific world.

Aged Physician's Advice.

A famous physician, now hale and handsome at 75, sums up his half century of medical practice and observation in these simple rules of health: "Be temperate in all things, in matters of amusement or study as well as in regard to foods and drinks. To be temperate in all things, however, does not imply that one must be a prohibitionist about anything. Don't be afraid to go to sleep, for sleep is the best restorer of wasted energies. Sleep a certain number of hours every night and then remember that a short nap during the day is a safer rejuvenator than a—cocktail. Don't worry either about the past or the future. To waste a single hour in the regretful past is as senseless as to send good money after that which has been irrecoverably lost."

Significance of Thunder.

In the season of thunderstorms it is interesting, if not exactly profitable, to read an ancient interpretation of them. The Prognostication Everlasting of one Leonard Digges, published in 1856, tells us that thunder in the morning denotes wind; at noon rain, and in the evening a great tempest. He goes further still, and declares that "Sunday thunder should bring the death of learned men, judges and others; Monday's the death of women; Tuesday's plenty of grain; Wednesday's bloodshed; Thursday's plenty of sheep and corn; Friday's the slaughter of a great man and other horrible murders; Saturday's a general pestilent plague and great dearth."

Kitchener's Ruse.

Since it has been decided that Lord Kitchener shall be supreme in the military affairs in India an anecdote of the Khartoum expedition has come to light. One evening as the general's forces neared Khartoum a dervish spy was discovered in camp and taken to headquarters for examination. Information as to the enemy's position and plans was of the highest importance, but neither the richest bribes nor the direst threats could elicit one word from the prisoner; he affected to be both deaf and dumb. Scarcely was his hearing over—if hearing it can be called—when another spy was led in, who proved equally obdurate. They were led away bound and placed for the night in a well guarded tent. About half an hour later a third spy was dragged in, who also would reveal nothing, and was finally placed in the tent with the others. Soon the guard outside heard a murmur of voices from within; the dumb spies had found their tongues, but it was impossible to hear their talk distinctiv or to understand it. An hour or more passed, then the door of the tent was thrown open and the third spy appeared and asked to be conducted to headquarters. It was the sirdar, who in disguise had discovered all he needed to know. Lord Kitchener always takes the greatest pains to make himself master of the vernacular of any country to which he is sent. He seizes every opportunity of talking with the poorer folks until he speaks like a native.

Inventor of the Watch.

A monument has just been erected in Nuremberg to Peter Henlein, inventor of the pocket watch.

Henlein was so worried by his wife who accused him of witchcraft because of the many hours he spent in solitude trying to perfect his invention, that he took refuge at the home of a married daughter, where he quickly disposed of one of his persecutors by soundly thrashing him. Because of this he was sent to prison, and there he perfected his invention.

A few years later he was tried for murder, but settled the matter by paying an indemnity to the family of his victim and taking refuge in the convent of the Carmelites, where he remained till his death in 1540, continuing his manufacture of watches, which enriched the order he had joined.

No Royal Race Suicide.

There are no signs of race suicide in the British royal family. Victoria had four sons and five daughters. King Edward is the father of six and the baby boy born to the Prince and Princess of Wales the other day makes an even half dozen for them, five being sons. The other stems have done as well—the Empress Frederick eight and her son, Emperor William, seven; Princess Alice, six, and one of her daughters, the empress of Russia, five; Prince Alfred and Princess Helena, five each; Princess Beatrice, four; Prince Arthur, three, and Prince Leopold, two. The Cumberland and Cambridge branches are equally prolific.

Garibaldi's Death Request.

Garibaldi left directions in his will for the cremation of his body, but his wishes were overruled by the Italian government. The soldier's instructions were minute and perhaps a bit self-conscious. "Facing the sea, you shall erect a pyre two meters high, built of acacia wood, myrtle and other aromatic trees and plants growing at Caprera. On this lay a sheet of iron, on which shall be placed my body, dressed in the red shirt. A handful of the ashes place near the coffins of my daughters, Rosa and Anita." The rest were to be blown away by the winds as seeds of liberty for other parts of the world.

Brazil's Only Ambassador.

The elevation of Brazil's representative at Washington to ambassadorial rank and the appointment of Don Joaquin Nabuco to that post jointly constitute an incident of much importance. Brazil has no other ambassador abroad. In the regard of that republic and its people the relations of the country with the United States overtop in consequence of other foreign connections. The selection of such a man as Senor Nabuco, who is a genuine leader in his own country—an orator and scholar, as well as statesman—to be the first ambassador to this country proves a disposition on the part of the Brazilians to seize and signalize the opportunity presented.

Queen Alexandra's Voice.

Queen Alexandra of England is, like most women, ill at ease on the rostrum. Her voice is low and sweet, with just the suspicion of foreign accent about it. There is almost pathetic note in its tones that lingers in the memory hauntingly. However, all her subjects loyally declare that she is a most charming speaker and that the foreign tinge is but an added charm to the voice.

The London City Council is likely to establish a system of automobile ambulances.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man—besides a man does not understand—simply because he is a man.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me."

"Roasted" a Duke.

The Duke of Norfolk's dislike of pompousness has given rise to many stories. A school treat was being held in Arundel park, his splendid ancestral home, and the duke was crossing one of the lawns, when a teacher, unaware of the duke's identity, rushed across to him and shouted: "Come off the grass at once! It is the people like you whose behavior get parks shut to the public!" On another occasion, it is said, the duke went to a convent to preside over a gathering. The sister who opened the door thought the unobtrusive stranger was seeking assistance and gently told the duke there was nothing for him!

MOZLEY'S
LEMON ELIXIR.

Is not a new and untried remedy. More than ½ of a Century attests its wonderful curative and health-giving properties, and serves to show that it has no equal as a cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache, and all other ills arising from a

TORPID LIVER.

Being strictly a vegatable compound, it has no harmful or even unpleasant effects. Its action is gentle but none the less thorough—cleansing the stomach and bowels of all impurities, and toning up the entire system to a healthy condition—leaving the person feeling good, because every organ is made to perform its part perfectly.

50C. AND $1.00 A BOTTLE. ALL DRUG STORES.
"One Dose Convinces."

Pollock-Stephens Institute.
Birmingham, Ala.

Select Day and Boarding School for Girls.
Opens Sept. 27th.
Catalogue on application. Address
Madame Catherine Deschamps Elford, Principal.

TULANE UNIVERSITY of LA.

NEW ORLEANS.

Full courses in Languages, Sciences, Engineering, Law, Medicine. Splendid department for women in Newcomb College. Tulane makes leaders in all vocations. Its facilities for instruction in Engineering are unsurpassed. Unexcelled opportunities for the study of Sugar Chemistry. Many scholarships in the academic department. Expenses low. Board and accommodations in dormitories at low rates. Next session begins October 1st. Send for catalogue. Address,

THE REGISTRAR, Gibson Hall.

Am. 35, 1905.

Dyspepsia,

TRADE MARK.

SICK HEADACHE,
CONSTIPATION

Promptly and Permanently Cured with

Crab Orchard
Water

A century's experience with successful results is the best testimonial. Sold by all druggists.

Crab Orchard Water Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

DYSPEPSIA

"Having taken your wonderful "Cascarets" for three months and being entirely cured of stomach catarrh and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to "Cascarets" for their wonderful composition. I have taken numerous other so-called remedies but without avail and I find that Cascarets relieve more in a day than all the others I have taken would in a year."
James McGune, 108 Mercer St., Jersey City, N. J.

Best For The Bowels
Cascarets
CANDY CATHARTIC
THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good, Do Good, Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe, 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped CCC. Guaranteed to cure or your money back.
Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or N.Y. 596
ANNUAL SALE, TEN MILLION BOXES

PAXTINE
TOILET ANTISEPTIC
FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhoea and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES
For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.
Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.
THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

BEAUMONT COLLEGE
HARRODSBURG, KENTUCKY.

There is absolutely no other school for Women and Girls in the South, if anywhere, offering so extensive a curriculum, thus the greatest benefits for the smallest outlay. Most approved modern improvements—Electric Lights, Hot Water heating, Complete outfit of Bath-rooms, etc., etc. Grounds of forty acres, by universal consent the most uniquely beautiful School Grounds in America. Offers to the ambitious thorough preparation for the great universities. Col. Th. Smith, A. M., Pres. [illegible]

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

WANTED—Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe; (2) of men who were drafted in Kentucky; (3) of mothers of soldiers who have been denied pension on account of their remarriage, (4) of men who served in the Federal army, or (5) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased.
NATHAN BICKFORD, Attorney,
Washington, D. C.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS.

FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. [illegible] MFG. CO., 313 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

BILIOUS BILIOUS BILIOUS

OXIDINE
IS THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR BILIOUSNESS, MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVERS

Made in Regular and Tasteless Forms. For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.,
PRICE 50 CENTS. DALLAS, TEX. AND MEMPHIS, TENN.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

Special Sale

Millinery Goods

The season is now sufficiently advanced to justify us in selling off the remainder of our Summer Millinery. Among our stock are some fine bargains in which we are offering below cost to clear them out.

LADIES' HATS

W. KANTER & BRO.
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
(P. D. WILSON'S OLD STAND)
CLANTON

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells
CLANTON, ALA.

PATTILLO BROS,
MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN
YELLOW PINE LUMBER

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Flooring, ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at Verbena. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be satisfactory to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, ALA.

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and Ceiling in stock for the Clanton trade.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coff:

W. I. MULLINS
CLANTON - - - ALA

* * *

France and Germany

By Sydney Brooks.

I DO not know whether in America the French naval debates were followed with much interest. Here (in England) they were looked upon as of inestimable moment. Their upshot was that France would meet Germany ship for ship; would maintain her present superiority over Germany at sea, would build as she builds, and regulate her expenditure by her rivals. That was at once the answer of the French people to the breakdown of the Russian navy in the Far East, and their application of the new relationship with England to the cardinal problem of their foreign policy. Until the Anglo-French agreement, it was always with specific reference to England that France framed her naval estimates. From now onwards it is to be with specific reference to Germany. This involves on the part of France nothing less than a revolution in standards, a shifting of the entire national front, a concentration at one crucial point of both her military and her naval strength. Indeed, the determination of France to maintain her lead at sea is serious enough to counteract the vast relief with which, beneath a politic show of regret, the Germans have watched the singeing of the Emperor of Russia's beard. The Anglo-French agreement, the new British naval scheme, the resolve of France to perpetuate her relative ascendency at sea, and the irrepressible rise of the United States into a naval power of the first rank, have indeed made a complete recasting of the German horoscope inevitable.—Harper's Weekly.

SWEEPING SALE

SWEEPING OUT!

Our Stock Must Be Sold Inside of TEN DAYS

Nice Linen Summer Clothing on hand yet. Shoes, Hats, Ladies' Slippers, Children's Slippers, Ladies' Shirt-Waists—sell them at half price.

Blue and Pink and Yellow Lawn at 4 c.—10 cent value goes at 4 cents a yard.

Linon de l' Inde, dead black, at 2½ c a yard—10 c value

Ball Thread, Ten balls for 5 cents.

100 more bargains, but not enough space to mention them. Come and see them.

Our Mr. H. Touro is going to New York by the 10th inst, and we want to sweep out all the goods we have on hand to make room for new goods.

We are paying for good washed Wool, 35 c a pound.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Mr. D. Kauble, of Nevada, O., says: I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me.

Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO.

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

INDUSTRIOUS ARTIST.

Bacon—You say your artist friend is industrious?

Egbert—Very; why, I've known him to work over four years on one picture.

"Is that possible?"

"It is. He was a month painting it, and four years trying to sell it."—Yonkers Statesman.

CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS.

"You've been out with a girl," declared Mrs. Jellus.

"Been out with your grandmother!" retorted Mr. Jellus, angrily.

"Then she must have bought a wig," replied Mrs. J., removing a long golden hair from his shoulder. "Her own hair is white."

ON HIS TRAIL.

"Pa," asked the Senator's little boy, what's a nemsis?"

"A 'nemesis,' my son," rejlied the Senator, wearily, "is a female office seeker whom, in a moment of foolish kindheartedness, you promised to assist.—Catholic Standard and Times.

HUMAN NATURE.

Mr. Podger—What are you reading there, Jimmy? "Deadshot Dick!" The idea. Gimme me that book.

Mr. Podger (an hour later)—Say, Maria, that's about the best story I ever read. I'll have to get the sequel to it. It's out next week.

A CHUNK OF WISDOM.

"My brethren," said the cigar store philosopher, "give ear unto this gob of wisdom."

"Fire away."

Stage beauty is like stage money. It doesn't usually amount to much off the boards."

VETOED.

Mrs. Subbubs—We really ought to have one of those burglar alarms put in.

Mr. Subbubs—What! and have the thing go off at night and wake the baby? No ma'am, not much.—Philadelphia Press.

God's Wrath is Close at Hand

Lesson No. 15. Evening of same day. And God said "The heading shall be God's wrath is close at hand," and said this matter must be put in the Banner six months without ceasing. He said I think the Editor is a Christian man, and said if anybody wants a message direct from God, apply to NEWTON COOPER Verbena, Ala., R. F. D. No. 2.

The public lands of the United States still "embrace in area nearly one-third of the entire extent of the Union and are widely scattered, extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific and from the Gulf of Mexico, including every variety of topography and climate," asserts the New York Sun. Excluding Alaska, there are twenty-three states and three territories containing public land, of which a total area of 473,836,402 acres still remained on June 30, 1904. It is true that of these vacant lands the great bulk throughout the west are unsuitable for cultivation under present known conditions of agriculture; they are so situated that they cannot be reclaimed by irrigation. It is estimated that more than 300,000,000 acres are public grazing land, an area approximately equal to one-fifth of the extent of the United States proper. The agricultural possibilities of great areas of the public lands are almost unknown.

Gem Teas.

Gem teas are London's latest craze. About six weeks ago Lord Crofton invited his friends to a "gem tea" at his house in Sloane street, and there have been lovely displays of old and new jewels at other houses.—The Gentlewoman.

Lawson says the "system" taxes our every motion, but a man who has played baseball for the first time in years knows that every motion taxes the system.

Herbine

Renders the bile more fluid and thus helps the blood to flow; it affords prompt relief from biliousness, indigestion, sick and nervous headaches, and over-indulgence in food and drink.

G. L. Caldwell, Agt. M. K. and T. R R. Checotah, Ind. Ter. writes, April 18, 1903: "I was sick for over two years with enlargement of the liver and spleen The doctors didme no good, and I had given up all hope of being cured, when my druggist advised me to use Herbine. It has made me sound and well." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Closing out sa

Going Out of Merchandise Bu
My Stock of General Merchan

FOR SALE AT CO

Come and Get Bargains
While the Stock Lasts

W. D. LAWRENCE
Maplesville, Ala.

A Warning to Mothers

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old fashioned castor oil and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipiency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Upchurch Drug co, Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

AFTER THE WEDDING.

"Who gave the bride away?"

"Her little brother. He stood up right in the middle of the ceremony and yelled: "Hurrah, Fanny, you've got him at last!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

IN MODERN VERSE.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"A-hunting a husband, sir," she said.
"Wouldn't I answer, my pretty maid?"
"Your money is tainted, sir," she said.

—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

FRENZIED FINANCE.

The Farmer (excitedly)—Say, Mister Constubble, I've jest bin bunkered out uv every durn cent!

The Policeman (irritably)—Well, don't holler to me, you come on. I ain't no magazine publisher.—Puck.

DISLIKED THE SUGGESTION.

Jorkins—My dear, I wish you wouldn't sing that song about "Falling Dew."

Mrs. Jorkins—Why not?

Jorkins—It reminds me too much of the house rent.—London Tit-Bits.

THE MAIN THING.

Lawyer—You can't bring suit against that man.

Client—Why not?

Lawyer—No action will lie.

Client—But my witnesses will.

STRICT.

Dressmaker—And would you have leg of mutton sleeves, madam?

Customer (trying on)—Most certainly not. I am a vegetarian!—London Punch.

When Mr. and Mrs. Delorme, of Worcester, Mass., recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary they attended mass, the choir being composed of forty-one of their grandchildren.

Trinidad has the largest sugar estate in the British West Indies, the Mandeleine, with a capacity for crushing 17,000 tons of cane daily and producing 170 tons of sugar.

KILL THE COU
AND CURE THE L
WITH Dr. King
New Disco
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Surest and Quickest Cu THROAT and LUNG
LES, or MONEY BACK

INS AND OUTS

"What's that noise" ask
tor in the apartment hou

"Probably some one that's rooms on the floor ting a tooth out," said the

"But it seems to come floor above."

"Ah! then it's probably the baby getting a tooth in."
phia Press.

NOT BAD REASO

Merchant—Say, old man ways fought shy of your cause I feared it was not
I want to take a policy wi

Agent—Why, er—I wish est with you. Surely you we've been investigated
our officials have resigned

Merchant—That's just vinced that a company survive under that gang wrecked by any earthly

Tobacco Ashes as a

As everybody knows on burning tobacco is A ton of tobacco leaf four hundred weights of represents valuable mine ents withdrawn from the have to be replaced by nuring.

On the face of it there to be a fortune in store dividual who could devise ful means for the colle bacco ash, and it is a so much valuable mate forever be lost to the any attempt at direct ing made.—London Lancet

THE PURSUIT OF THE CAL

"You are not saying the trust as you used to"

"No," answered Farmer
"There's altogether too tation for a man to keep topuses when he ought potato bugs."—Washington

The Only Way

There is no way to health and strength of body except by nourish is no way to nourish
the stomach. The stom
kept healthy, pure and strength will let down will set up. No appeti
strength, nervousness,
constipation, bad breath
ings, rifting, indigestion
and all stomach troubles
curable are quickly cured
of Kodol Dyspepsia C digests what you eat
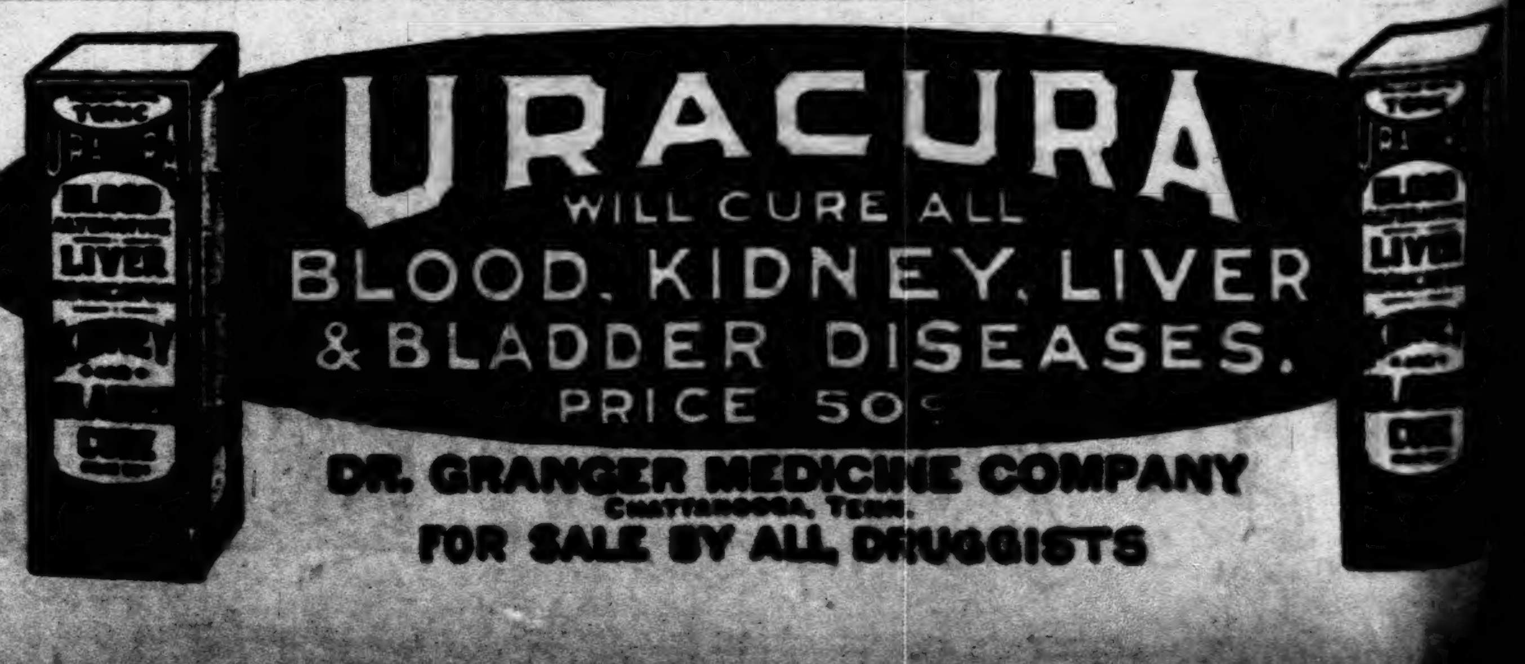
ens the whole digestive
Sold by Upchurch Drug

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.

Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root, Liver Pills.



URACURA
WILL CURE ALL
BLOOD, KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.
PRICE 50¢
DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

Judge of Probate

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1905 No 47

MAN ON THE CORNER

the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

first day of September in marks an era in the cotton the year is ended, the year The farmer who has lab all the year, through cold and now hopes to realize a just for his labor, and with re vigor proceeds to pick his The ginner, after a rest of months, has put his machinery and cheerfully again gets to work; early and late he is for all the cotton that comes. merchant, who has been cred his customers, hails with joy season when he can begin to his just debts and pay that he owes. Cotton is king, all are proud to do him homage.

season opens, in some re in great promise. The first are getting about ten cents pound for their cotton, and is good reason to believe that cents should be the minimun but it is to be hoped for more than one, that there will too much of a rush on the in the early part of the sea There is no doubt but that crop is small, reduced acreage bad season has effected that and if the farmer proceeds to his crop leisurely, he con the situation, but a rush at the time would have the effect preciating the market. Better seems the best advice.

of the happiest places it has been my good fortune to get the hospitable home of Capt. Alba at Coden by-the-Sea. Captain is a man of an ingen turn of mind, and manages to life pleasant by all sorts of vances to lesson the labor of Driving through the park the gate opens and closes of accord. Up the steps and porch, and a moving chair you to sit down, and enjoy breeze, made by its own motion. resting a few minutes the asks you to walk into the and before you know it you luxuriating in an easy chair, on the table in front of you a of-of-of-er-Coca-cola, or thing else, is phizzing and the stopper apparently come out of its volition. By time you are getting used to working automatically, and tarily you extend your arm, glass to your lips and-well- the rest, of course. Out in tiful grape arbor all sorts of and seats await you, and I believe some of them are so ted that as you lazily swing wards and forwards the grapes into your mouth. I won't for this, but it wouldn't sur me if it was so. Then the has a boatswain's locker ously arranged with every appliance for all imagina. The Captain can splice heart on the main brace, a plow or a cracked head, water from the bottom of or a drink from some other can draw a tooth, or any of fish out of the bayou- telling the end ingenious arrangements. But, he's a prince of good fel and so they all are at Coden Souci.

missioner Moses Robinson ght the lot on Sixth street Mrs. M. M. Smith, and will to erect a residence for the himself and family. Mr. son is so frequently in town that he cannot be con new comer, but Clanton to welcome him and family.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 c.

Card of Thanks.

Clanton, Sept. 5, 1905

Editor Banner—Please allow us space in your columns to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness and tender expressions of sympathy in the death of our sister. We shall never forget them.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDaniel.

Billingsley.

As we have seen nothing from here in several weeks, will try this week if you will allow space, to let you know what is going on here. But there has not been much doing only protracted meetings for quite awhile, and we hope all are benefitted. But chickens are scarce now.

The F. N. C. has not met in so long we hardly know where to begin. However, we will meet at the home of Dr. Marlar Friday evening next and all members are requeseed to attend.

We regret to say that Miss Josie Mae Marlar is with us no more, she is attending the A. N. C. at Livingston. The time will seem long, but we wish her much success.

Mr. Claud Willis left on Wednesday for Selma, where he will be at work in the future.

Miss Eula Carlisle, who has been visiting relatives here, returned to her home at Union Springs Thursday.

There is quite a lot of sickness around here now, but no yellow fever. Mr. N. J. Carter's little baby, we are sorry to say, is very sick. Also Mr. Zeke Wright's.

The F N C. members have given the money they have in the treasury to Mr. Hubert Abernathy, who intends going to Greensboro to study for the ministry. O, how bad we need other F. N. C.'s to help a good cause. Old Rose.

Mulberry.

Dear Editor: Please allow me space in the dear old Banner to say a few words about our ball game which took place the 26 inst. on Center Point ball ground between Mulberry and Center Point. The game was very interesting at the beginning but by the time that the 6th inning was played, and the Center Point boys had not scored but 2 and Mulberry about 10, the Center Point boys began to chew the rag and put in their lame made rules, but it did not do them much good, as we continued the game, which ended in a victory of 18 to 2 in favor of Mulberry.

The feature of the game was that J. J. Headley, the first man to the bat for Mulberry, batted a two bagger on the first ball thrown him by the Center Point pitcher.

A Successful Ball Player.

Cured of Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complet recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gillam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A Horn, Thorsby.

Marbury.

Mr. J. W. Day has returned after a short vacation; his many friends are glad to see him back at his desk in the office.

Rev. Lamar Jones delivered a good sermon to an attentive congregation Sunday.

The fields around Marbury are looking white; we anticipate a large crop and a good price for cotton.

Several of our neighbors attended court at Verbena Aug. 23. It was quite an interesting affair. E. F.

Get Off Cheap

He may well think, he has got off cheap, who, after having contracted constipation or indigestion, is still able to perfectly restore his health. Nothing will do this but Dr. King's New Life Pills. A quick, pleasant and certain cure for headache, constipation, etc. 25c at Upchurch Drug co. Guaranteed.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

MASONIC RESOLUTIONS

Hall of Clanton Lodge, No 423.
A. F. & A. M. Sept. 2d, 1905

To the W. M., Wardens and Brethren of Clanton Lodge, No. 423, A. F. & A. M.

We the undersigned committee appointed to draft and present resolutions upon the death of our deceased brother, Enoch A. Knight, beg leave to submit the following:

Brother Enoch Asbury Knight was born in Talladega county, near Talledega Springs, this State, in the year 1840, and departed this life at his home near Clanton on Saturday, the 29th day of July, 1905. Brother Knight was 65 years of age on the 22nd day of March, 1905. When a young man Bro. Knignt moved to Coosa county, and in 1868 moved to Chilton county. Brother Knight became a member of the Methodist Church at the age of 12 years. He faithfully served in the Confederate army during the entire Civil War.

Bro. Knight was Entered, Passed and Raised in Amand Lodge No. 250 at Coopers, and affiliated with this Lodge in 1893. He was made a Royal Arch Mason in Clanton Chapter No. 116 on April 16th, 1904. He has served in several stations in this Lodge and at the time of his death he was Tyler of his Lodge and Sentinel of his Chapter. He was a zealous Mason and an honest and upright man.

Bro. Knight was buried with full Masonic honors at New Salem Church, on Sunday the 30th, day of July, 1905.

Therefore be it resolved, by this Lodge, that we extend to the family of our deceased brother our earnest and heartfelt sympathy in the irreparable loss which they have sustained.

Be it further resolved that Clanton Lodge has lost one of its most consistent and valuable members, and that we deeply deplore his sudden and unexpected death, and that Clanton Lodge will always remember with pleasure his regular attendance upon his Lodge and his affable and genial manners.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of our deceased brother, and also publishedin our county papers. Respectfully submitted,

Wallace C. Edler
J. P. VanDerveer
E. A. Matthews

A Remedy Without a Peer.

"I find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets more beneficial than any other remedy I ever used for stomach trouble," says J. P. Klote, of Edma, Mo. For any disorder of the stomach, biliousness or constipation, these tablets are without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Kissing is unhealthy—if her father catches you.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
Thorsby, Ala.

Thorsby.

Rev. Moses is in Thorsby for a few days.

Collins Chapel base ball team challeged Thorsby team Aug. 26. Latter won by 15 to 8.

Rev. Clark preached Sunday morning at college hall,

Rev. Hartelius preached in English at Swedish church the evening of Aug. 27.

Miss Jessie May Louis and Mrs. Ruffin and children are visiting at the Stanley home.

The many friends of Miss Dora Thorson are glad to hear she is improving.

Miss Freda Turnquist has been in Thorsby for a few days.

The Norwegian Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Martin Peterson Aug. 24.

Thorsby people prepared a reception the evening of Sept. 2d, at Thorsby Inn for Mr. and Mrs. Barrett.

We are sorry to hear that our Postmaster is on the sick list.

Mr. Bosworth of Birmingham has been visiting his father in Thorsby.

Mr. S. E. Norton is making a prolonged stay in the North.

The "Berlin villa" near Strasburg is rapidly nearing completion, We are glad to welcome our new German (?) neighbors.

The cotton gin is being removed to Thorsby.

Another acquisition is the fine residence on the Franzen farm.

Mr. John Sampson of Birmingham is sojourning in Thorsby.

The numerous readers of the Clanton Banner will be glad to know "Richard is himself again."

Citizen.

No Unpleasant Effects

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for billiousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. Justice of the Peace, Adam Shook, New Libson, Ind., says: "Some three years ago I had a spell of grip and felt outdone and I happened to get a trial box of DeWitt's Little Early Risers and they gave me strength and muscle." They do not gripe or made you feel sick, Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Some men have a gallons of words to every spoonful of thoughts.

WANTED.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land Portion of rents permitted o go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

PA AMA HATS cleaned and pressed for 50 cents. Mrs. S. J. Watts, Duke House, Clanton.

THE JERSEY BULL.—Mona's Lowland King No. 68,780; Dam Mona's Addie No. 163,371; Sire Lowland King No. 58,894. Bred by M. C. Campbell, Spring Hill, Tenn. Will make the season 1905 at the farm of P. T. Hinkle, Clanto, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

A GURANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggist refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure any case, no matter of how long standing, 6 to 14 days. First supplication gives ease and rest. 50c. If your druggist hasn't it send 50c in stamps and it will be forwarded post paid by Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mc.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

A. O. Smith J. O. Middleton
SMITH & MIDDLETON
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
Office n Smith Buildingopposite Courthouse
CLANTON - - ALA

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

Fourth District Agricultural School
SYLACAUGA, ALA.

Competent and experienced instrucjors. Scientific and Agricultural Courses. Thorough preparation for College. Beautiful and well arranged buildings and grounds.
Next Session begins Tuesday, September 12th.
For further information and catalogue, address,
T. C. MOORE, President.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL
JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

A School For Teachers.

Enrollment 436 last session from 52 counties of Alabama. Prepares for State Examination. Board $10,00 per month. Tuition free. High and healthful location. Twenty-third session begins September 19, 1905. For catalogue, address,
C. W. DAUGETTE, President.

Send for Catalogue of the
FIFTH DISTRICT AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL
WETUMPKA, ALA.

CATALOGUE FREE. SCHOOL FREE.
TEN TEACHERS—FOUR MEN, SIX WOMEN.
OPENS SEPT. 12. NINE MONTHS. 328 LAST SESSION.
H. J. WILLINGHAM, President.

Alabama Girls' Industrial School
MONTEVALLO, ALA.
Rev. Francis M. Peterson, A. M., D. D., President.

Academic Pedagogical Scientific Commercial Industrial Domestic Musical Artistic	Session begins Thursday, Sept. 14. Tuition Free; Living expenses $80.00 per session. For information address President.

ATHENS FEMALE COLLEGE
ATHENS, ALA.
Owned and Controlled by the North Alabama Conference. Founded [illegible].

We offer the advantages of a full collegiate course in the Departments of Mathematics, Languages, Science and Literature under competent [illegible]. The college building is handsome and commodious, with steam heat, [illegible] lights and enameled baths, while ten thousand dollars appropriated at the [illegible] session of the North Alabama Conference will be expended this summer [illegible] improving the equipment and in increasing the capacity of the dormitories.
Special advantages offered in Music and Fine Arts.
The health record of the college is absolutely unsurpassed. The [illegible] capacity of the institution is limited to one hundred students, and those [illegible] to enter should apply early. Catalogue sent on application.
MARY NORMAN MOORE, President,
(P. O. Drawer [illegible]) Athens, Ala.

THE CLANTON BANK
CLANTON, ALA.
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

Killed by a King.

Honolulu.—While in Honolulu this week E. H. Harriman, the railway magnate, made inquiries regarding one Charles Neilson, who was shot by King Kamehameha, the Fifth, and was an uncle of Harriman. The railway man expressed himself as anxious to meet some one who had known Neilson and tell about him, but no such person was found.

The killing is referred to in Hawaiian histories. It took place in Leahaina in 1859. Neilson was secretary to the king, and the latter, who was a heavy drinker, conceived the idea that the secretary was in too high favor with the queen.

While under the influence of liquor he shot Neilson, inflicting wounds which eventually proved fatal. The tragedy is stated to have so weighed on the king's mind that he was never the same and offered to abdicate and died soon afterward.

A Reported Dead Man Is Alive.

Rome, Ga.—The dispatches from New Orleans Thursday night stated that George Clement, of Rome, United States vice-consul at Puerto Cortez, died there a few days ago of yellow fever. Consul Clement is not dead, but is here visiting his parents and is well and hearty. Mr. Clement said the story must have grown out of the fact that his brother, Clifton Clement, died there in May last. Mr. Clement has leave of absence till fall, when he will return to his post in South America.

Delightful Detention Camp.

Dallas, Tex.—A novelty in the way of a detention camp has been put into effect by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway at the Red river bridge near Denison. The camp consists of two chair cars, run on spur tracks, in charge of a chair car porter, a kitchen car with an expert cook, a dining car and a caboose fitted up with a bath tub and supplied with soap and towels. Ice is supplied, and every luxury of modern travel has been supplied. Water is furnished by a private water car.

This action of the railway was taken in order to promote the comfort of those who might have been taken off trains, and none but its own passengers will be allowed the use of the camp.

Casualties in a Wreck.

Augusta, Ga.—City Policeman F. J. Murphy, acting as quarantine officer, was killed; Flagman George J. Lott so badly injured that he died at the hospital shortly after, and three others were slightly injured in a wreck of a Southern Railway train on its way to Charleston within the city limits here on Wednesday.

Indebtedness Is Paid.

New York.—The announcement was made on Thursday by the officers of the Equitable Life Assurance Society that the indebtedness to the society of the Depew Improvement Company was paid Thursday afternoon, the principal and interest amounting to $293,850.82. The correspondence incident to the transaction was also, at the suggestion of President Paul Morton, made public, to the end, Mr. Morton said, that an impression unjust to Senator Chauncey M. Depew might be removed.

Arm Broken.

Gadsden, Ala.—Josephine Johnson, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Johnson, had the misfortune to fall and break her arm Thursday afternoon while playing in the yard of her parents' home on Fifth street. While playing she fell and struck her arm on a brick, breaking it between the wrist and elbow.

Requisition for Varbel.

Bristol, Va.—A requisition was issued at Richmond Thursday on the governor of New Jersey for the delivery of Pearl Varbel. Varbel is the man who confessed to the murder of Joseph Gentry at Gate City, Ga., January 19 last. Varbel fled and confessed his crime to a New Jersey farmer. He is now in jail at Woodbury, N. J.

Condemned Man Saved.

Tallahassee, Fla.—At a meeting of the state board of pardons the death warrant for the execution of Isaiah Cooper was withdrawn and the sheriff of DeSoto county was instructed to hold Cooper in custody until further directions.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company has begun making soundings for its mines at Mary Lee, in this county, looking to sinking a shaft to the Black Creek vein, which is supposed to be 200 feet under the present mine. In other words, it is intended to sink a mine under the present mine. The present seam of coal being worked is known as the New Castle seam and is a fine quality of coking coal. It is proposed, if the scheme can be worked, to bring out the coal from the Black Creek seam to the mine and handle it through the present opening. This is the first mine of the kind ever opened in the state, and the progress is being watched closely.

ALABAMA NEWS.

Current Events Gathered as They Happen.

A Shooting Scrape.

Selma, Ala.—On Thursday afternoon in the southern part of the city across the railroad, there took place a shooting scrape between Pearle Tate and Jesse Moore, negro boys, and Clifford Jenkins, a white boy.

Jenkins drives a delivery wagon for a soda water factory, and a few days ago he was annoyed by several negro boys. Thursday when he made his rounds he carried a pistol with him, and when he drove up to the store where he had the previous difficulty, the two negro boys were waiting for him. A quarrel ensued between Jenkins and Moore, and Jenkins pulled his pistol and shot Moore, inflicting a painful, but not dangerous, wound.

Pearle Tate, the other negro boy, then pulled his pistol and began shooting at Jenkins. One of the balls entered Jenkins's right thigh and another the calf of his right leg. Neither wound is serious. After shooting Jenkin,s Tate made his escape.

The new quarantine regulations were extended so as to cover the entire state of Mississippi, with the exception of Meridian and points between that city and Selma, on the Southern railway. Quarantine was established against Natchez a few days ago when the fever broke out in that place, but as the fever is spreading so rapidly it was thought best to place the entire state of Mississippi, with the exception of Meridian and intermediate points, under the ban.

Memphiss, Tenn., was also placed under the ban, and no one from that city will be allowed in Selma unless he can exhibit a health certificate which proves that he has been away from there at least five days. A strict quarantine has also been established against Pensacola and no one from that city will be llowed to come direct to Selma. These stringent quarantine regulations are being established in the hope that the plague will not spread to this city.

Row at Madison Park.

Montgomery, Ala.—Ed Jones, a negro from Autauga county, is in the Montgomery county jail charged with attempting to commit murder at Madison Park, eight miles from the city, late Tuesday night.

It is said the wife of Jones left him in Autauga county and went to live with her father, Louis Phillips, at Madison Park. Jones came to Montgomery Tuesday and went out to Madison Park late that night and engaged in a fight with Phillips. When he fired his pistol Phillips rushed in on him and the wife of Phillips struck him down with a heavy piece of wood. The Phillips family securely bound him with a rope and brought him to Montgomery.

As the negroes came into Montgomery with Jones he escaped from them. They reported his escape to police headquarters and Patrolmen Avant and Cantey soon had Jones under arrest. He was locked up at police headquarters about 2:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Yesterday Jones was committed to the county jail to await a preliminary hearing before Justice M. H. Screws.

Sudden Death.

Selma, Ala.—Thursday morning shortly before 7 o'clock at his home on Mabry street the body of P. H. Norris, one of this city's best known citizens, was found cold in death lying on his bed. The wife of the deceased had gone into his room to awake him for his breakfast and after calling him repeatedly she went over to the bed to shake her husband when she discovered that while he slept the angel of death had come. He had evidently been dead about two hours when discovered, as his body was perfectly rigid and cold.

Second Mule Market.

Montgomery, Ala.—Montgomery, the south's second mule market, finds its market for mules and live stock throughout Alabama, parts of Georgia, Mississippi, Florida, and not a few have been shipped to the West Indies. Between 8,000 and 9,000 of the long-eared animals were sold by Montgomery dealers in live stock during the past year.

Thieves Captured.

Huntsville, Ala.—A telephone message from Scottsboro announces the capture of the negro man and woman who assaulted and robbed J. T. O'Neal, a prominent planter, near Huntsville, a few days ago. The prisoners will be brought here at once. The man and woman assaulted Mr. Neal while he was alone in his peach orchard and he had to make a desperate fight to keep from being slashed up with a razor in the man's hands. The couple took $45 out of Mr. Neal's pockets.

Troy, Ala.—News was received here Friday of a serious cutting affray in Josie beat, this county. Henry Reeves and Walter Townsend in a fight used knives on each other, and both were seriously carved. It required twenty or more stitches to sew up the wounds inflicted upon Townsend and about a half dozen to sew up those of Reeves. The cause of the difficulty has not been learned.

Barbecue at Mt. Zion.

Decatur, Ala.—One of the biggest barbecues ever given in this section of the State took place at Mt. Zion, this county, about ten miles west of here, Thursday. The barbecue was given by the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, and was attended by fully 2,000 people. About 150 people attended from the Decaturs.

During the day several speeches were made by prominent men of the state on vital questions affecting the people one way or the other. The first speaker was State Senator S. A. Lynne, who spoke on the subject of "Education and the Junior O. U. A. M." His speech was well received. Hon. B. B. Comer, chairman of the State Railroad Commission, addressed the vast audience on the subject of "The Resources of the State Education and the Junior Order." Mr. Comer did not say that he would be a candidate for governor, but he intimated as much in the course of his remarks.

Enforces Quarantine.

Demopolis, Ala.—On Thursday morning the board of mayor and council held a meeting and settled the differences existing between that body and the board of health since Quarantine Officer G. G. Griffin was removed from the trains without the appointment of a substitute, and it was ordered that an officer be at once put on the trains, Carney Devlin being appointed to the place. An ordinance was passed placing a rigid quarantine against Mississippi—Meridian excepted — Louisiana, Pensacola, and all infected sections. It was also ordered that, in addition to a certificate from a health officer, a certificate from the mayor or a justice of the peace will be required for parties coming to Demopolis.

Selma-Raised English Walnuts.

Selma, Ala.—C. W. Harrison, a well-known negro, presented Thursday to a number of citizens some English walnuts that he had raised at his home at 203 St. Phillip street. The walnuts are above the average size of those purchased in stores and have a good taste.

The tree, which is a young one, is bearing a good crop this year, but as it grows older the output will be greater. The tree grows without much trouble and in a few years there will be a number of such trees bearing fruit in and around Selma.

Election Ordered.

Greenville, Ala.—At a recent meeting of the commissioners of the county, an election was ordered to take place on the 9th of October to vote on levying a school tax. There is scarcely a doubt that the tax will be levied and Butler county added to the long column of counties which are endeavoring to eliminate illiteracy.

Will Outline His Platform.

Montgomery, Ala.—Lieutenant Governor R. M. Cunningham spent Thursday in Montgomery. He took occasion to tell the newspaper men who asked him about politics that in a short while he would make a public address in which he would declare his principles and outline his platform in his race for Governor of Alabama.

Close of Year.

Montgomery, Ala.—Another business year began Friday. It is natural for those who live in the cotton region to date their commercial year from September 1, when the great staple is fairly making its way to market. Very little cotton reaches Montgomery during the month of August, but for several months to come the weekly receipts here will be heavy.

The prospect of a very large yield of cotton in the Montgomery territory proper was very flattering until about one month ago. Since then a number of causes have operated to cut off expectations and no one now expects receipts for the current year to equal those of the year which expired last night.

Huntsville Celebrates.

Huntsville, Ala.—At the weekly prayer service of the Dallas Avenue Baptist church the advent of peace and the end of the bloody and destructive war between Russia and Japan was celebrated. Rev. H. E. Rice, the pastor, read appropriate quotations from the scriptures bearing on the subject and R. E. Pettus made an address relative to the peace terms.

Citizens at Work.

Montgomery, Ala.—The special sanitary committee, composed of the aldermen of the city and twenty-one citizens, organized Thursday night in the council chamber and started out to do something to prevent yellow fever from reaching Montgomery.

Russian Settlers.

Panama.—Fifty Russian families left Panama Thursday afternoon for Chiriqui. Arrangements have been made by which the same number of Russian families will be settled every month in different portions of the republic. The government gives each family $500 and thirty acres of land.

Cullman, Ala.—Judge John A. Johnson, widely known as the oldest editor in the state of Alabama, died at his residence Thursday.

Havana, Cuba.—President Palma on Friday signed the bill passed by the house July 21 and by the senate August 12 for the liquidation of the remaining half of the revolutionary soldiers' pay.

YELLOW FEVER NEWS.

The Latest Reports From the Infected District.

New Orleans.—The fever situation at 6 p. m. Monday was as follows: New cases, 55; total cases to date, 2,070; deaths, 5; total deaths to date, 292; new foci, 16; cases under treatment, 318; discharged, 1,469.

The number of new cases reported today is such a jump from the daily reports of the past week that it naturally causes some comment, but it is accounted for by the fact that several physicians whose names had not appeared on the list very frequently heretofore were all there today. The arrest and confinement of Dr. Berge on account of failing to report three cases is believed to have had its effect on others who were only reporting severe cases with the result that not only all cases of yellow fever were reported, but many cases which were distinctly not yellow fever were put on the suspicious list.

Outside Cases.

Reports from the country showed that the physicians there were busy also. Dr. Brady, the medical inspector of the state board, reported that many country physicians were not reporting mild cases of yellow fever, and he urged the state board to take action by urging them to report all cases, and not wait for black vomit or marked jaundice to form a diagnosis.

Following are the reports:

Patterson—Nine cases; one death on Waveland plantation.

Lake Providence—Three cases, one death.

St. Bernard Parish—One case near Slaughter house.

Jefferson Parish—Kenner, three cases, two deaths.

Hanson City—Four cases.

McDonoghville—Three cases; Clark Cheniere, two deaths.

Terre Bonne Parish—Moise settlement, five cases; Bell grove, four cases; Aerdoyne, one case; Crescent farm, four cases; Bayou Terre Bonne, one case.

St. Rose—Seven cases.

Pecan Grove—Two cases.

Prospect plantation—One case.

La Place—St. John, seven cases last report.

Amelia—Eight new cases; Boeuf, two new cases.

Gulfport, Miss.—Five new cases.

Mississippi City—Two new cases.

Vicksburg—Two new cases.

Dr. Souchon received a report from Dr. Tabor of a suspicious case at Louisville, in the northern part of Caddo parish, and Dr. Schumpert, the health officer of Shreveport, is investigating.

New Causes Contribute.

New causes contributed to an increase in the number of new cases Monday. One was the fact that there is never a complete clean-up of cases on Sunday, leaving some to find their way into the Monday list, and the other was the arrest and incarceration of Dr. Philip Berge, a physician of standing, on a charge of having failed to report two Chartres street cases.

Dr. Berge was taken from his house about midnight on Saturday, on his return from his day's work, and was not paroled until Sunday afternoon, spending fourteen hours in a cell. Rather than undergo a similar experience physicians were particularly prompt today in reporting cases, seventeen of them appearing in person early in the day at Dr. White's office. Not all of the cases reported are likely to develop actually into yellow fever, but the doctors have evidently decided to err on the side of excessive caution, if they err at all. Dr. Berge, in the meantime, insists that his failure to get his information to Dr. White's office was unintentional. He communicated it to the emergency hospital. When arraigned today the doctor was released on a nominal bond.

Opposed to Moving Day.

Dr. White and the advisory committee of the New Orleans Medical Society today sent a letter to the mayor in connection with the near approach of "moving day," October 3, and urge that the general movement be postponed thirty days on account of the danger of infection.

Many View Labor Day Parade.

The hopefulness of the situation among the public at large was manifested in the large crowds which viewed the labor parade Monday.

An immense picnic followed the parade. Much of the enthusiasm was due to the fact that the situation is now believed to be well in hand.

Hereafter no patients will be sent to the old hospital, and those there now and able to be moved will be taken to the new.

The announcement that Mobile had raised the quarantine against Atlanta and that Mississippi would impose none gave satisfaction here. Numbers of New Orleans people have relatives in Mobile or along the gulf coast, and they have been undergoing detention at Atlanta in order to reach these points. Quarantine against Atlanta would have stopped them from doing so in the future.

Entire Health Board Has Resigned.

Marksville, La.—On account of some difference between the town council of Marksville and the town board of health, the entire board of health has resigned. The district attorney has filed twelve bills of information; seven were against parties charged with operating blind tigers in the parish. After a recess of two months, court will open on next Monday, when these cases will come up for trial.

Spreading Along Gulf Coast.

Jackson, Miss.—Yellow fever is spreading steadily along the gulf coast. Five new cases were reported from Gulfport and two from Mississippi City Monday night.

Precautions Redoubled in Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga.—J. C. Caruthers, who arrived from Pensacola last Friday, and who was removed to the detention hospital with a well-developed case of yellow fever, was reported Monday to be improving satisfactorily. No other arrivals with fever have been reported, and with the precautions that have been redoubled since Caruthers arrived, no more are expected. The quarantine against Atlanta, which was announced by several cities, has been removed in all but one or two instances.

The promised issue between the city, county and state board officials has not materialized, and since the refusal of Atlanta to quarantine against infected points, it does not appear likely that an attempt will be made by the state board to override this decision.

Seven Cases in Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, Miss.—Up to 6 o'clock Monday evening two new cases of yellow fever had been reported, making a total of seven. Three patients were discharged. Both new cases are white, living in widely separated localities.

Natchez Greatly Encouraged.

Natchez, Miss.—With only four cases of yellow fever to report Monday Dr. Lavinder feels greatly encouraged over the local situation.

Assistant Surgeon General Goldberger has reported to the Washingtno medical authorities that there are no cases of yellow fever in Memphis.

Four new cases of yellow fever developed in Pensacola on Monday.

Marion College to Open.

Marion, Ala.—The educational activity of Marion will be resumed next Thursday, the 7th, by the opening of the session of the Marion Military Institute. The public school, the Judson and the seminary will soon open their doors also. The expectation of all the schools is for the largest attendance in their history. The Marion Military institute has increased its power of accommodation during the summer by the addition of a new building and home, which will be occupied by Prof. and Mrs. Kellogg, and students who are taking classical studies more largely. Prof. and Mrs. Kellogg will arrive from Michigan Monday. The appointment of Prof. C. C. Johnson, principal of the public school, to the office of county superintendent has met with universal approval. The work of the county board will be greatly aided by the appointment of such an efficient teacher and executive to this important post.

To Rejuvenate Commercial Club.

Jasper, Ala.—A very enthusiastic meeting of the Commercial Club was held Friday night. The meeting was well attended and it was decided to incorporate the club and issue stock to the different members. L. B. Musgrove has promised a donation of $100, provided the remainder of the club's indebtedness can be raised, and it is now certain that the expense of fitting up the rooms will be met at an early date. All the members were delighted with the results of the meeting, and it is now thought that the club will take on new life and become active in the development of Jasper and the Jasper district.

Objects to Rural Carriers.

Huntsville, Ala.—From Marshall county comes news of the arrest of C. J. Matthews, an aged countryman, who is opposed to the rural free delivery system, on a charge of obstructing the roads along a rural mail route. In his trial before a commissioner, the old man admitted that he had cut down trees to prevent the passage of the mail man. He was placed under bond of $1,000 to appear before the next federal grand jury in Huntsville.

Severe Storm in Florence.

Florence, Ala.—Florence was visited by a severe thunder storm shortly after noon Saturday, rain falling in torrents for about two hours. An electric car on the Sheffield line was struck by lightning, but none of the passengers were hurt. Two ladies who attempted to use telephones were knocked down by the lightning, but neither was severely injured.

New Iberia, La.—The picking of the cotton crop throughout this parish will soon be inaugurated generally, and in view of the fact that the crop is short more than 25 per cent the picking season will consequently be short. The prospects so far are that there will be a shortage of labor.

Preparations are being made for the opening of the private schools of the city, some of which will begin the 1905-'06 session on Monday next, September 4th.

LETTER OF MRS. DEW

Wife of Admiral Returns ... Flag.

Montgomery, Ala.—Proba more cordial sentiment has with by Dr. Thomas M. Owe tor of the State Depart Archives and History, in his to gather old Confederate than in receiving on Thursd ter from Mrs. George Dewe the American Admiral, honored bunting of the Infantry Regiment. Th in the National Museum ton.

Dr. Owen some time ago where the flag was and made ciate application for its return Department of Alabama of whi is the head. At this time quest, while not considered Secretary S. P. Langley, of Smithsonian Institution, was considered out of order. Hopes ting it, however, were revived last session of Congress when bill was passed providing for turn of captured flags in the Department to the States where belonged. Dr. Owen renewed tions with Secretary Langley the passage of this act and the entered into the spirit enter Congress in such matters ingly he wrote Dr. Owen that he be willing to return the flag institution owned it, but such the case as it had been from John McLean Hazen, the General William B. Hazen, command captured it at Knob.

John Hazen was not alive General Hazen, his father, but learned that the ownership of was vested in Mrs. George Dew widow of General Hazen. Dr. communicated with her at once received her ready consent return of the flag to the Alaba partment. Here is the letter which Dr. Owen received yeste

"Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 2

"Thomas M. Owen, Esq.,

"Director of Department of A and History.

"My Dear Sir:

"It will give me pleasure to Alabama the flag of the 28th ment. I feel nothing but kin the South who have shown will and friendship to Admiral and me.

"I ask that it shall be said is returned by John McLean mother. I enclose the order return.

"I am very sincerely,

"MILDRED DEW

Dr. Owen feels certain the consent of Mrs. Dewey be no further difficulties in hold of the 28th Alabama

The Department also has a handsome photograph of a picture of Colonel W. A. Johns was in command of Colonel Roddy's 4th Alabama Cavalry ment. The photograph was to the Department on request Johnson, widow of the Colonel will be hung with the other and pictures in the gallery.

Great Step for Reform

St. Petersburg.—The recep the new national assembly du first days after the issuance Emperor's manifesto calling sembly, was given more of ble criticism than of praise, Russian press through ignora a far less favorable view of institution than did the foreign papers.

The value of the assembly, tent of its powers and the forward it marks in the path form are now becoming recognized throughout the em flood of addresses of thanks in from all classes and from gions, the city doumas leading the urban population was have been placed at a consider advantage compared to the and the nobility under the arrangement. A number of have coupled their addresses quests for freedom of speech the press, but only in a few addresses rejected.

Bank President Found Gu

Denver, Colo.—E. M. Johns ident of the defunct Fidelity association, which failed about ago owing over a million dolla found guilty by a jury today ing and publishing a false the financial condition of the tion. His attorneys argued for a new trial and should fused, the case will probably ried to the supreme court cation for a writ of superseden son may be sentenced to from ten years' imprisonment. his third trial, the having ended in disagreement jury.

Found in the ranks of Londo cab horses and purchased fine old animal, Lottery, I

Logtown Quarantines

Logtown, Miss.—A was held Friday night of this place and vicinity resolved that quarantine be agains: the town of Guards were placed at 12 urday, and a strict quaran maintained so long as sary.

There is a growing d for pianos.

le have rela
the gulf undergoing der to reach against At them from Coast. fever is the gulf ere reported from Missis

n Atlanta.
uthers, who last Friday,
the detenill-developed as reported atisfactorily r have been precautions since Ca-are expect nst Atlanta, by several in all but tween the ard officials since the quarantine it does not ttempt will ard to over-

sburg.
o 6 o'clock cases of yel-ted, making atients were cases are eparated lo-

uraged.
only four ort Monday encouraged

al Goldber-Washingtno
here are no Memphis.
a fever de-Monday.

Open.
ational ac-sumed next opening of Military In-l, the Judsoon open pectation of largest at-
The Marion
creased its during the
of a new will be oc-Kellogg, and classical and Mrs.
Michigan
of Prof.
the public unty super-niversal ap-the county
by the apcient teach-important

cial Club. enthusiastic l Club was meeting was decided to issue stock L. B. Musonation of der of the raised, and expense of be met at mbers were of the meet-ht that the life and be-lopment of rict.

rriers.
Marshall arrest of countryman, al free deof obstruct-mail route,
mmissioner,
he had cut
he passage placed un-pear before y in Hunts-rence.

was visit-orm shortly alling in tor-
An elec-line was none of the ladies who ones were htning, but ed.

cking of the this parish generally, at the crop er cent the equently be far are that f labor.
made for the ools of the begin the next, Sep-

LETTER OF MRS. DEWEY

Wife of Admiral Returns an Ala Flag.

Montgomery, Ala.—Probably more cordial sentiment has with by Dr. Thomas M. Owen, tor of the State Depart Archives and History, in his to gather old Confederate batt than in receiving on Thursday ter from Mrs. George Dewey the American Admiral, honored bunting of the 28th Ala Infantry Regiment. This flag in the National Museum at Washington.

Dr. Owen some time ago where the flag was and made diate application for its return to Department of Alabama of which is the head. At this time the quest, while not considered, about Secretary S. P. Langley, of Smithsonian Institution, was considered out of order. Hopes of ting it, however, were revived at last session of Congress when bill was passed providing for the turn of captured flags in the Department to the States where belonged. Dr. Owen renewed tions with Secretary Langsley the passage of this act and the entered into the spirit entertained Congress in such matters. Accordingly he wrote Dr. Owen that he be willing to return the flag if institution owned it, but such was the case as it had been borrowed from John McLean Hazen, the General William B. Hazen, command captured it at Orchard Knob.

John Hazen was not alive nor General Hazen, his father, but it learned that the ownership of the was vested in Mrs. George Dewey, widow of General Hazen. Dr. Owen communicated with her at once received her ready consent for return of the flag to the Alabama partment. Here is the letter from which Dr. Owen received yesterday:

"Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 29, 190
"Thomas M. Owen, Esq.,
"Director of Department of Archives and History.
"My Dear Sir:

"It will give me pleasure to re to Alabama the flag of the 28th ment. I feel nothing but kindness the South who have shown only will and friendship to Admiral Dewey and me.

"I ask that it shall be said the is returned by John McLean Ha mother. I enclose the order for return.

"I am very sincerely,
"MILDRED DEWEY."

Dr. Owen feels certain that the consent of Mrs. Dewey there be no further difficulties in get hold of the 28th Alabama pennant.

The Department also has rece a handsome photograph of a fa picture of Colonel W. A. Johnson, was in command of Colonel Phil Roddy's 4th Alabama Cavalry ment. The photograph was pres to the Department on request of Johnson, widow of the Colonel, will be hung with the other pai and pictures in the gallery.

Great Step for Reform.

St. Petersburg.—The reception the new national assembly during first days after the issuance of Emporor's manifesto calling the sembly, was given more of unfa ble criticism than of praise, and Russian press through ignorance a far less favorable view of the institution than did the foreign papers.

The value of the assembly, the tent of its powers and the long forward it marks in the path of form are now becoming gen recognized throughout the empire, flood of addresses of thanks is co in from all classes and from all gions, the city doumas leading, the the urban population was suppo have been placed at a considerable advantage compared to the peas and the nobility under the elec arrangement. A number of dou have coupled their addresses with quests for freedom of speech and the press, but only in a few cities addresses rejected.

Bank President Found Guilty.

Denver, Colo.—E. M. Johnson, ident of the defunct Fidelity Sa association, which failed about a ago owing over a million dollars, found guilty by a jury today of ing and publishing a false re the financial condition of the tion. His attorneys argued a for a new trial and should this fused, the case will probably be ried to the supreme court on an cation for a writ of supersedeas, son may be sentenced to from ten years' imprisonment. This his third trial, the two former having ended in disagreement jury.

Found in the ranks of London cab horses and purchased for fine old animal, Lottery, I

Logtown Quarantines Pen

Logtown, Miss.—A mass was held Friday night by the of this place and vicinity, and resolved that quarantine be against the town of Pe Guards were placed at 12 o urday, and a strict quaran maintained so long as d ary.

There is a growing d for places.

THE SOLID MAN OF BUSINESS.

The solid old man of business sits in his chair in his downtown office;
And he's prone to inquire,
In this good old empire,
How his boy is doing at college,
As he sees in the lines of his "Post" and his "Times"
The growth of a new,
And he doubts not true,
New-fangled athletic knowledge.

The solid old man of business growls in his chair in his downtown office;
And his temper grows sore,
As he ponders the more [illegible] has read in the papers
[illegible] match and the baseball
[illegible] unusual stew [illegible] on by the crew,
And other capers.

The sage old man takes a notion to leave his chair in his downtown office.
With a curt "Short trip!"
He packs up his grip.
And a train he takes for the college,
Then he wants his "Times" for a baseball date,
And he chuckles a bit
When he finds he has hit
Just the time for acquiring knowledge.

This clever old man to the ball ground drives. In the grand stand soon he's sitting
And glancing down,
With a sinister frown,
Toward the uniformed boys on the bases,
He knows not the game, but his neighbor
does.
And insisting to tell,
The youth knows him well,
Naming over the brown young faces.

But the dark old man only frowns the more as the game goes through eight innings,
And only one more
Remains, while the score
Brings ten innings close into vision;
For the visiting nine goes out "one, two, three,"
And also "one, two,"
Of the side in blue,
And the third takes up his position.

The solid old man of business gives a start as of recognition
At his neighbor's cry,
"Now, hit it, Si!"
And the batsman swings all his muscle—
What a cheer goes up as the ball shoots out,
And far over the head
Of the fielder in red
It sails, while above all the noise and bustle.

A wild old man of business yells as he leaps on his bench in the grand stand—
"Hooray! hi! yi!
A home run, Si!
I tell you that that youngster's mine,
sir!
Silas W. Brown—I'm S. Withington
I'll give him a dinner,
That fine, young sinner—
Yes, him and all of his nine, sir!"

—Walter Camp, in St. Nicholas.
Brown—

The Day of the Tortoise.

By
Carroll Watson Rankin.

Without much mental effort Mrs. Fraser had named her first three babies May, Augusta and Julia, for the months in which they were born; but she had found herself to take some little thought before the fourth child whose birthday happened to be November 30th, could be christened. She had risen to the occasion, however, and little number four became Novenda, which, being interpreted, means in Fraser language the end of November.

By the time Novenda, who heartily disliked her name, was seventeen, the adjective most frequently applied to her was the word "slow."

No one meant that the girl was stupid, for her brain was active enough, but in every movement of her body she was so deliberate, so exasperatingly leisurely that her own particular adjective stood greatly in danger of becoming overworked. Whatever she did with her patient, painstaking fingers was beautifully done, when it was done, but in all her movements everybody agreed that Novenda was as slow as the coming of spring.

All attempts to hurry her were futile. When she was sent up-stairs for a fresh handkerchief for her tired, ponderous father, perhaps some fifteen minutes later he would be heard to growl, "Novenda, are you hemstitching that handkerchief?"

When she made pineapple-ice the occasion was always spoken of as "Novenda's day in the cellar." When she happened to be the first to begin reading the new book, the rest of the Frasers sat about and groaned because the volume was likely to become last year's literature before the slow-going reader reached the final chapter. But no way of accelerating Novenda was ever discovered.

To be sure, the delayed handkerchief, when it finally arrived, would be free from the holes that the laundress always so artfully concealed by careful folding; the ice, when finished, would be the best possible; and six months later, when the others had forgotten that such a book had ever been written, Novenda—provided one gave her time—could recall all the intricacies of the plot, describe even the least significant of the minor characters, and reproduce the setting, down to small details.

All this, however, did not quite compensate the long-suffering family for the inconvenience of waiting for Novenda to get things finished. Particularly to Julia, whose fingers flew with most lightning-like celerity, was Novenda a sore trial; and all partnerships between the two were pretty sure to lack harmony.

When Mr. Fraser's trusted clerk speculated in copper, when all the capital so sorely needed in the business went to pay margins and finally vanished completely, and when Mr. Fraser went home one noon, leaving about everything he owned in the hands of a receiver, the hitherto idle family, instead of repining, turned with unexpected cheerfulness to the prospect of bettering the situation.

For many years it had been the custom of the family to go for a day's outing to the vast berry fields lying a dozen miles south of their little city. The Fraser children had often said, laughingly, that if they ever needed money they would take to berry-picking as a profession, because the work was so pleasant and the profit so large.

Side by side in the morning paper stood two fateful items. One announced Mr. Fraser's failure, the other stated that the berry-train would make its first trip for the season the following [illegible].

To the enthusiastic young Frasers the coincidence seemed absolutely providential.

Armed with baskets and their mother's permission, and clad in their simplest gowns, the four Fraser girls promptly purchased round-trip tickets for the berry-fields and courageously boarded the anything but palatial train.

One day of the berry business proved more than sufficient for May, who was overfastidious and not overstrong. Before the end of the week, however, she had obtained a good position in an office and was filling it satisfactorily. Augusta, too, had found employment.

But quick-fingered, impetuous Julia and slow-going, overcareful Novenda remained faithful to the berry fields; and Mrs. Fraser encouraged them because the outdoor life was doing wonders for their hitherto insufficient appetites and pallid cheeks.

The pickers were all women, girls or young boys, unpolished in their ways, perhaps, but safe enough as travelling companions; and all, seemingly, were moved by the one mercenary motive, to pick as many berries as possible in the shortest time. The berries were sold afterward to the regular shipper, who was always to be found on the home-going train.

Both girls enjoyed their days in the open. There was an enchantment about the berry plains to be found nowhere else. The sandy soil was carpeted with a thick, cushiony, crisp white moss, or lichen, that crunched pleasantly under one's feet in dry weather. The wind, sweeping westward from the lake or eastward from the balsam-covered hills, was fragant, invigorating and uplifting. Almost the only trees were scattered evergreens, vividly green at the tips with new growth, and there were berries everywhere. The rainy spring had worked wonders for the berry-fields and the crop was an unprecedented one.

The prices, too, were good—from a dollar and seventy-five cents to two dollars and a half a bushel, according to quality. A rapid picker could easily make three dollars and a half a day. The champion picker, a strong, fine-looking girl of perhaps nineteen, made considerably more. Julia went home every night with a berry-picker's appetite and two or three silver dollars—she might have had more if her berries had been cleaner. Novenda's proudest achievement had been eighty-seven cents.

As a berry-picker, Novenda was certainly not a success, but Julia, while she jeered at her sister's slowness, was glad of her companionship. Julia was not alone in her scorn, for the other pickers sniffed contemptuously at Novenda's nightly burden. It was not customary—indeed, it was considered almost a disgrace—for any "all day picker" to board the train as Novenda was doing, day after day, with less than half a bushel of the abundant, easily gathered fruit, to her credit.

Still, to the undisguised amusement of the successful pickers, the leisurely Novenda continued to go berrying. She was too painstaking to be rapid. There were no cleaner, evenly big, evenly blue berries than hers, but it was clear that unless berries suddenly soared to unheard-of prices, Novenda would never capture a very large share of the big bag of coin disbursed each day in the "office car."

There were women who could not read or write, chattering, gum-chewing girls, apparently without an idea in their unkept heads, and ragged little boys who spent half of each day in the lake; but the poorest, least industrious, least careful picker among them all gathered nearly twice as many berries as Novenda.

There was Julia, for instance, picking with apparent nonchalance, both slim young hands going at once, and her tongue going at the same time, getting four times as many berries as her sister, who went home nightly tired, soiled, sunburned, weighted down by perhaps eighty cents—minus a quarter for car fare—and a burning sense of defeat.

To be sure, Julia's berries were not paid for at the highest rate because they [illegible] often lacked uniformity in size, color and ripeness. Moreover, they were always plentifully interspersed with such extraneous matter as happened to meet Julia's rapid undiscerning fingers. If thistle-down grew [illegible] her patch, Julia was certain to gather thistle down. If there were green, unripened berries, the swift-handed girl inadvertently gathered these. If there were fallen needles from the scrub-pines, these, too, were industriously culled.

"What! Only a quart!" Julia would exclaim, when the girls, fresh from a good night's rest, had been picking for perhaps half an hour. "Goodness, Novenda, I do believe you're falling behind your usual disgraceful record! All this time, and you haven't picked enough to make a respectable pie!"

"Well," Novenda would retort, "whoever makes pie out of my berries won't have to stay up the night before to pick them over. I don't see any use, for instance, in gathering great big fuzzy caterpillars like the pair in your basket. Do they pay extra for caterpillars?"

One day an elderly, prosperous-looking man stood beside the shipper in the market car. He was a passenger from the regular north-bound train to which the berry-cars were attached, and he seemed to be greatly interested in the yield.

"Hold on!" exclaimed the passenger, as the shipper's assistant was about to pour the contents of Novenda's basket into the crate. "I want to buy those berries just as they are—finest fruit I ever saw."

Novenda's basket was typical. Clean inside and out, the berries of uniform size, and free from the leaves and other litter that made so much of the crop picked by careless hands unsightly and almost unsalable, the basket was indeed tempting. The man viewed his purchase with satisfaction, and then turned again to the dealer.

"Does the girl who picked these berries happen to have any sort of an education?"

"Yes," returned the dealer, "she seems way above the average—quite a little lady, in fact. But her sister beats her all hollow for speed—there's the sister's day's work in that crate."

"They're a messy lot," said the passenger, eyeing Julia's untidy bushel unfavorably and expressing his opinion with undisguised candor. "It's berries I want, not botanical and zoological specimens. The sister may pick faster, but she seems to pick about everything that comes her way. No, I'd like to meet the girl who goes with this small basketful—I have a reason."

"Well," returned the dealer, "there she is, on the platform of the next car—the slim one in the sailor hat."

The purchaser of Novenda's berries stepped up and asked the surprised girl if she thought she could learn to do typewriting and other office work, and offered her immediate employment with excellent remuneration in her own town.

"Why," gasped Novenda, coloring furiously, "I can do typewriting already,—I took a business course in school,—and I think I can do whatever else I'm told, but—but I'm awfully slow about everything! Really, Mr. Page,"—Novenda has recognized a prominent real estate man in the purchaser of her basket,—"I'm probably a great deal slower than the slowest person you have ever known. I—I can't begin to pick berries."

"Oh, yes you can," said Mr. Page, with a pleasant smile that inspired instant confidence. "A workman is known by his chips, and it was your berries that made me think you'd do for the place. I could see that you were careful and painstaking. Those are the qualities I'm looking for."

"But I am so slow!" reiterated honest Novenda.

"I'm glad of it," returned Mr. Page. "There isn't a great deal of work, but what there is has to be done exactly so. Live in town, do you? That's good. The young lady I have has just asked for a permanent vacation—she's going to be married—and it occurred to me that I might find her successor right here on the train among all this flock of girls; and, bless me, so I have! Now I call that luck."

So did Novenda call it, and so it proved. The position was a good one. Novenda happened to fit her somewhat eccentric employer's need, her fingers were more at home in the well-ordered office than they were in the berry fields, and the Frasers, in their reduced circumstances, found Novenda's comfortable salary a welcome addition to the slender family purse.

"But think," exclaimed amazed Julia from time to time, "of any man's being foolish enough to take a snail—or a regular tortoise—like Novenda, when he might have had me!"

"Perhaps," twinkled Novenda, without guessing how close she came to the truth, "he caught the hare napping."—Youth's Companion.

A Sale of Zola's Medan House.

Miscellaneous property in Paris, France, belonging to Emile Zola, has been sold by public auction, at the late writer's Medan house. The scene was rather a pathetic one. Not 200 patrons had gathered, all being friends of Zola. His widow had withheld many works of art and mementoes, and the property consisted of a heterogeneous lot of furniture, and furnishing utensils, from saucepans, crockery and lamps, to bedding, Japanese masks, frames, parasols, etc. The sale started in a particularly melancholy way with a lot of clothes pegs, which was painfully sent up to three francs. The total of the first day of the sale reached 124 pounds. It will be remembered that the house itself has been generously given to the public charities' administration, called the Assistance Publique, by Madame Zola, and is to be used as a rest home for hospital nurses by her wish.—London Telegraph.

Left Mark on Woman's Side.

Mrs. Emil F. Guess of 138 Humber avenue, in the Kensington district, had an experience she probably will not soon forget.

Hearing a heavy clap of thunder, accompanied by a bolt of lightning that seemed to strike the house of a neighbor, Mrs. Guess left the house to see if any damage had been done. Just then another bolt struck her house, tearing off a lot of shingle and doing other damage.

Apparently the lightning must have struck Mrs. Guess. She was rendered insensible and, though she wasn't burned, the lightning left a streak of dark marking up and down her entire side.—Buffalo Times.

THE CANAL ISSUE.

Consulting Board Meets to Discuss Level or Lock Plan.

FINAL ACTION WITH CONGRESS.

Experts Will Report to Commission, Which Will Lay the Matter Before President Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C.—Eminent engineers of America and Europe met Friday upon the call of President Roosevelt to investigate and make recommendations as to the type of canal that is to connect the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. by the executive order made last June, a board of consulting engineers was constituted consisting of Gen. George W. Davis, Alfred Noble, William Barclay Parsons, William H. Burr, Gen. Henry L. Abbott, Frederick P. Searns, Joseph Ripley, Isham Randolph, all American engineers; Henry Hunter, named by the British government; Herr Eugene Tincauser, named by the German government; M. Guerard, named by the French government; M. Quellenec, consulting engineer Suez canal, and J. W. Weicker, named by the government of the Netherlands. It is this board which was appointed to assemble Friday at the offices of the isthmian canal commission. The members were met by Chairman Shonts, who in a few words appropriate to the occasion expressed the belief that good results would follow their deliberations.

Only a Recommendation.

The board of consulting engineers had referred to it all the data that had been collected by the commission bearing upon the subject of a type of canal. This data may be sufficient for the board to determine whether the canal should be constructed with locks or should be a sea-level canal, and if the former should be recommended then details as to the character of locks will be taken under discussion. The recommendations of the consulting engineers was not final, but was made to the isthmian canal commission, which in turn will use its own judgment in a report and recommendations to the president. The final conclusion as to the type of canal will be settled by the president and congress. In calling the board of consulting engineers together the president directed that in case there was a difference of opinion among members of the board there should be minority reports. It was also stated that the board might visit the isthmus before making its final report if it should be deemed necessary.

The board of consulting engineers did not have referred to it detailed questions of engineering connected with the construction of the canal after the type that has been determined. Beyond making recommendations as to the type of canal, whether locks or sea level, together with suggestions as to the method of constructing the lock canal, its duty as defined and understood by the commission ceased.

Shonts the Whole Thing.

The executive work of the isthmian canal commission was much simplified by the retirement of Mr. Wallace as chief engineer. Previous to that time the duties of the commission as an executive body were distributed between Chairman Shonts, Chief Engineer Wallace and Governor Magoon, Chairman Shonts having a general supervision of the work of the other commissioners. Wallace was a member of the commission, but when John F. Stevens was made his successor as chief engineer he was not made a member of the commission, but was employed by Chairman Shonts, and the engineering and construction work is under the direction instead of general supervision of Chairman Shonts. Chief Engineer Stevens, unlike Mr. Wallace is not a member of the executive board of the commission. While the engineering work of the commission will be under the immediate supervision of Chief Stevens, he will be assisted by a committee of engineering consisting of Generals Haines and Ernst, Admiral Endicott and Major Harrod, who are also members of the commission.

Such problems of a technical character as Chief Stevens desired to be worked out and upon such subjects as he desired advice were submitted to the committee of engineers. The problems which will be submitted to th engineering committee will not be r merous until after the type of ca has been determined, although it expected that the board which met day would avail itself of the exper and advice of the engineering co tee on account of the connection the latter had with the canal si United States government took the enterprise.

Nashville Man Sues.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—A suit fo damages for personal inju which Neely Pride is plaint the Merchants' Bank, of this fendant, was filed in the Circu here today. Pride is a tr saleman from Nashville, and to recover damages for injuri ceived by falling into the excav on Main street for the defendant's bank building several nights ago.

A New Battleship.

Quincy, Mass.—The new 16,000-ton battleship Vermont, built for the United States government by the Fore River Ship uilding Company, was successfully launched. The battleship Vermont is one of the largest and most powerful ships of war that has been constructed for the United States navy. She is of 16,000 tons burden, with a length of 450 feet and extreme breadth of 76 10-12ths feet. She will be required to steam eighteen knots an hour for four consecutive hours.

Muscat Dispute Ended.

New York.—Announcement that the Muscat dispute between Great Britain and France had been settled was made Thursday by the secretary of Chief Justice Fuller, of the supreme court of the United States, who has recently been at The Hague as a member of the permanent international council in adjudication upon this matter. Justice Fuller arrived here on the steamer Oceanic.

The dispute relates to the right of certain traders to fly the French flags in the Persian gulf, upon which Muscat is situated. Details of the settlement were not made public.

day one o fthe speakers described the peasant agitation in the province of Saratoff and Samara, saying that there were tens of thousands of men supplied with arms and that an enormous peasant movement was being organized for the autumn. A force of Cossacks and infantry has been sent to Terijoki.

Tidings After Nine Years.

New York.—There has been a strange sequel to the mysterious kidnaping nine years ago of pretty Rosie Cohen, an East Side girl. The girl's mother lives in Orchard street, and was surprised Thursday by the visit of an unknown man, who called the mother to the door and after telling her he knew the present whereabouts of her daughter thrust a recent photograph of the girl into her hands, and with the remark, "She's changed her name and it's no use for you to try to find her," disappeared.

In the winter of 1896 the girl, nearly 5 years old, was playing in the street in front of her home, when a man was seen to creep up, placed his hand over the child's mouth, caught her up in his arms and fled. The police worked on the case for a long time without success. The mother was heart-broken and gave up hope of ever knowing her child's fate.

When the man visited Mrs. Cohen she pleaded with him for knowledge of the girl's whereabouts, but he refused.

"She would not be happy here," he said; "she's doing all right and has forgotten you. She has changed her name. Now, just forget her and don't try to find her. It won't do you any good."

The police were at once notified and are inclined to believe the man, having found the mother, intends demanding a ransome.

American Money for Russia.

New York.—American bankers are now prepared to float a great Russian loan, and it is now stated that as a matter of fact financiers in this city have had the terms of a Russian loan in mind for five months past and the Russian government has known that upon the conclusion of peace it could raise money here.

Hitherto the foreign bankers have taken the first step in raising money for the combatants and American bankers were asked to associate themselves with the foreign houses. But the American firms will this time, it is understood in financial circles, ask London, Berlin and Paris to take part in the new loan.

The exact size of the new loan is, of course, not known, but some estimates place the figures at $100,000,000.

It was believed abroad that another Japanese loan would be floated here, and as in the case of Russia's borrowing, local bankers will for the first time take the initiative. No estimate of the amount is given.

Spread of Cholera.

Berlin.—The spread of cholera from two localities on the river Wetchsel five days ago to twenty-nine cases in twelve localities extending from the Baltic to the river Warthe, 150 miles south, and its appearance in Hamburg has given an unpleasant thrill to the people of Germany, for it may mean a long and steady, a vent the d control that fr

ATLANTA DEALS WITH FIRST CASE.

Fever Victim from Pensacola Found in City.

Atlanta, Ga.—John C. Carruthers, a carpenter, who arrived here from Pensacola Thursday evening, has a pronounced case of yellow fever. He has been isolated in the detention hospital three miles from the city and every precaution has been taken by screening and fumigation.

Carruthers, who says he lived within one block of the first cases announced at Pensacola, left that city as soon as he learned of the nature of the disease there. He had several degrees of fever when he reached Atlanta, and his case was reported immediately by the train inspector to the city health office. Carruthers was closely watched through Friday and was sent to the hospital, where the case was diagnosed as yellow fever on Saturday.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, said that Carruthers is very ill, but did not think his condition is alarming. There is no excitement here, as the experience of past years, when refugees have come from other cities where yellow fever has existed, has been that the disease can not spread nere.

Mayor Woodward, on learning of the existence of this case, at once gave orders that the public shall be kept fully informed of the development of the case.

Health Certificates Stopped.

On the announcement that yellow fever existed here, Dr. C. P. Wertenbaker, of the marine hospital service, stopped issuing health certificates to travel. This undoubtedly will work great inconvenience, as a considerable number of people have come here to secure certificates from the federal office.

The Georgia state board of health met Saturday afternoon and decided to advise the health offcials of the larger cities and towns of the state to quarantine against infected points.

NEPHEW HAD REVENGE.

Practical Joker at Buda-Pesth Furthered by Music Hall Mimic.

Buda-Pesth.—A quaint case has just come before the civil courts. A bill discounter and money lender, named Anton Sternberg, asked for damages against his nephew, a schoolboy 16 years of age, who, to avenge some grievance, had plagued him continuously for two and a half years. A fortnight ago Sternberg, entering his office, discovered his nephew sprinkling an evil-smelling chemical over the dress suit which he intended wearing at a municipal function later in the day. Wrathfully, the bill discounter seized his umbrella and belabored his relative. The boy then decided to wreak vengeance on his uncle.

During the afternoon, while Sternberg was absent, the telephone rang in his private room, and his clerk, a well-known gymnast, named Loewe, hastened to the instrument.

"Is that you, Anton?" came in high-pitched feminine tones over the telephone. Loewe started. He recognized the voice of his own wife.

"Are you sure that that monkey-faced husband of mine does not suspect anything?" added the woman at the other end of the wire.

"Give him enough work to detain him at the office until late, and I will wait here."

"Right," replied Loewe, hardly restraining his passion.

Soon afterward Sternberg returned to the office, and, as was as his custom, he gave Loewe a large batch of letters to write when bidding him good night.

"Tomorrow is a half holiday," he jokingly remarked, "take your time over the correspondence." The cashier's suspicions were confirmed. With a yell of rage he pounced upon the astonished money lender, blacked his eye, tore out his moustache, and with well-aimed blows battered him about until his employer, bleeding and bedraggled, fell unconscious into the fire place. Racing home, he upbraided his wife for her unfaithfulness. The woman threatened to have him placed in an insane asylum.

During the hearing of the case it was conclusively proved that Sternberg's nephew (knowing the jealous nature of his uncle's clerk) had hired [illegible] hall mimic, named Weissen- [illegible] te the voice of Loewe's

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

CHILTON COTTON ASSOCIATION.

Persuant to call of Pres. W. H. Conway, the Chilton County Branch of the S. C. A met at the court house last Saturday and were called to order by Pres. Conway. After which he introduced Hon. H. Y. Brooke, State organizer of the Association, who made a very interesting and instructive speech also answered many questions, after which the Association adjourned for dinner.

1:30 p.m The Association called to order by President Conway. Next proceded to collect report from the several districts of the condition and estimated yield of the cotton crop this year as compared with last year, finding the average to be 68½%.

Mr. Brooke agreed to telegraph both county papers the result of the Ashville meeting.

Both papers are requested to post bulletin of results of Ashville meeting in front of their office doors at earliest date possible.

A resolution was passed requesting our delegates to Ashville to use their best efforts to have resolutions adopted urging farmers to market the present crop of cotton gradually thereby enhancing the value of some, and that the minimum price be ten cents, also referring to the good judgment of said meeting the question of the establishment of an organ to be published weekly in the interest of the said Association.

The Association adjourned, agreeing to meet on first Saturday of each month for the balance of this year.

J. N. Dennis, Sec.

JOHNSON-STEWART

Dr. Napoleon S. Johnson and Miss Essie Charles Stewart were married at Clanton, Wednesday night, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. E. Stewart, ceremony being performed by Rev. A. C. Swindal, pastor of the Baptist church. Owing to recent bereavements the nuptials took place quietly, in the presence of only a few near relatives and friends,

The bride, who is yet not nineteen years of age, was educated at Loretta Academy of Nerinx Ky., and after the death of her father, the late lamented Dr. W. E. Stewart, she has been the close companion of her mother, bound by the ties of an excellent youthful training and a faithful daughter's love. She brings to this happy union education, a good name, beauty and a spotless character. In her daily walk of life she has found and bound to herself only that which is good, and that she will make a good and faithful wife is the prediction of all who know her.

The bridegroom is a young physician who already enjoys a large and lucrative practice. In his youth he evinced a predilection for the practice of medicine and after pursuing literary studies in the common schools and at Bedfotd City, Va., he studied medicine at the Colledge of Physicians and Surgeons, Baltimore, Md., for two years, and later graduated from the Alabama Medical Colledge at Mobile in 1901. His friends say he is a physician not only by education but by inheritance and with his large acquaintanc- [illegible] and genial bearinbefore him
The

SUNDAY NIGHT'S SERMON.

The subject of Rev. A. C. Swindall's discourse on Sunday night at the Baptist church was "The necessity of regeneration," taking his text from the first chapter of St. John.

Regeneration is not natural birth, it is the awakening of the spirit, a belief in God, it is to be born again. As proof of this, Jesus said to Nicodemus "you must be born again."

It is not baptism in water, although this is part of regeneration, and the results follow.

It is not external reformation, though this is one of the natural results of regeneration. Cleanse the spring and the stream will become pure.

It is not a correct creed of public confession. The Lord Jesus must do the last act through the Holy Spirit.

Regeneration is to be born again, to become a new creature in Christ Jesus. The regenerated one is brought to love the Lord and righteousness. You love the Lord because he has saved you. There is an instantaneous change. In a moment, in the twinkling of eye, you believe in God. When man resolves to become a child of God, that moment he is saved, and not until then, no matter what professions he has made. When from his heart he can say, "Woe is me, I need your pardon, Lord."

There is no purer Christian than the little child when it is trained to serve its father's God and its mother's God. Regeneration is a mysterious change, an entire change. Brought out of darkness into light he is made a child of God. It is a visible change, he sees and knows himself. "Whereas I was blind, I now see." So when you are born again, other people can see it.

Without regeneration there can be no communion and fellowship with God. Regeneration is essential, there can be no interest in the promises of God, which are made to those who believe in Him. There can be no real holiness; you cannot love God until you are regenerated, otherwise the Spirit came in vain. It is the only way to heaven. Are you willing to have your sins forgiven? Then give your heart to God to-night.

Attacked By a Mob.

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welsh, of Tekonsha, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

Debate at Popwell's Schoolhouse.

On Friday night, Sept. 8, subject, resolved, "That education has a greater influence in forming character than nature has." Affirmative: J. T. Williams, Gatie Sims and Howard Roper. Negative: J. F. Bone, Etta Roper, Jerome Williams. Besides debate there will be recitations and music. Debate was quite a success last Saturday night. Success to the Banner.

Chairman Committee.

Concord School.

Last Friday evening marked the closing of our summer, Concord school, which has been so faithfully and auspiciously conducted by miss Ella Taylor. She had an average of about 35 pupils, and not one time has she been known not to fulfill her duty, but she has been a faithful and earnest worker, always looking forward to the interest of her school and community. The writer was not directly interested in this school, but has been a visitor and close observer, and I wish to state that her school was the most successful and enthusiastic school I've ever had the pleas-
-of visiting. A greater interest
-nifested at Concord known before.
vord and deed
r pupils, to
-e has won and we vith us
r she t she -hest

k ur re
Jp-

THE RACE OR NEGRO PROBLEM IN THE SOUTH AND ITS SOLUTION.

BY F. A. GULLEDGE.

(continued from Aug. 26)

In our Southland you never see a young white man acting "Hosler" at a livery stable, no matter what wages is offered, but it must be "Cuffy," while at the North they are all white and nothing thought of it. In Canada the negro is scarcely known; the result is cleanliness, honesty, obedience to both the law and the employer, and finally thrift. Why is it the Southern girl will seek the position of trained nurse, a job I consider attended by the greatest privations as well as hardships, while vast fields for employment await their coming in other lines? To be a trusted employe, either man or woman, is or should be considered an honor, and yet how few appreciate such calling. This thing of refusing to perform labor at a competitive price with a negro only lends encouragement to the negro. The boy or girl who refuses to go to school because he or she can't go in style simply lets down the bars for the negro with his piece of bread and few blackberries or apples in his bucket to get in ahead of them They should remember that the negro has provision made for him at the North and East, where white women (at least one of them) was willing to lean on the arm of Booker T. Washington, while her father pours out his his thousands into the coffers of the negro schools of the South, and so long as the present indifference exists as to schools in the South (the country I allude to) just so long will we have to follow the band wagon. Then the Southern white girl or boy, while ignorant of books and general intelligence, is fully abreast of the times when it comes to extravagance. I often see families composed of a mixed lot of boys and girls, whose father never knows what it is to be out of debt and yet the son is allowed to bundle up his collars, cuffs and shirts each Monday and send to some local washerwomen or often to some city laundry instead of the girls doing this and keeping the money in the family, she is allowed not only to neglect this but to buy finery on credit and in a large majority of cases hire her entire wardrobe made by some local seamstress who will work and the fee for which has to be borrowed by the parent of the wearer.

All this while the colored "damsel" goes to the cook pot and wash tub all the week; on Sunday morning she puts on her best and comes forth with muscle and vigor as a result of labor, while the white woman is full of aches and pains from high living or mainly for want of general activity. And I tell you now when the day arrives that the negro refuses to do one lick of work for the whites then and not until then will the whites come fully to their senses. Just think of the great influx of negroes to the North in the past decade. It is the result of strikes and discord between capital and labor. It is a known fact that as a rule negroes are sought as tenants of both land and dwellings. Why? Because they are not so demanding of their landlord. Why this? Each man's dollar is the same size. I say boldly that I prefer white tenants because I prefer the association of my own race, and yet from a financial point of view it fails of such favorable returns. "Give the devil his dues" is a saying of long standing and yet a true one, and I want to say to the young and rising generation that your fortune is before you and within your own grasp, and it is up to you as to whether you or the negro shall lead. If you lead he will follow cheerfully, if you allow him to lead there will always be trouble because of the envy naturally generated in your bosom as a consequence of his leadership.

The average Southern white boy will not black boots for a living nor be a waiter in hotel or restaurant. Not so, North, that and almost all other work is done by whites. The result is the negro of the South is getting above it too. He is a great mimic. While I write I see a white farmer rushing around doing jobs which he has two negroes hired to do, and yet one of his "Bucks" is sitting in the white man's buggy puffing a cigarette, and I say he is boss and not his employer. Give the negro an inch and he will take an "hell," as the Englishman would say. Hold him to justice and he will respect you. My argument is give him what is due him, allow him a show, if he outstrips the white man let him take it for his part, but if white men and white women will utilize their brain and muscle as they should they need have no fears of negro ascendancy. The negro never sells his home as long as he can possibly save it on bread, while the white man with the least set back is willing to give up all, go to public works and be a slave for balance of time to come. All these things must be reversed if the young white people of the South ever attain such foothold as they should of right.

"Industry and economy are avenues to wealth," so said Webster's old blue back and without it and plenty of it at that, the race problem in the South will always be a live issue.

THE END.

The Better Way

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it eases the irritation—for a while. You take and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation; builds up the weakened tissues because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold, or bronchitis.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

WE'LL SEND YOU A SAMPLE FREE.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street New York

For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass. Also manufacturers of Ayer's HAIR VIGOR. AGUE CURE. CHERRY PECTORAL.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold or sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At Upchurch Drug co; 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Baker School.

Editor Banner: Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to our school. It closed last Friday. We entertained our friends with 35 speeches which was said to be excellent.

We very much regretted to take the parting hand of our teacher, Miss Bettie Cassel, who has done us good and faithful work.

We would be glad to have her to teach for us again. The children regretted very much to see the time come when they must say good bye, for they all loved her with the deepest love of their hearts.

We all hope that she enjoyed herself during her short stay with us.

As this is my first I will drop off and come again.

Nobody's Darling.

Numerous and Worthless

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Disc

Liberal long time loans on Im
Farms, also Life Insurance Policie

Annual loans on good Personal ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered ton being held now, either on farm warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, Al

COME AND BE PLEAS

Prices and terms upon which we are the most beautiful and attractive goo the season will certainly please and su you. The styles on which fashion has her approval for the coming season a shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTH
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOO
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-We Anything you want in Dress Goods, Har
Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - AL

The Big Mail Order Hous
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices
Send Us Your Mail Orders
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00
Wilson Whiskey	85
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 80
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va.
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STO
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA

The best of Everything
and Everything of the

Staple & Fancy Groce
DRY GOODS, CLOTHI
SHOES, HATS, ETC

E. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - -

Always Remember the Full
Laxative Bromo Qui
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in
E. W. Grove on Box. 25c.

Job Printing cheap at THE BA

A. GULLEDGE

tate, Loans and Disc

al long time loans on Im
lso Life Insurance Policie
l loans on good Personal ding Crops.

liberal advances offered on held now, either on farms
s. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, AL

AND BE PLEAS

nd terms upon which we are sel autiful and attractive good will certainly please and sur tyles on which fashion has st l for the coming season are newest materials.

LL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES AND BOY'S CLOTH
NE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
ildren's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wea want in Dress Goods, Hard llery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
N - . . . AL

Big Mail Order Hous
BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE! thing at Cut Price
Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regu
Malt Whiskey	75	1
Whiskey	75	1
t Whiskey	75	1
ucky Rye	50
ia Rye	60	1
ginia Rye	65	1
ear-old Virginia Rye	75	1
iskey	75	1
Club Rye Whiskey	85	1
irginia Rye	1 00	1
nia Rye	1 25	2
Star Rye	84	1
	1 00	1
e Rye	1 00	1
	1 00	1
	1 00	1
	85	1
ottled in bond	1 00	1
ottled in bond	1 25	1
d in bond	1 50	2
Whiskey without a headache	1 00	1
n Corn	50
w Corn	75	1
ty	65	1
	50
	75	1
e Brandy	50
or Port	50

line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per
n Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
w	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
	2.00	Old Style Country Club
	3.00	Old Lincoln County
e Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
t or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye rice list. We carry a full line of wine do not handle low grade goods.

OLLIER DRUG COMPANY
G CUT RATE DRUG STOR
AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

of Everything
and Everything of the

& Fancy Groce
GOODS, CLOTHI
ES, HATS, ETC

E. JONES & BRO.
N - . . A

Remember the Full ve Bromo Qu old in One Day, Grip in W. Grove on Box. 25c.

ing cheap at THE BA

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] first Monday in February, first Monday in [illegible] second Monday in [illegible] July, second Monday in [illegible] Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

ay	10 @ 10½
t year	10½c
ate	196	1904
	131	78
d &	113	37
Mul ins	22	..
ster & Bro	20	13
Jones		11
Firms
Total	293	134

above figures are obtained from al cotton buyers Wednesday g, five o'clock

HAS STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS old, original GROVE'S Tasteless Tonic. You know what you taking. It is iron and quinine tasteless form No cure, no 50c.

v. A. C. Swindall filled his ointments Sunday and Sunday to large congregations at services at the Baptist church.

Minnie Muse will soon to Clanton with a large of fall and winter milli and hopes to be able to suit city and country friends in ing they may desire in her n to Mr. and Mrs. D. C. a big baby girl, Tuesday.

. John Garner and family, have been spending the sum in Clanton, have returned to home in Birmingham.

s G. Higgins has returned an extended visit to relatives orth Alabama and points in gia.

r. J. W. Sorrell of Jemison ht us in a large fine pod of r Tuesday.

n. Jno. A. Thomas returned last Saturday from a pleasant of several weeks to relatives at man and Fort Valley, Ga.

cold soda water always ys on tap at Upchurch's store.

e first meeting of the young s prayermeeting was held at aptist church Tuesday night. meeting was lead by Judge n and there was a very good dance.

. R. J. Mitchell of Riderville, is visiting in Clanton, informs t he is well pleased with our . He also says that his daugh- Mrs. J. C. Merchant, in a received the 2d inst., spoke death of Mr. Fred Young in City on Aug. 25, a prominent n of Southwest Chilton, remains were brought back home church for interment.

s Della Latham of Montevallo ting relatives in Clanton.

s P. I. Hopkins is visiting in mer.

. O. E. Latham and wife have ly visited Mr. Jackson Palmer lberry.

WS—Having bought out the dairy at Opelika, Ala., I will a few very fine cows for sale.
P. I. HINKLE, Clanton.

nice lot of stationery received at Upchurch's store.

Hugh Simpson went to the al city last Saturday.

public school at Clanton next Monday, Sept. 11, with R. E. Sessions as principal. the present the school will be at the old academy.

missioners Court has been in all this week for the purpose ing tax raises, and something 300 cases have been heard, and ly every case the raise has accepted, most of them having agreed to before court met.

rriage licenses have been issued week by the Probate Judge to following persons.

J A Pierce and miss Annie Bryant; mr Dash Bryan and Victoria Pierce; mr William C rry and miss Hannah Johnson; apoleon Johnson and miss Charles Stewart.

Always Successful

hen indigestion becomes chronic dangerous. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will cure indigestion and troubles resulting therefrom, thus ting Catarrh of the Stomach. lewbrough, of League, W. Va. "To those suffering from in- on or sour stomach I would there is no better remedy than l Dyspepsia Cure. I have pre- d it for a number of my pa- with good success." Kodol sia Cure digests what you d makes the stomach sweet. by Upchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Mr B H Nelson of Verbena was in town Monday.

Mr Wm D O'Neal of Plantersville gave us a pleasant call Wednesday.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember. that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown. of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Upchurch Drug Co sells and recommends them, at 50c a bottle.

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

			1905
Kircheon	Beat	6	October	2
Pletcher	"	8	"	3
Dixie	"	8	"	4
Shoults	"	7	"	5
Maplesville	"	7	"	6
Benson	"	3	"	7
Macedonia	"	3	"	9
Providence	"	2	"	10
Jemison	"	2	"	11
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	12
Flint Hill	"	11	"	13
Cane Ck. to 12 m.	"	4	"	14
Thorsby	"	9	"	16
Clanton	"	4	"	17
Cooper	"	10	"	18
Verbena	"	5	"	19

WATCH THIS SPACE FOR A NEW ADV.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent.

SINGER OFFICE CLANTON

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 12 1-2 Cents per Dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR
General Merchandise
Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

J. R. BROADHEAD & SON
—DEALERS IN—
General Merchandise
Fine Groceries
None better on the market.
CLANTON, ALA.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

Pine Hill.

Very sorry that the Editor had such hard luck last week but we hope it won't happen again.

Rev. T. Meroney has gone to Fulton to hold a two or three days meeting.

Mr. Bob Traywick and miss Annie Jones went to Thomasville Sunday.

Mr. Mason has moved into his new store and is doing a big business.

Mr. E. H. Oakley made a flying trip to Shelby Springs last week. Went up there for his health, staid four days and gained five pounds.

The Artisian well is very near finished.

Mr B. H. Meroney has gone to Gosonola to run the log train. We sure miss his bright face and sunny smile, as he is the life of the place

Mrs. Curry and children passed through here enroute to V. B. M. camps last Thursday.

Danny Mosley and Luke Dunn have gone to Selma to get a position as butch on the train.

Mr. Lanley and family have gone to the country to drive off the chills they have been having all summer.

Dr. Giles, the President of the Baptist colledge of Tuscaloosa was here a short time ago.

Mrs. Henley of Fulton was a visitor here last week.

PANSY.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions, and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton. A. Horn, Thorsby.

PROGRAM

Chilton county Teachers' Institute, to be held at Isabella, Sept. 15 and 16, 1905.

FRIDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercises, Toy Williams.

10:30. Welcome address, G. L. Speer. Response, J. W. Moore.

11. Ends to be accomplished by teachers' institutes. R. E. R. Hicks.

11:30. Teacher's preparation for class work, H. A. Harris, Mrs. A. G. Dunlap.

12. Noon.

2 p.m. Valu of school entertainments, V. J. Gragg, miss Janie Roebuck.

3. School discipline, Institute.

SATURDAY, 9 a.m. Devotional exercises.

9:30 How may patrons help their teachers? W. B. Speer, miss Etta Roper.

10. Requisites to successful teaching, R. E. Sessions, Mrs. W. B. Speer.

11. Educational address, Hon. Sydney J. Bowie.

There will be conveyances for those coming by rail to Maplesville and Thorsby.

This being the last institute of the year, all teachers are earnestly requested to attend.

Educational Board—J. W. Moore, G. L. Speer, R. A. Rasco, H. L. Davis.

BIRMINGHAM
Paint & Glass Co.

Sash	Oil
Doors	Stains
Blinds	Mirrors
Lead	Bent Glass

Window Glass

2016-18, Third Avenue
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

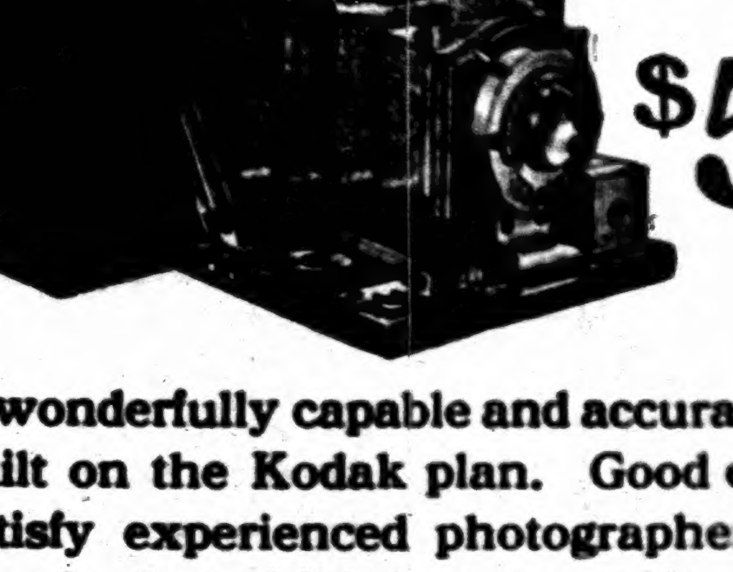
Write us for prices, color cards and estimates.

We do not handle adulterations or sell goods under misleading brands.

Beautiful Women.

Plump cheeks, flushed with the soft glow of health and a pure complexion, make all women beautiful. Take a small dose of Herbine after each meal; it will prevent constipation and help digest what you have eaten. Mrs. Wm. M. Stroud, Midlothian, Tex., writes, May 31, 1901: "We have used Herbine in our family for eight years, and found it the best medicine we ever used for constipation, billous fever and malaria. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—
A. M. JOHNSON
—MANAGER OF—
THE CASH GROCERY STORE
THORSBY, ALA.
FOR BARGAINS IN
Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Lion and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTON
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
OPPOSITE THE BANKS CLANTON

HERBINE
TRADE MARK
For Sick Livers
A PURELY VEGETABLE
—COMPOUND—

QUICKLY CURES CONSTIPATION, DYSPEPSIA, MALARIA, CHILLS and ALL LIVER COMPLAINTS. A GUARANTEED CURE for all diseases produced by TORPID LIVER and IMPURE BLOOD. One bottle purchased today may save you a sick spell tomorrow.

CURED OF CHILLS AND FEVER AFTER ALL OTHER MEDICINES FAILED

Mrs. W. A. Whitesell, Emory, Tex., writes: "My child had chills and fever for four years. We tried all kinds of medicines, and finally an acquaintance of mine recommended Herbine. We used three bottles, and the child is now completely cured. You have my permission to publish this testimonial, as I cheerfully recommend Herbine to all mothers having children afflicted as mine."

[illegible] BOTTLE, 50c GET THE GENUINE
BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

An Easy-Stepping Man.

By Kate Thorn.

We are always suspicious of an easy-stepping man.

He steals upon you like a midnight thief, and you never hear him, and he stands and looks at you as long as he likes, and then he says, in that easy-stepping way of his: "Beg your pardon."

Who wants to have any man coming round upon her privacy without warning? Who wants to feel that she is running the risk of being discovered with cold cream on her nose, and her hair in crimps, and a pair of ma's slippers on? Who wants to be caught with a lunch of cold pork and beans before her, when in society she prides herself on having such a delicate appetite?

Who wants a man coming into her house as a cat creeps after a mouse—noiselessly and unseen?

We always associate slyness with easy stepping, unless there be some special cause for noiseless locomotion. Of course, if a man's grandaunt or mother-in-law was sick with brain fever in the house, he would be a jewel if he could manage to step easy; but, when everybody is well and there is no baby to wake up, we have a great deal more confidence in the honesty of the man who puts down his number elevens for what they are worth, even if the windows rattle. All hypocrites are easy going. All mischief makers ditto. So are false friends and subscription agents.

A thoroughly honest man has nothing to conceal. He can put his feet down. The noise will not bring the police officers about his heels. He is not afraid to leave tracks. We hear him before he gets to us, and have time to pull down our bangs, straighten out our flounces, hide our old love letters, and strike an attitude before he gets there.

Your easy stepper is always discovering secrets. If you take the conjugal liberty of delivering a little, wholesome lecture to your husband on the sin and folly of staying out nights, and being attentive to Brown's wife, your easy-stepping man will generally manage to put in an appearance just when you get excited, and talk about divorce, and wish you had never met him! And he stands back, and listens with a sad face, and keeps listening, till you look up and see him, and then he begs your pardon and declares that he has not heard a word—not a single word! And you know that by to-morrow it will be all over town that you and your husband quarrel like cats and dogs, and that you are thinking of a separation—and all on account of that coquettish Mrs. Brown!

An easy-stepping man knows everybody's business. He always comes when you have a picked-up dinner. He has a habit of dropping in when your dear, old, school friend comes to spend the day, and spoiling all the beautiful, delightful talk you had thought to have with her about old times.

If you are a young lady, and have a lover, your easy-stepping man will be the bane of your life. He will be always creeping in upon you. And, though it seems perfectly proper, when you are alone, for Tom to sit on the sofa with his arm round you, and his perfumed locks mingling with the ten-dollar "Henrietta wave" on your head, it must be confessed that it looks awfully absurd when the easy-stepping man stands on the threshold and looks meekly in and waits for Tom to get through with his nonsense and discover him.

And we are of the same opinion as when we began this article—which is quite a long time for a woman to hold to one mind—we don't like an easy-stepping man!—New York Weekly.

* * *

How Japan has Manipulated Public Opinion By Use of The Press

By Thomas F. Millard.

If the average person in America and England now finds himself imbued with an impression that Japan is a miracle among nations; that her national purposes and ambitions point straight along the path of universal altruism pure and undefiled; that she is generously sacrificing the blood and substance of her people in the cause of right and the broad interests of humanity and civilization, in a war unjustly and unexpectedly forced upon her; that the Japanese people are the most patriotic, the most agreeable and the "cutest" ever known; that the Japanese soldier is the bravest the world has ever seen, and his standard of military excellence unattainable by Westerners; if he has somehow gathered all this, and much more of the same sort, it is not at all surprising. Here is the rubbish pile which must be cleared away before any intelligent grasp of the immediate issues of the Far Eastern question may be had. It is none the less a mass of rubbish though much of its fundamental structure consists of incongruous and unrelated facts, with no real bearing upon the larger propositions involved. In fact, there is probably no parallel (although I am familiar with the methods and success of the British Government in its manipulation of news from South Africa prior to and during the Boer war), in the absence of direct use of money or application of special and pressing interest, to the manner by which the press of America (I assume that a majority of the British press was complaisant) has been "worked" by the Japanese Government in regard to this war. However, its effects need not necessarily be bad for Western civilization and interests since it has given us much that is true and illuminating about Japan, unless it should result in mistaken action or no action at all by Western governments is in the crisis that is coming. And it should be remembered that in this cris inaction on the part of England and America will be positive in its effects.—From "The Fruits of Japan's Victory," Scribners.

* * *

Develop Beauty Love.

By President Eliot, of Harvard.

Among the means of increasing innocent pleasurable sensations and emotions for multitudes of men and women, none is more potent than the cultivation of the sense of beauty. The best place to inculcate the love of the beautiful is the schoolroom. To the rising generation the most effective lessons can be given and from the school. Millions of children will carry the lessons to millions of homes. After reading, spelling, writing and ciphering with small numbers and in simple operations, drawing should be the most important common school subject.

It is monstrous that the common school should give much time to compound numbers, bank discount and stenography and little time to drawing. It is monstrous that the school which prepares for college should give four or five hours a week for two years to Greek and no time at all to drawing. The main object in every school should be, not to provide the children with means of earning a livelihood, but to show them how to live a happy and worthy life, inspired by ideals which exalt and dignify both labor and leisure. To see beauty, and to live it is to possess large securities for such a life.

Reform That Was Too Thorough.

Old Lady Colburn was giving her granddaughter some good advice, the week before her wedding. "Now, it's all very fine for you to have these plans for making John over—if he needs it," said the old lady. "He may have some ideas about reforming a few habits of yours, my dear—but you don't want to go too far, either of you, and you want to be pretty careful what you say.

"When I was a girl, somebody told me the story of a young woman who made the young man she married promise her he would have nothing to do with smoking. Well, that was all right enough, but he'd never been an intemperate smoker, and he missed the little soothing he'd been accustomed to get from his pipe once in a while.

"But if ever she saw him looking at it she'd remind him, 'You promised me never to have anything to do with pipes or smoking when we were married.'

"Then one day the kitchen stove acted like all possessed—filled the room full of smoke. She said she thought the stovepipe needed cleaning; but he—he was kind of stubborn, same as most men are at times—he just sat there and said, 'I promised you when we were married never to have anything to do with pipes or smoking, and this comes under both heads.'

"And she had to go for the stove man herself, though he was a real considerate man, most ways, her husband was. You just bear in mind that little circumstance when you're making John over."—Youth's Companion.

The Aristocratic Robin.

When that most gracefully built bird of all, the robin, runs across the lawn he is the poetry of motion, the quick alert fellow of action. The robin is a great nuisance when the nest is undergoing repairs or has to be rebuilt, for he everlastingly bothers the lady robin while she goes about her fine art of nest-building. Does he ever assist in the good work? Not he. He will not soil his pretty bill with one bit of lint or moss, or anything necessary for the nest. After the little fellows are hatched he becomes a genuine old he-her, and will hover the nest while the lady is away for worms for her young. He may once in a while forget his lordlings and bring a worm for his lady, but as for food for his offspring, the fuzzy little fellows would starve were they to depend upon papa robin for food. He seldom bothers about the little ones' first attempts, and will sit perched handily by while mama tackles the delightful task. But let danger approach the young or the mate, and lo and behold! Mr. Robin becomes a genuine fighter, and will draw near to the jaws of death boldly and without hesitation. He is a great lover, a poor provider, a bad worker, a fine nurse—if not called upon to do more than hover the nest; but in the time of danger he is a success, a regular knight and a bold defender of his family.—Outing.

In Quito, Ecuador, it is usual to uncover one's head when there is a flash of lightning.

HAWAIIAN SHARK FISHING.

AN EXCITING PASTIME POPULAR IN HONOLULU HARBOR.

The Requisites Are a Small Launch, a Dead Horse, Some Harpoons on Hooks and Large Calibre Rifles—Battling With the Prey.

One of Honolulu's most exciting pastimes is shark fishing. Large sharks abound off Honolulu harbor, and a party of fishermen may usually count on bringing back one or two sea monsters from eight to fourteen feet long by going three or four miles from shore. The fish may either be harpooned or hooked, the latter method being the easier. The harpooning is more dangerous and more difficult.

The shark fishers need a small launch, a dead horse, some harpoons or hooks and some large calibre rifles. The horse is sometimes killed a day or two before the expedition, as sharks are supposed to like their horse meat "high." This is not necessary, however, and is not advisable, for there is no special pleasure in dragging through the harbor a horse that has been dead long enough really to resent it.

The horse is tied at the end of a rope and left to float about sixty feet away from the launch out in the open sea, and then the wait for sharks begins. A shark will usually show up in a very short time. At a distance of sixty feet he is a long green object of indefinite outlines. He approaches the dead horse slowly until a few feet away and then veers off to one side and disappears. But he always returns. Over and over again, sometimes for an hour, he will circle about the dead animal, seeming to be as suspicious as any fox.

While the shark is making these repeated investigations the bait is slowly drawn toward the boat. Some interesting glimpses of the shark are obtainable during this process. He will slowly glide through the water up to the food and then suddenly turn on his side and take a bite. If it is close enough one gets an idea of what he can do in the biting line. In an expedition last month dogs were used, no horse having been obtainable. Within three feet of the fishers on the boat a huge shark turned, opened his jaws and seized a dog. The dog was tied to the rope. There was a wriggle of the huge green looking body, a splashing of surface water and the shark moved on. The dog was bitten clean in half.

When harpooning is to be done, the the bait is drawn gradually closer until the shark comes right up to the boat. Then the harpoon is plunged into him and the battle begins. The shark will plunge for deep water and tow the boat at a rapid pace. His strength is extraordinary and the fight is sure to be a long one. There is nothing for it but to tire him out, and the only way to do this is to let him struggle as he will. Gradually he is drawn nearer and nearer to the boat, and soon he is hauled to the surface in a condition approaching exhaustion. Then the rifles come into play, but at the first shots he will often carry the harpoon and rope off with him again and renew the fight.

There is a spot under the gills where a fatal wound can be inflicted with a large rifle bullet, but shooting in a rocking small boat is not likely to be accurate, and the right spot is seldom reached at once.

The sharks are more easily hooked than harpooned. From the side of the boat they may be seen swimming about below. The use of a box with a glass bottom makes possible a splendid view of them. On the occasion already referred to the other half of the bitten dog was placed on a large hook and let down among them. Through the glass a huge shark was seen slowly to approach, turn and seize the bait. In some way or other the hook failed to catch and the shark let go when the rope was jerked. But he came back at once and seized it again. Two men, pulling as sailors pull on a halyard, slowly drew him to the surface, where a fine view was had of his head and jaws, with five rows of sword teeth.

Four men with heavy rifles stood ready to shoot him and at the word they all fired at his head. The shark gave a jerk that got the line away from those who were holding it, and down he went to deep water again. He was hauled up and shot after shot was fired into his head, while one member of the party used a spear to reach a vital spot. Under this sort of attack he soon lost activity. The shark was twelve feet four inches in length.

Many tourists who come to Honolulu get up shark fishing parties. There are launches and assistants for hire. The shark usually goes to the fishermen who help, and a small sum is to be realized from the oil its liver affords.—New York Sun.

"HEAP JOKE."

Sweet and Tender Waggery of a Copper Colored Samaritan.

Only those who have not been brought in contact with the Indians doubt that there is an Indian humor. The Indian has not only a keen sense of humor, but at times a unique way of expressing it. I think this is proved by the following pathetic story, which nevertheless contains just enough humor to dry the too ready tear.

Some years ago I became acquainted with one of the head chiefs of a tribe that had waged bitter war with the white man for many years. In the end the Indians were conquered and the survivors forced into a lazy and consequently satisfactory exile.

After my acquaintance with the chief—call him "Cut Nose"—had ripened into a certain intimacy and he had discovered that possibly I could appreciate a good thing when I heard it, he told me the following tale. He said that one night, after a hard day's fighting, he was wandering over the battlefield and came upon a wounded soldier who had been shot through both legs. His comrades had been unable to take him off the field, and he was left to his fate.

Cut Nose carried the wounded man to a nearby cave, fed him, dressed his wound, gave him his blanket and made him as comfortable as possible under the conditions. He explained that he could not take him to the Indian camp, as he would not be able to protect him from the other Indians, and an attempt would only result in torture and death. He promised, however, to visit him nightly, fetching food and drink and such remedies as the wounds required. He further explained that he had once received a great favor from the hands of a white man and his heart was grateful.

Cut Nose told me in detail how each night he had gone to the cave, carrying food and drink to the wounded man, dressing his wounds and ministering in every possible way to his comfort. In time the soldier so far recovered that he was able to hobble around the cave with the aid of a rude crutch which the Indian made for him. Cut Nose told him that when the moon should give light enough for the journey he would take him to the white man's camp. At last the moon was full and they started, the chief tenderly helping the invalid over the rough places and watchfully guiding his tottering steps. In time they came to where in the short distance they saw a cliff putting out across the trail. Cut Nose stopped, told his companion that just beyond the cliff was the soldiers' camp and he would now leave him. At this point in the story Cut Nose became really pathetic as he described the emotion and gratitude of the poor fellow whose life he had saved, and how tender was their parting. He told me how he stood and watched the soldier as he slowly and painfully made his way toward the cliff beyond which were comrades and friends.

Cut Nose then told, and his eyes were moist and his voice took on a new tremor in the telling, how he waited until the man turned to wave him good-by before he disappeared around the rock, and to use the red Samaritan's own language he said: "I shot and killed him. Heap big joke on the soldier, wasn't it?"

Since hearing this little tale, told with all the naivete of a son of nature, with the "point" studiously withheld for the climax, I have never doubted the Indian sense of humor. Possibly it may be at times a trifle grim for the taste of the worthy people who assemble yearly at Lake Mohonk, but it undoubtedly exists.—H. P. D., Far Hills, N. J., in the New York

---

A Monument to the First Man.

Mark Twain, writing in Harper's Weekly, tells of the project which he once advocated for a monument to be erected to the memory of Adam. He tells how Darwin, in tracing the genesis of the human race back to its sources, had left Adam out altogether. "We had," he says, "monkeys and missing links, and plenty of other ancestors, but no Adam." So Mark Twain, jesting with friends in Elmira, said there seemed to be a likelihood that the world would discard Adam and accept the monkey, and that "in the course of time Adam's very name would be forgotten in the earth." Therefore, he thought, this calamity ought to be averted; a monument would accomplish this, and Elmira ought not to waste this valuable opportunity to do Adam a favor and herself a credit. To Mark's surprise, he explains, the matter was taken up seriously; and soon a movement was on foot to confer upon Elmira a distinction which, "in the matter of interest and impressiveness, could never have a rival until somebody should set up a monument to the Milky Way."

Exploding Ant's Nest.

The dry weather is favorable for ants' nests, which sometimes become unpleasantly prominent on our lawns, and cause injury by tunneling and loosening the earth about the roots of plants. They can be eradicated most easily by treatment with carbon bisulphide. The method is as follows: With a broom handle or iron bar make holes in the nests several inches deep and a few inches apart. Put in each about a tablespoonful of carbon bisulphide, close the holes quickly and throw a wet blanket over the entire nest. After a few moments explode the fumes collected underneath by reaching under the cover with a lighted match fastened to the end of a short pole. The explosion drives the deadly fumes of the carbon bisulphide deeper into the earth and adds materially to the effectiveness of the treatment.—The Garden

Tobacco.

Tobacco was first discovered by Columbus, who saw the natives smoking it during his first voyage to America. A doctor who was sent to Mexico by Philip of Spain brought the first plants to Europe. The first tobacco plants seen in England were brought there by Rolfe, the husband of Pocohontas. Sir Walter Raleigh was presumably the first English man to set the fashion of tobacco smoking.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. ALBERT JONES LORD.

Subject: Sacrament of Service.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. Albert Jones Lord, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Meriden, Conn., preached in Plymouth Church Sunday morning in exchange with the assistant pastor, the Rev. Willard P. Harmon. Mr. Lord had a good audience, and preached an excellent sermon. His subject was "The Sacrament of Service." The text was from Isaiah xli:6: "They helped every one his neighbor, and every one said to his brother, 'Be of good courage.'" Mr. Lord said:

We have been passing rapidly in the last half century from an individualistic to a social type of civilization. Paul's words were never more true than to-day, when he said, "None of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself." All the forces and factors pertaining to human life—mechanical, social and religious—have been moving to such a degree toward each other that the twentieth century can say that the one word which will serve her best for a watchword is "Together; together."

In the industrial world the concentration of forces is most manifest. Dr. Josiah Strong calls to mind how that fifty years ago it was the age of homespun. Families could meet all the needs of their households, spinning, weaving and the making of garments. The fields about the home supplied the inmates with the necessities of life. Then it was that the main force was the brawny arm. But to-day manufacture has forsaken the home for the mill and the factory, and steam and electricity are the regnant forces. Division of labor has taken the place of the single hand. Then one man made many things; now many men make one thing.

But as industrially, so socially are we becoming more intimately related. A half century ago there were communities, many but small in number and limited in advantages, yet complete in themselves. Citizens seldom went beyond the borders of their respective towns. But gradually those communities have been grouped into towns, and the towns developed into cities and the cities into greater cities. Whereas our fathers were independent of all the world, we are more or less dependent on the whole world. This made Robert Louis Stevenson exclaim, "It is really disheartening how we depend on other people in this life."

This complex life has given rise to a great many social and fraternal organizations. Men have banded themselves together for mutual helpfulness. Fathers working by the week and for small wages, having little ones depending upon them, have serious thoughts when they realize that sickness may be lying in wait for them and short hours may be their lot. When the head of the family is sick and unable to work, the income ceases, but expenses increase. To meet all these possibilities the various benevolent societies and fraternal organizations have come into existence.

It is every man's duty to consider not only the present demands of the family, but its future welfare. It is a crime for a father to spend his money freehanded at the bar, or in hospitality at the club, or squander it in sports, when he has not, either in the savings bank or in insurance, made secure the future welfare of his family. It is every man's duty to endow the future with as good a livelihood for his family as lies in his power.

We heartily sympathize with fraternities and societies in their sick benefits and care of widows and fatherless children. They have a mission in society. But, however commendable they may be, they must not take the place of the two divine institutions—the home and the church. There is but one place where God has set up the altar of domestic affection, where conjugal relations are sanctified by the presence of children, and that is the home; and there is but one institution which the Son of God ordained while upon earth, and that is the Christian church. Fraternal organizations should be supplements, but never attempt to be substitutes for the home or the church.

But we cannot say that because life is becoming more highly organized it can be lived more easily. On the other hand, we are inclined to say that the closer men's relations are the greater the friction and the more difficult to have every event work good to every person. This kind of life, I repeat, is far better but more difficult to live in all its relations. The tone of a three or five bank organ is much better, richer, more sympathetic and harmonious than the tone of a cabinet organ. In the one there are few combinations, while in the other there are hundreds. An amateur can play the one, but only the master organist can play the other satisfactorily. So in these times of highly developed social and religious life it is difficult to live a full, rounded Christian life. A company of people spread over a large area can get along comfortably well, but crowded into a small inclosure they will suffer embarrassment. They all have elbows, and where it is ideal to march through life, touching elbow to elbow, it is not so comfortable when men are cramped and their elbows touch one another under the arms. Our whole social life is, therefore, a question of elbows.

This leads us naturally to the question, How can life be lived so as to fulfill all these manifold relations. The answer is found in the words of the text, "They helped every one his neighbor and every one said to his brother, 'Be of good courage.'" I wish these words might be placed over the doors of every church, inscribed upon the walls of every place of worship and selected as a watchword for every charitable organization. What a changed world this would be if the sentiment of this text should go into effect to-morrow morning. The words suggest to us two ways by which we may administer the sacrament of service.

Humanity is in constant need of help. The circle of suffering and misfortune is all the while changing, but it never happens to be empty. In spite of the fact that we are a rich country and are living in times of plenty, there are children in every city in need of bread, and elderly people in need of support and comfort. It is no disgrace to be poor or to be sick if we have done all in our power to drive away the wolf from the door and germs in our system more so than the Paul was poor, having sessions but "the ment!" Peter was gold have I none." grace, unless it be wasted life. Wherever ored poverty there benevolence.

To pity distress
To relieve it

When Jesus was that every benef stowed upon brethren in a ble unto Him which is full of a ity workers. ments in the world a single lovein fraternal organization who are members of the in charity. A ceived in my sent by one ganization to call and assist often does our f do this? Yet the unto all men, are of the household of means or thrice blest. Let the your generosity if it chances so to be your benefactions be will, but, whether crowd your life with tions and countless Edwin Markham has poem entitled "Inasmuch" a watchman. Ivan cow's castled height adel. The driving snow itself against the citadel half bare beggar The watchman ran and coat around the half-frozen that very night died his posure:

But waking in that Better
Beyond the reaches of Behold the Lord came home,
Wearing the coat he dome—
Wearing the heavy
By Moscow's tower grave.

. . . . .

"And where, dear Lord coat of mine
A thing unfit for glory
Then the Lord answered
light:
"This coat, My son
night."

But there is another offer the sacrament of giving food to eat and on: It is suggested by the text: "And every brother, 'Be of good are men and women need an encouraging they need bread. by bread alone. There streets who have been their lives. They are discouraged and distress There are others who cation which does not their ambition, and they some one tap them on the say, "Be of good courage a good many men who aged before they became There are others who before they lose their There are many who at the door of the factory of the day's work and saloon to the doors of that they may be saved and to their families. of strength. Their will must be reinforced. inoculated with courage to resist evil.

Very few of us realize help there is in a given in a brotherly way lington's officers when go on some perilous moment, as if afraid "Let me have one clasp conquering hand before I can do it." The needy ones of earth money, but for our sympathy we ought to one ought to do it, but should be turned into sentiment, "Some one so why not I?" appreciated the uplift always gave him when Douglass said: "He who does not remind negro." To say to a all the meaning in good courage," will moral giant and above his difficulties ings. There are very few do not need words of who do not need to have to them, "Be of good

No one has ever been this word with such and no hearts have ever the presence of their those to whom He spoke woman was brought her sin, it was "Go When others would an who stole her way Simon the leper to He said: "She hath could." When Mary mourning the loss of a "Thy brother shall rise the thief on the cross upon Jesus' compassion said, "To-day thou shalt Paradise."

Something

It is not enough tianity, to be as good yet many seem to think to overcome the Faring ourselves ing what comfort we thought that we are than they.

Jesus said: "What do others?" Christianity new at all, is something not say that the old gether wrong. No, are inadequate. not to destroy. The does not break does not quench. to bind up, that it strong as possible; into a flame. "You are My disciples you become all that to be. Do not remain Do not be contented place life. Come up Me. Live the separated thing extra."—North Advocate.

WOMAN'S SUFFERINGS.

Racked with Pains— and 36 Pounds Heavier.

W. Wright, of 172 Main St., Mass., says: "In 1898 I so with sharp pains in the small of the back and had such frequent dizzy spells that I could scarcely get about the house. The passages also quite irregular Monthly periods were so distressing I their approach. This was my the four years. Doan's Kidney helped me right away when with them, and three boxes permanently. Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. by all dealers. Price, 50 box.

Modesty.

the modesty new Russian am- Wishing at one time to with some Japanese, he and one Jap- showing interest in Euro- he ordered for her a com- with every garment in- directions as to the order they were to be put on, he to suggest. In some gown got on top and the beneath. Following Mme. Chrysanthemum put on first and the other gar- top of it making a very pe- combination, to say the least.

York's "Richest" Rich.

has the richest baby, the the richest bachelor, the the richest married the richest widow in the world. Parts of this big be overthrown on close but we continually hear of Nicholas Brown, the rich- in the world; James Henry richest bachelor; William the richest boy; Miss the richest spinster; Rocke- of all, etc.

Swedish Royalty.

humble origin of the royal family has received a attention lately from people unaware that Bernadotte's representatives are allied and marriage to several of reigning houses of Europe. Gustavus Adolphus, now the Connaught's son-in-law, is a grandson of the German empe- I. and his ancestors also King Gustavus II. of Sweden, royal line, King George grand dukes of Baden of Bavaria and Wur-

on Large Scale.

ago a foreign prince lost one night playing bridge a swell London club. King much annoyed on hearing and wrote to the suggesting that the play restricted to lower stakes. of the younger members that if his majesty's advice they will desert and club where many for- been lost and won. At this eldest son of a very rich peer have lost $400,000 in a few

the death of Secretary Hay the interesting problem authorship of "The Breadwin- has been a renewed and for the work. It has steady seller ever since been ended, more than ago, but the supply of such a book kept on hand is not very large.

OUST THE DEMON.

A Tussle With Coffee.

something fairly demonia- coffee sometimes wreaks malice on those who use it. from Calif. says:

and I, both lovers of for some time from a form of nervousness, by most frightful head- my own case there was developed some sort of af- the nerves leading from the head.

unable to hold my head up the tension of the nerves one side, causing me the pain. We got no relief and were puzzled as to the trouble, till a friend that possibly the coffee we something to do with it, and that we quit it and try Pos-advice, and from we began to use Postum began to improve, and in a time both of us were en- The nerves became more, the headaches the muscles in the back of my my head straightened the dreadful pain that had so while I used the old kind banished.

never resumed the use of but relish our Postum as well as we did the for- And we are delighted that we can give it freely to also, something we never with the old kind of cof- given by Postum Co., Bat- Mich.

Coffee contains absolutely no any kind, but relieves the from the old drug poison.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 10

Subject: The Life Giving Stream, Ezek. xlvii., 3-5—Golden Text, Rev. xxii., 17—Memory Verses, 3-5—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. The source and progress of the gospel (vs. 1-5). 1. "Again." Now follows another vision to inspire hope and faith in the exiles, to lead them to prepare by a right life for their return, attracted by the blessings yet to come upon the land, contrasted with their sad condition in exile. "The house." The temple. "The waters," etc. The natural fact on which this conception rests is this, that there was a fountain connected with the temple hill, the waters of which fell into the valley east of the city, and made their way toward the sea. This was the only natural fountain stream flowing from Jerusalem. It was a small stream, whose soft-flowing waters were already regarded as a symbol of the silent and unobtrusive influence of the divine presence in Israel (Isa. 8:6). The waters of this stream flowed eastward, but they were too scanty to have any appreciable effect on the fertility of the region through which they passed. "South side of the altar." The stream flowed not only from the temple, but apparently from the holy of holies, and flowed close by the altar of sacrifice.

2. "Ran out," etc. This stream is a symbol of the miraculous transformation which the land of Canaan is to undergo in order to fit it for the habitation of Jehovah's ransomed people. The waters did not come to the temple, as if intended for the purpose of washing the sacrifices, but they issued from it, and proceeded to refresh and fertilize other places.

3, 4. "The man." The angel described in chapter 40:3. "Measured," etc. There is no special significance to the exact distance, but only to the fact that gradually the river broadened and deepened as it flowed toward the sea. "Ancles—knees," etc. This may be applied to the gradual discoveries of the plan of salvation. 1. In the patriarchal ages. 2. In the giving of the law. 3. In the ministry of John the Baptist. 4. In the full manifestation of Christ by the Holy Ghost. Or this vision may be applied to the growth of a believer in the grace and knowledge of God; or to the discoveries a penitent believer receives of the mercy of God in his salvation; it is also a type of the progress of Christianity. 5. "Waters to swim in." The small rill, starting from the temple, is a type of the gospel as it spreads and deepens among all the nations of the earth, transforming the desert into a Garden of Eden.

II. The power and efficacy of the gospel (vs. 6-12). 7. "Many trees." So long as the beholder, the prophet, followed the measurer, the angel, he saw nothing of the trees on the bank. The looking forward gave Ezekiel the knowledge of the progressive fulness and depth of the waters; not until he looks back does he come to know the fertilizing, enlivening effect of these waters.

8. "Into the desert." The Arabah, the valley of the Jordan and the Dead Sea extending south to the Red Sea. The country between Jerusalem and the Dead Sea is the most desolate and inhospitable tract in the whole country. "Into the sea." The Dead Sea, the waters of which are so impregnated with various salts that no fish or animal can live in them. "Waters shall be healed." Restored to the proper condition, made healthful. This is typical of the work of the Holy Spirit.

9. "Everything—shall live." Life and salvation shall continually accompany the preaching of the gospel; the death of sin being removed, the life of righteousness shall be brought in. "Multitude of fish." The Dead Sea has become a sea of life. Out of death there arises, by the grace of God, a rich life. The sea is a symbol of the world; accordingly men appear as the living creatures in the sea, as the fishes. Hitherto they were only dead fishes, unspiritual, unsaved men.

10. In this verse we are told that the fishers shall stand from one end of the sea to the other and catch many fish. 11. The miry places and marshes shall not be healed, but shall be given to salt. Those not reached by the healing waters of the gospel through their sloth and earthly-mindedness are given over to their own bitterness and barrenness. The gospel is the only healing medicine for the disorders of our fallen nature, and they who will not receive it in the love of it remain incurable and are abandoned to final ruin. The salt comes into consideration here, not as seasoning, but as the foe of fertility, life and prosperity. The thought is this: Only those who bar themselves against the gracious stream of divine love and are unwilling to regain health are henceforth to be given over to the curse, continuing to exist as monuments thereof. Around the sea of death there lingers on a death unto death.

12. "Trees for meat." Salvation must present itself for the terribly sick heathen world, above all, in the form of saving grace. Besides the nourishing fruits, therefore, are named also the healing leaves. The figure of the fishes refers to the extent, the greatness of the community; this figure of the trees to its nature, in so far as the divine grace transforms it into truly living members, who themselves bear rich fruit and thereby become a means of life and recovery to others also. "Fruit according to his months." This signifies a constant disposition, desire, resolution and endeavor to bear fruit, not in their own wisdom, power or goodness, or any goodness in themselves, but by the continual supplies of divine grace. Whoever may be the instrument of planting them, it is divine grace which gives the increase.

Killed by Lightning.

Humboldt, Tenn.—On Friday during an electric storm in Gadsden, Tenn., Dee Brown was killed instantly and his brother George was shocked by lightning. The men were seated under a tree at the time.

The accident was most unfortunate, as they were the sons of a widow. The one killed was about 25 years old while his brother was younger.

Father of European Royalty.

James I of England and VI of Scotland, from whom nearly all the royalties of Europe descend, inherited sovereignty through his mother, Mary Queen of Scots. His father, Lord Darnley, was the son of Matthew Stuart, Earl of Lenox, and Margaret, the daughter of Queen Margaret Tudor, widow of James IV of Scotland, and her second husband, Archibald Douglas, Earl of Angus. In the royal collection at Windsor castle is a portrait of Archibald, who was the head of the second branch of Douglas and grandson of the famous earl, "Bell the Cat." He was a man of handsome person and reckless and unprincipled character.

Author's Experience With Fire.

Horatio F. Brown, a London writer on Ventian subjects, has had a singular experience with fire. The original draft of Brown's first and well-known work, "Life on the Lagoons," perished in the blaze which destroyed the office of its publisher, Kegan Paul, in 1883. The manuscript of his "Study in the Venetian Inquisition" was burned in a mail car in Switzerland two years later, and a similar fate overtook both of his "Calendar of Venetian State Papesh" at the fire at Spottiswoode's in 1892 and that of his "Studies in Archaeology." The latter was consumed in the burning of Cecil Rhodes' house, Rondesbosch, Capt Town, in 1895.

Odd Visiting Carcs.

Korean visiting cards sometimes measure a foot square. The savages of Dahomey announce an intended visit by sending in advance a wooden board or the branch of a tree artistically carved. When the visit is paid the "card" is returned to the possession of its owner, who will doubtless use it for many years. With the natives of Sumatra the visiting card is composed of a piece of wood about a foot long, decorated with a bunch of straw and a knife.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Great Britain is barely holding her own in trade with Argentina.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

In 1893 Japan had only 167,000 tons of merchant steamships.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. Samuel, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900

The population of Bangkok is estimated at 500,000 souls.

The Great Antiseptic,

Sloan's Liniment, for all mosquito bites. It kills yellow fever and malaria germs.

Two thousands vessels of all descriptions disappear every year.

CUTICURA GROWS HAIR

Scalp Cleared of Dandruff and Hair Restored by One Box of Cuticura and One Cake of Cuticura Soap.

A. W. Taft, of Independence, Va., writing under date of Sept. 15, 1904, says: "I have had falling hair and dandruff for twelve years and could get nothing to help me. Finally I bought one box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap, and they cleared my scalp of the dandruff and stopped the hair falling. Now my hair is growing as well as ever. I highly prize Cuticura Soap as a toilet soap. (Signed) A. W. Taft, Independence, Va."

Matsuchendo, the ringleader of the Potemkine mutineers, is thus described in the Neue Freie Fresse: "This 'bloodthirsty' mutineer possesses the naivette and the smile of a little child. In his eyes you may read the melancholy of the steppes and the dreaminess of the woods. He never speaks of his aged mother, who lives in a small Russian village, without tears in his eyes. He presented every member of the Potemkine's crew with a souvenir and was heartbroken at the failure of his plans."

Titled Engine Driver.

Probably the only occasion on which a titled lady acted as engine driver was when the Marchioness of Tweeddaale drove the engine of the first train that crossed the new Forth bridge. Notwithstanding its enormous length and the keen wind that was blowing in her face the marchioness carried out her self-imposed task, and was congratulated on the uniform speed that she maintained.

An old soldier of 1870 has been going about Paris for thirty years with no features, eyes, cheeks, lips and nose having suffered severely by the explosion of a shell. Modern science has restored his face. A mask was made, part of silver, part of wax, neatly tinted, two eyes in enamel, an excellent nose and serviceable lips in rubber.

The South Australian Jockey Club and the Adelaide Racing Club have been urging the government to assist in suppressing bookmaking and in excluding bookmakers from all race courses.

The highest elevator in the world has been opened on the Burgenstock, a mountain near Lake Lucerne. It lifts tourists 500 feet to the top of a vertical rock.

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Overestimated.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

What a disappointment, then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good.

If a woman finds her energies are flagging, and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, whites, irregularities, or despondency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every woman who is in poor health and ailing.

Its benefits begin when its use begins. It gives strength and vigor from the start, and surely makes sick women well and robust.

Remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills. This fact is attested to by the thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory. Merit alone can produce such results.

Women should remember that a cure for all female diseases actually exists, and that cure is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Take no substitute.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

The Princess of Wied, who is a prominent figure in the court circles at Berlin and whose husband is in the line of succession to the throne of Holland, buys all the ill-used horses that come to her notice and gives them the benefit of a stay in her well-appointed stables.

Write Quick FOR A Big Bargain

To better advertise the South's Leading Business College, four scholarships are offered young persons of this county at less than cost. WRITE TODAY.

GA-ALA. BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

WINCHESTER

"NUBLACK" BLACK POWDER SHELLS

The "Nublack" is a grand good shell. It is good in construction, primed with a quick and sure primer, and carefully loaded with the best brands of powder and shot. It is a favorite among hunters and other users of black powder shells on account of its uniform shooting, evenness of pattern and strength to withstand reloading.

ALL DEALERS SELL THEM

YOUR FEET Will give you best service in proper Shoes. Ask your dealer to fit your feet with shoes which will give you Comfort, Style and Longest Wear. The Right Shoe for all sorts of wear will be found in

"ALWAYS JUST CORRECT"

CLOVER BRAND SHOES

If your particular dealer really means to give you YOUR MONEY'S WORTH he will sell you CLOVER BRAND. Buy a pair of "AMIGO" SHOES today

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.

LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

A Berlin doctor lays it down that the piano should never be used by a child under 16 years of age. Out of 1,000 girls who played before the age of 12 he found 600 cases of nervous diseases.

FOR THE LIVER AND BOWELS

NOTHING CAN EQUAL

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR

IT PROMPTLY CURES CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS, INDIGESTION, SOUR STOMACH AND ALL DERANGEMENTS OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS. 50 CENTS A BOTTLE AT ALL DRUG STORES

TAKE BEFORE YOU SHAKE. DON'T HAVE CHILLS

USE Oxidine

It Will Not Only Cure, But Will Prevent Them.

Made in Regular and Tasteless Forms. Price 50 cts.

Manufactured by PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.,

For sale by all Druggists. Dallas, Tex. and Memphis, Tenn.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors silk, wool and cotton equally well and is guaranteed to give perfect results. Ask dealer or we will send post paid at 10c a package. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Mo.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equaled at any price.

ALL STYLES
SOLE AGENTS FOR W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES.
Established July 4, 1876.

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00 — the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES

GILBERT'S

GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

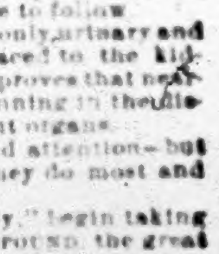
Pollock-Stephens Institute.

Birmingham, Ala.

Select Day and Boarding School for Girls.
Opens Sept. 27th.
Catalogue on application. Address

Madame Catherine Deschamps Elford, Principal.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC



FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

TULANE UNIVERSITY of LA.

NEW ORLEANS.

Full courses in Languages, Sciences, Engineering, Law, Medicine. Splendid department for women in Newcomb College. Tulane makes leaders in all vocations. Its facilities for instruction in Engineering are unsurpassed. Unexcelled opportunities for the study of Sugar Chemistry. Many scholarships in the academic department. Expenses low. Board and accommodations in dormitories at low rates. Next session begins October 1st. Send for catalogue. Address

THE REGISTRAR, Gibson Hall.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS 25 CTS

Am. 36, 1905.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS. FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. BLELOCK MFG. CO. 913 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICES.

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
EDISON PHONOGRAPHS
VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

we keep in stock, at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY
THE FAVORITE STORE
Clanton, Ala.

PATTILLO BROS.
MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN
YELLOW PINE LUMBER

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Flooring, ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at Verbena. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be satisfactory to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, ALA.

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and Ceiling in stock for the Clanton trade.

WELLS Bored and Drilled

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water Wells
CLANTON, ALA.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here.

EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a cof[illegible].

W. I. MULLINS
CLANTON, - - - ALA

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled for in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Sept. 4, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

J. E. Knight.

LADIES' LIST.

Mary Vinson, Nelie Craton.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Sept. 18, 1905, if not delivered before.

A man isn't always cool when he shivers in the hour of danger.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow Jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured three of us." For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Subscribe for the Banner

NEW STORE

Will Open About September 10th

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers. Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

M. F. CANNON & SONS
Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

PROGRAM.

Bible reading, school. Song, "Alabama." Address, Frank Dansby. Class recitation, primary boys. "100 Drill," primary boys. Recitation, Alma Messer. Recitation, Anthony Henderson. Recitation, Pearl Wood. Recitation. Powell Dansby. Music. Drill, "Shaking Quakers," little girls. Recitation, Amanda Messer. Recitation, Mack Thomas. Recitation, Byron Patterson. Recitation, Woodfin Williams. Recitation, Eudora Henderson. Recitation, Kate Belle Strugh. Recitation, Agnes Williams. Recitation, Willie Strugh. Recitation Maves Thomas. Recitation, Lucien Blackman. Recitation, Lamar Blackman. Recitation, Allen Blackman. Song, "Lullaby," primary girls. Music. Song, "My old Kentucky home," school. Paper, "Development of our country," Logan Strock. Song, "The old clock," girls. Recitation, Bessie Strock. Recitation, Maud Thomas. Recitation, Reynolds Williams. Recitation, Bettie Gardner. Recitation, Ressie Blackman. Declamation, Mr. Joseph Gaines. Recitation, Venie Grant. Recitation, Vesta Thomas. Recitation, Gladys Foster. Music. Recitation, Bill Nichols. Recitation. Lizzie Williams. Recitation, Phil Norrell. Recitation, Maggie Wood. Recitation, Margery Strock. Music. Address, Mr. Hubert Abernathy. Address, Dr. B. J Baldwin.

The above is the program rendered at Evergreen school house, Aug 31. It marked the closing of a nine weeks school given by Dr. and Mrs. B J. Baldwin, and taught by Misses Centerfit and McMillan of Montgomery. This being the second year and exercise of the kind the progress made was so wonderful the pleasure of the generous donors was enviable. The very faces of the children aglow with honest delight and their splendid efforts showed that not an hour had been wasted.

The opening address by Mr. Frank Dansby, and the closing by Mr. Hubert Abernathy were masterful and eloquent. In the reading of an extract from Job on wisdom by the school there was the correctness and harmony of music that showed good training in this work. The song "Alabama" aroused one's patriotism and made us feel that as first in alphabetical order so she is above all.

Songs "Lullaby" and "Shaking Quakers," with the "100 Drill" by the primary department brought down the house. The recitations were too many to be mentioned here. All were good.

"A paper, "The development of our country." written and read by Mr Logan Strock was a getting together of historical facts that showed much thought and vast research. Joseph Gaines' declamation showed poise and gift. Prizes were awarded as follows: In the high grade for excellence in spelling, Miss Bettie Gardner and Miss Maud Thomas. For uniformly neat written work, Miss Margery Strock and Mr. Fred Dansby. For the greatest improvement in written work, Mr. Phill Norrell. And for keeping a neat house, Miss Vesta Thomas.

In the primary department for spelling. Mavis Thomas and Bessie Wells. For house keeping, Anthony Henderson and Joseph Wells. And for closing the room, Charlie Dansby. Dr. Baldwin and Miss Howell made interesting talks on education. The gift of a new room for the primary work as well as the school itself by Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin. The splendid efforts of the teachers so gentle, of such breadth of culture, and depth of sympathy which gave inspiration to each child akin to that divine, and the sweet music of Messrs. Steve and Robert Headley and Maurice Brigance were the subjects of a resolution by the patrons adopted unanimously by a rising vote. These children will never be the same again. They have higher aspirations and will undertake great things in the world's work. In every success of their life they'll remember Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin, who turned the stone that ground the axe.

Maplesville.

Mr. B. W. Foshee and Dr. Charles Parnell are doing great improvements on their store building which bespeaks of prosperity.

Mr. Joe Hicks and wife have secured positions with the Jackson Lumber company at Riderville and Mr. Tom Perry has taken Mr. Hicks' place at Mr. T. U. Crumpton's. Mr. Crumpton's goods are now being mutilated by the girls going in for many samples.

Mr. David Vines entertained quite a number of his friendf last Friday night at his elegant country home near here. On this occasion our very dignified bachelor friend, Mr. Burrell Foshee, surprised his friends by tipping the light fantastic with several of our young set.

Mrs Robert Martin and children visited Mr. George Foshee's family near Clantonford last week.

Messrs. George Buck and Frank King, both of Thomason, Ala., visited Mr. Glover's family recently.

Miss Lottie Louise Plant gave a most delightful entertainment last Wednesday for the benefit of the M. E. church.

Mr. Richard Blalack has been quite sick, but we are glad to see him out again.

Miss Sallie Walker entertained a few friends on Saturday night at flinch and dominoes. All reported a very pleasant evening.

Misses Cora and Olive Branch are visiting relatives at Billingsley.

Mrs. Will Longcrier of Selma spent last week with her father, Mr. L. Henson.

Miss Daisy Berry of Orrville is visiting Mrs. Tom DuBose and Mr. T. U. Crumpton's families.

SUBSCRIBER.

Closing out sa

Going Out of Merchandise Busi
My Stock of General Merchandi

FOR SALE AT COS

Come and Get Bargains
While the Stock Lasts

W. D. LAWRENCE
Maplesville, - - Ala

Stingy Ridge.

Rev. Robt Jones filled his regular appointment at Sardis Saturday and Sunday and baptized 5 converts that joined at the protracted meeting.

The school at Vermont, taught by Miss Etta Mae Roper closed Friday with many recitations by the school. Miss Etta taught one of the best schools that has ever been taught in this community, and we hope to have her again in the future, for she is a first class teacher.

The boys of this place organized a base ball team Saturday evening and will play the second nine of the Blue Stars next Saturday on the formers ground.

Cotton picking is all the go here now, but it will not last long for it is a short crop.

Mr. George Walker and charming sister, Miss Katie, were pleasant visitors Saturday.

Miss Maggie Adams and sister visited their cousins the Misses Minors Saturday.

Some of our young people went to the barbecue at Pilgrim Saturday and report a fine time.

Ho! I had forgotten, we have a R. F. D., of which we are proud of and we appreciate our carrier, Mr. Jesse Hayes.

We will give you a description of this so-called Stingy Ridge in the future.

WERDNA.

Abscess.

Abscesses, with few exceptions, are indicative of Constipation or debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss. writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

God's Wrath is Close at Hand.

Lesson No. 15. Evening of same day. And God said "The heading shall be God's wrath is close at hand," and said this matter must be put in the Banner six months without ceasing. He said I think the Editor is a Christian man, and said if anybody wants a message direct from God, apply to NEWTON COOPER Verbena, Ala., R. F. D. No. 2.

DeWitt

DeWitt is the name to look for when you go to buy Witch Hazel Salve. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the original and only genuine. In fact DeWitt's is the only Witch Hazel Salve that is made from the unadulterated

Witch-Hazel

All others are counterfeits—base imitations, cheap and worthless—even dangerous. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a specific for Piles; Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles. Also Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Sprains, Lacerations, Contusions, Boils, Carbuncles, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, and all other Skin Diseases.

SALVE

PREPARED BY
E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago

For sale by Upchurch Drug Co.

NOTICE

Applications have been m
the Board of Education of county for the following d
school districts:

(1) To form a new distric
tricts Nos 39 and 40 as follow
ning on east boundary line of 22, R 14 east and ½ mile from thence west ⅜ mile; thence mile to south boundary line of 16; thence west ⅛ mile to said Sec 16; thence south 1½ half mile stake on west b of Sec 28, T 22, R 14 east; th
"Hurricane Branch" to thence down Goose Pond
railroad; thence northwester line of said railroad to point
ning

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' ho is now in one district, be a trict No. 40. Also a certain now in district No. 44, t added to district No. 40,
Beginning at sw corner Sec 14; thence ⅜ mile east; the Yellowleaf creek; thence up to district No. 40, Lomax

(3) To make west bounda district No. 13 a continuo line.

(4) To make the following district No. 47. Mineral ginning at se corner of Sec 14; thence south to Yellow thence up said creek to the Turkey creek; thence up creek to south boundary line
T 23, R 14 east; thence east line to the southwest corner
east.

(5) To divide district No
lows: Dividing line to beg west corner of Sec 16, T 2 north to Chestnut creek; ne be known as Canaan.

The above applications w upon by the Board of Educ Court House in Clanton, on September, 1905.

Done by order of B
Aug. 12, 1905.
G. L.
Sec. Board of

A Great Physician to a patient who asked h trouble was, "If it's not y it's your Kidneys,—if it's Kidneys it's your Liver. Y live without them, yet the cause of ALL your ills."

And we say to you tha
the case, it is your duty t and happiness, to careful condition of your Liver a Make them your useful not your destroyers.
until they have the upper not delay until they are your body and soul a pain and agony, but keep fect in health and

URACUR

50¢ A BOTTLE

URACU

is a Nervine Tonic, Blood Liver Regulator and Bladder cure. It restores renews vitality, purifies relieves biliousness and and produces a healthy sound digestion. A pure compound or conc prepared from these that years of experience to be the only sure these troubles known to

The First Dose Begins

Dr. Granger Medicine Co.

For sale

ALL DRUGG

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.

Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.

Position! GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Board taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day. GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Subscribe for the Banner.

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XIII | Twelve Pages | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No 48

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

en cents was the minimum set by the Southern Cotton ciation at its meeting at Ashe- N. C., last week after much sion. The crop is estimated ly 9,588,133 bales, the con being 73.3 compared with year. With the experience of year fresh before them there is doubt but that in the majority planters will hold for the price of eleven cents. At t the market price is below nts, but in all probability as as the first rush of the season there will be an advance, t is certainly worth waiting nton now has three ginneries g, the new ginnery of the Warehouse Company start- siness, under the management H. Conway, on Monday. bale ginned was brought Joe W. Cox of Beat 4. The weighed 590 pounds, and was from 1600 pounds of seed . The new ginnery has a and thrasher (the only one county, I am told) cleaning trash before the cotton is d.

---

Clanton public school open- Monday with 88 scholars, a attendance of citizens being d. The session opens under istic circumstances. Prof. , the principal, coming to ly recommended, while his nts, Misses Slaton and land, are all that could be d. The new school house be pushed to completion as possible, and affairs scho- are more encouraging in than for some time past.

Maplesville.

remains of Mr. Jasper rman were brought here on morning from Bessemer, d interred in the Maples- cemetery. Mr. Smitherman heriff of this county some go and was quite a promi- citizen. He was fifty-four ld and leaves a wife, five d two daughters to mourn

Bob Roy of Vine Hill, Mrs. and Mr Dan Smitherman rrville, Mr. Ed and Miss Smitherman of Clanton, all here on Friday for the service of their brother, per Smitherman.

Lula Mosley of Orrville is her cousin, Mrs. Ellie Huff. to Mr. and Mrs. Davidson 4, a little girl. We wel- he little stranger into our Elizabeth Ricketts is visit- weeks in Atlanta.

Tiny Griffin and Annie s have been here this week. Florence and Rea Adair Mrs. Glover's family.

Johnnie Wilkinson of has visited Mrs. Noah

Celestia Dunlap of Active Messrs. Robert and Jesse families the past week.

R. O. Glover has taken of the Maplesville post d is now handling letters public at Dr. Parnell's store. Culver and family of have moved near Maples Cleve Holdritch made a trip to Eoline last week. success to the Banner.

SUBSCRIBER.

Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

been troubled with lame fteen years and I found a recovery in the use of 's Pain Balm," says r, Gillam, Ind. This is also without equal for d bruises. For sale Drug co anton, A by.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 c.

Lomax, Sept. 6, 1905

Editor Banner—I wish to say a few words in regard to stock and poor fencing in Beats 4 and 9. We know the fencing generally is very sorry and a lot of the farmers have not the timber to make a good fence. It has got to be a common thing to hear of cows going into the crops and damaging them, also hogs getting in and destroying crops. Now what are we going to do with this state of affairs? Are we going to let them continue, or is there a remedy? We have a law that makes a man responsible for his misconduct. If it is necessary to have a law to make a man responsible for his mischief, isn't it more necessary to have a law to make a man responsible for the mischief and trespassing of his stock? The man knows better than to trespass, the stock doesn't, yet we have a law for the man but none to make the man responsible for his stock. Let us hear from some one else on the question.

Yours truly,

UNCLE NOAH.

Shades Mountain.

Our people have just had a good shaking up in religion. The Methodists have just concluded a protracted meeting at the Summit church. It was conducted by Rev. Slaughter and Rev. Knowles. The Baptists are holding one now at the Summit church. It is being held by Rev. Beale and Rev. J. F. Gable of Birmingham. A number have joined the Baptist church.

Messrs. Will and Evins Hale and Mrs. Evins Hale of Brompton have been attending the protracted meetings here.

Mrs. Smith of Jasper has been visiting Mrs. Elmore Dison's family.

Mrs. Shelby has returned from a visit to relatives in Birmingham.

Miss Fannie Haralson of Montgomery is the charming guest of Mrs. G. A. Northington's family.

Miss Frances Crenshaw and Mrs. Walter Uuquhart of Birmingham have been the guests of friends on the mountain.

Mr. W. W. Bailey, one of Oxmoor's old citizens, who had removed to Batelle, Ala., and was working in the furnace there, fell from the top of the furnace about 85 feet and was almost instantly killed. Was brought here and buried in the cemetery at the Summit church. His family have the deepest sympathy of our people in their great loss.

We are having delightful weather on the mountain now.

Mr. Pouncey, who has been quite sick in Birmingham, has been brought out to his summer home on the mountain.

The furnace at the foot of the mountain in Oxmoor, is in full blast now and is turning out quantities of iron.

Miss Pearl Hale of Boyles is visiting relatives here.

Miss Ghis', after a pleasant visit to friends here, has returned to her home in the magic city.

What has become of "X" of Verbena, is he dead?

May the shadow of The Banner never grow less and may it continue to prosper is our wish.

B.

Death of Mr. J. T. Smitherman.

Mr. J. T. Smitherman, familiarly known as Jap, a former sheriff of Chilton county, died at his home at Bessemer last Thursday, aged about 48 years. He leaves a wife and five children. Mr. Smitherman had numerous friends in this county who will learn with regret of his death, and whose sympathies are with the bereaved family. The remains were interred at Maplesville Friday.

Get Off Cheap.

He may well think, he has got off cheap, who, after having contracted constipation or indigestion, is still able to perfectly restore his health. Nothing will do this but Dr. King's New Life Pills. A quick, pleasant and certain cure for headache, constipation, etc. 25c at Upchurch Drug co. Guaranteed.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. HOLLOWAY, President. W. T. CALLEN, Cashier.
W. I. MULLINS, Vice-President. JOHN A. THOMAS, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

Fairview.

Editor Banner—I wish to say through your paper that I had the pleasure of attending the closing exercises of Miss Lottie Johnson's school at Fairview on the 1st day of September, which proved to be a success in every sense of the word. The closing exercises showed that Miss Lottie was both a competent and energetic teacher, and during the short term of her school she won the love of both patrons and pupils, and she was unamimously chosen and employed to teach the winter school at Fairview, commencing on Nov 1, 1905. Success to teacher and patrons.

A SUBSCRIBER.

A Remedy Without a Peer.

"I find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets more beneficial than any other remedy I ever used for stomach trouble," says J. P. Klote, of Edma, Mo. For any disorder of the stomach, biliousness or constipation, these tablets are without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Avondale, Ala., Sept. 12, 1905

Editor Banner: Our town is on a boom

There was a cutting affair here Saturday night. John Henderson was badly cut by John Dupree. He is getting along nicely.

Rev. Chester's little son, who was hurt by the car in this place, will return to his home from the hospital, where he has been for some time.

Miss Lela Henley, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Amos Henley, visited the family of Mr. F. R. McCary Sunday.

Miss Belle McCary of Maplesville is visiting her uncle, Mr. F. R. McCary, also the family of Mr. A. J. Henley of Avondale.

Mr. Ornal of Blocton will move his family to Ensley to the delight of his many friends there.

COPPER HEAD.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received at this office until 11 a m. Thursday, Sept. 21st, 1905. for furnishing the material and labor required to underpin the present jail and raise it six feet high together with the cells and for building an addition to the present Court House in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in this office. Contractors desirous of bidding on the work will call at this office to see the plans, as the same will not be sent out.

A check for 15 per cent the amount of the bid must accompany each bid as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a contract and furnish a good and solvent bond.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids or to accept any bid that may be deemed advantageous to the county. Address all bids to

L. H. REYNOLDS.
Judge of Probate.
Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama.

The girl who poses for artists always leads a model life.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND
AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

Sardis.

Cotton is very short in this part of the country, only a little over a half crop. Corn in some localities is very good. The sweet potato crop is a success. Turnips and peas are doing well.

Mr. J. M. Parrish is getting along nicely with his school, he has three more weeks to teach.

Miss Belle McCary is visiting friends and relatives in Ensley.

Mr. Howard McCary has been visiting his uncle, S. B. McCary, at this place.

Mr. L. B. Broadhead made a business trip to Clanton this week.

It is hardly time to talk about politics, but we have our eye on our next Sheriff, he will be found in Beat 3 if he is at home.

A VET.

No Unpleasant Effects

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for billiousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. Justice of the Peace, Adam Shook, New Libson, Ind., says: 'Some three years ago I had a spell of grip and felt outdone and I happened to get a trial box of DeWitt's Little Early Risers and they gave me strength and muscle." They do not gripe or made you feel sick, Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Lomax.

The farmers are busy now picking cotton, the yield promises to be a good deal less than last year.

We are glad to note the little babe of Mrs. Lottie Hill, who has been sick for several days, is now on the mend. Also the little son of Mr. Gip Henley, who has been down for several days with fever, is up again.

Died at this place on Sept. 1st, Wallace, the little son of W. W. Jones. He was sick only about eight hours, was taken Aug. 31, at about 11 p.m. and died at 7 a.m. Sept. 1. Dr. Johnson was called before he died and said it was congestion of the brain. Wallace was only nine years and a few months old. His days were but few on this earth, but we know that he is gone to a better world than this where there is no sickness, nor sorrow nor pain. The bereaved have our heartfelt sympathy.

OBSERVER.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. MULLINS, President — E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier
W. H. SARTOR, Vice President — E. B. DEASON, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker	P. D. Wilson	E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor	W. I. Mullins	J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officials are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

PANAMA HATS cleaned and pressed for 50 cents. Mrs. S. J. WATTS, Duke House, Clanton.

THE JERSEY BULL.—Mona's Lowland King No. 68,780; Dam Mona's Addie No. 163,371; Sire Lowland King No. 53,894. Bred by M. C. Campbell, Spring Hill, Tenn. Will make the season 1905 at the farm of P. T. HINKLE, Clanton, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

A GURANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggist refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case, no matter of how long standing, 6 to 14 days. First supplication gives ease and rest. 50c. If your druggist hasn't it send 50c in stamps and it will be forwarded post paid by Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS — Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.

Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

THE GREATEST FAIR IN THE SOUTH!

ALABAMA STATE FAIR AT BIRMINGHAM

OCTOBER 23—NOVEMBER 2—TEN DAYS

NEW AND COMPLETE GROUNDS—FINE BUILDINGS

Exhibit Your Farm and Garden Products
Needle Work, Art, Fruits, Preserves, Etc.

LIBERAL PREMIUMS—SPECIAL PRIZES
SHOW RINGS FOR CATTLE, SHEEP, HOGS AND HORSES
Big Poultry Exhibit, Horse Show at Night
ALL PRIZES IN CASH AND GUARANTEED TO EXHIBITORS
GET READY FOR THE FAIR—SEND FOR CATALOGUE

R. M. WILLIAMS, Sec'y., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Shirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - • • • ALA.

ATHENS FEMALE COLLEGE

ATHENS, ALA.

Owned and Controlled by the North Alabama Conference. Founded [illegible].

We offer the advantages of a full collegiate course in the Departments of Mathematics, Languages, Science and Literature under competent instructors. The college building is handsome and commodious, with steam heat, electric lights and enameled baths, while ten thousand dollars appropriated at the last session of the North Alabama Conference will be expended this summer in improving the equipment and in increasing the capacity of the dormitories.

Special advantages offered in Music and Fine Arts.

The health record of the college is absolutely unsurpassed. The boarding capacity of the institution is limited to one hundred students, and those desiring to enter should apply early. Catalogue sent on application.

MARY NORMAN MOORE, President,
(P. O. Drawer [illegible]) Athens, Ala.

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

The shark is attracting this summer more attention than the sea serpent.

Philadelphia and China appears to have awakened from a Rip Van Winkle nap at about the same time, and the first thing that both laid hands on with the boycott, asserts the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The rule followed by editors of both the Oxford and Cambridge Chronicles in the position of the letters A. M. and M. A., for the title master of arts, is that where the context is in Latin the form is A. M., and where it is English, M. A.

Lady Violet Greville in the Graphic says. "One is in the habit nowadays of seeing brides absolutely self-possessed, almost jocose, laughing and smiling and nodding to their friends. Mothers and sisters never cry nowadays at parting."

We are gravely asked in the Boston Post, who owns the money that the wife saves, states the Massachusetts Ploughman. She does, of course, if she doesn't let hubby know that she has a little cash on the side. This is a piece of husbandry that many shrewd wives follow.

The effectiveness of the Russian navy has been further decreased by disarming the men on two cruisers. This does not mean that the vessels would be more valuable against the enemy, but that are to be preserved from use against the government, avers the Providence Journal.

In savage races natural selection remorselessly cuts down the diseased, the race does not become contaminated, and thus a high standard of health is maintained. We, on the other hand, remarks the London Daily Mail, surround the weaklings with an artificial environment, and we struggle with all our strength against the law which condemns the unfit to extinction.

There are notable exceptions to the rule, says the St. Louis Post Dispatch, if this is really the rule, but the statistics of the St. Louis Post-Office are an astonishing confirmation of the ease with which thousands of women all over the country can be induced to mail hard-earned money, running up finally to a total of millions, for "safekeeping" by men of whom they know nothing except through the appeal of the incredible made by circular.

Within three years, at most, practically worthless land, so heavily charged with injurious salts as to be unfit for any form of agriculture, may be reclaimed to grow any ordinary field crop, relates the Scientific American. The method of doing this is simple; and the expense involved is such that the work may in many instances be economiaclly undertaken by individual, corporate, or State initiative. The total expense of reclamation, taking everything into consideration, is but a small fraction of the enhanced value.

And as exercise and the quality of exercise are even more important to our bodies than food, so thinking and exercise of the brain's faculties are infinitely more important to our brains than reading. Use your brain to succeed, and, above all, use your brain to counteract the depressing, discouraging effects of failure. Remember that if you do as well as you can you have done all that you ought to do. Do not worry about the superior achievements of others, admonishes the Massachusetts Ploughman. You have no cause for worry unless your life fails to bring you up to your highest possible degree of mental development.

Under all the circumstances must we not acknowledge that, since the temporary effacement of Russia from the list, there are left only four great powers on earth, to wit, Japan in the Orient; Germany on the European Continent; England, by virtue of her insular inviolability and her globe-encircling possessions; and the United States in the New World? And if there be left also any where a moral influence that can stay the arm of the strong and say to the seemingly omnipotent, Thus far shalt thou go and no further, much we not look for it on this side of the Atlantic, and recognise its source in Washington, asks Harper's Weekly. It was an American Secretary of State who rescued China's territorial integrity. May it not be reserved for an American President in this, their hour of imminent danger, to safeguard the independence of many a weak European state?

GENERAL STATE NEWS.

Current News Gernered as It Falls From the Plant of Report.

Corner Stone Laid.

Tuskegee, Ala.—The exercises attending the laying of the corner stone of the Masonic temple took place here Monday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., presided over by R. S. Teague, of Montgomery, grand commander of the Grand Commandery of Knight Templars of Alabama, who represented the most worshipful grand master of the state.

On the corner stone are inscribed the words: "Masonic Temple, erected 1905 by Tuskegee Lodge, 57, A. F. and A. M., and James E. Cobb Chapter, No. 129."

The laying of this corner stone no doubt marks the beginning of a new era in the Masonic history of Tuskegee.

Killed By a Woman.

Dothan, Ala.—Joe Taylor was shot and killed by Laura Harris at Cottonwood, ten miles below here, Wednesday. Taylor is said to have gone to the home of the woman intending to raise a quarrel. On finding the doors locked, he is said to have attempted to force an entrance, when the woman killed him with a shotgun. The woman has been placed in jail.

The Enterprise Lumber Company, which is building the road from Dothan to St. Andrews Bay, has located the large mills here and is getting them up as fast as possible. W. S. Wilson, who is doing the grading, has about ten miles graded.

While playing in the yard Monday the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gresham was kicked by a horse. He kicked the boy just above the eye and crushed the skull and it was thought for a day or so he could not live, but up to now he is living and may get well.

The cotton crop in this section is the poorest for many years. It will barely make a half crop and it will soon all be picked out. All other crops are good.

Laying Court House Corner Stone.

Prattville, Ala.—The largest crowd ever gathered in Prattville witnessed the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the court house Thursday. Early in the morning people from the country began to arrive, and by 10 o'clock there were 2,000 people waiting for the beginning of the ceremonies.

The orator of the day, Dr. R. M. Cunningham, was introduced by G. C. Spiegen, and after prayer by the Rev. John R. Caldwell, the band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and the people joined singing. The doctor made an appropriate address, which was well received. The box deposited in the corner stone contained many interesting bits of history of Autauga county and Prattville.

When the corner stone was lowered to its place the people repaired to Magnolia Grove, where was provided a bountiful barbecue dinner. There were estimated to have been 2,500 or 3,000 persons who partook of this dinner. There were preparations made for 3,500 to 4,000. There was nothing to mar the occasion and the pleasures of the day were complete.

Good Institution.

Evergreen, Ala.—The thirteenth annual session of the Alabama Agricultural school opened on last Monday with a large number of pupils, patrons and friends of the school present.

An appropriate programme of exercises had been arranged by President J. A. Liner, which included short but pointed talks from Rev. C. S. Talley, Rev. J. W. Stewart, Hon. J. F. Jones, Rev. A. G. Moseley and President Liner. The exercises were interspersed with a beautiful vocal solo by Miss Lucie Daughdrille, of Marion, and instrumental selections by Mrs. Taylor, of Selma; Misses Pearl Williamson and Dorothy McCreary, of Evergreen.

The work of the school began on Tuesday with more than two hundred pupils present, and the prospects are that three hundred will have matriculated by the first of October. Prof. W. W. Monroe from Fayette, Ala., and Prof. S. Greer from Pikeville, Tenn., have returned to resume their work in the school. Their families will follow later.

Miss Lucy Lowe Dead.

Huntsville, Ala.—Miss Lucy Lowe, a prominent member of the Huntsville chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, died very suddenly Wednesday afternoon. Miss Lowe was a sister of Miss Sarah Lowe and of the late William Lowe, member of congress from the Eighth Alabama district. She was a daughter of the late Gen. B. M. Lowe.

Death at Aberfoil.

Aberfoil, Ala.—Calvin J. Smith died at his home near here Wednesday. He had been a resident of this community over fifty years. He was one of the old veterans of the Third Alabama regiment, was wounded at Chancellorsville, shot through the lungs, and although he lived to be 74 years old he still suffered at times from the old wound. He was a useful citizen and a good, true man.

Tried to Run Line.

Bay Minette, Ala.—State Quarantine Officer A. J. Giddeons, who is stationed on the Perdido River on the line between Baldwin county and Escambia county, Florida, brought into Bay Minette Thursday morning two boys, Beck and Matthews, both of whom were working over the line in Escambia county. The boys decided they would cross the line, but found the bridge they approached guarded. They then went away, but afterwards, crossed at a point where the guard could not see them. Knowing the boys, he suspected that they might take such action and they were promptly captured. They were brought here to Dr. J. C. McLeod, who is acting for Dr. Mohr, of Mobile, in so far as this county on Perdido river is concerned. Dr. McLeod sent the boys back across the line. Whether they will be arrested for violation of the quarantine laws or not has not been made public. The reports here are that the several guards on the Perdido river are turning people back every day and night.

Foundry Plant to Be Rebuilt.

Anniston, Ala.—General Manager H. H. McCord, of the Western Steel Car and Foundry company, has received authority to rebuild the malleable cast iron foundry plant at this place and the work of rebuilding has begun. The company will expend $50,000 in rebuilding and equipping the foundry, and when completed will furnish more than 150 skilled men with work. These men will receive the highest wages on account of the skill that is required of them. The malleable foundry was burned several years ago and threw about 100 men out of employment, besides crippling to a considerable extent the working of the plant.

Shoots Ox On Bridge.

Selma, Ala.—Peter Morse, a negro, caused much excitement on the county bridge Thursday afternoon by shooting at another of his race.

A steamboat had just passed through the draw of the bridge and a great crowd was passing over at the time of the shooting. Four shots were fired, one of which struck the negro in the leg and the other hit an ox which was on the bridge, killing it. The dispute had arisen over the ownership of a guitar. Morse was captured shortly after the shooting.

Schooner Is Run Down.

Mobile, Ala.—Information has been received in this city to the effect that the steamer Mobile of the Munson line, plying between Mobile and Havana, had run down and sunk the schooner Vila y Hermono on her last trip to Havana. Captain Clark, of the schooner, with his family and crew were saved and carried to Havana. It is probable that the accident occurred near the Cuban coast, as the schooner cleared with a cargo of lumber for Havana and had had time to discharge her cargo and start on the return voyage.

Opening of School.

Scottsboro, Ala.—The opening of the Scottsboro Baptist institute on Thursday morning was an auspicious occasion. The large college hall was thronged with visitors, patrons and pupils. Addresses were made by Hon. C. W. Brown, of Glinyaida, and Judge J. A. Bilbro, of Gadsden. Over one hundred students were enrolled. A great many more will enter later. Professor Yarbrough, the newly-elected principal, is delighted with the prospects.

Cotton picking has begun in Jackson county, and hands are in great demand. The crop is very poor and will not make more than one-half the amount made last year.

Gadsden Schools Well Attended.

Gadsden, Ala.—Gadsden's free public school opened up its fall term last week with the largest attendance in its history on opening day. The number of students now enrolled is 650, which will be increased to at least 850 in another month. Prof. W. E. Striplin and his able corps of teachers and the pupils are already down at hard work, and great results are expected from this term.

N. H. Snodgrass Is Married.

Scottsboro, Ala.—N. H. Snodgrass, the wealthiest and one of the most prominent young planters in Jackson county, surprised his many friends when he arrived from Fort Payne by private conveyance Tuesday accompanied by his bride. He was married in Fort Payne recently to Miss Lidie Thomason of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Snodgrass will reside at his handsome country home near Scottsboro.

Lineman Burned by Wire.

Huntsville, Ala.—Lineman Edward Daugherty, of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, was probably fatally burned Friday by touching a live electric wire. Daugherty was suspended by a rope and his clothing blazed several minutes before help could reach him. Will Gray, a lineman, was killed on the same wire and same pole last April.

Attempted Assault.

Bessemer, Ala.—Considerable excitement was created Friday morning about 10 o'clock when it was reported that an unknown negro had attempted criminal assault upon the person of Mrs. M. G. Lowry, a white woman, living at Reader's Gap.

Local officials and a posse of indignant citizens hurried to the scene of the reported crime about one mile beyond Reader's Gap on the Little Shades road, but no trace of the negro could be secured. Dogs placed on the trail failed to follow it up.

Mrs. Lowry is a widow 64 years of age and has several sons and daughters living in and around Bessemer. She is very feeble and was greatly excited, so much so that she could give no definite description of the negro.

She came to town herself and reported the matter to Deputy Sheriff Jerry Fountain, stating that the negro had accosted her on the road, asking her about where he could find some chickens and then demanding where she was going. Becoming alarmed at the negro's manner she started to run and the negro pursued her, she claims, until she screamed, and then he turned and ran into the woods.

Ashland's Progress.

Ashland, Ala.—Work has begun on five new store buildings in Ashland, and the contract for a new bank building has been let.

The corn crop in this county is very good, but the cotton crop is somewhat short. It is not believed that the crop will be so good as last year's.

The A. and B. railroad, projected through this county, it is thought, will be built soon. As yet the exact location of the road is not known. The right-of-way through this county is guaranteed to the company by the citizens.

A Bank for Slocomb.

Slocomb, Ala.—The National Bank of Slocomb has been organized with $35,000 capital. The stockholders are J. R. Faircloth, Joe Baker, R. D. Crawford, J. P. Crawford, H. G. Forrester, of Dothan; C. E. Segrest, of Midland City; S. D. McGee, J. M. Pilcher, Y. L. Brackin, Dr. G. W. Smith, A. L. Kelley, W. J. Smith, B. F. Smith, Dr. M. E. Daughty, J. C. Davis, Joe Morgan, R. L. Casey, of Slocomb. The officers are: J. R. Faircloth, president; C. E. Segrest, vice president; S. D. McGee, cashier.

J. F. Hilton Killed.

Anniston, Ala.—J. F. Hilton, father of O. A. Hilton, of this city, was killed at Edwardsville Friday by a freight train. Mr. Hilton, with C. H. Burgess, was out driving in an automobile and attempted to cross the track of the Southern railway when a train bore down upon them. Both of the men jumped from the vehicle, but not soon enough for Mr. Hilton to escape a horrible death under the wheels of the engine. Mr. Hilton was seventy years old and was a pioneer citizen of Cleburne county.

Witte Drinks to President's Health.

New York.—Col. George Harvey entertained at dinner Thursday night at the Metropolitan club the Russian peace envoys, M. Witte and Baron De-Rosen, the members of their suites and a company of men distinguished in the different walks of life.

M. Witte spoke first, saying he had insisted upon being accorded that privilege that he might have the honor to propose a toast "to the health of the illustrious statesman, Theodore Roosevelt."

M. Witte's last words were drowned with cheers. When these were ended he resumed speaking in French:

"At the same time it is my pleasure and I believe it my duty to propose a toast to the prosperity of the great and marvelous American people who are so admirably personified in the president. I drink to this glorious republic and its president, Mr. Roosevelt."

Colonel Harvey followed M. Witte and proposed a health toast to the Russian emperor, which was drunk standing.

Colonel Harvey referred to the friendly relations that have always existed between Russia and the United States.

In conclusion he offered a greeting "from the great white nation of the west to the great white nation of the east."

Baron De Rosen spoke next.

"Peace," he said, "was the passionate desire of Russia, but Russia wanted the peace that comes of right to the just man, armed, and not the peace given to the beaten craven."

Elihu Root, secretary of state, spoke briefly. He congratulated the envoys on the success of their mission. He referred to the courage which had enabled the representatives of both great nations to make peace, for he said it required "more courage to make peace than to make war."

Auspicious Opening at Auburn.

Auburn, Ala.—The Alabama Polytechnic Institute opened Thursday with the largest enrollment in the history of the institution. The number matriculated was considerably larger than that of last year, which was the highest up to that date.

An English burglar says that the fraternity never rob a house in which a squint-eyed servant is employed.

ELEVATED WRECKED.

Twelve are Dead—Eight Killed and Four Died Soon—Many Injured.

A SWITCHMAN WAS ARRESTED.

Motorman Has Disappeared, But Other Trainmen Are Placed Under Arrest Charged With Negligence.

New York.—The death list of the accident on the Ninth avenue elevated railroad, when a car crowded with early morning workers on their way down town, pitched headlong into the street, stands at twelve. Three men are in hospitals with fractured skulls. One of these who as yet remains unidentified at Roosevelt hospital is unconscious and not expected to live. More than two score of persons were injured, many of them seriously.

The cause of the accident and the immediate responsibility remains to be seen. The motorman of the wrecked train is a fugitive, while a switchman is charged with manslaughter and the trainmen are held as witnesses. Coroner Schoeler, who has undertaken the work of fixing the blame for the wreck, announced that the switchman's bond had been placed at $5,000, and those of the witnesses at $100 each.

Train Takes Wrong Track.

Whatever may have caused the mistake, the accident, the worst in the history of overhead railroads in New York, came when a south-bound train on the Ninth avenue line was switched off to the Sixth avenue line at the Fifty-third street junction. The motorman, expecting a clear track on the direct line of Ninth avenue, or disregarding the warning signal that the switch was open, rushed his train along at a high rate of speed. The first car swung around the right angle curve, holding to the rails because of the weight of the train behind. Then the strain became too great. The couplings broke, the second car was whirled about almost end for end, and to the horror of those who looked on from below, pitched into the street.

Passengers in Jumbled Mass.

Those passengers who had not jumped from platforms and windows before the plunge came were thrown into a mass at the forward end of the car. As the injured men and women were struggling to free themselves, the heavy front trucks of the third car on the train above fell almost in their midst, as the car itself jumped nearly off the elevated structure and was wedged against a building at the southeast corner of Ninth avenue and Fifty-third street.

Almost every ambulance in Manhattan was summoned and the injured and dead were hurried away with all speed.

Three alarms of fire brought many engines to the scene. A slight fire caused by burning insulation was quickly extinguished, and the firemen set to work chopping out the dead and injured. The task was not an easy one, for the heavy car in falling had almost completely buried pedestrians in its wreckage. At least one was killed ought in this way, while Policeman, Henry Atkens, who was standing directly under the elevated structure, is among those most seriously injured.

Eight persons were dead when taken out of the wreck and four died later at hospitals.

Switchman First Arrested.

The switchman in the tower at Ninth avenue and Fifty-third street, Cornelius A. Jackson, was first arrested. Then Conductor J. W. Johnson and Guards Higginson, J. McDavitt, W. L. Berry and B. Clark were taken into custody. At a preliminary hearing this afternoon all the men waived examination.

Two versions of the cause of the wreck were told to the coroner. One of these was that the switchman had set the tracks for a Sixth avenue train, and when he saw his mistake had attempted to rectify it, while the train was on the curve the change throwing the second, third and fourth cars off the track.

The switchman, however, declares the wrecked train had Sixth avenue signals set and he expected it to slow down to take the curve. Instead it maintained the speed usual with Ninth avenue trains on the direct line.

Efforts to Fix Blame.

Statements tending to fix the blame of the accident were made by officials of the company after several hours' investigation. E. P. Brown, vice president of the company, speaking for the switchmen who set the switch so that the train turned off on the avenue track at nearly a right angle to its natural course, made the following statement in Jackson's name:

"The Ninth avenue car with the accident displaced nue signals. On the assum the signals were correct, I train the Sixth avenue track."

General Manager Hedley
terborough Rapid Transit said that after the wreck was found set for a Sixth train.

State Railway Commission
W. Baker made personal of the scene of the wreck order to have on hand which may be needed.
learned that Motorman spent a large part of the friend's house, but he from that place before
rived to arrest him.

Tokio Troubles About

Tokio—Friday was almost incident. Crowds collected at points and made slight demons against the police, but there disorder.

General Sakuma, who his headquarters at the war directed the military operations policing of the city from the withdrawn the guards from eign legations, which are be in no danger.

There have been no further strations against Christian or missions. The situation cities is being watched.
the trouble is not spreading peace meetings held in many and towns are passing denouncing the settlement at mouth, but are not interfered unless they result in breaches peace. Premier Katsura's that there would be a session diet in October tends to improve situation.

Nineteen Killed.

Connellsville, Pa.—The Rand
der mills at Fair Chance, south of Connellsville, were destroyed by an explosion at Saturday afternoon. Thirty-two were at work in the mills.
are known to be dead.

Scores of people in the town of Chance were more or less injured. The shock of the was distinctly felt at Conn twenty miles away, buildings rocked on their foundations Uniontown hundreds of were broken. In the town of Chance there is scarcely a that did not suffer damage.
of the Baltimore and Ohio and the West Pennsylvania company were rooted from their and traffic delayed from four hours. Train No. 52 on the and Ohio had a narrow escape annihilation. It had just passed mills when the explosion
The windows of the coaches shattered and the passengers into a panic.

Recklessness the Caus

Newcastle, Pa.—Recklessness responsible for the Western York and Pennsylvania wreck miles north of this city.
morning according to the
of Samuel Cox, fireman of the ed excursion train, to Coroner Cox.

Fireman Cox is reported said that "he understood the to be for the excursion train at Graham's siding to allow bound regular passenger train from Oil City to pass. There interval of three minutes was due at Wilmington Junction miles north of Graham's, and gineer Popham pulled out,
he could pass the regular train point. His failure to reach ton Junction cost the lives of gineer and fireman of No.
may cause his own death.
caused the fatal injury of one passengers and the severe nearly fifty others.

Health Association.

New Orleans, La.—The New leans Health Association is permanent body. Its officers been announced with Charles President, and H. M. Mayo,
tary.

Dr. J. H. White, surgeon in of the Federal forces, wrote Janvier highly indorsing the tion, and suggesting that efforts, the city and state ever be redeemed from the of epidemic disease.

French Vessel to Visit

Mexico City.—A French
probably the Catinat, will visit can ports early in October.
tion of this fact was received Captain Hautefeuille, the Pacific division. The tion was dated from

Infernal Machine is

Tasastheus, Finland.— governor was driving Monday the chief of police, an chine was thrown at the failed to explode.

Falls Through Skylight

Athens, Ala.—Frank a prominent young man of met with a dangerous and cident Saturday evening top of a two-story building
ped upon a skylight and to the floor, a distance of striking the floor on his side. He sustained very which will keep him in time. He is the young Theodore Westmoreland

Postoffice Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—Postmasters appointed: Fredonia, Chambers county, William R. Davis; Wyeth City, Marshall county, Maude William.

Rural routes have been ordered established as follows: November 1, Arab, Marshall county, routes 1 and 2, population 747, houses 178; Union Grove, Marshall county, routes 1 and 2, population 916, houses 216; November 21, Key, Cherokee county, route 1, population 606, houses 135.

WILD DISORDER

Oil District is Wiped Out Fire Kindled by Revengeful Tarters.

KILLED IN COLD BLOOD.

Officials Flee for Their Lives and is Under Martial Law—Telegraphs Destroyed.

Caucasus.—The situation here night shows no signs of
It could hardly be
The terror-stricken inhabitants fleeing from the city, knowing the garrison is utterly inade to protect them, and although worst scenes of fire and massacre not yet occurred in Baku itself dare to think how far the may proceed.

The entire oil and commercial quar
of Balakhan, Sabunto and Nomani been wiped out by fire, and the inhabitants remaining behind were massacred and thrown into the flames.
continues to burn, and is threatened with the same fate as Ba

The consulates, banks and commer buildings are guarded by troops of the English residents and al all other inhabitants of the bet class have boarded steamers and to sea to escape from danger.
available steamers have been em for this purpose.

Martial Law Proclaimed.

Martial law has been proclaimed the city. Nobody is allowed on the after 8 o'clock at night, and inhabitants of houses are held strictly responsible for shots fired from them.
Artillery was employed against one from which shots were fired.
walls were breached, the house stormed and all the people inside killed. There is a general pan the city. A whole army of hun workmen, driven from the districts, has flocked into the
There is the greatest destitution measures for transporting the workmen from the city are impera necessary.

Reinforcements of troops are arriv daily, and it is hoped the authori soon will have the situation bet in hand.

Following is a brief review in se of the events of the last six as witnessed at Baku:

the afternoon of Saturday last began running from mouth to that the Tartars and Arme were massacreing each other.
immediately there was great alarm a panic prevailed. Stores were and windows and doors were barricaded. Twenty minutes later of rifle firing were heard from various quarters of the city, and everybody wished to flee, but no one tell whether safety lay within without the city.

Two hours later patrols of Cossacks other soldiers armed with rifles to arrive from the barracks, these troops immediately engaged rioters.

The firing between the warring fac
continued all Saturday night.
Sunday the situation showed no improvement, and firing was in prog all during the day, the streets be deserted except for the combat

Reports of Massacres.

No one dared to leave his house during the day. A carriage, surround by Cossacks, conveyed the city au thorities to the house of the governor general. At 8 o'clock on Sunday even the first reflection on the sky of in the "black town" quarter was noticed, and it was learned that the oil reservoirs were burning.
Sunday night was more fearful than preceding one. Fires broke out several quarters and the firing of troops was uninterrupted.

Fires also broke out in the suburbs Balakhan and Sabunto. Telegraph communication between Baku and points were destroyed, and it impossible to ascertain what was going on Monday morning. Many the inhabitants decided to brave danger in an effort to leave the
They went in cabs surrounded Cossacks to the railroad station the flight from the city soon be general, everybody who was able leaving. By this time provi had became scarce and prices soaring. On Monday night the shooting, killing and plunder continued and a refinery which in flames beyond Bybiebat lit up sky in that direction.

A big wood yard in Baku also caught and a strong wind fanned the which soon spread to Nikitin and adjacent houses. The fire all of Tuesday blazing out several new places, embracing the station and a number of Wreck at Hurricane.

Minette, Ala.—A freight wreck on the Louisville and Nash at Hurricane about 9 o'clock be freight trains Nos. 17 and 25, bound, which were running headed together. The engineer broke down before the switch and No. 72, a fast freight, the caboose. No one was se

"The Ninth avenue car with the accident displaced nue signals. On the assum the signals were correct, I train the Sixth avenue track."

General Manager Hedley, of terborough Rapid Transit C said that after the wreck the was found set for a Sixth train.

State Railway Commissioner W Baker made personal observ of the scene of the wreck today order to have on hand any evid which may be needed. Detect learned that Motorman Paul spent a large part of the day friend's house but he disapp from that place before the police ceived to arrest him.

Tokio Troubles About Settle

Tokio—Friday was almost with incident Crowds collected at vari points and made slight demonstra against the police, but there was disorder.

General Sakuma, who establi his headquarters at the war office directed the military operations policing of the city from there, withdrawn the guards from the eign legations which are deemed be in no danger.

There have been no further dem strations against Christian chu or missions. The situation in cities is being watched. Appa the trouble is not spreading. peace meetings held in many c and towns are passing resol denouncing the settlement at P mouth, but are not interfered unless they result in breaches of peace Premier Katsura's pro that there would be a session of diet in October tends to improve situation.

Nineteen Killed.

Connellsville, Pa.—The Rand der mills at Fair Chance, six south of Connellsville, were enti destroyed by an explosion at 5 o'c Saturday afternoon Thirty-two were at work in the mills. Nine are known to be dead.

Scores of people in the town of F Chance were more or less painf injured The shock of the explo was distinctly felt at Connells twenty miles away, buildings be rocked on their foundations. Uniontown hundreds of pa s of g were broken. In the town of F Chance there is scarcely a h that did not suffer damage. The of the Baltimore and Ohio rai and the West Pennsylvania Trac company were rooted from their and traffic delayed from four to hours. Train No. 52 on the Balti and Ohio had a narrow escape annihilation. It had just passed mills when the explosion occu The windows of the coaches shattered and the passengers th into a panic.

Recklessness the Cause.

Newcastle, Pa.—Recklessness responsible for the Western York and Pennsylvania wreck sev miles north of this city Thur morning according to the state of Samuel Cox, fireman of the w ed excursion train, to Coroner J. Cox.

Fireman Cox is reported to said that "he understood the or to be for the excursion train to at Graham's siding to allow so bound regular passenger train No. from Oil City to pass.. There w interval of three minutes befo was due at Wilmington Junction, miles north of Graham's, and gineer Popham pulled out, thin he could pass the regular train at point. His failure to reach Wil ton Junction cost the lives of the gineer and fireman of No. 224, may cause his own death. It caused the fatal injury of one of passengers and the severe inju nearly fifty others.

Health Association.

New Orleans, La.—The New leans Health Association is now permanent body. Its officers been announced with Charles Ja President, and H. M. Mayo, S tary.

Dr. J. H. White, surgeon in ch of the Federal forces, wrote Pres Janvier highly indorsing the orga tion, and suggesting that throu efforts, the city and state could ever be redeemed from the thra of epidemic disease.

French Vessel to Visit Mexi

Mexico City.—A French cr probably the Catinat, will visit can ports early in October. N tion of this fact was received Captain Hautefeuille, comman the Pacific division. The commu tion was dated from Beunos Ay

Infernal Machine Is Thrown

Tasastheus, Finland.—While governor was driving Monday the chief of police, an infernal chine was thrown at the carriage failed to explode.

Falls Through Skylight.

Athens, Ala.—Frank West a prominent young man of this met with a dangerous and cident Saturday evening. He top of a two-story building ped upon a skylight and to the floor, stance of striking the floor on his side. He sustained very which will keep him in time. He is the young Theodore Westm

WILD DISORDER

Oil District is Wiped Out y Fire Kindled by Revengeful Tarters.

KILLED IN COLD BLOOD.

Officials Flee for Their Lives and City is Under Martial Law—Telegraphs Destroyed.

Baku, Caucasus.—The situation here sday night shows no signs of eration It could hardly be The terror-stricken inhabitants fleeing from the city, knowing the garrison is utterly inade to protect them, and although worst scenes of fire and massacre not yet occurred in Baku itself, dare to think how far the ex may proceed.

The entire oil and commercial quar of Balakhan, Sabunto and Nomani e been wiped out by fire, and the habitants remaining behind were sacred and thrown into the flames. ebat continues to burn, and is tened with the same fate as Ba

The consulates, banks and commer buildings are guarded by troops. of the English residents and al all other inhabitants of the bet class have boarded steamers and to sea to escape from danger. available steamers have been em ed for this purpose.

Martial Law Proclaimed.

Martial law has been proclaimed the city. Nobody is allowed on the ts after 8 o'clock at night, and habitants of houses are held strictly sponsible for shots fired from them. illery was employed against one from which shots were fired. walls were breached, the house stormed and all the people inside killed. There is a general pan in the city. A whole army of hun workmen, driven in from the ing districts, has flocked into the There is the greatest destitution measures for transporting the kmen from the city are imperaly necessary.

Reinforcements of troops are arriv daily, and it is hoped the authori soon will have the situation bet in hand.

Following is a brief review in se of the events of the last six s as witnessed at Baku:

On the afternoon of Saturday last orts began running from mouth to th that the Tartars and Armeans were massacreing each other. ediately there was great alarm a panic prevailed. Stores were and windows and doors were ricaded. Twenty minutes later nds of rifle firing were heard from various quarters of the city, and rybody wished to flee, but no one ld tell whether safety lay within without the city.

Two hours later patrols of Cossacks other soldiers armed with rifles gan to arrive from the barracks, these troops immediately engaged rioters.

The firing between the warring facs continued all Saturday night. Sunday the situation showed no provement, and firing was in prog all during the day, the streets be deserted except for the combat-

Reports of Massacres.

No one dared to leave his house ing the day. A carriage, surround by Cossacks, conveyed the city au rities to the house of the governor eral. At 8 o'clock on Sunday even the first reflection on the sky of in the "black town" quarter was iced, and it was learned that the bel oil reservoirs were burning. day night was more fearful than preceding one. Fires broke out several quarters and the firing of troops was uninterrupted.

Fires also broke out in the suburbs Balakhan and Sabunto. Telegraph communication between Baku and points were destroyed, and it impossible to ascertain what was ing on Monday morning. Many inhabitants decided to brave danger in an effort to leave the They went in cabs surrounded Cossacks to the railroad station the flight from the city soon be general everybody who was able so leaving. By this time provi had become scarce and prices soaring. On Monday night the ing, shooting, killing and plunder continued and a refinery which in flames beyond Byblebat lit up sky in that direction.

A big wood yard in Baku also caught and a strong wind fanned the which soon spread to Nikitin and adjacent houses. The fire tinued all of Tuesday blazing out several new places, embracing the station and a number of Armenian houses in different quarters of the city.

No One Dares Leave Home.

During Wednesday fugitives from Balakhan began to arrive here and told of the indescribable horrors they had witnessed.

All the oil wells there, they said, were in the hands of Tartars who were pillaging the houses of Russian and Armenian workmen, carrying away everything of value and burning the buildings. Ten thousand workmen they said would be left in poverty and they believe that Balakhan will be totally destroyed. At 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the situation was somewhat quieter. Tartars and Armenians were running through the streets crying "peace" and a little later a procession made up of both races, with clergymen at its head, went through the town. But these efforts toward a cessation of the fighting were not effective, for it went on all Wednesday night. The soldiers continued their efforts to repress the disorders and by Thursday morning matters were more orderly everywhere.

Wreck at Hurricane.

Bay Minette, Ala.—A freight wreck curred on the Louisville and Nash at Hurricane about 9 o'clock be freight trains Nos. 17 and 25, bound, wh were running le-headed together. The engine broke down before the switch cleared and No. 73, a fast freight, the caboose. No one was se hurt.

Burned at the Stake.

Fort Worth, Tex.—A special from Waxahachie, Tex., tells of the burning Thursday night of Steve Davis, a young negro, who confessed to outraging Mrs. S. M. Norris, aged 20, last Saturday night.

The mob, consisting of 3,500 persons, tied the negro to a piece of gas pipe that had been set in the ground, piled fagots around him and set the mass on fire. The sufferings of the negro were of short duration, owing to the fierceness of the fire, which was fanned by a gale of wind which blew across the prairie. The husband of the woman is said to have set the match to the tinder and started the blaze that consumed the negro.

Davis was arrested last Tuesday and taken before the woman, who at that time was not sure that it was he. She had been desperately ill from her ordeal. On Thursday he was again taken before the woman, who on sight of him, fainted. When she revived she identified him, and his fate was sealed. The negro finally confessed, detailing the crime. This is the third negro that has been burned in this section of Texas within a short time. One of these was lynched at Sulphur Springs and another at Waco.

Will Pay Respects.

New York.—Baron Komura said Thursday that his coming interview with Secretary Root, which he expected would occur in New York city, would be purely a formal exchange of courtesies, and that their meeting had no other object. The baron denied emphatically the rumor that the Emperor of Japan had not yet given his approval to the peace treaty or that the powers of the Japanese plenipotentiaries were so limited that there was at this late hour still a possibility that the emperor would fail to ratify the treaty.

"The political disturbances in Tokio" he said, "can not in the slightest degree influence the emperor's determination to ratify the treaty when he receives an official copy of the document."

Baron Komura reiterated his opinion that the disturbances in Tokio were directed against the local branches of the government.

Send Off for Lee.

Chattanooga, Tenn. — Lieutenant Fitzhugh Lee, Jr., of the Twelfth cavalry, has left the army post here on a furlough, after which he will report at Washington as the social aide of President Roosevelt. Lieutenant Lee was given a rousing send-off by the officers of the Twelfth, with whom he was very popular.

The president's selection of Lieut. Lee places scions of two of the greatest families in America on duty at the white house. The president's other social aide is Lieutenant U. S. Grant, third grandson of the famous union general. Lieutenant Lee is a grand nephew of General Robert E. Lee.

Assassin Still at Large.

Wylam, Ala.—The negro who shot and killed Dock Anderson, a white man in this city, Thursday night, while the latter was on his way home from his work in the steel plant, at Ensley, has not yet been captured, but his name has been learned and the officers are hopeful of securing his arrest within a few days.

Throw Remains in Niagara Falls.

Cleveland, O.—The will of W. H. Baird, a well-known attorney and promoter who died several weeks ago here, which is being contested by his sister, Mrs. Anna E. Wadsworth, decrees that his ashes be placed in a glass receptable and thrown into Niaga Falls: Mr. Baird also directed that one-fourth of the income from his estate be used each year in the support of the propaganda of socialism. The value of the estate has not yet been made public.

Large Barn Is Burned.

Scottsboro, Ala.—The large barn belonging to Col. James Jordan was burned at midnight Monday night. A fine pair of match horses that he had refused five hundred dollars for, three hundred bushels of corn, several tons of pea hay, a large quantity of the latest improved farming implements were also consumed. Origin of fire unknown. No insurance.

THOUSANDS PERISH

In Terrific Earthquake in Southern Italy—Whole Towns Wiped Out.

MANY ENTOMBED IN THE RUINS.

Earthquake Shocks Still Felt and Subterranean Rumblings Heard.

Hundreds Destitute.

Rome.—All Italy is suffering from terrible depression because of the news from the south where one of the worst earthquakes ever experienced occurred Friday. Although the earthquake was felt all over Calabria and to a certain extent in Sicily, the worst news comes from Pizzo and Mont Leone and from eighteen villages which are said to have been completely destroyed. According to the latest news received, 370 persons have been killed, and a great number injured. It is as yet impossible to even estimate the property losses.

The shock was felt at 2:55 o'clock Friday morning. It lasted for eighteen seconds at Cantanzaor and soon thereafter was felt at Messina, Reggio, Monte Leone, Martirano, Stefaconi, Scopio, Triparni, Zammaro, Cessanito, Naidi, Olivadi, and other points.

Scene of Indescribable Terror.

Scenes of indescribable terror followed. Women aroused from their sleep rushed half-clad into the streets screaming and calling on the Madonna and the saints for help. The men escaped into the open with their families, all calling on their favorite saints for protection. The cafes were taken by assault by the strangely garbed crowd, but as daylight broke without a repetition of the earthquake the crowd gradually melted away, until by 8 o'clock the streets had almost assumed their normal appearance, except in the ruined villages, where the inhabitants had no homes to go to.

The general confusion was added to by the dreadful cries from the jails where the prisoners were beside themselves with fright, and in some cases mutinied, but fortunately all were kept within their bounds. Troops, engineers and doctors have been hurried to the scene of the disaster to assist in the work of rescue and salvage. The ministry of the interior sent $4,000 for the relief of the destitute, and the minister of public works, Ferraris, left for Calabria this evening.

Covers All Calabria.

Catanzaro, Province of Calabria, Italy—A violent earthquake at 2:55 o'clock Friday morning caused serious loss of life and widespread destruction in Calabria. The towns of Pizzo, Monte Lean Di Calabria and Martirano were almost entirely destroyed. At Monte Leon Di Calabria seven persons were killed outright and many were injured by the collapse of the prison there. The Pizzo district is said to be almost entirely destroyed.

Locally, the shocks lasted eighteen seconds. The walls of the hospital here collapsed and some of the patients were injured. The inhabitants of this city fled panic-stricken from their homes.

All the houses at Stefaconi have been wrecked by earthquake. It is feared that a hundred people are buried in the ruins.

The villages of Piscopio and Triparni have been destroyed.

Rome.—The effects of the earthquakes were more destructive than at first was reported. The list of dead and injured is increasing and is running into the thousands. Martirano alone shows 2,200 casualties, while at Parghelia the number of dead is estimated at 300 and at Lappollo two hundred.

Many persons are still entombed in the ruins in these and other districts and in some cases whole families have been wiped out. The greatest agitation continues among the populace. Slight shocks of earthquake are felt occasionally and subterranean rumblings are still heard.

The worst is considered to be over. Those left destitute are beginning to feel the pangs of hunger and there is also much suffering by those insufficiently clad. Succor is pouring in from all quarters. Official figures of victims of the earthquake in the province of Catanzaro show that 450 dead have already been found, that about 1,000 were injured and that there are an enormous number of persons without shelter.

Miss Geil in Tuscaloosa.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—Miss Lista Geil of Granville, Ohio, is the guest of Miss Nelia Donoho. Miss Geil has accepted a position at the State Normal school at Troy as vocal instructor. She held a similar position at this place last session.

Road Will Be Built.

Demopolis, Ala.—Col. N. G. Winn, of this city, who is one of the interested parties in the Mobile and West Alabama Railroad, has just received a letter from the firm in New York which has been negotiating finances for building the road, saying there is no question but that the road will be built.

YELLOW FEVER NEWS.

The Latest Reports From the Infected District.

New Orleans, La.—The report on yellow fever for the last twenty-four hours in this city is as follows: New cases, 38; total cases to date, 2,327; deaths, none; total deaths, 316; new foci, 18; case under treatment, 306; cases discharged, 1,711. This is the first day since the announcement of yellow fever that no deaths are reported. On same date in 1878 ninety deaths occurred.

Country Cases.

The most interesting feature of the country news was the report from the health office at St. John parish of the existence of about 25 cases at Liona, a lumber town in that parish, and his statement that the patients were not being properly cared for, and that they had been concealing the illness. He has taken charge of things there and today reported three new cases.

The health officer of Plaquemine reports a new case at St. Clair plantation, six miles above Woodlawn, where a nest was discovered last week.

Other country cases reported:

Edgard, St. John parish, new focus, three cases.

Kenner, five cases; one death.

Hanson City, two cases, one death.

Amelia, two cases.

Boeuf, one case.

St. Elizabeth plantation, one death.

Clark Chenlere, Jefferson parish, seven case.

St. Rose, one case.

Florenville, St. Tammany, imported case, died.

Patterson, nine cases.

McDonoghville, three cases.

Lake Providence, eight cases, one death.

Summary of Mississippi Situation.

Jackson, Miss.—The Mississippi yellow fever summary for the past twenty-four hours, ending at 8 o'clock, is as follows:

Gulfport, three new cases; Mississippi City, two new cases.

No new cases reported at Vicksburg, Natchez, Pearlington, Hansboro or Sharkey Countil.

No deaths occurred in the state.

Nine New Cases in Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla.—Nine new cases and one death is the yellow fever record for Pensacola concluding at 6 o'clock, when the various physicians working in conjunction with the state board of health made their reports. Suspicious or doubtful cases number about twelve. The one death was that of A. Wolfing, vice consul of Norway, who died after a brief illness. He was taken ill five days ago and did not call in a physician, the case being located by inspectors.

Envoys Dined By President.

Oyster Bay.—With Baron Komura and Minister Takahira at luncheon Saturday and M. Witte and Baron De Rosen at dinner at night, President Roosevelt extended to the peace envoys of Japan and Russia his first official courtesies and expressed to them on behalf of the American people gratification that the labors of their mission to America have ended successfully.

The functions were the result of invitations extended by the president when the plenipotentiaries were first received on board the Mayflower. Baron Komura and Minister Takahira arrived at Oyster Bay on board the yacht Sylph, which had been sent to New York for them. They reached Sagamore Hill at 1 o'clock. The Japanese envoys remained with the president for two hours. Luncheon was served at 1:30, the envoys being entertained by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt. There were no other other guests. During and after the luncheon the president and his guests discussed thoroughly the details of the peace arrangements. Both Baron Komura and Minister Takahira expressed to the president their appreciation of his efforts, to which they attributed largely the success of the conference in reaching an agreement. A few minutes before 3 o'clock the Japanese envoys went aboard the Sylph, which sailed immediately for New York.

M. Witte and Baron De Rosen, the Russian plenipotentiaries, were the guests of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner Saturday evening. M. Witte's well-known antipathy to water induced the Russian envoys to make the trip to Oyster Bay by rail. M. Witte and Baron de Rosen remained with the president until 9:35 p. m.

Bolivar, Tenn.—F. M. Smith was unanimously elected by the mayor and board of aldermen superintendent and general manager of the light and water plant to be installed here. Mr. Smith has been for several years manager of the Memphis telephone exchange here.

At the closing session of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, held at Scranton, Pa., recently, the anthracite miners were urged to organize.

In pursuing its campaign for the union label, the San Francisco Labor Council will issue a circular letter to every householder urging the patronage of union label goods.

The National Train Dispatchers' Association, in convention at Denver, Col., adopted resolutions demanding the establishment of the block system on every railway in the United States.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. CHARLES EDWARD LOCKE.

Subject: Music and Culture.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Dr. Charles Edward Locke, pastor of the Hanson Place M. E. Church, preached Sunday on "Music as a Factor in Culture." He took his text from Psalms cl:1: "Praise ye the Lord." Dr. Locke said:

From that moment in the creation when the morning stars sang together and the brooks went singing down the hillsides of Eden, and the birds made glad the dawn of time with their thrilling melodies, music has had an indisputable place in the world.

The study of music is a liberal education. Music, like poetry, makes its appeal to the noblest instincts of the soul. It is said that the inhabitants of Cynette, who slighted music, were the cruellest of all the Greeks and no other town was so immersed in luxuries and debauchery.

Christianity was born with a song on its lips. Mary sang in thrilling measures of the Magnificat; the angels sang in their tumultuous hallelujah chorus; and the shepherds sang in plaintive strains of quiet ecstasy. And the world has been singing ever since. Paganism does not sing; it laments. Pagodas and mosques do not lighten their sombre interiors with music, but every Christian church, however humble, is a conservatory of sweetest melodies.

Music is both a science and an art. As an art it does not, as do painting and sculpture, occupy itself in reproducing nature—for it is itself a part of nature, and seeks to reveal itself. The Egyptians first excelled in music, but great strides were made by the Greeks under Pythagoras. The word music is derived from a Greek term, which includes all the learing of the Muses. Of all the fine arts, music is the most comprehensive. The majesty of the architect, the pictures of the artist, the rhythm of the poet and the themes of all these belong to the musician, whether he sits at the instrument or pours out his soul in vocal melodies. The fable tells that Mercury stretched strings of dried skin across a shell, and, striking them with his fingers, invented the lyre. The bow as a musical instrument was probably first used by the warrior, who, as he described his successes in battle, twanged the string of his bow. It was later discovered that the bow, when drawn across certain hollow objects, produced pleasing sounds—thence the lute and the violin. Music has been called the universal language, and truly it is a means of communication between all souls, whatever clime may have given them birth. It is the most responsive of all the arts—the most human. It more nearly breathes and sees and feels. It possesses all the varying hues of the soul. The music of the siren would allure Ulysses to his death and the monotonous tones of the bell buoy direct the imperiled mariner to safety. Tumultuous music is the completest expression of happy souls on festal days and tender, sombre strains interpret the language of sad hearts when a nation mourns for its martyred heroes. Glad hallelujah, or penitential psalm, expresses the contrasting emotions of the soul.

Music was defined by our own Sidney Lanier as "love in search of a word." There is an inexpressible something in the heart of man which seeks to define itself in speech, but, failing in this, music flies to his relief and in melody he pours out his imprisoned soul. Music is the language of the over-soul; it is the soul prolonging, or projecting itself. The highest music cannot be expressed in words. This is the explanation of the angel's advent anthem and of all music in worship. The deeper the soul life the more is one conscious of feelings beyond the limitations of articulate utterance. In the attempt of the finite soul to praise and glory the Infinite, all earthly devices of language utterly fail, and music only, which is an adjunct of the infinities, enables man to sing what he can never express, his adoration and gratitude to his great God and King. Consequently, whenever religion is the sincerest, then music will be the purest. Music is the echo of God's voice in the soul of man. Without that echo man's soul is a cavernous abyss, filled with specters of despair.

Music is a gift of God. Like all the sciences, it is a radiation of divine truth. Pythagoras taught a close affinity between music and astronomy. He was right so far as he went, but music leads men up to the perpetual throne of glory, of which stars and constellations are but glittering scintillations. St. Cecelia, receiving her music from angel visitants, tells the secret of the musician's power. Great musicians are born, not made. Their extraordinary genius is an endowment manifesting itself in phemonenal ways in childhood, as in the cases of Mozart, Liszt and Christine Nilsson.

The divinity of music further appears in the fact that the greatest musicians have been good men; and to develop the mighty impulses which they have felt in their souls the great musicians have chosen lofty divine themes. This was true of Jubal and Job, of David with his harp, and Solomon with his sweet songs. It was true of Beethoven, whose soulful sonatas have won for him a genuine priesthood of the emotions; and of Bach, whose elaborate fugues have been likened to Gothic temples in their intricate details. It was true of Mendelssohn, who, in thirty-eight years, filled the souls of men with musical pictures; and of Batiste and Schumann; and of Chopin in his nocturnes; and of wierd if not unearthly Paganini, with his miraculous Stradivarius. It was true of Mozart, whose thirty-five years gave the world such treasures from the Infinite that he is truly exhaustless; and of Liszt, who dying as late as 1886, seems to belong to us. At eight he was the wonder of Europe; at twelve Beethoven embraced him as a coming master. During the days of his best work, Thomas a Kempis' "Imitation of Christ" was his constant companion. It was true of Wagner, picturesque, unique, once ostracised, now nearly worshiped. "The Holy Grail" is the theme of one of his masterful operas. Most true was it of Haydn, the father of symphony, whose massive oratorio of "The Creation" brings men into the presence of God's colossal creative power; and true, indeed, of Handel, the majestic grandeur of whose masterpieces has remained unequalled for two centuries. There was another incarnation when he produced his divinest work, the oratorio of "The Messiah," which no doubt he was right in believing came to him from above.

It is the mission of music to soften and remove the asperities of men. It helps to unify the race and make them homogeneous. Sectarianism slinks into hiding places of shame, as Charles Wesley, a Methodist, sings "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and Toplady, a Calvanist, "Rock of Ages," and Sarah Adams, a Unitarian, "Nearer My God to Thee," and Whittier, a Quaker, "The Eternal Goodness," and Faber, a Roman Catholic, "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy," and Doddridge, a Baptist, "O, Happy Day." To-day these well-known hymns are sung by all and claimed by all. In spite of controversy and unbelief, the music of the Christian Church is saving the world for the Christian Christ. The hymn and the singer are often a long way in advance of the sermon and hearer in evangelizing influences.

Music refines and ennobles. In the days of chivalry the sir knights studied music because of its elevating and purifying influence. Music brightens life's dark places and soothes the heart in trouble. Many prison doors have opened and manacles burst asunder when troubled hearts have sung songs in the night. Music was believed by the ancients to have healing power, and was used as a therapeutic. Many a weary soldier, tired and footsore, has leaped on to victory under the magic spell of fife and drum.

There is a quaint belief that singing preceded speaking. Alas! perhaps one of the entailments of sin is that singing has degenerated into discordant, rasping speech. Perhaps, when man shall have reached his highest earthly estate the means of communication will be in the soft tones of chastest music.

Music, if not more perfectly than printing, the art preservative of all art, is surely the best interpreter of of all art and science. The mystery and miracle of truth reveal their open sesame when studied through the atmosphere of music. The minster, graceful with gothic beauty, or massive with Romanesque magnificence, can only be filled to groined arches and spreading dome by music's swelling tones. Music gives a motif to architecture. The art gallery's corridors, or belvederes only reveal the master's secret in marble or canvas as divinest music fills up all the interstices of finiteness. And poetry never reveals its most exquisite tints of beauty and truth except when in the companionship of music, its twin sister. Theology would have none but altars to the unknown God if music did not dream, and prophesy, and feel, in the priestly office. Music is what Walter Pater called "the great Anders-Streben-reaching forward of all art." It is the soul of man endeavoring to come to its own—to express and realize and fulfill itself. It helps Browning's grasp to acquire its reach.

Music is thus an intellectual factor. It is not so much a truth seeker as it is a truth finder. It does not delve among the rocks, but it comes down like a dove from above, singing, "This Is My Beloved Son!" It dwells in the heights and shouts "Excelsior!" from peak to peak, and makes life's dizzy Alpine uplands echo with hope.

Granting that music furnished to culture its initial impulse, and that music more than any other factor sustains the quest of man's nature for the highest and holiest achievements, I dare to submit the deliberate conclusion that instrumental, and well as vocal, music should be a part of the public school curriculum for every child. Alas! that the children whom posterity affords the opportunity of musical study often so little appreciate these privileges, while many who crave these facilities are deprived of them by poverty. Even the boys and girls who are compelled to leave school to enter upon the problems of making a living, would live a larger and more hopeful life if their musical instruction had included familiarity with an instrument.

As is his Maker, so man is a spirit. Muscle and brain are merely temporary expedients by which man, as spirit, shall for a brief season tarry upon this earth. When painting, and sculpture, and architecture, and, perhaps, even poetry, shall have ended their earthly ministry, music will be revealing the fathomless mysteries of spirit and life. Music is the language of celestial throngs. True eloquence is thought winged with music. The Infinite God is more perfectly worshiped with musical accompaniment because music goes beyond language and logic and opens up the vistas of faith through which can be seen the King in His beauty. Do you ask me which is the mightier agency for culture, Bacon or Beethoven? Spencer or Schumann? Kant or Mendelssohn? and I will answer that science and philosophy have their own important places in the foundation of intellect and character, and are as necessary to the soul as food to the body; music, however, not only has its mission side by side with these, but when the present conclusions of men shall be abandoned for the completer revelations of the all truth of Him who is the Way, the Truth and the Life, then music, which was never anything but divine in its nature and influence, shall be our old familiar friend increasing in divinity as our own evolving souls are permitted to comprehend and participate in that divinity.

The Body's Cross.

Keep green my love, keep fresh my remembrance, keep young my heart. Feed me with the feast of yesterday; stir me with the songs of yesterday; brace me with the breezes of yesterday; glad me with the glow of yesterday. Let me walk the valley by the memory of the mountain air, by the health of the spirit let me bear the body's cross.—George Matheson.

God in Your Life.

Religion at its best is a high, but still increasing, consciousness of God's life in one's own. "I and the Father are one" is the humblest word a man can utter, when it is but another version of the prayer, "Not my will, but thine." When that Gethsemane prayer is prayed and sound and lived, the other word, "I and the Father are but one," becomes the simple fact.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton. Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

WITH this issue THE BANNER makes another notable departure, and is proud to present to its 1400 subscribers a twelve page paper. This is an experiment, but we hope to secure sufficient additional support to enable us to contiaue it as a permanent feature. For several years past THE BANNER has. we believe, been the only county paper in the State offering to its cash in-advance subscribers an eight page paper at 75 cents per year, and the generous support we have received encourages us in the belief that in increasing the size of the paper to twelve pages we may depend upon increased patronage. The price will remain the same—75 cents, if paid in advance, or $1 per year on credit.

As the only paper printed and published in Chilton county, it will continue to be our earnest endeavor to meet the desires of our subscribers in the fullest measure, giving them a clean paper free from all offensive matter.

President Roosevelt long since declared that "no one thing can do so much to offset the tendency toward an unhealthy trend from the country into the city as the making and keeping of good roads." These be plain words from a plain, blunt man. The question naturally presents, why are country roads bad? Because the entire burden of building and repairing them has in most cases been thrown on the farmers, whose means are not sufficient for the task. This is unjust. Good roads benefit not only the farmer who hauls his produce over them, but also the town or city to which it is hauled. Every large city far exceeds in wealth the country area which supplies it with food and which in turn is supplied by it with manufactured goods; yet the poorer of the two partners, city and country, has to bear the expense of keeping up the highways of communication between them. What can be more evident than that the cost of a public necessity should be shared alike by those who profit by it? To reach this condition under an equitable system the State and the Nation must co operate in the care of roads. This principle is embodied in the Browlow-Latimer bill, which provides that the National Government is to bear a portion of the expense of road improvement. It is certain that this aid, instead of lessening, will greatly increase the amount now spent by States and counties for roads, since they can get increased aid only by increasing their own expenditures. Moreover, a given amount of money spent under this system of co-operation will produce far greater results, since it will be devoted in large sums to permanent improvement under expert direction. instead of being wasted by inexperienced men in annual patch work, annually swept into the ditches. There can be no question, in face of the facts here outlined and long ago submitted to the President, and by the President submitted to Congress by message, that the road question bears an important relation to our national life, which the average intellect will work out for itself. Write to your U. S. Senator for Senate Document No. 204, 2d Session, 58th Congress, and read up on the subject of improved highways.

Attacked By a Mob.

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welsh, of Tekonsha, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

Billingsley.

The Misses Marlar entertained the F. N. C. on Friday evening last. All members were present, the business all attended to, and several games of flowers and old maid were played, in which Misses Mary Lou Marlar, Bessie Wilkins, Messrs. Polard Felton and Hugh Willis were winners. The Club adjourned to meet on next Friday eve. with Miss Bessie Wilkins.

Messrs. Houston and Orman Dickinson and John Dunovan left Monday for Tray, where they will enter school. We wish the young men much success.

Prof. Missildine and Polard Felton left Monday for Greensboro. We are glad to see so many from here taking such an interest in education.

Prof. H. A. Askins, who has been teaching this summer here for boys has closed his school, but we hope only for a short while, and hope he will be the teacher for the winter school.

Quite a crowd from here attended the barbecue at Prattville last Thursday. Messrs. J. P. Willis and W. W. Carter run a special train from here to accomodate the people. Everyone seemed to enjoy the trip and sure they are very grateful to these gentlemen for their kindness.

Mrs. J. R. Langly and baby returned home Sunday from Rollins where they have been visiting for a month.

We are glad to have with us Mr. Wallace Myrick of Rollins.

Messrs. J. E. Felton and M. C. Marlar of Montgomery were pleasant visitors here Sunday.

Miss Florence Adair had the misfortune of loosing her watch Sunday, either on the train or at Maplesville. We hope she has found or heard of it ere this.

Mr. R. M. Cooper and family who has been visiting Mrs. Jones at Riderville, has returned home.

OLD ROSE.

Beautiful Women.

Plump cheeks, flushed with the soft glow of health and a pure complexion, make all women beautiful. Take a small dose of Herbine after each meal; it will prevent constipation and help digest what you have eaten. Mrs. Wm. M. Stroud, Midlothian, Tex., writes, May 31, 1901:

"We have used Herbine in our family for eight years, and found it the best medicine we ever used for constipation, bilious fever and malaria. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Sardis.

Dear old Banner—Will you allow me the space to say a few words about our ball game between Sardis and Black and Tans. The Black and Taus thought they were going to eat us up, but it turned out the other way. They went to Clanton and hired the champion pitcher of the country (he thinks) and we got the Mulbery pitcher and they couldn't interest us at all, the score went 23 to 1 in favor of Sardis; they would not have got that if the Mulberry pitcher hadn't got sorry for little Boysie. Struck out by Mulberry pitcher 17; by Clanton pitcher 9. The feature of the game was Williams' home run off the little Clanton pitcher. I now say to the Black and Tans, get you a better pitcher and practice your men, and when you think you can interest us, come again.

A SUCCESSFUL PLAYER.

Best For Children

Mothers, be careful of the health of your childaen. Look out for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. Stop them in time—One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy. Harmless and pleasant. Contains no opiates. A. L. Spafford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses half an hour apart of One Minute Cough Cure speedily cured her." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

A DAILY PAPER FREE.

Well, not exactly free, but the next thing to it. What do you think of this offer? The Banner and the CHICAGO NATIONAL DAILY REVIEW $1.50 A YEAR!

This offer is open for a limited time only. We can't tell how long we shall have an opportunity to give you such a bargain, so come early.

Pay up your arrearages and a year in advance, and for only 50 cents additional we send you a Daily Newspaper for one year. Think of it!

The Chicago National Daily Review is a phenomenal success. It is a four-page, seven-column paper printed in large type on good quality of paper. Started in January, 1905, it already has thousands of subscribers and it intends to add thousands more in the next few weeks by arrangements with the Banner and other newspapers, such as we have outlined above

The Chicago National Daily Review is published every week day in the year and contains all the news thats worth remembering. It has a complete market report, excellent reading matter for the family, condensed and readable reports of the world's news, and every day gives its readers a Magazine Article by one of the high-class special writers on its staff.

Remember that the regular price of the Chicago National Daily Review is One Dollar per year. For a limited time only, all new subscribers to the Banner who pay a year in advance and all old subscribers who pay arrearages and a year in advance can get the Review for only 50 cents additional.

Don't wait; now is the time to get a Good Daily Newspaper for the smallest price ever offered.

PROGRAM

Chilton County Singing Convention, to be held with Concord church, two miles east of Clanton, Oct. 14 and 15, 1905.

SATURDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercise, J. J. Grant,

10;30. Welcome address, E. H. Mims. Response, R. D. Durham.

11. Song service, led by R. D. Durham.

12. Dinner.

1:30 p.m. Methods of teaching vocal music, J. L. Gore, James Franklin and J. B. Northcutt.

2:30. How many pastors help the singing teacher? G. W. Gothard, W. A. Mims.

3:30. Business of convention.

SUNDAY, 9:30 a.m. Devotional exercise, W. A. Mims.

The remainder of the day spent in singing. Lovers of music are earnestly requested to attend.

COMMITTEE.

New Salem.

The general health of our community is good. Cotton picking is all the go now.

Our Sunday school is still progressing under the skillful management of our superintendent, T. G. Williams.

Rev, S. Smitherman filled his appointment Saturday. Duty calling him away on Sunday, the Rev. W. P. Lowery filled his place.

Mr. Willie Culp was among our welcome visitors Sunday. We are always glad to have him with us, he is of much benefit to our choir, as he is one of our best organists and also a good singer.

Mr. Willis Sorrell visited his homefolks Sunday.

Mr. Bennie Williams and his fair bride and Misses Neoma Williams and Lula Sorrell attended preaching at mt. Pleasant Sunday eve. With best wishes to the Banner.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GIRL.

FIFTY CENTS

IN some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

Send for free sample

Scott & Bowne, 409-415 Pearl St.
Chemists New York
50c. and $1.00. All druggists

It Quiets the Cough

This is one reason why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is so valuable in consumption. It stops the wear and tear of useless coughing. But it does more—it controls the inflammation, quiets the fever, soothes, and heals. Sold for 60 years.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been a regular life preserver to me. It brought me through a severe attack of pneumonia, and I feel that I owe my life to its wonderful curative properties."—WILLIAM H. TRUITT, Wawa, Pa.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. HAIR VIGOR.

Hasten recovery by keeping the bowels regular with Ayer's Pills.

Sardis

Cotton picking is all the go now, but I don't think there is much to pick.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely with large attendance and we are glad to see so many old folks there every Sunday.

The Blue Stars and Black and Tans crossed bats last Saturday evening and the score was 23 to 1 in favor of the Blue Stars. Well, boys, that was pretty good, always change umpires when you see you are going to get beat. Their pitcher said he was going to win his game and go back to Clanton before night, but went back and never won the game. The batteries for Black and Tans were Henley, Cooper, Mims, Jackson and Culp. For Blue Stars, Ratliff, Capt., Klinners, Williams and Milford. But boys it will take more than a dollar and a quarter pitcher to beat us; but boys come again, that's nothing.

We are very sorry to say that Mrs. Lula Donavon, who has been sick so long and suffered so much, is no better.

Our R. F. D. is mighty handy for us to get our mail.

Misses Ada Deason, Joanna Donavon and Ella Milford went to Shiloh Sunday and report a nice time. Hope to hear from Stingy Ridge next week. With best wishes to the Banner. BIG IKE.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold or sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At Upchurch Drug co; 50c and $1 00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Adams.

Our Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely, and we hope that it will continue to do so.

The Abbott boys of Pletcher entertained quite a number of friends with their music Saturday night at the home of Mr. Jesse Chambers.

Mr. Bill Minor and family of Vine Hill were visitors here last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Virian Abrams has returned home from Riderville after a stay of two weeks among her friends, and reports a fine time.

Mr. Ed Poole of Pletcher is visiting friends at this place.

Mr. Chester Abrams is visiting friends at Spur, Ala.

THREE IDIOTS.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Sept. 11. 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Cura Caver, Callie Cost, Frank Hurkon, Steven Peirce, Cherles Price, Monroe Jance.

LADIES' LIST.

Susie Burnitt, Mary Hall Evvie Loe. Miss Tie Roy.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office. Sept. 25, 1905, if not delivered before.

Numerous and Worthless

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Disco

Liberal long time loans on Imp Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Pr ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on ton being held now, either on farms warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00
Wilson Whiskey	85
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2,00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the b

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - AL

WELLS Bored and Dri

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water W
CLANTON, ALA.

PATTILLO BROS.
MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN
YELLOW PINE LUMBE

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Fl ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at V na. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, AL

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and Ce stock for the Clanton trade.

Always Remember the Full N
Laxative Bromo Qui
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in T
E. W. Grove on Box. 25c.

Job Printing cheap at THE BAN

AMERICAN SILK GOWNS.

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE HAS INTERESTED HERSELF IN FOSTERING SILK WORM CULTURE.

Secretary Wilson Believes that Many Portions of the Country Well Adapted to the Industry. Department Will Furnish the Eggs and Mulberry Trees Free.

The Japanese have a class of laborers who work for their board and keep alone. All they want is a place to live and plenty of food in the shape of leaves from a particular kind of tree, and they are willing to turn millions of dollars into the pockets of their employers. In fact, Japan sent to the United States over $32,000,000 worth of their products during the last year, and they never received one cent of this vast sum. France, Italy, China and various other countries, too, have laborers of this kind, but in the

MRS. THEODOR
In Gown Made of A

United States, where the pay for labor is the highest in the world, the possibilities for employment of this class of help are just as great as in the countries where it flourishes. The question arises at once, what sort of an industry is this which employs the time and services of its help and then pays them nothing?

Mrs. Roosevelt's Helping Hand.

These "willing workers" are nothing more than the lowly silk worm, living on the leaf of the mulberry, and then diligently spinning the glistening strands of silver into an egg-shape form that the keeper may reap the reward, and the president's wife has made a compact with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to foster their growth in the United States. Mrs. Roosevelt takes a deep interest in the question of American silk growing, and believes that there is in the industry much hope for the farmers' wives and other women who need an income from work at home. Our first lady of the land, by the way, has the rare attribute of much modesty, combined with great generosity, and except to her close circle of friends has nothing to say about her many philanthropics—mostly directed toward the advancement of women's interests.

As to silk growing, Mrs. Roosevelt became interested in it something over a year ago, securing Secretary Wilson's powerful support; she stands sponsor for what promises to become a very considerable American industry. At the last Inauguration she wore a magnificent silk gown, made of American silk and woven on American looms.

Money in Raising Cocoons.

The silk worm thrives most any place where mulberry trees will grow. The raising of them, according to Fanny Brigham, requires only 45 days a year. Forty thousand worms hatch from a single ounce of eggs, and their cocoons when dried weigh about pounds, worth on an average a dollar a pound.

It is Mrs. Roosevelt's idea that silk worm culture in the United States will be conducted principally by the farmers' wives and daughters, as it is in Europe. Secretary Wilson is convinced that there is a good profit in the industry, and he will send to anybody, free of charge, all the mulberry cuttings or seedlings required to start silk worm growing. It takes about three years, with good care, to get the mulberry trees ready for cropping when the Department will send the beginner all the eggs which the grower will feed. The silk raiser is, therefore, really under no money expense for starting the project, his share being only a little patience and industry. A shining example noted is Miss [illegible] Pritchard, of Albany, Indiana [illegible]

GULLEDGE
Loans and Discou time loans on Improv
Insurance Policies.
on good Personal Prope
ops.
advances offered on co
ow, either on farms or ress
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

ail Order House!
RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
our Mail Orders.
OODS PER QUART.
Our Price Regular P

goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.
Old Mason's Pure Rye
Private Stock Virginia Rye
J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old-style Country Club
Old Lincoln County
Richmond Club Virginia Rye
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

We carry a full line of wines
dle low grade goods.
DRUG COMPANY
RATE DRUG STORE
RMINGHAM, ALA.

verything
Everything of the be Fancy Grocerie
DS, CLOTHING
HATS, ETC.
ONES & BRO.
AL

Bored and Drill
B. TEEL
ller of Deep Water We NTON, ALA.

LLO BROS.
ERS OF AND DEALERS IN PINE LUMBE
rough and dressed lumber. Floo to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at Ve d, get our prices, they will be satisf
PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, ALA.
vill carry our Flooring and Ceiling

mber the Full Na
Bromo Quinin
One Day, Grip in Tw
on Box. 25c.

cheap at THE BANNER

THE BANNER.
LET THE PEOPLE RULE.
VOL. XIII Magazine Supplement CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No 48

AMERICAN SILK GOWNS.

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE HAS INTERESTED HERSELF IN FOSTERING SILK WORM CULTURE.

Secretary Wilson Believes that Many Portions of the Country Well Adapted to the Industry. Department Will Furnish the Eggs and Mulberry Trees Free.

The Japanese have a class of labor [illegible] for their board and keep [illegible] want is a place to live and [illegible] food in the shape of leaves [illegible] particular kind of tree, and they are willing to turn millions of dollars into the pockets of their employers. In fact, Japan sent to the United States over $32,000,000 worth of its products during the last year, and the workers never received one cent of this vast sum. France, Italy, China and various other countries, too, have labor of this kind, but in the United States, where the pay for labor is the highest in the world, the possibilities for employment of this class of help are just as great as in the countries where it flourishes. The question arises at once, what sort of an industry is this which employs the time and services of its help and then pays them nothing?

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
In Gown Made of American Grown Silk.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Helping Hand.

These "willing workers" are nothing more than the lowly silk worm, living on the leaf of the mulberry, and then diligently spinning the glistening strands of silver into an egg-shape form that the keeper may reap the reward. And the president's wife has made a compact with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to foster their growth in the United States. Mrs. Roosevelt takes a deep interest in the question of American silk growing, and believes that there is in the industry much hope for the farmers' wives and other women who need an income from work at home. Our first lady of the land, by the way, has the rare attribute of much modesty, combined with great generosity, and except to her close circle of friends has nothing to say about her many philanthropies—mostly directed toward the advancement of women's interests.

As to silk growing, Mrs. Roosevelt became interested in it something over a year ago, securing Secretary Wilson's powerful support; she stands sponsor for what promises to become a [illegible] American industry. At the last inauguration she wore a [illegible] silk gown, made of American [illegible] woven on American looms.

Money in Raising Cocoons.

The silk worm thrives most any place where mulberry trees will grow. The [illegible] of them, according to Fanny Bingham, requires only 65 days a year. Forty thousand worms hatch from a single ounce of eggs, and their cocoons when dried weigh about 80 pounds, worth on an average a dollar a pound.

It is Mrs. Roosevelt's idea that silk worm culture in the United States will be conducted principally by the farmers' wives and daughters, as it is in Europe. Secretary Wilson is convinced that there is a good profit in the industry, and he will send to anybody free of charge, all the mulberry cuttings or seedlings required to start silk worm growing. It takes about three years, with good care, to get the mulberry trees ready for cropping, when the Department will send the beginner all the eggs which the grove will feed. The silk raiser is, therefore, really under no money expense for starting the project, his share being only a little patience and industry. A shining example noted is Miss Ethel Pritchett, of Albany, Indiana, who is sixteen years old, and who has produced silk cocoons from Italian eggs finer than anything shown by Italy. Secretary Wilson highly praised her for the samples she recently sent him.

Life History of a Silk Worm.

The various stages in the life of a silk worm are interesting. First, we have the tiny eggs which hatch into the caterpillar or larva. This larva, when hatched, upon coming into contact with the air, increased in volume larger than it had in the egg, and it quickly begins to gnaw the under surface of the mulberry leaf. It eats day and night at all hours, except when asleep, and in about thirty days grows 14,000 times larger than it was at birth. As it grows it molts its skin probably four or five times. The most interesting period in its career is when the worm reaches an age of 20 or 21 days, when its appetite almost ceases, its size diminishes, and it general appearance is sickly. Very soon, however, it begins to move about, lifts up its head, and turns in every direction, seeking a place in which to spin a net to hold the cocoon which is to be spun. For sometime, through the veil which very soon is to surround it, the diligent larva, with its back turned outward, may be seen completing its task. It is calculated that with its head alone the silk worm makes 69 movements every minute, describing arcs of circles, crossed in the form of the figure 8. Meanwhile the web grows closer and the veil thickens, and in about seventy-two hours the worm is completely shut up in its cocoon. If the worm in the cocoon is unmolested, it emerges in about four or five days with wings, becoming a member of the insect world.

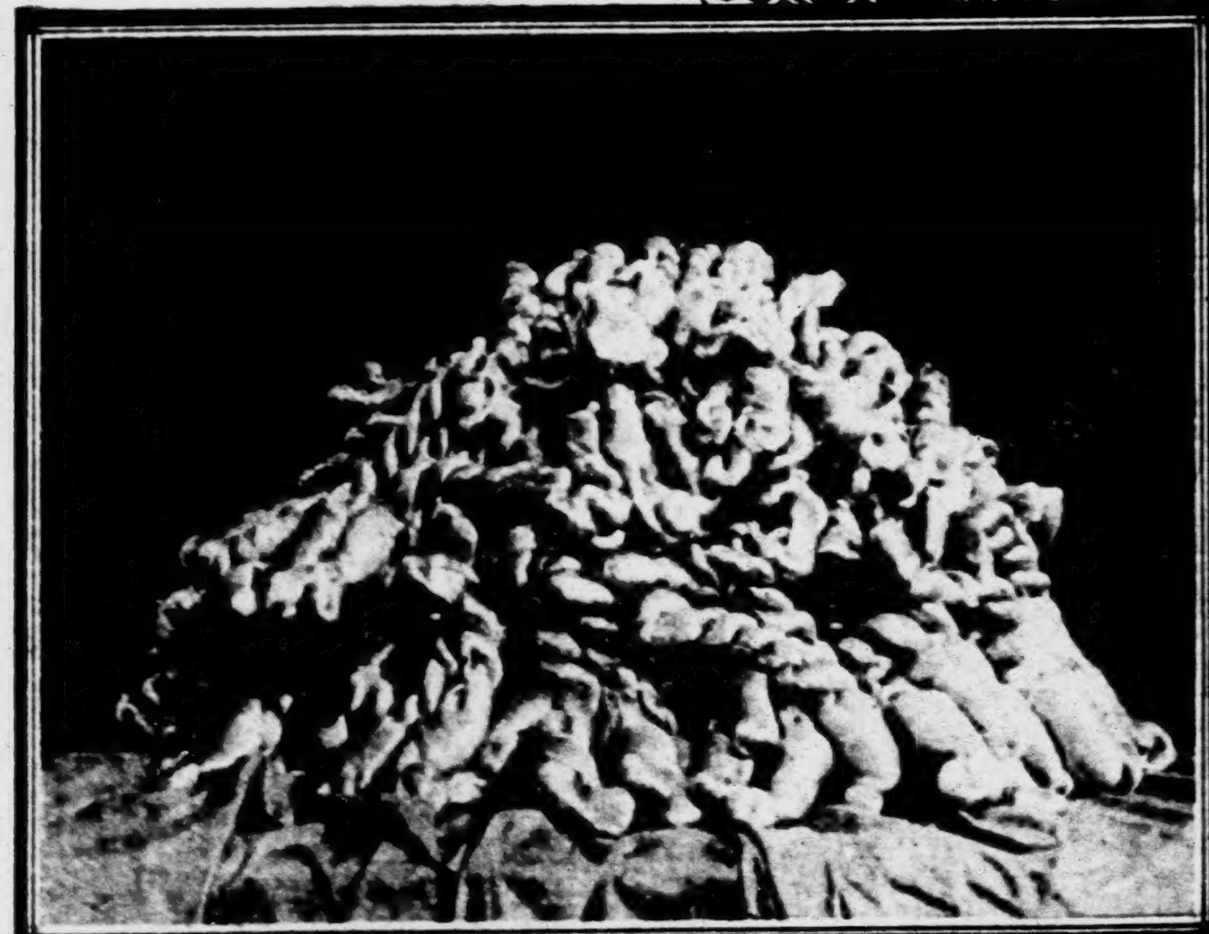
The Poor Worm Must Die.

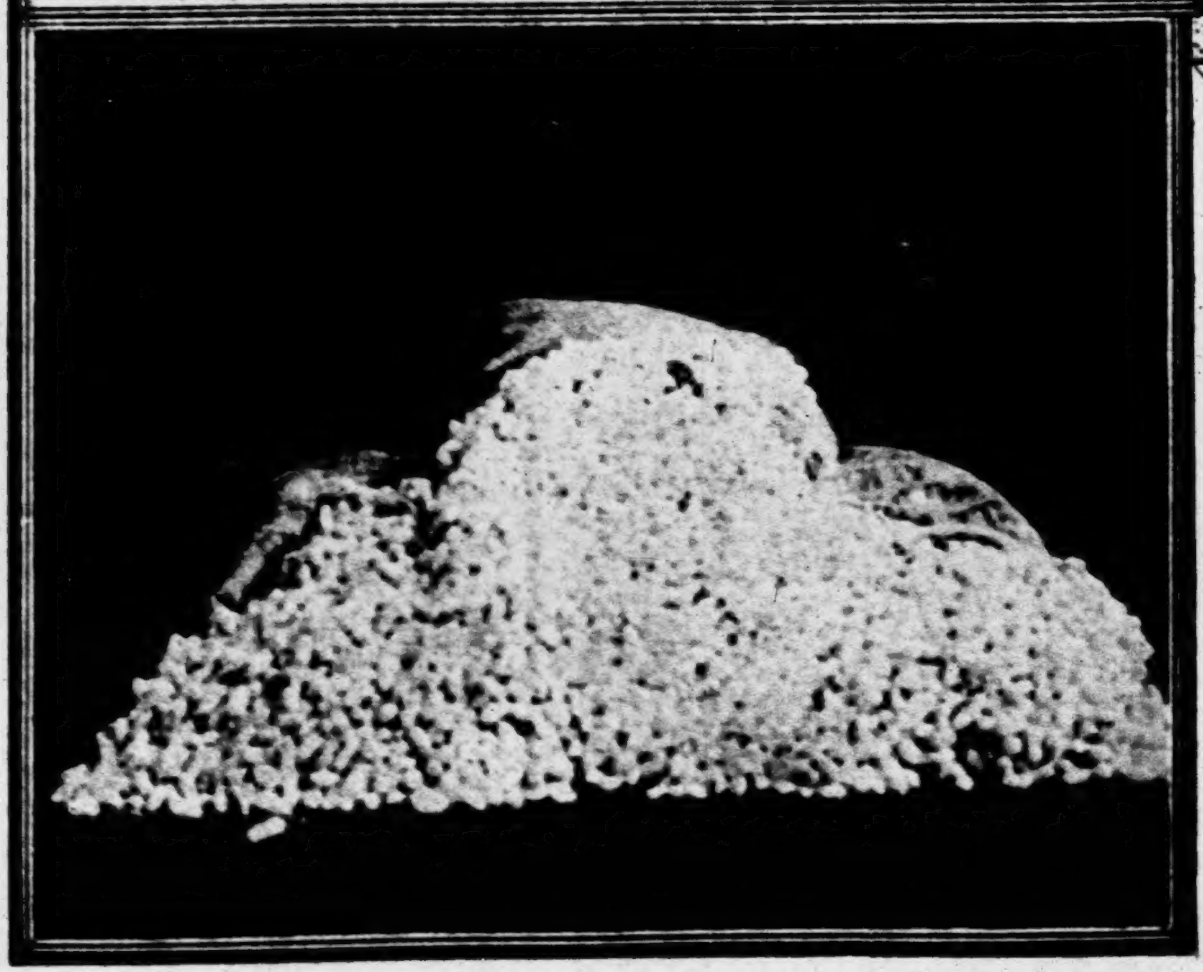
However, in the silk worm culture, where the cocoons are gathered for their silk alone, it is necessary to kill the worm before it breaks the tiny threads. This is done quickly, however, by either the use of hot, moist air or steam, or the modern painless method of destructive gases. The methods of reeling the silk from the cocoons vary according to the country where the industry thrives.

The history of silk culture in the United States dates far back to the days of the early colonists of Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia, while it was introduced in New England about the year 1660. In 1901, Secretary Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, after a visit to the South investigating agricultural conditions and possibilities, came to the conclusion that something should be done to ameliorate the condition of the extremely poor people of that section, and particularly the colored race. Silk culture was among the ideas which suggested themselves to him, and his interest in that line led to an appropriation by Congress of $10,000 to continue the investigations of the subject. Congress during its session of 1902-1903 repeated the appropriation, and additional appropriations have been since made.

Good Outlook for New Industry.

It is believed that there are many portions of the United States well adapted to silk raising, many places which might well become silk centers, where labor can be employed practically at rates comparable to those of Southern Europe. The establishment of a silk mill in such a location is believed feasible by the Department officials, and can be made to pay. Foreign capital is becoming interested in the subject, the proprietor of a large estate in Italy especially giving the matter careful consideration. What the success of silk culture would mean in the United States might well be indicated when it is learned that nearly $100,000,000 was sent out of this country to be expended in the purchase of both raw silk and the manufactured article.





SKEINS OF RAW SILK AND BAGS OF COCOONS READY FOR REELING, ALSO A FRENCH OPERATOR AT THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Carnegie Did Not Say It.

"I never said," declares Andrew Carnegie, in an interview, "that to die rich is to die disgraced."

George Washington did not live to repudiate the little hatchet. William Tell passed to his rest with no opportunity to turn from the mythical apple the arrow that was to go on saving Switzerland for ages. Jefferson did not ride on horseback to the Capitol to take the inaugural oath. Mr. Carnegie, living and able, meets common report before it has hardened into tradition and declares that the facts are otherwise. Yet his advantage over the heroes of history is a doubtful one. Protesting not too much, says the N. Y. World, the ironmaster protests probably too late. The public will believe his denial and cling, nevertheless, to the ear-tickling phrase.

ECHOES OF PERRY'S FIGHT.

SHIPS SUNK BY AMERICAN FORCES RECENTLY DISCOVERED.

They Will Be Raised from Beds of Mud and Preserved as Records of War of 1812.

Following Commodore Perry's thrashing of the British fleet in his great Lake Erie fight, three of the British war boats were sunk in the Thames River, near Lake St. Clair. The question has arisen to whom do these vessels belong? After lying forgotten, covered with mud and water, for nearly a century, they have been discovered, and it is proposed to raise them. Over this, and their removal to Detroit, an international controversy is threatened.

These ships were a part of the fleet which resisted Commodore Perry at Put-in-Bay. At that time the whole northwestern country, including Detroit, had fallen into British hands. After Perry's crushing defeat, the battered remnant of the British fleet slipped away to Detroit, taking the British General Proctor aboard, and with arms, ammunition, government papers and other plunder from Detroit, made speed to Lake St. Clair. The little fleet of four took refuge on the Thames, and in the famous land and naval battle which followed, the ships were all sunk. Tecumseh, the Indian chief, who was allied with the British, was killed, and General Proctor later committed suicide.

Gunboats Recently Discovered.

These vessels have remained forgotten until recently, when unusually low water in the Thames revealed one of them. A plan was originated to recover them and present them to Detroit as memorials. Divers and experts have been at work, and have located three of the vessels at points one, two and six miles up stream from Chatham. The ships are nearly covered with sand and earth.

In the one most exposed the hull was found to contain boxes and barrels of cannon balls and other war stores. Further search is expected to bring to light chests of silver and other valuables which the records show were taken on to the boats.

Canadian newspapers are vigorously protesting against the American seizure of these ancient relics, but it is stated that as the vessels are now private property, the explorers will be able to effect a bargain whereby they can obtain undisputed possession.

To Cast the Largest Bell in the World.

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Grand Army of the Republic a plan was presented by Col. Frank Hume, an officer who served with distinction in the army of the Confederacy, which, if carried out, will mean that the largest bell ever cast will be hung in the Arlington cemetery, the former home of Robert E. Lee, overlooking Washington and the wide sweep of the Potomac River, and where are also buried some of the Confederate dead. It is Col. Hume's idea that this bell should be tolled during the funeral rites of the military heroes of the country when they are buried within these historic grounds.

Mr. Hume unfolded his plan to the Grand Army veterans, his purpose being to have the bell cast from a large number of obsolete cannon now stored at the Government arsenal at Watervliet and other points. The president of one of the largest bell foundries in the country, who was communicated with, stated that the idea was a feasible one, but that the cost of the undertaking would be large. The belief is that the funds, however great they may be, will be raised, not only through contributions by the G. A. R. veterans, but by those who wore the gray.

A MAN WITHOUT A PULL.

Rapid Rise of Frank H. Hitchcock, Now First Assistant Postmaster General.

Several accounts have appeared in the papers and magazines descriptive of the rapid rise of First Assistant Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock. Starting with a subordinate clerkship in the Department of Agriculture some 15 years ago where his duties consisted mainly in labeling and storing away the skins and skulls of mice, rats, and other mammals collected by the animal and bird division of the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Hitchcock has been advanced rapidly to the head and directing force of first one and then another separate branch of the government, the last appointment being to the Post Office Department and later incidentally to membership in the Keep investigating committee to which was referred the important duty of investigating the Government Printing Office and which will further look into the question of duplication of work by the various bureaus and branches of the government at Washington.

FRANK H. HITCHCOCK, FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL.

While these advances have been gratifying to Mr. Hitchcock's friends and doubtless to himself, they have entailed severe extra work. When he left the department of Agriculture to become chief clerk of the Department of Commerce and Labor he still had several uncompleted publications of the former Department which occupied all his spare evenings for months. Upon Secretary Cortelyou's resignation from the Department of Commerce and Labor to engage in the work of electing Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Hitchcock went with him as his principal assistant, his uncompleted duties, however, still following him as they had previously and were not even completed upon his appointment to the Post Office Department. It is doubtful if he has yet caught up with important lines of statistical work which he undertook to do prior to accepting his present appointment.

Mr. Hitchcock is very properly described in a current number of "The World To-day," as "the man without a pull," as his remarkable rise in the service of the government has been the result of ability unaided by political influence. His qualifications are perhaps most correctly summed up in the words of Secretary Wilson, who, in expressing regrets at his loss to the Department of Agriculture, said:

"He has industry, application and intelligence. He is a born organizer; can pick good men, tell them what to do and how to do it, and get the best work out of them. He is of a class—not a big crowd—that make themselves indispensable. The government can't get along without men like Mr. Hitchcock."

Zebras.

"What is algebra?" asked the teacher.

"It's a white mule covered with black stripes. I saw one at the circus."

ANTI-PASS SENTIMENT.

IT IS GROWING IN CONGRESS AS WELL AS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

Many Legislators Have Already Set Their Faces Against the Acceptance of Railroad and Telegraphic Favors.

When Congress convened last fall it met in extra session upon the call of the President, and this session continued over into the regular session, which met December 5th. There was no interval between the two sessions. It was thus apparent that there could have been no traveling back and forth, no returning of the Members of Congress to their homes following the special session and coming on to Congress again for the regular session; yet the House of Representatives by a large majority passed a resolution voting themselves extra mileage for this extra session amounting to nearly $200,000—a mileage grab for imaginary travel.

Fortunately for the honor of Congress, the Senate refused to even consider the question. But the incident brought out the fact that the majority of the Members of Congress, including some of our most renowned legislators, and including nearly all the Representatives who voted for this indefensible grab at graft, habitually travel on free railroad passes. Many of them not only secure train passes from the railroads but Pullman passes as well and also free meal privileges on dining cars.

Anti-Pass Cranks Will Soon be Common.

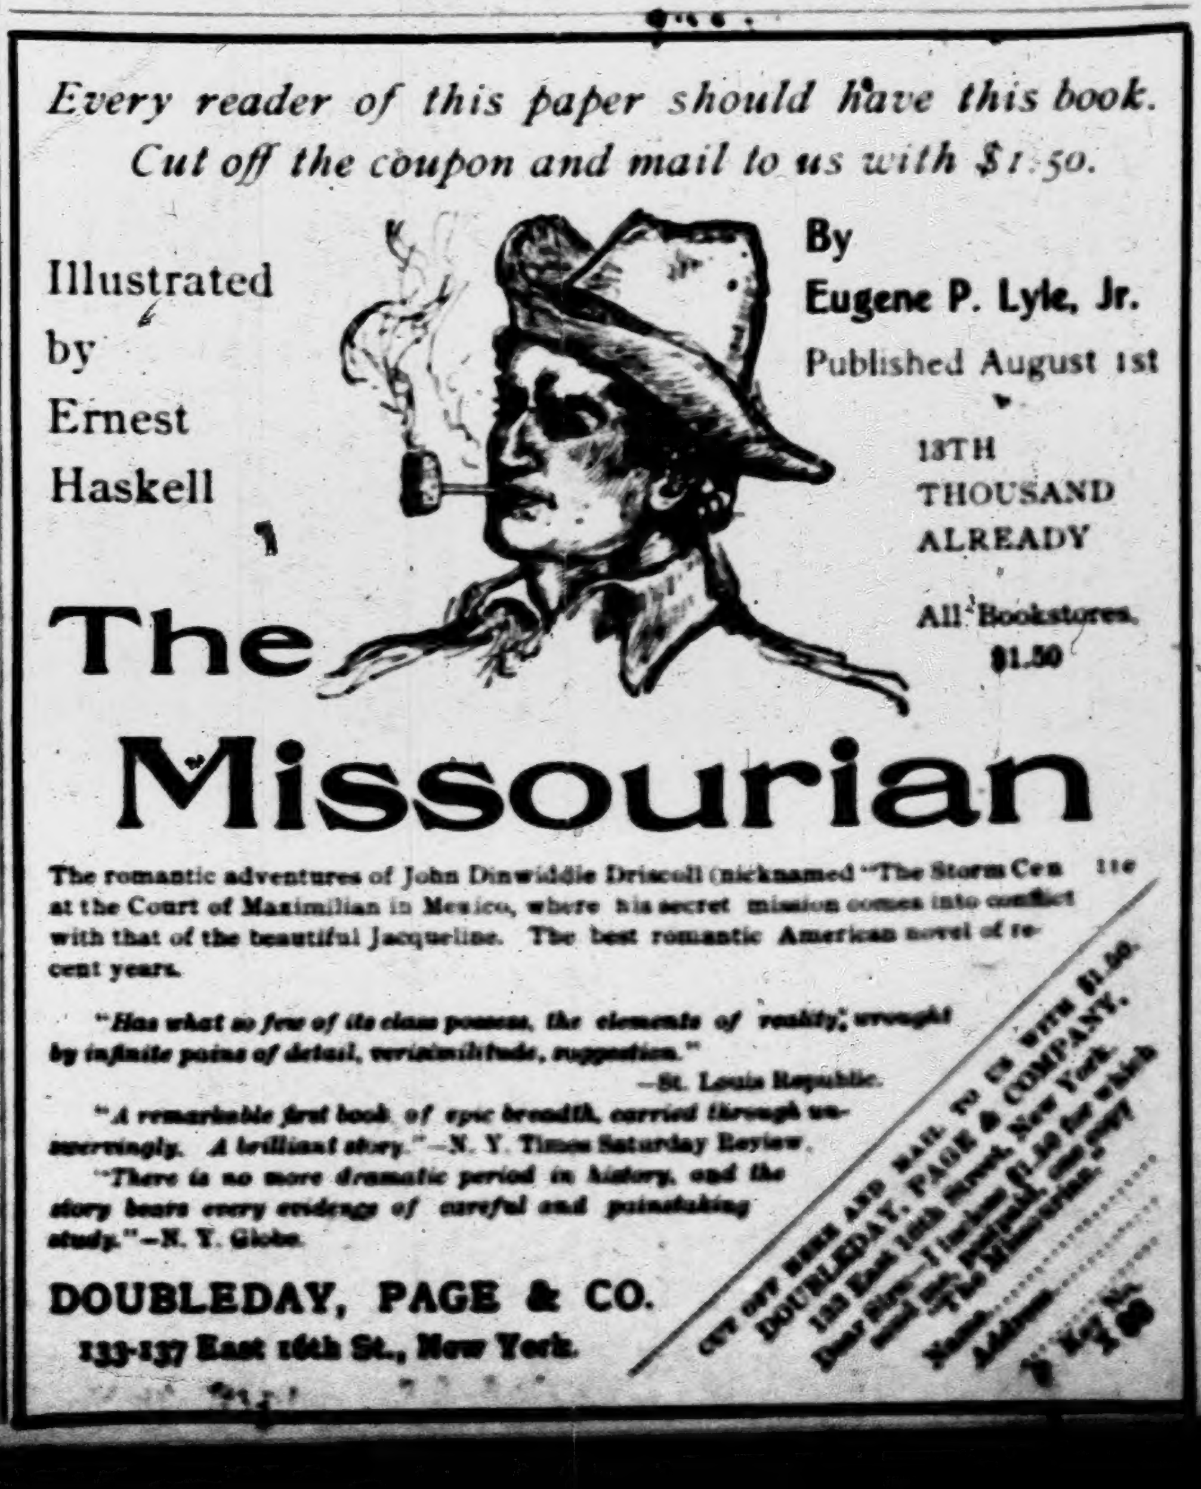
There have been several men in Congress during recent years who have, sometimes perhaps with too much ostentation, refused railroad passes, and they have been generally looked upon as cranks and denominated anti-pass freaks. A contemporary remarks, however, in connection with the coming to Congress of Governor La Follette, of Wisconsin, and one or two others who have "reform" ideas, that it is recorded in charming verse anent an old-fashioned preacher of the gospel in an English village that "those who came to scoff remained to pray," and among the numberless political possibilities of the not far off future is looming up a change of heart in many Congressmen who have hitherto laughed to scorn attempts to prohibit them from asking or accepting such railroad favors, amounting in fact to nothing more nor less than so much cash.

It is a promising sign that a number of national legislators of their own volition have effected this reform, wisely seeing that consistency demands it and likewise noting the popular feeling throughout the country against the practice.

It is a fair sized business in itself which provides the issuance of railroad and telegraphic "courtesies" to legislators. The practice is, of course, not confined to Congress, but occurs in every state legislature, to say nothing of other public officials.

LARGE CROPS AND CHEAPER RATES.

The farmers of the Northwest are jubilant not only over their large crops but the reduction of the transportation charges. The reduction of grain rates, according to a St. Paul dispatch, ranges from five cents a hundred pounds from the most distant points, to a half cent from points nearest St. Paul and the head of navigation on the Great Lakes. These rates are going into operation over two trans-continental railroads, and it is said they will be met by all other roads doing business in the same territory and tributary to it. With the large Northwestern wheat crop of two hundred or so million bushels, the aggregate of this in favor of the farmers reduction is a large one. There can be no increase of rates made elsewhere, it is stated, to even the receipts up in the interests of the railroads. The reduction is looked upon as one of the evolutions in transportation.



Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated by Ernest Haskell

By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

13TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores, $1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion."
—St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs:—I inclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy of "The Missourian."
Name
Address

THE PANAMA CANAL.

ITS ESTIMATED COST LARGELY A MATTER OF GUESS WORK.

If Congress Investigates, It is Recalled That Senator Mitchell, Convicted of Land Frauds, is Chairman of Committee—Senator Morgan Still Believes in Nicaragua Route.

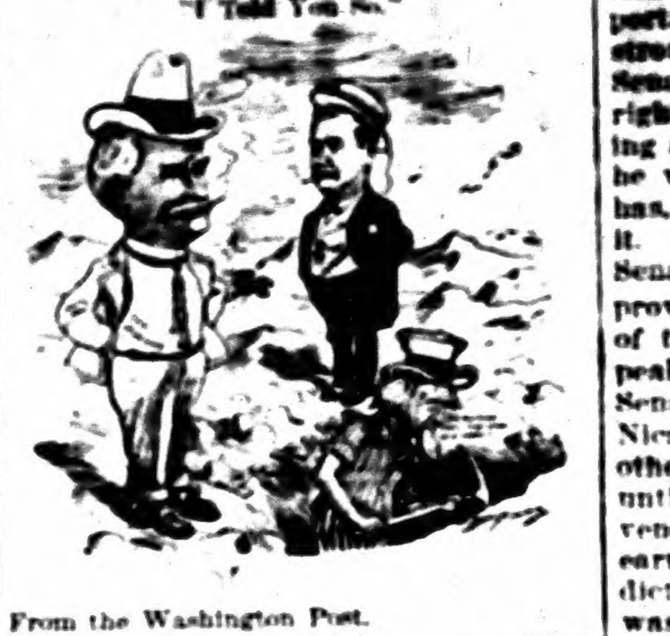
During the dull season at Washington the newspaper writers had difficulty in furnishing their papers with any political news of sufficient interest to print. The most possible has been made of the department scandals, which have been served up in various forms and dilated upon to the full extent which it was believed the reading public would stand; some little interest has attached to the Washington phases of the Peace Conference, while here and there political rumors, presidential booms and other stories have come to light in an almost vain endeavor to remind the people that when Congress is out of session and the President is away, there is a National Capital.

The Panama Canal work has come in for considerable share of newspaper talk and it is of some interest to speculate as to what will happen in this connection when Congress meets. There are dark threats of searching and sweeping investigations, even to the extent of going back over the whole Isthmian Canal problem and re-opening the question as to whether Congress was right in throwing over the Nicaragua route and adopting the Panama project.

Cost of Undertaking Unknown.

While figures have been floating around as to the possible cost of the Panama route those who have been on the Isthmus and assume to know even ever so little say that the estimated cost of $135,000,000 for the construction of the canal might as well be $135,000 so far as being anywhere accurate is concerned. It is a fact that one of the highest officials until recently connected with the Panama Commission admitted that neither he nor anybody else knew anything whatever about the ultimate cost of the completed Panama Canal. All the figures have been based on the French estimates which are declared to be entirely unreliable and the American engineers have not nearly completed even the surveys. This talk of insurmountable obstacles, impossible conditions and ultimate cost of a billion dollars for a canal is said to be peaches and cream and like soothing balm and honey to old Senator Morgan of Alabama, Colonel "Pete" Hepburn of Iowa, and others who have always favored the Nicaragua route, prognosticating the failure of the Panama scheme, and

Two Statesmen in Chorus: "I Told You So."



From the Washington Post.

MORGAN AND HEPBURN ON THE CANAL.

who are now apparently getting ready for some vehement "I-told-you-sos."

Committee Chairman Convicted of Land Grafting.

Right at the threshold of the proposed congressional action this winter over Isthmian Canal affairs is the embarrassment in the Senate because of the Chairmanship of the Oceanic Canal Committee which is held by Senator John H. Mitchell, of Oregon, convicted and under sentence for complicity in land frauds. The question of the chairmanship of that important committee last year developed strong opposition to Senator Mitchell. Senators said that he was not the right man for the place, but following a long line of senatorial precedents, he was given the coveted honor. He has, however, never been able to enjoy it. It is now a question whether the Senate will think it has sufficient provocation to summarily deprive him of the place, while his case is on appeal, and name another chairman. Senator Mitchell was originally a Nicaragua route man, but he, with others, came over to the Panama plan until only Senator Morgan was left, a venerable and solitary figure, fighting earnestly against the project and predicting, time and again, that the route was impracticable. Some of the younger Senators who were wont to shake their heads and remark that the "old man was getting daffy," during some of his wonderful and never-ending speeches, are not so sure now. Probably Senator Morgan will have some ten or twelve more long speeches, requiring from a day to three or four days each, to deliver when he returns here in December. It is predicted that he will be certain to be replete with information about the Isthmian situation which no other mortal has been able to collect.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. ROOT CO., MEDINA, OHIO.

YOUR FEEBLE OLD WAGON

has many years service in it. Replace its shaky wheels with

ELECTRIC METAL WHEELS

Made to fit any skein. Straight or staggered oval steel spokes, cast in the hub, hot riveted in the tire. Broad tires save rutting and draft. Any height desired. Write for free catalogue for particulars.

ELECTRIC WHEEL CO.,

BOX 63, QUINCY, ILLINOIS.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones especially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm. Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.

St. Paul, Minn.

AGENTS WANTED

To Canvass for the

UNITED STATES

SENATOR NUMBER

NOW PUBLISHED

The Number contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS,

two from each State of the Union. This collection was made from new exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 by 8 inches in size

are protected by copyright and may not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

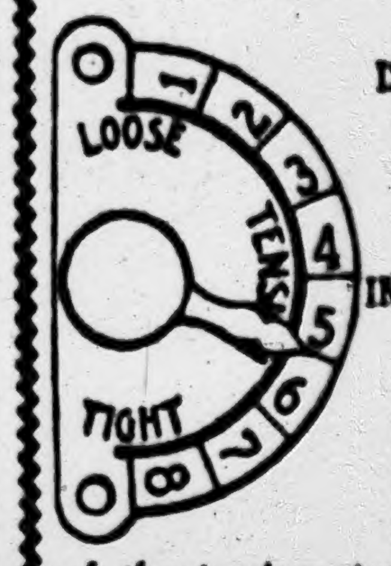
For terms and other particulars address

THE BUDGET COMPANY,

WM. GRANT JAMES, Treas.,

220 WASHINGTON STREET,

BOSTON, MASS.



A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

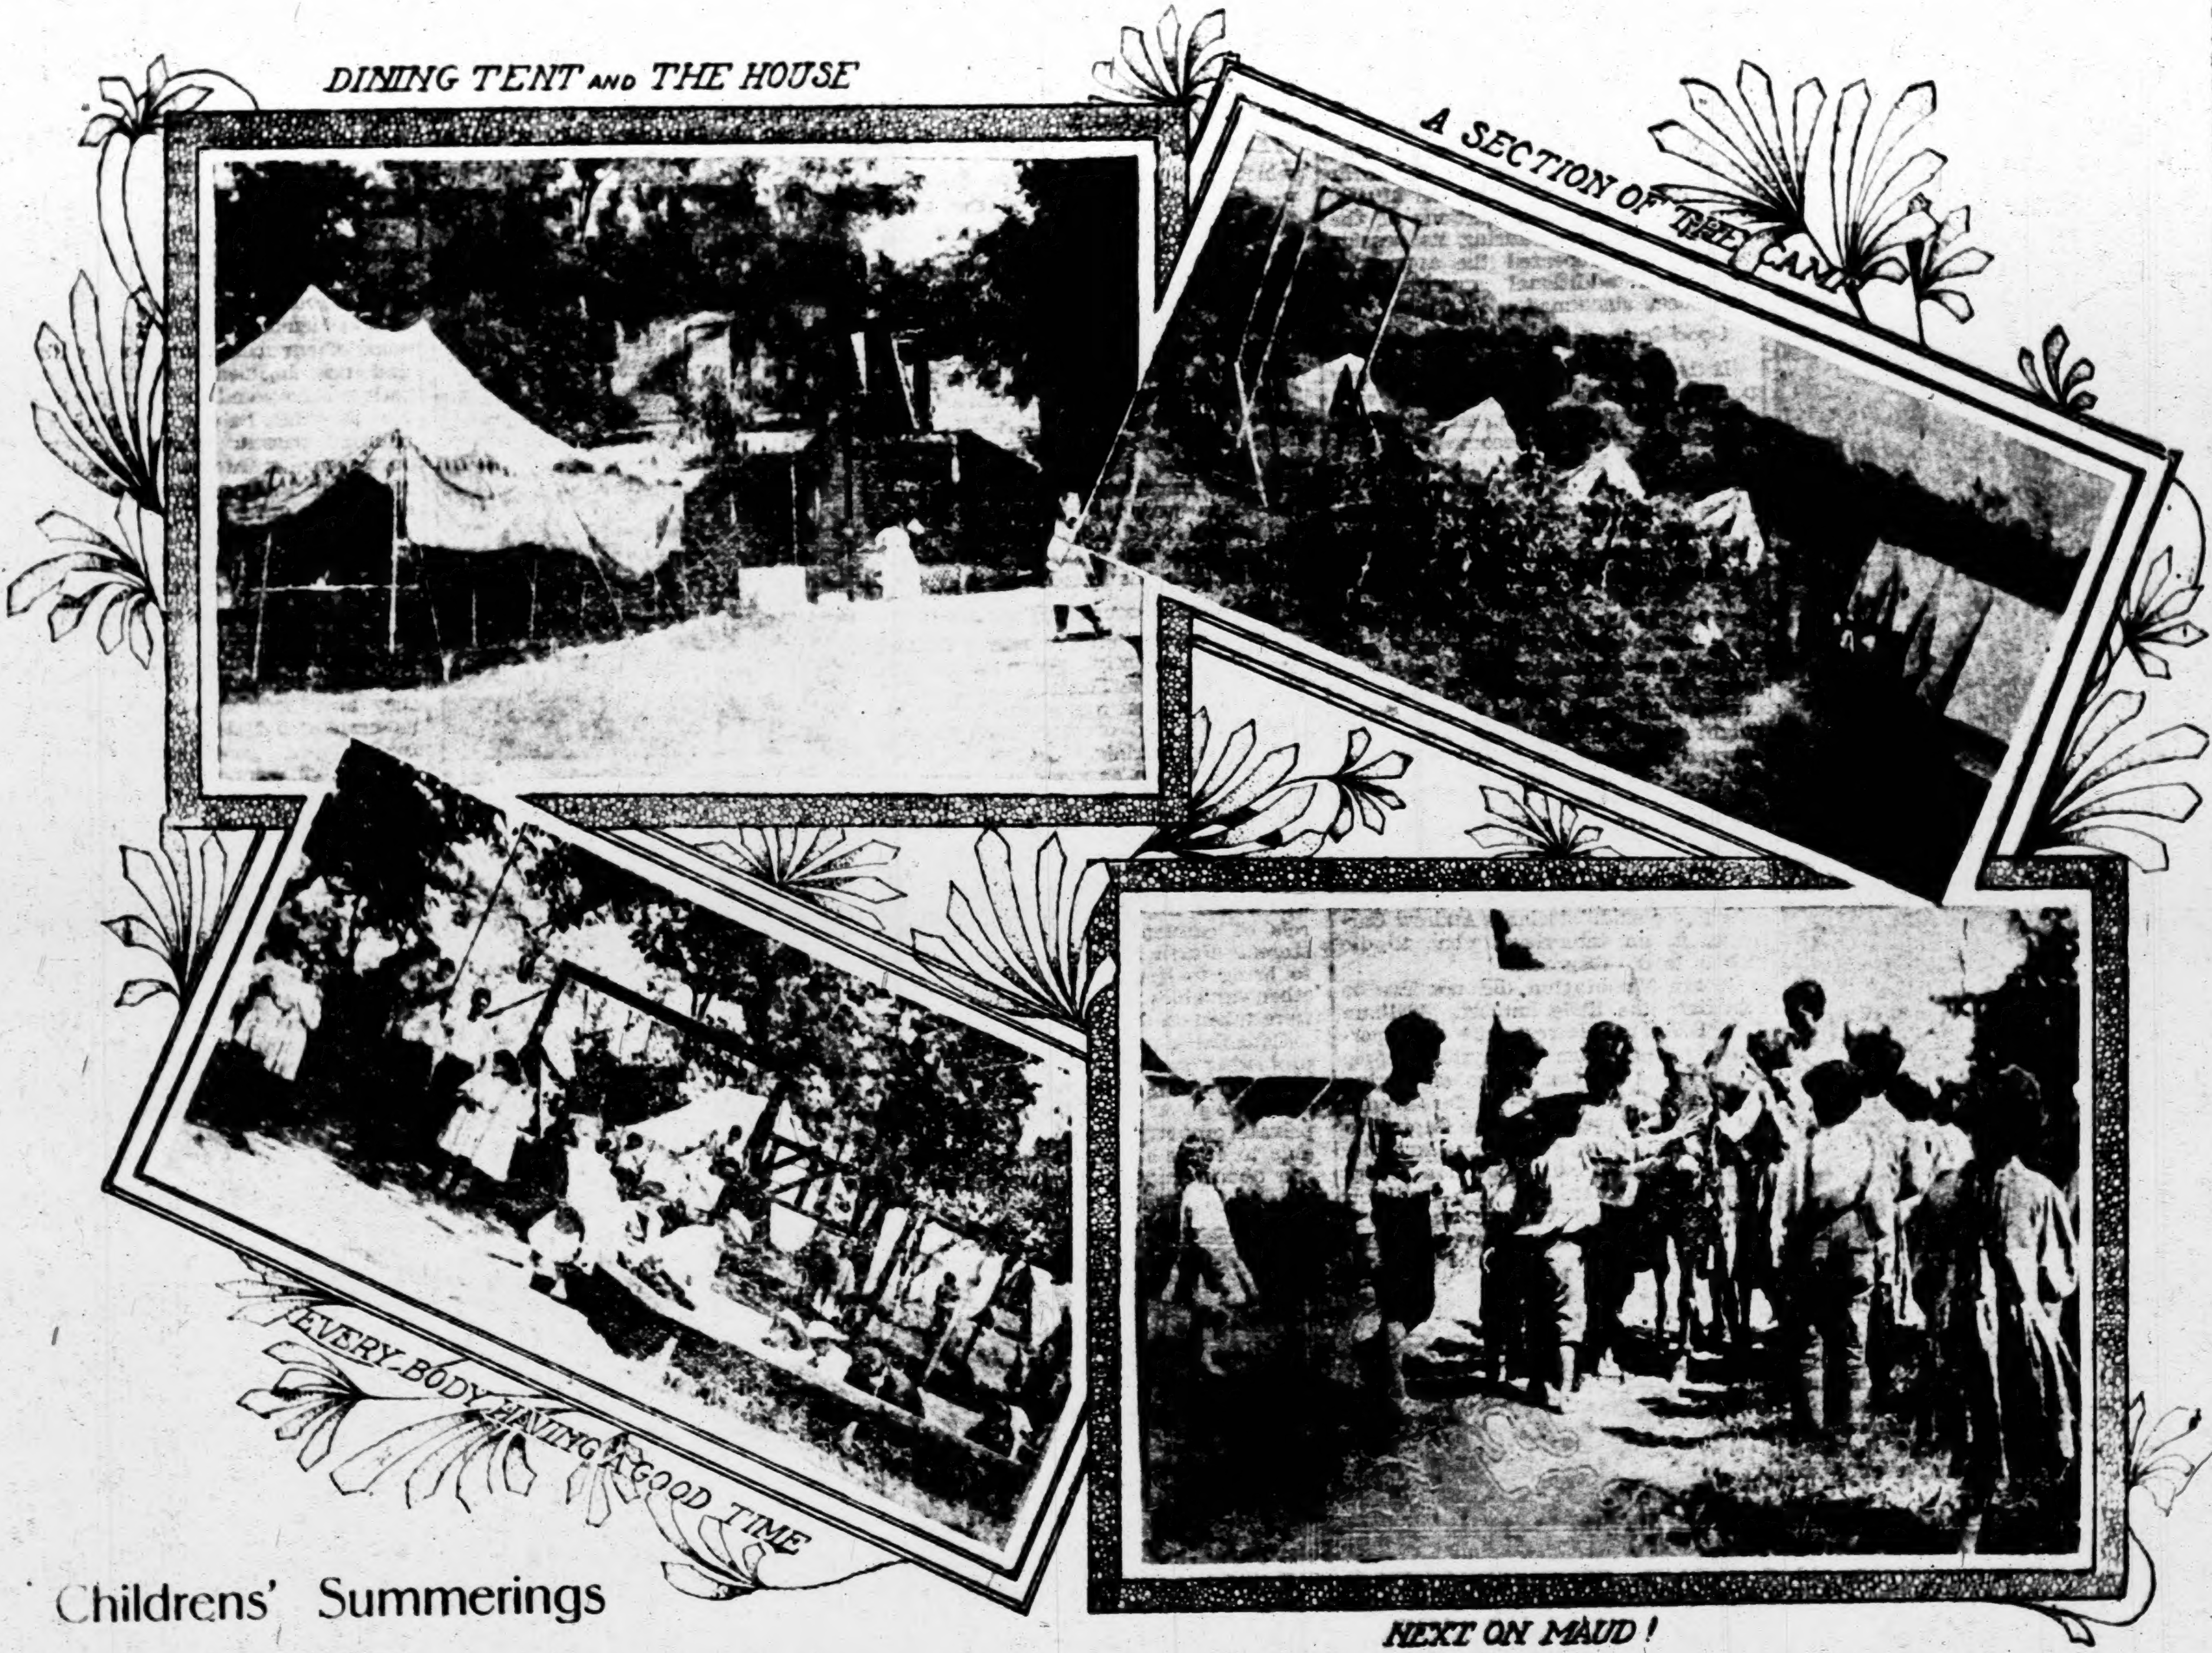
WHITE

Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.

Cleveland, Ohio.



DINING TENT AND THE HOUSE
A SECTION OF THE CAMP
EVERY-BODY HAVING A GOOD TIME
NEXT ON MAUD!

Childrens' Summerings

SCENES AT JUVENILE CAMP OUTSIDE OF WASHINGTON

BY DOROTHY DUNNE.

A kind of philanthropy which does good, beyond any doubt or question, is that which takes thousands of children every year out of the heated and crowded cities into the country where the air is pure and nature is clothed in beauty. Every year, as the hot weather approaches, camps are established short distances outside of most of the large cities. Some of these are sustained by popular subscriptions, some assisted by municipal appropriations, some are the projects of enterprising newspapers which early in the season start them going, and then ask through their columns for individual donations, and some are supported on a semi-medical popular basis. To those who have always lived in the country, or in small cities or towns, the significance of this annual provision for tens of thousands of little citizens may not be apparent. It is a painful fact, however, that a number of our large centers of population contain thousands of children who have never seen a green field, and who have only the sidewalk and the gutter for play grounds. To such even a short sojourn in the country is the opening of a new page in their book of life.

Washington is Hot in Summer.

While in Washington there is no such condition among the children, for the city is comparatively clean and well-kept, with a splendid arrangement of public parks and the most wonderful collection of trees in its streets of any large city in the country, still it is on the border of the Southland, its pavements are of asphalt and the almost torrid sun of mid-summer sometimes makes existence terribly trying to the poor, so that the establishment of a Country Camp a few miles beyond the city limits has partaken of the most common sense kind of charity possible. There the little ones of the local byways and congested tenement districts of the city are taken for healthful recreation in God's great out-of-doors. There, away from the noises of the town and the squalid surroundings, they find, for the time being, the stimulation of nature, the songs of birds, the perfume of flowers, green grass and refreshing breezes. In a word, this camp, like many others throughout the country, is a children's paradise.

All Kinds of Fun.

Nor have the children been left to derive all their pleasure and fun from communion with nature only. There were provided eight big swings, usually all moving with happy occupants, a dozen baby swings for the little tots, four or five teeter ladders, punching bags, see-saws, horizontal bars, rings, and other wholesome apparatuses. Two large boxes filled with sand have provided delightful occupation for tiny human ants. Ample open space in the vicinity has allowed for games of ball and other field sports, and a swimming hole in the adjacent Rock Creek has all summer brought joy and happiness to the boy members of the Camp.

One of the prime favorites at Camp Good Will has been Maud, a little donkey presented to the children by Colonel Biddle, one of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Maud Not a Kicker.

"Maud ain't like that fightin' and kickin' mule in the picture paper," said one little fellow, whose former pallid cheeks were beginning to take on a tinge of healthful peach-blush red. "She is a nice donkey, she is, an' plays with us fellows just like she was another feller. She's got sense, too, an' she likes to play with the girls, an' she won't hurt them, either. I wish I could take Maud home with me when I go."

Other hangers-on at this camp are the bunnies, the chickens and the Moo cows. The barnyard at Camp Good Will is not its least interesting feature. One fine cow was donated through Colonel Biddle, while two cows, known as the "doctors' herd," were purchased from a fund raised by Washington physicians, who contributed $1 each. These, with two animals that have been loaned to the committee, give the poor children a liberal and plentiful supply of fresh milk. A number of hens were also donated, and from their eggs have been raised broods of chickens, giving the children employment and useful instruction. A horse was donated, and a coal merchant loaned a wagon for the summer. Farm utensils were donated by a church. If there is any scheme worthy of gifts or assistance, is it not such a one as this?

Smiling and Happy Little Faces.

The camp overlooks the picturesque gorge of Rock Creek Park, and the air is always pure and fresh. But best of all are the happy smiles of contentment of the little children who may have never before known such happiness.

"This is awful nice," said a little fellow who has been a cripple since infancy. "I wish I could always live out here with the birds and flowers and Maud."

For rainy days an old Maryland barn served as a splendid play house. In this, Sunday services were held and sometimes during the week amateur theatricals were given for the amusement of the little campers. An ample water supply reaches the camp through a pipe laid by the direction of the Washington city government.

Not Used to Nature.

It was related that some of the children are awed by "the big dark," as they term it, and the intense stillness during their first night or two in camp, when the silence is only broken by the occasional cry of a night bird and the chirping of crickets. The contrast between the noises of the night in town and the stillness of the after daylight hours in the country is so great that it is awesome at first, but soon wears away, and the children grow to appreciate the quietness and balm of nature in the suburban night.

The dining tent afforded room for all with its long tables and benches, spotlessly clean. With the ringing of the first bell for the frugal evening meal, they stopped play and washed their hands and faces. With the second bell, they formed in line and marched to their places at the table, where, standing, they repeated in unison this patriotic grace:

For peace and for plenty,
  For freedom and for rest,
For joy in the land,
  From the east to the west.

For the dear starry flag,
  With its red, white, and blue,
We thank Thee from hearts
  That are tender and true.

Then the little folk sat down and a great clattering followed as they did justice to the plentiful supper that was spread before them.

Plain Wholesome Food.

The bill of fare on a day when the camp was visited was as follows:

Breakfast—Real milk, oatmeal or hominy grits, fried potatoes, bread and butter and either hash, eggs or sausage.

Dinner—Corned or roast beef, variety of vegetables, principally from the camp garden, milk, bread and butter.

Supper—Milk, bread, butter, cold meat, cake and cooked fruit.

Several special treats of ice cream and other goodies have been sent by merchants and others in Washington.

An instructive feature of the camp life consisted in tri-weekly rambles over meadows and through woods under a kind naturalist who explained to the children in simple language the wonders and mysteries of nature.

A Washington lady had a class of 15 girls at the camp who were instructed in kitchen garden lessons.

One Washington physician, who is a subscriber to the camp fund, says of this work for the poor children of Washington:

"This is the most practical life-saving institution ever started by Washington charity."

Very Easy Money.

"This is a gr-reat counthry, Mary Ann. We will prosper foinely, I don't doubt."

"And what makes you think so, Pat?"

"Sure, Oi've just learned that yez can buy a five dollar money order for three cents, and Oi'm told that wan of Uncle Sam's money orders is as goold as goold. Oi'm afther gettin' wan now wid th' money yez give me for the scrubbing brush."

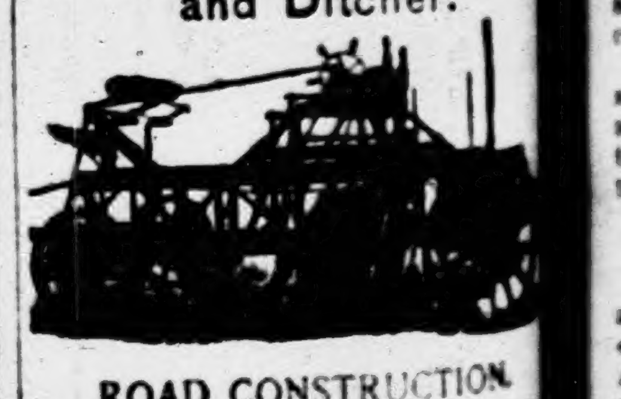
Marlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.

New Haven, Conn.



EXCAVATION WORK

With Greatest Economy use the

Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Western Wheeled Scraper Co.

AURORA, ILL.

Send for Catalog.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine

Write for Catalogue.

EAGLE TANK CO., 281 N. Green St.

Chicago, Ill.

PHOTOGRAPHERS

Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water; we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydise and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY

11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

AGENTS WANTE

To Canvass for the

UNITED STATES SENATOR NUMBE

NOW PUBLISHED.

The Issue contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS,

two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures 12 by 8 inches in size are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

THE BUDGET COMPANY,

WM. GRANT JAMES, Treas.

220 WASHINGTON STREET,

BOSTON, MASS.

A Tension Indicator

LOOSE TENSION TIGHT
1
2
3
4
5
6
7 8

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE Co.

Cleveland, Ohio.

EXCAVATION WORK.

With Greatest Economy use the

Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Western Wheeled Scraper Co.

AURORA, ILL.

Send for Catalog.

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine

Write for Catalogue.

EAGLE TANK CO., 281 N. Green St.

Chicago, Ill.

RAPHERS

les and Scales Away

bottles and scales cause you trouble?

r Developers, put up READY TO USE.

to the developing tray and add the water

he latter. Large quantities of developer spoil. With our developers you only make n tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and ich will not stain the fingers or nails, and is Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

PHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY

Washington, D.

The Red Stones

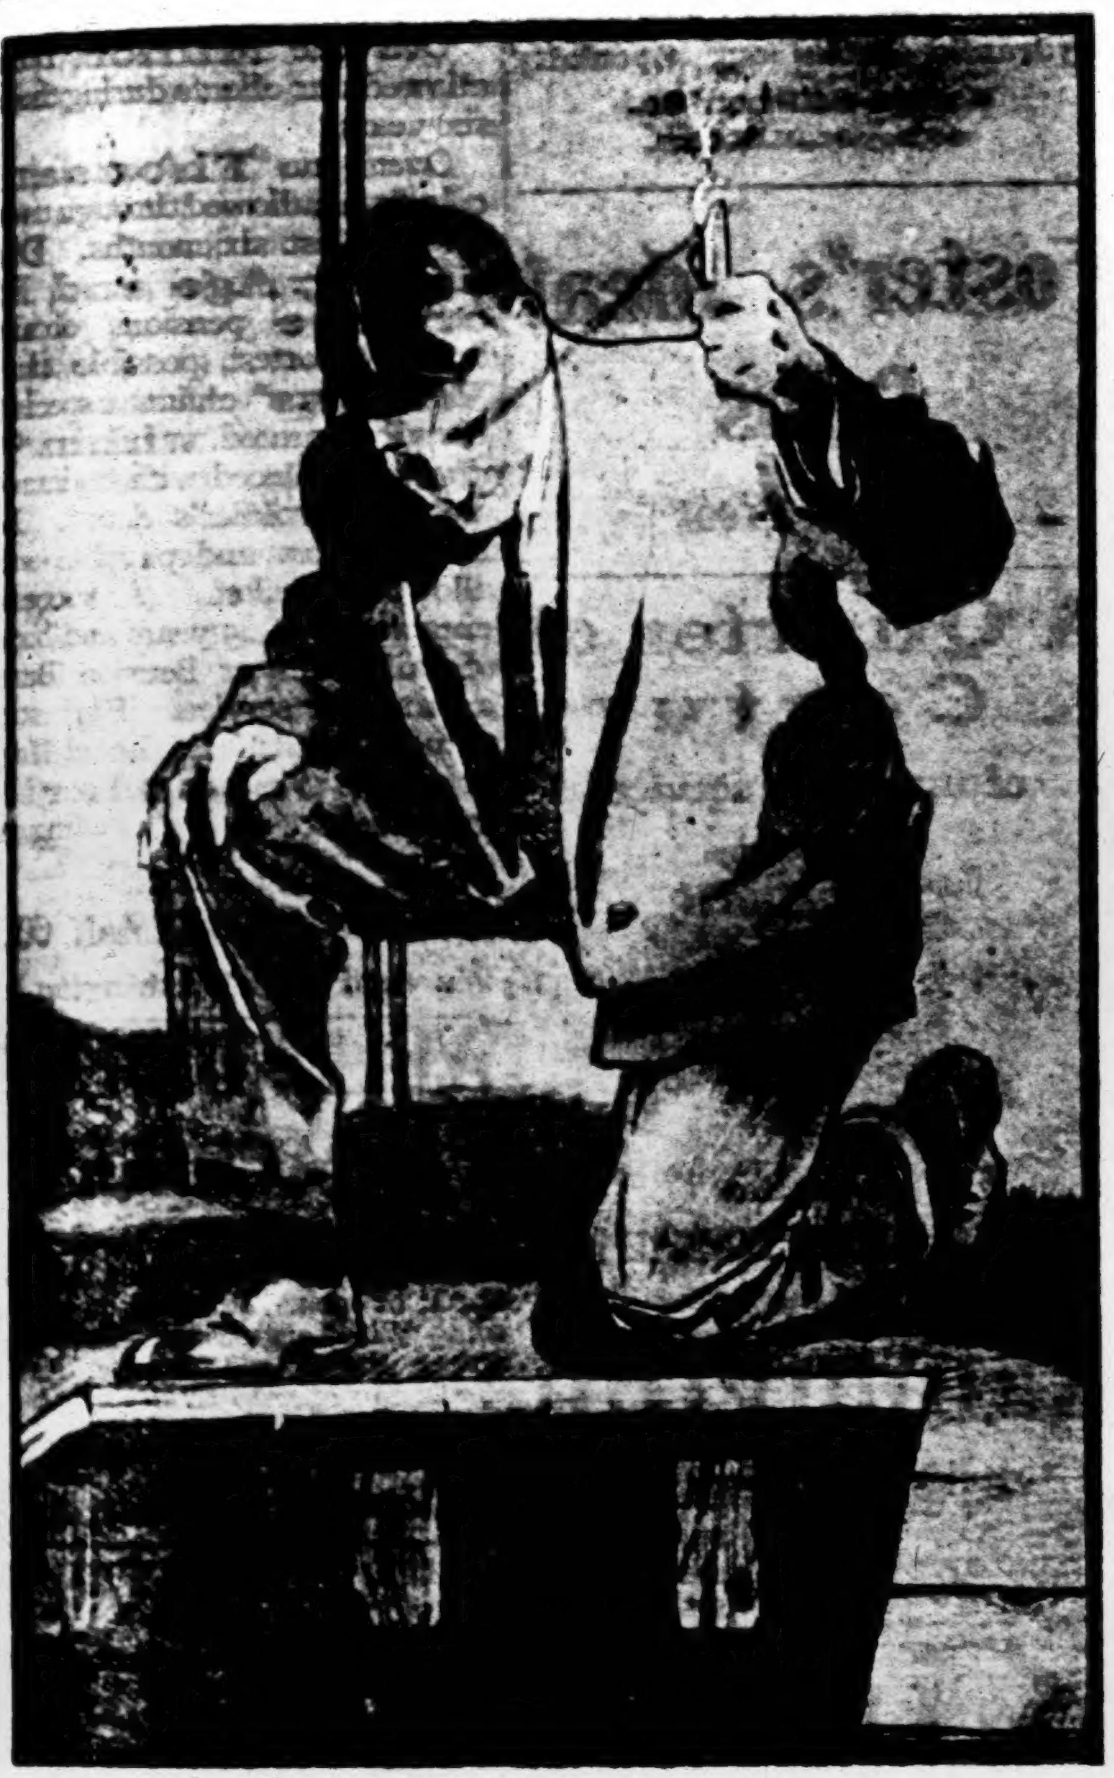
Rowland Harvey was a gentleman by profession with refined tastes in horse flesh, old wines and big game shooting. These being expensive things and his worldly possessions amounting in American money, to some fifteen dollars odd, the clothes on his back and a file of unpaid bills, he looked upon the world with a somewhat critical eye at the time of which this small adventure is written.

Mr. Harvey was lank, muscular and bronzed with a handsome mustache, splendid health and a somewhat shiny suit of clothes.

He was contemplating a new start in life, and not wishing to be trammelled with the possession of unnecessary property had determined to dispose of his present cash holdings and start square. With fifteen dollars he could spend at least one enjoyable evening, living on the fat of the land and feasting on a rare dish or two of which he had partaken in foreign travels—for good times he cared nothing. Careless of appearance, he had, however, been a man of some parts, and he felt that his entertainment would be incomplete if a mental diet was not included in his bill of fare; so it was to that end, on a drizzly Thursday evening, close onto seven o'clock, that he strolled into a second-hand book store and idly scanned some tattered volumes of old tales. Most of them were trash, but at last he found one which suited his bizzarre fancy—a quaint little volume bound in brown leather with the date, 1665. It was dedicated to the "Most high and puissant the Marquis de Noailles," and purported to be the private memoirs of a period when to keep a diary was an indiscretion.

It was too early to dine—as he intended to dine—so he turned into a neighboring cafe, ordered a glass of absinthe and began to inspect his purchase.

It proved interesting and not a little scandalous, and, heedless of the passage of time, he had read maybe twenty pages, when a slip of paper detached itself and fell to the floor.



"BELOW HE COULD JUST CATCH THE GLEAM OF DARK, SWIFT WATER."

The Puzzling Diagram.

He picked it up and glanced at it, a half sheet of modern note paper covered with writing in modern Greek. At the bottom was a diagram. With casual interest, Harvey began stumbling through it, picking out a word here and a sentence there by the aid of his almost forgotten school-boy education.

Suddenly he sat up and rubbed his eyes, for, in the midst of the Greek he had come across some scattered English words. One was Raymond, another was Brayford Grange, and then there was some mixed Greek and English reference to a mill house.

His interest was now thoroughly aroused, for, as he was well aware, these names were connected with the tale of a famous jewel robbery of the [illegible], a crime with which the whole country had rung at the time, and for which an innocent man came near losing his life.

In the summer of 1889, to be precise, an eccentric old gentleman had taken Brayford Grange on the Thames. Among other hobbies he had a mania for jewels which he kept unmounted in trays in a safe. The Raymond rubies were world-famous. Late one night the safe was rifled and the old man brutally murdered.

The crime was the sensation of the day. The Scotland Yard people recovered the greater portion of the stolen property, but the rubies, the most famous stones of all the jewels, were never found, nor were the perpetrators of the crime captured. After a nine days wonder, public interest subsided and nothing had been heard since of jewels or murderers.

Harvey scanned the paper with redoubled care. He remembered that the crime was said to be the handiwork of a foreigner, but the crabbed modern Greek was too much for his scant memories of the classics.

"Hang it all," he exclaimed aloud, "I can't make head nor tail of it." A touch on the arm aroused him.

A little, ferrity sort of man, seated at the next table, leaned across toward him.

"Excuse me," he said, "but you are puzzling over Greek; can I be of any service? I—er—in fact, I used to be a teacher of the language."

A Startling Translation.

"The deuce you did," said Harvey. "Good. Give me a hand and I shall be awfully obliged."

"With pleasure," said the other, seating himself at Harvey's table. The latter pushed the paper across to the newcomer, tearing off, however, the bottom portion containing the diagram.

"This—er—is a most extraordinary document," said the little man. "It is, pardon me, a jest of some sort, or may I ask how you secured it?" There was latent suspicion in the tone. Harvey glanced up sharply, and returned a vague and evasive answer.

"It seems to be," said the small man, "in the nature of a—er—confession, a crime—jewels—precious stones—a curious document altogether. Shall I read it to you?"

"Yes," said Harvey, with concealed interest.

The little man adjusted his spectacles and began:

"I am dying. Antonio also is dead, for I killed him. The red stones are safely hidden. Go and fetch them and sell them to Massena, the Jew. It was Antonio who killed the old Englishman, Raymond, against my wish. Many of the jewels have been taken from us through Antonio's folly, and are past recovery, but the red stones are safe. Go to the old millhouse at the end of Brayford Grange, by the river, and there you shall find them if you follow these instructions.

"On the lowest floor of the millhouse is an opening. Down this descend, using caution. The stones are in a bag of soft leather, inside of a canvas bag, to which is a cord of strong silk and this is attached to a bar of iron, the whereabouts of which you will find plainly by the diagram. The water is of great depth. I die at the hand of Antonio's brother, who thought to discover this hiding place. To you alone I leave the secret."

There was no signature, no hint as to the writer's identity.

The little man looked up. His face was pale and his eyes spoke greed.

"And the diagram," he said, speaking quickly in his excitement.

"Ah, yes, the diagram," said Harvey, "there must have been one."

"There was! You tore it off as sure as my name is Mr. Vyse."

"Well, then, Mr. Vyse," retorted Harvey, coolly, "What then? It was mine to tear and that paper is my property."

"I am a poor man," the other retorted. "I have been poor all my life and this paper—do you think—"

"I don't think at all," said Harvey, curtly, "I know one thing and that is that I wish you a very good evening."

"Wait," said Vyse. "You have forgotten one thing. Raymond—ah, yes, I recall the case well. Raymond died without friend or relative and his property reverted to the Crown. There would be a reward offered for such information as I could give the police," he said, spitefully.

A Dangerous Stuff.

"You venomous little beast, you sneaking humbug. Police! Oh, yes, I know all about treasure trove and the law and all that sort of thing. If you'd been decent, I'd have shared a bit with you for your pains. But blackmailing don't go with me. Call all the police in London if you want and you will get locked up for a lunatic." And he strolled out of the cafe.

• • • • • • •

Harvey caught the late train for Brayford Grange. He forgot his dinner. He had not taken his seat two minutes before he saw Vyse's sneaking little face peering into all the carriages as he walked along the platform. Harvey swore below his breath and concealed himself behind his paper. In another minute the train was off. Arrived at his destination, Harvey procured some candles and after a desultory chat with the landlord on fishing prospects, slipped in a question about the mill house. Yes, it was still uninhabited, a ruin, half a mile or so away.

It was just eleven o'clock when Harvey, candle in hand, alighted on the mill house floor, having wrenched off a shutter. There was no sound beyond the gurgle of the water. He pulled out his diagram and the situation was now clear to him. It represented the opening mentioned and a cross set in the center of the fourth board on the left hand side admitted of no doubt as to the position of the iron bar.

He lit a second candle, crossed the floor with delicate tread, and found himself at the edge of a large square opening.

The Gleam of Dark Waters.

Below, he could just catch the gleam of dark, swift water. Across the opening at a depth of some six feet ran two parallel beams, slimy and rotten with age. To get at the bar he must lower himself on to one of these. Setting the candle on the edge of the opening, he cautiously dropped down. The next second he was standing firmly, peering into the space. With a quick impulse and a feeling of disgust that he was about to be disappointed, he selected the fourth board on the left side, as directed, and attacked it with his knife. It yielded at the first touch and fell with a splash into the dark water below, disclosing to view a rusty iron bar, from which depended a thin, rotten-looking line. He caught hold of it and pulled in terror, lest it should snap in his grasp. There was weight at the end. Finally, inch by inch, he coaxed it upward and hauled it in, apparently a bundle of weeds. However, by the feel of the thing there was something in the midst of it, and with trembling fingers he disclosed a small, dripping black bundle—a bag—sodden, and nearly rotted to pieces.

Ransom for a King.

A slash of his knife laid the bag open, disclosing to view a hoard of small, gritty-looking pebbles of varying sizes—rubies—wealth untold. He picked out some of the largest and endeavored to clean them on his coat sleeve. Two needed washing before he could make anything of them, and he slipped them into his pocket. The largest of all was less begrimed, and taking it gingerly between his finger and thumb, he raised it toward the light. There he held it in blank amazement, for peering over the edge of the opening, his face twitching with excitement, was the man, Vyse, carrying in his hand with obvious fear, a cheap, nickle-plated revolver.

"Oh," said Harvey, "so you're there? How about the police?"

The little man lifted the revolver with shaking hands.

"Give'em to me, give'em to me, curse you, they're mine."

"You infernal little shyster," cried Harvey, "put that gun down. Put it down, I tell you, or I will wring your scraggy neck." And with a quick movement he reached upward to seize the weapon.

Vyse started in terror. The next instant there was a flash and a report and the bullet seared Harvey's forearm. He struck with his other hand, but lost his balance, slipped, and fell.

Mr. Vyse shrieked with fright and lay grovelling on the floor, as Harvey sank into the water with a dull splash. The bag of jewels, already open, followed him, emitting a tinkling sound, as one by one the famous Raymond rubies sank toward the soft, black ooze of the river bed.

When he recovered his senses, a matter of probably some five seconds, Harvey was swimming mechanically in the calm back-water with the mill house behind him. He still held the big ruby tightly pressed between his first and second fingers.

Glancing about him, he struck out for the nearest bank, and then began to swear vehemently. His arm hurt him for one thing and he yearned for the blood of Vyse with a most unholy longing. His hand instinctively sought his pocket with the idea of finding a handkerchief to wipe the water from his face. He did not find it, but instead he found the two other large rubies which he had placed there not five minutes before. Then he stopped swearing and began to laugh. After all, three immense rubies were not so bad. They would bring him a figure well into the thousands, a very good night's work—further his keen sense of humor conjured up a vivid picture of a little, ferrity man, running, terror stricken, through the dark night, quivering with a guilty remorse for a murder which he had never intended and never committed.—London Mail.

Pointed Paragraphs

From the Chicago Chronicle.

Most of the serious slips occur after the cup has been to the lip.

Some people never realize that they are wrong until they are found out.

Our idea of a pleasant conversationalist is one who knows how to make a long story short.

It is easier to make a new quarrel than it is to patch up an old one.

Many a man who thinks he thinks has a wife who does most of his thinking.

The self-made man will be a good thing—if he ever gets himself finished.

It is always difficult to separate the man who claims to have a soul above mere gain from a little of his money.

What a delightful world this would be to live in if our neighbors knew half as well as we do what is good for them.

To Be Married in October.

"But do you really love me just as I am?"

"Just as you are, dear. There is not a thing about you that I would change except your name."

IN UPPER CURRENTS.

MAN'S SUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS TO INVADE THE REALM OF BIRDS.

Balloons Have Carried Daring Aeronauts Higher than Loftiest Mountains—High Air Currents Blow Two Hundred Miles an Hour.

The recent sensational balloon flights of Roy Knabenshue in New York City at which half of the street population of the town was either on the roof tops, hanging out of windows, or racing up and down the streets in trolley cars, automobiles, cabs and afoot, in an endeavor to keep in sight of the air machine sailing majestically over the city, invites some attention to the high places of the earth and the success attained by men thus far in penetrating into and ascending above the clouds. Mr. Knabenshue's performance was conducted on a plane of only 1,000 or 1,500 feet. He sailed around over the gigantic New York office buildings at a distance only two or three times their height. Had he attempted to circle the Eifel Tower in Paris instead of the Flat Iron Building in New York he would have had to go higher or endanger his car.

ROY KNABENSHUE NAVIGATING OVER NEW YORK.

The balloon, however, has ascended into the sky as high as it has been possible for man to exist. In 1901, M. Berson went up to the record height of 35,000 feet—almost seven miles—and nearly 8,000 feet above the region of the highest clouds. The following year a balloon from Strasburg Observatory reached a height of 73,000 feet. This balloon was, of course, unoccupied.

Of things more substantial than balloon ascensions, the Eifel Tower which rises 984 feet is the highest building in the world. Mount Everett rises 28,905 feet, the loftiest peak on earth. Its summit has never and probably never will be reached by man unless in an airship. Dr. Workman, of Worcester, Mass., holds the highest record for mountain climbing which is 23,998 feet. His wife is a close competitor and has the woman's mountain climbing record for 21,910 feet.

Something was learned of the upper air currents at the time of the vast volcanic disturbances in the Island of Krakatoa in the East Indies, a seismic disturbance to which the recent Mont Pelee eruption was a slight ebullition. With the final bursting of the mountain, hundreds of thousands of tons of impalpable ashes were discharged hourly into the heavens, rising to a height of probably 20 miles, where the mass took on a dull reddish hue. Through this phenomenon science discovered that at that height a vast wind constantly rages at the rate of 200 miles an hour. This fierce air current swept the ashes of Krakatoa entirely around the globe.

PRACTICE OF THE BLACK ART.

Change in the Navy as a Result of Japan's Sea Victory.

There is no teacher to compare with experience and the wise man profits by the experience of others. Uncle Sam has applied to his own war fleet one of the lessons of the Japanese naval battles. Heretofore what are known as the fighting tops of battle ships have been supplied with small caliber quick firing machine guns, the idea being when vessels came together to sweep the enemy's deck of every living thing. But it has been found that one or the other ship either goes to the bottom or is placed 'hors de combat' before ever they get close enough to allow the little guns to do serious execution. Therefore these little war devils are being removed and range-finders installed in their place. For the protection of the vessel from torpedo boat attacks, reliance will be placed on the small guns mounted on deck.

FIGHTING-TOP OF DESTROYED RUSSIAN BATTLESHIP "PERESVIET."

The range-finder in the tops will tell the crews of the big guns below how to aim. And this is certainly one of the most marvelous and eerie things of modern warfare—that a gun and its crew can be entirely out of sight of the obstacle at which they train their guns and can be mathematically instructed how to hit that object. Such is truly a practice of the black art. Japan followed it and the accuracy of Togo's gunners was one of the startling things about that terrific battle in the Straits of Korea.

COFFEE DOES HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM FOOD COFFEE

in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

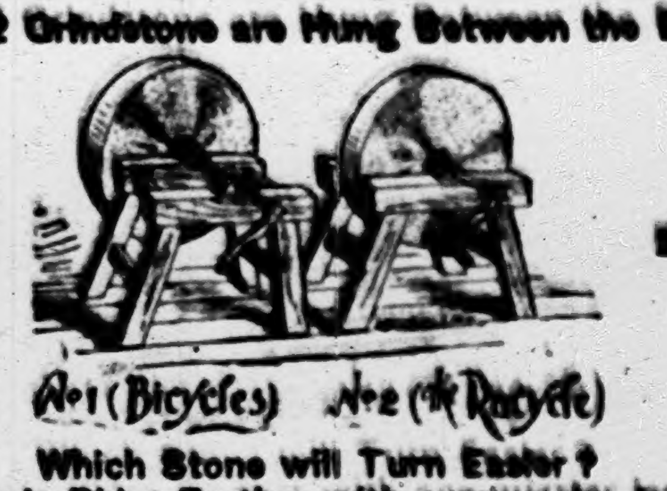
Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS

Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings



Which Stone will Turn Easier?

The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.

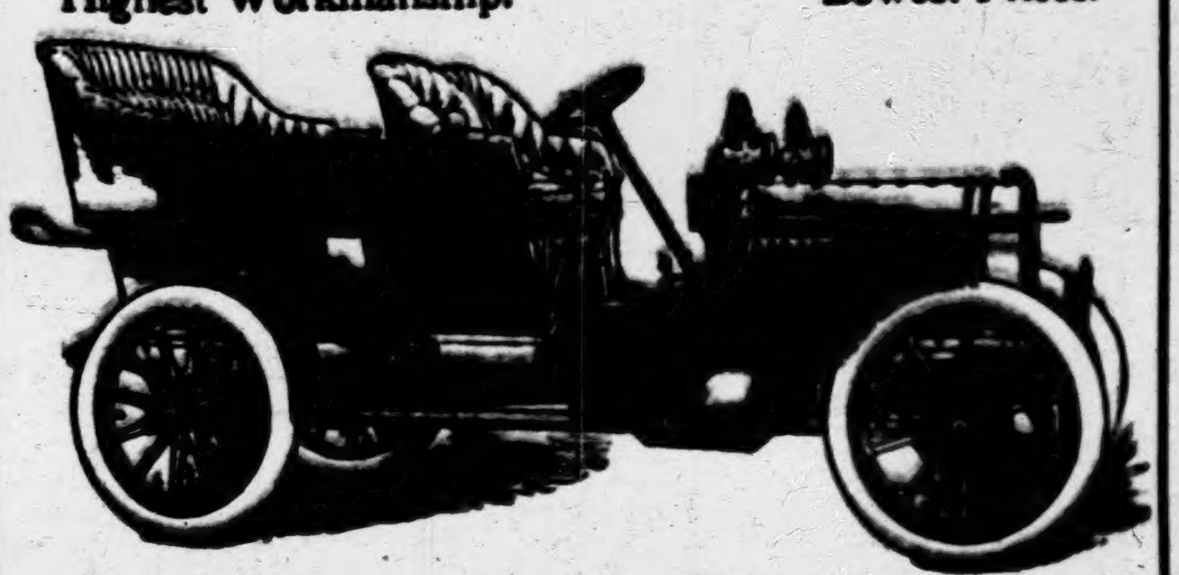
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

OLDSMOBILES for 1905

THE CAR THAT GOES

Highest Workmanship.

Lowest Prices.



Cars for Immediate Delivery.

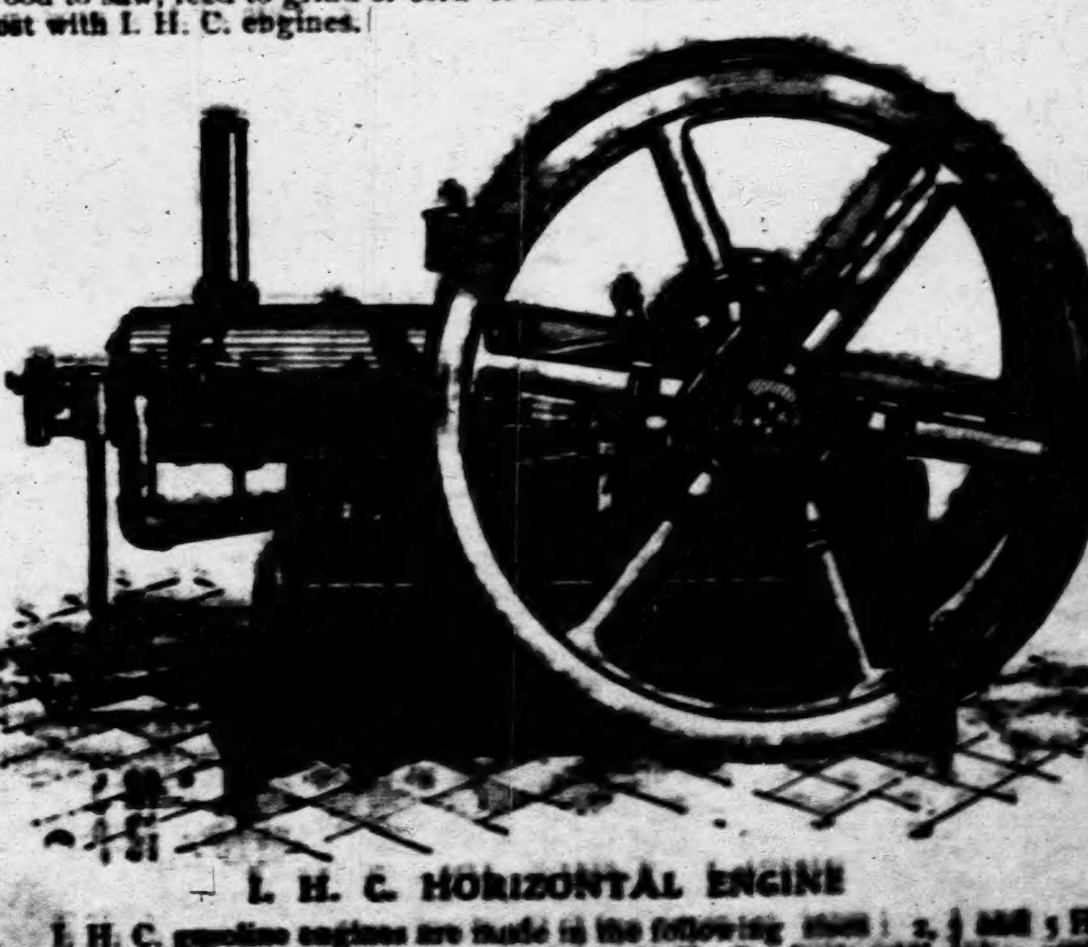
Olds Motor Works

DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.

GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America

(Incorporated)

7 Monroe Street

Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

New Farm Plants

Work of the United States Department of Agriculture.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

A feature of the work of the Department of Agriculture which holds out enormous promise is the work of foreign agricultural exploration and the introduction of new and rare seeds and plants.

American agriculture is a comparatively new thing. Our climatic and soil conditions are largely different from those of old countries whence our fathers came, and the bulk of our agricultural products have been introduced from abroad. Because our daddies did it before us, is a sufficient excuse for the majority of men to go ahead planting and cultivating in the same old way, but as a matter of fact the original producers of any of our common crops, a hundred or two hundred years ago, may have started wrong or have started in some particular locality with some particular crop not very well adapted to that section. For two hundred years our ancestors may have been making a living by growing that crop, and yet it may be that in some section of France, or perhaps Turkestan, where the soil and climate exactly corresponds, a particular plant is being grown to-day which is far superior as a money producer.

This is not a mere theory, for every little while some agricultural explorer of the Department sends in a new species, or perhaps merely a new variety of some common grain, for instance, which upon trial proves to be a much heavier and better yielder than the kind that our farmers have been growing since the Indians occupied the land.

Secretary Wilson takes much stock in his agricultural explorers, and he has some energetic young men who are both botanists and linguists and have become almost as familiar with the agricultural productions of some little known and difficult to reach corners of the globe as they are with the farms of the United States. The writer is indebted to David G. Fairchild for an intensely interesting talk on foreign plants. Mr. Fairchild speaks five or six different languages and knows pretty nearly every plant that grows. He is one of Secretary Wilson's "bright young men," and he has organized and is in charge of the section of Plant and Seed Production, at present a modest branch of the Department, but one which is destined, in my judgment, to become one of its most important bureaus. This division already has some ten thousand plants new to America, which are being grown and tested all over the country.

New Plants of Promise.

"There is not a state nor a territory in the country," said Mr. Fairchild, "in which the crops, staple and subsidiary, are not capable in many cases of being supplanted by more successful ones. I have found new plants and new varieties of old ones almost everywhere I turned, in every one of the grand divisions of the earth, which somewhere in our own country will constitute an improvement upon the crops our farmers are already growing. Our farmers are growing perhaps barley or wheat or some other staple crop and are making money from it, and are satisfied, yet it may be that there is a variety or a strain more exactly adapted to their conditions of soil and climate which will yield them several bushels more per acre with the same labor. I could mention varieties of several staple crops which, upon the tests made in this country during the past year or two, have shown a very large increase over the ordinary yield of those crops. I will not name the kind of grain I have in mind, because we have only a very small supply of the new seed for test, and not enough this year for distribution, but our agents have tried it in various states, and in every instance I think, where the experiment was intelligently made, the yield of the new variety was very much larger."

The Dates of Persia.

Mr. Fairchild has made plant explorations through many of the most interesting countries of the globe—Peru, where the Incas once practiced agriculture and irrigation on a splendid scale; Chili, a temperate country, where many plants were found suitable for our conditions; China, India, Chaldea, and numerous others. At the last place, near Bagdad, are found the immense date groves of the land of Babylon, where are produced probably three-fourths of all the dates of commerce. These vast date forests extend for a distance of seventy miles up and down the Tigris. Many fine date suckers were obtained by Mr. Fairchild and shipped to the United States, and are now growing in Arizona, and some day the great Colorado river of our Southwest, where the conditions are exactly favorable for date growing, may not only produce all the dates which America uses, but export this wholesome fruit. Dates picked, packed and shipped by American methods will bring a higher price than the imported products, which, if the history of their packing were known, might not be eaten with such avidity by the fastidious. The saccharine of the date itself cures or candies the fruit, and some of the trees which have already fruited in Arizona and California have yielded very fancy and fine dates. For a long time to come, all of the dates produced in the United States will come from the Tigris and North African trees, imported through the department, and their progeny—date suckers—will command fancy prices.

Seedless Grapes, Malting Barley and Luxuriant Hops.

On a tour of investigation through Europe, Mr. Fairchild secured many important fruits and vegetables. The Sultanina seedless grape was sent in from Italy. The Huasco seedless raisin grape was another find. The best malting barley in the world was found growing at an old town in Moravia. Introduced under the name of Hanna barley, it has already proved of value to those regions where it has been grown, especially on the Pacific coast. It is not only earlier, but heavier yielding than other barleys; and if it is found that it can be generally substituted for the barleys now grown, its increased yield of from one to two and a half bushels per acre will add enormously to the aggregate output. A study of the hop regions of Europe disclosed the fact that the American hop is far inferior in quality to the best European varieties. The importation of young plants for the purpose of producing better American hops was undertaken by the Department as a result of this discovery.

Bamboo Will Thrive in U. S.

The Jordan almond, the finest variety in the world, was found growing in Spain, and at once recognized as far superior to the almonds produced in the United States, so a supply was immediately secured and shipped. A discovery which Mr. Fairchild thinks of great importance are the hardy bamboos of Japan. These are now being tested in California and the Southern States. Mr. Fairchild thinks they will thrive throughout the southern third of the United States. Herein lies the importance of this work. The finding of Japanese bamboo was no discovery; the importance lies in finding that they will thrive in our climate. Not only are they the most ornamental plant in the world, but they are probably the most useful wood in Japan, not only for the making of fancy furniture and knick-knacks, but for almost every use. "Tell me what you can use wood for," said Mr. Fairchild, "and I will tell you what use the Japanese can make of bamboo."

Better Than the Congressional Free Seed Farce.

Dozens of other extremely interesting and promising plants were found, quantities purchased and sent home for tests. The number of these discoveries and introductions is so great, and such an exhaustive test is in each case made by the Department before anything is recommended for introduction, that it is practically useless for farmers or fruit growers to write the Department for samples of the strange and interesting things which its agricultural explorers have secured, and which are described from time to time in the magazines. Until any product has been tested and is determined to be practicable for growth in the United States, it is not possible to secure any seeds or specimens. In fact, the Department has none. Those that are sent in are immediately distributed among the Government experiment stations and to a few practical growers who are especially able to properly attend to the experiments under the direction of the Department. However, the possibilities of these tests are very great, and Congress would be well warranted in diverting some of the immense annual appropriation for "free seeds" into this channel of introducing to American farmers something which may prove of real and national benefit.

VIEWS TAKEN BY AGRICULTURAL EXPLORER FAIRCHILD, SHOWING THE IRRIGATION OF A DATE GROVE; A NATIVE ARAB POLLENATING A DATE TREE; DATE SUCKERS BAGGED READY FOR SHIPMENT TO WASHINGTON, AND CAMELS BROWSING IN A FIELD OF BEERSEEM OR EGYPTIAN CLOVER.

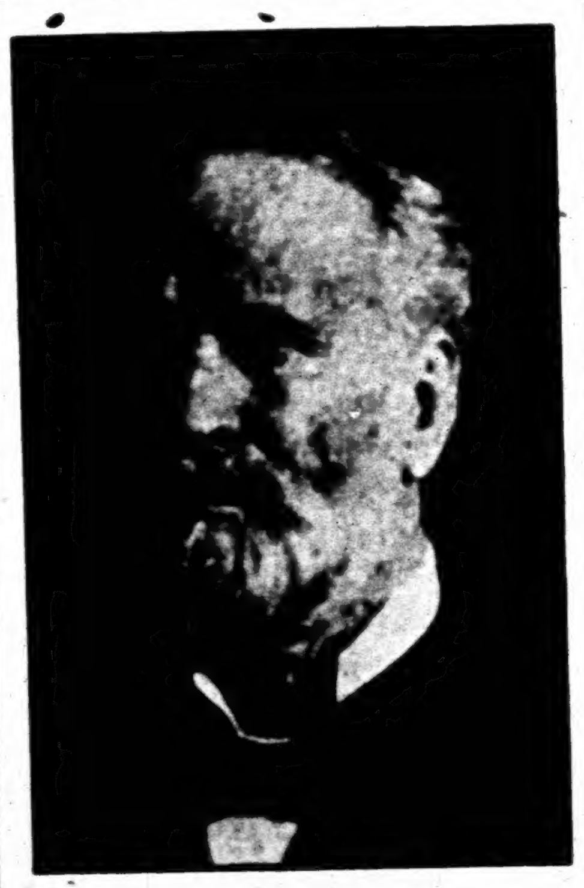
A Peculiar Horse.

The excellence of the English Colonial educational systems is evidenced by the following interesting description of the horse by a Bombay student:

"The horse is a very noble quadruped, but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by the bridle and sadly the driver places his foots on the stirrup, and divides his lower limbs across the saddle, and drives his animal to the meadow. He has a long mouth, and his head is attached to the trunk by a long protuberance called the neck. He has four legs; two are in the front side and two are afterwards. These are the weapons on which he runs, and also defends himself by extending those in the rear in a parallel direction toward his foe, but this he does only when in a vexatious mood. His fooding is generally grasses and grains. He is also useful to take on his back a man or woman as well as some cargo. He has power to run as fast as he could. He has got no sleep at night time, and always standing awaken. Also there are horses of short sizes. They do the same as the others are generally doing. There is no animal like the horse; no sooner they see their guardian or master they always crying for fooding, but it is always at the morning time. They have got tail, but not so long as the cow and other such like similar animals."

No Resignation for Secretary Wilson.

There are many good and sufficient reasons why Secretary Wilson whom the sensationalists have indirectly if not directly held accountable for the cotton scandal in his Department, will not resign. Whether or not Mr. Wilson is even indirectly responsible for the criminal doings of trusted employes, he is the man directly responsible for a most wonderful development and evolution in the Department of Agriculture. And a man who can revolutionize agriculture in an agricultural nation in a space of eight years and withal win the confidence of the farmers generally can not be spared.



JAMES WILSON, SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

Perhaps the most striking characteristic of the late President McKinley was his sound judgment of men and his ability to surround himself with the ablest counsellors obtainable. We owe to this keenness in recognizing unusual ability the introduction into the Cabinet of Secretary Hay of the State Department, Secretary Root of the War Department, Secretary Taft as Governor of the Philippines and later Secretary of War, and Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture. All of these won marked success. Mr Hay became our foremost diplomat, if not the world's; Mr. Root carried the burden of a war upon his shoulders and at the same time reorganized his great Department and the army; and Judge Taft's administration in the Philippines was so able and successful that it brought him a place in President Roosevelt's Cabinet. With Mr. Root he is now talked of for President, and if not that, a place on the Supreme Bench.

But of services rendered the country looking to its internal development, that of Mr. Wilson in the great and surpassing domain of agriculture has never been equalled. He came to the Cabinet both a practical farmer and a trained scientist. From the tail end of the Cabinet Departments he has raised the Ministry of Agriculture to a conspicuous position, outshining several of the other Departments, and American agriculture has come to have a new and greater world meaning because of his active constructiveness and never flagging energy.

Secretary Wilson is rendering the American farmer a notable service and he has won the confidence of the people to a great degree as is evidenced by the many tributes paid him since the recent trouble in his Department. Rather than being censurable for the "graft" discovered, it is to Secretary Wilson's high credit that so little of this sort of thing has occurred. It is impossible to build up such an immense organization as is the present Department of Agriculture without some evil creeping in and without some designing individuals getting onto the pay rolls for the purpose of private gain other than their salaries.

Secretary Wilson will not resign to meet the demands of a few sensation mongers, simply because the country which is benefitting so largely through his splendid work will not hear of it any more than they would agree to Secretary Taft's resignation following the disgrace of every army officer, or to President Roosevelt's retirement every time that one of his appointments turns out badly.

SOME AFTER THOUGHTS.

District Attorney Jerome, of New York, says he is a man of peace. He is putting up a pretty good fight, though, on the New York grafters.

Scientists are debating how long a man can live under certain conditions after his neck has been broken. Among the politicians there are a good many with necks intact who have been dead ones for sometime

In deciding a divorce suit, a Cincinnati judge has stated that "a man is entitled to some supper, and a hot supper at that, when he gets home." The evidence shows that this man got a great many hot roasts upon his return home, but not of the kind that he could eat.

"Why would you not get married in August?" asks Nixola-Greeley Smith, in writing recently of summer weddings. The reason a good many of us would not is due to a disinclination to violate the law against bigamy.

Prices in Nebraska and Missouri are quite uniform. A Nebraska man claims to have killed six anti-trust bills in the state legislature for $5,000. That's what they charge in Missouri, $1,000 a piece—dozen rates, $10,000.

A Hawaiian woman bore seven children at once. Photograph has been forwarded to the White House.

There are a great many tall bank cashiers who are so short at the banks that they have had to go abroad on health trips.

A London scientist has cabled the yellow fever authorities that he has something good for mosquitoes. What is wanted is something extremely bad—which will make them very sick at the stomach.

At what time shall a man retire from active life? asks the "Boston Globe." What particular kind? Automobile dodging or defending himself from insurance agents?

"Non possimus" simply means "nothing doing."

Chairman Shonts says they "are working on the Canal with loyalty and zeal." The bids have been opened, however, for dredges and steam shovels.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROAC

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY

Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want,

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.

46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

Foster's Ideal Cribs

Accident Proof

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Kirk's

AMERICAN GROWN

SOAP

Is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry AMERICAN CROWN SOAP in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½, 25 and 50 lb. pails.

JAMES S. KIRK & COMPANY

CHICAGO, ILL.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.

Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

WELL DRILLING MACHINES

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

William Bros., Ithaca, N. Y.

SANDWICH

SELF-FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 15 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to barn work. Stands up to its work—no holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. Co.

124 Main St., Sandwich, Ill.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of STANDARD FRUIT

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF

FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.

MISSOULA, MONTANA.

ONS APPROAC

Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

TURED BY

Manufacturing Co.

LLE, KY.

RM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

WELL DRILLING MACHINES

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

William Bros., Ithaca, N. Y.

SANDWICH

SELF-FEED FULL CIRCLE [illegible]

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales [illegible] day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted [illegible] barn work. Stands up to its work [illegible] holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment [illegible] creases capacity, lessens labor, [illegible] bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main St., Sandwich, Ill.

ula Nursery

wn acclimated trees and [illegible] ting in Northern States.

ANDARD FRUIT

Pears, Plums, Cherries [illegible]
Small Fruit Plants,
es and Roses.

NG STRAWBERRY

ALTY OF NTS AND SHRUBS

igns. Also Vegetable Plants Catalogue and Price List ave prompt attention.

NURSERY CO.
MONTANA

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] Court meets second [illegible] in February first Monday in [illegible] Monday in June second [illegible] second Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

[illegible]day	9¾ @ 9⅞
Same date last year	10
Received to date	[illegible]96	194
[illegible]d & [illegible]	[illegible]7	294
Mullins	176	[illegible]52
[illegible]ter & Br[illegible]	63	62
[illegible]	40	..
Jones		41
Firms
Total	578	5[illegible]9

[illegible] figures are obtained from [illegible] cotton buyers Wednesday [illegible] five o'clock.

[illegible] STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS

[illegible] original GROVE'S Tasteless [illegible] Tonic. You know what you [illegible]. It is iron and quinine [illegible] form. No cure, no pay.

J. A. Bullock of Shorter [illegible] Monday with the family of J. T. Eckford.

Minnie Muse returned Wed- [illegible] from Atlanta, with her new [illegible] of goods for her many friends [illegible] customers. Come and see

R. I. Williams of Lily gave [illegible] welcome visit Wednesday.

Gamma Anderson is visiting [illegible] in Birmingham.

P. I. Hopkins went to Birm- [illegible] Tuesday.

W. E. Mauk of Birmingham [illegible] friends here.

[illegible] cold soda water always [illegible] on tap at Upchurch's store.

J. T. Eckford, we are sorry [illegible] is on the sick list.

T. E. Young of Macon, Ga., [illegible] old friends here.

L. Chilton will preach in [illegible] on Saturday, Sept. 16, at [illegible] o'clock, and on Sunday, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, [illegible] at night. The public is

W. A. Davis of Anniston [illegible] town last Thursday.

[illegible] will keep his Gallery open [illegible] time. Plenty of Picture [illegible] cheap.

W. M. Adams made a visit [illegible] Birmingham this week and his [illegible] is visiting their friend, Mrs. [illegible], out in the country.

Mary Mass is visiting her [illegible] Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Quintilla Henry of Jemison [illegible] last Friday here with friends.

[illegible] are glad to hear that Mr. P. [illegible]'s (of Thorsby) baby, who [illegible] very sick, is better to day.

W. T. Mitchell of Hunts- [illegible] visited his father and aunt, [illegible] J. Mitchell and Miss Smith-

[illegible] nice lot of stationery [illegible] received at Upchurch's [illegible] store.

[illegible] fall term of Chancery Court [illegible] convened on Monday and was [illegible] Tuesday, Chancelor [illegible] presiding. There were [illegible] of public interest.

[illegible]lain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

[illegible] medicines that aid nature are al- [illegible] effectual. Chamberlain's [illegible] Remedy acts on this plan. It [illegible] the cough, relieves the lungs, [illegible] expectoration, opens the secre- [illegible] and aids nature in restoring [illegible] system to a healthy condition. [illegible] Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; [illegible], Thorsby.

[illegible] licenses have been issued [illegible] by the Probate Judge to [illegible] following persons.

L. P. Martin and Miss Hat- [illegible], Mr. A. C. Maddox [illegible] Dilla Taylor.

[illegible] of Mrs. W. W. Wadsworth

W. W. Wadsworth died at [illegible] at Wadsworth, Tuesday, [illegible] been an invalid a consider- [illegible], aged 57 years. She was [illegible] lady and her death is [illegible] deplored. The funeral took [illegible] Wadsworth, Wednesday. [illegible] family have our pro- [illegible] sympathy.

Always Successful

[illegible] indigestion becomes chron- [illegible] dangerous. Kodol Dyspep- [illegible] will cure indigestion and [illegible] resulting therefrom, thus [illegible] Catarrh of the Stomach. [illegible], of League, W. Va. "To those suffering from in- [illegible] or sour stomach I would [illegible] no better remedy than [illegible] Dyspepsia Cure. I have pre- [illegible] for a number of my pa- [illegible] good success." Kodol [illegible] Cure digests what you [illegible] makes the stomach sweet. [illegible] Upchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

Smith & Middleton have dissolved partnership, Mr. Middleton removing to Birmingham where he will practice law in partnership with J. Wiley Logan.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Upchurch Drug Co sells and recommends them, at 50c a bottle.

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor I. B Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

			1905
Kircheon	Beat	6	October 2
Pletcher	"	8	" 3
Dixie	"	8	" 4
Shoults	"	7	" 5
Maplesville	"	7	" 6
Benson	"	3	" 7
Macedonia	"	3	" 9
Providence	"	2	" 10
Jemison	"	2	" 11
Mineral Springs	"	1	" 12
Flint Hill	"	11	" 13
Cane Ck. to 12 m.	"	4	" 14
Thorsby	"	9	" 16
Clanton	"	4	" 17
Cooper	"	10	" 18
Verbena	"	5	" 19

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE

BIRMINGHAM - ALABAMA

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

J. R. BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, Andirons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15 c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

Pleasant Grove.

The weather is dry; cotton is opening fast and picking seems to be the order of the day.

There is quite a lot of sickness in this section, we have several fever cases and some of them seem to be serious.

I see the young people are yet playing ball, so they say. As for myself I have never been so fortunate or unfortunate (which ever way you are so a mind to term it) as to see a game of base ball played. But I believe I have made as much pocket change playing ball as any young man in my knowledge. While I may not have made as many broken fingers or mashed noses as some of them have. let me say it is powerful funny game and it surely must be as a lot of our young people who engage in ball playing become careless of many things that should come before sport, and some will go so far as to neglect their aged parents, which should never be done under any circumstances. My dear young people, there is not a man in Chilton county that loves the young people of his country any better than the writer or is more anxious about their welfare. Now, my dear young people, what I am going to say, or have said, is not intended as a rebuke or to set up a fight on this subject, but only to state a few facts in order that you might stop a moment and think and not get on extremes in this matter. A few days ago I was talking with a Baptist preacher and from some cause, I don't remember what, the subject of the ball game came up, and as one word brought on another I told him that I believed that the time was in the near future when if a funeral and a match game of ball were to come on the same day in the same community that the funeral would have to be omitted with some until the game of ball was played. He told me that in some places that time was hear now, he said he had experienced one thing of this kind. He said he was called upon to preach a lady's funeral at one of his churches, and when he arrived at the the church that the young people of the community were present but the corpse was a little late from some hinderence, and when the corpse did come he began to look around for the young people to sing a song, as the young men did most of the singing at that place, and the young men were gone and some of the young ladies were gone. He said he got a few old people to sing a song and he preached the funeral and they buried the dead and on his way home he found those young people engaged in a game of ball. Oh, my dear young people, where are we drifting? Hoping that these few scattering remarks will not offend anyone, but may be the instigation of some young person thinking over this matter as he has never thought before. With due respect and best wishes to all, I am, SHARP.

Cause of Insomnia

Indigestion nearly always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomonia. Many cases have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

PROGRAM

Chilton county Teachers' Institute, to be held at Isabella, Sept. 15 and 16, 1905.

FRIDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercises, Toy Williams.

10:30. Welcome address, G. L Speer. Response, J. W. Moore.

11. Ends to be accomplished by teachers' institutes. R. E. R Hicks.

11:30. Teacher's preparation for class work, H. A. Harris, Mrs. A. G. Dunlap.

12 Noon.

2 p m. Valu of school entertainments, V. J. Gragg, Miss Janie Roebuck

3. School discipline, Institute.

SATURDAY, 9 a.m. Devotional exercises.

9:30 How may patrons help their teachers? W. B. Speer, Miss Etta Roper

10. Requisites to successful teaching, R. E. Sessions, Mrs. W. B. Speer.

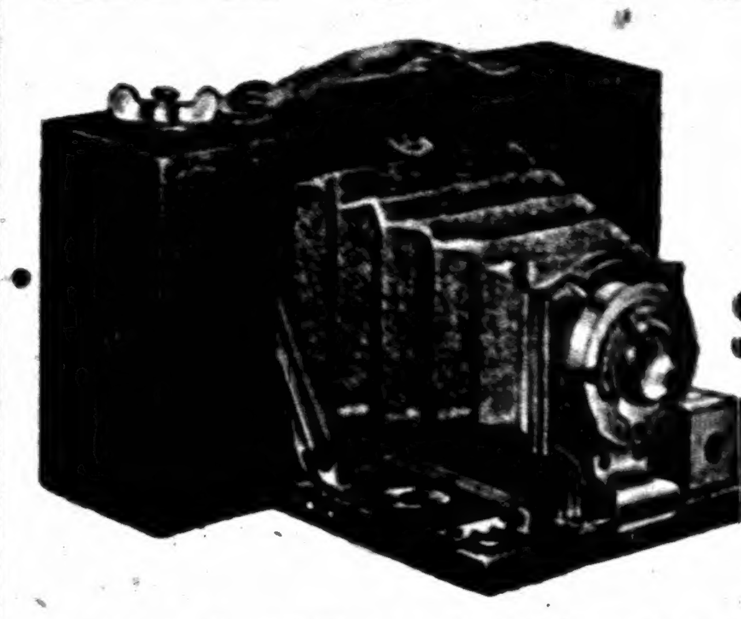
11. Educational address, Hon. Sydney J. Bowie.

There will be conveyances for those coming by rail to Maplesville and Thorsby.

This being the last institute of the year, all teachers are earnestly requested to attend.

Educational Board—J. W. Moore, G. L. Speer, R. A. Rasco, H. L Davis.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS

CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN

CURES [illegible]

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

Send a sample copy of The Banner to your friends

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.

Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.

New Farm Plants

Work of the United States Department of Agriculture.

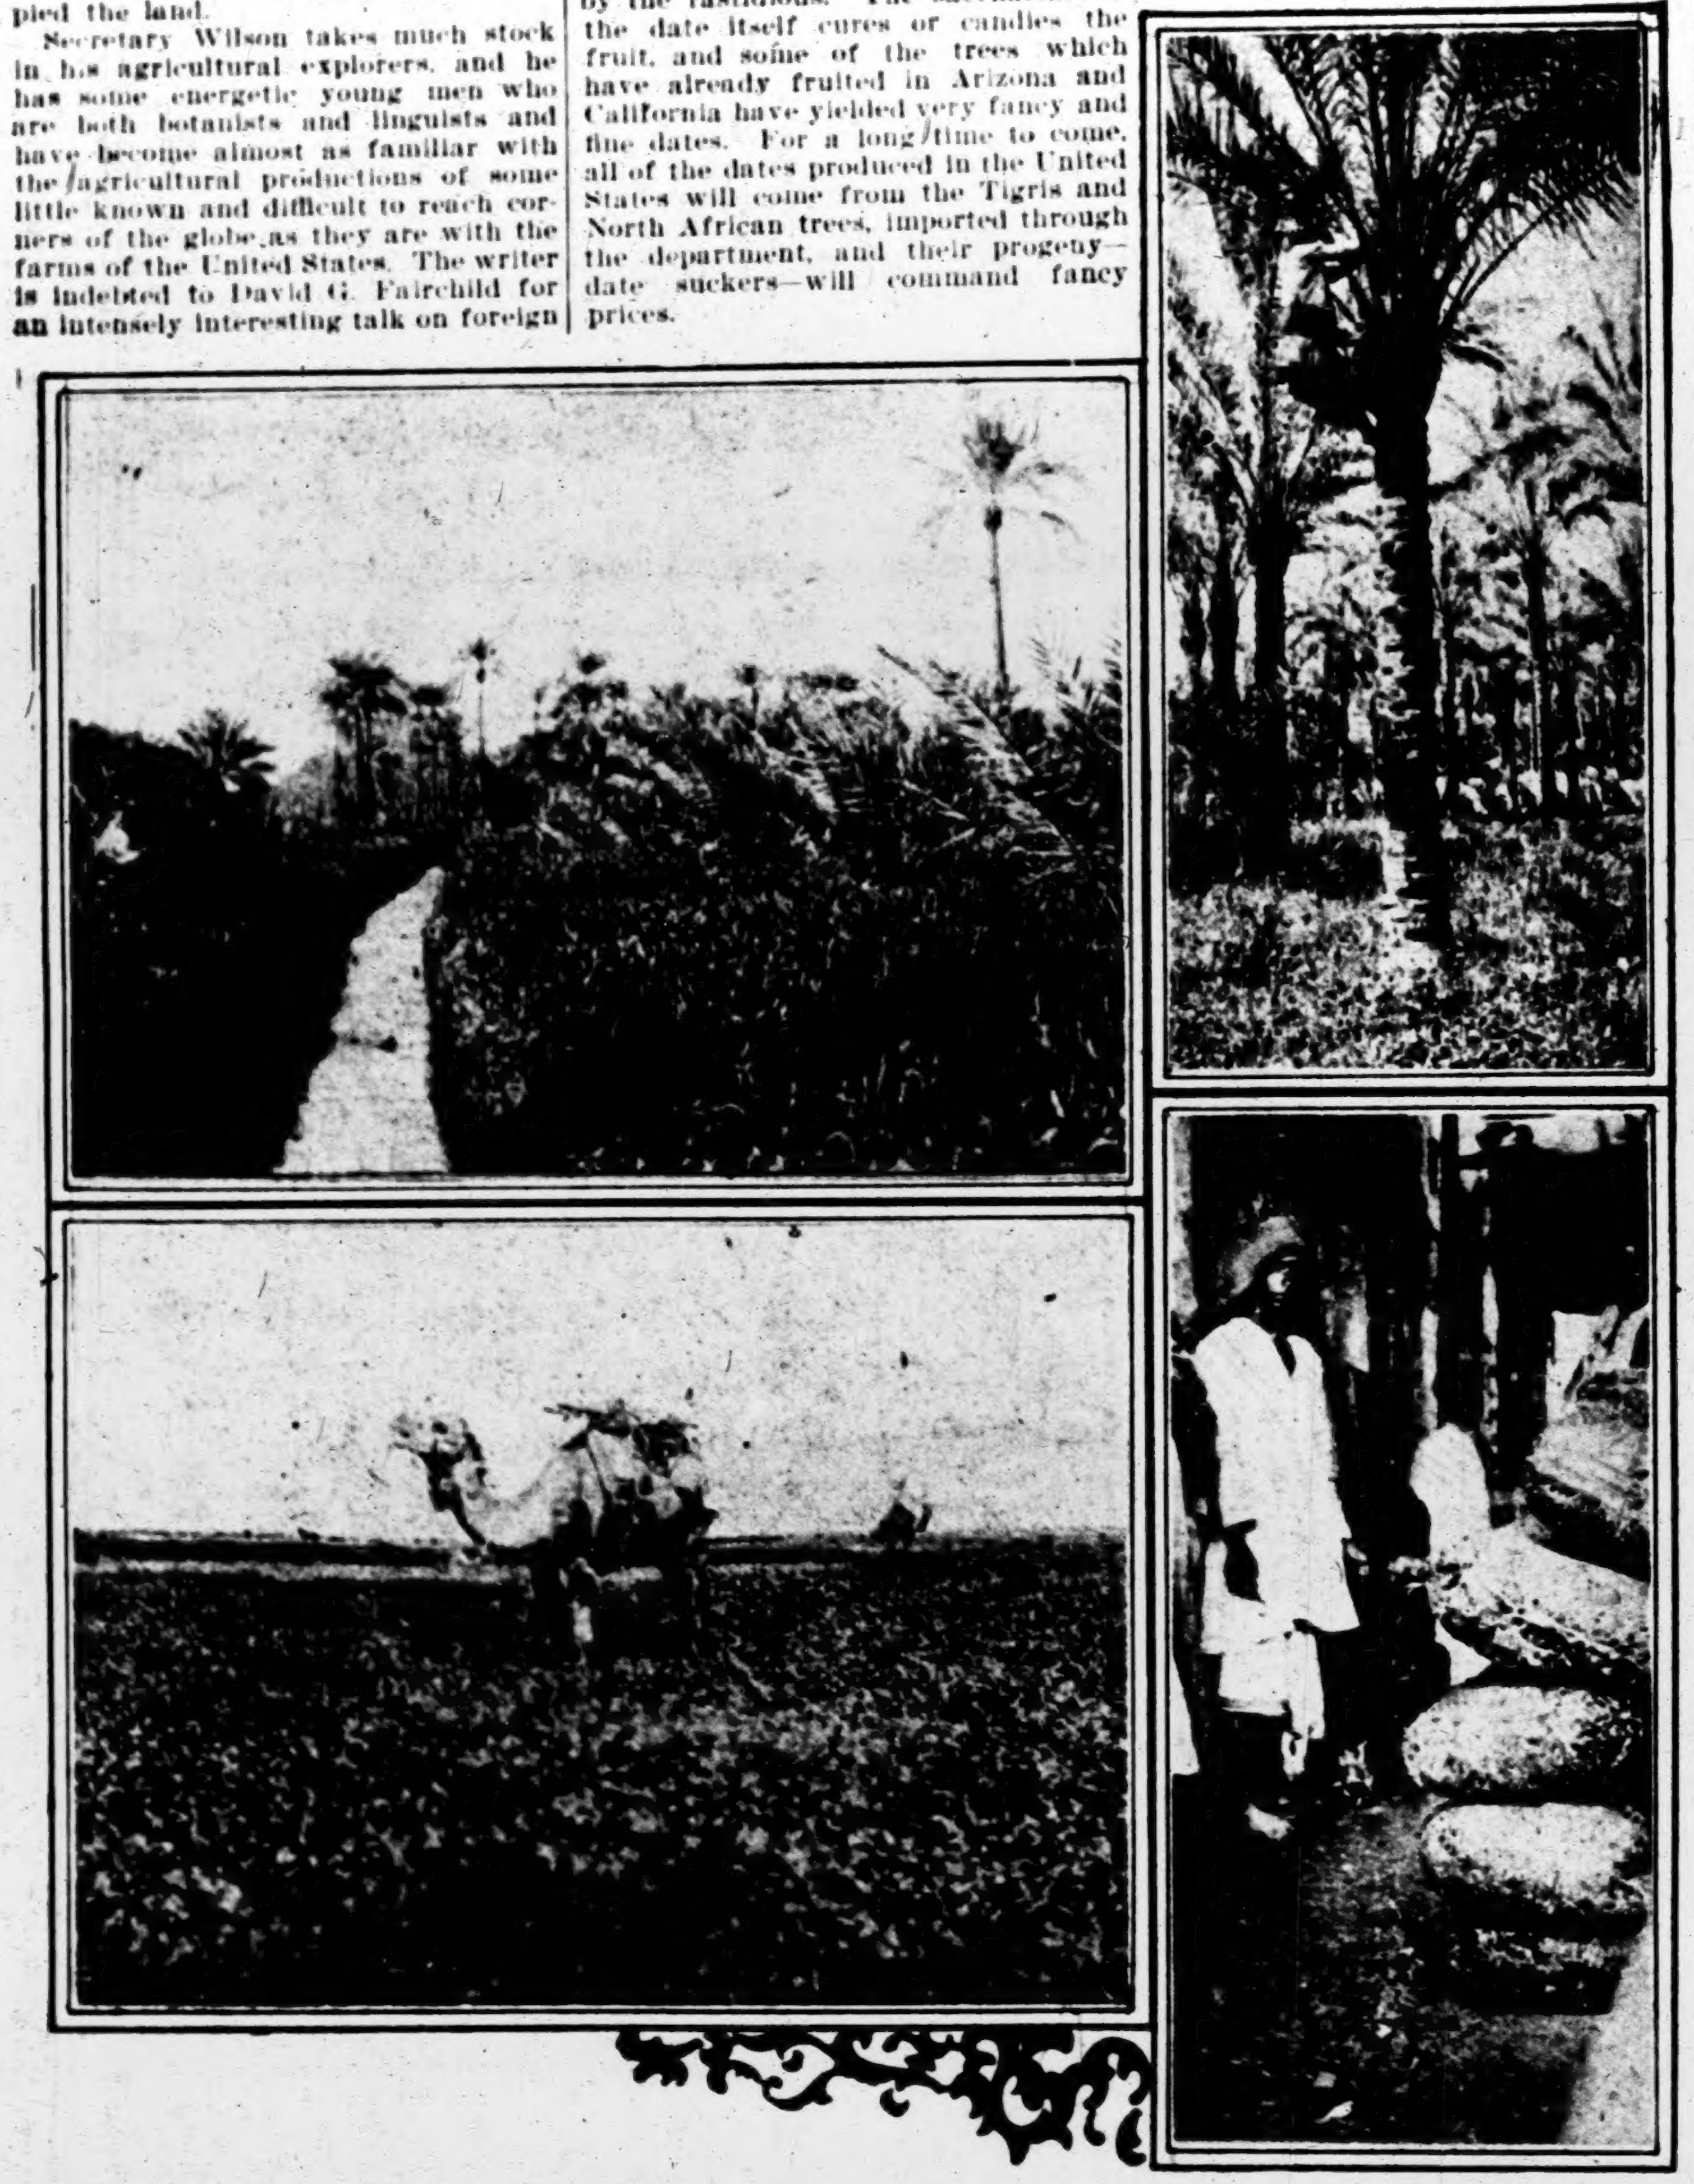
GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

A feature of the work of the Department of Agriculture which holds out enormous promise is the work of foreign agricultural exploration and the introduction of new and rare seeds and plants.

American agriculture is a comparatively new thing. Our climatic and soil conditions are largely different from those of old countries whence our fathers came, and the bulk of our agricultural products have been introduced from abroad. Because our daddies did it before us, is a sufficient excuse for the majority of men to go ahead planting and cultivating in the same old way, but as a matter of fact the original producers of any of our common crops, a hundred or two hundred years ago, may have started wrong or have started in some particular locality with some particular crop not very well adapted to that section. For two hundred years our ancestors may have been making a living by growing that crop, and yet it may be that in some section of France, or perhaps Turkestan, where the soil and climate exactly corresponds, a particular plant is being grown to-day which is far superior as a money producer.

This is not a mere theory, for every little while some agricultural explorer of the Department sends in a new species, or perhaps merely a new variety of some common grain, for instance, which upon trial proves to be a much heavier and better yielder than the kind that our farmers have been growing since the Indians occupied the land.

Secretary Wilson takes much stock in his agricultural explorers, and he has some energetic young men who are both botanists and linguists and have become almost as familiar with the agricultural productions of some little known and difficult to reach corners of the globe as they are with the farms of the United States. The writer is indebted to David G. Fairchild for an intensely interesting talk on foreign plants. Mr. Fairchild speaks five or six different languages and knows pretty nearly every plant that grows. He is one of Secretary Wilson's "bright young men," and he has organized and is in charge of the section of Plant and Seed Production, at present a modest branch of the Department, but one which is destined, in my judgment, to become one of its most important bureaus. This division already has some ten thousand plants new to America, which are being grown and tested all over the country.



VIEWS TAKEN BY AGRICULTURAL EXPLORER FAIRCHILD, SHOWING THE IRRIGATION OF A DATE GROVE; A NATIVE ARAB POLLENATING A DATE TREE; DATE SUCKERS BAGGED READY FOR SHIPMENT TO WASHINGTON, AND CAMELS BROWSING IN A FIELD OF BEERSEEM OR EGYPTIAN CLOVER.

New Plants of Promise.

"There is not a state nor a territory in the country," said Mr. Fairchild, "in which the crops, staple and subsidiary, are not capable in many cases of being supplanted by more successful ones. I have found new plants and new varieties of old ones almost everywhere I turned, in every one of the grand divisions of the earth, which somewhere in our own country will constitute an improvement upon the crops our farmers are already growing. Our farmers are growing perhaps barley or wheat or some other staple crop and are making money from it, and are satisfied, yet it may be that there is a variety or a strain more exactly adapted to their conditions of soil and climate which will yield them several bushels more per acre with the same labor. I could mention varieties of several staple crops which, upon the tests made in this country during the past year or two, have shown a very large increase over the ordinary yield of those crops. I will not name the kind of grain I have in mind, because we have only a very small supply of the new seed for test, and not enough this year for distribution, but our agents have tried it in various states, and in every instance I think, where the experiment was intelligently made, the yield of the new variety was very much larger."

The Dates of Persia.

Mr. Fairchild has made plant explorations through many of the most interesting countries of the globe—Peru, where the Incas once practiced agriculture and irrigation on a splendid scale; Chili, a temperate country, where many plants were found suitable for our conditions; China, India, Chaldea, and numerous others. At the last place, near Bagdad, are found the immense date groves of the land of Babylon, where are produced probably three fourths of all the dates of commerce. These vast date forests extend for a distance of seventy miles up and down the Tigris. Many fine date suckers were obtained by Mr. Fairchild and shipped to the United States, and are now growing in Arizona, and some day the great Colorado river of our Southwest, where the conditions are exactly favorable for date growing, may not only produce all the dates which America uses, but export this wholesome fruit. Dates picked, packed and shipped by American methods will bring a higher price than the imported products, which, if the history of their packing were known, might not be eaten with such avidity by the fastidious. The saccharine of the date itself cures or candies the fruit, and some of the trees which have already fruited in Arizona and California have yielded very fancy and fine dates. For a long time to come, all of the dates produced in the United States will come from the Tigris and North African trees, imported through the department, and their progeny—date suckers—will command fancy prices.

Seedless Grapes, Malting Barley and Luxuriant Hops.

On a tour of investigation through Europe, Mr. Fairchild secured many important fruits and vegetables. The Sultanina seedless grape was sent in from Italy. The Huasco seedless raisin grape was another find. The best malting barley in the world was found growing at an old town in Moravia. Introduced under the name of Hanna barley, it has already proved of value to those regions where it has been grown, especially on the Pacific coast. It is not only earlier, but heavier yielding than other barleys; and if it is found that it can be generally substituted for the barleys now grown, its increased yield of from one to two and a half bushels per acre will add enormously to the aggregate output. A study of the hop regions of Europe disclosed the fact that the American hop is far inferior in quality to the best European varieties. The importation of young plants for the purpose of producing better American hops was undertaken by the Department as a result of this discovery.

Bamboo Will Thrive in U. S.

The Jordan almond, the finest variety in the world, was found growing in Spain, and at once recognized as far superior to the almonds produced in the United States, so a supply was immediately secured and shipped. A discovery which Mr. Fairchild thinks of great importance are the hardy bamboos of Japan. These are now being tested in California and the Southern States. Mr. Fairchild thinks they will thrive throughout the southern third of the United States. Herein lies the importance of this work. The finding of Japanese bamboo was no discovery; the importance lies in finding that they will thrive in our climate. Not only are they the most ornamental plant in the world, but they are probably the most useful wood in Japan, not only for the making of fancy furniture and knick-knacks, but for almost every use. "Tell me what you can use wood for," said Mr. Fairchild, "and I will tell you what use the Japanese can make of bamboo."

Better Than the Congressional Free Seed Farce.

Dozens of other extremely interesting and promising plants were found, quantities purchased and sent home for tests. The number of these discoveries and introductions is so great, and such an exhaustive test is in each case made by the Department before anything is recommended for introduction, that it is practically useless for farmers or fruit growers to write the Department for samples of the strange and interesting things which its agricultural explorers have secured, and which are described from time to time in the magazines. Until any product has been tested and is determined to be practicable for growth in the United States, it is not possible to secure any seeds or specimens. In fact, the Department has none. Those that are sent in are immediately distributed among the Government experiment stations and to a few practical growers who are especially able to properly attend to the experiments under the direction of the Department. However, the possibilities of these tests are very great, and Congress would be well warranted in diverting some of the immense annual appropriation for "free seeds" into this channel of introducing to American farmers something which may prove of real and national benefit.

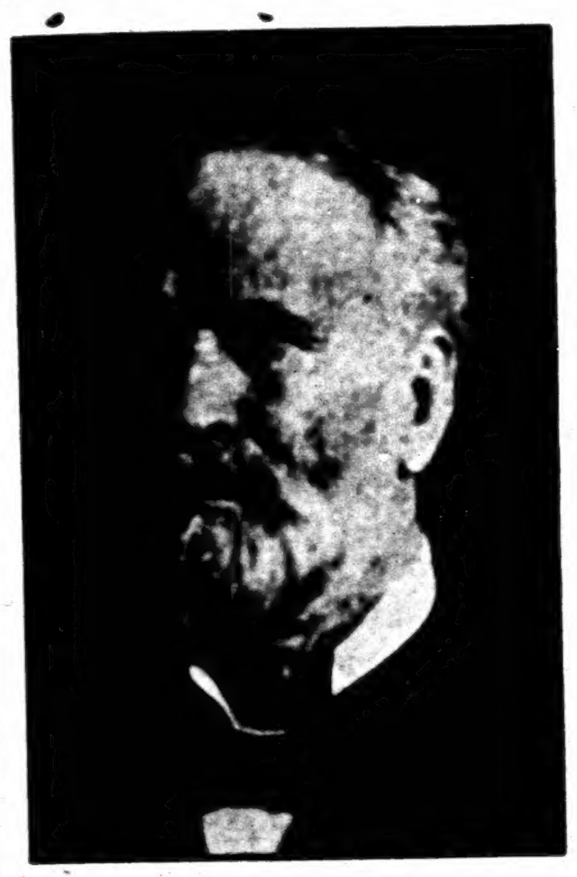
A Peculiar Horse.

The excellence of the English Colonial educational systems is evidenced by the following interesting description of the horse by a Bombay student:

"The horse is a very noble quadruped, but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by the bridle and sadly the driver places his foots on the stirrup, and divides his lower limbs across the saddle, and drives his animal to the meadow. He has a long mouth, and his head is attached to the trunk by a long protuberance called the neck. He has four legs; two are in the front side and two are afterwards. These are the weapons on which he runs, and also defends himself by extending those in the rear in a parallel direction toward his foe, but this he does only when in a vexatious mood. His fooding is generally grasses and grains. He is also useful to take on his back a man or woman as well as some cargo. He has power to run as fast as he could. He has got no sleep at night time, and always standing awaken. Also there are horses of short sizes. They do the same as the others are generally doing. There is no animal like the horse; no sooner they see their guardian or master they always crying for fooding, but it is always at the morning time. They have got tail, but not so long as the cow and other such like similar animals."

No Resignation for Secretary Wilson.

There are many good and sufficient reasons why Secretary Wilson whom the sensationalists have indirectly if not directly held accountable for the cotton scandal in his Department, will not resign. Whether or not Mr. Wilson is even indirectly responsible for the criminal doings of trusted employes, he is the man directly responsible for a most wonderful development and evolution in the Department of Agriculture. And a man who can revolutionize agriculture in an agricultural nation in a space of eight years and withal win the confidence of the farmers generally can not be spared.



JAMES WILSON, SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

Perhaps the most striking characteristic of the late President McKinley was his sound judgment of men and his ability to surround himself with the ablest counsellors obtainable. We owe to this keenness in recognizing unusual ability the introduction into the Cabinet of Secretary Hay of the State Department, Secretary Root of the War Department, Secretary Taft as Governor of the Philippines and later Secretary of War, and Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture. All of these won marked success. Mr Hay became our foremost diplomat, if not the world's; Mr. Root carried the burden of a war upon his shoulders and at the same time reorganized his great Department and the army; and Judge Taft's administration in the Philippines was so able and successful that it brought him a place in President Roosevelt's Cabinet. With Mr. Root he is now talked of for President, and if not that, a place on the Supreme Bench.

But of services rendered the country looking to its internal development, that of Mr. Wilson in the great and surpassing domain of agriculture has never been equalled. He came to the Cabinet both a practical farmer and a trained scientist. From the tail end of the Cabinet Departments he has raised the Ministry of Agriculture to a conspicuous position, outshining several of the other Departments, and American agriculture has come to have a new and greater world meaning because of his active constructiveness and never flagging energy.

Secretary Wilson is rendering the American farmer a notable service and he has won the confidence of the people to a great degree as is evidenced by the many tributes paid him since the recent trouble in his Department. Rather than being censurable for the "graft" discovered, it is to Secretary Wilson's high credit that so little of this sort of thing has occurred. It is impossible to build up such an immense organization as is the present Department of Agriculture without some evil creeping in and without some designing individuals getting onto the pay rolls for the purpose of private gain other than their salaries.

Secretary Wilson will not resign to meet the demands of a few sensation mongers, simply because the country which is benefitting so largely through his splendid work will not hear of it any more than they would agree to Secretary Taft's resignation following the disgrace of every army officer, or to President Roosevelt's retirement every time that one of his appointments turns out badly.

SOME AFTER THOUGHTS.

District Attorney Jerome, of New York, says he is a man of peace. He is putting up a pretty good fight, though, on the New York grafters.

Scientists are debating how long a man can live under certain conditions after his neck has been broken. Among the politicians there are a good many with necks intact who have been dead ones for sometime.

In deciding a divorce suit, a Cincinnati judge has stated that "a man is entitled to some supper, and a hot supper at that, when he gets home." The evidence shows that this man got a great many hot roasts upon his return home, but not of the kind that he could eat.

"Why would you not get married in August?" asks Nixola Greeley Smith, in writing recently of summer weddings. The reason a good many of us would not is due to a disinclination to violate the law against bigamy.

Prices in Nebraska and Missouri are quite uniform. A Nebraska man claims to have killed six anti-trust bills in the state legislature for $5,000. That's what they charge in Missouri, $1,000 a piece—dozen rates, $10,000.

A Hawaiian woman bore seven children at once. Photograph has been forwarded to the White House.

There are a great many tall bank cashiers who are so short at the banks that they have had to go abroad on health trips.

A London scientist has cabled the yellow fever authorities that he has something good for mosquitoes. What is wanted is something extremely bad—which will make them very sick at the stomach.

At what time shall a man retire from active life? asks the "Boston Globe." What particular kind? Automobile dodging or defending himself from insurance agents?

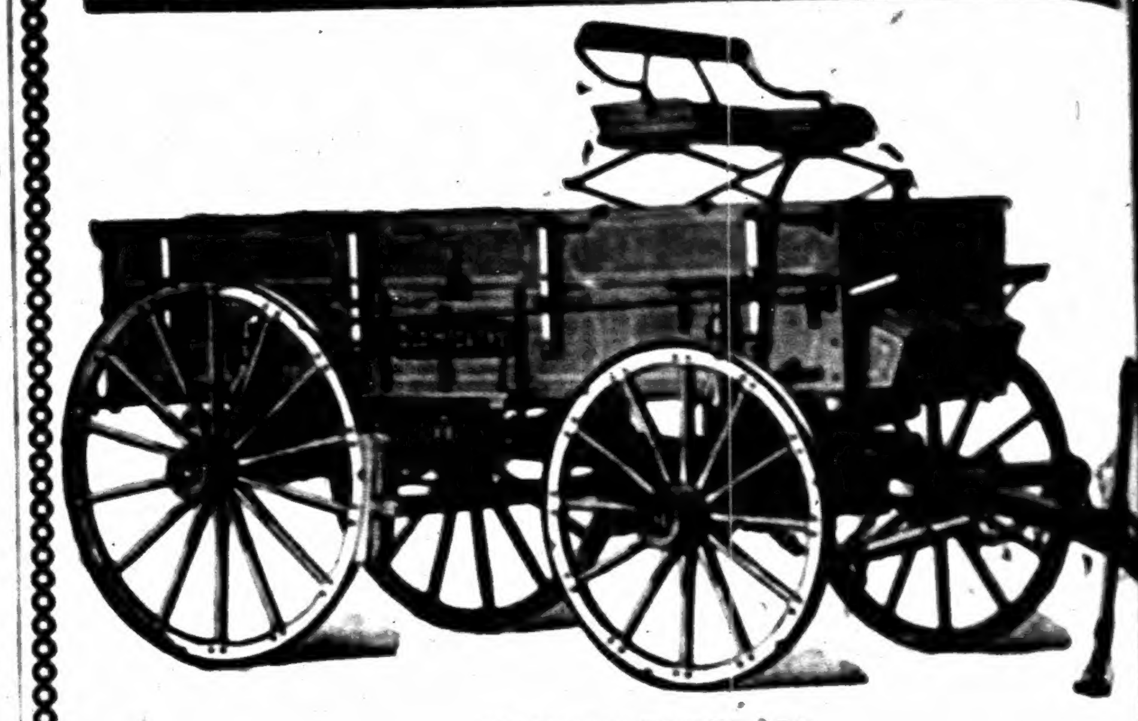
"Non possimus" simply means "nothing doing."

Chairman Shonts says they "are working on the Canal with loyalty and zeal." The bids have been opened, however, for dredges and steam shovels.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROAC

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory



MANUFACTURED BY

Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our "Jack Catalogue." Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want.

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.

46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

Foster's Ideal Cribs

Accident Proof

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Kirk's

AMERICAN GROWN

SOAP

Is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry AMERICAN CROWN SOAP in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½, 25 and 50 lb. pails.

JAMES S. KIRK & COMPANY

CHICAGO, ILL.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Do allowed our clients during the six years.

Over one Thousan claims allowed through us d ing the last six months. Dis ability, Age and In crease pensions obta in the shortest possible ti Widows' claims a specia Usually granted within 9 days if placed with us imm ately on soldier's death. F fixed by law and payable o allowed pension. A succe experience of 25 years and be of daily calls at Pension Bu are at your service. Highest erences furnished. Local Ma trates pecuniaril benefited by sending claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.

Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.

WELL DRILLIN MACHINES

Over 70 sizes and styles for d either deep or shallow wells in any of soil or rock. Mounted on whe sills. With engines or horse po Strong, simple and durable. Any chanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

William Bros., Ithaca, N.

SANDWIC

SELF-FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted barn work. Stands up to its work holes for wheels. Self-feed Attach creases capacity, lessens labor, mak bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main St., Sandwich, Ill.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of STANDARD FRUIT

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF

FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.

MISSOULA, MONTANA.

GONS APPROAC

Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

ACTURED BY Manufacturing Co.
VILLE, KY.
FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dolla allowed our clients during the la six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us du ing the last six months. Dis ability, Age and In crease pensions obtain in the shortest possible tim Widows' claims a specialty Usually granted within 9 days if placed with us immedi ately on soldier's death. Fe fixed by law and payable out allowed pension. A successf experience of 25 years and bene of daily calls at Pension Burea are at your service. Highest ref erences furnished. Local Magi trates pecuniarily benefited by sending claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

WELL DRILLIN MACHINES

Over 70 sizes and styles for dr either deep or shallow wells in any ki of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels sills. With engines or horse pow Strong, simple and durable. Any chanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

William Bros., Ithaca, N.

SANDWIC

SELF-FEED FULL CIRCLE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted barn work. Stands up to its work holes for wheels. Self-feed Attach creases capacity, lessens labor, bales and does not increase dr

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main St., Sandwich,

oula Nursery

own acclimated trees and nting in Northern States.

TANDARD FRUIT

s, Pears, Plums, Cherries l, Small Fruit Plants, nes and Roses.

ING STRAWBERRY

CIALTY OF
NTS AND SHRUBS

esigns. Also Vegetable Pla Catalogue and Price List have prompt attention.

NURSERY CO
, MONTANA

TOWN ITEMS

Court meets second ...February first Monday in ...Monday in ...one second ...Monday in August ...Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

...day	9⅝ @ 9¾c
...date last year 10
	1905	1904
...ed to date	...7	294
...& Co	176	.52
...lins	63	62
...& Bro	40	..
...		41
Total	576	5-9

These figures are obtained from ...cotton buyers Wednesday ...five o'clock.

STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS ...original GROVE'S Tasteless ...Tonic. You know what you ...ing. It is iron and quinine ...less form No cure, no ...pay.

J. A. Bullock of Shorter ...Monday with the family of ...T. Eckford.

Minnie Muse returned Wed... from Atlanta, with her new ...goods for her many friends ...customers. Come and see

R. J. Williams of Lily gave ...welcome visit Wednesday.

Gamma Anderson is visiting in Birmingham.

P. I. Hopkins went to Birm... Tuesday.

W. E. Mauk of Birmingham ...ing friends here.

...cold soda water always ...on tap at Upchurch's ...store.

J. T. Eckford, we are sorry ...is on the sick list.

T. E. Young of Macon, Ga., ...ing old friends here.

...Chilton will preach in ...on Saturday, Sept. 16, at ...o'clock, and on Sunday, ...3 o'clock in the afternoon, ...at night. The public is

W. A. Davis of Anniston ...town last Thursday.

...will keep his Gallery open ...time. Plenty of Picture ...cheap.

W. M. Adams made a visit ...ingham this week and his ...is visiting their friend, Mrs. ...out in the country.

Mary Mass is visiting her ...Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Quintilla Henry of Jemison ...last Friday here with friends.

...are glad to hear that Mr. P. ...'s (of Thorsby) baby, who ...very sick, is better to day.

W. T. Mitchell of Hunts... visited his father and aunt, ...J. Mitchell and Miss Smith.

...nice lot of stationery ...received at Upchurch's ...store.

...fall term of Chancery Court ...nced on Monday and was ...ed Tuesday, Chancelor ...ide presiding. There were ...of public interest.

...lain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

...ines that aid nature are al... ...ost effectual. Chamberlain's ...Remedy acts on this plan. It ...the cough, relieves the lungs, ...pectoration, opens the secre... ...and aids nature in restoring ...tem to a healthy condition. ...Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, ...n, Thorsby.

...ge licenses have been issued ...k by the Probate Judge to ...lowing persons.

L. P. Martin and Miss Hat... ...neycutt, Mr. A. C. Maddox ...iss Dilla Taylor.

...of Mrs. W. W. Wadsworth

...W. W. Wadsworth died at ...me at Wadsworth, Tuesday, ...g been an invalid a consider... ...me, aged 57 years. She was ...ellent lady and her death is ...y deplored. The funeral took ...at Wadsworth, Wednesday. ...reaved family have our pro... ...sympathy.

Always Successful

...n indigestion becomes chron... ...dangerous. Kodol Dyspep... ...e will cure indigestion and ...ables resulting therefrom, thus ...ng Catarrh of the Stomach. ...sbrough, of League, W. Va. "To those suffering from in... ...n or sour stomach I would ...e is no better remedy than ...Dyspepsia Cure. I have pre... ...it for a number of my pa... ...th good success." Kodol ...a Cure digests what you ...d makes the stomach sweet. ...Upchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.
CLANTON

Smith & Middleton have dissolved partnership. Mr. Middleton re moving to Birmingham where he will practice law in partnership with J. Wiley Logan.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Upchurch Drug Co sells and recommends them, at 50c a bottle.

TAX NOTICE.
Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor I. B. Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

		1905
Kircheon	Beat 6	October 2
Pletcher	" 8	" 3
Dixie	" 8	" 4
Shoults	" 7	" 5
Maplesville	" 7	" 6
Benson	" 3	" 7
Macedonia	" 3	" 9
Providence	" 2	" 10
Jemison	" 2	" 11
Mineral Springs	" 1	" 12
Flint Hill	" 11	" 13
Cane Ck. to 12 m.	" 4	" 14
Thorsby	" 9	" 16
Clanton	" 4	" 17
Cooper	" 10	" 18
Verbena	" 5	" 19

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE

BIRMINGHAM - ALABAMA

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

J. R. BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, Andirons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15 c to $8.co just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton

Pleasant Grove.

The weather is dry; cotton is opening fast and picking seems to be the order of the day.

There is quite a lot of sickness in this section, we have several fever cases and some of them seem to be serious.

I see the young people are yet playing ball, so they say. As for myself I have never been so fortunate or unfortunate (which ever way you are so a mind to term it) as to see a game of base ball played! But I believe I have made as much pocket change playing ball as any young man in my knowledge. While I may not have made as many broken fingers or mashed soses as some of them have. But neme say it is powerful funny game and it surely must be as a lot of our young people who engage in ball playing become careless of many things that should come before sport, and some will go so far as to neglect their aged parents, which should never be done under any circumstances My dear young people, there is not a man in Chilton county that loves the young people of his country any better than the writer or is more anxious about their welfare. Now, my dear young people, what I am going to say, or have said, is not intended as a rebuke or to set up a fight on this subject, but only to state a few facts in order that you might stop a moment and think and not get on extremes in this matter. A few days ago I was talking with a Baptist preacher and from some cause, I don't remember what, the subject of the ball game came up, and as one word brought on another I told him that I believed that the time was in the near future when if a funeral and a match game of ball were to come on the same day in the same community that the funeral would have to be omitted with some until the game of ball was played. He told me that in some places that time was hear now, he said he had experienced one thing of this kind. He said he was called upon to preach a lady's funeral at one of his churches, and when he arrived at the the church that the young people of the community were present but the corpse was a little late from some hinderence, and when the corpse did come he began to look around for the young people to sing a song, as the young men did most of the singing at that place, and the young men were gone and some of the young ladies were gone. He said he got a few old people to sing a song and he preached the funeral and they buried the dead and on his way home he found those young people engaged in a game of ball. Oh, my dear young people, where are we drifting? Hoping that these few scattering remarks will not offend anyone, but may be the instigation of some young person thinking over this matter as he has never thought before. With due respect and best wishes to all, I am, SHARP.

Cause of Insomnia

Indigestion nearly always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomonia. Many cases have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

PROGRAM

Chilton county Teachers' Institute, to be held at Isabella, Sept. 15 and 16, 1905.

FRIDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercises, Toy Williams.

10:30. Welcome address, G. L Speer. Response, J. W. moore.

11. Ends to be accomplished by teachers' institutes. R. E. R Hicks.

11:30. Teacher's preparation for class work, H. A. Harris, Mrs. A. G. Dunlap.

12 Noon.

2 p m. Valu of school entertainments, V. J. Gragg, miss Janie Boebuck

3. School discipline, Institute.

SATURDAY, 9 a.m. Devotional exercises.

9:30 How may patrons help their teachers? W. B. Speer, miss Etta Roper

10. Requisites to successful teaching, R. E. Sessions, Mrs. W. B. Speer.

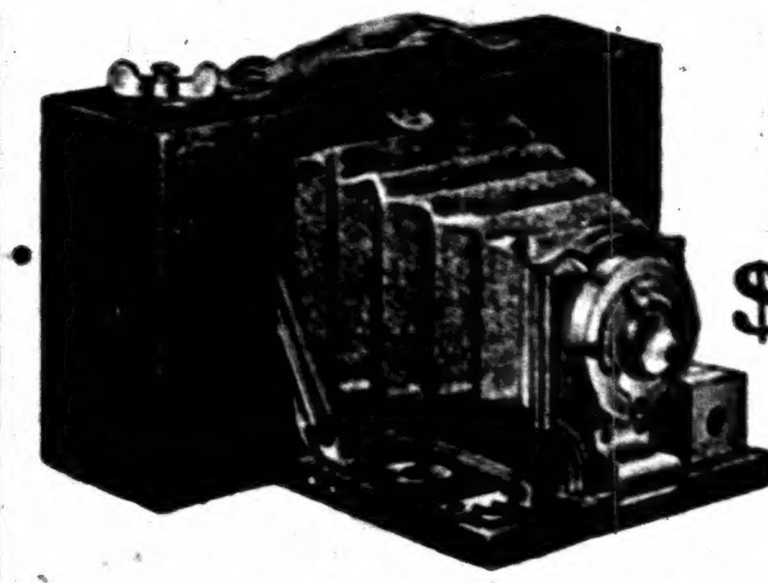
11. Educational address, Hon. Sydney J. Bowie.

There will be conveyances for those coming by rail to Maplesville and Thorsby.

This being the last institute of the year, all teachers are earnestly requested to attend.

Educational Board—J. W. moore, G. L. Speer, R. A. Rasco, H. L Davis.

No. 2 Folding
Brownie



Price,
$5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS
CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN
CURES

BALLARD'S
SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY
UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

Send a sample copy of The Banner to your friends

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.

OPPORTUNITY.

One searched the town and country through,
In winter's snows and summer's heat,
Nor was there any path but knew
The pacing of his weary feet.
He watched throughout the lingering
night,
With lamp well trimmed, and door ajar,
And listened, lest some footfall light
Should hint the freakish god afar.

The god came not. But there was one
Who reck not of the flitting days,
Nor any thoughts of deeds undone
Disturbed the tenor of his ways.
He toiled not, sought no goodly prize;
E'en as he slept the god came there
And poured before his dream-dimmed eyes,
His store of treasure rich and fair.
—F. O'Neill Gallagher, in London Daily.

MR. CLIFFORD'S CONVENTIONAL RELAPSE.

CLIFFORD had a hobby. It took the form of a desire to be unconventional. He liked to think that he did things as his feelings or as his duty prompted, and not because custom said he ought to do them.

Consequently, when he and Miss Faunce were left alone together by their hostess, who had excused herself on the plea that there was something about the dinner which she wished to oversee, he took up a book and glanced at the title page. After a moment's silent scrutiny he said:

"Miss Faune, we haven't anything to talk about, have we?"

"I don't quite understand what you mean," she answered.

"Oh, It's plain enough why Mrs. Ridgeway went out and left us alone together. I suppose you know why she invited us here. It was simply because she wanted us to meet each other. Isn't that your understanding of it?"

The girl might have chosen to be offended, but she didn't. The color in her cheeks may have deepened a little. Otherwise she showed no sign of perturbation, as she replied:

"I haven't the slightest doubt that you have guessed the truth."

"Well, now she leaves us alone simply to give us a chance to say a lot of conventional things to each other. I might ask if you had seen a certain play, and you might reply: 'Yes, wasn't it just lovely!' Or you might make some remark about the beautiful outlook from that window, and I could answer: 'Yes, it's one of the finest views I ever saw.' We'd each know that the other was trying to make talk simply for the sake of being polite. You might much rather sit there and strum on the piano than to have to think of meaningless things to say to me. Why not be honest about these things? What's the sense in boring ourselves simply to bore other people?"

"There's no sense in it at all," she replied. "So let's not talk. I don't care to strum on the piano, but I began reading that book last night, and if you don't mind letting me have it I'll finish another chapter or two while Mrs. Ridgeway is out. I have an idea that she will not be likely to hurry back."

"I must congratulate you on your good sense, and at the same time thank you for not misunderstanding me. The fact is, I have never met a young lady before that I would dare to talk to as I have been talking to you. I felt somehow, the moment I saw you, that I might speak frankly to you without being considered a boor."

"Now, if I desired to conform to the foolish conventionalities I might answer that it is very good of you to say so. Let me see, where was I? Page 67, I think.'

She yawned, without attempting to conceal it, and, setting back in her big, comfortable chair, began to read.

Clifford stared at her for a moment, wondering whether it was the way the light happened to strike her hair that made it look so rich and soft or whether it was glorious in fact. He crossed the room and looked at her again. Her hair was as beautiful as ever, and he got a new view of her profile that rather startled him. He had noticed when they were introduced that she was a good-looking girl, but not until he got that view of her profile had he realized that she was superb.

She crossed her knees and gave her skirts a feminine jerk so that she could be sure her ankles were not on exhibition, and continued to read.

"You seem to find your story very interesting,' he said, after he had taken several turns around the room and tried to find something aside from the girl that was worth looking at.

She gave a nod of assent.

"Of course," he went on, discovering now that she was beautiful no matter what his angle of vision happened to be, "I didn't mean that we were not to take the trouble to speak to each other when we had anything to talk about."

"I know," she answered without looking up.

He went over to the piano and ran his fingers up and down the keyboard, after which he stood for a moment at one of the windows from which there was a fine view of the wide stretch of lawn that sloped down toward the highway.

"Have you noticed this lilac bush, Miss Faunce?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Did you ever see anything more beautiful?"

"I don't remember just now."

"What is there that is finer than lilacs, anyhow! Pshaw! I offended you, after all, by what I said a while ago."

"No. If you had done so I would acknowledge it. You see, freedom from conventionalities makes it unnecessary for me to do any polite lying."

"Then why do you refuse to talk to me?"

"I haven't anything to talk about."

"Well, I have. I didn't know until a litle while ago that I had, but I have. And Mrs. Ridgeway will be coming back pretty soon. Won't you put down your book?"

"It is rather exciting."

"Hang it, isn't there anything besides books that can be exciting?"

"Oh, yes. But when they are not to be found and an interesting book is within reach, why shouldn't one take the book?"

"If you look at it that way," he answered, slamming down a sheet of music that he had been rolling and unrolling, "I suppose there's no reason why I should stay to disturb you."

"Oh, don't go away on my account. If you will just keep from talking when you have nothing to say, I shan't complain.'

"Would you have any objection to beginning all over again?"

"Why should I do that? I'm nearly half way through now.'

"I don't mean the book. I mean our acquaintance."

"If you had not said you thought saying things when there was nothing to say was uncalled for I should be forced to believe that you had unusual skill in the art of making talk."

"But I mean what I'm saying."

"I know. You told me you were not going to say anything merely to keep from disturbing the silence."

He drew a chair to where she sat and, leaning over the back of it, asked:

"May I speak to you very frankly?"

"Is it anything that will interest me?"

"I hope so. For one thing, I have discovered that I never felt toward any other girl as I feel toward you."

She went on reading.

"When I look at you I forget that an hour ago I was sorry I had allowed Mrs. Ridgeway to inveigle me here. At this moment I feel that I owe her an everlasting debt of gratitude."

She put down her book and looked at him.

"Will you please turn your head to the right?" she asked. "Now to the left. Now please stand up straight and throw your shoulders back."

After he had obeyed her instructions she said:

"Very well, I noticed that you took the trouble to look me over carefully, as you might a piece of goods you thought of buying, before you decided that my appearance was satisfactory. So it was no more than right that I should do the same with you, was it?"

"What do you think?" cried Mrs. Ridgeway, re-entering. "I had such a lovely roast of veal. And the cook has ruined it."

"Never mind," said Miss Faunce. "I don't care for calf."—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

Hunting Mountain Sheep.

I looked long through my field glasses and located four sheep munching at the twigs on the edge of a ragged patch of stunted trees 2000 feet above me, with one of their number standing apart on a snow field as a sentinel. It was two miles to camp; blankets and food, except our hardtack, were back there. The climb to those sheep was a mile to the left, risking broken limbs and drowning at a point where the torrent could perhaps be crossed by using the trunk of a fallen spruce and the tops of rocks, around which the water roared. Then a climb of 1000 feet more (the Twin Falls are 700 feet high) to the valley or tableland forming the upper basin; then another mile of climbing. Finally the skirting of the base of the pinnacle and getting above the sheep (always assuming that they remained there), while constantly risking discovery by this marvel of keen sight. Possibly a long, uncertain shot at last. If by happy chance the sheep fell, there would be a painful backward descent during another day of exhausting effort and a return with the horns to our camp.—L. F. Brown, in Recreation.

Suttee.

A tragic scene of a sati flinging herself into the flames of the funeral pyre of her departed husband and burning herself to death was witnessed at Sajehanpur, a small village eight miles from the headquarters station of Sitapur district. A man having returned from a pilgrimage to Badrinath fell ill and died on the 10th of May. When his dead body was removed to the burning place and fire was duly set to his funeral pyre his widow wore a black cloth sari and went to bathe in a well with her relatives. On her way to the well her sight was attracted by the blaze of the pyre from a distance of fifty or sixty yards, and she unexpectedly left her companions and flung herself upon the fire. No one could know this until her body was actually burnt to ashes. The place of the occurrence is now being regarded as a sacred one; people from remote villages are thronging there every day and a regular mela is going to be established.—Lahore Tribune.

Sexton Mistook the Day.

The inhabitants of Middlesex were alarmed this morning by the ringing of the church bell. Leaving their work they seized pails and started, thinking that an alarm of fire was being rung. Investigation proved that the sexton had mistaken the day and supposed he was ringing the bell for the Sunday morning service.—St. Albans Messenger.

Dine It.

Few men can handle a hot lamp chimney and repeat the Ten Commandments at the same time.—Yoakum Times.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

Sincerely Yours,
Robert M. La Follette

GOVERNOR AND SENATOR-ELECT ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE OF WISCONSIN, WHOSE GREAT ABILITY AND ENERGY WILL ENHANCE THE HIGH STANDING WHICH THE BADGER STATE NOW ENJOYS IN NATIONAL COUNCILS AS A RESULT OF THE EFFORTS OF SENATOR SPOONER, REPRESENTATIVES BABCOCK, ECSH AND OTHERS WHOSE NAMES ARE LINKED WITH IMPORTANT LEGISLATION OR PARTY LEADERSHIP.

MINIATURE CAMERAS.

Most of us have seen small cameras, says a writer in the Scientific American. In fact, comparatively small ones are to be found upon the market. Upon close examination, however, we find that the smallest box-camera fitted with finder, shutter, stops and diaphragh is rather cumbersome to carry in the pocket. If it were not quite necessary to have a finder and the rest of the accessories, we would probably have little difficulty in locating some very small cameras of the pin-hole type, which make very unsatisfactory instruments for anything but experiment.

Referring to the illustration, we have two cameras photographed upon a man's hand, so as to show their relative sizes. The smallest one in the picture, the outside measurements of which are one and one-fourth inch by one and one-fourth inch by one and three-fourth inch, requires only a brief description, as it is merely a single exposure camera, having few of the necessary features that go to make up the practical instument. This little camera will take a picture three-fourth inch by three-fourth inch, and is provided with a disk shutter set for instantaneous exposures.

The larger camera shown in the photograph is quite complete in every detail, and is capable of turning out work, I feel safe in saying, commensurate with the skill of the operator. This camera takes twenty-five pictures upon a film five-eighth inch wide, made by cutting a conveniently wide commercial film into strips. This stripping process has to be done in the dark room, and is best accomplished by using a sharp knife, cutting against glass, the knife being guided by a metallic-edged rule.

MINIATURE CAMERAS.

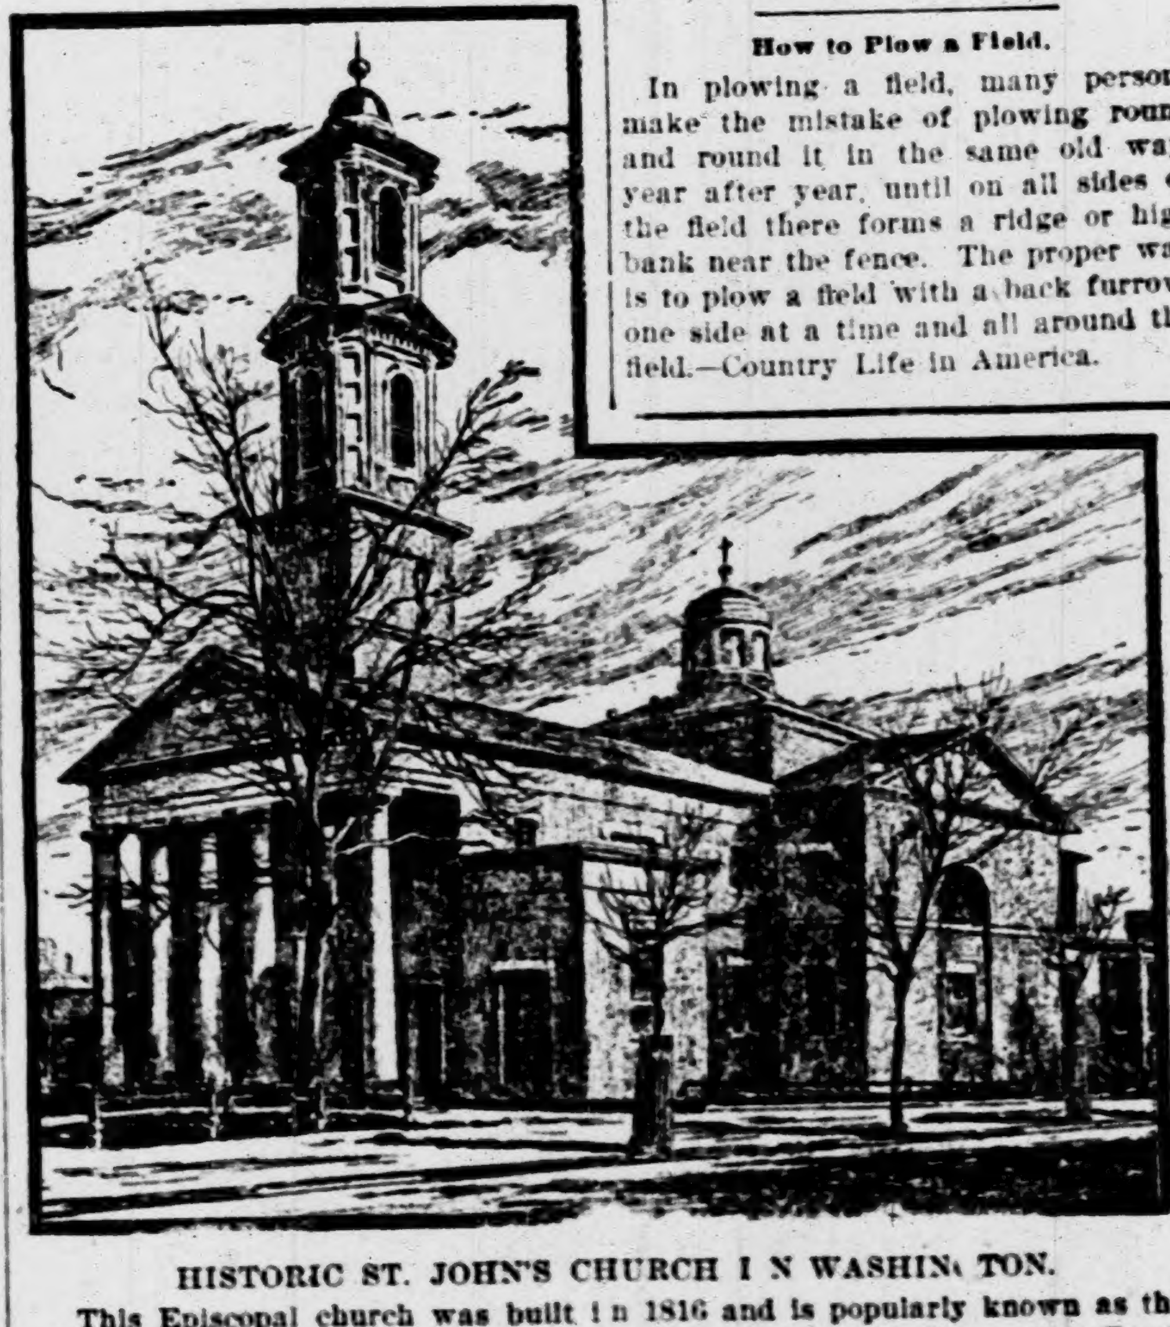
It may not be out of place to say right here that my best negatives were obtained by using a weak developer and by suspending the film in a red bottle, which allowed me to view the film during the developing process by holding the bottle up to the sunlight. The fixing, too, was conveniently performed in a wide-mouthed bottle. The hypo bottle need not be colored.

How to Plow a Field.

In plowing a field, many persons make the mistake of plowing round and round it in the same old way, year after year, until on all sides of the field there forms a ridge or high bank near the fence. The proper way is to plow a field with a back furrow, one side at a time and all around the field.—Country Life in America.



HISTORIC ST. JOHN'S CHURCH IN WASHINGTON.

This Episcopal church was built in 1816 and is popularly known as the President's Church or Church of State, from the fact that so many Presidents have attended there. It is just across LaFayette Square from the White House. Though most unassuming as church edifices go, this is the most aristocratic church at the National capital. In it a pew is specially reserved for the President and other sittings are sold at high prices by auction. A majority of the Presidents, however, have attended other churches. President Roosevelt goes to the modest little Grace Church, of the Reformed denomination.

A Difficult Position.

Two Irishmen were crossing a bog when one of them fell into a mudhole. His companion, running to a nearby farmhouse, asked the loan of a spade.

"What do you want it for?" asked the farmer.

"Sure, Mike is stuck in the bog and I want to dig him out," was the answer.

"How far in is he sunk?" questioned the farmer.

"Up to his ankles."

"Then be can walk out easy."

"Begorra, he can't," exclaimed Pat. "He's in wrong end up."—Harper's Weekly.

The Richest Language.

The English language, according to a German statistician who has made a study of the comparative wealth of languages, heads the list with the enormous vocabulary of 260,000 words. German comes next with 80,000, Italian with 75,000, French with 30,000, Turkish with 22,500 and Spanish with 20,000.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Selecting a Wife.

What Science Says About It

NEW theories of unconscious selection on the part of —like mating with like—as opposed to Darwin's and women depend upon their perceptive and ties in choosing each other, were propounded Pearson, of University College, London, at the

He maintained that man has an unconscious select a wife of his own height, with eyes of proportionate span from forefinger to forefinger, a forearm his own, and a constitution of like physical vigor

Among every 1,000 men the color of the eyes is di

Blue ....
Green ....
Hazel ....
Brown ....

The eyes of women are generally darker only 228 of having blue eyes. If these blue-eyed people married at ran be that they would mate at the rate of 164 per 1,000 that the actual number of marriages per 1,000 of or 36 above the random average thus proving that th eyed woman are unconsciously attracted toward one an

In the same way men with greenish gray or ha women with eyes of the same color

The average height of a man he gave as from 67 of a woman as 62½ inches and he contended that the a tall wife, and the short man a short wife

"One could hardly imagine a man choosing a wife forefinger to forefinger," said the professor, yet his that as the span of one increase so did that of the other

A like result was produced in the measurement of his figures showing that there was a distinct tendency with long forearms to marry wives with proportiona

⁂

Abuses of the Postal Serv

By Henry A. Castle, Formerly Audi for the Post Office Department

A CONSERVATIVE estimate fixes the loss to the from the free-mail facilities enjoyed by the at $15,000,000 every year

Unfortunately no adequate accounting method for ascertaining the magnitude of this free should justly be charged to it, approximate be made Nobody seems to care to know incubus amounts to, but if the administration of so great an in private or corporate hands there would unquestionably be knowing exactly what proportion of the cost this element of the bear A deplorable incident of doing private business under is the utter indifference which prevails as to questions like this, to command general interest

The "frank" is a menacing evil of our mail service, saturated decelt, and demagoguery Its utter depravity has been known on for twenty years Efforts have been made to curtail it, but lars it is worse than at any previous stage of our history

Every branch and department of the government loads the of its mail-matter, legitimate and illegitimate, on the postal service men and the departments not only send free of postage speeches, and all kinds of so-called "public documents," but machinery, fire-proof safes, and other articles scarcely less iron, on the pretext that they are in some mysterious way public business —Harper's Weekly

⁂

Inborn Inconsistencies.

By Lee Rising.

MERE MAN spends three thousand dollars for an begrudges his wife a professional nurse to haul clutches of the grip.

He wishes her gowns to be the latest creation ionable modiste, and insists upon her wearing

He orders grouse, partridge or pheasant for a between themselves, and badgers her at table wasted by the children.

He orders seven different suits at the tailors, and rails the eggs used by the cook.

He spends five hundred dollars in a week's bout with returns chastened and stingy to pore over the grocer's pass possible economies.

Winsome Woman spends three dollars for matinee tickets, shower, not even to save her new spring suit, can she bring a fifty-cent cab home.

She invites some woman who she wishes to impress to an luncheon, and discovering an error—on her side—of five cents tions it gleefully to the woman, but not to the waiter

She prides herself on telling the truth to her little children to their father she can't imagine how Johnnie caught cold, full well that she forget his leggins yesterday.

She hates and abhors a thief, but she goes through her in the dead of night and filches therefrom a modest two-dollar will never miss."

She scorns to read so much as a postal card not addressed pounces on any open note found in rummaging her lord and whether the handwriting be feminine or masculine.

She wishes her tradespeople to consider her the soul of her milliner to tuck an extra five on the bill and give her the

If, as the Concord poet has told us, Consistency is the minds, let Mere Man and Winsome Woman clap their hands are on the road to greatness: it is a neck-to-neck race with greatness glories in inconsistencies.—Life.

The Stage American.

A real American would have helped the play in place of that ridiculous stock-figure which on the English stage has for so many years done duty for American men. Always blatant, always cool, always resourceful, always ready with dreadful funniments in the manner of Max Adeler, that stock-figure duly creaked its joints under the label of "Hawthorne, U. S. A." Thirty years ago, before the development of steamship navigation, it was natural enough that English playwrights should be content with this figure. But nowadays, when London, throughout every summer, is overflowing with real Americans, it certainly does seem strange that our playwrights can give us nothing better than this one old battered simulacrum.

So far as I know, the one playwright who has made an attempt to portray an American from actual experience of Americans is Mr. Bernard Shaw. Hector Malone, in "Man and Superman," is an admirable study. Not only has Mr. Shaw used his ears, and delicately reproduced typical modern American peculiarities of speech, instead of offering us a jargon which is as remote as starred and striped waistcoats from reality, he has also entered thoroughly into a typical modern American soul.—London Saturday Review.

Required a Lot of Educating.

A young Brockton physician tells the following about himself:

Upon his graduation from Brown University he went home to the western part of the State for a few days, and on the street met a young Frenchman, one of his comrades of the Spanish war. This conversation ensued:

"Hello, Fred; I hear you got through down at Browne's."

"Yes, I finished there Wednesday."

"Well, what you going to do now?"

"I'm going to New York to study medicine."

"Huh! You going to be a How long dat take?"

"I'll have to study four way."

"Four years! Gee! graduate from the high school

"Yes."

"And didn't you go four Browne's?"

"Sure thing."

"And now you got to study four doctor?"

"I certainly have, and there will be two years in a

"Well, you must be

An Ungenerous G

The first slice of goose cut and the minister of the Church looked at it with an ticipation as was displayed faces around him

"Dat's as fine a goose saw, Brudder Williams," host. "Where did you get fine one?"

"Well, now, Mistah the carver of the goose, den acceks of dignit preach a special good er axes you where you to me dat's a trivial matter,—Youth's Companion

Before Formosa passed nese hands, 20,000 Chinese were imported every year tea picking season.

The most common name in England is Newton, no fewer than seventy-two

Fifty per cent of the England is ascribed to cent official investigation

English automobile are experimenting with

It is calculated that make a living in London

F. S. DAVIDSON.

U-NA STRENGTHENS
E ENTIRE SYSTEM.

Davidson, Ex-Lieut. U. S. Washington, D. C., care U. S. Office, writes:

my mind there is no remcatarrh comparable to It not only strikes at of the malady, but it and strengthens the sysa truly wonderful way. has been its history in I cheerfully and unhesrecommend it to those affected been."—F. S. Davidson.

do not derive prompt and satisfacfrom the use of Peruna, write Dr. Hartman, giving a full statecase, and he will be pleased his valuable advice gratis. Dr. S. B. Hartman, President Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, wegian Revolutionists.

respondent at Christiana the four leaders of the Norwevolution—Michelsen, Berner, and Nansen. Michelsen, state, is the real head of the He is a merchant, much in his business, overworked poor health that he thinks Christiana because of its climate. Berner, president thing, is a man in the late fashioned in attire, deliberate and action and stubbornly of his purposes. Lovland, of the exterior, is a farmer's was a school teacher and an before he entered politics. He consummate diplomat, who knows how to bide his time. As he helped chiefly by lendpopular name to the movement. as he always, was, a dreamer, no political aspirations.

He Was Unsympathetic.
the shah was in Paris last was accompanied by an official Mahmoud Khan, who is not now. A French journalist remembered Mahmoud well put questions about him the other member of the shah's retinue. has become of Mahmoud inquired the journalist. "He monsieur," was the answer fellow! But surely he was young to enjoy excellent health." excellent," assented the Perfunctionary. "Was he ill very "No, monsieur. He was not He died quite suddenly." How did it happen?" The functionary explained (with embarrassed air): "He was sympathetic to the grand vizier."

Russian in Tokio.
there is a foreign language where almost all languages are and strange to say, Russian is

STRONGER THAN MEAT.
Judge's Opinion of Grape-Nuts.

man who has acquired a ju of mind from experience on out in the Sunflower State, a carefully considered opinion value of Grape-Nuts as food.

the past five years Grape-Nuts a prominent feature in our fare.

crisp food with the delicious has become an indispensaity in my family's everyday has proved to be most healthful and has enabled us to abolish pastry and pies table, for the children prefer Nuts and do not crave rich and some food.

Grape-Nuts keeps us all in perfect condition—as a preventive of it is beyond value. I have been impressed by the beneficial of Grape-Nuts when used by who are troubled with face skin eruptions, etc. It the complexion wonderfully. its nutritive qualities, my exis that one small dish of Grapesuperior to a pound of meat which is an important for any one. It satisfies and strengthens the powfatigue, while its use inof the disagreeable consethat sometimes follow a meat Name given by Postum Creek, Mich. a reason.

THE S INTERNATI
FOR

Wife.

ence Says About It.

nscious selection on the part of h like—as opposed to Darwin's d upon their perceptive and each other, were propou rsity College, London, at the d that man has an unconscio his own height, with eyes of hi ger to forefinger, a forearm ke physical vigor color of the eyes is divided as darker only 226 of them people married at random the te of 164 per 1,000; but he had per 1,000 of blue-eyed pe proving that the blue-eyed attracted toward one another.

greenish-gray or hazel eyes gave as from 67 inches to 68 he contended that the average t short wife.

a man choosing a wife by measurin professor, yet his diagrams that of the other.

the measurement of thousands of was a distinct tendency on the lives with proportionately long fo

he Postal Serv

astle, Formerly Audito

Office Department.

stimate fixes the loss to the postal facilities enjoyed by the various de year.

no adequate accounting methods are he magnitude of this free business harged to it, approximate estimates seems to care to know definitely administration of so great an enterp here would unquestionably be a pro of the cost this element of the equati doing private business under public prevails as to questions like this, wh evil of our mail service, saturated tter depravity has been known and e been made to curtail it, but in some ious stage of our history.

nt of the government loads the tra d illegitimate, on the postal service. only send free of postage letters, lled "public documents," but often ship other articles scarcely less ponderous e in some mysterious way connected kly.

onsistencies.

three thousand dollars for an automo e a professional nurse to haul her ip.

gowns to be the latest creation of nd insists upon her wearing a last yea ouse, partridge or pheasant for a qu es, and badgers her at table over th

uits at the tailors, and rails next mor ollars in a week's bout with "the b pore over the grocer's pass-book and ree dollars for matinee tickets, but in new spring suit, can she bring herse ho she wishes to impress to an elabor ror—on her side—of five cents in the but not to the waiter.

the truth to her little children, and ne how Johnnie caught cold, when sh ggins yesterday.

f, but she goes through her husband's therefrom a modest two-dollar bill n as a postal card not addressed to he d in rummaging her lord and master's minine or masculine.

le to consider her the soul of honor, e on the bill and give her the ready ca told us, Consistency is the hobgoblin some Woman clap their hands in gl t is a neck-to-neck race with each. ncies.—Life.

helps culous English dome s bla cessful funni Adeler
ed its thorne re th narrow English with n Hol Is t out g per amula play mpt to ial ex
Bernard
in and study is ears typical ies of jargon ed and lity, he nto a
.—Lon

"Huh! You going to be a How long dat take?"

"I'll have to study four yea way."

"Four years! Gee! Didn graduate from the high school

"Yes."

"And didn't you go four y Browns's?"

"Sure thing."

"And now you mean to tel got to study four years more doctor?"

"I certainly have, and aft there will be two years in a h

"Well, you must be tick-

An Ungenerous Questi

The first slice of goose cut and the minister of the Church looked at it with as ticipation as was displayed faces around him.

"Dat's as fine a goose as saw, Brudder Williams," he nost. "Where did you get fine one?"

"Well, now, Mistah Rawl The carver of the goose, with den access of dignity, "wh preach a special good serm er axes you where you got it to me dat's a triv'al matter, —Youth's Companion.

Before Formosa passed nese hands, 20,000 Chinese were imported every year tea picking season.

The most common name in England is Newton, whi no fewer than seventy-two Fifty per cent. of the England is ascribed to here cent official investigation.

English automobile are experimenting with

It is calculated that make a living in London

ng.
a tells Brown
he west-
w days.
French-
e Span-sued:
ou got esday."
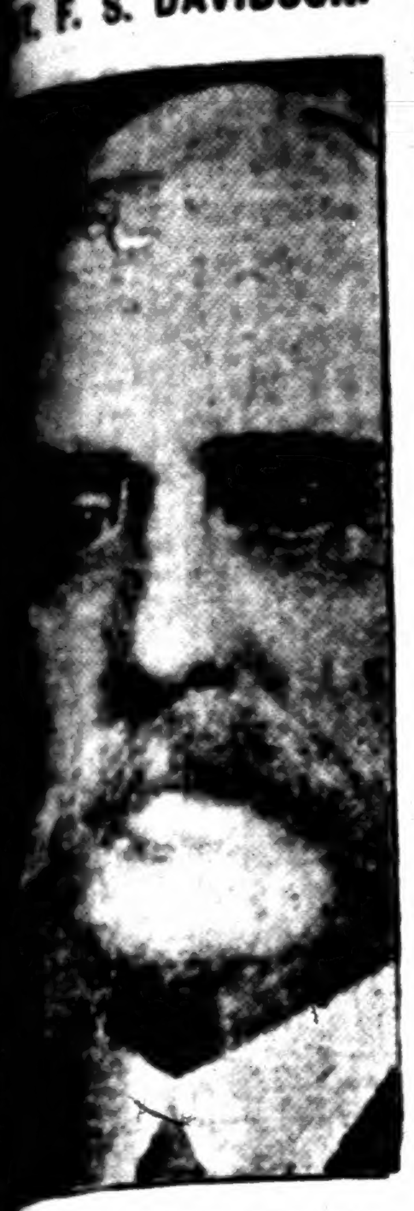
o now?"
o study

F. S. DAVIDSON.



U-NA STRENGTHENS E ENTIRE SYSTEM.

F. S. Davidson, Ex-Lieut. U. S. Washington, D. C., care U. S. Office, writes:

"In my mind there is no remedy for catarrh comparable to Peruna. It not only strikes at the root of the malady, but it tones and strengthens the system in a truly wonderful way. That has been its history in my case. I cheerfully and unhesitatingly recommend it to those afflicted as I have been."—F. S. Davidson.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Norwegian Revolutionists.

A correspondent at Christiania declares the four leaders of the Norwegian revolution—Michelsen, Berner, Loviand and Nansen. Michelsen, minister of state, is the real head of the movement. He is a merchant, much engrossed in his business, overworked and in such poor health that he thinks of leaving Christiania because of its trying climate. Berner, president of the Storthing, is a man in the late forties, old-fashioned in attire, deliberate in speech and action and stubbornly tenacious of his purposes. Loviand, rough of the exterior, is a farmer's son, was a school teacher and an editor before he entered politics. He is a consummate diplomat, who knows exactly how to bide his time. As for Nansen, he helped chiefly by lending his popular name to the movement. Nansen is, as he always was, a dreamer, with no political aspirations.

He Was Unsympathetic.

When the shah was in Paris last he was accompanied by an official named Mahmoud Khan, who is not with him now. A French journalist who remembered Mahmoud well put some questions about him the other day to a member of the shah's retinue. "What has become of Mahmoud Khan?" inquired the journalist. "He is dead, monsieur," was the answer. "Dead? But surely he was young enough to enjoy excellent health." "Quite excellent," assented the Persian functionary. "Was he ill very long?" "No, monsieur. He was not ill at all. He died quite suddenly." "Indeed! How did it happen?" The Persian functionary explained (with an embarrassed air): "He was unsympathetic to the grand vizier."

Russian in Tokio.

Tokio there is a foreign language school where almost all languages are taught, and strange to say, Russian is popular.

STRONGER THAN MEAT.

A Judge's Opinion of Grape-Nuts.

A man who has acquired a judicial turn of mind from experience on the bench out in the Sunflower State, writes a carefully considered opinion as to the value of Grape-Nuts as food.

"For the past five years Grape-Nuts has been a prominent feature in our diet.

"The crisp food with the delicious flavor has become an indispensable necessity in my family's everyday life.

"It has proved to be most healthful and beneficial, and has enabled us to practically abolish pastry and pies from our table, for the children prefer Grape-Nuts and do not crave rich and unwholesome food.

"Grape-Nuts keeps us all in perfect physical condition—as a preventive of disease it is beyond value. I have been particularly impressed by the beneficial effects of Grape-Nuts when used by ladies who are troubled with face blemishes, skin eruptions, etc. It clears up the complexion wonderfully.

"As to its nutritive qualities, my experience is that one small dish of Grape-Nuts is superior to a pound of meat for breakfast, which is an important consideration for any one. It satisfies the appetite and strengthens the power of resisting fatigue, while its use involves none of the disagreeable consequences that sometimes follow a meat diet." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 17.

Subject: Daniel in Babylon, Dan. i., 8-20—Golden Text, Dan. i., 8—Memory Verses, 16-17—Commentary on the Day's Temperance Lesson.

I. The temptation. These young men were confronted with a powerful temptation. A desire to obey the king's commandment, love of popularity, appetite, a desire to succeed—these were strong attractions. They were slaves in a strange land, and was it not necessary to fall in with the customs of the people? They were tempted (1) to do that which was degrading; (2) to disobey the law of their God; (3) to deny their religions and God and fall in with idolatrous worship.

II. The temptation resisted (v. 8). 8. "Purposed in his heart." He decided what he would do and then took the wisest possible way to accomplish it. At first he made only a simple request. It was not political strategy; his actions were not planned to catch the eyes of the king. The first emotion of his heart was loyalty to God; this led to his resolution. Daniel did not trifle with God or his conscience. They changed his name, but could not change his nature. "Would not defile himself." The Hebrew who ate without restriction at Nebuchadnezzar's table could not but defile himself. "Nor with the wine." He feared the degradation which would follow from wine drinking. "He requested." Observe the courtesy, and yet he was inflexible. "The prince," etc. Ashpenaz (v. 3), chief chamberlain.

III. The ten days' rest (vs. 9-16). 9. "Into favor." Ashpenaz saw that Daniel was a young man of integrity and noble, loving character. His person was beautiful and doubtless his manners were attractive. The best way to please others is to please God first. 10. "I fear—the king." He does not positively refuse the favor which Daniel seeks. This appeal by Ashpenaz was very persuasive; and while Daniel did not wish to imperil the life of his benefactor, yet he felt that it was safe to do right and that God would deliver them.

11. "Melzar." This is not a proper name, but should be read "the melzar," the chief butler, or steward, the one who had charge of their food. 12. "Prove." Test us; experiment for a short time and watch the result. "Give us pulse." A vegetable diet, with water instead of wine.

13. "Then—deal with thy servants." These words were spoken with quiet confidence as to the result. A number of other boys besides these four were undergoing the same training. A fair test, to place these young abstainers beside those who partook of the royal banquets, and see which company presented the most vigorous appearance. 14. "Ten days." This would afford ample time to show the effect of steady, good food on their health. Daniel had strong faith in God, and he felt sure that he and his companions would present the best appearance. 15. "Fairer and fatter." The complexion was healthier and clearer. God meant that if a man would be intemperate he should himself proclaim it to the world. The glutton, the drunkard, the debauchee, carry the stamp of their deeds upon their features. A depraved character corrupts the flesh that carries it.

IV. Honored by God and man (vs. 17-20). 17. "God gave them knowledge," etc. 1. Through the highest physical condition, which made their minds clear. 2. By imparting it to them directly, as the visions recorded later. 3. By giving His blessing to their daily studies, aiding their minds by His Spirit, opening wider doors to knowledge through His providence. 4. By keeping them from those vices, from conceit and selfishness, which distort the judgment and dim the perception of truth. Whatever we may give to God of faith, or work, or trust, or love, or zeal, He gives back again with large interest, good measure, pressed down and shaken together and running over—ten, twenty, thirty, sixty or an hundred fold, in whatever we need most from Him. "In all learning." "In science, astronomy, literature, philosophy, the Chaldeans stood at this time at the head of the world. They had the beginnings of chemistry and even of the telescope." "In all visions," etc. God gave a double portion to Daniel. He was endued with a prophetical spirit, by which he was enabled to converse with God and to receive the notices of divine things in dreams and visions. Visions were revelations to the prophets when awake, and dreams when asleep. God thus made one of the despised covenant people eclipse the Chaldean sages in the very science on which they most prided themselves. So Joseph, in the court of Pharaoh (Gen. 40:5; 41:1-8).

18. "End of the days." After three years (v. 5), the time fixed for their training. 19. "King communed." Talked with them, tested their progress, learning and talents. He put them through a test examination. "Before the king." "To be his personal advisers and among the leading officers of the kingdom. All officers and servants stood when in the presence of the monarch." 20. "Ten times better." Probably a high court of learning was held, at which the king presided and the nobles and sages of the land assisted. These proposed difficult questions, which the youths readily answered and were in turn allowed to put questions which the sages could not answer. They were better counselors and better informed than the others. Daniel continued in influence and authority, at different times, during the whole of the seventy years of captivity. It is commonly believed that when the captives returned he remained in Chaldea, probably detained by his employment in the Persian empire, and that he died in Babylon.

Educational Rally.

Lewisburg, Tenn.—An educational rally was held Saturday at Verona, in this county, which was largely attended by teachers, every section of the county being represented. An interesting program was rendered, and addresses were delivered by State Superintendent Mynders and others.

An English burglar says that the fraternity never rob a house in which a squint-eyed servant is employed.

Perfecting the Microscope.

Improvement of the microscope has been the air of recent inventors. In the ultra microscope a new method of illumination gives visibility to particles heretofore outside of the line of sight, and in the still later ultra-violet microscope the mode of illumination is a chief feature. The second instrument uses light of a wave-length of 275, while the shortest wave-length is 550. The difference depends upon the quartz lenses, the source of light being cadmium electrodes, and the detail obtainable with the short rays is remarkable. The naked eye sees nothing through such a microscope, an eyepiece containing a flourescent screen being necessary to convert the rays and make visible a picture of the object in green. The flourescent screen is only for focussing, however, and the real objects are obtained by photography, the plates being very sensitive to the rays from the cadmium electrodes. The results differ much from those of ordinary illumination, some structures being penetrated by the cadium rays, while others are not.

Belgium's Population.

Belgium still retains the distinction of being the most densely populated country in Europe. Consul McNally, at Liege, reports the final footings of the present census, fixing the population at 7,074,910. Of these 3,514,491 are males and 3,560,419 females. Thus, Belgium has 45,828 more females than males.

The population of the leading cities is as follows: Antwerp, 291,949; Brussels, 194,196; Liege, 168,532; Ghent, 162,482; Mechen, 58,101; Bruges, 63,728; Verviers, 49,158; Louvain, 42,194; Ostend, 41,181.

U. S. SENATOR TOWNE

Credits Doan's Kidney Pills With a Gratifying Cure.

Hon. Charles A. Towne, Ex-U. S. Senator from Minnesota, brilliant orator, clever business man, brainy lawyer, whose national prominence made him a formidable candidate for the Presidential nomination in 1904, writes us the following:

Gentlemen — I am glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. The remedy was recommended to me a few months ago when I was feeling miserable; had severe pains in the back; was restless and languid; had a dull headache and neuralgic pains in the limbs and was otherwise distressed. A few boxes of the pills effectually routed my ailment and I am glad to acknowledge the benefit I derived.

(Signed) CHARLES A. TOWNE.

Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents per box.

Royal Cook Decorated.

King Edward's chef, M. Menager, was among those to receive birthday honor on the occasion of his majesty's recent birthday. He is believed to be among the most accomplished chefs in the world. He was decorated with the Victorian medal. Other recipients of that distinction are understood to feel that in conferring the medal on a cook King Edward has rather cheapened the honor.

Oddities of Africa.

While grass will not grow in certain parts of Africa these localities are the richest in flowering plants.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Virgil in his day spoke of the "waving woods" of Italy.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, soften the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle.

Thackeray once saw Napoleon on the Island of St. Helena.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of throat and lungs.—Wm. O. Endsley, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

The ink plant of New Granada is a curiosity.

In Your Home

Sloan's Liniment is the best antiseptic to keep handy. Kills yellow fever and malaria germs.

About 1,500,000 persons are employed in the coal mines of the world.

YELLOW CRUST ON BABY

Would Crack Open and Scab Causing Terrible Itching—Cured by Cuticura.

"Our baby had a yellow crust on his head which I could not keep away. When I thought I had succeeded in getting his head clear, it would start again by the crown of his head, crack and scale, and cause terrible itching. I then got Cuticura Soap and Ointment, washing the scalp with the soap and then applying the Ointment. A few treatments made a complete cure. I have advised many mothers to use Cuticura, when I have been asked about the same ailment of their babies. Mrs. John Boyce, Pine Brush, N. Y."

Trade in Deceptions.

The discovery of the method of preserving the brilliancy of fish scales has led to a considerable export trade from Russia. The scales are used for the making of artificial pearls and similar articles.

FRUITFUL FURNACES.

INTENSE HEAT PRODUCES PRECIOUS STONES.

Scientists Have Succeeded in Finding Real Diamonds and Rubies From the Crucible of the Furnace.

Recent advices from France state that Professor Moissan, the eminent scientist and inventor, has actually succeeded in making genuine diamonds and rubies. He employs for this purpose the electric furnace, which has been so improved that a degree of heat can be produced approaching the extreme temperatures which were undoubtedly a factor in the formation of minerals and gems in the interior of the earth.

The rubies obtained are of large size, weighing ten or fifteen carats, and in quality and color equal and even surpass those found in the earth. The natural forces attending the formation of diamonds seem to have been more complicated, and so far the diamonds resulting from the efforts of the scientists have been very small, but still they are positively identified as the carbon crystal—the diamond. They are remarkably clear and bright, and on a small scale as fine specimens as nature's own product.

The electric furnace has enriched chemistry with a whole series of new compounds. Probably the one of most value to mankind at large is Calcium Carbide. The simple application of water to Calcium Carbide generates the gas Acetylene, which is now being commonly used for lighting.

The peculiar merits of Acetylene light are its brilliance and high candle power, ease of installation, economy and its adaptability for lighting buildings of every description regardless of their location.

Gorki's Real Name.

The real name of Maxim Gorki, the Russian author, is Alexei Maximovit Pjesjkov. He is now about 37 years of age, and he won his first pronounced literary success with a short story published 12 years ago. He is in the artisan class, and at the age of 10 was apprenticed to a shoemaker. He ran away from this employer, as he did later from a designer. Subsequently he was by turns a painter of holy images, cook's assistant on a Volga steamer, baker, apple dealer, peddler of beer, lawyer's clerk, chorus singer, herdsman and reporter. In 1892 a broken down student suggested that he turn author. Next year his first successful story appeared.

Aged Miner's Record.

Patrick Sweeney, a 70-year-old miner residing at Coaldale, Pa., claims to have the most remarkable record of any miner in the world. He has, according to his figures, driven nine miles of gangway himself and mined enough coal to supply the country for half a year. During this time he was never seriously injured, but he assisted in carrying from the mines 115 men who had been killed and 300 injured. In his home town he has for many years been looked upon as being the leading citizen. He has acted as pallbearer at 997 funerals and has stood sponsor of 714 children.

Oa, in Argyle, is possessed of the shortest name in Great Britain.

WHY TAKE CALOMEL?

When Mozley's Lemon Elixir, a purely vegetable compound, with a pleasant taste, will relieve you of Biliousness, and all kindred diseases without griping or nausea, and leave no bad effects.

50c. and $1;00 per bottle at all Drug Stores.

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR.

"One Dose Convinces."

TULANE UNIVERSITY of LA.

NEW ORLEANS.

Full courses in Languages, Sciences, Engineering, Law, Medicine. Splendid department for women in Newcomb College. Tulane makes leaders in all vocations. Its facilities for instruction in Engineering are unsurpassed. Unexcelled opportunities for the study of Sugar Chemistry. Many scholarships in the academic department. Expenses low. Board and accommodations in dormitories at low rates. Next session begins October 1st. Send for catalogue. Address,

THE REGISTRAR, Gibson Hall.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

WANTED-- Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who were drafted in Kentucky, (3) of mothers of soldiers who have been denied pension on account of their remarriage, (4) of men who served in the Federal army, or (5) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased.

NATHAN BICKFORD, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

PAINFUL PERIODS

AMERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

The Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One of Thousands of Cures Made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that menstruation is the balance wheel of a woman's life, and while no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it is not the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely.

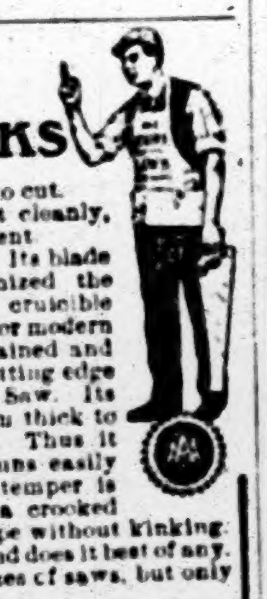
Miss Irene Crosby

Thousands of American women, however, have found relief from all monthly suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs menstruation of its terrors.

Miss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton Street East Savannah, Ga., writes:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a true friend to woman. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me of irregular and painful menstruation when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. Thousands have been cured by so doing.



A FEW CUTTING REMARKS

The purpose of a saw is to cut.
It should cut easily, cut cleanly, and cut with every movement.

I prefer an Atkins Saw. Its blade is "Silver Steel", recognized the world over as the finest crucible steel ever made in ancient or modern times. It is hard, close-grained and tough. It holds a sharp cutting edge longer than any other Saw. Its blade tapers perfectly from thick to thin, from handle to tip. Thus it makes leeway for itself, runs easily and does not buckle. Its temper is perfect. When bent by a crooked thrust, it springs into shape without kinking.

The Atkins Saw cuts—and does it best of any. We make all types and sizes of saws, but only one grade—the best.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.

Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World

Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana

BRANCHES: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto, (Canada).

Accept no Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand

SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

COLEMAN'S

Duplicate Repair Parts

For "Maid of the South" Corn Mills, Coleman's, Simmon's, Reynold's and other Cotton Presses.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,

714 Perdido St., NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Pollock-Stephens Institute.

Birmingham, Ala.

Select Day and Boarding School for Girls.

Opens Sept. 27th.

Catalogue on application. Address

Madame Catherine Deschamps Elford, Principal.

Avery & Company

SUCCESSORS TO

AVERY & McMILLAN,

51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

—ALL KINDS OF—

MACHINERY

Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.

Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

CONCENTRATED

CRAB ORCHARD WATER.

TRADE MARK.

Nature's great remedy for Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation.

Stimulates the Liver, regulates the Bowels and keeps the entire system in a healthy condition. A natural product with a record of a century. If afflicted try it.

Sold by all druggists.

Crab Orchard Water Co.,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES

GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Gilbert's Gravel Weed Compound, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 SHOES

W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
ALL STYLES
THE WORLD'S GREATEST SHOEMAKER
SOLE AGENTS FOR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
Established July 4, 1876.

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS. FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. BLELOCK MFG. CO., 303 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

Am. 37, 1905.

Malaria comes in so many forms it is often hard to diagnose a case.

LET OXIDINE DETERMINE For You

For Malaria and Chills it is Absolutely Guaranteed. Made in Regular and Tasteless Forms. For sale by all Druggists. Price 50 cts.

Manufactured by PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.,

DALLAS, TEXAS - - AND - - MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICES.

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broad-cloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.

W. I. MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.

Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High [illegible] Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48.00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,

Singer Office, CLANTON.

NEW STORE

Will Open About September 10th

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers. Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

FALL TRADE

We are proud to say that the people of Chilton county have always recognized our efforts to deal fairly and justly with them, and this knowledge has given us such confidence that we now have

The Largest Stock of Goods

Dry Goods, Clothing, Groceries, Hardware, Millinery and everything in the line of General Merchandise to be found in the county.

Bring us your cotton--we pay highest market price. Call and inspect our stock--we know you will be pleased with Quality and Prices. Glad to show them whether you buy or not.

W. KANTER & BRO.

CLANTON - - ALA.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTON

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

OPPOSITE THE BANKS CLANTON

Closing out sa

Going Out of Merchandise Bu

My Stock of General Merchan

FOR SALE AT CO

Come and Get Bargains While the Stock Lasts

W. D. LAWRENCE

Maplesville, - - Ala.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow Jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured three of us." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

God's Wrath is Close at Hand

Lesson No. 15. Evening of same day. And God said "The heading shall be God's wrath is close at hand," and said this matter must be put in the Banner six months without ceasing. He said I think the Editor is a Christian man, and said if anybody wants a message direct from God, apply to NEWTON COORAN Verbena, Ala., R. F. D. No. 2.

Send a sample copy of The Banner to your friends

NOTICE

Applications have been [illegible] the Board of Education of [illegible] county for the following [illegible] school districts:

(1) To form a new district [illegible] tricts Nos. 39 and 40 as follows: [illegible] ning on east boundary line of [illegible] 22, R 14 east, and ½ mile from [illegible] thence west ¾ mile; thence [illegible] mile to south boundary line of [illegible] 16; thence west ½ mile to [illegible] said Sec 16; thence south 1½ [illegible] half mile stake on west [illegible] of Sec 28, T 22, R 15 east; thence [illegible] "Hurricane Branch" to its [illegible] thence down Goose Pond [illegible] railroad; thence northwesterly [illegible] line of said railroad to point of [illegible] ning.

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' [illegible] is now in no district, be added [illegible] trict No. 40. Also a certain [illegible] now in district No. 33, [illegible] added to district No. 40, as [illegible] Beginning at sw corner Sec 11, T [illegible] 14; thence ½ mile east; thence [illegible] Yellowleaf creek; thence up [illegible] to district No. 40, Lomax.

(3) To begin 1-4 mile [illegible] corner, Sec. 2, Tp. 20, R 1[illegible] south ½ mile; thence east 14 [illegible] west boundary line of District [illegible]

(4) To make the following [illegible] district No. 47, Mineral Spring [illegible] ginning at se corner of Sec 2[illegible] 14; thence south to Yellowleaf [illegible] thence up said creek to the [illegible] Turkey creek; thence up said [illegible] creek to south boundary line of [illegible] T 23, R 14 east; thence east [illegible] line to the southwest corner of [illegible] east.

(5) To divide district No. [illegible] lows: Dividing line to begin [illegible] east of the southwest corner of [illegible] 20, R 16; thence north to Chestnut [illegible] new district to be known as C[illegible]

The above applications will be [illegible] upon by the Board of Education [illegible] Court House in Clanton, on 7th [illegible] October, 1905.

Done by order of Board [illegible] Aug. 12, 1905. G. L. [illegible]

Sec. Board of Edu[illegible]

Abscess.

Abscesses, with few exc[illegible] are indicative of Constip[illegible] debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, [illegible] writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I [illegible] say a word of praise for [illegible] Snow Liniment. I stepped [illegible] which caused the cords in [illegible] to contract and an abscess [illegible] my knee, and the doctor [illegible] that I would have a stiff leg. [illegible] day I went to J. F Lord's [illegible] (who is now in Denver, Colo.) [illegible] recommended a bottle of [illegible] ment; I got a 50c size, and [illegible] my leg. It is the best lini[illegible] the world. Sold by Upchurch [illegible] Co.

$2.25. By special arra[illegible] we are enabled to offer the [illegible] bama Baptist ($2.00 and the [illegible] ner ($1.00) both papers [illegible] for $2,25

Indigestion Ca[illegible] Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been [illegible] Catarrh of the Stomach caused [illegible] and dyspepsia, but the truth is [illegible] opposite. Indigestion causes [illegible] peated attacks of Indigestion [illegible] mucous membranes lining the [illegible] exposes the nerves of the stomach [illegible] ing the glands to secrete mucin [illegible] the juices of natural digestion. [illegible] called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia [illegible]

relieves all inflammation of the [illegible] membranes lining the stomach, [illegible] nerves, and cures bad breath, [illegible] a sense of fullness after eating, [illegible] dyspepsia and all stomach trouble[illegible]

Kodol Digests What You [illegible]

Make the Stomach [illegible]

[illegible]

For sale by Upchurch [illegible]

FOR 5 REASONS

If you are a sufferer from Liver, Kidney or Bladder Trouble you owe it to your precious life to

TAKE URACURA

First—It is a perfect tonic and cure for Kidney and Bladder Diseases.
Second—It regulates the Liver.
Third—It purifies the Blood.
Fourth—It restores Strength.
Fifth—It renews Vitality.

We know beyond doubt that it is a cure for any of these terrible diseases, no matter how slight or how serious the case may be. We have proved this by our own experience and the testimony of thousands who have been cured.

It is a peculiar and dangerous feature of Kidney and Bladder Troubles that their symptoms are seldom alarming until they have you well in their clutches. They are indeed the most insidious diseases known to medical science. A few seemingly harmless pains in the back and side; sometimes a headache and nervousness with no apparent cause; occasional hot flushes; swelling of the hands or feet; very light or very dark colored urine—often too frequent—one or another or all of these symptoms, scarcely noticeable unless you are warned and on the lookout, mean Kidney or Bladder trouble. Study yourself—do not let another day go by without finding out about the health of your Kidneys and Bladder. Review your symptoms and check the disease in its early stages.

50

A 50c BOTTLE OF URACURA WILL BEGIN THE GOOD WORK

After even a few days treatment you will notice that the urine will be of a very dark or reddish color with a strong odor of the medicine—this is not only a sign that there is disease but also that Uracura is doing its duty. After two or three days the urine will be clear; you will begin to feel less pain about the Kidneys and the pains in the back will leave. Your nervousness will disappear and you will feel stronger and better in every way. A consistent and continued treatment will absolutely eradicate the disease from your system and you will feel like a new being. Uracura is a purely vegetable compound or concentrated extract prepared from those roots and herbs that years of experience have proved to be the only sure remedies known to science for these troubles. A great Nervine Tonic, Blood Alterative, Liver Regulator and Kidney and Bladder Cure. Restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the blood, relieves biliousness and constipation and produces a healthy appetite and sound digestion.

BUY A BOTTLE TO-DAY

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

For sale by all Druggists

Judge of Probate

g out sa

Merchandise Busi

General Merchandi

LE AT COS

Get Bargains

he Stock Lasts

LAWRENCE

- - Ala.

NOTICE.

Applications have been the Board of Education of C county for the following chang
school districts:

(1) To form a new district fr tracts Nos. 39 and 40 as follows: B ning on east boundary line of Sec 22, R 14 east, and ½ mile from so thence west ¾ mile; thence mile to south boundary line of sai 16; thence west ½ mile to sw c said Sec 16; thence south 1½ m half mile stake on west boundary of Sec 28, T 22, R 15 east; thence
"Hurricane Branch" to its m thence down Goose Pond Sw railroad; thence northwesterly line of said railroad to point of b
ning.

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' farm, is now in no district, be added to trict No 40. Also a certain ter now in district No. 38, Cane Cr added to district No. 40, as fol
Beginning at sw corner Sec 11, T
14; thence ½ mile east; thence Yellowleaf creek; thence up said
to district No. 40, Lomax.

(3) To begin 1-4 mile west corner, Sec. 2, Tp. 20, R 14;
south ½ mile; thence east 1-4
west boundary line of District No

(4) To make the following ch district No. 47, Mineral Spring
ginning at se corner of Sec 25, T 14; thence south to Yellowleaf thence up said creek to the mo Turkey creek; thence up said T creek to south boundary line of S T 23, R 14 east; thence east along line to the southwest corner of
east.

(5) To divide district No. 18
lows: Dividing line to begin 1-4
east of the southwest corner of Sec 20, R 16; thence north to Chestnut new district to be known as Canna

The above applications will be p
upon by the Board of Education
Court House in Clanton, on 7th d
October, 1905.

Done by order of Board in
Aug. 12, 1905. G. L. Stra
Sec. Board of Educa

Abscess.

Abscesses, with few excep are indicative of Constipation
debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland,
writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I say a word of praise for Snow Liniment. I stepped on which caused the cords in my to contract and an abscess to my knee, and the doctor said that I would have a stiff leg,
day I went to J. F Lord's drug
(who is now in Denver, Colo) recommended a bottle of Snow
ment; I got a 50c size, and it my leg. It is the best liniment the world. Sold by Upchurch D
Co.

$2.25. By special arrange we are enabled to offer the bama Baptist ($2.00 and the ner ($1.00) both papers one
for $2,25

Indigestion Cau Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been su
Catarrh of the Stomach caused and dyspepsia, but the truth is opposite. Indigestion causes cata peated attacks of Indigestion infl mucous membranes lining the sto exposes the nerves of the stomac ing the glands to secrete mucin
the juices of natural digestion.
called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia

relieves all inflammation of the membranes lining the stomach, nerves, and cures bad breath,
a sense of fullness after eating, dyspepsia and all stomach trou

Kodol Digests What Y

Make the Stomach

Bottles only. Regular size, $1.00, the trial size, which sells for Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & Co.

For sale by Upchurch

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XVII Twelve Pages CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1905 Pages 1 to 8 NO 49

AN ON THE CORNER

e Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

County Commissioners met County Poor Farm Wednesrenewed the contract for for another year with Mr.
Miller on the same terms as

e to Join the Angels

Monday evening, Sept. 11, babe of Mr. and Mrs. Lee passed away. It was taken day evening about sundown until Monday evening when it took its flight
Dr. N. S. Johnson made to save the sweet little all in vain. God had little one home to rest.
dear mother and father little babe for the one that so much here is gone to pain and suffering are o'er.
pathize with you but feel-we cannot say anything your aching hearts; we can you to the Lamb of God.
and some sweet day you your loved one where will be no more parting, but love and happiness. He come back to us but we can

Lucy Jones.

Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

been troubled with lame-fifteen years and I found a recovery in the use of
's Pain Balm," says
Baber, Gillam, Ind. This is also without an equal for and bruises. It is for sale church Drug Co., Clanton, A.
Thorsby.

tain Creek, Sept. 18, 1905
Banner—We have col-from the people who have and obligated to pay to-ping us buy a tent to work Evangelist the amounts as

y, Baptist, Mountain Creek,
R Dawson, Marbury, $10 00;
, Marbury, $5.00; J. E.
Mountain Creek, 25c; P. J.
Mountain Creek, $2.00; W. J.
Mountain Creek, $1 00; Mrs
, Mountain Creek, $1.00;
, Jemison, $1.00; M. A. Pintain Creek, $1.00; Joel Mc-Mountain Creek, 25c; J. T.
Mountain Creek, 50c; F. M.
Mountain Creek, $1 00; J. S.
Marbury, $1.00; Joseph D
Methodist, Mountain Creek
E Winningham, Methodist,
$2.50; A. L. Davis, Marbury,
T. Budder, Marbury, $1 00; F.
, Mountain Creek, $1.00;
Oates, Mountain Creek, $1.00,
, Mountain Creek, $1.00;
Baptist, Mountain
; Dr. A. L. L. Dennis, Bap-
$1.00; John M. Carr,
$1.00, J. H. Deramus,
$1.00; Geo A. Myrick Metho-Creek, $1.00; S. A. Johnterian, Rollins, $1 00; R A K
Soldiers Home, 50c; James C
Methodist, Jemison $1.00; P C
Baptist, Clanton, $1.00; F O Clanton, $1.00; J H Gibbons, ville $1.00; J W Gray,
; Private Donor, Ver-Stroek, Clan-
James Lewis Johnson, Wads-
, $2.00; Jake C Wi-
, Montgomery, $1.00; S G
Creek, $1 00; Henry T
$1.00; Co. A C
Baptist, Clanton, $1.00; the Clanton, $2.00; W H Sartor, Cash Donor, Clanton,
Donor, Clanton, $1.00;
Marbury $1.00; Cash Donor,
Cash Donor, Clanton, 25c;
Upshaw Fort Deposit, 50c;
, Birmingham, $5.00; C A Creek, 25c; Henry Es-Creek, $1.35; Mrs F A Wadsworth, 2.00; J G Brooks,
L & N, 1.00; J W Day, Mare our small tent and we preaching, in revival ser-will be for two weeks day night last, at Moun-Services at 11 o'clock and 7:30 at night. Let come that God may give blessing. Brethren, we more and the big tent will

Who will send us $10?
Who will send us $1?
Spirit lead!

Yours in Christ,

S. J. Jennings.

missioners' Sale.

virtue of the mandate of a com-of the Probate Court of Chil-Alabama, directed to me, I, Clyde Commissioner, will proceed to sell for division among Mary A. Galla-A. Gallahorn and other parties at following described lands lying in to-wit:
Nw ¼ and Nw ¼
for cash, in front of Clanton, Alabama, on OCTOBER, 1905,
September, 1905.
CLYDE DAVIS, Commissioner.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 c.

Pleasant Grove.

We had a fine rain the past week and the weather is fine again so that we can go on with our work.

There is quite a lot of sickness in our community, some are very sick and some are better. We hope to see them all up soon.

The series of meetings held at Macedonia the past week came to a close on Sunday last with the addition of 28 members, one by restoration, four by letter and 23 by baptism. The preaching services were conducted by Rev. G. W. Freeman, assisted by Rev. R. M Honeycutt. We beleive this to be one of the best meetings ever held at Macedonia. Rev. G. W. Freeman is an energetic worker in the cause of Christ.

Mr. Decatur Smitherman has recently counted his children again and reports ten this time, the youngest being a boy.

Mr. H. I. Honeycutt visited the old homestead Sunday.

The writer had the pleasure of sitting under the sound of Hon. Sydney J. Bowie's voice on Saturday last at Mulberry. He made an educational address and I would have been glad that every man in Chilton county who is interested in educating their children could have been present. He spoke partly on local taxation. My dear people, let's look forward and work together for a plan to educate our children. It makes me feel sad when I think of the thousands upon top of thousands of illiterate white people in Alabama who are natives of our State. The time has come when the illiterate man has a hard row to weed. I speak for one who feels the need of an education. I fear that in the near future the illiterate mans show will be so slim that he can barely pass. The one mill tax, if carried, will help us some, but it is so very small it would be better if it was five instead. Let's hear from some one else on the subject of education. With best wishes to all I remain yours very truly,

James Franklin.

Sardis.

Cotton patches are white in this part of Chilton, picking will soon be over.

Mrs. Aria Ramsey is very low with fever but hope she is not dangerously ill.

Mr. Verge Klenner and Miss Mollie Wagner visited Maplesville Sunday.

Mr. Lee McCarry and Miss Dovie Broadhead visited the Misses Groom Sunday

Miss Belle McCary has returned to her home at this place after a pleasant visit to friends in Birmingham. She was accompanied by her cousin Mr. Arthur McCary who will spend a few days here.

Prof. Parrish closed his school at this place and returned to his home near Clanton. Guess he thought it was getting to small for him.

Well, as this is my first I will close.

School Girl.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Sept. 18, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

D. B. Mears, M. C. Cain, Robert Jones, Johnnie Hart, J. R. Baych.

LADIES' LIST.

Miss Claudia Jones, Mrs. Harriet Jones, Miss Mattie Frigg, Mrs. Zerry Ervens, Bula Brown.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Oct 2, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. Dudley, Postmaster.

Get Off Cheap.

He may well think, he has got off cheap, who, after having contracted constipation or indigestion, is still able to perfectly restore his health. Nothing will do this but Dr. King's New Life Pills. A quick, pleasant and certain cure for headache, constipation, etc. 25c at Upchurch Drug co. Guaranteed.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

IN MEMORIAM.

On Sept. 13th, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Parker and taken from them their little daughter, Vernon. The sympathy of the people are with the bereaved father and mother. We know that we cannot speak any consoling words that will make their grief any lighter or fill the vacancy of the little one, but we would ask the grief stricken parents to remember that God is a just and wise God and does all things for the best. Only strive to meet your child who has gone on to await your coming. Do not despair for you have something to live for which will make you nobler, for you will strive to follow your babe into the realness of glory, where there will be no more suffering. What is your loss is its gain. It has left this world of sin and sorrow and gone to dwell where there is sunshine and pleasure ever more. It has missed the snares of this world and gained a home in paradise where there is no stumbling blocks or pit fails to endanger her path. So do not weep for her, but try to reconcile your minds to God's will and remember it is God's way, His will be done.

B. A. P.

A Card of Thanks

We want to thank our many friends for the kindness they showed our son in his bereavement and all through the sickness of his little babe. We feel that the friends and neighbors done all they could to lighten the burden of the parents. We can never repay their kindness but will always remember them with gratitude. Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. John Parker.

NOTICE.

All the male members of New Prospect and Fairview Churches are requested to meet at the arbor near the residence of A. C. Mims, Sept 3rd, at 3 p.m. for the purpose of attending to important matters pertaining to Church matters. Our pastor, Bro. J. T. Eckford, is also requested to be present if it is so he can, and any others that is interested in a good cause and the upbuilding of Christ's Kingdom.

A Member.

Married, at Riderville, Sept. 17, Mr. Willie Dawson and Miss Pearlie Moore, Rev. W. J. Ruddick performing the ceremony.

A Remedy Without a Peer.

"I find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets more beneficial than any other remedy I ever used for stomach trouble," says J. P. Klote, of Edma, Mo. For any disorder of the stomach, biliousness or constipation, these tablets are without a peer. For sale by Upchurch Drug co. Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Thorsby.

Rev. Newton held protracted meetings at college hall last week.

Mrs. Rogers of Jemison visited the Stanleys.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Thorson of Calera were in town several days.

Mrs. Nelson entertained the ladies of Swedish society last Thursday.

Mr. Guy Gerald was Birmingham called Thursday.

Our community is mourning over the death of Miss Dora Thorson, who was highly esteemed by all who knew her. After an illness of five weeks, she passed away Friday at the "ebbing of the tide."

Captain Hawthorne's daughter, Miss Lucy, returned to Tuscaloosa last week.

Mrs. Hornsby and daughters made a brief visit here last week.

Miss Alma Hovey celebrated her 3th birthday with a few friends at her home last Monday afternoon, Thorsby base ball team plays Clanton at Thorsby, Sept. 23. All welcome to come. Thorsby plays Union at Thorsby Sept. 30.

There was an arrest here Saturday—one Price—for disorderly conduct.

Thorsby cotton gin is working and lots of cotton coming in.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Thorson and sons wish to express their appreciation and thanks to all the friends who so kindly assisted during the illness and funeral of their loved one.

Citizen.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

Thorsby, Ala.

PUBLIC SALE.

I will sell for cash, to the highest bidder, at the Central Hotel, Clanton, all the Household Furniture; also 2 Cows with Calves, on Saturday, Sept. 30, 1905

Mrs. JULIA DAVIS.

No Unpleasant Effects

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for billiousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. Justice of the Peace, Adam Shook, New Libson, Ind., says: 'Some three years ago I had a spell of grip and felt outdone and I happened to get a trial box of DeWitt's Little Early Risers and they gave me strength and muscle." They do not gripe or made you feel sick. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

WRITE Stanley's Business College, Macon, Ga., at once for catalogue. This School can not supply its demand for its graduates.

FOR SALE—Two Boar Pigs, born May 31, 1905. Berkshire, crossed with Poland China. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—Someone to get out stumps. Will let the job by the stump or by the job. Come and figure on it. If you have a stump puller nine-tenths of them could be pulled with ease. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—Fresh Milch Cows, the same not to give less than three gallons of milk per days. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—to exchange a good 2¾ wagon for a 2½ wagon, as mine is too heavy for my team. I will pay the difference if any is deserving. My wagon is a Mitchell & Lewis and is in good running order. Address, R. E. Roper, Clanton, Ala., Route 3.

LOST—from my home last Friday night, a deep red hound dog, about five years old, with dew claws on all feet. Anyone finding him and letting me know I will satisfy them for their trouble. John S. Dennis, Clanton, Ala., Route 5.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 1; 4 to 6.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

THE GREATEST FAIR IN THE SOUTH!

ALABAMA STATE FAIR

AT BIRMINGHAM

OCTOBER 23—NOVEMBER 2—TEN DAYS

NEW AND COMPLETE GROUNDS—FINE BUILDINGS

Exhibit Your Farm and Garden Products
Needle Work, Art, Fruits, Preserves, Etc.

LIBERAL PREMIUMS—SPECIAL PRIZES

SHOW RINGS FOR CATTLE, SHEEP, HOGS AND HORSES

Big Poultry Exhibit, Horse Show at Night

ALL PRIZES IN CASH AND GUARANTEED TO EXHIBITORS

GET READY FOR THE FAIR—SEND FOR CATALOGUE

R. M. WILLIAMS, Sec'y., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES

MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING

FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS

Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts and Ready-to-Wear Hats

Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES

CLANTON - - - - ALA.

ATHENS FEMALE COLLEGE

ATHENS, ALA.

Owned and Controlled by the North Alabama Conference. Founded 18[illegible].

We offer the advantages of a full collegiate course in the Departments of Mathematics, Languages, Science and Literature under competent instruction. The college building is handsome and commodious, with steam heat, electric lights and enameled baths, while ten thousand dollars appropriated at the last session of the North Alabama Conference will be expended this summer in improving the equipment and in increasing the capacity of the dormitories.

Special advantages offered in Music and Fine Arts.

The health record of the college is absolutely unsurpassed. The boarding capacity of the institution is limited to one hundred students, and those desiring to enter should apply early. Catalogue sent on application.

MARY NORMAN MOORE, President,
(P. O. Drawer [illegible]) Athens, Ala.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

ITEMS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

Bishop Confers Subdeaconship.

In the presence of a great congregation at St. Peter's church here Saturday morning Bishop Edward P. Allen, of Mobile, conferred subdeaconship on Patrick J. Castello, of Montgomery. It was a new ceremony to Montgomery, and the bishop was followed closely. Mr. Castello will be ordained a deacon. He was educated at Cullman, Ala., and at Emmittsburg, Md. Bishop Allen will go to Birmingham, where on Sunday he will dedicate the Church of Our Lady of Sorrow.

Frank Adcock Pardoned.

A pardon has been issued to Frank Adcock, a white man convicted March 19, 1904, in the Jefferson county criminal court of manslaughter. Adcock's sentence in the penitentiary was for two years and the term would have expired in two months. The convict had made a good servant of the State.

Alabama Planters Pledge.

The farmers of Montgomery county met here Saturday in an important session, the feature of which is a formal pledge that unless they can get 11 cents or more per pound they will hold their cotton indefinitely. In this determination they are strongly backed by all the banks and merchants of this city. The meeting before adjournment addressed an appeal to the cotton producers of Alabama and the entire south to hold the staple for a minimum price of 11 cents.

New Corporations.

Notice of the organization of a new bank in Ozark, which was perfected in the early part of September and known as the Dale County Bank, has been filed with the secretary of state, the capital stock designated being $50,000.

Alabama Fuel and Steel Company, of Augusta, Me., filing a copy of its charter and naming as its state agent H. F. DeBardeleben, of Birmingham.

Union Land Company, of Birmingham; capital stock, $48,000; incorporators, W. R. Brown, F. B. Fowlkes and Leo K. Steiner.

Mail Clerk Reported.

O. C. Addison, a United States railway clerk, will be reported to his department for disrespect of the quarantine of the city of Montgomery. It is charged by Chief Inspector J. J. Sullivan that Addison not only showed his disrespect of the city quarantine, but that he signed the name of J. L. Williams to a quarantine blank handed him by a regularly commissioned quarantine officer.

Addison was one of the mail clerks on Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 6, which reached Montgomery from Mobile at 5:50 Saturday evening. The other mail clerk was a negro. Quarantine Officer George Lamar, represented the city of Montgomery on this train. It is the custom of the quarantine officers to merely hand the mail clerks filled out affidavits and allow them to sign them without taking their time answering and writing down the questions. This was the course pursued by Officer Lamar. The negro mail clerk readily acceded. Addison balked, but when told that it was required he signed the name of J. L. Williams to the affidavit.

Judge Appointed.

Governor Jelks Saturday requested Hon. A. H. Alston, supernumerary judge, to go to Dadeville, in Tallapoosa county, and hold court, beginning Monday, in place of the regular judge, Hon. S. E. Brewer, judge of the Fifth circuit.

Judge Brewer was in Montgomery Saturday and told the governor that he believed he was incompetent to preside over the court at Dadeville because up until his election last year he was solicitor of the circuit and helped procure the indictments that are to be tried next week.

On this statement of the facts the governor complied with Judge Brewer's request and Judge Alston will sit at Dadeville Monday and until the indictments in which Judge Brewer figured are fully disposed of.

Textbook Trouble—A Possible Suit.

On account of an alleged default of their contract Governor Jelks, chairman of the state text book commission, has instructed Attorney-General Massey Wilson to bring suit for damages against the several publishing companies which were to furnish books for the public schools of Alabama. Attorney-General Wilson was not prepared to say what amounts are to be claimed of the publishers. His judgment will be depended upon after he has thoroughly examined each of the contracts.

Anadarko, O. T.—Fire that started from the explosion of a lamp at Clement, near here, destroyed the entire east side of the main business street. Loss, $60,000.

The shark is attracting this summer more attention than the sea serpent.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Relieved of His Money.

Birmingham, Ala.—A white man who refused to give his name to the police was "roped" into an alley running into Second avenue, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, Saturday night and relieved of a roll of money containing something over $35. He reported the robbery to Policemen Cates and Bennett, who made an investigation and landed Homer Henderson, a negro, behind the bars two hours later. They arrested a negro woman, who gave her name as Lula Dillard. It is expected a third woman will be arrested. From what the police say it seems the man induced the stranger to go into the alley, and the two negro women got his money, which has not been recovered.

Man Pushed From Train by a Negro.

Chickasaw, Ala.—About 9:15 o'clock Saturday morning Frank Haynes, of Greenville, Tenn., was found badly hurt beside the track one mile east of Pocahontas. He was seen by the engineer on the "Messenger Boy" and the train was quickly stopped and Mr. Haynes was placed in the baggage car and carried to Carbon Hill, where he was examined and cared for by the Frisco surgeon at that place. Mr. Haynes was conscious and told how he came to be there. He boarded a freight train at Guin early Friday night and was on his way to Birmingham. Soon after passing Pocahontas a negro came along the train and pushed him off. The fall caused a badly crushed arm and leg and several bruises. It is supposed his pocketbook and hat were taken from him before being pushed off the train.

Car Damaged.

Birmingham, Ala.—A street car on the South Highlands line was damaged by fire Saturday afternoon, and the fire department was called into service. A large crowd was attracted to the scene of the accident, Humboldt and Twentieth streets. The accident was caused by the controller burning out and setting fire to the woodwork beneath the car. The damage was slight.

Filched Journals.

Birmingham, Ala.—In Henry Adams the police believe they have a negro who has been systematically robbing the Louisville and Nashville railroad yards of brass journals. He was arrested Saturday while leaving the yards, where he is employed, with two buckets of brass. He dropped the buckets when the police gave chase.

President in Alabama.

Birmingham, Ala.—The itinerary of President Roosevelt upon his visit to Alabama has been made public. The chief executive will spend but two hours here, from 4:30 to 6:30 on the afternoon of October 23. He will spend two hours in Tuskegee and two in Montgomery the same day. Elaborate preparations have been made by the Commercial Club for his entertainment while he is here.

Gets Twenty Years.

Decatur, Ala.—The jury in the case of Emmett Parham, accused of murdering his wife and placing her body on the Southern Railway track near Trinity some weeks ago, found Parham guilty and brought in a verdict of twenty years in the penitentiary. The case tried at Moulton, the county seat of Lawrence county. Only circumstantial evidence was introduced. Parham will appeal to the supreme court. Mrs. Parham's body was horribly mangled by passing trains prior to the finding of her body. She and her husband had been separated, and on the evening of the murder they quarreled in the depot at Trinity.

Contract Is Awarded.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Farmers' Warehouse Company has awarded a contract for building the warehouses in this city to Gildwell Bros., of Fayetteville and Huntsville, the bid of that firm being $12,600 for the four buildings. Jesse Young has been elected manager of the new concern, which is expected to be ready for business November 1.

Negro Holds Up Deaf and Dumb Man.

Birmingham, Ala.—W. M. Galloway, a negro, has been arrested by the police on a charge of highway robbery. A man giving his name as Williams, deaf and dumb, notified the police by writing on a piece of paper that he was held up and robbed of $7 and a watch. He gave a good description of the negro who held him up. The police arrested Galloway as filling the description. This is the first arrest on such a serious charge ever made on a description furnished by a deaf and dumb man.

Wiring the Court House.

Baton Rouge, La.—The wiring of the parish court house was completed Saturday, and will conform in every respect to the national code. It is a great improvement over the old wiring.

Workmen attending the pans in salt works are never known to have cholera, smallpox, scarlet fever or influenza.

Railroad Is Building Park.

Athens, Ala.—The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company is building a beautiful park just west of the handsome new passenger station in this place. The park will reach the entire length of a block and will cover almost an acre. Several hundred car loads of soil is being hauled to build up the ground, which is rather low, and when completed it will be fenced and laid off by a landscape gardener and planted to trees and shrubbery, with fountains placed therein.

Mrs. Robert J. Lowe Dead.

Birmingham, Ala.—Mrs. Robert J. Lowe, one of the most prominent women in Alabama, died suddenly here Friday of heart disease. She was the daughter of the late Governor Cochran, of Eufaula, Ala., and her first husband was the late Rev. Bishop Jackson, of the Episcopal diocese of Alabama. Mrs. Lowe leaves a husband and three children. The interment was at Eufaula.

Held in First Degree.

Montgomery, Ala.—A special to the Advertiser from Luverne says that the grand jury has indicted for murder in the first degree E. O. Bishop, who killed Gordon Reddoch. The sensational tragedy, which occurred several weeks ago, was alleged to have been caused by bad feeling existing between members of the two families.

Fine Horse Stolen.

Athens, Ala.—Mr. William T. Yarbrough, of this place, had a most valuable horse stolen from his barn during Friday night. The thief went to his barn back of his residence, propped open the gates, stole a bridle and a fine Mosely quilted saddle, saddled the horse and rode him away. The horse was worth several hundred dollars.

Big Mill Incorporated.

Florence, Ala.—Ground has been broken in East Florence for an immense corn handling plant on the bank of the Tennessee river between the river and the railroad. The concern will be financed by a stock company, and papers of incorporation have been filed in the probate judge's office. The company is capitalized at $15,000.

Hotel Robbery.

Gadsden, Ala.—A bold robbery was committed at the Sulphur Springs hotel Friday night by some unknown white man while the guests were at supper. The burglar entered the second story by a window from a ladder and procured some $40 in money and valuable jewelry from Mrs. Pendleton, of Bessemer, and other guests. There is no clue to the robbery.

Injured by Explosion.

Gadsden, Ala.—Ed Kircus, a white carpenter, was the victim of a dynamite explosion at the steel plant Saturday, by which he lost several fingers on his left hand and had a narrow escape from death. Mr. Kircus was shooting the dynamite at the furnace and the fuse was a short one, and he did not have time to get away before the explosion occurred.

War on Vagrants.

Huntsville, Ala.—The authorities have been making things unpleasant for tramps and vagrants during the past few days. Many vagrants have been arrested and fined, and the purpose of the officers is to reduce the idle population of the city. A majority of the men so far arrested are white.

Kills His Father-in-Law.

Evergreen, Ala.—George Etheridge, who shot and killed Travis Smith, his father-in-law, Friday several miles south of this place, came to town just before night and surrendered to the sheriff and is now in jail. Mr. Etheridge claims self-defense.

Southern Orders More Equipment.

Knoxville, Tenn.—An order by the Southern Rrailway for ninety new engines, 750 gondola cars and 750 flat cars has been made public at division headquarters in this city.

A Deserter.

Birmingham, Ala.—Notification has been received at police headquarters of the desertion from the United States army of Joel B. Byars, who enlisted in the service in Bessemer on January 31 of the present year. The escape was made on the 7th of the month from Fort Logan, Col.

Huntsville Man Attempts Suicide.

Huntsville, Ala.—Abe W. Wise, former chief of the fire department and a prominent secret society man, attempted suicide by taking morphine. He is expected to die.

Saw Mill Man Killed.

Bristol, Tenn.—A special states that Colley Wilson, of Zenoba, Washington county, Va., was caught in the belt of his saw mill in Russell county and instantly killed. His wife and five children survive.

Lawrenceburg, Tenn.—David Lawrence has been appointed assistant postmaster at Lawrenceburg in the place of Abener Pence, deceased.

COTTON TO BE HELD

For Eleven Cents Was the Decision of the Asheville Meeting.

MUST REMAIN THE MINIMUM.

Banks Will Help the Farmers to Hold by Financing the Matter—Others Will Help Also.

The executive committee of the Southern Cotton Association held its meeting at Asheville, N. C., last week, and the question of fixing a minimum price of this crop was the matter of greatest interest to the people and country at large. The eyes of the whole cotton world were centered on Asheville during the 6th and 7th days of September, while the executive committee was in session.

The price finally agreed upon after long and tedious deliberation was 11 cents, basis middling, at all interior points in the south. The condition of the crop up to August 25 was found to be 73.03 per cent, as compared with a condition of 84 per cent for the same period a year ago. The estimated yield of the crop as reported by over 15,000 correspondents from all the cotton growing counties indicated a yield this season of 9,588,133 bales, as compared with a crop of 13,600,000 bales last year. Letters from farmers all over the belt advised a minimum price all the way from 10 cents to 12 1-2 cents, but the final result was 11 cents and farmers all over the south will be expected to stand firmly together this fall and winter to maintain that price. By determined effort prices can be forced up above 11 cents later on, and farmers should determine now to move their crops slowly and not rush the market. The only way we can secure and maintain our price is to refuse to sell for less and make the buyers come to our figures. If cotton is thrown on the market and sold anyway, it will be difficult to force prices up until much later in the season. Let those who are able and can hold back do so, and thereby help those who are forced to sell to meet their maturing debts and obligations with the supply merchants and guano dealers. Bankers will be glad to advance from 8 to 9 cents a pound on cotton in storage and thus assist in financing the situation. We are up against a hard fight, but it will be easier to get 11 cents for a small crop than 10 cents for a 13,600,000 bale crop.

Stand by Your Guns.

We are now well entrenched with plenty of ammunition in the shape of corn and meat, our banks have plenty of money, the enemy is in retreat, and if we don't whip this fight and force the price of cotton to above 11 cents, then the farmers of the south ought to have a guardian appointed to look after their business interests. The mills of the world have taken a crop of 13,600,000 bales of American cotton during the last twelve months at an average of 9 cents per pound. There will be no check in consumption during the next twelve months. The price of cotton goods is very high and going still higher. The whole civilized world is in a prosperous condition, and it is unreasonable to say that the farmers should not this season receive an average of 11 cents per pound for a crop of cotton now estimated to be under 10,000,000 bales. All you have got to do is to stand pat for your price, refuse to sell under 11 cents and the market will soon advance to that figure. If much cotton is offered under 11 cents, as a matter of course the market can be depressed and held down.

Other Organization Will Help.

The cotton agent of the Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of Texas was present with us at Asheville and took part in the secret sessions of the executive committee. He came as the representative of the union and assisted in fixing the price at 11 cents, stating that such a price would be acceptable to the 300,000 members of the union. We can now depend upon the effective co-operation of all the members of the union, as the new president of the union, Mr. Calvin, of Paris, Tex., has written me encouraging co-operation to more completely win out in the fight ahead. We also have pledged the active co-operation of the membership of the American Society of Equity and the Farmers' Alliance of North Carolina in enforcing the demand for the minimum price of 11 cents. This makes the position of the producers almost impregnable, and with all of these powerful farmers' organizations working in harmony for mutual protection I feel safe in saying that the fight can and will be easily whipped. There will be no misunderstanding among these organizations this season on this matter. We will all work in harmony together, and a knowledge of this fact ought to be most encouraging. If the Farmers' Union wanted one price and the S. C. A. another, there would be difficulty ahead, but both organizations are now together and will work together to win out on the price agreed upon.

Sell but little cotton in September and October. Gives the mills a chance to exhaust present supplies, which can be done in six weeks, and then we can easily dictate terms and win another big victory. Sell no middling cotton for less than 11 cents.

HARVIE JORDAN.

Shanghai.—The British vice consul who left here last Friday for Quinsan to insist upon the release of a British subject who was held prisoner there by the Chinese authorities, returned today with the man.

St. Petersburg—The Russian losses in ships at Port Arthur and the sea of Japan, according to official statistics published this morning, amount to $113,000,000.

Birmingham Boy Is Killed.

Gadsden, Ala.—Grover Ross, the 14-year-old son of Dick Ross, of Birmingham, was killed Saturday at the furnace of the Alabama Consolidated company by being run over by the switch engine which drew the hot pot. Young Ross was employed at the furnace as water boy, having only recently come to the city from Mobile. He was in the habit of jumping onto the switch engine as it went to the dump with the hot pots, as the spring from which he got water was near. He had been repeatedly warned not to jump on the switch engine. He tried it again, however, missed his footing and fell under the wheels, cutting off his arm just above the wrist and one leg above the knee.

Drinks Bottle of Laudanum.

Spartanburg, S. C.—Arthur Sterrett, a traveling salesman for a Baltimore dry goods house, arrived here at 1 a. m. and, securing a room at Spartan inn, drank a bottle of laudanum. His action was noted by an employe, but physicians were unable to save him, and he died at 5 o'clock. Sterrett was 35 years of age and unmarried. His headquarters were in Charlotte. No cause is assigned for his action.

Komura's Condition Favorable.

New York, N. Y.—The following bulletin was issued Sunday night on the condition of Baron Komura, the Japanese envoy, who has been ill in this city for some time:

"The condition of Baron Komura at 6 o'clock p. m., in the opinion of both physicians in attendance, was satisfactory in every respect. Dr. Delafield will see him once tomorrow.

"SATO."

University in Fine Condition.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—The future for the University of Alabama seems to grow brighter and brighter from day to day. The enrollment is growing steadily every day, and it is probable, says President Abercrombie, that the 350 mark will have been reached by the beginning of the second term. The exact number, as shown by the register Saturday, was 283. The students, after their week of merriment, have settled down to work and the classes are all thoroughly organized. In every way the university is in a most healthy condition, and great work will doubtless be accomplished during the session of 1905-'06.

To Celebrate Chickamauga.

The two Confederate Veteran camps of Montgomery, assisted by Sons of Veterans and the four local chapters, Daughters of the Confederacy, will celebrate the anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga at Electric Park two nights of this week.

A committee from Camp Lomax, consisting of Judge J. B. Fuller, Capt. Paul Sanguinetti and Joseph May, has charge of the arrangements for the celebration. In their work they are having the co-operation of the local chapters of Daughters of the Confederacy and Camp Holtzclaw, sons of Veterans.

Although the battle of Chickamauga was fought on September 22 and 23, the celebration will take place Thursday and Friday evenings, September 21 and 22, these dates being more convenient to the veterans and the park management.

Fatal Case of Cholera.

Lomza, Russian Poland.—It has now been established that a fatal case of cholera occurred among raftsmen from Bielostok, on the Narev river. All the members of the crew have been isolated and other precautionary measures have been taken.

Two Arrests Made at Elections.

San Antonio, Tex.—A special from Saltillo, Mexico, the former capital of Cohuailo, says: "Reports from the election for governor from the state of Cohuailo are all in, showing that Lic Miguel Cardenas is re-elected practically without opposition. It is reported here that only two arrests have been made in the whole state.

Famous Outlaw Is Killed.

Manila.—Felizarbo, chief of the outlaws in the province of Cavite, who for a long time have made trouble for the authorities, was surrounded Saturday near the Batangas border, and jumped over a cliff. He was killed by a fall and his death, it is believed, will end the disturbance in the province of Cavite.

Purchase 1,000 Tons Bessemer.

Youngstown, O.—The United States Steel Corporation has purchased from the Bessemer Pig Iron Association 10,000 tons of Bessemer pig at $15 valley forge, September delivery. It is unofficially said that the negotiations are on for the purchase of from 30,000 to 40,000 tons for February delivery.

Oa, in Argyle, is possessed of the shortest name in Great Britain.

YELLOW FEVER NE

The Latest Reports From Infected District.

New Orleans, La.—The yellow report for the last twenty-four in this city is as follows: New 34; total cases, 2,605; deaths, 6 deaths, 341; new foci, 9 cases treatment, 311; cases discharged

Country Cases.

The country situation is still source of concern, because of the appearance of the infection in new localities, far removed from the original centers of infection. The diagnosis of yellow fever in Mer Moorehouse parish, near the Arkansas border, has been confirmed and A. J. Thomas has been placed in charge by the state board. The situation near Bayou Natchez, in Natchitoches parish, is bad, and the that there are more cases than have been reported, makes it Another new point of infection is erett, in Vernon parish, near the as border. This has not yet been officially announced, though there is doubt about it. The patient died the body has been buried.

Other country reports:

Bayou Boeuf, two new cases.

Patterson, four new cases.

Tallulah, ten new cases; one de

Bayou Natchez, three cases.

Kenner, nine new cases.

St. Rose, three new cases.

Terre Bonne parish, seventeen cases; one death.

St. Bernard parish, three new Evergreen (Avoyelles parish), cases.

Lake Providence, nine cases, deaths.

Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, Miss.—Four new and one death from yellow fever reported up to 6 p. m. The record date is 37 cases and 5 deaths.

Natchez.

Natchez, Miss.—Two cases of yellow fever were reported here, both ed, in the neighborhood of original fection. Dr. Lavinder reports a of fever on the government boat at Kemp's Bend, La., the patient being a member of the There are 300 levee laborers within mile of the boat, but every tion to prevent a spread of the has been taken.

Nothing New on Gulf Coast.

Jackson, Miss.—Surgeon Wasdin the marine hospital service, reports that no new cases of yellow developed at any point on the coast today, and only six patients now under treatment. The entire will be devoted to a campaign of gation. One new case is reported Hamburg.

Snow in Cripple Creek.

Cripple Creek, Col.—Several of snow fell here Monday. The fall was preceded by a high wind blew down several buildings, including a large ice house.

Jelks Favors Movement.

Montgomery, Ala.—Governor said he was in thorough accord the details of the quarantine and migration conference called at Chattanooga and would attend if he get away. He approves the idea discrimination in selecting grants, and recently wrote Governor Blanchard, of Louisiana, that he in favor of a more comprehensive tem of quarantine.

Tombigbee Valley Land Company.

Montgomery, Ala.—The Tombigbee Valley Land Company, of Mobile, filed notice of its incorporation in office of the secretary of state. incorporators, three in number, all shown to reside in Chicago.

Posse Searches for Negro.

Jackson, Miss.—A large posse determined men in Rankin county searching for an unknown negro Sunday night attempted to assault young white girl named Miss Co Kline. She walked into the back of her residence about 9 o'clock she was seized by the negro, but screams brought speedy assist and the negro escaped.

Engine Blew Up.

Gadsden, Ala.—The engine at saw mill plant of the Southern facturing Company, near the city, up early Friday morning, wrecking engine room and causing considerable damage, the mill proper being what damaged, while the engineer a narrow escape. It is not known caused the engine to blow up.

Washington, D. C.—The of the interior has ordered the drawal from entry of 300,000 land in the Roswell, N. M., trict on account of the Carlsbad tion project.

Train Hopper Killed.

Clarksville, Tenn.—George was fatally injured here by being over by a train in the Louisville Nashville yards. The boy to board a car which was being by the switc hengine and hold. He fell beneath which passed over limbs were fearfully boy lived but few hours cident.

GOVERNORS CALL

Twelve of the Southern States on Immigration and Quarantine.

ESTIONS TO BE DISCUSSED.

Take Up Matter of Uniform Regulations for the States—To Discuss Immigration Movement.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The following ll call issued for the November eting to be held in this city:

"In the development of the South al questions are involved aside from ose which tend solely to its material owth and progress. Its matchless imate, generous soil, riches in min als, fields and forests, its beauty in lls, valleys, fruits and flowers, its alth in fountains, streams and rivers e indeed priceless gifts from nature's easury, yet they are only some of the ctors that contribute to the advance ent and welfare of a people.

"The possession of health, the cultivation of mind and morals, the establishment of right rather than might d the reign of truth and justice ese are the things more to be prized an all others for which mankind ould strive, for these are the foundations on which the aegis of Christian civilization must ever rest.

"From time immemorial these are e standards by which the people of e South have sought to be measured, d there is no stronger obligation sting on its citizens today than to rnestly desire and honestly endeavor uphold these standards for the benefit of the present and future generations.

"To the thoughtful observer of passing events this proud heritage is being menaced from two sources at this time, and it is to emphasize this fact and concentrate public sentiment thereon that this call for a southern immigration and quarantine conference is sent out.

"In the attempt that has been made by various cities, towns and communities in the south to protect themselves from the dread ravages of yellow fever, the most strenuous and at times the most unreasonable, unnecessary and burdensome measures have been adopted, measures that not only tend to cripple and destroy business and commerce, but which reflected on the very instincts of our common community, and became a reproach to civilization itself. It is evident, therefore that some uniform system of quarantine should be adopted that will allay the apprehension of the people and minimize the dangers resulting from an outbreak of this disease. This is necessary if we would save our land from the demoralizing and brutalizing tendencies of a panic-inspired quarantine.

"Again, there are coming into the United States at the present time larger numbers of foreign immigrants than ever before in our country's history. Among these are great masses who are wholly undesirable and whom it will be impossible to assimilate with our institutions. There is apparently a desire or tendency to bring many of these undesirable immigrants to southern ports, and also to distribute them from northern cities into the south.

"The south will welcome desirable immigrants from any and all lands, but it has already racial problems of such gravity that no others should be invited until proper safeguards are provided in advance of their coming.

"For the foregoing reasons, therefore, the undersigned, having only the interests and welfare of the south at heart, hereby issue this, our call for a southern conference on immigration and quarantine to be held in the city of Chattanooga, Tenn., on November 9 and 10, 1905, and we designate the following persons as those expected to compose and participate in this conference.

"Governors of the southern states, members of congress, commissioners of agriculture, mayors of cities; one representative from national, state, county or city boards of health; one representative from each railroad system, preferably the general immigration agent; the editor, publisher or proprietor of newspapers and not more than five representatives from each commercial organization in the south.

"All parties thus designated may consider themselves fully authorized under this call to aid in furthering its objects, and are requested to co-operate with us in making the same what it should be for the south.

"John I. Cox, governor of Tennessee, N. C. Blanchard, governor of Louisiana; Edwin Warfield, governor of Maryland; William M. O. Dawson, governor of West Virginia; A. J. Montague, governor of Virginia; N. B. Broward, governor of Florida; James K. Vardaman, governor of Mississippi; Jo

Has a Fire Inspector.

Huntsville, Ala.—An ordinance was adopted at the last meeting of the city council creating the office of fire inspector, and Mayor Blair has appointed Dr. C. B. Ashe to the position. Dr. Ashe is a prominent insurance man and is well acquainted with the requirements for the erection of houses secure the lowest insurance where building permits are before work is begun on any Sheffield.

YELLOW FEVER NEW

The Latest Reports F Infected District.

New Orleans, La.—The yellow f report for the last twenty-four h in this city is as follows: New c 24; total cases, 2,605; deaths, 6; t deaths, 341; new foci, 9; cases treatment, 311; cases discharged, 1,9

Country Cases.

The country situation is still a source of concern, because of the appearance of the infection in new localities, far removed from the original centers of infection. The diagnosis of yellow fever in Merrouge Moorehouse parish, near the Arkansa border has been confirmed and Dr A J Thomas has been placed in charged by the state board. The situation near Bayou Natchez, in Natchitoches parish, is bad, and the charge that there are more cases there than have been reported, makes it worse. Another new point of infection is Everett, in Vernon parish, near the Texas border. This has not yet been officially announced, though there is no doubt about it. The patient died and the body has been buried.

Other country reports:

Bayou Boeuf, two new cases.

Patterson, four new cases.

Tallulah, ten new cases; one death.

Bayou Natchez, three cases.

Kenner, nine new cases.

St Rose, three new cases.

Terre Bonne parish, seventeen new cases, one death.

St. Bernard parish, three new cases.

Evergreen (Avoyelles parish), tw cases.

Lake Providence, nine cases; tw deaths.

Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, Miss.—Four new cases and one death from yellow fever were reported up to 6 p. m. The record to date is 37 cases and 5 deaths.

Natchez.

Natchez, Miss.—Two cases of yellow fever were reported here, both colored, in the neighborhood of original infection. Dr. Lavinder reports a case of fever on the government boat Be at Kemp's Bend, La., the patient being a member of the deck crew. There are 300 levee laborers within a mile of the boat, but every precaution to prevent a spread of the fever has been taken.

Nothing New on Gulf Coast.

Jackson, Miss.—Surgeon Wasden, of the marine hospital service, reports that no new cases of yellow fever developed at any point on the gulf coast today, and only six patients are now under treatment. The entire week will be devoted to a campaign of fumigation. One new case is reported at Hamburg.

Snow in Cripple Creek.

Cripple Creek, Col.—Several inches of snow fell here Monday. The snowfall was preceded by a high wind that blew down several buildings, including a large ice house.

Jelks Favors Movement.

Montgomery, Ala.—Governor Jelks said he was in thorough accord with the details of the quarantine and immigration conference called at Chattanooga, and would attend if he could get away. He approves the idea of discrimination in selecting immigrants, and recently wrote Governor Blanchard, of Louisiana, that he was in favor of a more comprehensive system of quarantine.

Tombigbee Valley Land Company.

Montgomery, Ala.—The Tombigbee Valley Land Company, of Mobile, has filed notice of its incorporation in the office of the secretary of state. The incorporators, three in number, are all shown to reside in Chicago.

Posse Searches for Negro.

Jackson, Miss.—A large posse of determined men in Rankin county are searching for an unknown negro, who Sunday night attempted to assault a young white girl named Miss Cors Kline. She walked into the back yard of her residence about 9 o'clock when she was seized by the negro, but her screams brought speedy assistance and the negro escaped.

Engine Blew Up.

Gadsden, Ala.—The engine at the saw mill plant of the Southern Manufacturing Company, near the city, blew up early Friday morning, wrecking the engine room and causing considerable damage, the mill proper being somewhat damaged, while the engineer had a narrow escape. It is not known what caused the engine to blow up.

Washington, D. C.—The secretary of the interior has ordered the withdrawal from entry of 300,000 acres of land in the Roswell, N. M., land district on account of the Carlsbad irrigation project.

Train Hopper Killed.

Clarksville, Tenn.—George was fatally injured here by being run over by a train in the Louisville Nashville yards. The boy attempted to board a car which was being moved by the switc hengine and missed his hold. He fell bene which passed over limbs were fearfully boy lived but few hour cident.

GOVERNORS CALL

Twelve of the Southern States on Immigration and Quarantine.

QUESTIONS TO BE DISCUSSED.

Will Take Up Matter of Uniform Regulations for the States—To Discuss Immigration Movement.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The following is the call issued for the November meeting to be held in this city:

"In the development of the South vital questions are involved aside from those which tend solely to its material growth and progress. Its matchless climate, generous soil, riches in minerals, fields and forests; its beauty in hills, valleys, fruits, and flowers; its wealth in fountains, streams and rivers are indeed priceless gifts from nature's treasury, yet they are only some of the factors that contribute to the advancement and welfare of a people.

"The possession of health, the cultivation of mind and morals, the establishment of right rather than might and the reign of truth and justice—these are the things more to be prized than all others for which mankind should strive, for these are the foundations on which the aegis of Christian civilization must ever rest.

"From time immemorial these are the standards by which the people of the South have sought to be measured, and there is no stronger obligation resting on its citizens today than to earnestly desire and honestly endeavor to uphold these standards for the benefit of the present and future generations.

"To the thoughtful observer of passing events this proud heritage is being assailed from two sources at this time, and it is to emphasize this fact and concentrate public sentiment thereon that this call for a southern immigration and quarantine conference is sent out.

"In the attempt that has been made by various cities, towns and communities in the south to protect themseles from the dread ravages of yellow fever, the most strenuous and at times the most unreasonable, unnecessary and burdensome measures have been adopted, measures that not only tend to cripple and destroy business and commerce, but which reflected on the very instincts of our common community, and became a reproach to civilization itself. It is evident, therefore, that some uniform system of quarantine should be adopted that will allay the apprehension of the people and minimize the dangers resulting from an outbreak of this disease. This is necessary if we would save our land from the demoralizing and brutalizing tendencies of a panic-inspired quarantine.

"Again, there are coming into the United States at the present time larger numbers of foreign immigrants than ever before in our country's history. Among these are great masses who are wholly undesirable and whom it will be impossible to assimilate with our institutions. There is apparently a desire or tendency to bring many of these undesirable immigrants to southern ports, and also to distribute them from northern cities into the south.

"The south will welcome desirable immigrants from any and all lands, but it has already racial problems of such gravity that no others should be invited until proper safeguards are provided in advance of their coming.

"For the foregoing reasons, therefore the undersigned, having only the interests and welfare of the south at heart, hereby issue this, our call for a southern conference on immigration and quarantine to be held in the city of Chattanooga, Tenn., on November 9 and 10, 1905, and we designate the following persons as those expected to compose and participate in this conference.

"Governors of the southern states, members of congress, commissioners of agriculture, mayors of cities; one representative from national, state, county or city boards of health; one representative from each railroad system, preferably the general immigration agent; the editor, publisher or proprietor of newspapers and not more than five representatives from each commercial organization in the south.

"All parties thus designated may consider themselves fully authorized under this call to aid in furthering its objects, and are requested to co-operate with us in making the same what it should be for the south.

"John I. Cox, governor of Tennessee; N. C. Blanchard, governor of Louisiana; Edwin Warfield, governor of Maryland; William M. O. Dawson, governor of West Virginia; A. J. Montague governor of Virginia; N. B. Broward governor of Florida; James K. Vardaman, governor of Mississippi; Joseph W. Folk, governor of Missouri; J. C. W. Beckham, governor of Kentucky; S. W. T. Lanham, governor of Texas; Joseph M. Terrell, governor of Georgia; Huntsville Chamber of Commerce, Frank J. Thompson, president; Alabama Commercial and Industrial Association, Charles P. Lane, president; Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce, Charles W. Olsen, president; Little Rock Board of Trade, George W. Rogers, president; Louisville Commercial Club, V. H. Enghord, president; New Orleans Progressive Union, Albert Godchaux, president; Mobile Commercial Club, J. P. Wilson, secretary; Jacksonville Board of Trade, C. E. Garner, president; Asheville Board of Trade, George S. Powell, president; Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, R. F. Maddox, president."

Has a Fire Inspector.

Huntsville, Ala.—An ordinance was adopted at the last meeting of the city council creating the office of fire inspector, and Mayor Blair has appointed Dr. C. B. Ashe to the position. Dr. Ashe is a prominent insurance man and is well acquainted with the requirements for the erection of houses to secure the lowest insurance. In future building permits are required before work is begun on any house in Sheffield.

Accidentally Shoots His Son.

Crowley, La.—C. Lebert Benoit, a prominent farmer living near Morse, accidentally shot and killed his son, Andrew Benoit. The elder Benoit had been practicing target shooting with a revolver on the porch of his house and was ejecting the shells from the chambers of the weapon when it was exploded, the ball striking the younger Benoit near the heart.

Shoots and Kills City Marshal.

Marlin, Tex.—Holland Dillard shot and killed City Marshal M. Coleman, a confederate veteran of sixty, who has been marshal for seventeen years. Dillard was in a buggy and fired one barrel of a shotgun, the load producing instant death. No cause has been assigned.

Claims to Be Cotton Picker.

Huntsville, Ala.—H. S. Weld, an insurance man, has made a bet that he can pick 400 pounds of cotton in a day. The best negro cotton pickers in Madison county only pick 200 pounds a day, but Mr. Weld has put up $100 that he can double this pick twice that much. The result of the wager will be watched with interest.

Forger Commits Suicide.

Houston, Tex.—August Becker, aged 65 years and feeble in health, was arrested on a charge of forgery, it being alleged that he realized $13. He committed suicide in his cell by taking poison. Once before he had been convicted of forgery, and was sent to the penitentiary.

Two Killed in Fight.

Anadarko, O. T.—Two men were killed and a third dangerously wounded at Oakley, a small town near here. The wounded man is a one-armed man named Roane Gonzales. His story is that the two men, who were strangers, came to his home and asked for work. When told there was no work, they demanded food and shelter. A fight ensued in which pocket knives and a big bowie knife were used. One of the strangers was killed outright with a stab in the heart.

Found Dead Sitting Upright on a Cot.

Salt Lake City—A Chinese woman called the police to the building at 53 Plum alley, where on the third floor the officers found a dead Chinese sitting bolt upright on a cot, while in the same room another Chinese who appeared to be insane had kindled a fire on the floor, apparently in an attempt to destroy the building.

On a floor below the police found Eddie Merode, a young white man, in a dying condition from what the police believe to be opium poisoning. His money, watch and chain were missing.

Wants Universal Peace.

St. Petersburg.—Emperor Nicholas Monday again appeared before the world as a promoter of universal peace. No sooner is the Russo-Japanese war over and even before the peace treaty has been ratified, than his majesty issues invitations to a second peace conference at The Hague.

That the emperor has done so was learned from a source which leaves no shadow of doubt as to its authenticity.

Big Fire in Nome.

Seattle, Wash.—Sixty buildings were destroyed by fire at Nome, Alaska, on the night of September 3, causing a loss at close to $200,000. The city hall, a small building, was destroyed, but the records were saved. It is reported that the big stores of M. E. Atkinson and J. P. Parker were among those destroyed. No loss of life is reported.

Date Set for Poultry Show.

Huntsville, Ala.—The North Alabama Poultry and Pet Stock Association has selected December 5-8 as the dates for the annual poultry exhibition in this city, and it is expected that the show will be the best ever held by the association. The organization has succeeded in its purpose of arousing general interest in the breeding of fine poultry and there are more fine fowl in this section than ever before.

Woman Is Burned to Death.

Memphis, Tenn.—A woman who registered as Mrs. Brown at Miller, a small hotel on south Main street, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed that building Friday. Strenuous efforts were made to rescue the woman, but she was apparently crazed by fright and successfully resisted all attempts to take her from her room

JOKERS' BUDGET

THE COMICAL CONFLAGRATION.

Gentle Jane, when burned to death,
Murmured with her latest breath:
"Well, this is the greatest joke!
All my plans must end in smoke."
Sunday Magazine.

BREAKFAST FOOD.

"What sort of breakfast food do you like, Mr. Newcome?" asked Mrs. Starvem on his first morning in her house.

"Well, ma'am," replied the new boarder, "I wouldn't mind some tenderloin steak, a couple o' poached eggs on toast, lamb chops, hot muffins, coffee and cantaloupe."—Philadelphia Press.

ITS MEANING.

"Papa, what is the meaning of the expression, 'animated bustle?'"

"Where did you see it used?"

"This story says: 'At the picnic there was all at once an animated bustle.'"

"Oh, some one undoubtedly sat on an ant hill."—Houston Post.

PERFECTLY CLEAR NOW.

The Rev. Dr. Fourthly—There are apparent difficulties, of course, in reconciling the seemingly contradictory doctrines of foreordination and free will, but——

The Rev. K. Mowatt Laightly—Not now, my dear brother; not now. I made all that as clear as noonday in a sermon I preached six weeks ago.—Chicago Tribune.

"IN ADAM'S FALL."

Sunday-school Teacher—Now, children, was Adam very happy in the Garden of Eden?

Chorus of Pupils—Yessum!

Teacher—And what great misfortune happened which ended his happiness?

Chorus—The Lord made 'im a wife!—Cleveland Leader.

HER THOUGHTLESS MOTHER.

"Jane says she'll never forgive her mother for marrying again."

"And why not?"

"Because her stepfather can't help giving her age away. Everybody knows he isn't as old as she is."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

JUST THE BOY FOR HIM.

Mr. Goodman—James, the gentleman you gave as reference tells me you're not very truthful.

Jimmy (the office boy)—Well, say, yer sich a truthful guy yer'll need an able-bodied liar like me about der place."—Philadelphia Press.

OVERHEARD ON THE BEACH.

"Maw, is Mr. Gouger the man what keeps our hotel?"

"Yes, dear."

"An' they call him the proprietor, don't they ma?"

"Yes, my child."

"Why do they call him a proprietor, ma?"

"Out of politeness, my son. To call him a highwayman would not sound nice."

SKINNY SARAH.

"Sarah's mother goes in for fads a good deal."

"Yes?"

"And Sarah's father goes in for scads."

"And what does Sarah go in for?"

"Oh, she goes in for pads."

NO WONDER.

Gray—Terrible storm we had last evening, wasn't it? Thundered loud enough to wake the dead.

Smith—So? I didn't hear it.

Gray—Didn't hear it! Why, man, where were you?

Smith—At home. An old schoolmate of my wife that she hadn't seen for years spent the evening at our house.—Chicago News.

KEEPS HIM HANDY.

He—Who is that severe looking party that is shadowing Miss Passay? Is he a private detective?

She—No; he is a minister. She says three men have slipped through her fingers in the last year, and the next one that proposes is going to be nailed on the spot!—Detroit Free Press.

INFORMATION WANTED.

"Jane," said the mistress to the new girl, "you must not forget to put the mackerel to soak for breakfast."

"All right, mum," replied Jane. "What pawnbroker kin I soak 'em with, mum?"—Detroit Tribune.

LOGICAL DEDUCTION.

"So you think I play the fool more than I did six months ago, eh?" said the husband. "How do you figure it out?"

"I think it must be due to the fact that the days are longer now," answered the better half of the combine.—Columbus Dispatch.

ALL ON HIM.

"Look here!" remarked the thrifty man to his extravagant wife, "you're carrying too much sail, my lady."

"I don't know why you should bother about that," she retorted.

"No?" said he. "I think I should, since I have to raise the wind."—Catholic Standard and Times.

To test for cake, white paper should turn yellow in five minutes, if the oven is the right temperature.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. DR. C. GEORGE CURRIE.

Subject: Growth.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. C. George Currie, D. D., preached in Holy Trinity Church Sunday morning to the congregations of Holy Trinity and St. Ann's. Dr. Currie's subject was "Growth," and he selected for his text II. Corinthians, v:4: "Not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon." He said:

These words of the epistle express the important principle that wherever there is vitality life not only adds to itself continually, but at the same time never throws away, never entirely loses the essential elements that it has once succeeded in acquiring. That is to say, that all the time that life is putting on raiment, as it were, or being "clothed upon"—say, in the flowers, or bush or insect or man, for that part—all that time it keeps the essentials of whatsoever it has invested itself with. And it is never perfectly unclothed of its fundamental gains; "not unclothed but clothed upon." These principles hold good in relation to life of every kind and under all conditions. It is one of the great keys of nature that have been furnished to us, and its universality springs from the fact that the universe is fundamentally similar in all its parts. I mean to say that the universe is constituted in such a manner that the different plans of being, the physical, the intellectual, the moral, the spiritual, all correspond to one another. So that whatsoever is true in one is true in all of them. Mankind, in fact, has an instinct to that effect. Our ordinary words that we use in talking, for instance, for physical things are mostly the same as those used for intellectual or spiritual things. The word, "right" means straight, and "straight" is constantly used by us in a moral sense; the word "wrong" means twisted or corrupt, and "corrupt" often means dishonest. The things that are seen are, that is to say, divinely created pictures of the things that are not seen; and it is a great satisfaction that we can have a trustworthy picture of spiritual things that we can see. Our blessed Lord talked in parables, not because parables are simple, but because the truths expressed by parables (as the loaf of bread or the raiment or the water from the well, or the sparrow having his food prepared for him, or the lily getting its raiment without worrying about it) are not merely physical truths—you must not fall into that blunder—they are truths that reach all the way up through all the plans to the eternal kingdom. Our Lord talked in that way because He saw the whole of the plan, from the top to the bottom, and He talked in no other way to the people at large: "without a parable spake He not unto them." The plans, intellectual, moral and spiritual, are represented in the physical, and all of them are fundamentally alike. That is why He talked in parables.

Now come back to the general principle before us, "not unclothed, but clothed upon," and let us see to it that we have the physical and material idea distinctly in our heads. Here, for instance, is the stump of a tree with the different rings of wood of which it is composed. Year by year the tree has put on new growth, which you can see in the successive rings. But all the time that it has been putting on the new rings it has never completely let go of the old ones, and the first ring of all is right in the centre all the time. Let me give the little folk a simple illustration, that they may take it away with them. Children, you turn an apple on its side. Cut it down in the centre through and through. Then you have two halves, have you not? Well, cut off from either half a slice, very thin, the thinner you cut it the better. Then hold the slice up to the light. Now, what do you see? You see in the centre, distinctly, the dark outline of the original blossom that was on the apple tree in the springtime.

Now, take some examples of this principle. There is the Bible, for instance. It is a living book. I mean by that it was not flung down from the sky, like a meteorite, so as to land like Joseph Smith's Bible somewhere in a valley all made up and ready. It did not come that way; but it grew in the world like an oak or pine tree; and, according to what the Saviour says about the Holy Ghost continually teaching in the word in successive ages, the Bible, which is God's truth or the word of God, is, in a manner, still growing. Do you know that? It is coming out in parts. It is life from beginning to end. It unfolds, not a single period of man's history only, but successive stages in the growth of the human mind. Therefore it contains, like a tree, successive rings, as it were, greatly contrasted one with another, widely differing one from another. In one ring, so to speak, it is "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." Literally, exact justice. In another ring it is, "If a man strike thee on the one cheek turn to him the other also." In the one ring, vengeance; in the other, no vengeance. The Bible, as I said, thus unfolds to us successive ages in the spiritual growth of man. Some of its stages, or rings, such as polygamy, we have left behind us long ago; some we have not yet reached. The Sermon on the Mount especially stretches out and away to the future perfection of the race, when a nation like Russia will be an impossibility. At the present time, you know, all nations take brute animals for their representative coat of arms, because they all have the brute in them. The time will come when the bear and the lion and the bird of prey shall all be ground out of humanity, and the work be fulfilled when he that is struck on one cheek will turn the other also, and the race will become, as it never has become, Christian. And yet whatsoever has been true remains true forever.

While the Bible gives us the story of the Gospel, it continues to retain the law in the Book of Deuteronomy. Calvary does not blot out Sinai. They are related to one another. You must know the law before you can know the Gospel. You often hear of people being extremely willing to forgive. What is their forgiveness worth? It is not worth anything, because they have never suffered from the indignant wrath of a just and noble anger. No, forgiveness is not worth anything except where the anger restrained is the ring inside of it. Another thing, God continues to clothe mankind, as He did at the first. He clothes the human race with ideas. Where do you think the ideas come from? Did man produce them? They come from outside, my friends. Or, rather, from the God, who is within us, and inspires the whole. He clothes the human race with ideas. You open the wardrobe, as it were, and there, hanging up, so to speak, are Genesis and Judges and Jeremiah and Isaiah and the Gospels, the successive garments for man's successive mental purpose—the child's clothing, the boy's clothing, the young man's clothing, the matured clothing, the perfectness of the fulness of stature, as in the Beatitudes, here and there, in Epistles, in the Apocalypse, but above all in the deep mystical sense of the Bible all through—the true mystics, that we do not get from hearsay, that we know by intuition, but which, of course, to the mass of men are absolutely unknown and invisible. So far as the Bible is concerned the principle is true, "not unclothed, but clothed upon?"

You cannot make anything grow that has not roots. It is curious, but you cannot. Whatsoever it is sooner or later it will wither. In order to grow it has got to grow out of something. Ideas are precisely like plants. As I told you, all the plants of the universe are alike; growing things are all alike, whether ideas or anything else. It is of absolute necessity that they shall have roots. Thus, for example, love, joy, peace, gentleness, goodness, truth are ideas. Nobody can complain of them, but of what conceivable use would it be to stand on a pillar and call out to mankind, "Be loving, be joyous, be peaceful, be gentle and good and true," if you had nothing more to say to them than that? What conceivable purchase would those principles have in the world without the spiritual reasons out of which they grow and on which they depend, namely, the facts of living religion? The blunder of planting ideas without roots is as old as the hills. Every scholar, every student of history, is up to his knees, up to his chin, in withered sects, withered religions, withered kinks and notions of this and that sort, every one of which had a good side to it, but all of which have died for want of roots or continuous power—evolution. I do not like that word, but we will use it now.

Now, as opposed to both of these people, those who give the world no new truth and those who give the world nothing but new truth. The Christian church at large represents the latest truths, as well as the first truths, and the first as well as the last. There is no fault to find with these new doctrines. Of course not. On the contrary. For instance, the dynamic power—that capital and most useful thing, the dynamic power of the forces of nature—a prayerful desire for the healing of the sick. All right. The power of altruism, sacrificed for the healing of the sins of society: All right. My good friends, they are plucked straight from the branches of the tree of the gospel. There is no fault to find with these. On the contrary, it is for the sake of their production that we insist that they be taken in connection with the tree that has grown them—Jesus Christ and His sacrifice from which they sprang. Every institution springs from some root or other. There is the font at the door of the church. Well, it represents baptism, and somebody says it is a good thing to have a conventional symbol of purity or improvement. But do you suppose it would be there at all if it were only a conventional symbol of purity or improvement? Why, my friend, that font reaches down and down through all the strata of history; through the darkness of the Middle Ages, down to the first Christian centuries; down to Jewish rites; down to the ancient pagan and prophetic mysteries; all of which had their thought, or what answers to it, under the direction of Him who lighted, not merely Jews and Christians, but "every man that cometh into the world."

This baptism is a reality in the universe forever, because it lives by its roots. I might prove the same thing, if I had time, with regard to the cross or the altar, which goes down through the centuries, back to time and space before the foundation of the world. These, with other Christian doctrines, illustrate the Divine method, which is continual progress without any loss. In other words, as the apostle says, "not unclothed, but clothed upon." The principle is equally true of ourselves and our whole existence, for apparently there is never a real break in the progress of humanity. The Christian is never ripe, he is always ripening. Even in the moment of death he is still growing. Obscurely, but just as steadily as when he was a babe. When passing by death through the blessed gate like the new-born infant he is being "clothed upon" with new senses, new power and understanding, new ways of looking at things, so that having died, as we call it, he stretches out the arms and limbs of his being and is "clothed upon" like a tree in springtime. Life is worth living. Aye, indeed, it is. Don't you ever imagine for a minute that it is not. Life is worth living to a degree you have no conception of because the glory that is coming upon us, that is to be put upon us, may be measured, by the highest standard the world has ever seen, the sacrifice of the Lord Jesus Christ. Nothing is ever lost; it would be contrary to the laws of nature to suppose such a thing, but it is glorified to a degree that passes understanding to conceive: "Not unclothed, but clothed upon."

The Cross.

Was it not Tyndall who said he would go insane in an hour if he were not assured of the existence of a wise, over-ruling Power in the universe? How immeasurably more steadying is the assurance of the Christian that the cross of Christ reveals the mind of God! Life is inexplicable, if only power rules.

One of England's chapels is an architectural blur when one first enters it. But a verger soon tells the visitor to take his stand on a blood-red cross that is in the centre, and looking down this arm of the cross he sees a beautiful picture, and down that still another bit of harmony. The four arms point to wonderful representations of events in the life of the Son of Man. Only from that cross may the pictures be seen in their true perspective. Only a Christo-centric faith can see life as a plan, and solve its enigmas.—Pacific Baptist.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 24.

Review of the Lessons For the Third Quarter of the Year—Read Psa. [illegible]—Golden Text, Psa. [illegible]—The Summaries.

Lesson I. Topic: God's protection of His people. Place: Jerusalem and the Assyrian camp. Hezekiah was King of Judah and Sennacherib of Assyria. At this time Assyria was a great and powerful country, and at the height of its power. It was a mighty nation of warriors. Nothing could stand before the Assyrian host. They swept over the country leaving desolation and death behind them. Their king sent abusive letters to Hezekiah to affright him. Hezekiah and the prophet Isaiah prayed and God destroyed their enemies.

II. Topic: Study of an Old Testament prayer. Place: Jerusalem. Great suffering and sickness came upon Hezekiah, King of Judah. The prophet Isaiah saw that death was the inevitable result of such sickness only as God interposed. Then it was that Hezekiah asked for added years, and received promise of fifteen years more.

III. Topic: The suffering, atoning Saviour. Place: Jerusalem, the prophet Isaiah's home. This is the deepest and loftiest of the Old Testament prophecies, and points clearly and definitely to the atonement. The life and mission of Christ is related in few words embracing humiliation, suffering, atonement and exaltation. The main thought is that the Servant is to be the instrument in establishing the true religion, by removing the burden of guilt and bringing many to righteousness.

IV. Topic: The gospel's gracious call. Place: Jerusalem. Regardless of the mean opinions of men and their lack of faith in the Saviour a magnificent kingdom was founded, and to it invitation and joyous welcome is extended. Jehovah's thoughts transcend those of man as much as the heaven is higher than the earth. The thoughts and ways of Jehovah are His purposes of redemption.

V. Topic: Chapters in a sinful life. Place: The kingdom of Judah, particularly the capital, Jerusalem. The faithful Hezekiah closed his life, leaving his son Manasseh to reign in Judah. By him the good work of reform was worse than undone; the people went into the lowest depths of wickedness. In his mature years Manasseh was made to feel the rod of affliction which led him to repentance. Then he sought to repair some of the evils.

VI. Topic: Vital factors in a successful life. Place: Jerusalem and Judah. Manasseh's effort to reform his kingdom did not produce much fruit. His son Amon disregarded this effort on the part of his father, and led people on in idolatry for two years, when he was slain by his servants in his own house. Then his youthful son Josiah came to the throne. He made earnest work of destroying idol worship and of repairing the house of the Lord.

VII. Topic: Purpose and mission of the Bible. Place: Jerusalem. With the neglect of the temple the people had been without the book of the law. In repairing the temple this book was found and brought before the king. He was greatly moved because of the fearful disobedience of the people, and the awful curse of God which was pronounced upon the very sins Judah had committed. He at once sought to know what the Lord would say unto them. The promise to him was that the curse should not come upon the people during his life.

VIII. Topic: Trying to destroy God's word. Place: Jerusalem. At the death of Josiah his son, Jehoahaz reigned three months in Judah. He was taken by Necho to Egypt, and his brother Jehoiakim was made king. He reigned eleven years and did evil in the sight of the Lord. In the fourth year of his reign he burned the Book of the Law. The Lord directed the prophet Jeremiah to write another. In this were more warnings to the people. The king was slain, his kingdom destroyed and his son carried in chains into Babylon.

IX. Topic: Persecution of the righteous. Place: Jerusalem. The kingdom of Judah was fast hastening to its end. The judgments of God were about to fall upon the people. Jeremiah, the prophet, was almost alone in standing for the right, and his life was in constant danger. His was a mission requiring courage, faith, strength, will.

X. Topic: Decline and fall of the kingdom. Place: Jerusalem. Zedekiah was the twentieth and last King of Judah. He took no warnings from the judgments of God which had fallen upon the people before his reign. He despised the warnings of the prophet Jeremiah, and mocked the messengers of God. Then the city was taken by the Babylonians. The house of God was burned, the wall about the city broken down, the palaces were burned and the vessels from the temple were carried to Babylon. The sons of Zedekiah were slain before his eyes, and then his own eyes were put out, and he was carried captive to Babylon.

XI. Topic: Vision of the glorious gospel. Place: Babylon. Ezekiel was among the captives carried to Babylon in the second siege against Jerusalem. But God gave him visions of the future and how He would bless His people. Ezekiel prophesied for twenty-two years. His prophecies were a great encouragement.

XII. Topic: The study of a godly young man. Place: Babylon. Here we learn of the beginning of the captivity of Judah. Babylon was at this time in the zenith of its power, ruling all Western Asia and extending its authority to the river of Egypt. Daniel was among the captives of the first siege against Jerusalem. He was then about twelve years old. He lived through the seventy years of captivity.

Veterans of the U. S. A.

Huntingdon, Tenn.—Companies 6 and 7, U. S. A., held a reunion here. The attendance was estimated at 2,000, which included veterans and their friends. The firing of a cannon proclaimed the fact that a big time might be expected. A barbecue dinner was served near the spring and Hon. S. W. Hawkins and others made speeches. Many Confederate soldiers were also present.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

An extraordinary number of communications have come in this week, some of whicd we are obliged to carry over to next issue. It looks as if we should be compelled to further enlarge The Banner.

Two ears of corn were brought into The Banner office last Saturday by Mr. I. O. Retherford, raised by Mr. Jeff Stevens, eight miles northeast of Clanton. The largest ear measures 10 inches in length and 11½ circumference. One ear weighed 3 pounds when it was pulled. Mr. Retherford says it only takes 48 of these ears to the bushel. Good corn for Chilton!

The Alabama State Fair and Exhibit Association is a corporation composed of over 140 representative business men as stockholders. The Fair grounds are four miles west of Birmingham, at Fairview, on the Ensley and Bessemer electric lines. Transportation facilities for reaching the grounds are first class. The Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company guarantees to furnish ten minute service to and from the grounds, with an adequate supply of large cars, every three minutes during the progress of the fair.

Every farmer and stock raiser in the State of Alabama should feel a special interest in the State Fair, and each and everyone should prepare an exhibit—someting of his own production, where he can compete in friendly rivalry with the farmers of his own and surrounding States. Ample provision for displaying household products of all kinds have been made, and the ladies are especially invited to exhibit their preserves, fruits, frabrics and art goods.

The Woman's Department will be in charge of Mrs. John B. Reid, a well known Alabama lady, who has had much experience in this this work.

FIRE AT CLANTON.

Shortly before 2 o'clock last Saturday morning fire was discovered in the workshops of Duke Bros., and had obtained such mastery it was impossible to get near the building. Added to this was the danger of explosion, some seventy gallons of gasoline being in the tank that supplied the 16 horse-power engine, which finally went off with a roar. The Duke Bros. lost all their machinery—planer, rip saw, band saw, edger, lathes, forges, etc., as well as a large quantity of finishing lumber and other material. The building and contents were insured, it is said, for $2400, but this does not cover the loss. They are already talking of rebuilding and making another start, and it is much to be hoped they will do so as this was one of our very few flourishing industrial concerns and its loss would be a severe blow to the town.

Attacked By a Mob

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch, of Tekonsha, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Verbena, Sept. 11, 1905

Editor Banner—The latest news here about is Frank Pinkston stepped into the Laredo National Bank of Laredo, Texas, on Aug. 31st and said his name was F. A. Gulledge. Drew a check in my name and tried to get it cashed, he failed, got arrested and is now in jail at Laredo, so says letter from Bank under date of Sept. 8th. They also enclosing me three snap shots of him which was freely recognized here. As soon as Texas bank wired me I ordered his arrest. Now, this young man, while of splendid family, never in his life knew the value of a dollar. Had never earned but few and those few have gone for cigarettes, whiskey and other bad habits, and is a striking case of the necessity of teaching and requiring at least some knowledge of work at the hands of the young and rising generation, for it is just like a fellow said to me once that a good mule was just like a good feeling boy, if you don't require him to do something good he will do something mean, and so it is, and there is no telling what he has done that has not yet come to light. Then he is charged with forgery in three or four cases in Alabama within the last year. It has been said that this is not the only check he has drawn to which he has affixed the signature of F. A. Gulledge, and it is predicted by some, and the circumstances indicate it, that he has one or more pals in or near Verbena, for had it not been that my contemplated trip to the West had been delayed by sickness and otherwise, he would probably have been successful in his efforts at forgery with the Texas bank, and I take the liberty to charge someone here about with posting him as to the trip I expected to take West about Aug. 20th to 30th. He therefore conceived the idea that he could check in my name while I was lost to my home folks and thereby be successful. So I trust that even the good young men of our country will take this as an object lesson, as he was considered by all a model youth up to 18 years of age. Now see what an idle head, coupled with bad association has brought him to, and I fear more will follow in his footsteps unless they are made to find honest employment. Verbena and its people have supported enough able bodied young white and black men in absolute idleness this year to have made one hundred bales of cotton. We have a vagrant law on the Alabama statute books and it should be executed to the letter irrespective or color.

But going back to F. C. Pinkston, I will suggest that for a man to take upon himself the name of "Mr. Pertiller" or F. A. Gulledge, don't know if he ought not to have good pay for it.

Well, the fall is coming on, it is time to gather and market the cotton crop, and the man or set of men who runs over each other to see who can sell all his cotton is in his own light, that is if there is anything to come of the efforts of the Southern Cotton Association which has made such efforts in behalf of the Southern farmers. I still insist that each farmer if he will go to his creditor and arrange to do so can sell one tenth of his cotton each month from now till July, 1906, thereby causing no rush on the market. He economizes both time and money and will get enough additional price to more than double the amount of interest he would have to pay, besides it would cause him to save his money crop to spend at a time (next year) when he would need it most. This is my solution of the matter and I believe I am right. We need just so much or a certain amount of money for our cotton crop. We can get it if we have the grit to back up our demand, and the advancing merchant, banker or private money lender who will not help out in this cause is not acting in good faith by his people. Let us hear from someone else on this subject.

Remember, on the first Saturday in October we propose to have a rousing meeting of the County Association in Clanton, and we want every farmer as well as men of all other vocations to come out and let us reckon with each other, report our various crops, including cotton, how much we have sold and what effect the action of the Southern Cotton Associaton is having upon us.

F. A. Gulledge.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggist refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure any case, no matter of how long standing, 6 to 14 days. First application gives ease and rest. 50c. If your druggist hasn't it send 50c in stamps and it will be forwarded post paid by Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

A DAILY PAPER FREE.

Well, not exactly free, but the next thing to it. What do you think of this offer? The Banner and the CHICAGO NATIONAL DAILY REVIEW $1.50 A YEAR!

This offer is open for a limited time only. We can't tell how long we shall have an opportunity to give you such a bargain, so come early.

Pay up your arrearages and a year in advance, and for only 50 cents additional we send you a Daily Newspaper for one year. Think of it!

The Chicago National Daily Review is a phenomenal success. It is a four-page, seven-column paper printed in large type on good quality of paper. Started in January, 1905, it already has thousands of subscribers and it intends to add thousands more in the next few weeks by arrangements with the Banner and other newspapers, such as we have outlined above

The Chicago National Daily Review is published every week day in the year and contains all the news thats worth remembering. It has a complete market report, excellent reading matter for the family, condensed and readable reports of the world's news, and every day gives its readers a Magazine Article by one of the high-class special writers on its staff.

Remember that the regular price of the Chicago National Daily Review is One Dollar per year. For a limited time only, all new subscribers to the Banner who pay a year in advance and all old subscribers who pay arrerages and a year in advance can get the Review for only 50 cents additional.

Don't wait; now is the time to get a Good Daily Newspaper for the smallest price ever offered.

PROGRAM

Chilton County Singing Convention, to be held with Concord church, two miles east of Clanton, Oct. 14 and 15, 1905.

Saturday, 10 a.m. Devotional exercise, J. J. Grant,

10;30. Welcome address, E. H. Mims. Response, R. D. Durham.

11. Song service, led by R. D. Durham.

12. Dinner.

1:30 p.m. Methods of teaching vocal music, J. L. Gore, James Franklin and J. B. Northcutt.

2:30. How may pastors help the singing teacher? G. W. Gothard, W. A. Mims.

3:30. Business of convention.

Sunday, 9:30 a.m. Devotional exercise, W. A. Mims.

The remainder of the day spent in singing. Lovers of music are earnestly requested to attend.

Committee.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold or sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At Upchurch Drug co; 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Fairview.

Editor Banner. I wish to state in your valuable paper that the debate to be held at the Culp School House 23rd. inst., will be postponed until the 30th inst. Everybody is invited to come. A Subscriber.

If a Cow gave Butter mankind would have to invent milk. Milk is Nature's emulsion—butter put in shape for digestion. Cod liver oil is extremely nourishing, but it has to be emulsified before we can digest it.

Scott's Emulsion

combines the best oil with the valuable hypophosphites so that it is easy to digest and does far more good than the oil alone could. That makes Scott's Emulsion the most strengthening, nourishing food-medicine in the world.

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists
409-415 Pearl Street New York
50c. and $1.00. All druggists

I'm Growing Old Fast

And you know why, too. It's those gray hairs! Don't you know that Ayer's Hair Vigor restores color to gray hair? Well, it does. And it never fails, either. It stops falling hair also, and keeps the scalp clean and healthy. Do not grow old too fast!

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for many years and I should indeed be sorry to be obliged to do without it. It keeps my hair from turning gray, and also keeps my scalp clean and healthy."—E. S. Penfield, Canyon City, Oregon.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. CHERRY PECTORAL.

Teachers' Institute at Mulberry.

On Friday morning, Sept. 16, at 10:30, the Institute was called to order by Supt. J. W. Moore. Devotional services were conducted by Prof. Weaver.

Prof. G. L. Speer, voicing the sentiment of the community, welcomed the teachers there. Supt. Moore, as a representative of the teachers, responded to the welcome address.

Next in order was the enrollment of teachers. The following teachers were enrolled: C. J. Eiland, R. O. Leadley, R. E R. Hicks, J. W. Moore, John D. Morris, Miss Jessie McGhee, J. M. Parrish, Miss Janie Roebuck, Miss Etta Roper, W. B. Speer, G. L. Speer, Miss Gatie Sims, J. T. Williams, G. A. Weaver, Jerome Williams and Miss Zella Mims.

Teachers, who were on the program for the forenoon, being absent, the work of the afternoon was entered into. Miss Janie Roebuck read an excellent paper on "Value of school entertainments." Subject was also discussed by others. A recess of two hours was given during which time all were refreshed by a bounteous dinner and such cold drinks as are found bubbling up from beneath a beech nearby.

In the afternoon Prof. Hicks gave an able discussion of "Ends to be accomplished by Teachers' Institutes."

The question of discipline was discussed by Hicks, Weaver, Moore and others. Institute adjourned until Saturday.

At 9:45 Saturday morning devotional exercises were conducted by J. T. Williams.

Prof. W. B. Speer and Miss Etta Roper gave interesting and instructive talks on "How may patrons help their teacher."

"Requisites to successful teaching" was skillfully discussed by one of much experience and close observation—Prof. Weaver.

The Institute was honored by the presence of our beloved Hon. Sydney J. Bowie. For about one hour and thirty minutes he held the audience almost spell-bound by a learned and eloquent address on local taxation and better schools. Adjourned for dinner.

It was decided in the afternoon session that the next Institute will meet Autauga county in a joint Institute at Billingsley.

Committee on resolutions made the following report: Whereas the people of Isabella District have shown their kindness and hospitality to the teachers of Chilton county, met in an Institute at Mulberry church, have so cordially welcomed us to their homes, and entertained us so royally, Be it resolved 1st, that we the teachers of this Institute extend to them our thanks and appreciation for this hospitality. 2d, That the thanks of this Institute are due Hon. Sydney J. Bowie for his able and earnest address on the subject of local taxation. 3d, That Mr. Bowie has voiced the sentiments of this Institute on this important question. 4th, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this Institute.

The Institute was entertained for a few minutes by some humorous recitations by Prof. Weaver. A unanimous rising vote of thanks was given him for the recitations and his earnest work with us.

Numerous and Worthless

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Disc

Liberal long time loans on Im Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Pr ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on ton being held now, either on farms warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, AL

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00
Wilson Whiskey	85
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the b

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - - A

WELLS Bored and Dri

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water W
CLANTON, ALA.

PATTILLO BROS.
MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN
YELLOW PINE LUMBE

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Fl ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at V na. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be satis to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, Ala

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and Ce stock for the Clanton trade.

Always Remember the Full Na
Laxative Bromo Quini
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in T
E. W. Grove on Box. 25c.

Job Printing cheap at THE BA

VOL. XIII Magazi

MODERN CLIFF DWELLERS.

THE SKY SCRAPERS OF BIG CITIES TAKING PLACE OF HOMES.

Not Only Used for Office Buildings, But Occupied by Thousands of Families.

When the United States Consul in Europe says to his visiting countryman, "Come over to my house this afternoon and have a cup of tea with us," the latter makes a careful memorandum of the address, and towards five o'clock goes out in search of an unpretentious dwelling such as the modest salary of a consul might warrant. What he finds at the address given him is a big square building, into which he is admitted by an unseen porter, and the innumerable stairs of which he climbs, examining brass doorplates at every landing, until at last he comes to the apartment of his host.

Mr. W. J. Bryan, on his recent trip abroad, finding one of our Ambassadors similarly lodged, the only difference being the increased rental, inveighed against it as being un-American. He wanted to know why a nice American home wasn't provided—such a house as would give the unlucky foreigner some idea of how we live in America. Mr. Bryan overlooked the fact that in our own big cities his "ideal American home" is rapidly disappearing, and that long before our metropolis is one-tenth the age of the European capitals, increase of population and greater need for economy will have rendered unattainable the modest individual home, and will have driven city dwellers together under one roof in apartment houses whose size is limited only by the confines of the block and the building laws regulating height.

Private Homes Disappearing.

Twenty-five years ago the New Yorker who possessed an annual income of $10,000 lived in his own house and kept a carriage. The New Yorker of to-day with only $10,000 a year rents an apartment for the mere rent of which he expects to pay not less than $1,800, and he cannot afford a carriage. The trouble is that on the island of Manhattan there is not room for its millions to live in the old-fashioned way, and the cost of living has increased enormously.

They must suspend their dwellings high above the ground, every foot of which is worth a king's ransom. There is no room for the stately homes of revolutionary days—they are swept away for the warehouses of great mercantile companies. There is no room for the smaller brick houses of the past generation—their fronts are pulled off and replaced with the immense plate glass windows of the "exclusive importers." There is no room for churches—they are torn down to make space for annexes to the mammoth apartment houses.

New York, which offers the best example of the metamorphosis, is, of course, the most un-American of American cities. The Italian walking up from the Battery finds himself at home; here are the high tenements of Naples, Genoa, Venice. The Austrian and the Hungarian land among familiar surroundings; here are the square-built palaces of Vienna and Budapest. The Russian suffers no homesickness; here are the narrow streets of St. Petersburg and Moscow. Only the native American, with his lungs full of country air, and his mind filled with the picture of sunny, cottage-lined village streets, stifles in the dust and noxious gases, gapes wonder-struck at the sky-scrapers.

GRAMERCY PARK, NEW YORK CIT
SAMUEL J. TILDEN, JOHN BIGE
AMERICANS SHOWN ON TH
WAY TO ADDITIONAL TOW

Fit Only for Paupers and Millionaires

It is these new comers, too, who do their share toward changing the appearance of the city. Wherever they congregate, and the migratory impulse seems to carry them no further than the foreign sections of the cities in which they land, they make life intolerable for the American-born, and thus drive out the moderately prosperous from the less expensive localities, until it is only the paupers and the millionaires who can afford to live in New York.

Seven thousand dollars a year for an apartment in New York is not, by any means, the highest price. There are buildings on Fifth, Park, and Madison avenues between 59th and 110th streets [illegible] of the apartments rent [illegible] Yet, with the exception of Fifth avenue which runs [illegible] east side of Central Park, [illegible]

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIII Magazine Supplement CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No 49

MODERN CLIFF DWELLERS.

THE SKY SCRAPERS OF BIG CITIES TAKING PLACE OF HOMES.

Not Only Used for Office Buildings, But Occupied by Thousands of Families.

When [illegible] United States Consul in [illegible] visiting countryman, [illegible] house this afternoon [illegible] of tea with us," the [illegible] careful memorandum [illegible] towards five o'clock [illegible] of an unpretentious [illegible] the modest salary of [illegible] warrant. What he [illegible] address given him is a big [illegible] to which he is ad[illegible] porter, and the [illegible] of which he climbs, [illegible] doorplates at every landing [illegible] last he comes to the apartment [illegible] host.

Mr. W. J. Bryan on his recent trip abroad [illegible] one of our Ambassadors [illegible] lodged, the only difference [illegible] increased rental, in[illegible] as being un-American. He [illegible] to know why a nice American [illegible] wasn't provided—such a house [illegible] give the unlucky foreigner [illegible] idea of how we live in America. Mr. Bryan overlooked the fact that [illegible] our own big cities his "ideal American home" is rapidly disappearing [illegible] that long before our metropolis [illegible] one-tenth the age of the European capitals, increase of population and [illegible] need for economy will [illegible] unattainable the modest individual home, and will have driven [illegible] dwellers together under one roof in [illegible] apartment houses whose size is limited only by the confines of the block and the building laws regulating height.

Private Homes Disappearing.

Twenty-five years ago the New Yorker who possessed an annual income of $1[illegible] lived in his own house and kept a carriage. The New Yorker of today with only $10,000 a year hunts an apartment for the mere rent of which he expects to pay not less than $1[illegible] and he cannot afford a carriage. The trouble is that on the island of Manhattan there is not room for its millions to live in the old-fashioned way and the cost of living has increased enormously.

They must suspend their dwellings high above the ground, every foot of which is worth a king's ransom. There is no room for the stately homes of revolutionary days—they are swept away for the warehouses of great mercantile companies. There is no room for the smaller brick houses of the past generation; their fronts are pulled off and replaced with the immense plate glass windows of the "exclusive importers." There is no room for churches—they are torn down to make space for annexes to the mammoth apartment houses.

New York, which offers the best example of the metamorphosis, is, of course, the most un-American of American cities. The Italian walking up from the Battery finds himself at home, here are the high tenements of Naples or, at least, Venice. The Austrian and the Hungarian land among familiar surroundings; here are the square-built palaces of Vienna and Budapest. The Russian suffers no homesickness; here are the narrow streets of St. Petersburg and Moscow. Only the native American, with his lungs full of country air, and his mind filled with the picture of sunny, cottage-lined village streets, stifles in the dust and noxious gases, gapes wonder-struck at the sky-scrapers.

GRAMERCY PARK, NEW YORK CITY. HISTORIC RESIDENCES OF SAMUEL J. TILDEN, JOHN BIGELOW AND OTHER FAMOUS AMERICANS SHOWN ON THE RIGHT SOON TO GIVE WAY TO ADDITIONAL TOWERING SKY SCRAPERS.

Fit Only for Paupers and Millionaires

It is these new comers, too, who do their share toward changing the appearance of the city. Wherever they congregate and the migratory impulse seems to carry them no further than the foreign sections of the cities in which they land, they make life intolerable for the American-born, and thus drive out the moderately prosperous from the less expensive localities, until it is only the paupers and the millionaires who can afford to live in New York.

Seven thousand dollars a year for an apartment in New York is not, by any means, the highest price. There are buildings on Fifth, Park, and Madison avenues between 59th and 110th streets in which some of the apartments rent for $15,[illegible] a year. Yet, with the exception of Fifth avenue which runs along the east side of Central Park, these avenues are not particularly beautiful. The electric cars run on Madison avenue and it is a long block from the park. But it is on the "east side"—and fashionable. The third street beyond it is roaring day and night with the flight of the elevated trains, and beyond that lies one of the poorest sections of New York City, where the children swarm like ants.

West of Central Park, the apartment buildings are still bigger, not so exclusive, and the prices are lower. On Broadway, above Columbus Circle, or Fifty-ninth street, where the Park begins, a fairly comfortable seven-room apartment in one of the smaller buildings, without elevators, may be had for $100 a month and upward. In the bigger twelve and fifteen story structures, where the apartments range from eight to twelve rooms, rents run from $2,500 a year up to $4,000 or $5,000, at least. In the best known of these a creamy white fifteen-story building, adorned with innumerable grilled iron balconies painted green, one may secure a bachelor suite, consisting of parlor, bedroom and bath, unfurnished, for the mere pittance of $3,000 a year.

TRINITY, ST. PAUL AND OTHER NEW YORK CHURCHES ONCE SURROUNDED BY BEAUTIFUL HOMES ARE NOW OVERSHADOWED BY SKY SCRAPERS.

Tiny Hives for Homes.

On Riverside Drive rates are lower. The Drive is the most beautiful residence street in the city, but it is far from Fifth avenue, and the wind blowing in over five miles of bay and river is distressingly harsh during the winter. Here for $1,800 one may find an apartment comprising a parlor, a library (by courtesy so called), three bedrooms, bath, dining-room, pantry, servant's room and kitchen. All light rooms, the advertisement says. The dining-room is very pretty. . There is a big square alcove window, but coming up in front of it to darken the meal hours is another big steel and stone structure. The bedrooms look out over the city, but already the contractors are tearing down the neighboring houses and the blank white wall of still another giant hive will soon shut the air and light from the sleeping rooms.

Washington is a city of such magnificent distances that people who could otherwise afford to build in the suburbs are obliged to move into apartments in order to be near enough to their offices to insure punctuality in business hours. In addition, for some unaccountable reason, property even on the outskirts of the capital is by no means cheap.

Chicago has a passion for flat life and sky-scrapers. Even San Francisco, the city of shingles, is turning her streets into canyons of brick and mortar.

The American traveler who asks "why" of the monotonous streets of Berlin, Paris, Vienna, Madrid, that stretch between endless walls broken only by window or fantastic balcony, may find the answer in the changing character of his own cities—saving of space, money, time.

OPEN DOOR IN CHINA.

POLICY IS ASSURED AS RESULT OF RUSSIAN-JAPANESE WAR.

Statistics of the Year Indicate the Enormous Market Opened for American Goods in Manchuria.

With the close of the Russo-Japanese war the "open door" in Manchuria was assured for all time. Russia had told the world that she would see that the trade of Manchuria would be kept free to all nations alike, and that in the event of her victory the United States need never fear trade discriminations there. But while Russia has a traditional friendship for this country the policies of the nation do not inspire confidence that there will be no discrimination against our goods under any circumstances.

But with the victories of war declared in favor of Japan and with the present status of Manchuria fixed for all time in favor of Chinese sovereignty, the world is assured that there will be an open door there for the trade of all nations. To the United States, and especially for the states of the South, there should be a feeling of congratulation over this aspect of the situation, and the fruition of Secretary Hay's most cherished hopes.

Great Increase in Trade.

The trade of the United States with China has been going forward with bounding strides in recent years. The larger part of that trade is with Manchuria, which constitutes about one-tenth of Chinese territory and is located along her northern boundary line. About half of that trade is in cotton and the consumption of coarse cotton goods manufactured chiefly in the South is constantly increasing. The boycott of Chinese merchants is the only occurrence that has tended to hamper that trade, and it is expected that American tact will, in the near future, succeed in lifting the ban that has been placed on these goods which the Chinese want and which can be secured by them from this country cheaper than from anywhere else.

During July the United States sold to China goods worth about four millions of dollars. During that same month of the previous year the sales amounted to less than half of that value. During the seven months ending last July we sold to China over thirty-seven millions worth of goods, which was about four times the amount of our exports there during the same period of the previous year. Those figures indicate the rapidity of the trade advances that have been made by American manufacturers in China.

Manchurians Like American Goods.

The people of Manchuria, living in a cool climate, prefer the coarse and strong cotton weave that is turned out by the mills of the Southern states, while the inhabitants of the southern provinces buy the finer fabrics sent there from England. The American trade advantages that have been gained in China have done much to fire the imagination of the manufacturers of this country, who have long been told of the wonderful market that awaits American products of all kinds in China, but who have only recently had a demonstration of the nature of that market.

Not only is there established an "open door" in Manchuria, but the trade of all China is open to the nations of the world. The duty on goods entering China does not exceed five per cent. ad valorum, except on opium, which trade the Empire desires to discourage. On many articles the duty is less than five per cent. It is levied wholly for the purpose of raising revenue.

The Chinese Boycott.

But at the moment when the "open door" has been established officially in Manchuria the merchants themselves have determined to boycott American goods in retaliation for the exclusive policy toward the Chinese that has been adopted by the United States and for so long has been enforced. When the managers of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition invited China to send exhibits to the world's fair they did not dream that that act would result in trade disadvantages for America. The Chinese responded to the invitation liberally. Among those who came to attend the fair were many wealthy Chinese merchants and men of high standing at their homes. They may have heard of our laws from others, but when they came in contact with Uncle Sam's immigration agents they were humiliated by being treated in a manner they saw was not used toward men of any other race. They finally went home thoroughly mad. They were influential members of the great commercial guilds of China, and they stirred up such a feeling of dislike for the United States that it was not difficult for them to conduct a boycott against American goods and to extend it to all parts of the Empire.

Will Overcome Discrimination.

It is confidently believed in official circles that the diplomacy of the President will be adequate to the emergency in this case as it has been in others. Moreover, so long as superior American goods can be furnished at low prices, it is at the most a question of time when they will triumph. The boycott is not a matter that the Chinese Government can absolutely control, but it is believed the Government will do much to overcome its effects, and that in the near future the trade of the United States with the Chinese Empire will continue to grow at the same wonderful rate that has characterized in the past.

Japanese Reason for Success.

Baron Komura ascribes the success which Japan has had to a just cause, absolute honesty in the administration of her affairs, and extreme simplicity of life among the masses of her people.

STORY OF AN OLD LOVE.

The Romantic History of Two Sweethearts of the Long Ago Who Discovered Each Other Only to be Separated.

The echo of an old Virginia romance comes from Omaha, where Mrs. Lela Moir, of Lynchburg, Va., has been prostrated over the news that the sweetheart of her youth, whom she has not seen for half a century, but to whom she was en route to be married, had died suddenly, where the marriage was to have taken place upon her arrival.

Before the war, down in Lynchburg, Va., Lela Saunders was one of the belles, while Charlie Clay was one of the best "matches" in the country. The two had been sweethearts from their childhood and were engaged to be married. But a lovers' quarrel occurred and young Clay went West and never wrote home.

In 1862, Miss Saunders married, her husband leaving the following day for the war, and three months later his dead body was brought home.

Husband Was a Mason.

But her husband had been a Mason, and last February the Lynchburg Masonic lodge was asked by the Elmo lodge of Washington State to furnish information concerning Miss Lela Saunders. Shortly after, Mrs. Moir received a letter from the friend of her childhood, Charlie Clay.

He told of his wanderings through the West and his final settlement in the State of Washington, where fortune had favored him with great financial success. He had married, raised a family and had finally lost his wife.

But he had kept the memory of his Virginia sweetheart—his first love—and he had carried her photograph during the fifty years of his absence. He asked her to write. Mrs. Moir did write at once. She, too, had kept the photograph of young Clay which he had given to her when a boy. Further letters followed. She had no children, while all of Mr. Clay's children had homes of their own.

Forgot That They Grew Old.

Throughout the correspondence the two old people remembered each other as they were in their young days and from their photographs. Neither pictured the other as old—they were again the sweethearts of their youth. And then it was arranged that they should be married. Mrs. Moir, sixty-three years old, started West to meet her future husband. Reaching Omaha, she received two telegrams, one that he was very sick, and as she was preparing to hasten to his bedside, another came saying that he was dead. The old lady was stricken with grief and taken seriously ill. As soon as she is able to travel she will visit the grave of the man whom she says she has loved all her life.

Ben Butler and New Orleans.

From the Buffalo Express.

It would have done Ben Butler good if he could have lived to see the day when New Orleans would welcome Federal control of a yellow fever epidemic with such enthusiasm that the citizens themselves would raise by popular subscription the money to pay for it as was recently done. General Butler established Federal control of sanitation as of everything else in New Orleans during the war. He was roundly abused for it, but he proved the efficacy of cleanliness and strict quarantine in preventing yellow fever.

MRS. PAYNE WHITNEY, DAUGHTER OF LATE SECRETARY HAY.

LITERARY WORKS OF JOHN HAY

TO BE PUBLISHED BY HIS DAUGHTER

The country approves of John Hay's selection of his literary executor. The work of preparing the former statesman's papers for publication was bequeathed by him to his daughter, Mrs. Payne Whitney, who was Miss Helen Hay. She has inherited much of the high literary talent of her father and has been a frequent contributor to the leading periodicals of both prose and verse. It will be her pleasant duty to prepare for publication the many unprinted manuscripts from Mr. Hay's facile pen.

Mrs. Whitney's first published volume of her own was a collection of poems which appeared in 1898. Quite lately, and principally through the influence of her children, she has collected a series of charming stories for little folks. Many of these have attracted critical attention through their easily recognized smack of childhood's hours. As a possible explanation of how she was able to portray things so genuinely from the childish standpoint she has said that she has endeavored always when writing them to hark back to the scenes of her own childhood, and to assist her recollection and imagination she has thrown herself on the floor with pencil and tablet, getting as near actually as possible to the youngsters' point of view.

At the National Capital Miss Hay's true worth made her a great favorite, and both there and in London her learning, wide reading and ready sympathy with her father made her of great assistance to him in his work. Her husband, Mr. Payne Whitney, was a classmate of her brother, the late Adelbert Hay.

Danger in Door Knobs.

A dirty door-knob, says the "Lancet," is an obvious offense against sanitary principles. Constant contact with the hand means contamination sooner or later. It is conceivable that a dirty door-handle would convey disease, and there is thus ample reason why door handles should be kept as clean as possible.

THE PARCELS POST.

MOVEMENT TO SECURE ENACTMENT OF SUCH A LAW.

It Would Drive to the Wall all Local Stores. A Mooted Question Whether Mail Order Houses Are Real Benefits.

The "St. Paul Trade" sharply disagrees with Elbert Hubbard in his ideas of the value to the country of a parcels post system. Mr. Hubbard writes convincingly in the "Philistine" that the parcels post would be a splendid thing for the country at large, but the "St. Paul Trade" affirms that such a system would result in an enormous concentration and congestion of business in the few large cities which would entirely drive out of business not only the small merchant, but even the department stores. The "Trade" says:

"The great mail order houses of the country, selling direct to the customer, are behind a manufacturing organization which has started at work an 'endless chain' scheme to secure the united support of the manufacturers and wholesalers of the entire country for an amendment to the postal laws, providing for two classes of mail matter, one, the first class, to consist of letter postage at one cent, and the second class to consist of all other classes of mailable matter at a rate just sufficient to pay expenses.

Country Merchants Forced Out.

"This means," continues the Trade, "brought down to bare facts, a parcels post. It means that the big mail order houses will be enabled to send their goods to farmers through the mails at a cost so little that it will be absolutely impossible for the country merchant to compete.

"The result will be one or more big department stores, according to the size of the place, in each town in country districts, and these will have a hard time to compete with the mail order houses, even though they will be able to get their goods in large quantities at first hand.

"It is, therefore, at once apparent that it is as much to the interest of the manufacturer and wholesaler to fight the parcels post scheme as it is for the small merchant."

Are the Catalogue Houses Advantageous

While the mail order houses can do a large business in every section where they can get in touch with the customers, it is, however, a much discussed question whether they are a real benefit to the country. They can sell cheaper than local merchants, and if orders are combined and wisely placed they usually do enough so to more than pay the cost to the purchaser of the express or freight. But, on the other hand, things must be ordered from catalogues; there is always more or less disappointment upon their arrival, since there is no opportunity for a choice, and it seems practically impossible for the average family to look over one of these illustrated catalogues and send in an order without buying a number of articles not in the least needed, simply because they seem to be bargains.

Heading Off Lotteries.

Information has been received at the Post Office Department alleging that lottery ticket selling is again flourishing in the United States, which has led to an investigation and recommendation of a fraud order against E. Bogelsang, of Hamburg, Germany, who is stated to be conducting in the United States the Hamburg State Lottery, the Brunswick State Lottery and the Hessian State Lottery. Circulars intercepted at the New York Post Office, apparently mailed at Hamburg, solicit remittances for ticket drawings in the above lotteries and direct that remittances be made to Bogelsang, at Hamburg.

Corks Made From Oil.

From the Washington Post.

The Mellons, Pittsburg bankers, started an opposition to the Standard Oil Trust, and were promptly plugged.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated
by Ernest
Haskell

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

13TH THOUSAND
ALREADY

All Bookstores,
$1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion." —St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs: I inclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy "The Missourian."
Name
Address

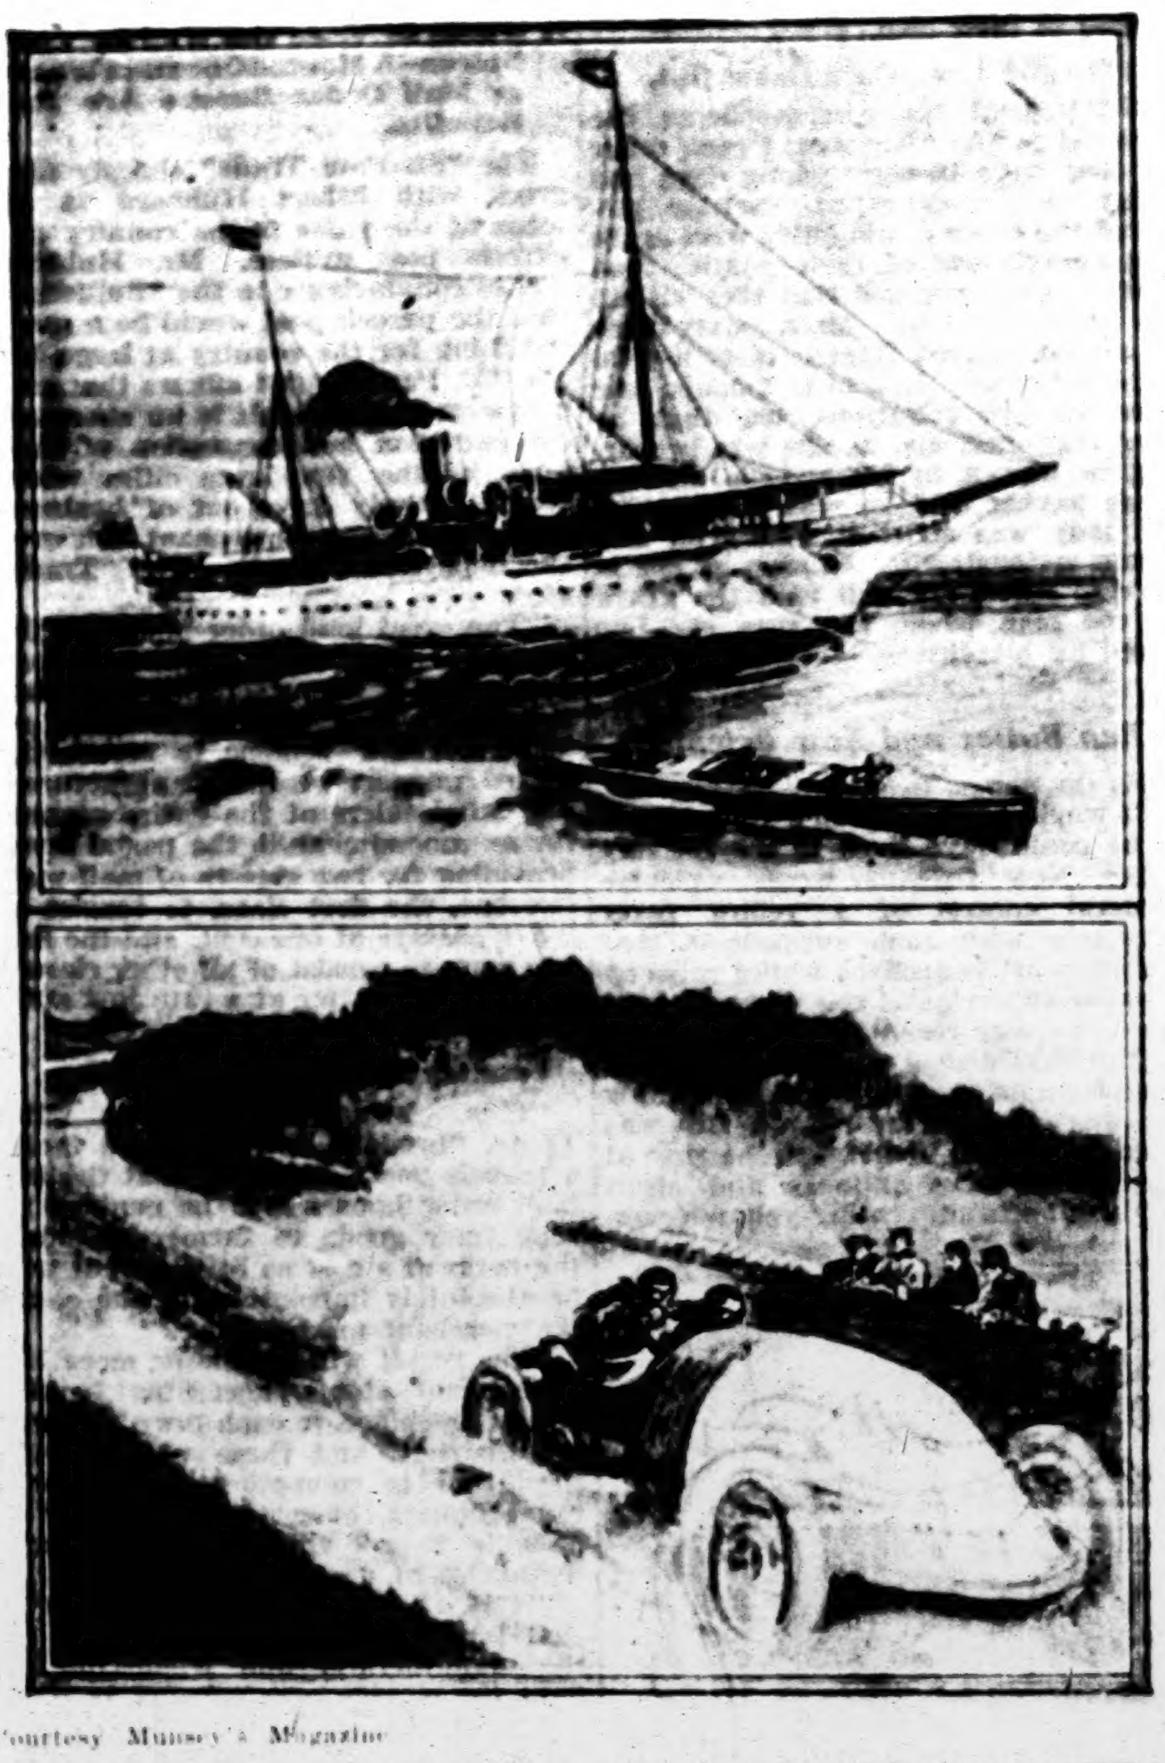
HOW THE WORLD TRAVELS FOR PLEASURE.

Great Improvement in Construction Since Early Days of the Velocipede and Bicycle.

Million Of Dollars Expended Annually Upon Various Kinds of Pleasure Machines. Their Use Leads up to Useful Forms.

Man, by nature one of the slowest of the animals, has an inclination for swiftness. Every second which he can cut down in the time of traveling from one point to another is hailed with exultation, thrilling his very soul, but instilling in him a desire for even greater speed.

Of course, the ancients had their chariots drawn by splendid horses, pictured by many as being driven speedily along the Roman roads, crushing beneath them the forms of the common and lowly subjects of the Empire. It remained for the rich of the modern world, however, to develop great speed, and still greater speed from some self-propelled vehicle. While to some poor inventor might be ascribed the origin of our "speed toys," still the world owes to the rich every advance made, through their financial encouragement.



Courtesy Munsey's Magazine

PALATIAL STEAM YACHT, MOTOR BOAT AND RACING AUTOMOBILE.

The Earliest Bicycle.

At about the time when the Thirteen Original Colonies were ringing with shouts of freedom, a French balloonist, named Blanchard, invented what was known as a "straddle-wheel" for his own amusement. This was nothing more than two wheels connected by a simple framework, with no pedals. The rider straddled the machine and pushed it along with his feet, or coasted down grade. The dandies of Paris and London took up this toy and had great sport with it, but it was too hard work and the speed was not great enough.

Following this, in about 1828, Cugnot, a Frenchman, and Trevithick, an Englishman, and Oliver Evans, an American, experimented with a sort of carriage propelled by steam. Nothing so fast had ever been seen, and the carriage became quite the fashion with gentlemen who had money to spend and whose aim in life was enjoyment. But these carriages were noisy, clumsy and very dirty affairs and were discarded.

The Wheel of the Last Century.

The bicycle with the high wheel in front and little wheel behind came next, and being fairly comfortable, speedy, clean and creating no noise, quickly sprang into fashion, but there was always an element of danger to the "speed-seekers" through concealed stones in the path, which meant a header, so that something even more speedy and safe was called for.

The safety bicycle was an evolution coming some twenty years later, whose high price at first placed it as a luxury much to be desired. Bicycles were for a long time placed in the same category as pianos and carriages, though they were of little use other than for pleasure. The safety was, as its name implied, safe, swift and noiseless. By 1895 the bicycle boom rose beyond any proportions assumed by the previously demanded speed toys. In the United States four hundred factories, representing a capital of something like $75,000,000, turned out nearly a million machines a year.

Half a Mile a Minute too Slow.

The fad lasted five years, when a demand arose for something even faster than the speed of a mile in two minutes or so, attained by the bicycle, and a more comfortable seat than that afforded on the bicycle frame. Inventors were already at work, and while it may not be true that out of the bicycle developed the automobile, yet the two-wheeled conveyance, with its pneumatic tires, created the demand for something better.

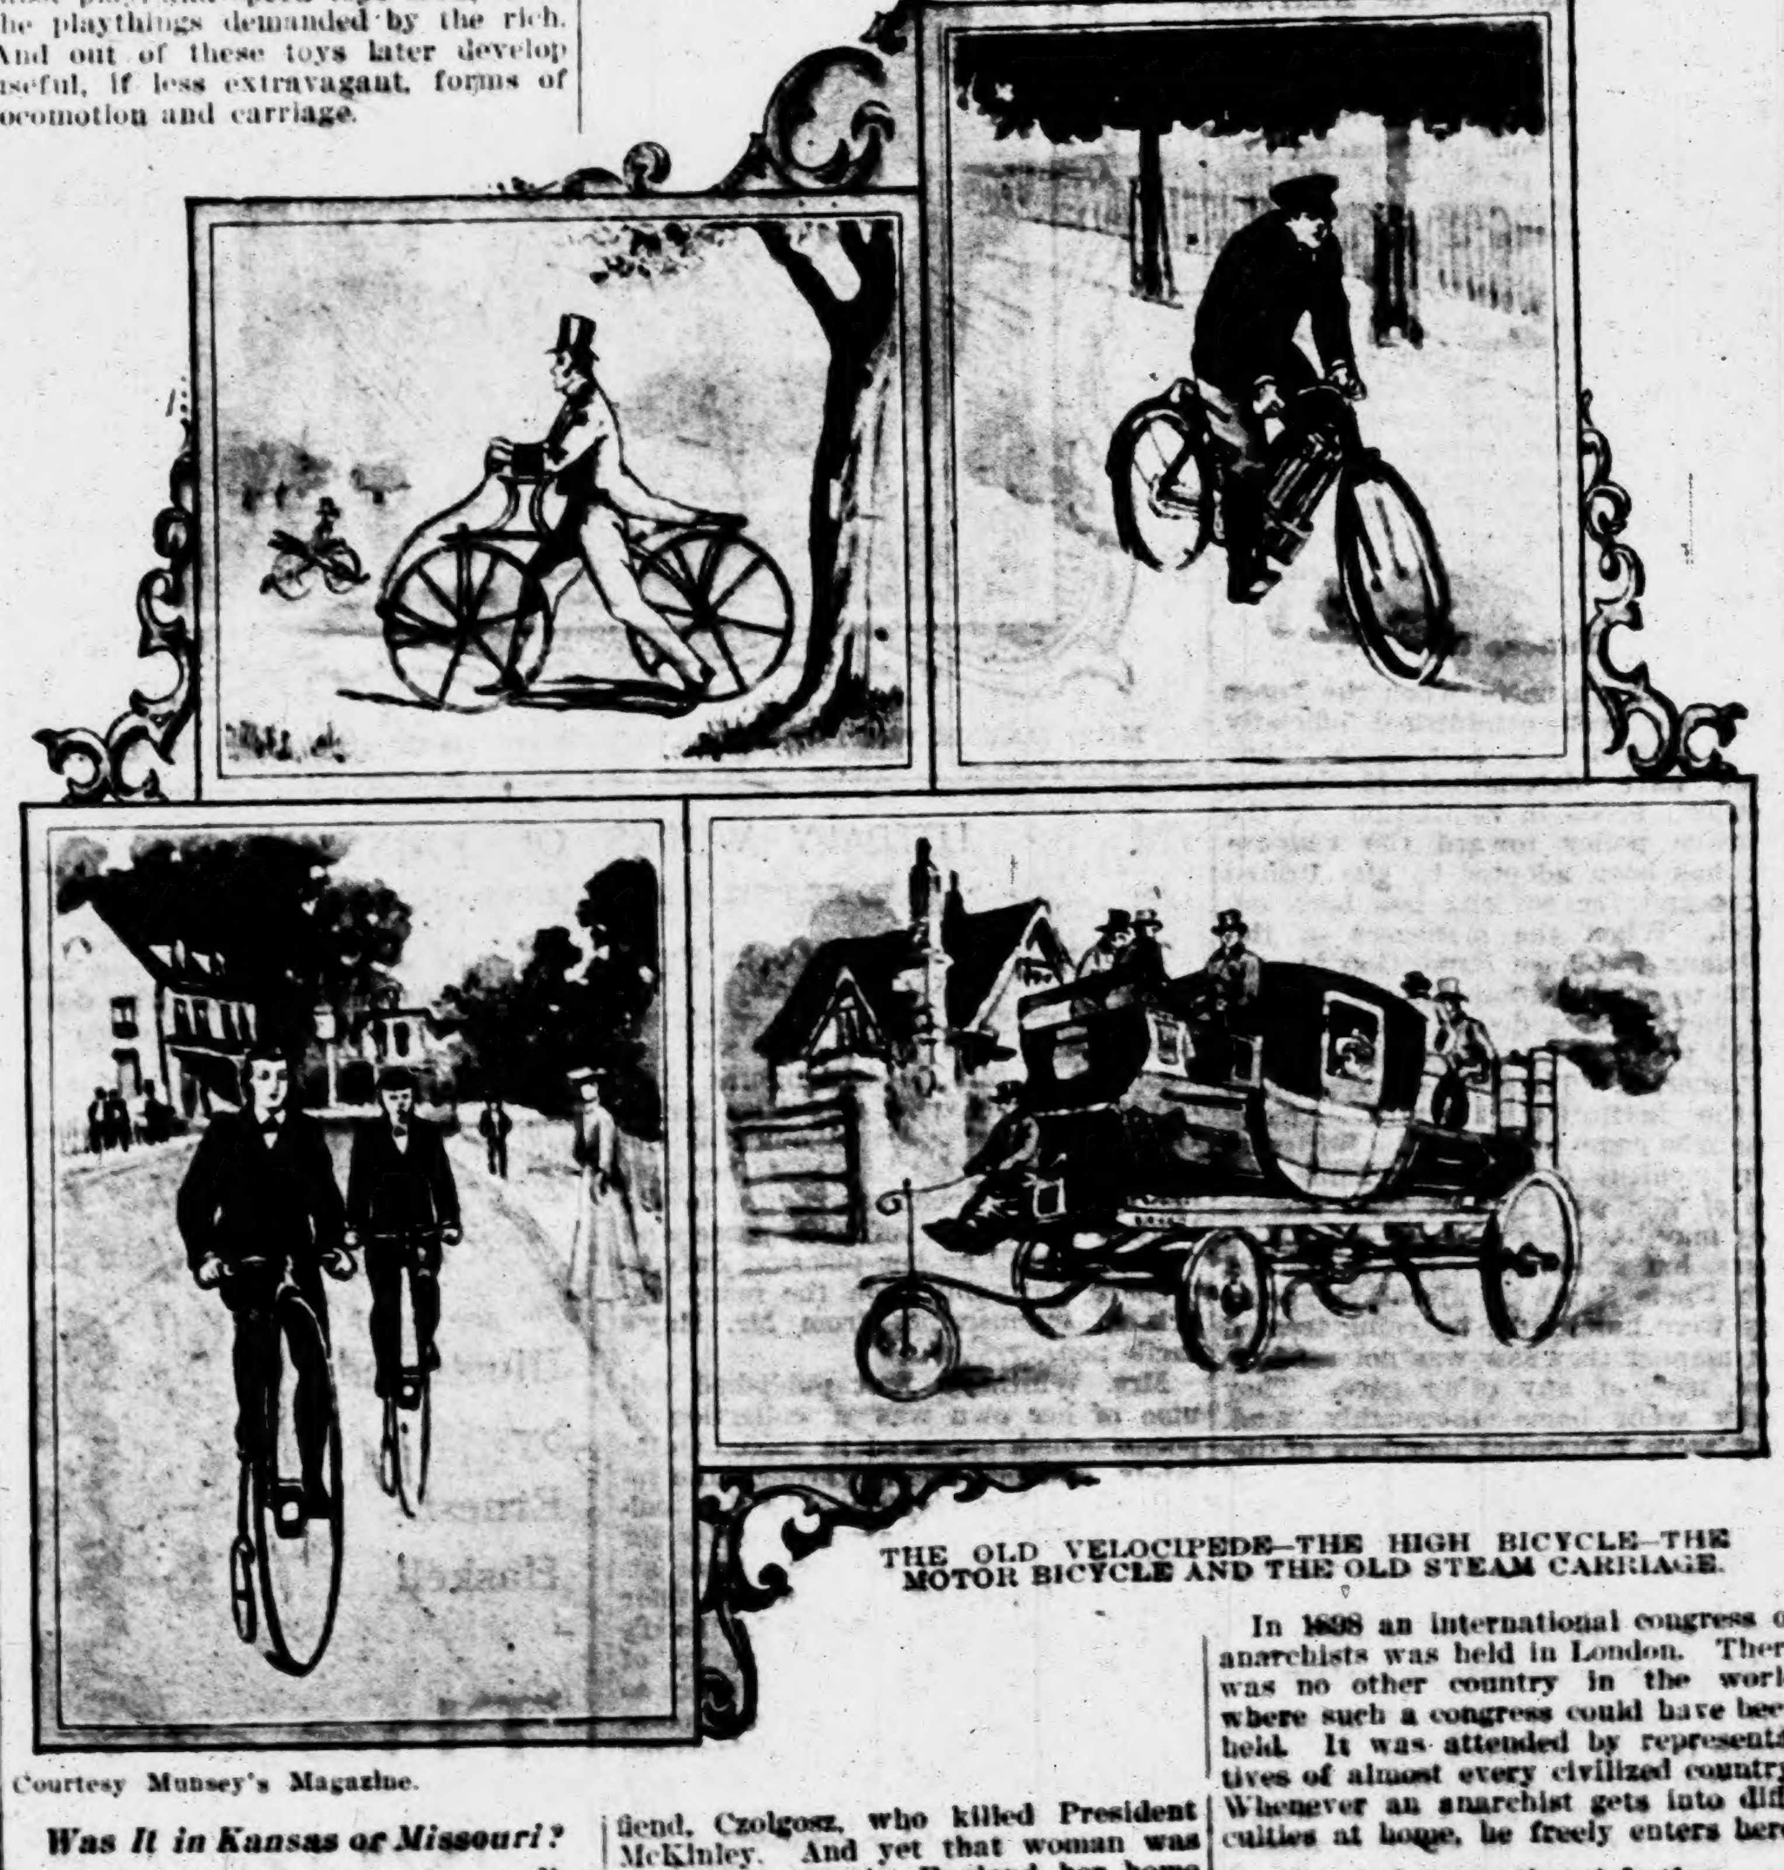
Men like W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., John Jacob Astor, and Albert C. Bostwick were among the pioneers in America to bring over from Europe the speed toys of the rich, and their machines were the targets for thousands of pairs of eyes in the streets of New York.

A Mile in Thirty Seconds.

When one of these men made a record of a mile in something like 58 seconds, it was considered remarkable, but last winter H. L. Bowden shot down the course on a Florida speed course at a rate equal to one hundred and twenty miles an hour.

Mr. S. A. Miles, the general manager of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers states in Munsey's Magazine that 20,000 machines were produced last year in the United States, valued at $23,000,000, giving employment to over 20,000 men.

With the automobile boats, the fast racing yachts, and the luxurious private yachts, developing speed, hair raising even to contemplate, who can say that after all our rich men have not done something of use to the world, even when they are not handling the ticker tape, or dabbling in stocks and bonds, or contemplating the flotation of new enterprises. Mankind must play, and speed toys seem to be the playthings demanded by the rich. And out of these toys later develop useful, if less extravagant, forms of locomotion and carriage.



THE OLD VELOCIPEDE—THE HIGH BICYCLE—THE MOTOR BICYCLE AND THE OLD STEAM CARRIAGE.

Courtesy Munsey's Magazine.

THE WORLD'S ANARCHISTS.

ENGLAND A DUMPING GROUND FOR THE ADVOCATES OF ASSASSINATION.

English Expert Believes the Question is One for International Action—Could be Stamped Out.

By John Sweeney.

(Late Detective-Inspector, Scotland Yard.)

Mr. Sweeney intimates that regulations against anarchists are much more effective in the United States than in England. It is the opinion of American officials, however, that such is not the case to any extent. It is true that Congress passed a law, shortly following the assassination of President McKinley, empowering the Immigration Bureau to refuse admission to anarchists, but in only a single instance, that of John Turner, who was arrested in October, 1903, and after fighting the case and appealing it to the United States Supreme Court, was forced to leave the country, has admission been refused to foreign anarchists, although it is an unquestionable fact that many have entered our ports.

Although the moral effect of the law, which provides that anarchists, if they are proven to be such, can be deported at any time within three years after their arrival, is undoubtedly good, the law needs strengthening, since if an immigrant chooses to deny that he is an anarchist and believes in assassination or the overthrow of government, the authorities are powerless to reject him. As a matter of fact, it is believed by the government officials that in the matter of free anarchistic speech and the printing and dissemination of flaming literature, the United States harbors conditions which are not materially different from those described in England by Detective-Inspector Sweeney.

England is the home and asylum of anarchists, the place where the most nefarious plots are hatched against the heads of states in all parts of the world. Yet our purely English anarchists can be counted on the fingers. The anarchist ranks in this country would be reduced to zero without the constant influx of penniless foreigners whose only means of living is the receipt of remittances from wealthy, and often highly placed, villains abroad, whose own support depends entirely on the constant reports they receive of anarchistic work accomplished here. It is, above all, amongst the young at their most impressionable period that these foreign anarchists are most influential for evil.

When Voltairine de Cleyre, the American female anarchist, was in London in 1898, she influenced a number of young lads and young girls. Her orations were potent factors in the formation of incendiary opinions. In every speech she advocated force and violence. She would have been denied admission to any other country than England as an undesirable alien.

Another woman anarchist, Emma Goldman, was, to my mind, directly responsible for inspiring the anarchist fiend, Czolgosz, who killed President McKinley. And yet that woman was permitted to make England her home at a time when she would have been lynched in America.

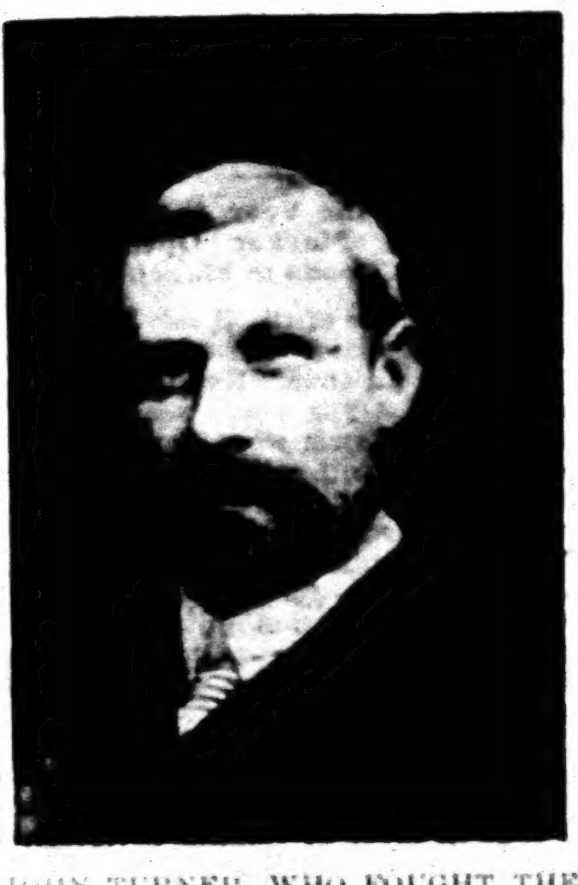
Many Cowards in the Ranks.

I can recall numerous instances of arm-chair anarchists, comfortably and cosily ensconced in the study, or speaking from a safe platform, inspiring more ignorant and less cowardly tools to commit deeds of violence. These men should, I think, receive exemplary punishment. But this only touches on the fringe of the question. The treatment of anarchists requires international agreement; anarchism should be rooted out by striking it whenever it shows its hideous head.

It is only fair to Englishmen to bear in mind that, speaking from a close study of anarchism in this country, I can unhesitatingly vouch for the fact that anarchists are 99 per cent. aliens. And in nearly every case these alien anarchists are criminals from foreign prisons.

Influencing the Young.

Amongst the younger and more impressionable listeners, the foreign anarchists visiting England produce some powerful, although seldom lasting, effects. In the years 1890 to 1898 there might have been seen at anarchist meetings in London and Manchester not a few attractive and thoughtful young lads and girls ready to throw bombs or die for their newly learnt gospel of anarchism. It would be cruel to give the names of those young people to-day. I know the history of each of them, and in not a single case can you find those youthful enthusiasts in the anarchist groups of to-day. Some of the girls are married to respectable merchants. One of the promising lads is a well-known stage manager.



JOHN TURNER, WHO FOUGHT THE IMMIGRATION LAW AGAINST ANARCHISTS AND LOST HIS CASE

The alien anarchists in England to-day are more numerous than ever before. Their newspapers, in German, French, Italian, and Russian, are circulated in all the large cities of the kingdom. Their growth here is the consequence of many years' advertisement of England as the dumping ground of undesirables and a refuge for anarchist outcasts.

During my twenty-seven years' experience I have had many opportunities of investigating anarchist literature, and I have traced very great quantities of it to its sources. In 1894 I found tons of anarchist literature being printed in England, some of it in Italian, some prepared solely for use in France to stir up "la guerre sociale" for the commission of "Actes de justice ou de vengeance."

Responsible for Many Outrages.

The year referred to was the year when President Carnot was assassinated. The same year saw the anarchist outrage at the Cafe Terminus, when two men were killed. Besides the bomb throwing at the Restaurant Very and other French anarchist outrages, the same year saw also assassinations and bomb outrages in Italy, Austria, and Spain. Thirty alien anarchists arrived here in one batch that year, and I was kept busy, not only watching these people as anarchists, but also because they were invariably ready to turn their hands to burglary or any other lawlessness.

In 1898 an international congress of anarchists was held in London. There was no other country in the world where such a congress could have been held. It was attended by representatives of almost every civilized country. Whenever an anarchist gets into difficulties at home, he freely enters here.

Needs International Action.

I speak from intimate and extensive knowledge when I say that the anarchist asylum phase of the alien question is a vital one. I am inclined to believe, although it is not quite clear, that it will be possible under the present Aliens Bill to refuse asylum to anarchists who have committed political crimes in other countries. But, in my opinion, it is necessary to go much further than this. In most countries, including England, practically all anarchists are perfectly well known to the police. The mere possession of anarchist opinions should be sufficient reason for refusing to permit such aliens to land in England. To meet the case of alien anarchists already in the country, I would add further penalties.

Was It in Kansas or Missouri?

The far-sighted engineer, in rounding the curve, found that his train was approaching what was apparently a huge boulder. He reversed his engine and fortunately stopped the train several yards short of the obstruction. It proved to be an ear of corn of the new crop.

* * *

John Farson, the Chicago banker, will build, next his Chicago residence, a garden which will contain a hanging garden, a sunken garden, a Roman outdoor bath and a rivulet that will wind among the shrubbery and statues.

* * *

President Loubet of France, his wife and daughter are taking "the barefoot cure." Going barefoot is recommended as a remedy for nervousness.

NATIVES OF SAMOA.

AMERICAN CLOTHES CAUSE CONSUMPTION AND OTHER DISEASES

Imagine Sickness Caused by Internal Devils.—Heroic Methods of Treatment.

The natives of Samoa, says Surgeon Spear of the navy, in a recent report, are beginning to wear white men's clothes, much to the detriment of their health. The climate is essentially a wet one. In former times a native would rub a little cocoanut oil on his skin and go out into the rain, and when he reached shelter there was nothing to dry but his 'lava-lava' or breech-cloth. The same native now goes out in the rain, his modern clothes soon become wet and, before he realizes it, he is soon chilled through, for the rain in Samoa is always from 6 degrees to 10 degrees colder than the atmosphere. Pulmonary affections, such as pneumonia, bronchitis and tuberculosis, naturally follow.

The Samoans are very superstitious, and when taken sick they imagine devils are inside them. Almost every old woman and man has a sure cure for driving out these devils. This is accomplished by 'lomi lomi' and external applications of various decorations made from leaves. If a cure results, the devils have been driven out; if, on the other hand, death follows, the devils are victorious.

The traders sell the natives a patent pain killer which can be used internally as medicine and externally as a liniment. This medicine is very highly thought of, and the natives will tell you they have great confidence in it; sometimes they name their children after it. A sick Samoan thinks that he must walk when sick, his theory being that he must move about to regain strength. If he cannot walk he will bury himself under the clothes, and it is wonderful sometimes how they obtain air enough to breathe.

The usual treatment instituted in a case of pneumonia by the natives is about as follows: The man sits up almost continually; he is stuffed with all kinds of food and decorations to drive out the devils, the number of devils being estimated by the amount of pain. If much pleurisy exists there are at least eight devils in the chest, and it requires energetic treatment to drive them out. The man gets up, walks about as long as he can, and when he can no longer walk he lies down and his head is covered up carefully, so as to exclude all fresh air. If the man survives the ordeal his attendants consider themselves experts in treating that particular disease.

PEAT AS LOCOMOTIVE FUEL.

Successful Tests of It in New England—Great Stores of It in Maine.

Peat is abundantly stored in the Maine bogs. Androscoggin county is claimed to have peat to supply all Maine with fuel for a dozen generations. A number of experiments have recently been made by the Boston and Maine railroad in the use of peat fuel.

The company had its attention called to the value of peat as a steaming agency some weeks ago, and upon representation that if properly prepared it was equal to bituminous coal, was induced to test its qualities. These were eminently satisfying and a carload of the material has been delivered for further experiment. The source of supply is in the town of Lewington, Mass., and it is said that this single deposit would furnish enough fuel for all the railroads entering Boston for 250 years.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE

Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.

Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,

Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

Agents Wanted

To Canvass for the

United States Senator Number

NOW PUBLISHED.

The issue contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS

two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 x 8 inches in size

are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

The Budget Company,

220 Washington Street,

Boston, Mass.

Marlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid wall of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. [illegible] page catalogue, [illegible] illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.

New Haven, Conn.

EXCAVATION WORK

With Greatest Economy use the

Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Western Wheeled Scraper Co.

AURORA, ILL.

Send for Catalog.

PHOTOGRAPHERS

Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY

11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

Marlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empty shells away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. [illegible] page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Western Wheeled Scraper Co
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

RAPHERS
s and Scales Away

tles and scales cause you trouble?
evelopers, put up READY TO USE.
he developing tray and add the water—atter. Large quantities of developer
l. With our developers you only make bes sufficient for 24 ounces of develther papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and will not stain the fingers or nails, and oner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

IC CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

A Tale of Louisiana

BY D'ERF MAILLIW

...at Civil War the ...encountered many in... ...devotion to the old flag ...the particular instance, ...ally to the Union on the ...Southerner, and a Jew, ...might readily have ... At the time I was ...a military commis... New Orleans during the war.

...ght before us, upon ...furnished aid and ...federacy. Proofs of ...eared quite conclusive. ...aptured within the ene... Baton Rouge, and ...was found a paper ...complete list of arti... ...olvers, ammunition, ...had agreed to deliver ...ing evening to the ...an with whom he ap... ...ging when our boys ...ed. I have forgotten ...ensation, but it was ...mount to be paid for ...listed at figures far ...prices.

...spoke but little Eng... ...who had been a ...stern volunteer regi... ...ted by courtesy ...oner's behalf, antago... ...t Colonel Buchan... ...of the commission. ...Regular Army officer ...a martinet, red-tape ...who still maintained ...was the best of all our ...that Grant, Sherman ...were Generals simply by ...without especial mili... The Articles ...ary rules and regula... him as sacred as Holy Writ, and like a Roman Senator, he would have stoically passed sentence upon his own son had he been found guilty of breaking the least of them. Treason in its mildest form was most abhorrent to him, and that any officer should stoop to enrich himself a penny's worth by trade in Government property was cause for the severest punishment and everlasting disgrace. The ... Colonel of Volunteers, with his breezy Western style and his disregard of red tape and formality, injured his client's cause from the first, and several times Colonel Buchanan threatened to forbid his presence before the Commission. The testimony at first was very strong against the prisoner. The captain commanding the Union squad swore clearly and without challenge to all the details. Word had been brought to him by an unknown boy that a lot of Rebels had been seen several times near the Ferry, opposite Baton Rouge, and would be there again, particularly the evening in question. Obtaining permission from the General commanding, the Captain took part of his company, crossed over, concealed himself and men near the Ferry, and witnessed the interview between the Confederate Captain and this Jew. He was not close enough to hear the conversation, but he observed the Jew was not surprised to meet the Rebels, and shortly after they met he saw him hand the Captain a paper. Meanwhile, his men had cautiously closed in on the enemy, and after a slight resistance captured the entire party. It was true, the Captain added, that he knocked the Rebel Captain's revolver from his hand just as he was about to shoot the Jew, but neither of them would state whether there was any quarrel, or if so, the cause. The Jew seemed surprised to be treated as a prisoner, and when the paper was found upon him, and some of the boys wanted to hang him without trial, he looked bewildered and dazed. He attempted two or three times to make some sort of explanation, but seemed [illegible] unconcerned about the whole matter, and tried to be so con[illegible] that the Captain, too, at last got angry, and told him that if he didn't hold his tongue no great effort would be made to restrain the boys from carrying out their threat. The Sergeant and two of the men testified in much the same way. The Sergeant added that when he said to the Jew, "Why, you gray-headed old sinner, don't you know that that paper we found on you will hang you higher than Haman," the Jew merely shrugged his shoulders and said something to the Rebel Captain, who had taunted him about his "Yankee friends," to the effect that "hanging vas petter t'an helping Repels."

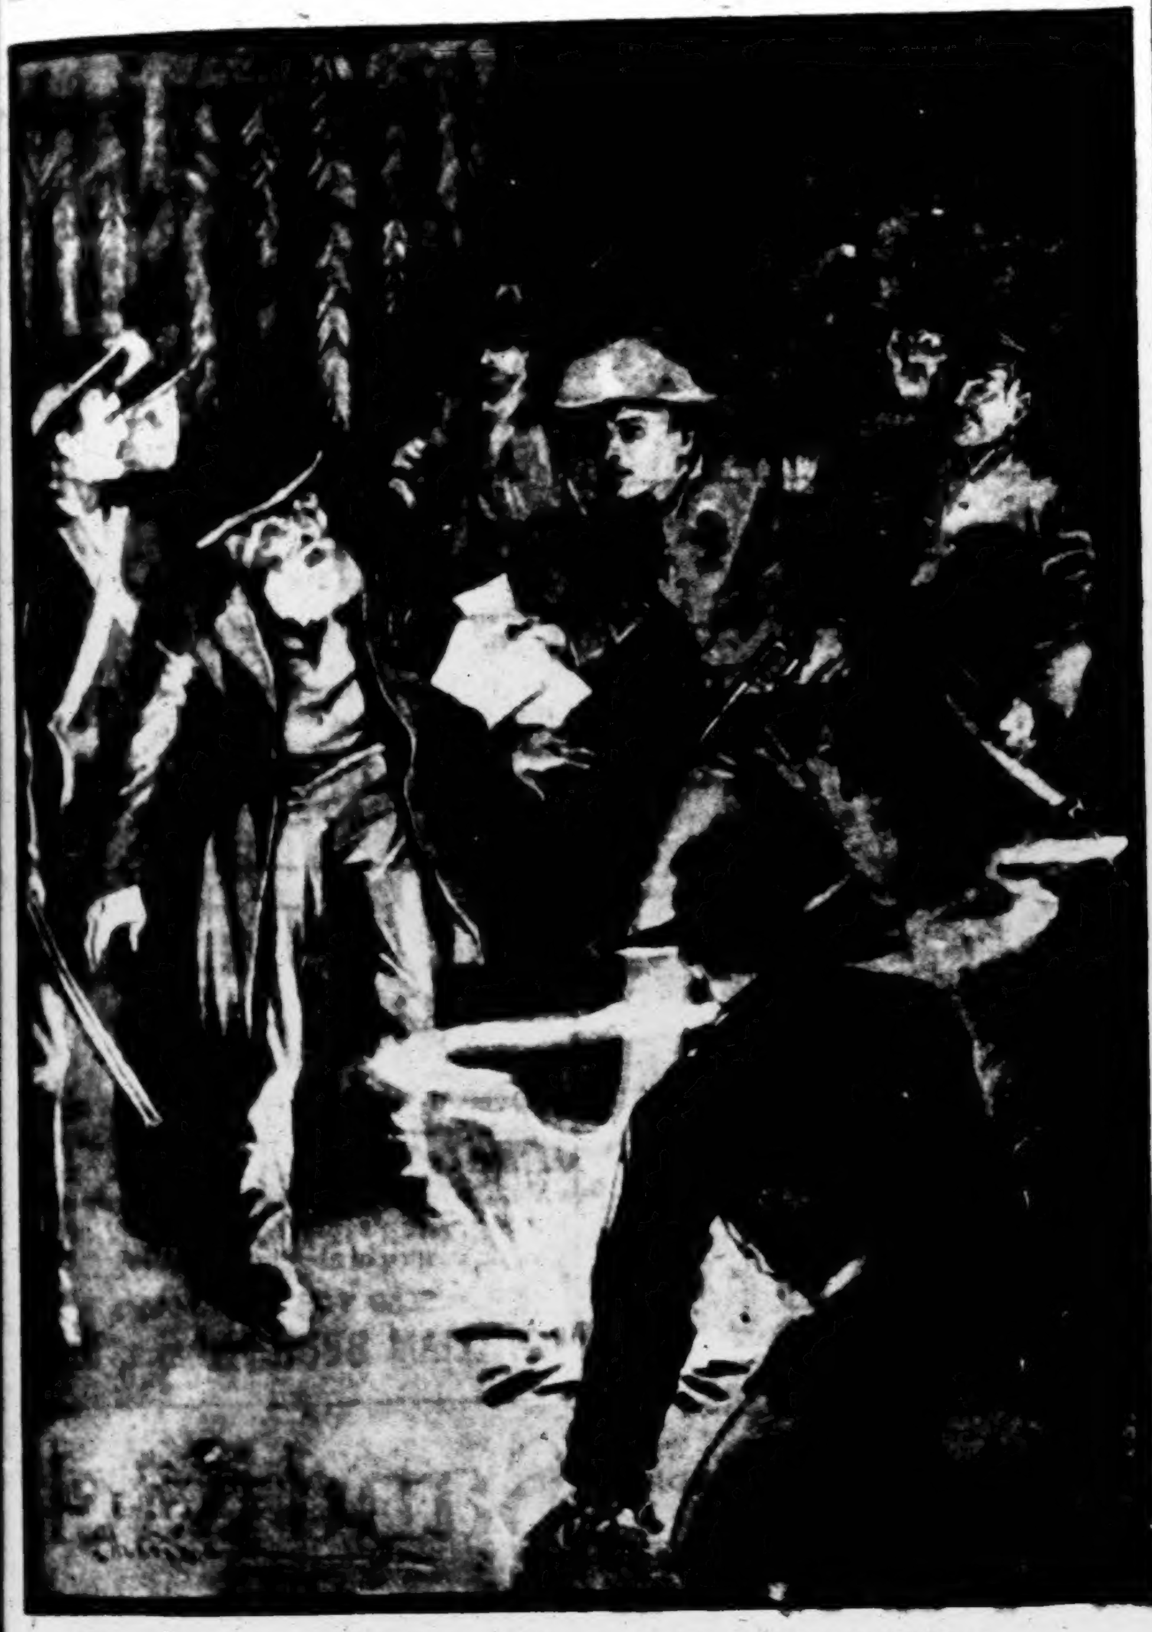
The President appeared to consider all this side testimony as wholly irrelevant and useless; apparently his own mind was fully made up as to the prisoner's guilt, although there appeared to me room for very grave doubt. The placid and almost contented look of the old Hebrew, and his unconcern when captured with such a damning paper in his possession, compelled in me a belief that he was not entirely guilty, or at least that the whole truth had not yet been known, and that there must be some extenuating circumstances.

In my position as Judge Advocate, I endeavored to bring out these points, and worded my questions accordingly. But Colonel Buchanan was supreme over any court where he presided, and no question was ever permitted to be asked that he did not fully sanction and often change to suit his own views. He tried to be just, yet he was extremely arbitrary and opinionated, and I feared he had already prejudged the case.

After a consultation with his client, the lawyer said he would like to have the Rebel Captain who commanded the captured squad summoned.

"What do you propose to prove by him?" thundered the Colonel. "He is a Rebel, taken in arms against the Government; I doubt if I ought to permit his testimony to have any weight before this Commission."

The lawyer, however, insisted that he was a very important witness, and though refusing to reveal his line of defense, demanded that he be produced, and threatened, if his request was refused, to lay the whole matter before General Banks, commanding the Department. The Colonel flared up in an instant.



THE PAPER WILL HANG YOU HIGHER THAN HAMAN.

"I want you to understand, sir," he said, "that not even the President of the United States can compel me to summon a witness if I think it unnecessary. I have sworn, as have the other members of this Commission, to do my whole duty without fear or favor."

After a few moments of painful silence, possibly seeing from our disgusted looks that we were becoming impatient with his arbitrary manner, he said, "But I do not want to be unfair in this matter."

I ventured to say, "Mr. President, might it not be advisable to summon this witness, and if it is shown that he has no material knowledge, to then refuse to hear him further?"

Utterly ignoring me, he asked the lawyer how soon he could produce the witness.

"A half hour after you issue the summons," was the reply.

"The court stands adjourned till the usual hour to-morrow. Captain," to me, "prepare the necessary summons." "Sir," to the lawyer, "if your witness is not here promptly when the court meets I shall not wait a moment. Too much time has been wasted already."

As the lawyer passed me when leaving the room he gave me a sly dig, and with a solemn wink whispered, "My inning's to-morrow."

Promptly when called the following morning, the Rebel Captain appeared. He was a laughing, bright-eyed young fellow of about 23, using crutches as a result of the loss of his right leg. Colonel Buchanan was impressively polite, and told him not to attempt to stand while the oath was administered. It was evident from the first that our Rebel had no fear of Yankee Colonels or Yankee courts. He called out "How'dy" to the different members, and told our dignified President that he was jolly glad to see him, but would prefer to change places with him, and added, "What in the world are 'uns trying to do with old Uncle Isaacs?"

The Colonel rapped severely for order, and after the usual preliminaries, the lawyer asked the witness if he recognized the prisoner.

"Recognize that old Jew Yankee? You bet I do. If you'ns hadn't been quite so confounded smart, we'uns would have made a right peart haul out of the old rascal, and as they say it's no sin for a white man to beat a Jew, I don't believe he'd ever got a cent of pay from us."

"Do you recognize this paper with the list of articles, which he agrees, over his own signature, to deliver to you, and in which you are described as belonging to the Rebel army?"

"I should reckon I did. Didn't I write it and put it in every blessed article I thought we Rebs, as you call us, could get and make use of?"

I looked at Colonel Buchanan and saw a pallor slowly creeping over his face.

"Do you mean to say, sir," he asked, "that this prisoner did not voluntarily meet you people, and of his own free will agree to sell and deliver the articles mentioned in that paper?" The witness threw his head back and laughed boisterously. The old Colonel's face changed from white to an apoplectic red, and he again rapped for order, and said sarcastically, "Please restrain your merriment and answer my question; remember this is a court room, and not a theatre."

"Beg pardon, Colonel, but if you'd seen how the old sinner trembled when I shoved my six-shooter under his nose and told him I'd blow out his brains if he didn't sign it, you'd want to laugh, too. The six-shooter hadn't nary a charge, but he didn't know that. You see, the way we got hold of him was this: Some of our boys live in Baton Rouge, and they know the old fellow has always been considered a bigger Yankee than old Greeley himself. When we saw him inside our lines, near the Ferry, where we learned he had been to visit some sick relative, we made up our minds we'd got a pretty good thing. We knew he was a rich old cock, and that his store carried one of the biggest stocks of goods outside of Orleans. I decided that I could scare him into signing most anything, but it was tough work. I thought at one time I'd really have to load up and give him a flesh wound to make him ante up. Then just as he had signed the paper you Yanks swooped down upon us."

"Do you mean to say, on your oath—on your oath, sir," said the Colonel imperiously, "that the prisoner did not send word to you that he would meet you at that Ferry and furnish you certain information and contraband articles for certain sums of money?"

The young Confederate jumped up, and balancing himself on his foot, cried out, with the most intense scorn:

"And you call this a Yankee court of justice! Couldn't any of you take trouble enough to find out what kind of a man you were trying? Why, any child in Baton Rouge could have told you who old Jew Isaacs was, and twice he's had a rope 'round his neck and been nearly choked into Kingdom Come by our boys because he wouldn't tell where you'uns were camped—and all the old fellow would say was, 'Hang avay.' Couldn't you find out, through some of your smart witnesses, that my own capture was due to the plucky old devil, who was brave enough and loyal enough to you Yanks to send word to your Captain by his little son when and where he had agreed to meet us, in spite of my oath to him that I would shoot him down like a dog if he breathed a word to any one?" And the indignant Southerner sank down in his chair, wiping the perspiration from his face.

That the dramatic part of this startling denouement was partly arranged by the lawyer has always been my conviction. He knew from the first that he had a sure case and he had been greatly nettled by the sharp words and rulings of President Buchanan. At any rate, the effect was all that he could have wished. Never before, in his long military career, had the old Colonel's pride received such a blow. His boast had been that he had presided over more than fifty court-martials and had seldom had his findings disapproved, as he claimed to know all there was to know about military law.

The room was cleared and the Colonel, after a few words of explanation, added, "Of course, the case will be dismissed at once and the prisoner released. I desire to confess to you gentlemen that for my part I fear I have allowed my prejudices to influence my judgment, and that I have been nearer than ever before in all my military life committing a very grave and serious error. We are none of us too old to learn."

After adjourning the court, the noble old man went into the adjoining room, shook hands most heartily and courteously with the lawyer, the Confederate Captain and the old Jew, and said that none of them could be more pleased than he that any suspicions he may have had were found to be false.

As I was arranging my papers, some one touched me on the shoulder, and looking around I encountered Isaacs' swarthy countenance. He said, in his broken English: "I see you are a Mason." Answering in the affirmative, and learning that he was one, I asked why he had not made himself known before. "Oh, no," he said, "not while I was under charges, but now I am very glad to know you as one. I want you to bring some of your army friends and dine with me next Sunday," handing me his card. I accepted his invitation and had an experience for the first time of dining in the family of a wealthy Jew.

He had invited a number of his friends, and the board was presided over by his only daughter, the most lovely Jewess I had ever seen. She was tall and graceful as a swan, with a clear, olive complexion through which burned the glow of perfect health, and she looked at me with eyes which, even out of the dim haze of years, I can see distinctly to-day—deep wells of melting brown, modestly shaded by long silky lashes.

As I was presented she came bravely forward, a charming blush diffusing its tint on her cheeks, and taking both my hands in her own two little soft ones, she said, in the purest English:

"Captain, how can I thank you for your great kindness to my dear old father? Indeed, I shall always wish you joy and happiness."

I disclaimed having done anything at all to warrant her warm thanks; nevertheless, they were most pleasant to hear and the grateful glance she gave me well nigh set my young brain on fire. I was seated at her right hand and found her conversation cultured and herself truly bewitching.

The dinner itself was splendid and elaborate, consisting of innumerable courses and of unknown dishes. Some rare wines were brought from their cobweb beds, along with costly cigars. Over the wine and walnuts, Isaacs informed me that he desired to repay me in some way for what he claimed to be my great service to him during his trial. I assured him that I had done nothing for him that the case did not fully warrant, but he insisted that but for several of my protests he might have been condemned without a hearing. I explained to him that that was simply the duty of any Judge Advocate; but he said that Jews were never ungrateful and made me a point blank offer, that if I would resign my commission and start a store in Mobile, which had then just come into the possession of the Union forces, he would stock it with ten or even twenty thousand dollars' worth of goods, give me the entire charge and make me an equal partner.

As I mused over the old Madeira, visions arose before me of a prosperous business and also frequent calls to Baton Rouge to consult with Mr. Isaacs, when I doubted not I would be a welcome visitor at his and his daughter's home, and—I all but accepted the offer.

But ere the evening was spent, the spirit of war drove sentiment from my thoughts. An orderly brought the news of another fierce guerrilla raid up from the Bayou Teche, and making a hasty adieu, thanking the old gentleman for his generous offer and bending over his lovely daughter's hand, I galloped back to my command and was soon again in the saddle on a four days' ride.

A DIFFERENCE IN THE SEXES.

Sentiment Not Highly Developed in Men—Prosaic and Unromantic.

Women never can get used to the lack of romantic sentiment displayed by the average man.

It takes a woman to hoard up every scrap of the writing of a beloved hand, and lock it away in a desk with blue ribbon around it.

The most cursory note he has scribbled in pencil is safely treasured up, not because it breathed unusual or fervid sentiments, but because indited in that hand.

Twenty-five years after, she can still regard with tender interest the flower he gave her on such and such a day, which she wore in her bosom until it died, and then tucked religiously into a book. A bit of gown she wore when she first saw him, the book they read together, the first "photo" he gave her—all these things have a mighty and undying interest for woman, who is by nature more sentimental than man.

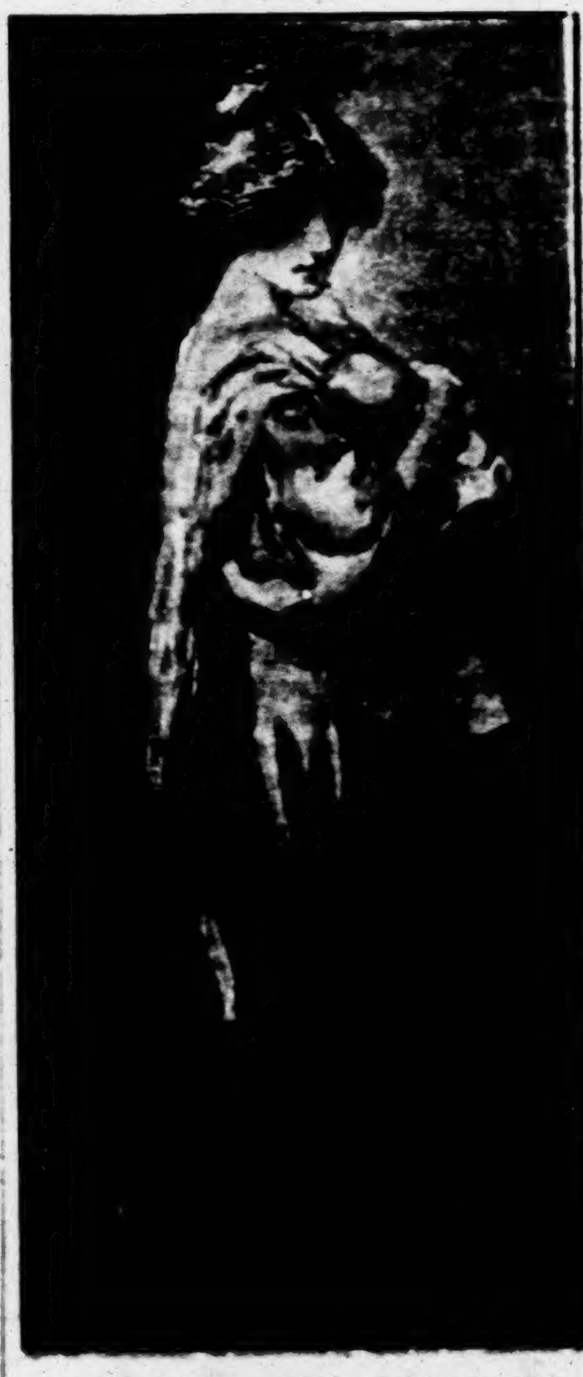
The best man in the world often has a singular lack of romance of this sort in his make-up. When the past is over he forgets it. A rose that has served its purpose in his buttonhole, worn on whatever momentous occasion, is esteemed by him to be more fit for the waste basket than the bureau drawer. He has been known to crumple her billet doux before his lady's eyes and smilingly toss it to the four winds; and he would be puzzled to understand why that lightsome disregard of his should send a little chill to her heart.

No, men are not by nature sentimental animals. They can love without cumbering themselves with endless effects belonging to the object of their affections. And far be it to say that theirs is not the wiser method of the two. It simplifies life and is least likely to precipitate future embarrassments.

LUCKY STEERAGE MOTHER.

Child Born Aboard Ship Presented with Wardrobe and Twenty-five Dollars.

A few weeks ago the European steamer Graf Waldersee came limping into New York Harbor after having encountered, according to statements of the steamer officials and crew, one of the worst storms ever encountered on the Atlantic. But notwithstanding the rough voyage, there was a little incident on shipboard which attracted as much attention as the storm. On the second day out just before the storm broke there was born to one of the steerage passengers a son, who was appropriately named Herman Waldersee Gailes, and the cabin passengers gave him a wardrobe, besides raising $25 for his mother.



THE TYPICAL AMERICAN MOTHER
PAINTING BY MAUD STEMM.

Notwithstanding the fact that 1,932,-9 steerage passengers embarked for New York from European ports during the past three years, according to figures compiled by the immigration authorities, it is a remarkable fact that only 116 babies have been born in the steerage during that time. This number does not include the recent arrival on the Waldersee.

Yet, there was an early precedent for ocean births, for, according to history, the first English child born in the limits of New England was Peregrine White, who first saw light of day on the Mayflower in Cape Cod Harbor.

COFFEE DOES HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE
in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS
Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings

No1 (Bicycles) No2 (The Racycle)

Which Stone will Turn Easier?
The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

OLDSMOBILES for 1905

THE CAR THAT GOES

Highest Workmanship. Lowest Prices.

Cars for Immediate Delivery.

Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.

I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

MACARONI OR DURUM WHEATS

Work of the United States Department of Agriculture.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

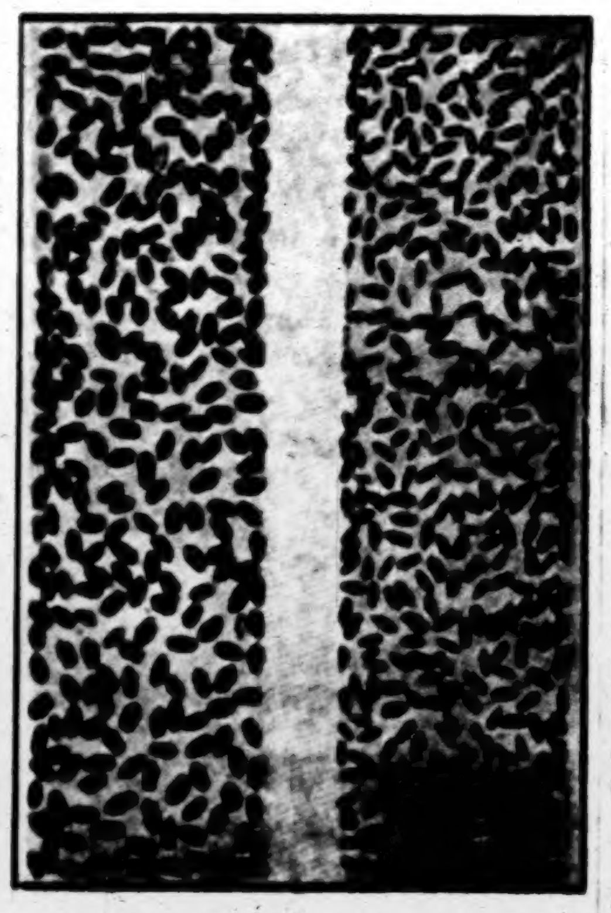
The efforts of the Department of Agriculture not only contemplate the introduction into the United States of improved plants and crops from foreign countries to take the place of those which American farmers are already growing, and the breeding up and bettering of those which we now have; but also the introduction of plants onto great areas of country now thought to be unfit for farming.

Encroachment is constantly being made upon the waste places of the land: the semi-desert and the low places; by the introduction of crops which, through long years and centuries of acclimatization in similar regions of the Old World, have become either drouth or water resistant.

A striking example of this sort of work, which has already proven a high success, is the introduction of the macaroni wheat plant, or, as it is more properly called, durum wheat.

To Establish Macaroni Factories.

It was Secretary Wilson's idea at first to introduce the culture of this wheat for supplying macaroni and the concurrent establishment of a new American manufacturing industry. This feature has been a success, but macaroni, however, is not a staple food among Americans as it is in Italy, and no very great things were expected. Nevertheless, Mr. Mark Carleton, a cereal expert, was sent abroad into Russia and Turkestan to get seeds of durum wheats, and these he brought back some years ago, and the Department distributed them for trial in different parts of the country. They grew well, so well, in fact, and under such dry conditions where other wheat would not yield profitably that it was considered a shame that this splendid looking, large-grained wheat, which is moreover, rust proof, could not be made into bread. It is an unusually hard and close meated wheat, and it was supposed to be good for only macaroni and vermicelli.



DURUM WHEAT NOT INJURED BY RUST ORDINARY WHEAT PRACTICALLY DESTROYED.

Useless, Said the Croakers.

But the Department of Agriculture is nothing if not progressive, and the cerealist experts began to investigate whether it might not possibly be some good as a bread maker. Dozens of experiments were made in bread making and baking—a line, you may say, somewhat out of the beaten pathway of an agricultural department—and finally it was announced by Mr. Carleton that splendid bread could be baked from this durum wheat flour—light, nutritious and sweet as a nut. A hundred loaves were baked for the Department by a Washington bakery from the durum wheat flour and a hundred other loaves from regular Minnesota flour, and then samples were sent out to a hundred different judges to determine which was the best bread. In almost all of the cases the decision was given in favor of the bread made from durum wheat flour.

Then began the planting of this wheat on a great scale by the farmers of the Northwest all along the western edge of the wheat belt, where it yielded twenty-five, fifty and even seventy-five per cent. better than blue stem or the other standard wheats.

Opposed by the Millers.

But now came a check. It was difficult to grind this wheat, and the growers found arrayed against them the whole combination of Northwestern millers, who said that the wheat was poor, made only inferior flour and would not make edible bread. But the farmers had the Department of Agriculture back of them, and Mr. Wilson had his own conviction about durum wheat and Northwestern millers, and, moreover, he had the courage to back them up. The trouble with the millers was that with the milling apparatus which they used for grinding ordinary No. 1 Red, they could not grind the harder durum, and so they forced the price of wheat down in the market and threatened to have Secretary Wilson removed unless he stopped advising farmers to grow durum wheat. The Secretary, it seems, held his job, and the farmers had faith in him and continued planting durum wheat to the extent of several million additional acres each succeeding year.

VARIOUS KINDS OF DURUM WHEAT.

Forced the Millers to Terms.

"I am thinking the millers will come around to grinding durum wheat," he said. "The farmers of the United States will grow it because it is a splendid crop for them, throughout a very wide belt, and I guess the millers will rather have to grind it." Moreover, he intimated that the millers were at liberty to go right ahead and fire him.

Year before last some six million bushels of this durum or macaroni wheat was grown: last year the crop had increased to about eleven million bushels and the present crop is estimated by Mr. Carleton at from twenty to twenty-five million bushels.

But the industry has but barely started.

In connection with this subject I asked Mr. Wilson last spring how much of the Western desert and semi-desert land was suitable for such dry crops as durum wheat—for this wheat will make a big crop on only ten inches of rainfall—and he said, as quick as a flash:

All American Acres of Some Use.

"Why, we have no useless American acres. We shall make them all productive. We have agricultural explorers in every far corner of the world, and they are finding crops which have become so acclimated to dry conditions, similar to our own in the West, that we shall in time have plants thriving upon all of our so-called arid lands."

Swedish Oats
Black Finnisk.

TWO NEW OATS INTRODUCED BY THE DEPARTMENT.

And talks with the various explorers and travelers of the Department shows that the Secretary's statement is founded upon concrete facts. Already from distant and little-known quarters of the globe, and especially from the vast dry regions of Central Asia—the "Cradle of the World"—where the practice of agriculture reaches far back from history into dim traditional past, have been brought forth some of the most remarkable of desert plants, which are found to require but incredibly small amounts of moisture to produce luxuriant yields.

Opens Vast New Grain Belt.

But to return to durum wheat. Mark A. Carleton, to whom Secretary Wilson sent me for "details," said this:

"The Durum Wheat Belt extends on an average the width of the United States. It includes a very large fraction of a million square miles. This remarkable wheat will grow with ten inches of rainfall and yield fifteen bushels to the acre, where ordinary wheat is an absolute failure. This is about two bushels more than the average wheat yield for the United States.

"There are many other crops with as great possibilities which thrive on but slight moisture, including splendid forage plants. I might mention Kaffir corn, the sorghums, millets and brome grass, as well as new kinds of oats and barleys of wonderful drouth-resisting powers, the emmer or speltz and a long line of others.

NEW ALGERIAN BARLEY IN TEXAS MADE 74 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE AGAINST 25 BUSHELS OF ORDINARY BARLEY PLANTED ALONGSIDE.

Plenty of Food for the World.

"We are constantly finding new grains and forage plants in the Caucasus, in Algeria, in Turkestan and other dry countries which will bring under cultivation amazing areas of now waste lands."

In the face of this, what does the prediction, a few years ago, of Sir William Crooks, of England, look like, to the effect that the agricultural lands of the earth had practically reached their producing limit in grain production, and who foresaw within a short time an increasing population crying unavailingly for bread?

MILLIONS FOR DE-FENCE

Fish Cannot Live in Pure Water.

By use of their gills fishes breathe the air dissolved in water. Transferred to water from which the air has been artificially driven out, or in which the air absorbed by them is not replaced, they are soon suffocated. They require aerated water to maintain life and they take it in constantly through their mouths, retaining the air and expelling the water through their gills. Should the water in a lake be completely cut off from contact with the air long enough for the fish to exhaust the supply of air, they would die. It would take a severe and long continued freeze to accomplish this, but it might happen, and doubtless has frequently happened, in a small body of water.

Unique Fishing.

Up in Wisconsin there is a disciple of Isaac Walton who has a unique way of propelling his boat and fishing at the same time. Fitted up at the stern of the boat there is a paddle wheel something on the same style as those used on the Mississippi river steamers. From this there is run gearing and a chain to a crank in the center of the boat. This the old man turns with one hand while with the other hand he is able to attend to his fishing lines.

A Toast.

"Here's to you old pal!
May you live a thousand years
Just to keep things lively
In this vale of tears.
And may I live a thousand years
Just short one day,
For I wouldn't like to stay here
When you are gone away."

TRIED PLAYING HOBO.

EXPERIMENTER FOUND THAT THE REAL HOBO HAS SOURED THE SOULS OF HUMANITY.

Connecticut Man Thought It an Easy Matter to Travel Penniless from New York to Torrington Now Realizes His Mistake.

A prosperous Connecticut man has made what he believes to be a fair test of the charity of the world, and has found it wanting. More, he has lost faith in his friends and is absolutely convinced that clothes do make the man, no matter what schools may teach or teachers preach.

William A. Gleason is his name. He was a delegate to the National Temperance Convention at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and stopping over in New York on his way home, he decided to play "hobo" for the remainder of the journey, and started out without money and dressed like a tramp.

He Had Theories.

He argued that the world is charitable. He believed that car conductors would take pity on his plight and give him "lifts"; that farmers would allow the homeless one to sleep in their barns, and that kind-hearted housewives would feed the hungry after the manner of the Good Samaritan. Now he knows better.

The first conductor he told his hard luck tale to would have thrown him off the car if he hadn't jumped. The first night out he was "turned down" by half a dozen farmers and slept hungry next to a fence. Housewives called to their dogs when he approached, and one woman—charitable soul—made him saw wood for two hours for one meal.

Friends as Bad as the Rest.

Matters got so bad at last that Gleason went out of his way to visit some of his friends who had boasted of their charity. He was sure of a warm welcome, even though they wouldn't recognize him. He found his friends were no more charitable than the rest of the world, and without exception he got from them the cold shoulder, and not cold pork shoulder either.

A postmistress scowled at him when he wrote three postal cards in the post office, because he was disreputable looking.

Even the Dog Misunderstood.

Even a dog that he met troubled his soul and made him waste half an hour mending his trousers. In all his journey he met but one person who was kind to him, and this was a waitress in a cheap Bridgeport restaurant, who read him a lecture on the error of his ways.

Mr. Gleason says he is glad he made the trip, but he doesn't want to try it again. The charity of the world, he has found, is not what it is cracked up to be.

IMPORTANT AFFAIRS.

In at the Finish.

York Springs (Pa.) Comet: We always thought our town was finished, but we see that E. P. Brenizer is preparing to build a new barn.

Movement in Cereals.

Cheyenne (Wyo.) Sun: I. B. Corn, of Rice, has announced his intentions of moving to Wheatland.

What Are the Other Things.

Lebanon (Tenn.) Banner: Messrs. Joe and Avery Grannis have been running a very successful bachelors' hall on Spring street. They have company most every night and delightfully entertain them with music, cards, and other things.

Great Minnesota Tournament.

Mallard (Minn.) Call: Bassie Patton and Rog Bovee were out boat riding. Blanche Bovee and Ralph Stevens were out bicycle riding. Ollie Chapman was out buggy riding last week.

A FEW AFTERTHOUGHTS.

"The dollar is less potent than formerly," according to Governor Folk of Missouri. Mr. Folk has probably been trying to buy a beefsteak.

A writer in the Century Magazine inquires "When do birds moult?" And the Washington Post hastens to reply that it is at about the time of the year that they lose their feathers.

It is said that each army recruit costs Uncle Sam, all told, $1,000. Missouri legislature figure.

It should be suggested that if John D. Rockefeller will fit up a laboratory for scientific research in mosquito extermination, and provide all the kerosene needed for experiments, a great deal will be forgiven.

London crowds have been gazing at the display of models of the Japanese fleet, contributed by the makers of these ships that were constructed in England. A working model of the Russian navy might be displayed by junk dealers.

When the Mikado served up iced whale at his banquet given to Secretary Taft, he undoubtedly had in mind providing something in the Secretary's own class.

The Chicago man who was robbed by footpads in Berlin must have felt at home.

A young hippopotamus is on sale in New York for $20,000, if taken this month. Immediate advantage should be taken of this offer, before the fall advance in prices.

Senator Burton is charged with Nepotism. Most people spell it with two syllables.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

From the New York Press.

It hurts a girl awfully to get sunburned through her open-work stockings.

A great deal of money can be made by not having a private vegetable garden (How about the week-old vegetables you otherwise eat?)

With a good many people, having a "pull" consists in getting for $4 something worth $2.

A girl has an awfully appealing way of acting in a hammock as though she would fall out unless you held her in.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH
In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions the
The Strong Old Hickory
MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service
proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP
Is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.
James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine
Write for Catalogue
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gleanings in Bee Culture
teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free sample. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 months trial 25c. Don't delay but do it today.
A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

BOOKS—BOOKS
We have published some good ones especially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm. Write for our catalogue.
WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines
Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS
The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.
Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill.

The Missoula Nursery
Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.
Every Variety of Standard Fruit
Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees
Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs,
Vines and Roses.
THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY
A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS
Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free.
Mail orders have prompt attention.
MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

ONS APPROACH

Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

URED BY

lanufacturing Co.

LE, KY.

M WAGONS IN THE WORLD

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

agle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

leanings in Bee Culture

aches you about bees, how to handle them for ney and profit. Send for free copy. Read it, hen you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's al 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

OOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones spe- ly suited for farmers. Books that will help ery farmer to make more out of his farm rite for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling her deep or shallow wells in any kind soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or ls. With engines or horse powers. ong, simple and durable. Any me- anic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 ns a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. lapted to bank barn work. Stands up its work—no digging holes for wheels. lf-feed Attachment increases cap ty, lessens labor, makes better bales d does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.,
24 Mai n Street, Sandwich, Ill

la Nursery

cclimated trees and the best Northern States.

Standard Fruit

, Plums, Cherries and Trees ruit Plants, Shrubs, Roses.

G STRAWBERRY

LTY OF TS AND SHRUBS

ns. Also Vegetable Plants ogue and Price List Free. rompt attention.

URSERY CO.
MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

Court meets second Monday in February, first Monday in June, second Monday in August and second Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

to day	9¼ @ 10c
same date last year	1 ⅛c
Bales received to date	1905	1904
ard & Co	5?4	623
J. Mullins	357	397
Koster & Bro	106	..
C. Jones	92	99
Firms		95
Total	1134	1225

The above figures are obtained from general cotton buyers Wednesday, five o'clock.

HAS STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS. The old, original GROVE'S Tasteless Chill Tonic. You know what you are taking. It is iron and quinine in a tasteless form. No cure, no pay. 50c.

Mr. James Glass of Michigan, who has been staying for some months at Dothan, is staying in Clanton with a view of locating here.

Mr. J. W. Maddox and wife visited Mr. G. M. Wyatt Sunday.

Mr. Edwin Billingsley of Thorsby has entered the Stanley Business College at Macon, Ga., for a full course in book keeping.

Mrs. E. A. Matthews and Miss Pruitt left Tuesday morning for Macon, where the latter will attend school for the next few months.

Miss Addie Horsley of Jemison was a pleasant visitor here Wednesday.

Mr. I. N. Langston of Jemison visited his daughter, Mrs. E. G. Ingram, Sunday.

Miss Velma Debardeleben of Tuskegee is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. M. Pinckard.

Ice cold soda water always on tap at Upchurch's drug store.

Miss Minnie Muse has the prettiest line of fall millinery ever seen in Clanton. Don't fail to see her. She will be assisted by Mrs. G. L. Phillips.

Mr. Walter Mills of Short Creek, was in town a few days last week.

Mrs. W. M. McDaniel returned Tuesday from a pleasant visit to relatives in Montgomery.

Mr. W. M. Adams spent several days in Birmingham last week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Spigener returned home from Goodwater Sunday. We are glad to note that Mrs. Spigener is much improved in health.

Mr. C. F. Jones went to Goodwater last Saturday, returning Monday.

Lyon will keep his Gallery open all the time. Plenty of Picture frames cheap.

A nice lot of stationery just received at Upchurch's drug store.

The young men's prayer meeting is progressing nicely. The young men are very enthusiastic over the progress they are making and cordially invite every young man in town to meet with them next Tuesday night.

James Norman, a young white man, charged with assault to rape a respectable white girl living near Verbena, was tried last Monday before Esquire Alex G. Dake at Clanton, and was held to answer the grand jury in the sum of $500 and in default of which he was committed to the county jail.

The public school of Clanton continues to flourish and grow in numbers. The enrollment at present exceeds a hundred, and more are coming.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. Willie Dawson and Miss Carrie Moore; Mr. A. F. Cobb and Miss Carrie Watson, Mr. John W. Harris and Miss Lucy Jane Kelly; Mr. Newman Hayes and Miss Mary Maddox.

Always Successful

When indigestion becomes chronic it is dangerous. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will cure indigestion and troubles resulting therefrom, thus preventing Catarrh of the Stomach. S. S. Newbrough, of League, W. Va. says: "To those suffering from indigestion or sour stomach I would say there is no better remedy than Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have prescribed it for a number of my patients with good success." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys,

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

Mr. J. D. Wyatt and family and Mr. J. J. Maddox and Miss Alice Driver paid Mr. Grover Lockhart a visit Sunday.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Upchurch Drug Co sells and recommends them, at 50c a bottle.

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor I. B Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

	1905
Kircheon	Sept	6	October	2
Pletcher	"	8	"	3
Dixie	"	8	"	4
Shoults	"	7	"	5
Maplesville	"	7	"	6
Benson	"	3	"	7
Macedonia	"	3	"	9
Providence	"	2	"	10
Jemison	"	2	"	11
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	12
Flint Hill	"	11	"	13
Cane Ck. to 12 m.	"	4	"	14
Thorsby	"	9	"	16
Clanton	"	4	"	17
Cooper	"	10	"	18
Verbena	"	5	"	19

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on
your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE

BIRMINGHAM - ALABAMA

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

J. R. BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, Andirons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15 c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

Best For Children

Mothers, be careful of the health of your children. Look out for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. Stop them in time—One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy. Harmless and pleasant. Contains no opiates. A. L. Spafford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses half an hour apart of One Minute Cough Cure speedily cured her." Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

What it Takes to Make a Happy Home

Dear Editor—Will you please allow me a small space in your dear paper to say a few words about what it takes to make a happy home? First of all, it takes a good father and mother and kind words. Never quarrel or snap when any one asks you anything; tell them just as plain as you can, and never snap them up. Never disobey your father and mother, do whatever they tell you to do the very best you can. Study your books every time you get a chance, and when you go to school obey your teacher, do whatever they tell you to. If you can study and you will please them; learn your lessons well and not only learn them to recite, but to remember. Whatever you go to do, do it well or not at all. As I have often heard it said, when you go to black your shoes, black the heels as well as the toes and make it all shine. A happy home is a very pleasant place indeed, and don't forget to praise the Lord for your happy home, for there is no place like home. What is more beautiful and pleasant than a happy home? A happy home is what everyone wants and needs. You must learn to love and to be loved, and above all things never try to talk when older ones are talking; wait until you are called on, and when you go to tell anything tell the truth or nothing, for the little word truth means a heap. Just take it and decide it for yourself, which home had you rather visit, one which is always happy, or one which is always quarreling and even fighting. You would quickly say a happy home where everything is always pleasant. I don't know of a home which I ever visited in my life where there was not any happiness at all, always something to make you happy if you only knew it. Children, when you get mad with one another don't quarrel, if you can't help but get mad, go off to yourself and pout awhile and when you come back you will feel better than you would if you had quarrelled an hour or so.

(To be continued)

Cause of Insomnia

Indigestion nearly always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomonia. Many cases have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Notice to Non-Resident.

G. H. Gerald, Plaintiff, vs. Hans Schytte, Defendant.

In the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama.

To Hans Schytte, the Defendant in the above stated cause, who resides at Station B in the City of Seattle in the State of Washington, U. S. A.

You will take notice that G. H. Gerald, the plaintiff in the above stated cause, sued out an attachment against you, the said Hans Schytte, on the 21st day of April, 1905 to enforce the collection of a debt due him by you in the sum of $132.44 with interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum since the 11th day of October, 1904, together with an additional sum of $25.00, which the said Gerald states is a reasonable attorney's fee for collecting the note evidencing said indebtedness: and said Gerald further states that said indebtedness is evidenced by a promissory note executed by the said Hans Schytte on the 11th day of October, 1904, to J. W. Franzen, and due on the 15th day of April, 1905, at Thorsby Savings Bank, that said note contained a waiver of exemptions as to personal property and a promise to pay a reasonable attorney's fee for the collection thereof, and that said note was duly transferred and assigned to said G. H. Gerald by said J. W. Franzen on the 10th day of March, 1905.

You will further take notice that said attachment was sued out without bond being given by the plaintiff and was levied upon the following real estate to-wit: The N w ¼ of Ne ¼ of the Ne ¼ of Section 6 in Township 22, of Range 14, in Chilton county, Alabama, as the property of the said Hans Schytte, the defendant, by the Sheriff of said Chilton county on the 8th day of May, 1905.

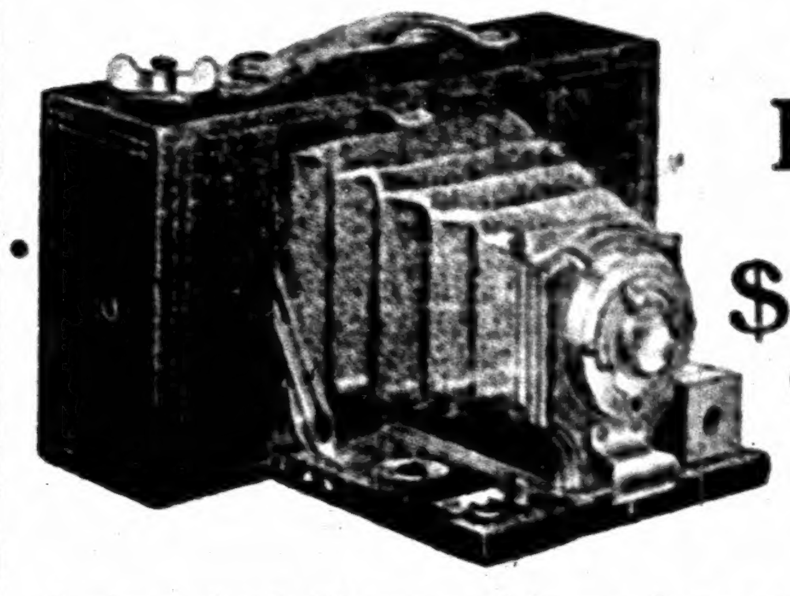
Let this notice be published in The Banner, a weekly newspaper published in said Chilton county, for three successive weeks next following, and a copy of each issue of said newspaper containing said notice be sent by mail to Hans Schytte, the defendant, properly addressed and postage prepaid.

Witness my hand, this the 15th day of September, 1905.
SAM W. COLLINS, Clerk.

Beautiful Women.

Plump cheeks, flushed with the soft glow of health and a pure complexion, make all women beautiful. Take a small dose of Herbine after each meal; it will prevent constipation and help digest what you have eaten. Mrs. Wm. M. Stroud, Midlothian, Tex., writes, May 31, 1901. "We have used Herbine in our family for eight years, and found it the best medicine we ever used for constipation, bilious fever and malaria. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

HERBINE

TRADE MARK

For Sick Livers

A PURELY VEGETABLE
COMPOUND

QUICKLY CURES CONSTIPATION, DYSPEPSIA, MALARIA, CHILLS and ALL LIVER COMPLAINTS.

A GUARANTEED CURE for all diseases produced by TORPID LIVER and IMPURE BLOOD. One bottle purchased today may save you a sick spell tomorrow.

CURED OF CHILLS AND FEVER AFTER ALL OTHER MEDICINES FAILED

Mrs. W. A. Whitewell, Emory, Tex., writes: "My child had chills and fever for four years. We tried all kinds of medicines, and finally an acquaintance of mine recommended Herbine. We used three bottles, and the child is now completely cured. You have my permission to publish this testimonial, as I cheerfully recommend Herbine to all mothers having children afflicted as mine."

LARGE BOTTLE, 50c GET THE GENUINE

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

Send a sample copy of The Banner to your friends

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.
Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.

The Boys

Where are they?—the friends of my childhood enchanted—
The clear, laughing eyes looking back in my own,
And the warm, chubby fingers my palms have so wanted,
As when we raced over pink pastures of clover,
And mocked the quail's whirr and the bumble-bee's drone?

Have the breezes of time blown their blossoming faces
Forever adrift down the years that have flown?
Am I never to see them romp back to their places,
Where over the meadow in sunshine and shadow,
The meadow larks trill, and the bumble bees drone?

Where are they? Ah, dim in the dust lies the clover;
The whippoorwill's call has a sorrowful tone,
And the dove's—I have wept at it over and over—
I want the glad luster of youth, and the cluster
Of faces asleep where the bumble-bees drone.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

THE TRANSFORMATION OF MR·CORELLE

BY DAVID CARROLL GALE

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Mr. Corelle was sitting beside the stove when his wife returned from the village. He looked up in amazement as she entered the room with a large bundle in her arms.

"What's that?" he asked.

"It's a bonnet," she replied, nervously. "I've brought it home to see how you like it."

He continued to stare at her.

"Mine's pretty old, you know. I jest can't remember how many years I've had it."

"Well, I guess it'll have to go another year," he muttered, doggedly. "Buyin' that reaper took all the spare money I've got; we'll be lucky if we git what groceries we want, say nothin' 'bout bonnets. What's the matter with the old one?"

"It looks so shabby I'm ashamed to wear it," she said, sadly. "There ain't a woman in around but what's got a better one. I wouldn't mind it, though, if I thought you couldn't afford to buy one. Don't you think you can spare the money—it ain't only two dollars?"

"Two dollars is a mighty lot when anybody's as short as I am. 'Tain't no use to talk about it; you'll have to send it back."

"Seems as though I'd worked hard enough to deserve a new one," faltered Mrs. Corelle.

"I don't say you ain't," replied her husband. "We can't disagree on that. I guess you've got something in return, though. Don't I give you a good home?"

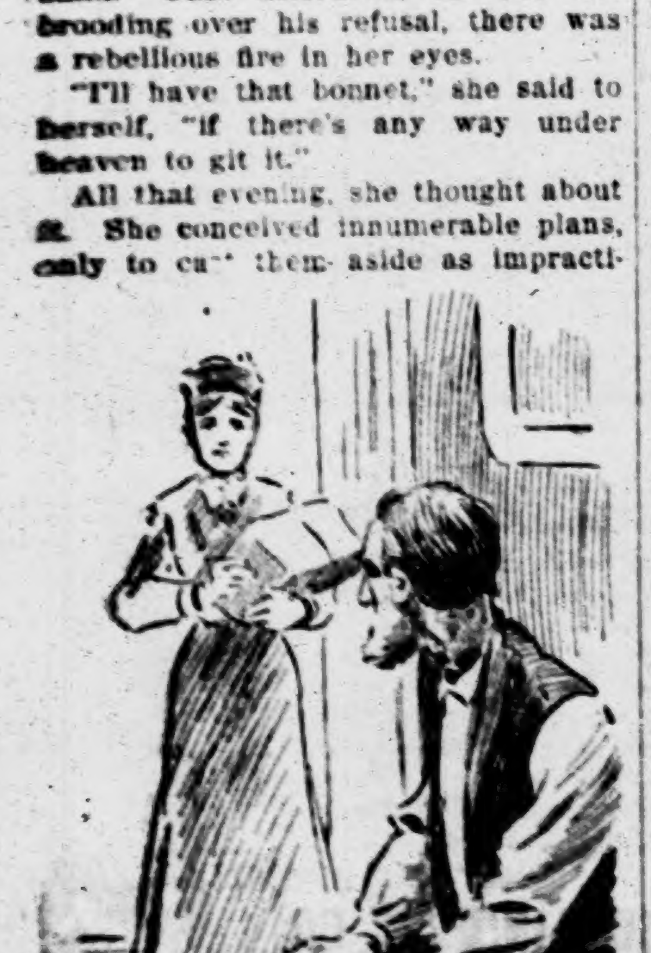
Mrs. Corelle was silent. She glanced about her at the cold, bare walls, and fell to thinking of other days. Thirty years had passed since Ophir Corelle had brought his bride to that farmhouse. It was far from new then, and Mr. Corelle had never wasted any money on paint or wall paper. The furniture, also, was worn and battered beyond respectabilitiy. The master of the house gave no thought to such things; the desire of his heart was to swell the competence which had been steadily accumulating month by month.

His wife had been a most industrious helper. Each day found her in her accustomed place—never had she known what it was to have a vacation. Her form had become bent and twisted; her face was prematurely drawn and wrinkled. In return for all this drudgery and sacrifice she received what she wanted to eat and a roof to cover her head.

Perhaps she never had seen the injustice of it all as she did that day. At least, it was the first time she had thought seriously of opposing her husband. That afternoon, as she sat brooding over his refusal, there was a rebellious fire in her eyes.

"I'll have that bonnet," she said to herself, "if there's any way under heaven to git it."

All that evening, she thought about it. She conceived innumerable plans, only to cast them aside as impracticable. At last her eyes lighted up with determination.



"What's that?"

"I'll do it," she said under her breath. "I hate to try it, but I can't think o' no other way."

The following morning Mr. Corelle rose from the breakfast table, and was about to pass out of the room, when his wife asked:

"Are you goin' to Manbrook today?"

"Yes," he mumbled.

"Can I go with you? Then I can stop on the way an' leave that bonnet."

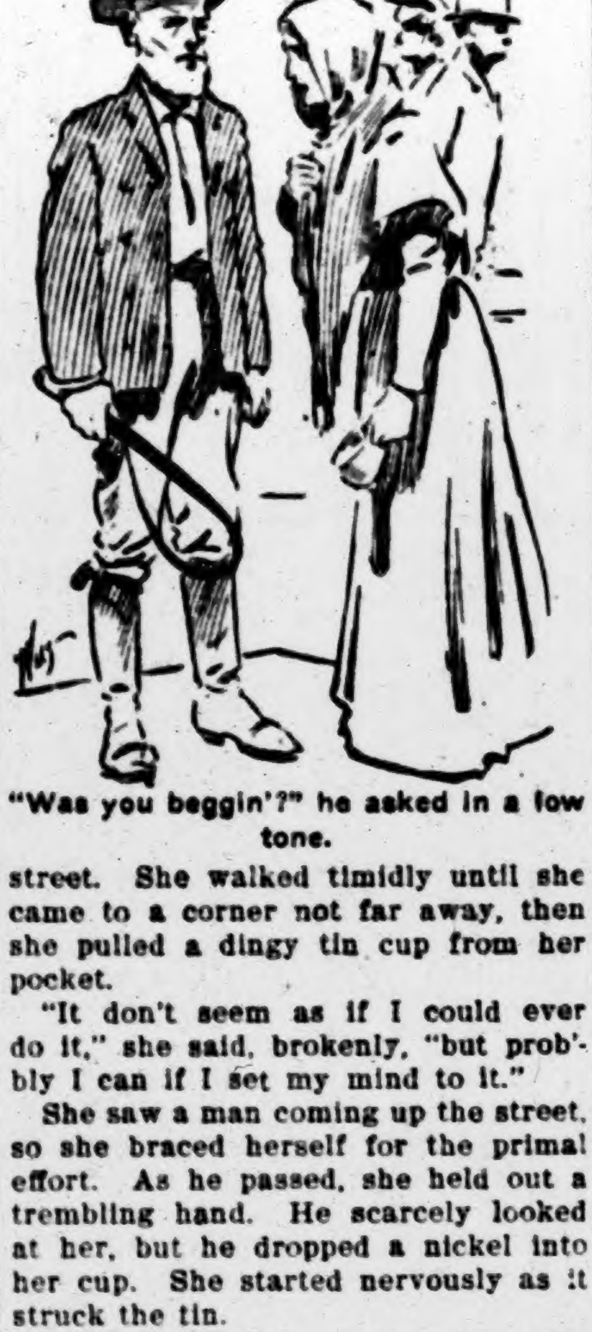
Mr. Corelle hesitated.

"There ain't much work to do today. I shan't have to neglect anything," she continued.

"Yes, I s'pose you can go, if you want to," he said, "provided you don't buy anything."

"I ain't a-goin' for that," she replied. "I jest thought I'd like to go, that's all."

When they reached Manbrook, Mr. Corelle went to attend to some business, leaving his wife at one of the stores. No sooner had he departed than she drew her old faded shawl over her head and hurried out on the street. She walked timidly until she came to a corner not far away, then she pulled a dingy tin cup from her pocket.



"Was you beggin'?" he asked in a low tone.

"It don't seem as if I could ever do it," she said, brokenly, "but prob'bly I can if I set my mind to it."

She saw a man coming up the street, so she braced herself for the primal effort. As he passed, she held out a trembling hand. He scarcely looked at her, but he dropped a nickel into her cup. She started nervously as it struck the tin.

Before she could recover from the shock a lady stepped up and slipped a quarter into her hand. Mrs. Corelle turned to gaze at her benefactor, wonderingly. She was so thankful that they did not stop to look at her. As it was, she felt like hiding her face in shame. While her eyes were still following the retreating form, she heard her husband's voice beside her.

"What in the world are you doin' here?" he ejaculated.

"It's the only way I could git any money," she cried, passionately.

"Was you beggin'?" he asked in a low tone.

"Yes, I was. I thought I'd rather do that than go without everything I want. I didn't think 'twould be so hard, though." And Mrs. Corelle buried her face in her shawl.

"Come," he said, sternly; "don't you stay here another minute."

Meekly, she obeyed him, and a little later they started on their homeward way. For some time they rode in silence. At last he turned toward her, and his face shone with a new light.

"Give me that money," he commanded. "You ain't a-goin' to buy nothin' with that."

She handed it to him obediently, and he threw it out beside the road. Then he spoke again and beamed at her through his tears.

"You can have the new bonnet," he stammered, "an' I'll have some new furniture, an' the house fixed up, too. I'm going to have you have what you want after this."

Webster's Bill Which Grew.

Daniel Webster was never noted for attention to detail in business matters. His well known failings were often taken advantage of by unscrupulous creditors, who gave no receipts for paid bills, simply because they were not demanded. Webster was well aware of this, but it seemed to trouble him very little.

On one occasion a creditor presented a bill which seemed familiar, and Webster asked: "Isn't this bill pretty large?"

"I think not," replied the maker of it, confidently.

"Well," said Webster, handing over the money, "every time I have paid that bill it has seemed to me a trifle larger."

THE BOSS OF THE RANCH.

Small City Girl Well Knew Powers of the Janitor.

Mabel's mama and papa had just moved into the new apartment and Mabel had been intrusted with the important duty of tending door while the maid washed windows. Very anxiously she waited for the bell to ring that she might enjoy the full dignity of her new post. At last the reward came, and a loud peal sent her scudding to the hall. A pompous looking old gentleman stood before the small tot as with great difficulty she turned the latch and swung upen the portal.

"Is your mother in, little girl?" said the pompous old gentleman.

"Yes, sir," said Mabel.

"Tell her the landlord would like to see her for a few moments."

"The—what?" asked Mabel doubtfully. She had never heard that word before, and if she had she could not have pronounced it.

"Tell her—a gentleman," said the old man, seeing Mabel's dilemma.

Presently Mabel came running back.

"Mama says she's very busy and—what do you want to see her about—and who are you, please?"

"Tell her," said the old gentleman, desperately, "that it's the man who owns the house."

"Oh!" A great light broke over Mabel's face. "Mama!" she cried, "he said he was the Lord, but it's only the janitor!"—New York Press.

Poured Gold in His Teeth.

This story has come to light in a police court. A young man from Chicago arrived in New York, hoping to obtain work as a waiter.

He failed, and was arrested for stealing a roll of cloth from a tailor shop, in broad daylight. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and told the following story:

"All the money I had was spent. I had no friend to help me get work. I pawned my overcoat and spent the money I got on it, except 15 cents. I spent that for a pair of jliers, which I used to to rip the gold teeth from my mouth. These cost me $75 and I pawned them for $3.50, all I could get, and when that money was gone I had to steal or starve.

"I went to a clothing shop, picked up a roll of cloth in plain view of its owners, and stood ten feet from the door, waiting to be sent to prison, where I would be sure of a bed and some food."

Recorder Goff paroled the young young man and the officials saw that he was sent to his home in Chicago.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Circus Lion.

The lion drowses in his gaudy den,
I think he dreams of things beyond the ken
Of tinseled shows of animals and men.

. . . .

The moonlight trembles on the forest depth
The fountain in the palace long hath slept,
The shadows to the desert's edge have crept.

The clean brown desert sand beyond, there lie
Blotches of malachite and ebony,
The minaret shines white against the sky.

A soft wind stirs upon his shaggy mane,
A magic fragrance blows across the plain,
Borne from the blossom of a crimson stain.

By one and two gaunt, lissome shapes go by,
All ghostlike pictures to the dreamer's eye;
He sends them in his sleep a hoarse, wild cry.

The band men play, the street boys yell and run,
The circus wagons glisten in the sun;
The show moves slowly on—the dream is done.

—Richard Scrace, Guelph, Ont.

Mr. MacQueen as a Minister.

The Rev. Peter MacQueen tells this story on himself: It seems that Mr. Murphy, the famous temperance orator, made one of his great speeches in the West Somerville Congregational church some years ago. At the close of the service one of Mr. McQueen's parishioners, a worthy Scot addicted to strong liquors, came up to sign the temperance pledge.

Mr. Murphy talked to the Scotchman and asked him if Mr. McQueen was not a brother Scot. "What kind of a minister is Mr. MacQueen?" said Murphy to the converted tippler.

"He's a foin mon, that Mister MacQueen; a grawn meenister that; there's nane o' this dom'd releegion aboot him," replied the old Scotchman.

Two Fish Unaccounted For.

"Old" Gorton of Manchester was an ardent disciple of Izaak Walton. On one occasion he was sitting upon the railroad bridge in company with some of the young men of the town, pursuing his favorite occupation. The fish did not bite well, however, and one of his companions, becoming impatient, unnoticed by the old man, got up, wound up his line, and started for home, throwing a couple of fish into Gorton's basket as he passed.

After a time Gorton, too, tired of his poor luck, prepared for dearture. Lifting the the cover of his basket, he looked in, counted his catch, and said, with a surprised and disappointed voice: "Why, I had five cunners and now there ain't but seven! Where the devil's tother two?"

She Was Safe in Natick.

Little Hester, 4 years old, was visiting her grandparents, who are very strict Scotch Presbyterians. One day, having done something naughty, her grandmother took her in her arms, talked to her about being good and finished by saying: "God sees you, and he will not love you if you are not a good little girl."

Hester opened wide her wondering eyes, and gravely looking into her grandmother's face, said: "But, grandma, he can't see me when I am at home, for there is no God in Natick."

FOUND AN EASY VICTIM.

Boston Photographer Falls to Very Old Trick.

A man went into a Boston photographer's gallery the other day. Men have done this before and survived—even though taken from life. The man was on the usual errand, a fact that he carefully imparted to the artist.

"Make the best presentation you can of me, gentle sir," he said in a courteous way. "And while I need but one, a dozen will not come amiss. Let them be your pemmier cabinets, for I would not curtail the expense."

The photographer rubbed his hands together in a purring way.

"I will try to satisfy you, sir," he said. "Pray be seated."

The subject smiled as the artist posed him.

"I will admit," he said, "that I desire to look my very best. A heart's happiness this portrait makes."

"I fully comprehend," said the artist.

The sitter glanced at his vest.

"Seems rather dull and tame to me," he said. "Ought to be brightened up a little. Here, supose you let me wear that watch and chain of yours just as a catchy outward decoration."

So the smiling photographer passed him the gold watch with its heavy chain and the sitter donned them with perceptible pleasure.

"That'll go fine with the rest of the makeup," he said, and a moment or two later after the photographer had stepped out to get a dry plate or something he returned to find that the watch and chain had gone with the rest of the makeup to parts unknown.

And all this happened in simple old Boston.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dr. Braman and the Fiddlers.

The Rev. Milton P. Braman, D. D., for thirty-five years pastor of the First Church of Danvers, Mass., retiring in 1861, was widely known as a preacher and theologian. He was, however, conservative to the point of bigotry, and eccentric withal. One of his eccentricities was his determined opposition to instrumental music in church, whch he seemed to regard as little short of sacrilege. Therefore, it may readily be understood that when the parish introduced a first and second violin and bass as accompaniment to the singing of the choir, the doctor's ire was aroused, and he took no pains to conceal it.

On the Sunday after the introduction of the carnal instruments, when the preacher rose to announce the first hymn, he did it in this wise: "The choir will now please to fiddle and sing to the glory of God the 100th Psalm."

Judge Peabody's Irate Client.

Some years ago the husband of an Irish lady in Portland, Maine, found himself in difficulty, requiring the services of an attorney. So the wife, who managed affairs, went to a leading concern which she'd employed before, only to find it had been secured by the other side. Inquiring who she'd better employ, Lawyer Peabody, now a justice of the supreme judicial court of Maine, was recommended. He was engaged, but the opposite party won.

A few days later an acquaintance, referring to her mistfortune, asked the lady if she had counsel.

'Yes, I did," she emphatically replied. "I had Paybody, and I might just as well had nobody."

In Doubt About the Head.

Patrick Murphy, while passing down Tremont street, Boston, was hit on the head by a brick which fell from a building in process of construction. One of the first things he did after being taken home and put to bed was to send for a lawyer.

A few days later he received word to call, as his lawyer had settled the case. He called and received five crisp, new $100 bills.

"How much did you get?" he asked.

"Two thousand dollars," answered the lawyer.

"Two thousand, and you give me $500? Say, who got hit by that brick, you or me?"

Blind Men Used Striped Paint.

A short time ago a salesman from the Pennsylvania Institute for the Blind came to Fall River to sell brooms. In the course of his talk, he explained that the brooms were made by blind people, of whom he was one.

After he had departed, one of the men who heard him tell his story said: "I believe all he said about blind men making the brooms, but how can they paint the stripes on the handles?"

"Oh," said another, "they use striped paint for that."—Boston Herald.

His Maiden Name Was Moses.

When the writer first taught in a southern college she was much interested in the negro problem, although not connected with a school for the blacks. Meeting a shiny-faced little ragmuffin on the college campus one day, I said: "Well, my little man, what's your name, please?"

The miniature Hottentot pulled off his tattered hat and replied: "Dey calls me Pete, missis, but my maiden name's Moses."—Boston Herald.

Her Favorites.

As back on the prospect
My memory looks,
I always have carried Elizabeth's books
When speller and reader
So potent held sway,
I blissfully burdened Myself every day.
When, grown up, we courted,
I kept at her call
Live sonnets and poems
Of Browning et al.
Now, married, I carry
Her favorite sage,
With "Pay to the order"
Engraved on each page.

—McLandburgh Wilson.

Fought Like True Ameri

A detachment of six men were carrying dispatches from a command near Red river to Camp Supply. Of the six two were scouts, Amos Chapman and William Dixon. The others were cavalrymen. Far from any refuge they were surrounded by nearly 200 Indians. They sought shelter in a buffalo wallow and prepared to hold their ground. The attack came at 6 o'clock in the morning and the long, long day stretched before them. In the first rush four these six were wounded, Private Smith mortally. The other hurts were severe.

They were hemmed in on all sides in an open plain, and were outnumbered almost twenty to one. One of the scouts, while a severe fire was being poured in at them at close range, succeeded in throwing up a scanty intrenchment with his bowie knife and his hands. His comrades held the Kiowas and Comanches off until this little help was ready as a refuge and they moved into the trench, the wounded walking with brave and painful effort.

Although Private Smith was wounded unto death, he sat upright in the trench to conceal tion from the fo

ing until night men was under almost often at such short could bring their Thus they fought for and defended
without food and muddy water mixed with blood. They k dozen Indians and wounded
score.

Relief came that night thirty-six hours after before medical a given them at the vate Smith died before reached. Every man Scout Chapman severely
Dixon several times
ously. This band of two scouts were of been fighting and amid the most
They were worn but their souls
outdoors" and they under heaven. And these was this

Methods of Preparing

An English traveler says in a letter to the London Times: "History tells us that, when coffee was first brought to the cities of western Europe the first makers of it were Turks. They roasted and ground the berries and served the liquor, as it is served to this day in the east, grits and all. We still drink coffee as we drank it then, with this difference, that we mostly omit the grits and drink an infusion instead of a decoction. It was not so with tea. No Chinaman was imported with the first pound of tea to teach us how to make and drink it. The consequence has been that we have never drunk tea in the Chinese way—that is, as a simple infusion.

"At first there seems to have been great doubt, as to how to deal with the new herb. It is even said that it was sometimes boiled, with salt and butter and served up as a sort of spinach. The old phrase 'a dish of tea' seems to bear out this legend. Finally it came to be settled that the most wholesome and pleasant way to treat the tea leaf was to make it into a kind of sweet soup with sugar and milk or cream. I have personal knowledge of no country but one, where teas

—Portugal, which got its of teamaking from a China, with which at that other nation of Europe was

"It was while traveling back with a guide in the of Portugal away from where we had perforce periments in the most of the few ounces of tea that we could afford to carry that we hit upon a discovery ing no milk, we drank our tea Portuguese drink theirs, as infusion, sweetened with

"I remembered to have lieve in the travels of the that, when the Chinese thrifty in the use of the more expensive teas they leaf to a powder and use infusion. We found that be ground in a coffee mill as coffee, that tea made with der is as good as or better made with the whole leaf powder, as it naturally farther than the tea leaf."

Paid Debt with Knighth

In a recently published autobiography of Sir Henry Bessemer is told how, in 1833, when he was a youth of 20, he learned that the British government was losing about $500,000 a year through the use of forged stamps. He set about finding a remedy. In nine months he discovered how to forge government stamps with the greatest ease. This was a risky bit of knowledge for a struggling young man who wanted money wherewith to get married to the girl of his choice. But young Bessemer having invented forthwith the perforated stamp that is now known everywhere, went gayly to the government officials with the forgeries in his pocket to ask if they were genuine. When Sir Charles Presley passed upon them as genuine, Bessemer remarked that he knew they were forgeries—"simply because I forged them myself." Then he suggested a remedy. It was accepted. Bessemer was offered the post of superintendent of stamps—for plant and staff must be reorganized—at $3,000 to $4,000 a year.

Young Bessemer went away happily to tell his good luck to the choice. He explained to uation, how old stamps picked off documents and and how he had invented a plan to remedy this. "But said the young lady, "if all had a date put on them they at a future time be used tection." This rather startled Bessemer. But he devised a method of marking the British government was The device was accepted change of machinery or needed, Bessemer was no superintendent of stamps be appointed. Thus he had himself of a job.

Forty-five years later, after invented the "Bessemer preparing iron and had made fortune, Bessemer wrote to consfield, then prime minister ing out that he had saved the millions without the reward ny. He no longer wanted the government acknowledge debt and paid it with a

Visible to Physicians' E

"The medical man is on nodding terms with death at most street corners in our larger towns."

A writer in this week's Lancet, pointing out that a doctor sees many things which are hidden from the average man's eye, sums up the position in this grim phrase.

The medical man, he says, must remain a pathologist in the street, and he sees many unsuspected tragedies. Who else would suspect the sword of Damocles that is hanging above this red faced merchant, or see in his cheeks the signal of a fruit overripe?

To the lay mind this portly person stands for all that is prosperous and confident, and his appetite is the envy of many of his dyspeptic friends—who will send wreaths to his grave.

See the bluff and kindly manner in which he hands a shilling to a thin faced woman selling boot laces in the gutter. It is only the medical man who will dare to prophesy white hairs for her long after her been gathered to his fathers.

Behind sunburnt cheeks that make all these other faces look pallid and worn
—the medical man is quick nize the imprint of the other things pointing to diagnosis.

The woman with the spot upon her face affords her chapter for reflection.
be lupus or epithelioma ulcer, it will mean far greater sion of bodily and mental that of any broken limb.

But, on the other hand has compensations. He sees pallid man with his arm will in a few weeks be able ride to hounds; that the ple appealing to the charity by is in no pain, and probably able to enjoy life as any London Mirror.

Decrease of White Pla

The modern crusade against consumption is no losing fight, but one in which every blow tells. It is encouraging to note, from the first annual report of the Commitee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis, that the death rate from this deadly malady is decreasing quite rapidly, especially in those places where the public is being instructed and the necessary sanitary reforms made.

The following statements recently made by Prof. Fisher of Yale show the encouraging rate at which tuberculosis is decreasing in this and other countries: "In England it declined in seventy years from thirty-nine per ten thousand of the poulation to thirteen. Although sanatoria did not exist in the early part of this period, England did have (and was the first country to introduce) consumption hospitals, which served like isolation wards to prevent the spread of infection hospitals, together with the love of out-of-door sports and of ventilating appliances fireplaces are probably the tion of their growing consumption.

"In Germany, during the teen years, the death rate clined from thirty-one to one-half—a full third less

"In the United States rate in 1900, in the area registration has been nineteen, as against 1890, showing a decline of per cent in ten years.
city, owing largely to the ing and Biggs, the death diminished in twenty forty per cent.
prediction that the cades will each improvement."

DEATH SEEMED NEAR.

Women Found Help When Was Fast Failing Away.

914 W. Lake St. "Doan's Kidney Pills saved me from death of Bright's disease, I am sure. I had eye trouble, backache, catches when lying abed or when bending over, was languid and often dizzy and had sick headaches and bearing-down pains. The kidney secretions copious and frequent and in appearance. It was in Doan's Kidney Pills helped quickly and cured me of these and I've been well ever Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. by all druggists. Price, 50 box.

Diamonds Have Been Found

States localities that have diamonds are Shelby county, Amador, El Dorado, Butte, Trinity, Del Norte and Tulare California; Brown and Morgan counties, Indiana; Russell county, Cass Co., Michigan; Clermont county, Ohio; Monroe, Roane counties, Tennessee; Pierce Washington, Ozaukee, Waukesha Racine counties, Wisconsin. A of Cass county, Michigan, 10 7-8 karats, and one of Waukesha county, Wisconsin, 15 12-32

LIVER AND BOWELS

MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR

PROMPTLY CURES CONSTIPATION, INDIGESTION, SOUR STOMACH AND ALL DERANGEMENTS OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS. 50 CENTS A BOTTLE AT ALL DRUG STORES.

Write Quick FOR A Big Bargain

advertise the South's Leading College, four scholarships are offered persons of this county at less than WRITE TODAY

BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Hens Find Money.

some hens were scratching the Caldwell & Brill Company's at Baraboo, Wis., they un a bill-book containing notes, and certificates to the value of The papers are the property of Prairie Du Sac Bank, which was about two years ago. The were evidently placed there by robbers.

First Chinese Patent.

has just granted its first pat. This is for an electric lamp, the of which is an inhabitant of the old capital of the Chinese who calls his lamp the "bright light," and asserts that it is far to foreign glow-lights that have been sold at Shanghai other Chinese cities.

Veteran Bicyclist.

W. Davis is the champion bic of his age in the world. He is 77 old and has ridden 107,781 miles bicycle. He began riding at the 61.

British Match Users.

matches are used in Britain any other country in the world been estimated that every Bri an average of eight matches automobile has taken a strong in Peru. Lima is to have a ser automobile omnibuses, each de to carry thirty passengers.

HONEST PHYSICIAN.

Works With Himself First.

a mistake to assume that phy are always skeptical as to the properties of anything else drugs.

the best doctors are those seek to heal with as little use of as possible, and by the use of food and drink. A physician from Calif. to tell how he made man of himself with nature's

"Before I came from Europe where born," he says, "it was my cus to take coffee with milk (cafe au with my morning meal, a small cafe noir after my dinner and or three additional small cups at club during the evening.

time nervous symptoms devel with pains in the cardiac region, accompanied by great depression despondency—in brief, 'the I at first tried medicines, but relief, and at last realized that troubles were caused by coffee. quit its use forthwith, sub English Breakfast Tea.

tea seemed to help me at first. in time the old distressing symp returned, and I quit it also, and to use milk for my table bever. This I was compelled, however, abandon speedily, for while it re the nervousness somewhat it on constipation. Then by a inspiration I was led to try the Food Coffee. This was some ago, and I still use it. I am no nervous, nor do I suffer from about the heart, while my have left me and life is bright once more. I know that leaving and using Postum healed me, I make it a rule to advise my pa to use it." Name given by Pos Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

there's a reason.

[DE]ATH SEEMED NEAR.

Woman Found Help Was Fast Fading Away.

...d, 914 W. Lake St., ... "Doan's Kidney ... saved me from death of Bright's disease, I am sure. I had eye trouble, backache, catches when lying abed or when bending over, was languid and often dizzy and had sick headaches and bearing-down pains. The kidney secretions ... and frequent, and ... appearance. It was in ... Kidney Pills helped ... and cured me of these ... and I've been well ever

...Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. ... all druggists. Price, 50 ... box.

Diamonds Have Been Found.

... localities that have ... Shelby county, ... El Dorado, Butte, ... Norte and Tulare ... Brown and Morgan ... Indiana, Russell county, ... Cass Co., Michigan; Clermont ... Ohio, Monroe, Roane ... counties, Tennessee; Pierce ... Washington, Ozaukee, Waukesha ... counties, Wisconsin. A ... of ... county, Michigan, ... 15 12-32 ... and one of Waukesha ... Wisconsin, 15 12-32

LIVER AND BOWELS
NOTHING CAN EQUAL
MOZLEY'S LEMON ELIXIR
PROMPTLY CURES CONSTIPATION, ... INDIGESTION, SOUR STOM... AND ALL DERANGEMENTS OF THE ... AND BOWELS. 50 CENTS A ... AT ALL DRUG STORES.

...ute Quick FOR A Big Bargain
... advertise the South's Leading ... College; four scholarships are offered ... persons of this county at less than ...
WRITE TODAY
... BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Hens Find Money.

... hens were scratching ... the Caldwell & Brill Company's ... at Baraboo, Wis., they unearthed a bill-book containing notes, ... certificates to the value of ... The papers are the property of ... Du Sac Bank, which was ... about two years ago. The ... were evidently placed there by ... others.

First Chinese Patent.

... has just granted its first patent. This is for an electric lamp, the ... of which is an inhabitant of ... the old capital of the Chinese ... who calls his lamp the "bright light," and asserts that it is far ... to foreign glow-lights that ... have been sold at Shanghai ... other Chinese cities.

Veteran Bicyclist.

... Davis is the champion bicyclist ... his age in the world. He is 77 ... and has ridden 107,781 miles ... bicycle. He began riding at the ... of 61.

British Match Users.

... matches are used in Britain ... any other country in the world. ... been estimated that every Briton ... an average of eight matches ... day.

... automobile has taken a strong ... in Peru. Lima is to have a service of automobile omnibuses, each designed to carry thirty passengers.

HONEST PHYSICIAN.

Works With Himself First.

... a mistake to assume that physicians are always skeptical as to the ... properties of anything else ... drugs.

... the best doctors are those ... seek to heal with as little use of ... as possible, and by the use of ... food and drink. A physician ... from Calif. to tell how he made ... man of himself with nature's ...

"... I came from Europe, where ... born," he says, "it was my custom to take coffee with milk (cafe au ... with my morning meal, a small ... cafe noir after my dinner and ... three additional small cups at ... during the evening.

... time nervous symptoms developed ... with pains in the cardiac region, ... accompanied by great depression ... spirits, despondency—in brief, 'the ...' I at first tried medicines, but ... relief, and at last realized that ... my troubles were caused by coffee. ... thereupon quit its use forthwith, substituting English Breakfast Tea.

"The tea seemed to help me at first, ... in time the old distressing symptoms returned, and I quit it also, and ... to use milk for my table beverage. This I was compelled, however, ... abandon speedily, for while it relieved the nervousness somewhat it ... on constipation. Then by a ... inspiration I was led to try the ... Postum Food Coffee. This was some ... ago, and I still use it. I am no ... nervous, nor do I suffer from ... pains about the heart, while my ... have left me and life is bright ... once more. I know that leaving ... and using Postum healed me, ... make it a rule to advise my patients to use it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

... there's a reason.

FISHING OR AGRICULTURE?

Professor Wisdom was a learned man,
A very learned man was he;
Why, he'd read Arabic or Hindustan
As easy as our A. B. C.

One summer time he thought he'd take a rest;
From school books he would get away;
He'd take his collar off, also his vest,
And watch the farmers making hay.

And thus he chanced to meet a farmer boy,
One who was bright, yet had a way
Of asking some deep questions to annoy
The greatest thinkers of the day.

The Professor talked on the growth of yams,
And explained about the vulture,
But balked when that boy asked, "If digging clams Was fishing or agriculture?"
—Judson Bisco in New England Grocer.

JUST FOR FUN

"Wasn't that woman's club a success?" "No; it had all the discomforts of home."—Brooklyn Life.

Old Rocksey—"The young man who marries my daughter must be rich." Impecune—"Well, sir, I don't know of any better way to get rich than to marry her."—Puck.

Inert Ike—"Wot does 'procrastinate' mean?" Homeless Homer—"To put off." Inert Ike—"Gee, but wuzn't we procrastinated from dat fast freight!"—Cleveland Leader.

"What landed you here?" asked the prison visitor. "Dis is a case o' mistaken identity," replied the convict. "I mean de feller I took fur me pal was a fly cop."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Lady—"Ah, my poor man, I am glad to hear you say you never miss a bath." Gritty George—"No'm! I haven't taken one in ten years and I don't miss it a bit."—Chicago Daily News.

Cholly—"I s-say, guide; I think we are following these bear-tracks in the wrong direction." Guide—"Oh, no. We will soon catch up with him." Cholly—"T-that's what I m-meant."—Judge.

Paw Figgjam—"What makes you think your teacher is crazy?" Tommy Figgjam—"Because when she whipped me yesterday she told me she stood 'in loco paresis' to me!"—Baltimore American.

"Was anybody punished for Grafton's misdeeds?" "Yes." "I understood he was acquitted." "He was. But the business men on the jury lost money and missed their meals."—Washington Star.

"Do you think there is any difference in a man's weight before he eats his meal, and afterwards?" asked the boarding-house lady. "Well, not if he gets the meal here," replied the thin boarder.—Yonkers Statesman.

"Here's a clergyman who urges that women should go to church plainly dressed." "Indeed? He must want to add to the problem, 'Why do not men go to church?' the problem, 'Why do not women go to church?'"—Puck.

"Isn't it queer," said Singleton, "that a woman takes a man's name when she marries?" "Oh, I don't know," replied Wedderly. "It would be queerer still if she didn't take everything else the poor jay has."—Chicago Daily News.

"Did the father give the little bride away?" "I should say he did! He got rattled, and what do you think he said as he handed her over to the groom?" "What?" "'It is more blessed to give than to receive!'"—Cleveland Leader.

"It is hard to tell whom you can trust," said one grafter. "Yes," answered the other. "Sometimes I think there is no such thing as honesty. You never know who is going to turn State's evidence next."—Washington Star.

"How did you find things in America?" asked the interviewer of the European who had come over here to look around. "Well," was the answer, "credit is dilated, stocks diluted, and the President is delighted."—Washington Star.

"No, indeed," she said; "I can never be your wife. Why, I have half a dozen offers before yours." "Huh!" rejoined the young man in the case. "That's nothing. I proposed to at least a dozen girls before I met you."—Chicago Daily News.

"How do you explain these mutinies in the Russian navy?" "Very easily," answered the English fisherman. "People who can't tell a trawler from a warship must be too nearsighted to recognize their own commanders."—Washington Star.

"A Government official is but a servant of the people," said the man with old-fashioned ideas. "Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "The trouble is that in so many cases the tips amount to more than the regular wages."—Washington Star.

"What is the foot and mouth disease?" "It is an ailment much prevalent among a certain class of public men, who have a bad mouth, and every time they open it they put their foot in it. Next time you can ask a harder one."—Boston Transcript.

Sharpleigh—"There's Dusenberry; he's slept only two hours a day for the past five years." Snodgrass—"How remarkable." Sharpleigh—"Yes, he's had a Government job that long and takes the remainder of his rest at night."—Washington Life.

Collector—"I've motioned to that old man three times, and he pretends not to see me. Now, I'm going to present this bill in the presence of his friends." Office Boy—"Aw, you chump! he can't see you—don't you know he's blind?" Collector—"Blind? Then, by George, he's got me—this is payment at sight!"—Cleveland Leader.

Books in British Museums.

In the reading room of the British museum the desks are crowded with students all day long, and in addition to the books of reference some 20,000 in number, which fill the open shelves of the room from 3,000 to 4,000 volumes are given out every day. Theology in a wide sense, including the Bible, biblical literature, church history and works on the religious rites and ceremonies of all races and creeds, is easily at the head of the list, with about 300 volumes. Topography comes next, with about twenty fewer, and of these books on London amount to a quarter, books on English topography to another quarter, the other half being for the rest of the world. History and biography come next, English history being mostly in demand, and books on France and the French provinces second.

Essays, criticisms and miscellaneous literature take the fourth place, and are followed by fiction—not less than five years old—moral philosophy, poetry and the fine arts, the drama, law and philology, political economy and so on down to politics, mathematics and chemistry, which have about forty volumes apiece, and lastly works on naval and military subjects, which seldom have more than three or four volumes each. It is a curious list and throws a useful light on the sort of studies taken up by the readers in the museum.

Mule Finds Rich Lead Ore.

Half the lead that has been mined in the United States has come from the famous Coeur d'Alenes, the most productive lead mines in the world. Like many of the richest mines, they were discovered by pure luck. A man lent his mule to two prospectors. In the course of their wanderings the mule was tied to a tree, and he, becoming impatient, pawed the ground and uncovered a lead vein which is now the site of the famous Bunker Hill Sullivan mine.

The owner of the mule sued for a third interest in the claim and the courts granted it to him, stating that as the mule had made the discovery, and that, as he was its owner, he was entitled to the mule's share. The three owners sold their discovery for $500,000, and nothing was too good for that mule for the rest of his days. He was exhibited in a private car and lived on the fat of the land, and now a marble tombstone marks his grave. His harness hangs in a noted saloon, where it is gazed upon with deepest reverence for the old-time prospectors.

The mine is the richest silver lead mine in the world, yielding a net revenue of $1,500,000. Since their discovery in 1884 the Coeur d'Alene mines have produced nearly $200,000,000 in gold, silver and lead.

West Point's Oldest Graduate.

Gen. Herman Haupt, of Washington is the oldest living graduate of West Point Military Academy, and a man distinguished in civil war military history and in railway and engineering circles. General Haupt graduated from West Point in 1835, in the same class with General Meade. President Jackson appointed him a cadet when he was only 13 years old. He graduated when he was 18, and so probably can claim the additional distinction of having graduated younger than any other cadet.

Great Italian Actress.

Signora Duse, the great Italian actress, who has been appearing in London, has a wonderful power of facial expression. One moment she is apparently a girl of 16; at the next without any make-up she resembles an old woman of 60. She is an actress who feels her part intensely. She is reported to have said on one occasion: "If I played 'Camille' two night in succession, especially the death scene, I should die. I am sure I should die: the part is so real to me."

Ancient Counterpane.

Mrs. Lutie Whitlock, of Martin, Tenn., has in her possesion an ancient and highly prized counterpane that her gradmother, Mrs. Lucy Freeman, made 116 years ago, when she was a young girl in Virginia. She carded the cotton, spun and wove the cloth, also carded and spun all the thread it is made of. It is an exceedingly handsome piece of work, containing some forty or fifty designs of the finest embroidery stitching, etc. It has been handed down and kept in perfect condition ever since it was made in 1789.

It will be interesting and an innovation if Major Higginson brings over the French composer, Vincent d'Indy, to conduct some of the Boston symphony concerts this season. The Boston orchestra has always been very conservative in the matter of star conductors, as for example in the Richard Strauss episode. D'Indy is a remarkable man, and his poetic ideas and original harmonies have stirred the musical world, though his music has no such world-wide vogue as that of Richard Strauss.

Deaths From Drink.

The rate of mortality from drink is 128,000 per annum in the United Kingdom, or, in other words, one death in seven is partly or wholly caused by it

Counterfeit Relics.

An article in a recent number of the Birmingham (England) Mail states that a factory in that town is turning out weekly about 1,200 flint-lock muskets, and that a large number of this antiquated firearm is also made at Liege, Belgium. It is known in the trade that many of these newly made weapons fall into the hands of travelers, who regard them in the light of a "find," and a story is told of a Birmingham manufacturer having received a letter from a dealer asking him to procure some old flint-locks, for which the dealer had several customers, when the manufacturers wrote that he could not supply old muskets, but was prepared to make him any number of new ones required. These were, of course, given the appearance of age. The demand for old weapons is so great, especially in the American season, that the genuine articles would go but a little way to satisfy it.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The deepest gold mine in the world is at Bendigo, in Australia.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

Japan is pushing the construction of railways in Korea rapidly.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'Brien, 322 Third Avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

London and Liverpool are both at the level of the sea.

For Mosquito Bites

And the poisonous sting of all insects Sloan's Liniment is the great antiseptic.

The Japanese Postal Savings Banks pay interest at the rate of 5-4 per cent.

DISFIGURED BY ECZEMA

Wonderful Change in a Night—In a Month Face Was Clear as Ever—Another Cure by Cuticura.

"I had eczema on the face for five months, during which time I was in the care of physicians. My face was so disfigured I could not go out, and it was going from bad to worse. A friend recommended Cuticura. The first night after I washed my face with Cuticura Soap and used Cuticura Ointment and Resolvent I changed wonderfully. From that day I was able to go out, and in a month the treatment had removed all scales and scabs, and my face was as clear as ever. (Signed) T. J. Soth, 317 Stagg Street, Brooklyn, N. Y."

Ancient Salt Mines.

The famous salt deposits of Petite Anse, La., are known to have been mined by the aboriginal Americans, as is testified by the stone hammers and other tools found when the deposits were rediscovered in 1814 by John Marsh.

Pollock-Stephens Institute.
Birmingham, Ala.
Select Day and Boarding School for Girls.
Opens Sept. 27th.
Catalogue on application. Address
Madame Catherine Deschamps Elford, Principal.

TULANE UNIVERSITY of LA.
NEW ORLEANS.

Full courses in Languages, Sciences, Engineering, Law, Medicine. Splendid department for women in Newcomb College. Tulane makes leaders in all vocations. Its facilities for instruction in Engineering are unsurpassed. Unexcelled opportunities for the study of Sugar Chemistry. Many scholarships in the academic department. Expenses low. Board and accommodations in dormitories at low rates. Next session begins October 1st. Send for catalogue Address

THE REGISTRAR, Gibson Hall.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN
troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.
Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all
TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES
For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.
Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.
THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Frankie Orser
Miss Pearl Ackers

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, leucorrhœa, or perhaps irregularity or suppression of "monthly periods," causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

Women who stand on their feet all day are more susceptible to these troubles than others.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Miss F. Orser of 14 Warrenton Street, Boston, tells women how to avoid such suffering; she writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered misery for several years with irregular menstruation. My back ached; I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches; I could not sleep and could hardly drag around. I consulted two physicians without relief, and as a last resort, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to my surprise, every ache and pain left me. I gained ten pounds and am in perfect health."

Miss Pearl Ackers of 327 North Summer Street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered with painful periods, severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen; was very nervous and irritable, and my trouble grew worse every month.

"My physician failed to help me and I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found it was doing me good. All my pains and aches disappeared, and I no longer fear my monthly periods."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman, and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Last year alone, more than two million people were cured of CHILLS and FEVER by using
OXIDINE
This should convince you that it is the BEST CHILL AND FEVER TONIC. If you have any Malarial Trouble give it a trial. If you are not cured your druggist will refund your money. Made in regular and Tasteless Forms.
For sale by all Druggists. Price 50 cents. Manufactured by PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO. Dallas, Texas, and Memphis, Tenn.

COLEMAN'S
Duplicate Repair Parts
For "Maid of the South" Corn Mills, Coleman's, Simmon's, Reynold's and other Cotton Presses.
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
714 Perdido St., NEW ORLEANS, LA.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES
GILBERT'S
GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.
The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy; because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO., Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES
W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
ALL STYLES
SOLE AGENTS FOR W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES
Established July 4, 1876.

W.L.DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Am. 28, 1905.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS. FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. [illegible] MFG. CO., [illegible] St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

EXAMINE EVERY INCH OF THE SHOE YOU ARE GOING TO BUY: TAKE NOTHING LESS THAN YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

WHEN YOU BUY A PAIR OF CLOVER BRAND SHOES WRITE THE DATE IN THE LINING, in ink.

CLOVER BRAND SHOES Are LEATHER—THE BEST of it, too. ALL THROUGH they are EVERYTHING that you demand. Good Shoes

THE DEALER WHO WONT SELL 'EM TO YOU IS SIMPLY REFUSING TO GIVE YOU YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.
LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed
To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICES.

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY
THE FAVORITE STORE
Clanton, Ala.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here.

EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.

W. I. MULLINS
CLANTON - - - ALA

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.

Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $18.00 to $50.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

BARGAINS

FOR YOU.

Between the 1st of September and the 25th of December, I will have

BARGAIN DAYS

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays

OF EACH WEEK, AND ON

THESE DAYS ONLY

will give a discount of 20 per cent off of my regular prices on all Dry Goods, Shoes, and Clothing. My goods are priced as low as any merchant can afford to sell, but I have bought very large quantities of goods as I had to buy in large lots in order to secure the lowest prices and as it is against my business principles to carry any goods over from one season to another, I am offering these bargain days in order to reduce my stock. This 20 per cent discount will reduce the price of 6 cent Prints to less than 5 cents, and Rescue Plaids from 7 cents to about 5 1-2 cents, Shoes worth $1.50 and $1.25 to $1.20 and $1.00 respectively, and everything else proportionately.

Think what this will save you and call here on these days for all your goods. No goods can be charged to any one at these prices as there is positively no profit on them whatever.

I also buy cotton and pay Montgomery prices less the shipping and selling expenses for same, and weights guaranteed absolutely correct.

I also buy Wool and all other country produce, paying the highest market price obtainable, and loan money on cotton at a reasonable rate of interest.

Call to see me when in need of anything either for cash or on time.

C. A. PATTILLO
BILLINGSLEY, ALA.

NEW STORE

Will Open About September 10th

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers. Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

Give us a chance at your Cotton, Wool and everything you have to sell.

M. F. CANNON & SONS
Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 26, 1905

AN INFORMAL SHOWING OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS. 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.
General Merchandise
CLANTON - - ALA.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr. Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we have clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit them and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especially low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of Suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants, and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a good many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2 00 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth 5 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.
MEAT MARKET
BEEF PORK MUTTON
FISH AND GAME IN SEASON
Fresh Sausage a Specialty
OPPOSITE THE BANKS CLANTON

URACURA
WILL CURE ALL
BLOOD, KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.
PRICE 50¢
DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

Closing out sa

Going Out of Merchandise Busi
MyStock of General Merchandi

FOR SALE AT COS

Come and Get Bargains
While the Stock Lasts

W. D. LAWRENCE
Maplesville, - - Ala.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow Jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured three of us." For sale by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

God's Wrath is Close at Hand.

Lesson No. 15. Evening of same day. And God said "The heading shall be God's wrath is close at hand," and said this matter must be put in the Banner six months without ceasing. He said I think the Editor is a Christian man, and said if anybody wants a message direct from God, apply to NEWTON COOPER Verbena, Ala., R. F. D. No. 2.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions, and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Send a sample copy of The Banner to your friend.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT
R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day.
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

NOTICE

Applications have been receiv
the Board of Education of Ch county for the following chang
school districts:

(1) To form a new district fro tricts Nos. 39 and 40 as follows: Be ning on east boundary line of Se 22, R 14 east, and ½ mile from se thence west ¾ mile; thence sou mile to south boundary line of sai 16; thence west ⅛ mile to sw c said Sec 16; thence south 1½ mi
half mile stake on west boundary
of Sec 28, T 22, R 14 east; thence
"Hurricane Branch" to its m thence down Goose Pond swam railroad; thence northwesterly line of said railroad to point of be ning.

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' farm, w is now in no district, be added to trict No 40. Also a certain ter now in district No. 43, Cane Cre added to district No. 40, as fo
Beginning at sw corner Sec 11, T 2
14; thence ¼ mile east; thence Yellowleaf creek; thence up said
to district No. 40, Lomax.

(3) To begin 1-4 mile west o corner, Sec. 2, Tp. 20, R 14; th south ¾ mile; thence east 1-4 mi
west boundary line of District No.

(4) To make the following chan district No. 47, Mineral Springs
ginning at se corner of Sec 25, T 2 14; thence south to Yellowleaf c thence up said creek to the mout Turkey creek; thence up said Tu creek to south boundary line of Se T 23, R 14 east; thence east alon line to the southwest corner of Se
east.

(5) To divide district No. 16 a lows: Dividing line to begin 1-4
east of the southwest corner of Se 20, R 16; thence north to Chestnut c new district to be known as Canaa

The above applications will be p
upon by the Board of Education
Court House in Clanton, on 7th da
October, 1905.

Done by order of Board in
Aug. 14, 1905. G. L. SPEE
Sec. Board of Educatio

Abscess.

Abscesses, with few excepti are indicative of Constipation
debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, M writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want say a word of praise for Ball Snow Liniment. I stepped on a
which caused the cords in my to contract and an abscess to ri my knee, and the doctor told that I would have a stiff leg, an day I went to J. F. Lord's drug
(who is now in Denver, Colo.)
recommended a bottle of Snow L
ment; I got a 50c size, and it my leg. It is the best linimen
the world. Sold by Upchurch D
Co.

$2.25. By special arrange we are enabled to offer the A bama Baptist ($2.00 and the B ner ($1.00) both papers one
for $2,25

Easy Pil
Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due the fact that they tonic the liver in stead of purging it. They never grip nor sicken, not even the most delic lady, and yet they are so certain results that no one who uses them disappointed. They cure torpid liv constipation, biliousness, jaundice headache, malaria and ward off pn monia and fevers.
PREPARED ONLY BY
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICA
Don't Forget the Name.
Early Rise
For sale by Upchurch

XIII Twelve

MAN ON THE CORNER
the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

"sere and yellow leaf" is summer is passing away, umn comes bringing change and the gathering of the "Trees put on their coat ors," the orb of day sinks in the west, and the long comes when no man can
The fall of the year brings and peace to nature, prepara the storms of the coming
, and to the husbandman who iled throughout the year and opes for a bounteous harvest, comes a feeling of thankful hat for a brief space he may d reap the reward of his la Happy is the man who, after d of toil, can rest content in surance that his loved ones ovided for.

e have as fine a little town is Clanton, as I know of any-
," said Mr. A. D. Shelnutt, bile, who has been spending l days here on business, "but ed the streets lighted after Ten or a dozen lights would all the difference in the world appearance of the town and on an equality with the most ssive towns in the State. It help business and be a source sure to your hospitable pro their social entertainments."

y are making it hot for me—d young are giving me pep-
Only the other day Bro. J.
rrell, of Beat 1, warmed the s of my heart with the big-d of pepper seen in a long nd now comes Sam Wesley,
g son of our good friend,
M. Adams, and presents us stalk of pepper 5 feet high, ds of excellent flavor. Thus in life (Sam is about five or ars old) he sows the seeds of try (and pepper) and in due I hope he will become (not an) but a fine lawyer and a member of society.

contract was signed and made, Wednesday, for the on of the new school house
e Town of Clanton, the cong parties being the mayor ouncil and T. B. Teel. The t of the contract is $3050, should give us a good house.
o be a two-story frame build-n a four acre lot, about the t spot in town, at West on, and is to be completed in days.

transformation has been effecthe Smith boarding house week, since Bob Lake has ically given it a coat or two hat it can hardly be recognized e same old house.

eriff Morgan left Tuesday
ng for Waco, Texas, to bring d Branch, wanted for the ing of R. Calloway at Ma-ille a few weeks ago.

e infant child of Mr. and Mrs Tyus, who has been sick for time, died last Thursday and buried Friday. "Suffer the children to come unto me, and them not, for such is the dom of heaven.

Remedy Without a Peer.
find Chamberlain's Stomach Liver Tablets more beneficial any other remedy I ever used mach trouble," says J. P.
of Edna, Mo. For any dis-of the stomach, biliousness or ation, these tablets are with-peer. For sale by Upchurch Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

COR
TO CU
Take L Tablets money i Grove's
25 c.

Rev ular ap Saturday
two very w a calle
next While
a day ev accidentl was thou Parnell and foun
deep en
He was this time
well.
Our wedding
Mr. Tho
Fisher a joined to of matri perform wish the happy li

Mr. shooting shot and son Har that he
Mr. home af
at Selm Misse visited and Ad
Mr. charmin
Pletcher
Mr. near C parents,
Mr.
Ridervi
this pla
Messr
Chambe
tiver ne
We George sick list
Mr.
Pletche
with M
Mr. is visiti
Mr.
Carter
Mr. Ca wish th
Two

and be covered car con
nica Sa
well.
G. J.
"and for cut Upchur

Miss
been Shelby to the here.
Miss
was a
Mr.
Billing
Mr. hand b
a well.
Mr. happy

Lew
last T Walte
no arr parties

He cheap, constip able to Nothin
New L and ce stipati Drug c

g out sa

erchandise Busin
neral Merchandis

E AT COS

Get Bargains
Stock Lasts

AWRENCE
- - Ala.

NOTICE.

Applications have been received the Board of Education of Chi county for the following change school districts:

(1) To form a new district from tricts Nos 39 and 40 as follows: B ning on east boundary line of Sec 2 22, R 14 east, and ½ mile from se cor thence west ¾ mile; thence south mile to south boundary line of said S 16, thence west ½ mile to sw cor said Sec 16; thence south 1¼ mile half mile stake on west boundary of Sec 28, T 22, R 14 east; thence do "Hurricane Branch" to its mou thence down Goose Pond Swamp railroad; thence northwesterly al line of said railroad to point of beg ning.

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' farm, wh is now in no district, be added to d trict No. 40. Also a certain terri now in district No. 43, Cane Creek, added to district No. 40, as follo Beginning at sw corner Sec 11, T 2 14; thence ½ mile east; thence north Yellowleaf creek; thence up said cr to district No. 40, Lomax.

(3) To begin 1-4 mile west of corner, Sec. 2, Tp. 20, R 14; the south ½ mile; thence east 1-4 mile west boundary line of District No. 1

(4) To make the following chang district No. 47, Mineral Springs: ginning at se corner of Sec 25, T 2 14; thence south to Yellowleaf cre thence up said creek to the mouth Turkey creek; thence up said Tur creek to south boundary line of Sec T 23, R 14 east; thence east along line to the southwest corner of Sec east

(5) To divide district No. 16 as fo lows: Dividing line to begin 1-4 m east of the southwest corner of Sec 16, 20, R 16; thence north to Chestnut cre new district to be known as Canaan.

The above applications will be pa upon by the Board of Education at Court House in Clanton, on 7th day October, 1905.

Done by order of Board in sessi Aug 14, 1905. G. L. Spear, Sec. Board of Educatio

Abscess.

Abscesses, with few exceptio are indicative of Constipation debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Mi writes, Aug. 15, 1904: "I want say a word of praise for Ballard Snow Liniment. I stepped on a n which caused the cords in my l to contract and an abscess to rise my knee, and the doctor told that I would have a stiff leg, so o day I went to J. F. Lord's drug st (who is now in Denver, Colo.) recommended a bottle of Snow Lin ment, I got a 50c size, an t it cur my leg. It is the best linimen the world. Sold by Upchurch Dr

$2.25. By special arrange we are enabled to offer the Ala bama Baptist ($2.00 and the Ba ner ($1.00) both papers one y for $2.25

Easy Pil

Easy to take and easy to act that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due the fact that they tonic the liver in stead of purging it. They never grip nor sicken, not even the most deli lady, and yet they are so certain results that no one who uses them disappointed. They cure torpid Bo constipation, biliousness, jaundi headache, malaria and ward off pn monia and fevers.

PREPARED ONLY BY
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICA
Don't Forget the Name.

Early Rise

For sale by Upchur

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XIII | Twelve Pages | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No 50

AN ON THE CORNER

he Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

"ere and yellow leaf" is , summer is passing away, mn comes bringing change and the gathering of the . "Trees put on their coat s," the orb of day sinks in the west, and the long comes when no man can The fall of the year brings peace to nature, prepara the storms of the coming , and to the husbandman who iled throughout the year and hopes for a bounteous harvest, comes a feeling of thankful that for a brief space he may d reap the reward of his la Happy is the man who, after d of toil, can rest content in urance that his loved ones vided for.

ve have as fine a little town in Clanton, as I know of any- ," said Mr. A. D. Shelnutt, bile, who has been spending d days here on business, "but the streets lighted after Ten or a dozen lights would all the difference in the world appearance of the town and on an equality with the most sive towns in the State. It help business and be a source sure to your hospitable peo their social entertainments."

y are making it hot for me— d young are giving me pep- Only the other day Bro. J. rell, of Beat 1, warmed the s of my heart with the big- d of pepper seen in a long d now comes Sam Wesley, g son of our good friend, M. Adams, and presents us stalk of pepper 5 feet high, ds of excellent flavor. Thus n life (Sam is about five or rs old) he sows the seeds of ry (and pepper) and in due I hope he will become (not n) but a fine lawyer and a member of society.

e contract was signed and made, Wednesday, for the n of the new school honse e Town of Clanton, the con- g parties being the mayor uncil and T. B. Teel. The t of the contract is $3050, should give us a good house. to be a two-story frame build- n a four acre lot, about the spot in town, at West n, and is to be completed in days.

ansformation has been effect- the Smith boarding house week, since Bob Lake has ally given it a coat or two t it can hardly be recognized same old house.

f Morgan left Tuesday g for Waco, Texas, to bring Branch, wanted for the g of R. Calloway at Ma- e a few weeks ago.

infant child of Mr. and Mrs Tyus, who has been sick for time, died last Thursday and ried Friday. "Suffer the children to come unto me, and them not, for such is the m of heaven.

Remedy Without a Peer.

had Chamberlain's Stomach ver Tablets more beneficial ny other remedy I ever used mach trouble," says J. P. of Edma, Mo. For any dis- of the stomach, biliousness or tion, these tablets are with- peer. For sale by Upchurch n, Cla , A. Horn, Thorsby.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Stingy Ridge.

Rev. Robert Jones filled his regular appointment at Sardis last Saturday and Sunday and delivered two very interesting sermons and was called again as pastor for the next associational year.

While out bird hunting last Saturday evening Mr. Walter Poole accidently shot his son Harvey, and was thought to be fatal until Dr. Parnell arrived and examined him and found that the shot did not go deep enough to affect him much. He was hit with 12 shot, and at this time he is getting along fairly well.

Our Ridge was honored by a wedding last Sunday evening at Mr. Thomas Carter's, Mr. Joseph Fisher and Miss Lillie Carter were joined together into the holy bonds of matrimony, Rev. J. D. Deason performing the ceremony. We wish the young couple a long and happy life together. WERDNA.

Adams.

Mr. Walter Poole, while out shooting at a drove of patridges, shot and accidently shot his little son Harvey, but we are glad to say that he is not seriously injured.

Mr. John Adams has returned home after visiting his sick brother at Selma.

Misses Maggie and Lurie Adams visited their cousins, Misses Rosie and Ada Miner, last Saturday.

Mr. Jesse Chambers and his charming wife visited relatives at Pletcher recently.

Mr. Willie Wright and wife of near Clanton, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carter.

Mr. John Miner and family of Riderville are visiting relatives at this place.

Messrs. Eddie Poole and Willie Chambers visited friends and relativer near Pletcher last Sunday.

We are sorry to say that Mr. George Frith's little son is on the sick list; hope he will recover soon.

Mr. Robert Chandler of near Pletcher spent last Saturday night with Mr. Nicholas Miner.

Mr. Arthur Chandler of Pletcher is visiting relatives at this place.

Mr. Joe Fisher and Miss Lillie Carter were married at the home of Mr. Carter last Sunday eve. We wish them a long and happy life.

TWO SUNDAY SCHOOL GIRLS.

Attacked By a Mob

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welsh, of Tekonsha, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at Upchurch Drug co.

Sardis.

Miss India Stowers, who has been off for some time visiting Shelby county, has returned home to the delight of her many friends here.

Miss Vivan Abram of Adams was a pleasant visitor here Sunday.

Mr. Brack McCary and wife of Billingsly visited here Saturday.

Mr. Homer Ratliff, who got his hand badly mashed in helping bore a well, is improving slowly.

Mr. Jack Hayes and wife are the happy parents of a fine boy.

VIOLA.

Killed Near Marbury.

Lewis Heath was shot and killed last Thursday near Marbury by Walter Slaton. Up to the present no arrests have been made. Both parties are white.

Got Off Cheap.

He may well think, he has got off cheap, who, after having contracted constipation or indigestion, is still able to perfectly restore his health. Nothing will do this but Dr. King's New Life Pills. A quick, pleasant and certain cure for headache, constipation, etc. 25c at Upchurch Drug co. Guaranteed.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:
W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

Old Waddy.

Cotton is opening in this section, and farmers are busy picking. The crop is very short. The farmers in District 47 say they are going to hold their cotton for better prices

The Union and Collins Chapel ball teams crossed bats on the former's ground Saturday 23; Union winning the game 40 to 5. Batteries for Union, Dorminy, Conway and Retherford; for Collins Chapel, Mims, Gore and Mims Struck out by Union 18, by Collins Chapel 5.

Well, boys, come again, maybe you will do better next time.

A PLAYER.

Billingsley.

The F. N C. was intertained by Mrs. J. R. Langley on Friday evening last. Only a few of the number were present; all seem to have a delightful time, music was furnished by Messrs. Caldwell, Myrick and Stamps, which was enjoyed by all present. At a late hour adjourned to meet with Miss Bessie Wilkins on next Friday evening.

Billingsley is a little quiet this week on account of so many being off visiting.

Prof. and Mrs. H. A. Askins and Mrs. J. E. Felton spent a few days at Verbena this week; the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. A. J. Marlar and granddaughter, Mary Lodge, have gone on a months visit to relatives and friends in Wetumpka.

The ice cream festival given by the Methodis ladies at Mrs. Felton's on last Thursday evening was quite a success.

Miss Mary James of Autauga Spur visited the Misses Caldwell at this place Sunday.

With best wishes to the dear old Banner and its many readers.

OLD ROSE.

CHILTON COTTON ASSOCIATION.

The Chilton County branch of the Southern Cotton Association will meet at the court house on Saturday, October 7th, 1905, and we earnestly solicit the attendance of all persons interested in cotton, whether they are members of the Association or not.

J. N. DENNIS, Sec.

JOINT MEETING.

The Chilton Farmers' Alliance and the Farmers' Union of Chilton county will meet with Pleasant Grove Alliance and Union on Oct. 18 and 19, five miles west of Jemison. Send delegates with credentials. J. W. SORRELL, Sec.

Cause of Insomnia

Indigestion nearly always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomonia. Many cases ave been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Thorsby.

Thorsby public and high schools opened Sept. 20, with an enrollment of 75 pupils.

Three new teachers, Misses Denman, Fay and Gulledge, were introduced to the public at an entertainment at college hall last Wednesday evening.

Mrs. M. E. Wishart, our milliner, returned to her home in Birmingham. During this lady's sojourn in Thorsby she has won a warm place in the hearts of many.

Mrs. I. S. Gerald entertained the Norwegian ladies, afternoon of 21, Saturday, 23d inst., Clanton ball team came and beat Thorsby. But arriving late, there were only 5 innings played; game stood 13 to 3.

Miss Anna Howard entertained a few ladies and gentlemen at cards last Thursday evening.

Miss Agnes Gerald celebrated her fifth birthday with a few friends last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. T. W. Robinson and children returned to Thorsby Saturday last.

Thorsby cotton gin turned out 50 bales last week.

Mrs. Stanley and Miss Lewis were in Clanton last week.

Rev. Clark will preach at college Oct. 1.

Everybody is glad to see our post office at the old place. Uncle Sam should have a front seat.

CITIZEN.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Any information as to the whereabouts of my grandson, Shelton Bryant, age 14 years, who left my home near Bozeman on Sunday the 24th September, 1905, in company of John Stanton, will be thankfully received and rewarded by me. All the parties are colored.

TOBE BRYANT.

No Unpleasant Effects

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for billiousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. Justice of the Peace, Adam Shook, New Libson, Ind., says: "Some three years ago I had a spell of grip and felt outdone and I happened to get a trial box of DeWitt's Little Early Risers and they gave me strength and muscle." They do not gripe or made you feel sick, Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President — E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President — E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
N. A. Kicker — P. D. Wilson — E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor — W. I. Mullins — J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

WRITE Stanley's Business College, Macon, Ga., at once for catalogue. This School can not supply its demand for its graduates.

FOR SALE—Two Boar Pigs, born May 31, 1905. Berkshire, crossed with Poland China. M. J. BARRETT, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—Someone to get out stumps. Will let the job by the stump or by the job. Come and figure on it. If you have a stump puller nine tenths of them could be pulled with ease. M. J. BARRETT, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906. M. J. BARRETT, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—Fresh Milch Cows, the same not to give less than three gallons of milk per days. M. J. BARRETT, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—to exchange a good 2¾ wagon for a 2½ wagon, as mine is too heavy for my team. I will pay the difference if any is deserving. My wagon is a Mitchell & Lewis and is in good running order. Address, R. E. ROPER, Clanton, Ala., Route 3.

LOST—from my home last Friday night, a deep red hound dog, about five years old, with dew claws on all feet. Anyone finding him and letting me know I will satisfy them for their trouble. JOHN S. DENNIS, Clanton, Ala., Route 5.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

THE GREATEST FAIR IN THE SOUTH!

ALABAMA STATE FAIR
AT BIRMINGHAM
OCTOBER 23—NOVEMBER 2—TEN DAYS

NEW AND COMPLETE GROUNDS—FINE BUILDINGS
Exhibit Your Farm and Garden Products
Needle Work, Art, Fruits, Preserves, Etc.

LIBERAL PREMIUMS—SPECIAL PRIZES
SHOW RINGS FOR CATTLE, SHEEP, HOGS AND HORSES
Big Poultry Exhibit, Horse Show at Night
ALL PRIZES IN CASH AND GUARANTEED TO EXHIBITORS
GET READY FOR THE FAIR—SEND FOR CATALOGUE

R. M. WILLIAMS, Sec'y., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

ATHENS FEMALE COLLEGE
ATHENS, ALA.

Owned and Controlled by the North Alabama Conference. Founded 1842.

We offer the advantages of a full collegiate course in the Departments of Mathematics, Languages, Science and Literature under competent instructors. The college building is handsome and commodious, with steam heat, electric lights and enameled baths, while ten thousand dollars appropriated at the last session of the North Alabama Conference will be expended this summer in improving the equipment and in increasing the capacity of the dormitories.

Special advantages offered in Music and Fine Arts.

The health record of the college is absolutely unsurpassed. The boarding capacity of the institution is limited to one hundred students, and those desiring to enter should apply early. Catalogue sent on application.

MARY NORMAN MOORE, President,
(P. O. Drawer 68) - Athens, Ala.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

Injunction Against Quarantine.

Lafayette, La.—Sheriff Lacoste and Attorney Caffery have returned from an overland trip to Crowley, having placed in Judge Pugh's hands the petition for injunction against the Police Jury maintaining quarantine against Lafayette.

The judge would not sign the order for mandatory and prohibitory injunction, but issued a writ on President Billeaud, of the police jury, and about thirty guards on duty about town to show cause next Monday evening why the prayer of petitioners should not be granted.

Murders His Baby Sister.

Marinette, Wis.—Leon Crambeau, 7 years old, charged with murdering his six-months-old sister, was placed in jail here. A coroner's jury found that the boy set fire to the bed clothes in the baby's cradle and burned the baby to death. The youngster is supposed to be a pyromaniac. He had started fire several times before.

Court House Burns.

New Madrid, Mo.—The court house here was burned Sunday morning. The fire is thought to have been incendiary. Many tax and drainage records were destroyed, but the others records were saved. Six murder trials are pending, but all indictments returned at this term were burned, which may make continuances necessary.

Lumber Deal Consummated.

Maplesville, Ala.—Information has reached here that the E. E. Jackson Lumber Company of Riderville has purchased all of the property of the Gregory Lumber Company at Stanton Mills. The mill at Stanton has been running for more than twenty-five years. The deal is a large one.

R. V. Selman Is Injured.

Albertville, Ala.—Wednesday while unloading a car of wagons for the Albertville Hardware Company R. V. Selman happened to quite a serious accident by having a wagon fall on his left leg, breaking it in two places. The injured man was at once carried to his home, where he was given medical attention and is resting easy.

Both Killed By Train.

Raleigh, N. C.—Walter Craven, a carpenter, aged 18, and Leslie S. Gerringer, a Southern railway telegraph operator, were run over by a freight engine and killed. They stepped in front of the engine to avoid a passenger train, both being terribly mangled.

Found Dead in Jail.

Birmingham, Ala.—R. Leemay, a white man arrested Friday afternoon on a charge of vagrancy, was found dead in his cell in the county jail shortly after 10 o'clock. Leemay was placed in jail in the afternoon, and at the time was badly intoxicated. He had evidently been on a continued "spree" and was in a bad condition.

Executed for Killing Stepdaughter.

Ardmore, I. T.—Rufus Bynon, who murdered his 8-year-old stepdaughter at Ran in 1900, was executed here Friday in the rear of the federal jail in a stockade built for the purpose. There were no witnesses. This was the first legal execution ever held in this part of the territory.

Breaks Child's Neck by Caress.

Gravel Swith, Ky.—Jason Chumbley, a resident of this county, returned home to visit his wife and child. Upon his arrival he grasped his 6-year-old daughter by the chin to kiss her, lifting her head back. The little one sank to the ground dead. A physician found that her neck had been broken by her father.

Shoots His Father.

Cullman, Ala.—A sad accident occurred twenty miles north of this place which cost pleasant P. Powell, an old and respected citizen of the county, his life. The particulars, as nearly as could be ascertained, were that Mr. Powell had imbibed a little too freely and procured a pistol which his son decided that he had no use for, and in his efforts to dispossess his father of the weapon it was discharged, the ball striking the old gentleman in the left side with fatal results. Deceased was 61 years of age and had resided on San Mountain all his life.

Contract for New High School.

Jonesville, La.—Bids have been opened for the new high school building for Jonesville. The contract was awarded to Giles B. Hanks, of Utility, La. Work will commence immediately. The contract calls for completion by December 1.

Saw Mill and Planer Destroyed.

Lake Charles, La.—Fire early Sunday morning destroyed the saw mill, planer and 50,000 feet of dressed lumber belonging to the Toomy Lumber Company, at Toomy. The loss is estimated at $10,000, uninsured. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A serum for hay fever is used by physicians in the island of Heligoland.

ALABAMA NEWS.

Current Events Gathered as They Happen.

Turn Out Repaired Cars.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Gadsden Car Works, the property of the Alabama Great Southern road, which has now been in operation for one month, has turned out seventy-five cars repaired and ready for the road. Over 100 skilled mechanics are now given employment at the shops, and many more are needed. New switches are being put in and room made for others. The foundry department will be placed in operation on the first of January, and this will give employment to 100 more men.

Violent Deaths in Gurley.

Huntsville, Ala.—A special from Gurley states that three fatalities have occurred there in the last two or three days. The 4-year-old son of Horace Kennedy fell into a pot of boiling water and was so badly scalded that he died within a few minutes. Mr. Harris, a well-known citizen of that neighborhood, took an overdose of chill tonic by mistake and died from the effects of the drug in a few hours. A 14-year-old boy named Hill was thrown from a wagon on the Madison and Jackson road and one of the wheels of the heavily loaded wagon passed over his neck, killing him instantly.

Killed by Switch Engine.

Selma, Ala.—A telegram was received Friday by Mrs. B. B. Sadler announcing the death of her son, Lonnie, in Artesia, Miss., from being run over by a switch engine. The young man was at work as switchman for the Mobile and Ohio Railroad at Artesia. About a month ago he had his foot mashed by a car and came to his former home to remain until he recovered. He went back to work last Monday, and while switching in the yard at Artesia he met his death beneath the iron wheels. He was only 21 years of age, and his death came as a great shock to his parents and loved ones. The remains have reached here, where the funeral will take place.

To Get Two New Railroads.

Birmingham, Ala.—From an authentic source it is learned that the Mobile and Ohio Railroad and the Illinois Central have perfected an agreement relative to the joint use of certain tracks which will bring both roads into Birmingham. The Illinois Central will come into Birmingham from Jasper over the Frisco tracks. Jasper will be reached over the tracks of the Northern Alabama from Haylesville, and the road will build from Corinth, Miss., to Haylesville. The deal will result in the Illinois Central using the tracks of the Mobile and Ohio from Jackson, Tenn., to Corinth. In return for that privilege the Mobile and Ohio will use the Illinois Central's line from Corinth to Haylesville. It will use the Northern Alabama to Jasper and probably the Ensley Southern into Birmingham.

Killed in Gin Accident.

Athens, Ala.—Frank Campbell, one of the leading citizens of this county, residing at Ventoor, on the State line, where he was a large land owner and depot agent, postmaster and merchant, was killed Saturday at his place by being caught in his ginnery, which he had for the first time this season started up. The machinery had just got started when, in some manner, he was caught and his right arm dragged into the ginhead and cut so badly that it had to be amputated at the shoulder and immediately after the operation he died.

Head-End Collision.

Opelika, Ala.—A head-on collision occurred on the Western Railway of Alabama at East Alabama Junction, about two and one-half miles north of Opelika, between east-bound passenger train No. 40, which left Montgomery at 9:15 o'clock, and engine No. 32. Train No. 40 was en route to Atlanta and No. 32 was en route to Opelika when the collision occurred. The train was in charge of Conductor Dillard and Engineer Wells. The light engine was in charge of Engineer Estes. The engineer and fireman of train No. 40 jumped and were not injured. Engineer Estes, on No. 32, jumped and was badly bruised. He was brought to an infirmary in Opelika. Both engines were badly wrecked. None of the passengers were injured, but they were considerably jarred.

Rolling Mill to Run Double Shift.

Bessemer, Ala.—Two shifts of operators will be put to work in the Bessemer Rolling Mill on October 1. Superintendent J. F. Kent has made this announcement, along with the statement that it is impossible to supply the demand with the present working force on one shift.

Killed in a Personal Difficulty.

Mandeville, La.—William Hart shot and killed August Celestin near the New Camelia landing here. The two men had quarreled about some trifling matter. Hart escaped.

Drowned in Calcasieu River.

Lake Charles, La.—Ed Sullivan, aged 13 years, was drowned in Calcasieu river while bathing. His body was recovered two hours later.

Fire at Abbeville.

Abbeville, Ala.—The stables occupied by J. C. Espy & Bro. burned Friday night. It was with the greatest difficulty that the live stock was gotten out of the burning building. Two buggies and some harness, together with a carload of hay and grain, were consumed by the flames. The Farmers' Warehouse adjoins the stables, and several hundred bales of cotton were lying in the streets. Twenty-six bales were burned, and it was with difficulty that the remainder was saved. The barn of W. W. Espy, across the street from the stables, was also burned. By heroic efforts the Farmers' Warehouse and the residence of Carl Espy were saved from the flames.

Four Residences Burn in Anniston.

Anniston, Ala.—Four residences were destroyed by fire Friday in the southern part of the city, almost beyond the reach of plugs. Firemen were aided in saving several other residences that were in line with the flames. The flames originated from a defective flue in the house of L. T. R. Lester, occupied by J. B. Duke. The household effects of Dr. Duke, worth $250, were almost wholly destroyed. The house, valued at $600, was burned. Mr. Lester had $400 insurance. The household effects were uninsured. The total loss is $2,500.

Suicide Is the Theory.

Birmingham, Ala.—Suicide is the only theory Coroner Paris can advance for the death of James Cook, a young man, whose body was found in a secluded spot of the woods near Walker's chapel, a little church about six miles north of Birmingham. His aged mother and brothers hold the same view, and the evidence given at the inquest had a tendency to show that Cook was despondent. No one seemed to know the cause of his trouble, but it was brought out that he was addicted to drink. This is thought to have been the immediate cause of the rash deed.

Had a Narrow Escape.

Demopolis, Ala.—Thursday Balam Nixon, who lives about seven miles southeast of this city, had about as narrow an escape with his life as has ever been known. He was driving his buggy across the railroad crossing between the passenger and freight depots when his buggy was caught between two freight cars that were being switched. He managed to get out of the vehicle with only bruises on his legs. The buggy was a complete wreck. Nixon was carried to a doctor's office, where his injured limbs were dressed.

Rural Routes Established.

Washington, D. C.—Rural free delivery route No. 1 has been ordered established November 15 at Haleburg, Henry county, serving 345 people and 86 houses; Columbia, Houston county, route 4, population 416, houses 99; Shortersville, Henry county, route 2, population 440, houses 110.

George B. Rutledge appointed regular, George W. Martin substitute, rural carrier route 1, at Summerfield.

Percy C. Ramsay appointed regular, Eli Laney substitute, rural carrier route 1, at Daviston.

Subscribe for $125,000 of Stock.

Huntsville, Ala.—Huntsville and Madison county citizens have set to work to meet the proposition of the Nashville and Huntsville Railroad by subscribing to $125,000 of the stock. The railroad, which will be financed by the Knickerbocker Trust Company, of New York, will be built from Nashville to Birmingham. All counties in Tennessee have complied with the requirements of the company.

Secured Improvements.

Florence, Ala.—Dr. James T. Pitt, the Florence postmaster, will return from Washington, where he has been for the past few days looking after the interests of his office. A telegram from him announced that he had secured an additional clerk and arranged for the mail formerly carried on the 9 a. m. Southern train to be brought from Tuscumbia on the electric cars.

New Sheffield Incorporation.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—The certificate of incorporation of the King Stove and Range Company, of Sheffield, has been filed for record in the probate office in this city. The company is organized with a capital of $100,000, of which $25,000 is paid in, and will manufacture stoves, ranges, hollow ware, metal castings, agricultural implements, etc.

Young Man Killed.

Brewton, Ala.—News has reached here that on Sunday night near Ridgeway postoffice, a few miles north of Canoe Station, in this county, Burrell Glover, a young white man about 25 years of age, was murdered and robbed. The crime was committed about 10:30 o'clock, and the body was found several hours later with a bullet wound in the left side, ranging toward the heart, which is supposed to have produced instant death.

Factory Closed Down.

Jonesville, La.—The large factory of the Van de Venter Manufacturing Co. has closed down on account of the quarantine, which deprived the factory of shipping facilities.

Lake Charles, La.—Sidney Johnson, aged 14 years, was arrested here charged with stealing a diamond ring from a house where he was sent to deliver a package. The ring was recovered.

THE MODERATES WIN

Registration Board of Cuba Named—No Important Disturbance Reported.

PALMA'S PARTY THE WINNER.

Congressman and Police Chief Killed During Political Disturbance at Cienfuegos.

Havana, Cuba.—Returns from the entire island confirm the complete victory of the government in the elections for members of the boards of registration. There were no important disorders.

The election in Havana passed off quietly, and telegrams from the interior say there were no disorders except at Placetas, in the province of Santa Clara, where many shots were fired, but no one was killed.

The liberals admit the complete victory in Havana of the moderates, the party of President Palma. They claim that they did not vote because moderate policemen stationed at the polls prevented them from doing so. A representative of the Associated Press visited a majority of the polls here, but at none of them noted any indication of restraint on voters. Good order was maintained throughout the city, and with the exception of a man being shot and probably fatally injured and another being seriously hurt by a rock there has been no trouble.

Crowds which gathered in the Liberal Club rooms were dismissed by orators, who informed them that the moderates were victorious and requested the liberals to retire to their homes The Liberal Club was closed and barricaded. A number of liberals say that this was done because they had received word that the government intended to search the place for arms.

Dead Officials Buried.

Official dispatches received from Cienfuegos announce that the bodies of Congressman Villuendas and Chief of Police Illance, who were killed during a disturbance at the Hotel La Suiza, were buried. Liberals who formerly were soldiers carried the body of Villuendas to the grave on their shoulders, and the same honor was shown to Illance by moderates.

The government claims to have discovered a liberal plot to dynamite the city hall, court house and other public buildings of Cienfuegos.

Liberals, it is asserted, tried to corrupt the secretary of the chief of police, offering a large bribe. The secretary accepted the money and then told the chief. This led to a search of the Hotel La Suiza and the discovery of dynamite bombs and other explosives in Villuendas' room.

No American Intervention.

Acting Secretary Adee, at Washington, has received a cablegram from Jacob Sleeper, the American charge at Havana in Minister Squeirs' absence, relative to the riot in Cienfuegos, which was nothing more than a confirmation of the report received from his government by Minister Quesada. It is stated at the state department that nothing has yet developed warranting any thought of intervention by this government in Cuban affairs.

Slain and Burned.

Jacksonville, Fla.—The charred remains of Lulu Wise and her four children were found in the smoking ruins of her home, near this place, which was burned before daylight. The skulls of the woman and all of her children were crushed, indicating that they had been murdered and the house burned to conceal the crime. The woman had not lived with her husband for two years. At that time it was stated that he beat her and threatened to kill her. She had him arrested, and he was sentenced to jail for a short term. After the expiration of his sentence he disappeared, and it could not be ascertained that any one had heard from him. The woman supposed he was dead. A coroner's jury was summoned, but the hearing was adjourned until next Thursday.

Two Hundred Jews Arrested.

Warsaw, Poland.—The police have surrounded parks in which thousands of Jews were promenading. All of them were searched and 200 placed under arrest.

Ginners to Issue Report.

Dallas, Tex.—Announcement is made by the National Ginners' Association that it will issue its first report of bales ginned up to the night of September 25 in time to reach its members on Saturday morning, September 30, or Monday morning, October 2. It is stated that this report will not be as complete as the next one, which is to be issued on October 18, as by that time the association will have its force better organized.

A. G. S. Wants Belt Line.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—It seems that the Tuscaloosa Belt Railway has not been sold as yet. This statement was given out by an official of that company here. It was not denied, however, that negotiations to that effect were pending. It is understood that the trunk line is desirous of purchasing this line. Besides the Louisville and Nashville is the Alabama Great Southern, which already passes through this city.

Girl Is in Trouble.

Mexico, Mo.—A deputy United States marshal from St. Louis Friday arrested Miss Dixie Tuttle, aged 22, daughter of Thomas Tuttle, reputed to be one of the wealthiest farmers in Audrain county, on the charge of having sent improper letters and postal cards through the mails. The letters and postals concerned were signed "Charlie," and violently attacked Miss Eighty One Turley, a school teacher. After an investigation covering six months the postal authorities arrested Miss Tuttle, charging her with sending them. She protests her innocence. The arrest has caused a sensation here.

Rear End Collision.

Epes, Ala.—A rear end collision of a fast and local freight occurred two miles south of here. Engineer Addison, Fireman Coleman and a brakeman of the through train jumped, and each sustained slight injuries. The train crew on the caboose of the local freight saw the approach of the other train in time to get off and escaped without injury. Eight cars of the local were demolished, the caboose of which was literally torn to pieces. The engine of the through freight was badly damaged and placed across the track, and a number of cars attached were derailed. After seven hours' delay traffic was resumed. W. D. Addison, the injured engineer, lives at Birmingham. He was placed on the north-bound and sent home.

Woman Arrested.

Chicago, Ill.—Much secrecy is being used by the police regarding a woman prisoner who was arrested Saturday night by Detective Kane, of Chicago, and Detective Prim, of Cincinnati, O. The woman is being held in connection with a $3,500 diamond robbery, which is said to have taken place in the Ohio city several weeks ago. The prisoner gave her name to the police as Annie Brady. Chief of Police Collins issued an order to the policemen at the station where she is being held to allow no persons to see her. The alleged robbery for which the woman is being held is said to have occurred when she was employed as a servant. She is said to have taken money and jewelry worth $3,500 from her mistress.

Loads of Buckshot.

Beaumont, Tex.—A double murder occurred at Lockport, La., near Lake Charles, Saturday night, R. B. Holloway, of that place, and Tom Bowman, of Orange, Tex., being the victims. The identity of the assassin has not yet been determined. Bowman and another man from Orange were in Holloway's saloon, when Bowman stepped out of the front door, going home. A minute elapsed, when a shot rang out, and Holloway, who was standing behind the bar, received a load of buckshot in his left side, below the heart, and fell to the floor. He expired in a few minutes. Fifteen minutes later another shot was heard, and upon investigation the dead body of Bowman was found a short distance from the saloon, the top of his head being blown off.

Infant's Body Found.

Birmingham, Ala.—The body of an infant, with part of its head off, was found by Dan Weaver, a negro, and a young white boy near North Birmingham Park and the fact reported to the coroner, who is making a thorough investigation. Due to the fine silks and linen in which the body was clad, Coroner Paris is of the opinion that people of means know something of the affair, and he thinks there was murder. The body was found under a rock, which covered a hole which had been made by nature.

Alleged Distillers Bound Over.

Troy, Ala.—Deputy Marshal C. M. Cox brought to Troy Seaborn Taylor, Henry Taylor and Sam Taylor, charged with jointly operating an illicit distillery near Newville, in Henry county. They were arraigned before Commissioner Tutwiler and bound over to await the action of the next federal grand jury. An illicit distillery reported to belong to the Taylors was raided by the officers several weeks ago, but no arrests were made until the 20th inst.

Two Deaths From Cholera.

St. Petersburg.—Two deaths from cholera have occurred at Blockawek, on the Vistula river. The victims were members of the same family in which a death from cholera was reported last Wednesday.

To Raise Cantaloupes.

Athens, Ala.—The farmers of this section have become quite interested in the growth of berries and cantaloupes, and to this end the Athens Strawberry and Cantaloupe Growers' Association has been organized, with many of the leading farmers of this section as members, and already more than 100 acres have been pledged to the association to be planted by the owners in the two fruits for the next season.

Shoots at Boys.

Huntsville, Ala.—J. T. Neal, a well-known farmer, has been arrested on a charge of shooting into a crowd of boys with a shotgun while the boys were trespassing on his land. Two of the boys were severely hurt, one being struck by fifteen shot and the other by a dozen. Mr. Neal is the farmer who was recently held up and robbed by a negro man and woman, who are now in jail on charges of highway robbery.

BAD WRECK

Passenger Run Into by a Freight With Very Bad
Results.

THE CONDUCTOR IS

None of the Injured Hurt So Badly That They Are Unable to Statements Made.

Birmingham, Ala.—One man killed and more than two dozen were slightly injured Monday noon about 4:30 o'clock when bama Great Southern freight struck the next to the rear the Blocton accommodation of the mingham Mineral, a branch of Louisville and Nashville near stock, at what is called Blocton tion.

The conductor on the Mineral ry M. Hanbury, was the only killed. The injured are: E. P. head cut; Minso Jones, head Frank Jodewick, body bruised right arm cut; Mike Vislisi, head
F. W. Lennon, thigh bruised
Atkinson, head cut;
Thompson, shoulder and side
Alex Dunlap, head and back
J. M. Jones, right hand cut;
E. Hart, of Fort Wayne bruised; Miss Berdie Hart, of Wayne, slightly bruised; R. G. slight bruises; Will Lawley bruises; R. G. Merrell, arm head bruised; D. B. Painter sheriff of Abernant, side
Grant Perryman, slight bruises Tildsley, left arm hurt; Louis head and legs bruised. All white

The negroes injured are Harvis, C. L. Rather, Jim Jones tin Mason, Jim Hudson, John William Washington, Peter and Florence Jones.

None Badly Injured.

Not a single one of the injuries
so serious that the person them was unable to walk. All passengers on the train were the cars, while it is thought that ductor Hanbury had just stepped the platform in going from one another. He was caught between cars and badly mangled.

The passenger train was the ton accommodation, which leaves mingham at 2 o'clock in the afternoon
It is said to have left a few late. The Alabama Great Southern train is the through freight from Orleans known as the meat which runs on a passenger schedule

Brought to Birmingham.

As many of the injured people desired to come were brought mingham on a relief train which sent to Blocton Junction imme after the wreck. A number of cians went to the wreck on the train, which reached the place an hour and a half after the
The physicians had bandaged juries before the relief train to Birmingham. Fourteen of jured were taken to St. Vincent's pital. The others did not require pital treatment.

Cause of Wreck.

The wreck seems to be due misunderstanding about which had the right of way over the ing. The Mineral report of the says that its train, which was southeast at the time, stopped distance from the crossing and ed a passenger to alight. The train proceeded, and the next rear coach, there being five on the train, was struck by the S. engine and one car demolished another badly damaged. They that the A. G. S. train did not the crossing as is required.

The statement by Engineer of the A. G. S., which is confirmed the train crew, is that the train ped for the crossing about fifty from the crossing, and then ahead. The engineer states that Mineral train was coming at side, or the side of the cab occupied the fireman, and that he did that it was attempting to cross it was too late to stop his train.

The engine and three cars of Mineral train had passed over crossing before the train was Engineer Silliman was in charge
Mineral train and Engineer and Conductor Page in charge
A. G. S. train.

Conductor Hanbury had been the Louisville and Nashville the Birmingham Mineral is a for the past ten years, and was sidered one of the best passenger ductors on the road. He leaves and two children.

Mount Washington, N. H.—
the depth of six inches Mon
ered the summit of Mount W
The thermometer registered

Reunion Is Off.

There will be no reunion this the United Confederate Veterans
the Alabama division. Col.
Jones, adjutant-general and staff of the divisions, said that to the unrest and uncertainty business and of individuals quarantine, Egbert H. Jones Huntsville, had requested
nual reunion be postponed
The reunion was to have been Huntsville.

---

ome Health Club

y David H. Reeder, Ph.D., M.D.

MALARIA—AGUE

a series of articles previously lished, I gave full directions and ction for the successful home ment of all kinds of fever in ing malarial fever, but there has a great demand this summer for upon the subject of malaria or as it is popularly called.

I were to go into a detailed or ical description of the sickness d ague, I would use up all of the that is allotted to me and you d receive no practical information k you are able to recognise the se. Formerly it was supposed ague was caused solely by damp y lands and damp cellars, be e of its being more prevalent in places, but it has during recent s been quite conclusively demon ed that the cause originates in bite of certain kinds of mosquitoes, that one may with perfect safety freedom from malaria sleep for ths in the open air of the worst s of swampy places if fully pro d from the bite of mosquitoes.
research also demonstrated this knowledge was common prop over two thousand years ago, and several hundreds kinds of mos were known and classified.
while I am convinced that the
of the poisonous insect is the
, I do not believe that a person perfect health would suffer, and in experience proves that many peo are immune, although exposed to same cause.

r lesson is, therefore, keep the d pure and the alimentary canal from impurities. The right kind food in the right quantities and perly eaten, with sanitary sur dings is the safeguard which must used for prevention.

First, good wholesome food that is difficult to digest; second, not to eat; third, to masticate all food y thoroughly; fourth, no liquids le eating; fifth, an abundance of e water between meals and on aris in the morning; sixth, a good warm h with plenty of soap and water at st twice a week; seventh, a perfect ptying of the colon at least one ily. This is a very important point the prevention or successful home atment of ague. The disease is ch more likely to be fastened to one ose colon is filled with stagnant d impacted fecal matter, which uld have been promptly eliminated.
there is the slightest sign of consti tion the colon should be thoroughly ansed by the use of from two to ee quarts of warm water in which s been dissolved one tablespoonful salt to the quart of water. This uld be injected by means of a long, xible soft rubber tube called a colon be, such as is used in hospitals in ministering what is called a "high ema."

About the only medicine that will needed for keeping the system in cellent fighting condition in case the ove suggestions are followed is eith
the good old-fashioned herb remedy, mpound gentian syrup (not tincture) about one grain of capsicum or com on red pepper, taken just at the fin h of breakfast and another at din
r. The best way to take capsicum in soluble capsules.

When the disease has become estab shed, the Home Club method of treat ent as given in Vol. 2 of the Club oks should be rigidly followed in ad tion to the observance of the diet e and hygienic rules above given.

CLUB NOTES.

Sleeplessness.

One of our exchanges gives the fol wing cure for insomnia.

"I suppose all of us are suffering om the invasion of electricity. My d friend Bounce, who was a victim f insomnia for forty years, thinks e sleeps now better than any other an on earth. He lost his way in the Adirondacks and stayed over night in e cabin of a forester. His sleep was e deep sleep of a just man made per ct, and in the morning he found that e had not moved half an inch all ght."

"'It's the insulation,' the forester in sted. 'You city folks are killing urselves with contact. If you'll eak the contact you'll be able to eep and get your nerves back.'"

This matter of "contact" was finally plained to mean that our bedposts e in contact with the floors, the oors with the walls and the walls with mother earth, so that whatever personal magnetism a man has in him oes away in the night time, leaving him like a log on his mattress. The forester had obtained four glass insu lators from telegraph poles somewhere and screwed them on the posts of his guest bed, so that the electricity could not run away. Bounce, the very day he got home insulated his bed, and from that moment to the present his insomnia has been banished.

I have frequently recommended the insulation of the bed for insomnia as well as for others forms of nervous ness. Try it.

Somner.

Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.:

Dear Sir—I am an old Home Health Club member. My record number is 2364. Have loaned my Club Books to friends in California. Would like some information regarding my present con dition. I am seventy-six years old, and physicians say I have a bad case of anemia, also itching piles. I have

BAD WRECK

Passenger Run Into by a Freight With Very Bad Results.

THE CONDUCTOR IS KILL

None of the Injured Hurt So Serio That They Are Unable to Wal

Statements Made.

Birmingham, Ala.—One man killed and more than two dozen were slightly injured Monday noon about 4:30 o'clock, when an bama Great Southern freight struck the next to the rear coach the Blocton accommodation of the mingham Mineral, a branch of Louisville and Nashville, near stock, at what is called Blocton tion.

The conductor on the Mineral, ry M. Hanbury, was the only killed. The injured are: E. P. head cut, Minso Jones, head Frank Jodewick, body bruised right arm cut, Mike Vodiski, head F. W. Lennon, thigh bruised; Atkinson, head cut; J. Thompson, shoulder and side bru Alex Dunlap, head and back bru J. M. Jones, right hand cut; Mrs. E. Hart, of Fort Wayne, sli bruised; Miss Berdie Hart, of Wayne, slightly bruised; R. G. M slight bruises, Will Lawley, bruises; R. G. Merrell, arm, face head bruised; D. B. Painter, sheriff of Abernant, side bru Grant Perryman, slight bruises; Tildsley, left arm hurt; Louis A head and legs bruised. All white.

The negroes injured are Ch Harvis, C. L. Rather, Jim Jones, tin Mason, Jim Hudson, John Gl William Washington, Peter Wa and Florence Jones.

None Badly Injured.

Not a single one of the injuries so serious that the person susta them was unable to walk. All passengers on the train were in the cars, while it is thought that ductor Hanbury had just steppe the platform in going from one another. He was caught between cars and badly mangled.

The passenger train was the ton accommodation, which leaves mingham at 2 o'clock in the aftern It is said to have left a few min late. The Alabama Great Sout train is the through freight from Orleans known as the meat which runs on a passenger schedu

Brought to Birmingham.

As many of the injured peopl desired to come were brought to mingham on a relief train which sent to Blocton Junction immedi after the wreck. A number of p cians went to the wreck on the train, which reached the place an hour and a half after the w The physicians had bandaged th juries before the relief train ret to Birmingham. Fourteen of the jured were taken to St. Vincent's pital. The others did not require pital treatment.

Cause of Wreck.

The wreck seems to be due misunderstanding about which had the right of way over the ing. The Mineral report of the says that its train, which was southeast at the time, stopped distance from the crossing and ed a passenger to alight. The train proceeded, and the next rear coach, there being five co on the train, was struck by the S. engine and one car demolished another badly damaged. They that the A. G. S. train did not st the crossing as is required.

The statement by Engineer D of the A. G. S., which is confirm the train crew, is that the train ped for the crossing about fifty from the crossing, and then ahead. The engineer states tha Mineral train was coming on hi side, or the side of the cab occup the fireman, and that he did no that it was attempting to cros it was too late to stop his train.

The engine and three cars Mineral train had passed ove crossing before the train was Engineer Silliman was in charge Mineral train and Engineer D and Conductor Page in charge A. G. S. train.

Conductor Hanbury had bee the Louisville and Nashville, of the Birmingham Mineral is a div for the past ten years, and sidered one of the best passeng ductors on the road. He leaves and two children.

Mount Washington, N. H.— the depth of six inches Mond ered the summit of Mount Wa The thermometer registered 2

Reunion Is Off.

There will be no reunion this the United Confederate Vete the Alabama division. Col. Ha Jones, adjutant-general and staff of the divisions, said that to the unrest and uncertainty business and of individuals quarantine, Egbert H. Jones Huntsville, had requ nual reunion be postpo The reunion was to have Huntsville.

Home Health Club

By David H. Reeder, Ph.D., M.D.

MALARIA—AGUE.

a series of articles previously lished, I gave full directions and ion for the successful home ent of all kinds of fever, ing malarial fever, but there has a great demand this summer for upon the subject of malaria or as it is popularly called.

I were to go into a detailed or ical description of the sickness d ague, I would use up all of the that is allotted to me, and you d receive no practical information. you are able to recognize the ase. Formerly it was supposed ague was caused solely by damp lands and damp cellars, be of its being more prevalent in places, but it has during recent been quite conclusively demonstrated that the cause originates in of certain kinds of mosquitoes, that one may with perfect safety freedom from malaria sleep for in the open air of the worst of swampy places if fully protected from the bite of mosquitoes. research also demonstrated this knowledge was common property over two thousand years ago, and several hundreds kinds of mosquitoes were known and classified. while I am convinced that the of the poisonous insect is the I do not believe that a person perfect health would suffer, and in experience proves that many people are immune, although exposed to same cause.

lesson is, therefore, keep the pure and the alimentary canal from impurities. The right kind food in the right quantities and perly eaten, with sanitary surroundings is the safeguard which must used for prevention.

First, good wholesome food that is difficult to digest; second, not to eat; third, to masticate all food thoroughly; fourth, no liquids eating; fifth, an abundance of water between meals and on arising in the morning; sixth, a good warm with plenty of soap and water at twice a week; seventh, a perfect ing of the colon at least one y. This is a very important point the prevention or successful home ment of ague. The disease is more likely to be fastened to one colon is filled with stagnant impacted fecal matter, which have been promptly eliminated. there is the slightest sign of constipation the colon should be thoroughly by the use of from two to quarts of warm water in which been dissolved one tablespoonful salt to the quart of water. This be injected by means of a long, soft rubber tube called a colon such as is used in hospitals in ministering what is called a "high ."

About the only medicine that will needed for keeping the system in fighting condition in case the suggestions are followed is either good old-fashioned herb remedy, pound gentian syrup (not tincture) one grain of capsicum or com red pepper, taken just at the finish of breakfast and another at din The best way to take capsicum soluble capsules.

When the disease has become established the Home Club method of treatment as given in Vol. 2 of the Club should be rigidly followed in ad to the observance of the diet and hygienic rules above given.

CLUB NOTES.

Sleeplessness.

One of our exchanges gives the following cure for insomnia:

"I suppose all of us are suffering from the invasion of electricity. My friend Bounce, who was a victim insomnia for forty years, thinks sleeps now better than any other on earth. He lost his way in the Adirondacks and stayed over night in cabin of a forester. His sleep was deep sleep of a just man made perfect, and in the morning he found that had not moved half an inch all night."

"It's the insulation,' the forester insisted. 'You city folks are killing yourselves with contact. If you'll break the contact you'll be able to and get your nerves back.'"

This matter of "contact" was finally explained to mean that our bedposts in contact with the floors, the floors with the walls and the walls with mother earth, so that whatever personal magnetism a man has in him away in the night time, leaving like a log on his mattress. The forester had obtained four glass insulators from telegraph poles somewhere screwed them on the posts of his guest bed, so that the electricity could run away. Bounce, the very day got home insulated his bed, and that moment to the present his insomnia has been banished.

I have frequently recommended the insulation of the bed for insomnia as well as for others forms of nervousness. Try it.

Sumner.

Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.:

Dear Sir—I am an old Home Health member. My record number is Have loaned my Club Books to friends in California. Would like some information regarding my present condition. I am seventy-six years old. physicians say I have a bad case anemia, also itching piles. I have great faith in you and in the Home Health Club and will greatly appreciate any suggestions you may have to offer. If either of the conditions mentioned are discussed in any of the Club Books which I do not have, let me know and I will procure it.

Truly yours,

K. R.

How to enrich the blood and cure anemia by a simple home method is fully described in the cloth bound book of Home Health Club lectures, the price of which is only $2 per copy. It contains about 120 of the most valuable lectures. In addition to the instructions which I have sent you in a private letter regarding the treatment for itching piles, you will also find excellent instructions in the book above referred to, on constipation and piles of all kinds.

Cambridge.

Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.:

Dear Sir—I would be greatly pleased and I think benefited as well to learn your opinion of the enema as a means of treating diseases and as a remedy for ordinary constipation. Shall we use it or not? Our home doctors differ. I would also like to ask about the different forms and causes, especially the causes of urticaria. We hear a good deal of it during this hot weather.

Assuring you that your opinion will be highly appreciated, and hoping to have it soon, I remain,

D. S.

In some cases the enema is quite necessary and does a vast amount of good. As a general cure-all I cannot recommend it so highly as some do. In some cases it is positively harmful. Each case must be studied separately and treatment given according to the specific needs.

The enema properly taken is better in the majority of cases than severe physic, but under proper living neither is required.

Urticaria, hives or nettle rash is caused by stomach disorders and frequently follows very quickly after eating strawberries and some other acid fruits, shell fish, etc.; especially lobsters and crabs. Any one who is subject to attacks should use great care in the diet and should never eat late at night nor overload the stomach. Masticate all food quite thoroughly and see that constipation does not at any time exist.

Slater.

Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.:

Dear Sir—Seeing your name in our paper, I wish to inquire about fleas. We have them all over our house and barn. Can you suggest a remedy?

Respectfully,

JAMES J.

I must confess that the destruction of fleas is not in my line. I do not remember ever having been bitten by a flea, and for that reason, perhaps, have held no particular enmity toward the active little pests. Perhaps some of our readers who live where the fleas are plentiful can give the desired information. It will be thankfully received by many.

Kankakee.

Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.:

Dear Doctor—I would like to know the cause of taking cold as often as two and three times a week. Will get up in the morning and have a bad cold in the head and nose will run for three or four hours and then it gradually leaves me again. Am also troubled with headache and sick stomach. Sometimes vomiting nothing but bitter gall and it makes me very sick and weak. It generally last only one day at a time. Will be very thankful for any information you may give.

Yours truly,

MRS. L. Y.

The condition which you call a cold which you take two or three times per week is an acute catarrhal difficulty, or what some would call hay fever. It can be cured in nearly all cases by the use of the tissue elements advocated by Dr. Schuessler, of which I have so often spoken of in Club Notes. The tissue elements will also relieve the headaches and sick spells.

GALL STONES

I have a request for a lecture upon the subject of Gall Stones. It is an interesting subject and I will comply with the request giving a full description of a safe and practical method of home treatment in the near future.

All readers of this publication are at liberty to write for any information pertaining to the subject of health. Address all communications to the Home Health Club, or to Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind., with name and address in full and with at least four cents in postage.

Bluestockings Beware.

Woman after woman lined up at the glove counter and got waited on, but the call of the woman with the book under her arm was still unheeded.

"Why is it," she wailed to a passing acquaintance, "that I can't get anybody to sell me a pair of gloves?"

"It is that book that does all the mischief," said the acquaintance. "You will never get waited on properly so long as you go shopping with a book tucked under your arm. It gives you a studious look, and shop girls abhor a bluestocking of any description. They claim a women with literary tendencies buys in small quantities, at low prices; therefore it doesn't pay to give their time to her until all the smart customers have been waited on."—New York Press.

A Humorous Hint.

Truth notes a specimen of American humor, received the other day by a London firm. It ran:

"Our cashier fell unconscious at his desk this morning. Up to this time, 4 p. m., we have been unable to get a word out of him, except your names.

"May we say to him, with a view to his immediate recovery, that we have your check, as we think that is what is on his mind?"—New York Press.

WATERCRESS.

Watercress seems almost indispensable to the cook, after once she has become familiar with its possibilities, and it can be very easily grown wherever there is the tiniest brook or small pond.

SILK LACE.

After washing, silk lace should be allowed to lie for half an hour in a little warm milk, to which a very little gum water has been added. Then squeeze nearly dry and iron on the wrong side on a board covered with several thicknesses of clean flannel.—Home Notes.

WASHING NICE BLANKETS.

Here is one of the very best recipes I have ever seen for washing all-wool blankets. Put three bucketfuls of soft water into the boiler and heat it until it is almost to boiling. Dissolve half a cupful of pearline into it, and pour it into the washing machine. Wash until the water is dirty, but do not rub any soap on it as that will cause it to shrink. It is surprising to see how much soil will come out of an apparently clean blanket. Run it through a wringer, then wash in a second suds prepared as the first was. After washing in this ten minutes rinse in clear water of the same temperature, then pass through the wringer, and hang on the line, taking care to shake out the creases and wrinkles.

A bright day is the best time to dry blankets. Be sure they are quite dry before they are used. Never rub soap directly upon a blanket, it roughens and pulls it badly. This is a perfect recipe for fine blankets.—Jane, in Indiana Farmer.

SALAD DRESSING.

In regard to the correct dressing of salads there is an old adage which says: "One should be a spendthrift in oil, a miser in vinegar and a counsellor in salt." In preparing the average salad this is a good rule to follow:

Mayonnaise dressing still retains its fame as the superior salad dressing, but for certain salads others are better than mayonnaise. For vegetables like cucumbers and cabbage a real mayonnaise is too delicate. A boiled dressing is more suitable. The idea once so prevalent that a rich mayonnaise of chicken or lobster is unwholesome is absured. May onnais dressing is wholesome when taken as everything should be, in moderation. Olive oil is always healing and nutritious and therefore excellent for consumptives. Yolks of eggs cannot be said to be unwholesome. The touch of vinegar gives a stimulus to the appetite and the seasonings used are an aid to the digestion of the rich meats For variety's sake the ordinary mayonnaise can be tinted a beautiful green with some drops of spinach or colored bright red with a little juice from a boiled beet. Lobster coral, also, pounded fine is used occasionally as a red coloring for mayonnaise, a cup of stiff whipped cream is another nice addition to this dressing.

RECIPES.

Cauliflower.—Pick off the outer leaves and cut the stem close to the bottom of the flowerets; wash well in cold water and let soak in weak brine an hour to remove any insect. Put in a kettle of boiling water, add a teaspoonful of salt and let boil for twenty minutes; when done, take up with a skimmer, put in a dish and pour over allemand sauce; or season with butter and cream.

Rolled Toast.—A delicious way of serving bread, especially for salad, is as follows: Prepare bread which is fresh, light and of a pliable texture. Butter each slice generously before cutting it from the loaf, and let your slices be thin. Carefully cut off all crust before you begin to roll. Now, take one corner of the square, thin slice of well buttered, soft bread, and roll it gently over and over toward the diagonally opposite corner, and secure it by sticking one or two fine wood toothpicks through the body of the roll. It is now ready to be delicately browned in the oven; and when you have removed the toothpicks your toast will be prettily curled. If you wish to serve it with salad, the bread may be springled with grated American cheese, before you begin to roll it.

Veal Tongue.—A veal tongue can be simmered slowly in a rich gravy, or it can be browned in the oven. A "jellied calf's tongue" is delicious. After parboiling it long enough to loosen the skin, take the tongue out of the water, skin it and cut into slices. Cover it with some stock. Season with two or three teaspoonfuls of tomato catsup, a clove, a tiny onion, a good pinch of thyme and four or five pepper corns. Simmer it very gently in this gravy for about an hour, or until the meat is tender and the stock around it rich and dark. Then take it from the fire and put into a mould. Set it when it has cooled near the ice to become thoroughly cold and hard. The gravy will then have formed a stiff jelly around the meat and the whole will have taken the shape of the mould. When ready to serve turn it out and cut into slices. A veal tongue cooked in this way can also be served hot the moment it is done.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Portland Oregonian says: By the end of the present century there will be a population of two or three millions in Alaska.

The London Lancet says a German doctor has discovered a new and valuable anesthetic. It is called "hydrochlorate of benzoyltetramethyldiamonethyldimethcarbizol."

It makes very little difference whether women or men do the teaching, providing that teaching is of the best quality obtainable, declares the Boston Transcript.

A German inventor has devised a theatre which can be emptied of its audience in half a minute. Some of our bad actors had this beat a long time ago.

When a horse balks all the bystanders feel sorry for the driver. When an automobile balks they look pleased reflects the Boston Transcript.

Peary says that his expedition may open up 3,000,000 square miles of country hitherto inaccessible. It will be some time, however, before the "why pay rent" sign follows his trail, predicts the Washington Star.

When you give your seat to a womam in a crowded car, is it an act of politeness or a cowardly pandering to the greed of a company that will not run enough cars to accommodate the public? asks Town Topics.

Stamp collectors will profit by the separation of Norway from Sweden. All the stamps that bear the portrait of King Oscar ceased to be valid on July 30.

Just think of it! Nome, whose output of gold for the season of 1905 is estimated at $10,000,000, was practically unknown a few years ago, the Boston Transcript recalls. Its recent history probably surpasses the maddest dreams of the adventurers who long ago froze and starved on its then inhospitable shores. It strikes us that Jack London missed a rare chance when he hurried away from the romantic Northwest to go to London to study prosaic socialism.

Seattle wants an Alaskan exposition in 1907, to celebrate some anniversary or other. Los Angeles wants to commemorate the centennial of the pony express in 1909. Sedalia, Mo., already has on foot a project to centenniolize Missouri in 1920. We hereby propose an exposition in Panama in the year 2205, in celebration of the first centennial of the opening of the Panama Canal, suggests the Portland Orgonian.

The Post Graduate Hospital, after numerous and satisfactory experiments, recommends to physicians and the public a new cure—perhaps a preventative—of consumption. It is very simple—the juice of such vegetables as potatoes, onions, turnips, beets, drunk three times a day after meals. The remedy is inexpensive and can be prepared in any household. Why it should cure consumption is explained by Dr. John F. Russell, its inventor, upon the theory that the disease is caused by malnutrition and that the vegetable juices supply something that is lacking in the ordinary diet. This is a modern paraphrase of the ancient maxim: "Eat plenty of vegetables and you will never be ill," concludes Town Topics.

From his first perception of the opportunity to the final accomplishment of his purpose Mr. Roosevelt never wavered or weakened, never lost hope, never made a false move, or a bluder of any sort, never once overstepped the proprieties which his official post and his relations with the two Governments prescribed, declares the New York Sun, in speaking of the President's recent efforts in behalf of peace between Russia and Japan. He has been the Peacemaker in the fullest sense of the blessed word. The conference would not have occurred but for him. But for him it would have gone to pieces after it had begun. The success of his noble enterprise is one of the most splendid examples which history can afford of will power, character and straight-forward, yet not unsophisticated altruism working efficiently and perseveringly in one individual for the good of millions. The magnitude of Mr. Roosevelt's achievement will grow in the eyes of the world as the years go by; what man by a single seizure of opportunity, and the consummately skillful use of it when seized, ever earned a surer title to the most honorable fame?

Stingless Bees.

A race of bees has been brought to this country—as an experiment by the United States Government—that has been found the gentlest in the world. The one great drawback to beekeeping for most people has been the fear of stings, but recent experiments at Washington, D. C., have proved the Caucasian bees to be the most remarkable bees in existence for their gentleness. We do not mean by this that the bees are stingless, for they possess this organ so necessary to their welfare, but so seldom do they resort to its use that they are for all practical purposes nonstinging.—Country Life in America.

AGREEMENT REACHED

Norway and Sweden Make a Tranquil Adjustment and are Friends.

DISSOLUTION AND NOT WAR.

After Protracted Session of Conference Delegates Get Together on All Points.

Karlstad.—After protracted sessions extending over some week the Norwegian and Swedish delegates who met here to settle the terms of separation of the two countries have arrived at an agreement on all points. The terms were not made public.

In anticipation of the agreement large crowds assembled around the buildings in which the meetings had been held to witness the departures of the delegates. The Norwegians emerged upon the conclusion of the session and were on their way to Christiana a few minutes after an announcement was made of the outcome of the negotiations. The Swedish delegates remained inside for some time, but when they did show themselves they received an ovation and were escorted to their hotel by crowds which sang the Swedish anthem. They left at midnight for stockholm.

The delegates refused to discuss the terms of the agreement, simply saying that they would be given out early next week. An agreement had been anticipated for some days, as both sides had been adopting conciliatory attitudes. The negotiations which are now concluded are peculiar in nature. On one side the delegates were former Swedish ministers who at the time of the Riksdag decision were leading members of the committee which framed the Swedish conditions to assent to dissolution. On the other side the delegates were men who led Norway in its revolution of June 7, but who were not guided by any decision of the storthing. On the contrary, their every act was looked upon with suspicion by men more radical.

When Sweden's conditions were made known many voices in Norway were raised against acceding to them. Premier Michelsen, of Norway, was more conservative and, seeing the consequences to Norway of a breach, was willing to enter into an agreement so long as it was honored by Norway and preserved as much as possible her national pride.

To Preserve Friendship.

The purpose of the Swedish delegates was to make a provision preserving the good feeling of the two peoples. From this viewpoint, of course, Sweden was compelled to insist on the demolition of the frontier fortifications which Norway, notwithstanding the close connections of the two countries, had erected against Sweden's entirely unfortified frontier.

The first purpose of the Swedish delegates was to hurt as little as possible the feelings of Norway, and the Swedish delegates throughout the proceedings have tried to find a way in which the fortress located farthest from the frontier could be made less threatening, while the others, they contended, should be demolished. It is believed this point was successfully carried.

The Swedish delegates were also anxious to preserve free and untrammeled the intercourse between the two countries, and they therefore proposed that certain agreements be made regarding transit and waterways which were equal in benefit to both and which would prevent one country from interfering with the other. It is believed that these matters were also settled to the satisfaction of both sides.

Finally Sweden did not consider that she could leave unprotected the interests of the poor Normandie Lanplanders, who, for their very existence, depended upon the use of pastures in both countries at different seasons for their reindeer. The Norwegians held out against the granting of this right, which had been established for centuries, but it is thought they at last gave in.

That Sweden never objected to an arbitration is shown by the Riksdag decision, in which arbitration was first mentioned and which agreed perfectly with Sweden's expressed desire for peace.

Rich Man Killed by Railroad.

Charleston, W. Va.—In an accident on the Cabin Creek branch of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Jack Pennell, engineer, of Point Pleasant, a son-in-law of Hon. Rankin Wiley, of that place, and Fireman Frank Sawyer were killed. Pannell was wealthy, but was too fond of railroading to quit the business.

Gadsden, Ala.—The charcoal furnace of the Eagle Iron company of Attalla will be placed in operation in a short while. The stack is now being overhauled and repaired and when running will turn out 18,000 tons of car wheel iron. The Quinn furnace in Gadsden will be in blast soon, and when these two furnaces go into blast there will be three charcoal furnaces in operation in the Gadsden district and not an idle stack.

YELLOW FEVER NEWS.

The Latest Reports From the Infected District.

New Orleans, La.—The yellow fever condition in this city for the last 24 hours is as follows: New cases, 37; total cases, 2,868; deaths, 3; total deaths, 370; new foci, 7; cases under treatment, 282; cases discharged, 2,216.

Country Cases.

News from the country shows two new points of infection, one in Avoyelles parish and another in Assumption parish. The country reports were:

Kenner, 8 new cases.

Tallulah and vicinity, 8 new cases.

Alexandria, 2 new cases.

Lake Providence, 9 new cases.

Borodine, 1 case.

Near Napoleonville, 1 case, 2 suspicious.

Bayou Boeuf and Amelia (six days), 13 new cases.

Terre Bonne parish (two days), 47 new cases, 4 deaths.

McDonoughville, 1 new case.

Fisher's Camp, Barrataria, 4 new cases.

Patterson, 26 new cases.

A suspicious case has developed at Bon Ami, in Calcasieu parish, which has had no fever for forty days.

No Deaths at Vicksburg.

Vicksburg, Miss.—One positive case and a half dozen suspicious cases of fever were reported. There were no deaths.

For the want of material to feed on the disease is dying out at Lake Providence, there being only four new cases there. There are eleven cases at Milligen and six at Shelbourne, East Carroll parish.

Situation in Mississippi.

Jackson, Miss.—The yellow fever at Hamburg is spreading rapidly, 9 new cases, four suspicious cases, and one death being reported.

The summary from other infected points is as follows:

focus.

Natchez, three new cases, one new

Gulfport, four new cases.

Roxie, one new case, one death.

Mississippi City, one new case.

No new infection was reported from Handsboro.

Strengthens Chinese Trade.

Washington, D. C.—Wong Kai Kah, trade commissioner of China, called upon Assistant Secretary Adee at the state department in company with Yung Kwai, secretary and interpreter of the Chinese legation here, to take his leave before returning to his post in Japan.

Mr. Wong arrived in San Francisco about August 15th and since then has been studying American trade conditions with special reference to the development of trade relations with China. He has collected material which he believes will be of value to his government in the development of its trade policies. He was originally assigned to duty in Japan as a trade commissioner and is now about to begin to take up his work in that country, going east by way of San Francisco.

Kick About Labor Agents.

Sheffield, Ala.—Major Blair, of this city, has had a number of circulars printed offering a reward of $25 for any information that will lead to the conviction of any of the so-called "labor agents" which have been coming here for the purpose of enticing away laborers from Sheffield. The legislature passed a law making such a thing a penal offense, as well as a city ordinance of the same kind.

Tallapoosa Favors School Tax.

Dadeville, Ala.—Tallapoosa joins the list of counties in favor of the local school tax lay by a vote of four to one. Cowpens was the banner beat, casting not a single vote against it. The only active opposition was in the cotton mill town, East Tallassee. Dadeville voted seven to one for taxation.

Guilty of Wife Murder.

Irvington, Ga.—The jury in the case of Columbus W. Walker, charged with wife murder, has rendered a verdict of guilty with recommendation for life imprisonment. The jury was out less than forty minutes. The children of Walker testified in his behalf. The verdict was contrary to the expectation of the public.

Increase Capital Stock.

Trenton, N. J.—The United States Independent Telephone Company filed paper with the secretary of state increasing its authorized capital from $100,000 to $50,000,000. The officers are: John Rauber, president; William J. Naylor, vice president; Benjamin B. Chase, secretary; Frederick W. Zoller, treasurer; Morris D. Knapp, J. Wesley Kingston and Harry A. Bingham, directors.

Lynched Right Negro.

Little Rock, Ark.—Responsible citizens of Conway, at which place the negro Frank Brown was lynched Friday, say that there was no mistake, that he was the man wanted. Mrs. Lawrence positively identified Brown as the man who assaulted her some days ago and killed her 2-year-old child. The coroner's jury returned a verdict that Brown came to his death at the hands of unknown persons.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

It has been hoped by the people of Chilton county that by this time the very necessary extension of the court house would have been commenced. That the extension is necessary is acknowledged by all the citizens of the county, and the fact that the Commissioners' Court had taken the matter in hand, in deference to public sentiment and the recommendation of several Grand Juries, led to the belief that by the fall term of circuit court the convenience of the public would be provided for. But it appears that the architect's plans for the extension were a little too elaborate, and consequently rather costly, the first bids for the work were too high, a second call was advertised and only two bids was submitted in response to the Commissioners last Friday, neither of which was accepted.

The Court then instructed the architect to modify his plans, eliminating the more costly features, and invites bids to be presented to them on October 5, when it is much to be hoped a satisfactory arrangement for the work will be made. Chilton county has the money, the work needs doing and should be done without further delay.

The Alabama State Fair, which opens at Birmingham, Ala., October 23 and continues ten days, closing upon November 2, will be a departure in many ways from the ordinary State Fair. In the first instance, more than $50.000 have been spent upon the building and grounds, and it is the unanimous opinion of those who are in position to know that the grounds and buildings are the neatest and most beautiful in the South. The buildings are now completed, and in one week will be ready for the exhibits. These exhibits, by the way, will excel in number, variety and quality all previous fairs. The liberal premiums offered by the State of Alabama and by the management of the Fair have called forth a generous response from all sections of Alabama. Every mail brings new aspirants for the generous prizes offered. There is another departure in that the delays so characteristic of ordinary enterprises will be absent. The Fair, when opened upon President's Day, October 23, will be complete in every detail. It has been a gigantic undertaking, but the management has triumphed over every obstacle. No other Fair in the South has ever been planned upon as broad a scale or brought to completeness with such efficiency.

No section should fail to be represented in the exhibit department. Premiums are offered for household, orchard, farm and dairy products, as well as for live stock. The woman's Department will appeal with liberal premiums to the housewives. Indeed the Alabama State Fair will be a panorama of all that Alabama makes or produces. Entries should be made at once. The premium catalogues are ready and may be had on application to the Alabama State Fair Association.

Billingsley.

There has been a lot of sickness at this place, but I am glad to say they are all better.

We are all glad to say that little Gertrude Williams of this place is getting along nicely and is so happy in school at Talladega.

Mrs. William S. Roper has got in a new line of up-to-date millinery goods, which we are glad to see.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Popwell District.

The farmers of this community are busy picking cotton.

We are sorry to say that little Clifton Crane got snake bitten last week by a ground rattler, while picking cotton. We trust he will soon be well.

There will be a debate at the Culp schoolhouse, Saturday night, Sept. 30, at early candle light; subject, "Resolved, that the art of man is more attractive to the eye than the scenes of nature." Speakers in the affirmative: J. D. Sims, J. T. Williams, Miss Etta Mae Roper and Miss Zella Mims. In the negative, R. E. Roper, Mrs. Lula Sims, Jerome Williams and Howard Roper. Judges: Robt Atkinson, J. A. Culp, R. O. Headley. SUBSCRIBER.

England's Round Tree.

The heart of England is a sturdy member that throbs responsive to every call of duty. That, indeed, is not common to England, but is a heritage of every land where the love of country is deep in the breast of man. But the real heart of England—its exact geographical center—is altogether another proposition. So far from being occupied by patriotic sentiment, a tree exactly fills the space. It is called Round Tree and is both a picturesque and distinguished growth. Cold stone might mark the spot, but this living monument which greens as the snow melts is much more fitting. This ancient oak typifies the national strength, and the associations attached to it thickly as leaves in midsummer make it a thing of affection and veneration.

False Dice.

The following passage explains the various methods of cheating at dice in the Elizabethan era so well that I transcribe it in full for the benefit of commentators on old plays, etc., says a correspondent of London Notes and Queries. "What false dise use they? as dise stopped up with quicksilver and heares, dise of vauntage, flattes, gourdes to chop and chaunge whan they lyste, to lette the trew dise fall under the table, and so take up the false, and if they be true dise, what shyfte will they make to set ye one of them with slyding, with cogging, with foysting, with coytinge, as they call it."—Ascham's "Toxophilus," 1545.

Didn't Have to Pay Rent.

This is said to be how William Waldorf Astor gave the order for the fine offices built for the Pall Mall Gazette: Mr. Astor was signing checks one morning and was informed that one of them was for office rent. He laid down his pen and remarked: "Well, I must pay taxes and other expenses, but I need not pay rent. If it pays another man to erect a building and rent it to me, then it will pay me. Now," turning to his right hand man, "make arrangements for new offices. I don't want to hear anything more about it for a year." And so the offices were built.

How It Was Pronounced.

Who was it who declared that a German in despair at the difficulties of English pronunciation said that we write "caoutchouc" and read it "gutta percha?" He was not driven to such desperation as one of his countrymen who gave up the study of the language on being told that the "Mikado" was pronounced "a decided success."—Chicago News.

His Course.

Farmer Cornrack—Mandy, I got a letter from our boy sayin' he was gettin' ready to take a preparatory session. Mandy—A three months' course, I presume? Farmer Cornrack—No, I think not. He said somethin' about a nine hole course, twice around.—New York Times.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggist refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case, no matter of how long standing, 6 to 14 days. First application gives ease and rest. 50c. If your druggist hasn't it send 50c in stamps and it will be forwarded post paid by Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Commissioner's Sale.

Under and by virtue of a commission issued to me on the 27th day of September, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds as Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, I, H. I. Honeycutt, the Commissioner named in said commission, will proceed to sell, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, on MONDAY, the 30th day of OCTOBER, 1905, between the hours of eleven o'clock in the morning and four o'clock in the afternoon, the following described real estate, to-wit:

W ½ of W ½ of Se ¼ of Se 1-4, and all that part of the Sw 1-4 of the Se 1-4, lying east of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, all in Section 21, of Township 22, of Range 13, containing twenty four acres more or less, except that part now occupied by negro graves, all situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of division and distribution among tenants in common, to-wit: W. W. Ryan, Nellie Paulson, Anetta Larson and Gerhard Larson, in pursuance of an order of said Court of Probate.

Given under my hand this the 27th day of September, 1905.

H. I. HONEYCUTT, Commissioner.

A DAILY PAPER FREE.

Well, not exactly free, but the next thing to it. What do you think of this offer? The Banner and the CHICAGO NATIONAL DAILY REVIEW $1.50 A YEAR!

This offer is open for a limited time only. We can't tell how long we shall have an opportunity to give you such a bargain, so come early.

Pay up your arrearages and a year in advance, and for only 50 cents additional we send you a Daily Newspaper for one year. Think of it!

The Chicago National Daily Review is a phenomenal success. It is a four-page, seven-column paper printed in large type on good quality of paper. Started in January, 1905, it already has thousands of subscribers and it intends to add thousands more in the next few weeks by arrangements with the Banner and other newspapers, such as we have outlined above.

The Chicago National Daily Review is published every week day in the year and contains all the news thats worth remembering. It has a complete market report, excellent reading matter for the family, condensed and readable reports of the world's news, and every day gives its readers a Magazine Article by one of the high-class special writers on its staff.

Remember that the regular price of the Chicago National Daily Review is One Dollar per year. For a limited time only, all new subscribers to the Banner who pay a year in advance and all old subscribers who pay arrerages and a year in advance can get the Review for only 50 cents additional.

Don't wait; now is the time to get a Good Daily Newspaper for the smallest price ever offered.

PROGRAM

Chilton County Singing Convention, to be held with Concord church, two miles east of Clanton, Oct. 14 and 15, 1905.

SATURDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercise, J. J. Grant,

10;30. Welcome address, E. H. Mims. Response, R. D. Durham.

11. Song service, led by R. D. Durham.

12. Dinner.

1:30 p.m. Methods of teaching vocal music, J. L. Gore, James Franklin and J. B. Northcutt.

2:30. How may pastors help the singing teacher? G. W. Gothard, W. A. Mims.

3:30. Business of convention.

SUNDAY, 9:30 a.m. Devotional exercise, W. A. Mims.

The remainder of the day spent in singing. Lovers of music are earnestly requested to attend.

COMMITTEE.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold or sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At Upchurch Drug co; 50c and $1 00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Personal.

Mr. J. L. Smith, who has been in Colorado for the benefit of his health, returned home Tuesday.

Mr. Wm. Bearden of Bliss gave us a pleasant call Saturday.

Throat Coughs

A tickling in the throat; hoarseness at times; a deep breath irritates it;—these are features of a throat cough. They're very deceptive and a cough mixture won't cure them. You want something that will heal the inflamed membranes, enrich the blood and tone up the system ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

Scott's Emulsion

is just such a remedy. It has wonderful healing and nourishing power. Removes the cause of the cough and the whole system is given new strength and vigor ∴ ∴

Send for free sample

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists
409-415 Pearl Street, New York
50c. and $1.00. All druggists

For Thin, Poor Blood

You can trust a medicine tested 60 years! Sixty years of experience, think of that! Experience with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; the original Sarsaparilla; the strongest Sarsaparilla; the Sarsaparilla the doctors endorse for thin blood, weak nerves, general debility.

But even this grand old medicine cannot do its best work if the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. For the best possible results, you should take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills while taking the Sarsaparilla. The liver will quickly respond, and so will the bowels.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of Ayer's
HAIR VIGOR.
AGUE CURE.
CHERRY PECTORAL.

Sardis.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely with large attendance.

A word about our ball game last Saturday evening between Blue Stars and Center Point, or Blue Darters rather, the score being 28 to 3 in favor of Blue Stars. The batteries for Center Point were Headley, Williams, Rainwater and Burkhalter; Blue Stars, Ratliff, Klinner, Williams, Roper and Williams. We made all these scores in five innings. Boys, they were not hacked very much, some of the players took to the woods when the game was over, I don't know what they meant. Our pitcher is one of the best in the county, don't you all think so? Boys, when I get up before a good pitcher a home run is sure to follow and when a Center Point player picked up the bat our pitcher would sit him down without fouling a ball. We always play our own men, we never hire any players. We want to play Blue Darters one time and have all of them together.

Miss Lula Donovan is no better.

BIG IKE.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Sept. 25, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Clarence Abernathy, March Cain, John Johnson.

LADIES' LIST.

Rossie Clavley, Josifeen Denost, Laura Hanes, Henrietta Jackson, Miss Jane McGee, Mrs. Ned Oden.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Oct 9, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Cured of Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gillam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Jericho.

The weather is rather cool, the nights seem that winter is near in the future.

Mr. Ellard is busy somewhat ginning cotton this week, gins all day and half of the night. It seems from that there must be a lot of cotton made, but it is a complete failure, more so than ever known before

Mrs. Lou Clinton and Miss Stella are out again, we are sure glad to know they are able to be out again.

Quite a crowd from this section have gone to Marion to take in Wilburn's sale. But now is the time to get up your worthless trinkets.

J. L. Clinton carried four bales of cotton to Marion the first of the week. Roads are somewhat bad and it's rather tough on four mules to carry that much at a time.

Mr. Finers Clinton gave up his job in Marion; it is said he got so home sick.

The telephone line is broken in 4,450 places from Heiberger to J. M. Washburn's. Hustle, some of you men, I am in a hurry to deliver some messages I have

Best For Children

Mothers, be careful of the health of your childaen. Look out for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. Stop them in time—One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy. Harmless and pleasant. Contains no opiates. A. L. Spafford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses half an hour apart of One Minute Cough Cure speedily cured her." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Disco

Liberal long time loans on imp
Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Pr
ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on ton being held now, either on farms or warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, AL

The Big Mail Order House
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00
Wilson Whiskey	85
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - - - A

WELLS Bored and Dri

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water
CLANTON, ALA.

PATTILLO BROS.
MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN
YELLOW PINE LUMBE

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. F ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at na. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA,

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and C
stock for the Clanton trade.

Always Remember the Full N
Laxative Bromo Qui
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in T
E. W. Grove on Box. 25c.

Job Printing cheap at THE BA

VOL. XIII Maga

THE FRUITS OF PEACE.

JAPAN TO TURN HER ATTENTION TO ARTS AND INDUSTRIES.

Wonderful Performances Following Our Civil War When a Million Men Returned to Work to be Repeated by Japan.

The great armies of Japan are about to be sent back to the farm, the workshop and the marts of trade. The pagan nation that has refused to bow its knee in worship at the foot of the cross is about to exemplify that prophesy of Isaiah perhaps more fully than has any nation claiming to be guided by the Christian faith.

"They shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Such were the words of the prophet, spoken during the very period of which tradition echoes the greatness of the Japanese nation.

"Militant Japan passes," now declares Baron Kaneko, the Mikado's representative in the United States, "and industrial Japan takes its place with the coming of peace."

Within a short time, probably in October when the foliage of the rare Japanese gardens is tinged with yellow at the coming of the frost, the scrolls that perpetuate Japanese history will bear a narrative of the grand disbandment of that army of Japanese soldiers that has overcome a power supposed by the world at large to be its superior. As soon as the Japanese Government can make the necessary arrangements, that great army of three-quarters of a million of men will pass in review through the streets of Tokyo and will invoke the same magic spell that made for peace in the review of the Grand Army of the Republic in our own capital at the close of the Civil War.

Promise of a Great Military-Peace Review.

The Japanese, ever ready to adopt the best that exists in foreign lands, and with sufficient initiative and power for improvement to surpass the people they imitate, may be depended upon to provide one of the most magnificent spectacles representing a transition from war to peace that has ever been witnessed. That army that has carried everything before it, and which has been the wonder of the military powers of the world, will soon be marching through the streets of Tokyo amid the plaudits of the populace that has made sacrifices at home as have the warriors on fields of battle where their Russian antagonists have met defeat and humiliation.

This plan has been adopted in a tentative way by the Japanese Government, and is likely to be carried out unless the riotous acts of the people who have been disappointed by what they regard as inadequate compensation for Japan as stipulated in the terms of peace, cause the Government, for prudential reasons, to avoid such a demonstration when the great army is within the capital.

But whether this display of a military nation, chided as being devoted to war for the love of military glory alone, takes place on the magnificent scale that many wise statesmen of Japan hope for, the army that has raised Japan to the rank of a first-rate

MISS ALICE RO

Women like pink, but American men
... blue, as a rule, in feminine ap parel. Miss Alice Roosevelt estab lished herself firmly in Washington las year by appearing in a number of pret tily made gowns of light blue, so tha
"Alice blue" has become a feature o the department stores. Photograph which have come from the Orient, how

GULLEDGE
Loans and Disco
ng time loans on Impro fe Insurance Policies.
s on good Personal Prop Crops.
l advances offered on now, either on farms or dress
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA

Mail Order House!
T RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
Your Mail Orders.
GOODS PER QUART.
goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.
Old Mason's Pure Rye
Private Stock Virginia Rye
J. Martin's 8-year-old Va Rye
Old Style Country Club
Old Lincoln County
Richmond Club Virginia Rye
R. A. Stuart's Old Va Rye
We carry a full line of wines a
ndle low grade goods.
DRUG COMPANY
T RATE DRUG STORE
IRMINGHAM, ALA.

verything
Everything of the b
Fancy Grocerie
DS, CLOTHIN
HATS, ETC.
ONES & BRO.

Bored and Drill
B. TEEL
ller of Deep Water W
NTON, ALA

LLO BROS.
ERS OF AND DEALERS IN PINE LUMBE
rough and dressed lumber. Floo to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at V d, get our prices, they will be satisfi
PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, ALA
ll carry our Flooring and Ceili

mber the Full Na
Bromo Quini
One Day, Grip in Tw
on Box. 25c.
heap at THE BANNER

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIII | Magazine Supplement | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1905 | Pages 9 to 12 | No 50

THE FRUITS OF PEACE.

JAPAN TO TURN HER ATTENTION TO ARTS AND INDUSTRIES.

Wonderful Performances Following Our Civil War When a Million Men Returned to Work to be Repeated by Japan.

The [illegible] of Japan are about to be [illegible] to the farm, the workshop [illegible] parts of trade. The pagan [illegible] has refused to bow in [illegible] ship at the foot of the [illegible] to exemplify that [illegible] perhaps more fully than [illegible] nation claiming to be guided [illegible] Christian faith.

"Th[illegible] beat their swords into [illegible] and their spears into [illegible] nation shall not lift up [illegible] nation, neither shall they [illegible]."

[illegible] the words of the prophet, [illegible] the very period of which [illegible] the greatness of the Japan[illegible].

"M[illegible] passes," now declares [illegible] Kaneko, the Mikado's representative in the United States, "and [illegible] Japan takes its place with [illegible] of peace."

With[illegible] short time, probably in October, [illegible] the foliage of the rare Japanese [illegible] is tinged with yellow at the [illegible] of the frost, the scrolls that [illegible] Japanese history will bear a [illegible] of the grand disbandment [illegible] army of Japanese soldiers that has [illegible] a power supposed by the [illegible] at large to be its superior. As soon as the Japanese Government can make the necessary arrangements, that [illegible] of three-quarters of a million [illegible] will pass in review through the streets of Tokyo and will invoke the same magic spell that made for [illegible] the review of the Grand Army of the Republic in our own capital at the close of the Civil War.

Promise of a Great Military-Peace Review.

The Japanese, ever ready to adopt the [illegible] exists in foreign lands, and with sufficient initiative and power for [illegible] to surpass the people they [illegible], may be depended upon to provide one of the most magnificent spectacles representing a transition from war to peace that has ever been witnessed. That army that has [illegible] everything before it, and which has been the wonder of the military powers of the world, will soon be marching through the streets of Tokyo amid the plaudits of the populace that has made sacrifices at home as have the [illegible] on fields of battle where their [illegible] antagonists have met defeat and humiliation.

This plan has been adopted in a tentative way by the Japanese Government, but is likely to be carried out unless [illegible] riotous acts of the people who have been disappointed by what they regard as inadequate compensation for Japan as stipulated in the terms of peace cause the Government, for prudential reasons, to avoid such a demonstration when the great army is within the capital.

But whether this display of a military [illegible] chided as being devoted to war [illegible] the love of military glory alone, takes place on the magnificent scale that many wise statesmen of Japan hope for, the army that has raised Japan to the rank of a first-rate military power is to be disbanded and the soldiers are to go to their homes.

Return to the Factory and the Farm.

The little men who never turned aside in making assaults upon the enemy are to return to the factory, to form with deft fingers those wonderful art treasures that are the pride of cultured homes the world over, to devote their genius to the combination of colors with effects that cause Western artists to admire, but which they cannot equal. The little patient men will go to their farms and, by toilsome effort, will make the soil fruitful to a degree that excites wonder in those accustomed to the broad acres of America. The tactful merchants, ever polite, but capable of sharp practice withal, are to dispense the wares that come from the loom and the workshops of Japan to all the nations of the earth.

The Japanese have from the first claimed that their war with Russia has been for the maintenance of their national integrity. Baron Kancko himself disclaimed the charge a year and a half ago that the Japanese have been bent upon military glory and that their victories would fire their ambition and urge them forward to greater conquests over Western nations from whom they learned the modern arts of war. He now scouts the idea that the Japanese will become the military allies of China for the conquest of the Western world. Although they can fight, the Japanese, like the Chinese, are peace loving, and the whole trend of the nation is toward internal development.

Now they are to prove to the world that their declarations have not been mere pretence. They are to "beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks." They are to take their place among the Christian nations that have recourse to war only for a just cause. They are to send their envoys to The Hague to woo the Goddess of Peace.

Last War Loan Unexpended.

The readiness with which the Japanese nation is about to turn to the arts of industry is especially notable because of the last loan of $150,000,000 made by the Mikado not a dollar has been expended. The nation, when it agreed to end the war, was fully able to continue fighting. The masses of the people, worked up to a condition of patriotic fervor, was ready for the conquest of Russia's plains, no matter what the cost; but those wise statesmen who have guided the fortunes of the wonderful Island nation have decreed that Japan shall give to the world an object lesson by having the so-called warrior nation, in the moment of its military greatness, turn away from fields of carnage to promote commercial greatness and the higher civilization.

Electric Railroads in Ireland.

The introduction of light railways into Ireland has, it is asserted, been productive of great benefit to thousands of farming cottiers, enabling them to get better prices for their poultry, eggs and pigs, while being put to less cost for transport to market. Possibly, motor-wagons, calling from farmhouse to farmhouse daily, may be destined to supersede light lines as "feeders" of trunk lines; as there would be no outlay for permanent way, working expenses would necessarily be much less.

MISS ALICE ROOSEVELT IN BLUE.

W[illegible] pink, but American men [illegible] as a rule, in feminine apparel. [illegible] Alice Roosevelt established [illegible] firmly in Washington last year by [illegible]earing in a number of pretty gowns of light blue, so that "Alice [illegible] has become a feature of the department stores. Photographs which have come from the Orient, however, show this independent young lady in the red linen gown which she wore at the Chevy Chase horse show a year ago last May. It is made very simply and loosely without collar, the waist being embellished with applique clover leaves in white satin, having stems and outlines in black. Possibly the Fillipinos like red better than blue.

RAILROAD LEGISLATION.

SENATOR ELKINS BELIEVES IT WILL COME NEXT SUMMER.

Is Willing to Co-operate With President Roosevelt in Passing Satisfactory Measures to Control the Railroads.—He Outlines His Views.

Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia, in announcing the other day the call for a meeting in Washington on Nevmber 15, of the Senae Committee on Interstate Commerce, said that he was convinced that action on railroad rate legislation at the coming session of Cognress was inevitable, and that he would co-operate in passing a bill satisfactory to the President.

"I thing I am justified," said Senator Elkins, "in stating that all the Republican, or majority members of the committee, have concluded that there must be railroad legislation this winter. The President, I understand, is as emphatic as ever in his judgment that the railroad rate and private car line problem must be dealt with decisively. I think there is no doubt that some sort of bill will be passed.

Quick Work by Committee.

"The committee will not be long in framing a bill, as I believe the individual members have formed definite opinions on what they desire, and all that will remain to be done is to agree on some one plan. This, I think, will not require more than two weeks, so that when the Senate convenes in December a bill will have been framed for presentation to the Senate.

"My idea is a measure for the reference of all rate disputes, passenger and freight, to a court of interstate commerce, to be composed of nine judges—one for each judicial circuit of the United States—or for such disputes to be referred to the Circuit court judges wthout the creation of a new court. Congress at all times is opposed to the creation of new courts or commissions, and for that reason the new court plan would no doubt meet with serious opposition.

"I do not believe that the Interstate Commerce commission should be allowed to deal with the question. I would keep that body intact to discharge its duties as at present and would not give it the additional work of regulating rates. My idea for the reference for disputed rate matters to the Circuit judges meets with general approval in Washington, and I hope to convert the President to my view.

SENATOR STEPHEN B. ELKINS.

"I would have each Circuit judge try cases which were brought to his attention as having originated in his circuit, and would have an appeal court consisting of the other eight Circuit judges, who could convene at certain periods of the year to dispose of appeals, their appeal decree to be reviewed only by the Supreme Court of the United States. That idea has appealed to Senators and Representatives conversant with practical railroad affairs as a most sensible, feasible and comprehensive plan."

This announcement that Senator Elkins has called a meeting for November 15 to frame a bill providing for railroad supervision and regulation by the government, that he is convinced that action by the coming Congress is inevitable and that he will assist in passing a bill satisfactory to the President is important and interesting. Taken in its fullest significance, it means that Mr. Elkin's committee will no longer stand in the way of enactment of a law that will enforce upon the railroads the application of uniform rates to all classes of shippers and the discontinuance of secret rebates. It is not doubtful that the railway authorities will welcome an enactment that will enable them to say to all applicants for special favors that the law is binding upon them. It will be easier for them to conduct business on an even basis when they can point to the statute as forbidding them from clandestine arrangements. Their attitude in regard to the private car lines, they disclaiming any responsibility for the extortionte charges made by these lines, is a wholesome sign.

Committee Has Been Hostile.

Rightly or wrongly, the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce has been credited with being the chief obstacle to the enactment of legislation to restrict and correct the abuses of railway management. After the House of Representatives had passed the Esch-Townsend bill at the late session it was carried into that committee and there held up until the adjournment of Congress. A vast amount of tesimony was takn on the merits of the contention between the people and the transportation companies, and when the committee suspended its meetings it was the general impression that it was firmly fixed in its purpose to defeat any remedial measure, even such as might be elaborated from President Roosevelt's determinaton to compel the railroads to obey the existing law and that if the statutes now written on the books are not sufficient, they must be reinforced to the desired potency:

Senator Elkin's statement is a forerunner of the settlement of the whole question in Congress next winter. Such an adjustment will be for the benefit of all parties concerned—the railroads and the shipping interests. Immense harm has been done to worthy enterprises by railroad discrimination against them. It seems now that the great transportation concerns will not hereafter be permitted to devote themselves to the creation of monopolies and the repression of competition.

WORLD'S GREATEST PRINT SHOP.

Tens of Millions of Documents Turned Out by Uncle Sam.

The Government Printing Office at Washington, which has been brought prominently to notice lately through an investigation of the award of contracts for typesetting machines, is the largest establishment of its kind in the world, and nowhere can be found such an extensive department in any printing office as that devoted to what is known as job work. The amount of printing coming under the head of job work turned out by this office is one of the principal items at the establishment. Among the larger items of work performed by the job room may be found blanks, circulars, cards, letter and note heads and envelopes, 15,000,000 of the latter being required each month for the various Government departments. The "blank" department of the job room embraces an infinite variety of forms, some being but a few square inches in size to others containing several square feet. For this branch over $350,000 is expended each month for the purchase of raw material. Cardboard is necessarily a large and important item, the average month's run being 3,000,000 sheets.

Congress, of course, has great need for the job room, for there the solons of Capitol Hill find ample facilities for the printing of the innumerable mailing franks for seeds and documents and other routine work. Where the requisitions from "the hill," as the Capitol is called by the employees, are of a general or routine order, the matter is electrotyped, so that a duplicate order may be "struck off" at short notice. These "electros" are indexed, numbered and filed in elaborate file cases, where they may be readily found when additional orders are received. Cuts and electrotypes which are not used in the period of four years are thrown out of the cases and relegated to the melting pot. Over 110,000 plates are estimated to be resting in the job vault.

The Old and the New Government Print Shops
Old Structure now used for Storing Documents.

Since the Government Printer moved into the new establishment but recently erected, the job room has taken on a businesslike air, improved fonts, with a capacity for tons of the various kinds of type used, immense galley rack stands for the reception of matter in type, slug, lead and furniture racks, improved cabinets for large type, small cuts and "iron" lines, all aid those in charge of the work in the operation of the largest and best equipped job room in the country.

Labor Saving Electricity

The Government Printing Office, all in all, is the model printing establishment. Captain John S. S. Sewell, of the Engineer Corps, United States Army, was placed in charge of the work of installation in the new building. While but a young officer of the army, he is a student of the part electricity is destined to play in the history of labor in the years to come, and so ably devised a full electrical equipment of this building. Each press, cutting machine, stitcher, and every other proper mechanical equipment of a printing office has its individual electric power supply. The furnaces for the melting pots, too, have their heat generated by the subtle fluid. The size of the Government Printing Office may be realized when it is stated that the official guides employed in the office, in making the rounds with visitors, occupy nearly three hours in the trip.

FIERCE WAR IN DIXIE.

A Washington Paper Regales Its Readers with Accounts of Recent Herculean Struggles of Southern Politicians.

From the Washington Post.

Mid-August finds the pleasant land of Dixie in the happy and normal condition of political war. The treacherous thermometer, which in the North has palpably crazed a large proportion of the population, has benignly registered a genial and glowing warmth in the South, conducive to intellectual agility, incisiveness of temper, and healthful acidity of speech. From the Potomac to the Rio Grande come reverberations of field and siege artillery. "Sunburned sicklemen, of August weary," drop their sickles and flock to town where peerless orators drown and burn in perspiration and peroration. All Dixie is alive with local issues of overwhelming national importance.

The very dome of the Capitol flings back the echoes of Virginian strife. There the florid Montague and the matter-of-fact Martin are locked in a death struggle that extends over every county of the Old Dominion. Figures of speech and figures of commerce writhe and grapple. The Rappahannock boils, the Rapidan bubbles, and the James runs in a panic to Hampton Roads. The Mother of Presidents adjusts her spectacles and clasps her hands in convulsive apprehension as she stares at her warring sons. It is a fierce and bloody fight, but out of it will come peace and a Senator, if there is a survivor at all.

The Strife in Georgia.

In good old Georgia the shears of embattled editors flash in the August moon. Georgia was disposed to become frantic at first, but when it was certain that an editor would become governor in any event, the grand old State sighed and became resigned. She no longer fears the worst, for it has happened. She hears the roar of the linotypes as they belch forth defiance and smoke, and the sharp rattle of sanguinary typewriters fills her capital with dread. Editorial explosions are of hourly occurrence, and column after column sweeps forward with double leads and bold-faced heads. It is a carnage of minion and bourgeois. Even the neutral dictionary has been pillaged, and war poems are at a ruinous premium.

Carmackian Tennessee.

Over in Tennessee the aureate plumes of the Hon. Edward W. Carmack are incandescent, while the Hon. Bob Taylor's violin "shrieks like a god in pain." Having providently arranged that restraining hands shall hold them back, these brilliant sons of Tennessee are struggling to grip each other's throat, while the people of the Commonwealth look on aghast. The golden-domed Senator would defend his seat by joint debate, but his friends fear the cunning master of the catgut muse. And Bob Taylor's friends tie his hands, for they know the fiddle would "stand no show" against the viol that sings in epigram.

A Second Alamo.

From Texas comes the voice of the Hon. Joseph W. Bailey, who in a speech from which politics was rigorously excluded, thus referred with Senatorial courtesy to certain of his colleagues:

> "Who is the successor of Stephen A. Douglas? A nice old woman, who compares with Douglas as the glow-worm compares with the eagle. Who represents Ohio? Mr. Dick, who didn't make a great success at running a feed store. Who comes from Pennsylvania? The creature of corporations and cabals."

Rare old Kentucky, meanwhile, listens to rare old Joe Blackburn, making the fight of his life. So it goes throughout Dixie, that fair and happy land.

BEGGARS IN INDIA.

They Are Fast Disappearing.—Only About 5,000,000 Left.

The beggar nuisance is a very common one in India, and the endeavors of the police in the large cities to put it down have met with only a limited measure of success. This is no doubt due to the fact that Indian opinion is remarkably tolerant toward sturdy beggars, especially if they wear the guise of religion. But there is reason to believe that a wholesome change is coming over the public sentiment in this as in so many other matters. There were about five millions of beggars in the country at the time of the last census, and nearly one-fifth of the number were classed as religious mendicants. The number, large as it is, represented a decrease of about 7 per cent. from that at the previous census, and the decline has been attributed in part to the comparatively heavy mortality among them during the famine years. But, says the report, "it is also partly attributable to the spread of education and the consequent weaker hold which the so-called ascetics have on the imagination of the people," it being much less easy than it was formerly for the members of the various begging communities to unloose the purse strings of the people.

There is happily, reason to believe that the changed feeling among the educated classes is filtering down to the lower levels. This evil is not confined to one particular community or religion. It is as rampant among the Mahometans as among the Hindoos. The "Sar Jadid," an ably conducted vernacular paper, published in upper India, dealing with questions of social reform among Mahometans, has been forcibly calling the attention of its co-religionists to the necessity of a reform in their notions of charity. Our contemporary shows by a reference to the Police Gazette that the number of Mahometan beggars under surveillance has been rising every week. I cite instances from the records of criminal courts to prove that some of the men who pass for religious teachers have been convicted on charges of fraud and immorality committed on the property and persons of men and women who had been misled by their religious appearance.

To Cure Smoky Wicks.

When lamp wicks smoke or refuse to burn properly they should be soaked in vinegar and then dried thoroughly. The difference in the light given will be very noticeable. Another homely suggestion is the use of salt to remove the ugly stain made by eggs on silver. It should be applied dry and rubbed on with a soft cloth.

Prehistoric Egyptian remains have been found among the prehistoric remains of ancient Gaul.

Good Bathing.

Washington has a public bathing beach on the banks of the Potomac where during the heated weather thousands of dusty urchins, schoolboys, and other citizens disport themselves in the cool of the evening.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated by Ernest Haskell

By Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

18TH THOUSAND ALREADY

All Bookstores, $1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion." —St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story." —N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study." —N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO,
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
[illegible] The Missourian
Name
Address

"THE BELLE OF BATTLES."

RELICS OF THE BATTLEFIELDS OF BULL RUN.

Two Ancient Citizens Who Viewed the Slaughter and Cared for the Wounded.—Both Still Living on the Battleground.

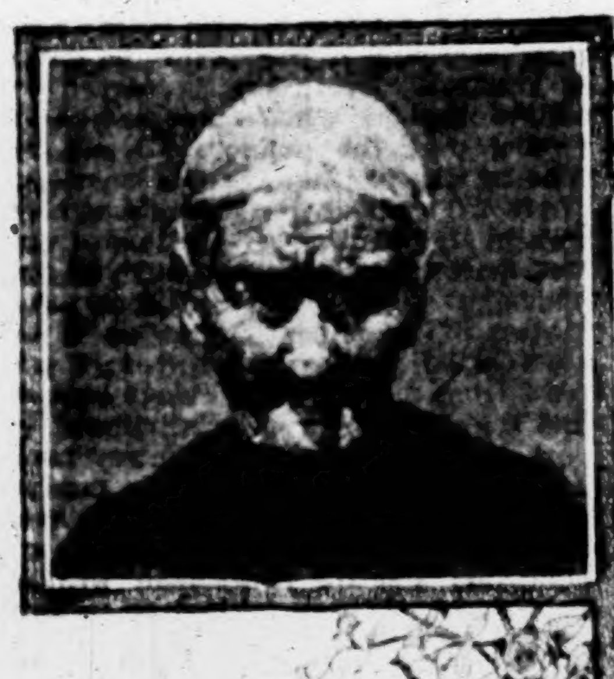
"The Belle of Battles" is a title—a sort of a nom de guerre—borne by a venerable woman who lives at Groveton, Prince William county, Virginia, a war-worn hamlet in that blood-soaked region wherein the first and second battles of Bull Run and scores of less sanguinary engagements were fought. Groveton is a hamlet of tragic memories. It is on the Warrenton turnpike five miles west of Centreville, three miles east of Gainesville, five miles north of Manassas and two miles south of Sudley. These were important names in the heroic age of the Republic.

Though the old lady was known to the men of the Federal armies of the Potomac and Virginia, and to the Confederate army of Northern Virginia, and is still known the country round as "The Belle of Battles," her name is Mrs. Lucinda Dogan. She is ninety years old, has an excellent memory, good teeth, does not wear eye-glasses and can walk miles at a stretch.

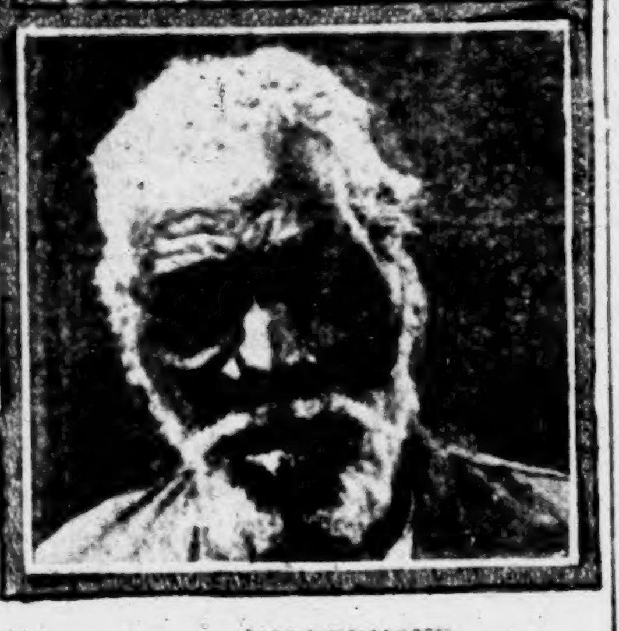
Ninety Year Old Witnesses.

August 28, 29 and 30 are the battle days of the Second Bull Run. August 30 was Mrs. Dogan's ninetieth birthday. The forty-third anniversary of the defeat of Pope by Lee and Jackson will be celebrated on the field of Groveton, the centre of the opposing armies, by a reunion of veterans and a birthday celebration for the Belle of Battles. The two observances will be so interwoven that it would be hard to separate one from the other. Another feature of the observance will be that particular prominence will be given to an old-time colored man whose name is Jim Redmond. Redmond is also ninety years old.

Groveton is a group of three houses at a crossroad. Mrs. Dogan lives in one house, Redmond in another and the third is occupied by a tenant farmer of the Dogans. Both Mrs. Dogan and Jim Redmond saw the battles of Bull Run and looked upon the fields in all their gory horror. When the firing had ceased, Mrs. Dogan and her children, and Jim Redmond walked among the dead and wounded carrying buckets of water and "gourd" dippers, giving drink to the moaning soldiers, many of whom, of course, were dying. All the old folk in the battle region of Virginia say that the most horrible sound that comes from a battlefield is the chorus of cries for water which come from the wounded. After his labor as a volunteer water carrier, Redmond worked with a burial party digging the long, deep trenches in which the Confederate dead were laid.



BELLE OF BATTLES.



JIM REDMOND.

Groveton is on high ground, but near the Dogan house is a hill from which a good view may be obtained of Henry Hill, the junction of the Warrenton pike and the Sudley road and the valley of Young's Branch, all a mile to the east of Groveton and the real red fighting ground of that red Sunday, July 21, 1861. It was from this hill that Mrs. Dogan and Jim Redmond watched the first battle. It is interesting to let Mrs. Dogan tell the story of the fight in her own way. She said:

By An Eye Witness.

"The Yankees were all around Centreville and our boys were laying along Bull Run. Some of our troops kept coming through Gainesville from the Valley." (This was Johnston's army which had slipped away from Patterson's troops in the Shenandoah Valley and was re-inforcing Beauregard.) "Early Sunday morning we heard shooting down the pike towards the Stone Bridge, and my husband called out that the Yanks were coming. We went up to the top of that hill yonder and some of the neighbors also came up. We could see the smoke rising above the trees about the Stone Bridge." (This was Tyler's division of the Union army engaging Cocke and Evans' brigades posted on the extreme Confederate left.) "Off towards Sudley we could see clouds of dust rising over the woods." (This was McDowell with the divisions of Hunter and Heintzelman executing the flank movement). "After the shooting had been going on for half an hour we could see crowds of men running back from the Stone Bridge to the Sudley road and then going north towards Sudley. Southern troops were coming up from towards Manassas, marching across the Henry farm, then over Buck Hill and on towards Sudley." (The Confederates had discovered the Union turning movement and were preparing to check it.) "Not long after all this, the shooting began between the pike and Sudley. We could hear the sharp cracking of the muskets and the loud reports of the cannon, and could hear men shouting. Not long after, the men who had marched towards Sudley came running back through the woods and over the fields, stopping to shoot now and then. More Confederates were coming from Manassas and were forming on Buck Hill and the Matthews farm." (These were the brigades of Bee and Bartow of Johnston's army fighting to stay the Federal advance.) "After fighting there for some time our boys ran back from Buck Hill over to the Henry place, and the Yankees after them. More men kept coming from towards Manassas." (The whole of Beauregard and Johnston's armies were taking position on the Henry farm.) "Then the Yankees followed up Henry Hill. The shooting had got so furious now that we couldn't hear any single musket, and the firing of the cannon was so fast that only once in a while could we pick out a single shot. The country down there was now so covered with dust and smoke that we couldn't see the men, and though they were shouting we could not distinguish the shouting from the shooting. Now and then we could see lines of men running across the Chinn place, this side of the Henry farm, as though they were running to get into the smoke and dust and shooting. It was an awful sight. Every little while a cannon ball or shell would come over our way, but we were all too interested and excited to mind it. About four o'clock in the afternoon the noise was at its loudest, and we could see small bodies of men going back across the Matthews' place and on towards Sudley. Then more went back that way, and finally the field got so full of them and they made such a dust running that we couldn't see them. The shooting quieted down so we could hear single shots, and the dust in the Henry field got higher and thinner. We knew the Yankees were running. About six o'clock that evening my husband and I drove over to the Henry place. The old house was a heap of smoking ashes. My old friend Mrs. Judith Henry, who was sick in bed, had been killed that morning by a shell which broke through the house and burst in her bedroom. All the trees about the place had been shot down so that only the stumps were standing. Parties of Confederates were picking up dead men and burying them, but plenty of corpses were still lying around. We saw a great many wounded men, and many of them were begging for water. Dead horses were lying around everywhere, and the field pretty well turned up by shells and [illegible] spades, was just littered with muskets, bayonets, belts, caps, knapsacks and coats."

Warned of Second Battle.

It was more than a year later, August 29, 1862, that Mrs. Dogan, after clearing up the breakfast dishes, was told by a staff officer of Stonewall Jackson to move off her farm, as there would be fighting there that day. There had been heavy fighting the day before around Gainsville, three miles down the pike, and the night before Jackson had taken up his position along the abandoned railroad bed from Gainsville to Sudley, and which passes about 800 yards back of the Dogan house, there to await the coming of Longstreet through Thoroughfare Gap and the approach of General Pope with the Union army from the direction of Manassas. Mrs. Dogan had not reached her father's house, two miles away, when a Union battery and supports took station near the Dogan house and opened on Jackson's line. All that and the next day there was fierce and bloody fighting around Groveton. Of the conditions there she said:

"Funeral parties of both armies were burying the dead, though they had not long been at this horrible work. The Confederates dug long, deep trenches and laid their men in the ground that way. The Union burial parties only shoveled mounds of dirt over the bodies where they lay, and two or three days later a heavy rain made the field hideous. When the children and I got home parties of men were collecting the wounded and putting them in rows here in the yard and wherever there was shade. Doctors were cutting off legs and arms and the moaning was awful. They hadn't brought in all the wounded. There were hundreds scattered all around the farms. The children and I took buckets of water out into the fields and we worked that way all day and into the night, doing what we could for the poor fellows. Most of the wounded on our farm were Yankees, but that didn't make any difference to us after they got hurt. All our bed sheeting and table linen went for bandages."

The Famous Moseby Men.

Mrs. Dogan's house was the rendezvous of Moseby's "Rangers," "scouts," "bushwhackers," "pirates," variously called, many of whom are still living, scattered throughout Northern Virginia. The morning after Moseby took General Stoughton and staff, prisoners at Fairfax court house, the whole party ate breakfast at Mrs. Dogan's. The old lady was a star witness in the Congressional inquiry into the Fitz-John Porter case. She testified that Longstreet and staff took breakfast with her on the morning of August 29 and that regiments of his corps were marching down the pike from Gainesville. This did much to establish Porter's contention that when he and his division lay behind Dawkin's branch on August 29 Longstreet's whole corps was in front of him extending from Jackson's right at Groveton.

MAKING MAPLE SUGAR.

THE AMERICAN INDIANS THE FIRST SUGAR PRODUCERS.

They Dropped Red Hot Stones into the Sap.—The Present Industry an Important One.—Much Adulteration.

From time unknown the Indians tapped the sugar maple trees for sweets. They made diagonal cuts in the trunk and drove reeds or pieces of concave bark into the lower ends to convey the liquid into a bark trough or other receptacle. They boiled the sap by dropping hot stones into it. In some cases they allowed the liquid to freeze, and by throwing out the ice sufficient water was removed to allow the syrup to crystallize.

For a hundred years or more the conditions of producing maple sugar changed but slightly over those practiced by the Indians, except that the cooking vessels were made of iron or copper in place of vessels of clay or bark.

Sugar Camps in the Woods.

The boiling was generally done in the open woods, and with no shelter from the weather, leaves, pieces of bark, ashes, drippings from the trees and other impurities fell into the open pails and kettles. The old-fashioned potash kettle was suspended over the fire from one end of a long, heavy pole, which, by weights at the other end, could be easily manipulated, either to regulate the distance from the heat, or to swing the kettle on or off the fire—a crude crane. Sugar was made by boiling down the thin syrup until it became waxy when dropped into the snow; then it was ready to be poured into the moulds. The increasing demand for maple sugar has brought with it revolutionary methods.

One of the first changes was the adoption of the augur hole and wooden or metal spout in place of the old destructive ax-cut and open wooden spout. At first the sap was generally carried to the fire or sugar house in buckets by hand or with a shoulder yoke; but as the scale of operations increased the gathering tank was introduced, and where the work is on a large scale, pipes are often run through the "bush," as the grove is sometimes called, connecting with the sugar house or with the large storage tanks on the roadside, while in one large Adirondack sugar grove a narrow-gauge railway is used for collecting sap.

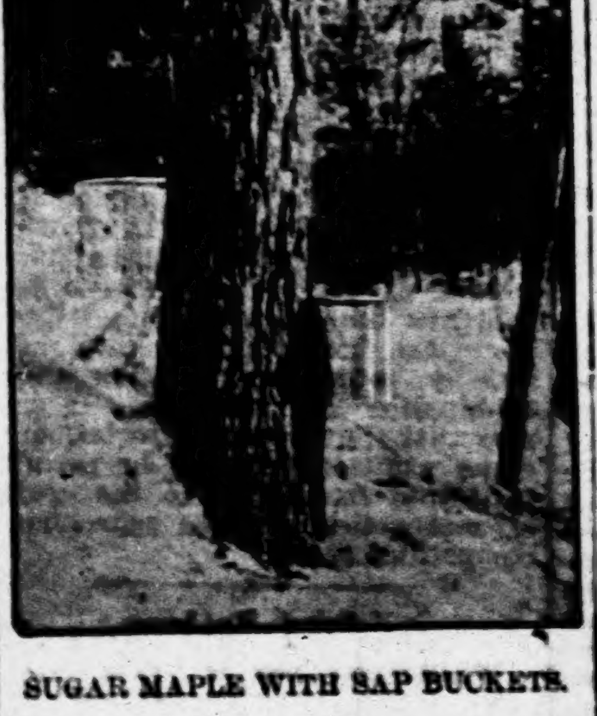
The Passing of the Kettle.

About the middle of the nineteenth century there was a change in the actual process of sugar making, through the adoption of an iron pan in place of the old kettle. The earliest form of evaporator was probably a shallow pan about 30 inches wide, 6 inches deep, and from 6 to 10 feet in length. This was supported by a thin-walled fire-box of stone or brick. The greatest portion of the under surface of this pan being exposed to the heat of the fire, caused more rapid evaporation, the use of less fuel and a quality of syrup and sugar far better than by the kettle method. The manufacture of this new style of pan led to the erection of buildings for their shelter. Then followed a form of pan with partitions to cause an alternating flow, this improvement allowing the sap to enter at one end of the evaporator and to flow from side to side through succeeding compartments, reaching the other end in the form of syrup. This is practically the form of evaporator in use to-day. Improvements have been made in the method of firing, and from the old, rough fire-box has been evolved the modern portable arch, made of iron, lined with fire brick and provided with grate bars and accurate dampers, so that the heat is more regular, while no smoke is allowed to escape.

BOILING MAPLE SYRUP IN THE OLD FASHIONED WAY.

Steam Pipe Evaporators.

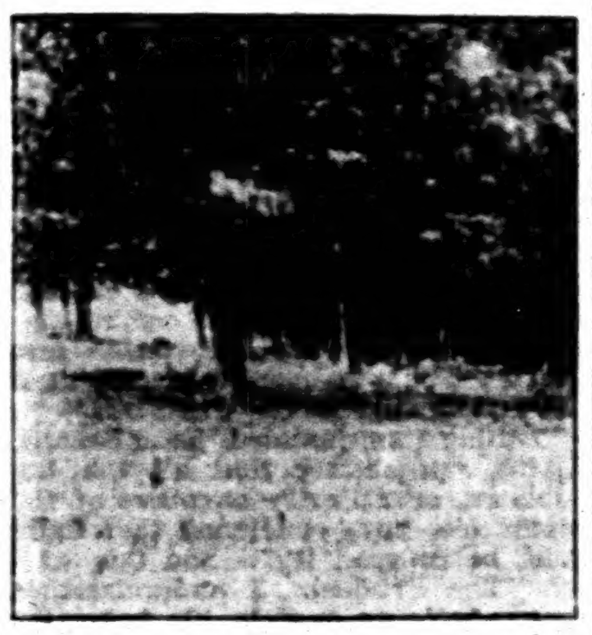
Probably the latest improvement in syrup making is that adopted by a manufacturer in the Adirondacks. A series of steam pipes is placed in the evaporating pan and the sap made to flow around them. The process is effective and cleanly, but, of course, can be carried out only where sugar is made on a large scale.



SUGAR MAPLE WITH SAP BUCKETS.

While these improvements have come with the course of time, it is not to be supposed that their adoption has been universal, for there are still many parts of the country in which sugar is produced only in a small way, and almost every form of sugar making, even the primitive may yet be found. Many eaters of maple sugar, as a matter of fact, prefer the coarser open kettle sugar to the smooth, delicately flavored sugar produced by improved evaporation. The former is darker in color and stronger in the maple taste. Honest producers endeavor to market their sugar and syrup direct or through the associations, instead of selling it to wholesalers, who, as a rule, mix it with glucose and other adulterants.

The New England States are the greatest producers, Vermont heading the list with an average annual production of about 10,000,000 pounds of sugar and 300,000 gallons of syrup. The total production of maple sugar in the United States is about 30,000,000 pounds annually. An interesting illustrated bulletin has been published by the Department of Agriculture, giving a detailed description of methods of sugar and syrup making, and also information and advice as to the best methods of planting and caring for maple groves to insure the highest returns to their owners. The bulletin also describes the various methods and practices of adulteration largely in vogue, some of which are hurtful to health, while others are simply frauds practiced on the purchaser.



PASTURE LAND IN A MAPLE SUGAR GROVE.

Versed in Pig Language.

Wages of farm laborers in England are enticing. An advertiser in the Wimbledon, England, Gazette wants "a lad about 20; must be a churchman of good education, who can drive a horse and cart, assist in the stable and garden (melons and cucumbers), milk cows and understand pigs; must be accustomed to wait at table and of gentlemanly appearance; early riser and teetotaler; good references required." The wages of this farm hand of diversified accomplishments are to be £50 a year, but he must lodge out and furnish his own meals, except dinner.

Even If It Costs a Billion.

The Des Moines Register and Leader, in discussing the Panama Canal question, says that "it is probably safe, as the result of all that is being said, to conclude that the government has engaged upon an experiment that will cost more in time and money than any one has been willing to admit. But the canal will be built, even though en-canal will be built, even though the engineers are compelled to go a mile deep for a foundation for their works. The United States will never add a chapter to the history of the de Lesseps failure. Even if the canal is to cost a billion dollars instead of the $200,000,000 that has been estimated, it will be put through. But it may happen many times before the job is done that, as Mr. Payne suggests, the people will recall those all-night speeches of old Senator Morgan and be willing to have them enrolled among the masterpieces of American oratory."

The Blithesome Locust.

From The Washington Star.

Look here, Mistuh Locus' bug, ascreechin' in de tree,
We been a lis'nen' to you till we's tired as we kin be.
You singin' an' a-playin' like you hated
foh to quit.
You 'pears to has you s'picions dat you made a pow'ful hit.
De leaves is gettin' yaller an' de grass is turnin' brown,
An' de sun he keeps a-blazin' on de country an' de town.
It's dat 'ar conjur chorus dat you sings
dat makes it so.
I ax you, Mistuh Locus', ain' you never gwine to go?

You holler in de daytime an' you holler
in de night.
You's got de moon discouraged till she's slidin' out o' sight.
An' when you kep' a-singin' till we's all a-feelin' sad,
You stahts to play de fiddle, an' you plays it mighty bad.
De tree toad is discouraged an' de cricket's keepin' dark.
De lightnin' bug's so warm dat he's afraid to show a spark.
Miss Katydid's a-waitin' it's time she had a show.
I ax you, Mistuh Locus', ain't you never gwine to go?

NEW WATERWAYS.

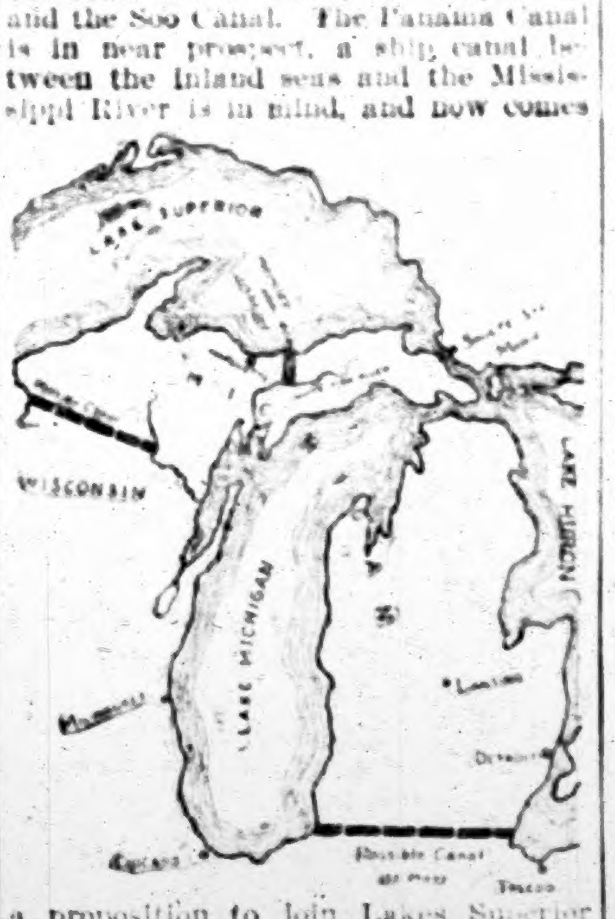
PROPOSED SHORTENINGS OF NORTHWESTERN TRANSPORTATION ROUTES.

Canals Which May be Cut Through Michigan and Wisconsin Peninsulas.—Engineering Difficulties Not Great.

The canal, ancient institution though it is, so far from having outlived its uses, commends itself with increasing urgency as the years speed by. Canals do not hold their place in the public eye directly as means of cheap transport, but as short cuts between great navigable waters.

A short cut is a time-saver, and a time-saver is a money-maker. And this is the universal demand.

From the days of the Pharoahs a water-link between the Mediterranean and the Red Sea was talked of and a generation or so ago the Suez Canal became a fact. So well established is it now that commerce between Europe and the Orient marvels how it got along before De Lesseps made a dream come true. Then on our continent was the Erie Canal that brought the Great Lakes in touch with the Atlantic through the Hudson River. There was the Manchester Canal, the Kiel Canal and the Soo Canal. The Panama Canal is in near prospect, a ship canal between the inland seas and the Mississippi River is in mind, and now comes a proposition to join Lakes Superior and Michigan 135 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie. It is contemplated to utilize White Fish River, which flows from very near the north shore of the northern peninsula of Michigan southward into the Little Bay de Noquette, due north of Chicago. Of the 40 miles across the peninsula only about 16 would need to be dredged.



Many Miles Shorter.

The time is perhaps not distant when engineers will cut a canal through the base of the Michigan peninsula and thus couple up Lake Huron and Lake Michigan. A ditch 155 miles would reduce by 450 miles the all-water route between Buffalo and Chicago. The route across the Michigan peninsula which has been suggested lies from Toledo on the east to South Haven on the west. The topography of the land presents none of the great obstacles which were overcome in the Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio and other great American canals. The commerce of the Great Lakes is vast enough to deserve all the short cuts which engineering skill and wealth can command.

Agents Wanted

To Canvass for the

United States Senator Number

NOW PUBLISHED.

The issue contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS

two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 x 8 inches in size

are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

The Budget Company,
220 Washington Street,
Boston, Mass.

A Tension Indicator

LOOSE 1 2 3 TENSION 4 5 6 7 8 TIGHT

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D.C.

Gleanings in Bee Cultur teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Then you'll want to subscribe. trial 25c. Don't delay but do it today.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy use the Western Elevating Grade and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper C
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

HOW DAN KENT
THANKSGI

The Kents—father and son—came to Chicago when Dan was a small boy so that the latter soon forgot about a he knew of Oldsburg and its people. If he had been older he might have been gladder to forget it, for there misfortune had overtaken his family, his mother had died, and his vague recollection of the place pictured the one long, dismal street down which he rode in a carriage to the cemetery, where the autumn leaves reeked in a cold rain and the clay falling into a grave sounded like the thump of his old toy drum.

Dan Kent, having a merry heart, didn't want to cherish any such dreary memories. So he had grown to manhood without revisiting the home of his infancy. Not so his father. The old man managed to stay away from the scene of his disaster till Joshua Colvin died. Then he went to the funeral of his old friend and partner, and ever after, up to the time of his death, maintained a habit of periodical visits to the old home town. Dan thought this odd at first, then he began to suspect that there was some old, long buried romance between his father and the Widow Colvin.

"You're right, Dan," said the old man, when his son twitted him about the Oldsburg visits. "I'd marry her now if I wasn't so old and poor, and if you take my advice you'll go after her daughter, Kate."

They were like brothers in their frank and loving relationship in those days, and Dan, who liked to banter his father, was almost glad to "have something" on the old man. But when the elder Kent grew feeble he talked always more and more of the Colvins. If they were a joke with Dan, they were not so with his father.

"I wish you'd go up and see them," he would say. "I can't any more, and —Dan—I wish you'd see Kate—young Kate. Bet you'd fall in love with her in spite of yourself. I wish you would and marry her."

And a few days before he died:

"Dan, if anything happens to Kate or her mother, will you do what you can for them? Promise, Dan. You'll write to them, anyhow."

SHE DARTED ONE ANG

When his father died, Dan grieved like a man, and regained his spirits like the wholesome, clean-hearted youth he was; but he forgot about the Colvins after he had answered the widow's letter of condolence. He remembered them again when he saw in the Oldsburg Banner the obituary of Mrs. Kate Niebling Colvin. He ought to have gone to Oldsburg to comfort the orphan girl, but he disliked funerals and he couldn't get over his gloomy impression of the old town. So he wrote a letter to Kate, as he had promised his father, sending such words of comfort as a stranger must, but offering to be of any assistance in his power. He scarcely expected a reply, but he got one within a week.

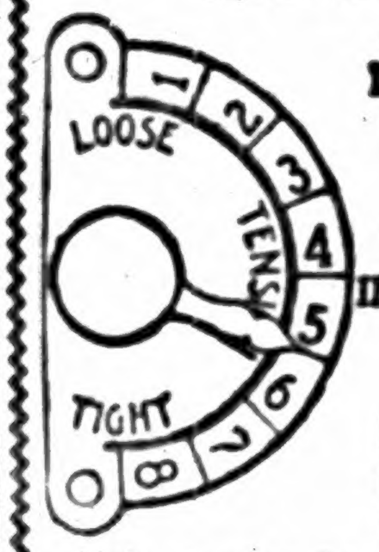
It was a stilted, studied letter. She was grateful for kind words from the son of her mother's kind friend. She would do quite well, she thought, when she got back to her work as a school teacher. Her work might help her to forget. It was a dismal letter—just like Oldsburg, he thought—and he did not answer it. A month later he got another from her. Would he kindly buy for her Kinyon's pedagogical chart? It would cost about $1, which she inclosed. "I will be ever so much obliged," she concluded. He found the chart, which cost $3, and sent her a note in which he said he was glad to be of service. He didn't mention that he was loser by $2 in the transaction.

Within a fortnight another letter came to him from Kate Colvin, in which she said that she had just learned the chart had cost $3, perhaps more, and that she "would return the balance the moment her salary was paid. They are in arrears with me for the last two months," the latter said, "but I am sure they will pay us before Christmas."

To Dan Kent there was something poignantly sad in the plain, simple, but uncomplaining statement of the country school teacher's poverty. Two dollars! He was making money and spending it as lavishly as a self-respecting young man could. Evidently poor Kate Colvin could not spare $2 from a scanty hoard that might not be replenished at once. He was a generous, tender fellow, and, somehow, that bald, almost childlike confession of a girl's lonely struggle for the benefits which he won so easily and regarded so lightly, gave a sharp sting to his gentle spirit and clouded his radiant face.

Then he made a natural but a most egregious mistake. He wanted to write a kind, sympathetic and helpful letter,

A Tension Indicator



IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE

Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read & you'll want to subscribe. 6 month's [illegible] Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin

PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs

Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy
use the Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

RAPHERS
es and Scales Away

ttles and scales cause you trouble? Developers, put up READY TO USE. he developing tray and add the water— latter. Large quantities of developer il. With our developers you only make bes sufficient for 24 ounces of devel other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and will not stain the fingers or nails, and Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

HIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

HOW DAN KENT MISSED HIS THANKSGIVING BANQUET.

The Kents—father and son—came to Chicago when Dan was a small boy, so that the latter soon forgot about all he knew of Oldsburg and its people. If he had been older he might have been glad to forget it, for there misfortune had overtaken his family, his mother had died, and his vague recollection of the place pictured the one long dismal street down which he rode in a carriage to the cemetery, where the autumn leaves reeked in a cold rain and the clay falling into a grave sounded like the thump of his old toy drum.

Dan Kent, having a merry heart, didn't want to cherish any such dreary memories. So he had grown to manhood without revisiting the home of his infancy. Not so his father. The old man managed to stay away from the scene of his disaster till Joshua Colvin died. Then he went to the funeral of his old friend and partner, and ever after up to the time of his death, maintained a habit of periodical visits to the old home town. Dan thought this odd at first; then he began to suspect that there was some old, long buried romance between his father and the Widow Colvin.

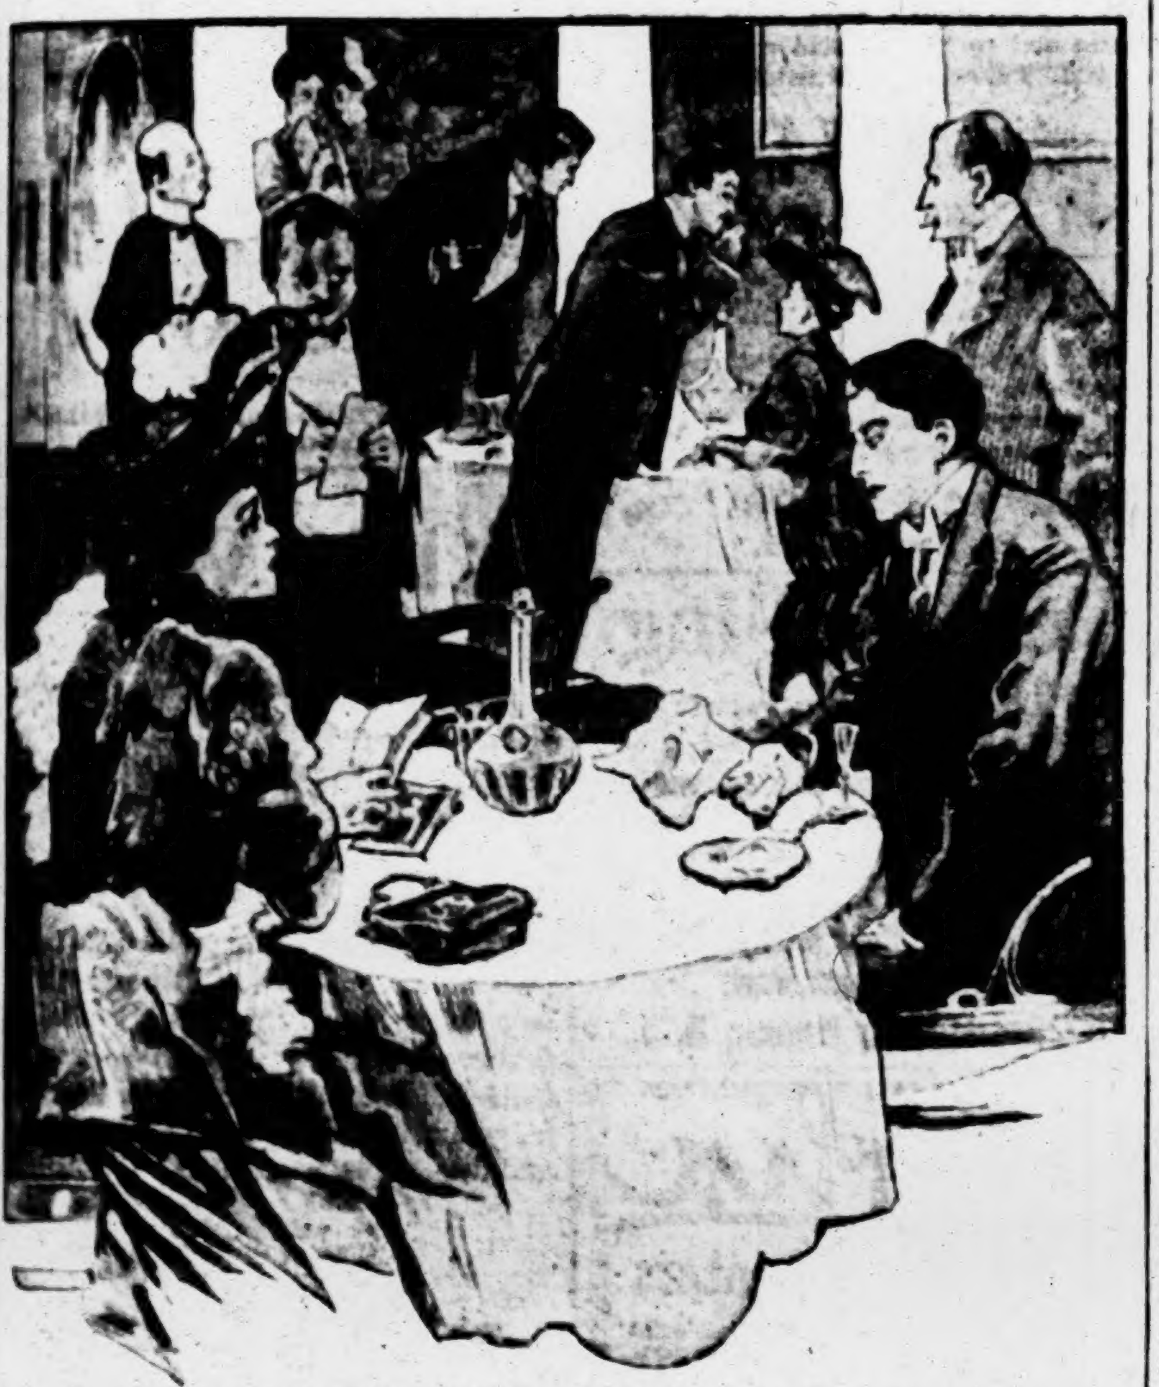
"You're right, Dan," said the old man, when his son twitted him about the Oldsburg visits. "I'd marry her now if I wasn't so old and poor, and if you take my advice you'll go after her daughter, Kate."

They were like brothers in their frank and loving relationship in those days, and Dan, who liked to banter his father, was almost glad to "have something" on the old man. But when the elder Kent grew feeble he talked always more and more of the Colvins. If they were a joke with Dan, they were not so with his father.

"I wish you'd go up and see them," he would say. "I can't any more, and Dan—I wish you'd see Kate—young Kate. Bet you'd fall in love with her in spite of yourself. I wish you would and marry her."

And a few days before he died:

"Dan, if anything happens to Kate or her mother, will you do what you can for them? Promise, Dan. You'll write to them, anyhow."



SHE DARTED ONE ANGRY GLANCE AT HIM.

When his father died, Dan grieved like a man, and regained his spirits like the wholesome, clean-hearted youth he was; but he forgot about the Colvins after he had answered the widow's letter of condolence. He remembered them again when he saw in the Oldsburg Banner the obituary of Mrs. Kate Nebling Colvin. He ought to have gone to Oldsburg to comfort the orphan girl but he disliked funerals and he couldn't get over his gloomy impression of the old town. So he wrote a letter to Kate, as he had promised his father, sending such words of comfort as a stranger must, but offering to be of any assistance in his power. He scarcely expected a reply, but he got one within a week.

It was a stilted, studied letter. She was grateful for kind words from the son of her mother's kind friend. She would do quite well, she thought, when she got back to her work as a school teacher. Her work might help her to forget. It was a dismal letter—just like Oldsburg, he thought—and he did not answer it. A month later he got another from her. Would he kindly buy for her Kinyon's pedogogical chart? It would cost about $1, which she inclosed. "I will be ever so much obliged," she concluded. He found the chart, which cost $3, and sent her a note in which he said he was glad to be of service. He didn't mention that he was loser by $2 in the transaction.

Within a fortnight another letter came to him from Kate Colvin, in which she said that she had just learned the chart had cost $3, perhaps more, and that she "would return the balance the moment her salary was paid. They are in arrears with me for the last two months," the latter said, "but I am sure they will pay us before Christmas."

To Dan Kent there was something poignantly sad in the plain, simple, but uncomplaining statement of the country school teacher's poverty. Two dollars! He was making money and spending it as lavishly as a self-respecting young man could. Evidently poor Kate Colvin could not spare $2 from a scanty hoard that might not be replenished at once. He was a generous, tender fellow, and, somehow, that bald, almost childlike confession of a girl's lonely struggle for the benefits which he won so easily and regarded so lightly, gave a sharp sting to his gentle spirit and clouded his radiant face.

Then he made a natural but a most egregious mistake. He wanted to write a kind, sympathetic and helpful letter, but he let a lot of sentiment into it. Sentimental passages never look right to a sensible girl who reads them in a letter from a man she has never seen. Besides, Dan wasn't exactly a master of rhetoric at that time, and what he wrote could have been couched in terms of infinitely greater tact and delicacy by any second rate romance writer. His first faux pas, however, was in inclosing a post-office order for $50, "a loan, of course," he wrote, "which I trust you will accept until such time, &c.

It was awful, of course, but Dan was young and he meant to do a kind office to the orphan girl in Oldsburg. When he mailed the letter it dawned upon him that he had made an ass of himself. The more he conned over the sentences which he had meant to be the finest, the surer he was that they were coarse, impertinent, idiotic. She would be offended at his tone, insulted at his offer to loan her money. "I feel that there is a bond of sympathy between us," etc., had been the best he could think of as "an approach" to the mention of a loan, but now it sounded inexpressibly silly.

He got her answer by return mail, and when he tore open the envelope the $50 fell on the floor. "Serves me right," he gasped, but his eyes began to bulge when he saw the first line of the letter itself:

"Dear, dear friend," it began. "Sad, sad, indeed must that heart be which cannot be cheered by the sweet delicacy and soulful sympathy of a friend like you. O, how my lonesome heart goes out responsive, and yet——"

"Slush!"

That's what Dan said. He could hardly force himself to read it. If his letter had been badly framed, hers was the dregs of gush. A wild hope that Kate Colvin hadn't written it seized him, but the narrowest comparison showed it to be her handwriting. There was nothing absolutely immodest in her hysterical epistle, but it fairly oozed sentimentality, which Dan was sure he would always despise in a woman.

"Glad to get back my fifty, anyhow," he sneered, pocketing the order and tearing the letter with one angry jerk. Then he paused, put the torn edge of her communication together, and reread it. "Oh, how my lonely heart goes out responsive." That line started him, and he laughed till the bookkeeper stared and the stenographer joined in the merriment.

"I'll get back at her," thought Dan Kent, as he opened his desk. And he spent two hours that evening trying to outdo the florid periods of his Oldsburg protege. But he didn't send back the fifty. On Saturday he got an answer that fairly scintillated with flashes of Cupid's arrows. He had supposed that his letter rose to every flight of sentimental hyperbole, but it seemed commonplace and tawdry beside the glittering fabric of her latest epistolary composition.

He had to get "The Children of the Abbey" from the public library before he could answer that letter, and, in order to stimulate her to a still more generous effusion, he wound up his ecstatic billet with a superbly servile petition for her picture. He said "counterfeit presentment" first, but for fear she'd regard that as a mercenary allusion, he scratched the words away and substituted "fair image." The photograph that arrived in the next letter was worthy of the foolish girl's correspondence. A simpering, weak smile, evidently calculated to display two pretty dimples and a row of the white teeth; a mass of fluffy blond hair, falling almost to the eyebrows; a white lawn dress of the style that had been considered "smart" a few years ago; bangle rings on the dainty fingers!

"She looks the part," laughed Dan, "and if I don't send her my picture now this sport will come to a sudden end."

The letter suggested an exchange, and Dan, in the exuberance of what seemed such a capital joke, determined to send her the picture of his barber, a dashing young gallant with melancholy black eyes and a tightly waxed Wilhelm mustache.

It was Kent's irrepressible love of fun that led him into this thoughtless and, for him, unkind correspondence. But the letters had passed so rapidly and with such increasing and almost outlandish expressions of romantic emotion that he had not taken time to look at any but the funny side of the affair. He had shown the letters to nobody, destroying them as soon as they were read. When he had mailed the barber's photograph to Kate with his autograph on its back he resolved to make an end of an escapade which was just beginning to cloy.

As he grew serious he reflected upon the folly—"folly? Perhaps it was mean of me," he thought, and this last idea held him so that he went home and wrote an honest, manly letter to the girl, in which he strove to exonerate himself. He knew she would forgive him for returning her photograph, he said, and for asking her to forget the whole episode, which, he hoped, had given her as much harmless merriment as it had given him. The tone of this letter was so modest, so sensible so self-deprecating, and so completely disillusioning that Dan thought as he dropped it in the mail box::

"Dad would have liked that letter. I would never have written the others if he had been with me."

That was Monday. Thursday was Thanksgiving Day, and as Dan Kent was to be the guest at a banquet that evening, he resolved to get a bite in his favorite cafe. The place was crowded with diners, and he looked in vain for a familiar face. The head waiter found a place for him at a table at which sat a woman alone. She was modestly, but quite fashionably, attired, young—perhaps twenty—at ease, with an odd mixture of confidence and shyness. Her black eyes shone with the light of a brave and quick intelligence. Her swart hair drooped about her small ears in smooth glistening tresses. Her red mouth—

Dan had got thus far in his subconscious cataloguing of the beautiful woman opposite him when she darted one angry glance at him in which there was an unanswerable reproof for his fascinated stare. It vanished as quickly as it came. She drew from her reticule a parcel of papers, read a clipping, and then unfolded his letter to Kate Colvin with the same photograph of the Oldsburg school teacher that he had mailed on Monday! He started, looked again, stood up, and betrayed his curiosity by leaning forward.

She glared at him, looked frightened for an instant, and then flushed with anger.

"How dare you!" was all she said, but the emphasis of her low voice helped him.

"I beg your pardon, madam," he answered, sitting down. "I wrote that letter myself to the girl whose picture you have there, and it startled me to see it in your hand. I am the 'Dan' of that letter, Daniel Kent——"

He stopped short. Her face was wreathed in smiles.

"Why, Dan," she commenced, in that same sweetly singing voice. "No! Are you Daniel Kent? The picture? Anyhow, if you're Daniel Kent, or just a friend of his who helped him try to make a fool of a country girl, you're both mistaken. I'm Kate Colvin."

She began the sentence with a coo and ended it with a rasp.

Dan was dumbfounded, but he got out his card and gave it to her.

"Well, you might have known I wasn't the kind to borrow money from a man I had never seen," she said, smiling, and her brune cheeks red. "You might have known I wasn't fool enough to write drivel to an utter stranger. As for you, I thought you were a downright idiot until I got that last letter. That rang true. I came down to Chicago to pay you the $2 I owe you, and to——"

"But, Kate," asked the delighted Daniel, "what prompted you to start the—foolishness?"

"Oh, I didn't like your sending that money, and—well, I didn't want to be pitied, either. I imagined you were one of those Chicago smarties, and—well, it was dull in Oldsburg; it's always dull there."

"And now we've met and found each other out, Kate?"

They laughed like children, looking frankly into one another's happy faces.

"It's Thanksgiving, Dan," she said.

"I'll give thanks that this (holding out the picture of the pudgy blond) isn't you," he laughed.

"And I'll give thanks that you couldn't look like this!" And she held out the picture of the dashing barber.

And they dined so merrily together that Dan forgot everything but Kate, and Kate nearly forgot to pay back the $2.—Chicago Tribune.

The Goal of Rich Americans.

Charlemagne Tower, the American Ambassador to Germany, was speaking of the American's love for Paris at a dinner he gave in Philadelphia.

"Our love for Paris is no doubt great," he said, "but I am sure it is not so great as our European cousins would have us believe. We all, of course, have heard the European saying, 'when a good American dies, he goes to Paris.' In Berlin, from a bearded French diplomat, I heard last year a novel variant of this. The diplomat said he was sure I would sympathize with the profound and ingenuous emotion of a young American girl, who lived, he said, in a bleak western city. There were in those days no institutes for the treatment of rabies, save in Paris. The young girl's life was very monotonous. One day she burst into a neighbor's house, almost beside herself with joyous excitement.

"Her dark eyes flashed. Her cheeks had a delicate rose flush. Panting a little she cried in a tremulous voice:

"'Thank goodness, we are going to Paris at last. Dad has been bitten by a mad dog!'"

Modern Dogs of War.

The German Army, fighting in Herrero land, under Gen. Von Trotha, employs a corps of 200 dogs. One of these dogs was recently struck and wounded by a bullet in the engagement of Opajbo, while scouting in front of the skirmishing line. He displayed the greatest fearlessness under fire and worked faultlessly until disabled.

The Japanese are using a number of dogs for reconnoitering purposes. They are attached to long ropes and well trained. The Russians are employing dogs for sentry and messenger work.

Capt. Persidsky of the late Count Keller's staff, writing from Odessa, says: "In finding the wounded men with which the millet fields are strewn nothing has succeeded like our seven dogs; their intelligence, especially the English bred ones, is extraordinary." I have been asked several times to supply dogs to the Russian army, and only quite recently was commissioned to purchase sheep dogs in the highlands for the German ambulance dog-training establishment. Perhaps instead of breeding and exporting dogs for foreign armies, we may some day find our dogs of service to their own country.

GOSSIP FROM ABROAD.

Tales of Diplomatic and Court Intrigue.

The Earl of Minto, Governor-General of Canada and successor to Lord Curzon as Viceroy of India, first came to Canada as Military Secretary to Lord Lansdowne in 1883. He was then Lord Melgund. Three years later he served on the staff of General Middleton in the Northwest rebellion and distinguished himself by his bravery. He was sent back to England for slapping the face of the colonel of a Montreal regiment with whom he had a disagreement.

The reason given for the Czar's refusal to permit the Grand Duke Cyril to marry the divorced Grand Duchess of Hesse, the Princess Victoria of Saxe-Coburg, is that Cyril and his brother, the Grand Duke Boris, had prominent roles in the scandal which recently was disclosed at Kharkoff. Both grand dukes were members of the so-called club of Sybarites at Kharkoff, where indescribable orgies took place. The club, as I am informed, has only twenty members, all the sons of the first families of Russia. No males except the members were allowed to enter the club, which was a palace of white marble. All the servants were females. Lady guests, however, were welcome. The annual subscription to the club was $1,000, but there were enormous extra expenses. All dishes were served on gold and silver plates. The drapery was of the costliest material, and was embroidered with jewels after designs by Cyril, who, it will be remembered, in company with his boon companions, indulged in orgies similar to those at the club even at the front in Manchuria until the Czar recalled him.

CZAR NICHOLAS AND HEIR.

King Edward is an enthusiastic golfer, and has a little course of his own at Windsor.

The Princess of Wied, who is a prominent figure in the court circles at Berlin, and whose husband is in the line of succession to the throne of Holland, buys all the ill-used horses that come to her notice and gives them the benefit of a stay in her well-appointed stables and meadows.

While the Emperor of Germany does not fail to transact a large amount of public business during his various voyages for rest and recreation, when on his yacht at sea he is a very different man from the ruler of a great nation living in state at Berlin.

President Loubet of France has taken the barfoot cure; that is, himself, wife and daughter have gone barefoot, except for light sandals, on all but ceremonious occasions during this hot summer. The sandals worn by the President and his family come from Africa, being the approved Arabian kind. The President advises sandal wearing in summer for these reasons: "The naked foot not only benefits that member, keeping it cool and allowing it to breathe, but benefits the whole physical system and the mental as well. Liberate the foot of the customary enclosures, socks and shoes, and your nerves will grow stronger; if you are excited or worried, it will wear off easier."

Van Calava

New Blood in Naval Engineering.

From the Baltimore Sun

It may be questioned, in view of the Bennington explosion, whether the Navy Department's policy of restricting engineering appointments in the navy to graduates at Annapolis is best for the service. The graduates of the Naval Academy are bright fellows, no doubt, but only a few of them have a talent for mathematics, physics, mechanics and other like sciences that underlie the engineer's equipment. It is well known that there is difficulty in getting from their number enough men to take post-graduate courses at the Boston Technological School, and thus prepare themselves for the engine room and machine shop of the modern battleship or cruiser. The result is that the service is short of capable trained men who know how to handle boilers, engines, repair shops, electrical installation, etc. The Bennington is not the first of our warships to be injured by reason of insufficient attention in the engineering department. The remedy, it seems, is to inject some new blood from civil life into the engineering departments of our ships. It is all very well to reserve good berths for the Annapolis graduates, but the practice is carried too far when it results in starving the engine rooms. There are many graduates yearly from our technological schools who are as capable as any that can be found. The engineering department of the navy ought to be recruited in part from the outside talent, which has been educated in the art of ship construction, management and repair. It is possible to carry too far the policy of keeping all appointments in the navy for naval officers, especially when no exception is made of classes of appointments for which Annapolis graduates have no especial qualifications.

Not a Meaningless Phrase.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

It is not meaningless that earth is called our "mother earth." It was somehow from the earth that mankind sprung at the dawn of life. It is into her arms he must go back when life is ended. It is from her intimate, loving touch that he must win the best in life as long as life is his.

COFFEE

DOES

HURT

(Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM

FOOD COFFEE

in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS
Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings

No 1 (Bicycles)
No 2 (The Racycle)

Which Stone will Turn Easier?
The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

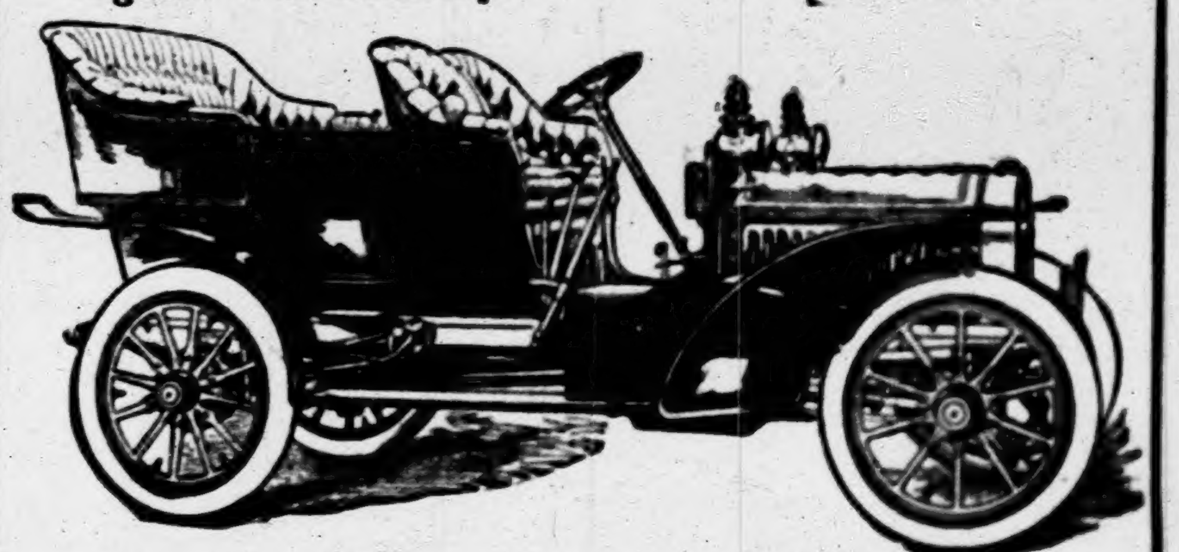
MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

OLDSMOBILES for 1905

THE CAR THAT GOES

Highest Workmanship.

Lowest Prices.



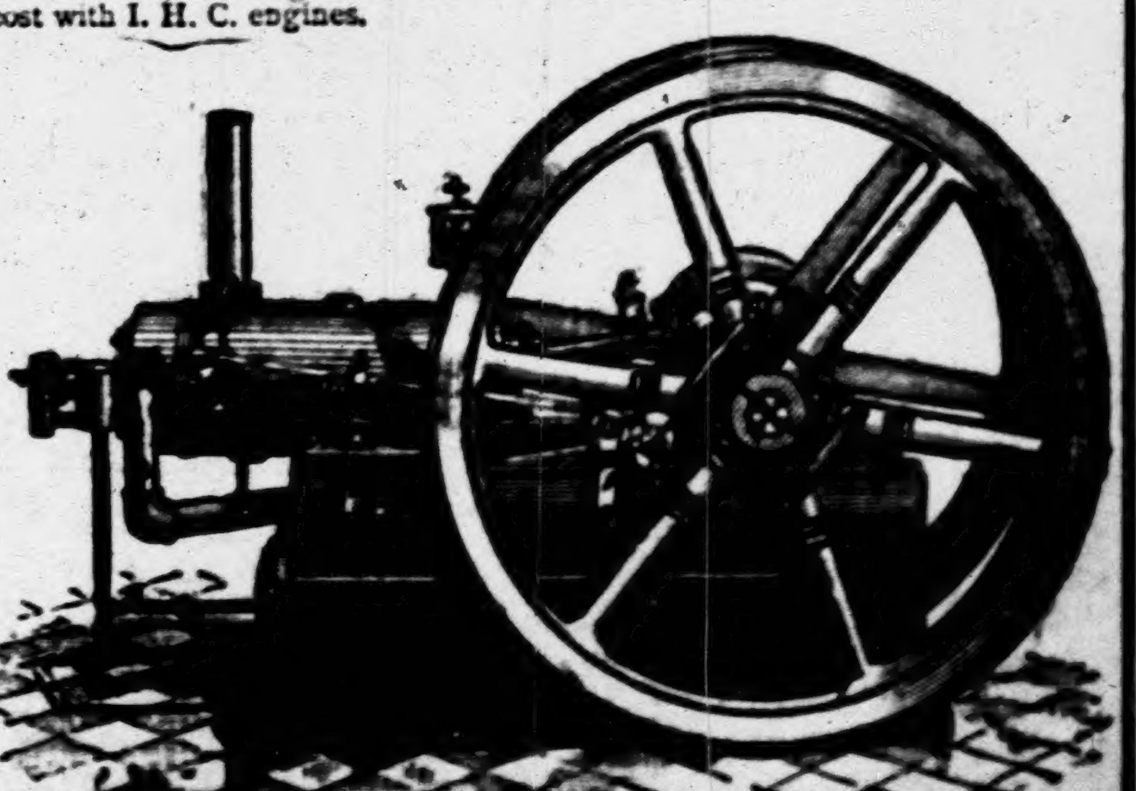
Cars for Immediate Delivery.

Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.

GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)

7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

DEATH KNELL OF GYPSY MOTH.

Work of the United States Department of Agriculture.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

Will the Gypsy Moth spread over the United States and devastate shade and fruit trees and meadows as its ravages in New England indicate that it certainly will unless some drastic and effective measures are put forward to check it? During the past few years the State of Massachusetts alone expended over a million and a quarter dollars in attempting to exterminate this moth, the caterpillar of which feeds upon leaves and has stripped tens of thousands of the great spreading elms and other trees in the old Bay State.

This is a subject which might not particularly interest the farmers and fruit growers, or even the street and park superintendents of Kansas or other distant States except for the announcement of Dr. L. O. Howard, the

DR. L. O. HOWARD,
GOVERNMENT ENTOMOLOGIST.

Government entomologist of the Department of Agriculture that the Gypsy Moth will probably thrive in all the temperate States of the Union and become as destructive in the city of Washington or the State of Missouri as it has in Massachussetts.

In spite of all the fortune which Massachusetts has expended to fight this pest, the moth has annually hatched its brood, and annually the worms have spread themselves over the great elm and other trees of Boston and the surrounding towns, extending their domain each year until it seemed, in the light of the expert testimony as to their habits, that they were destined to cover practically all of the United States.

Ordinary Methods Unavailing.

Cotton batting, kerosene torches, chemical mixtures; fumigations and other devices have been tried with only partial success and in no case has complete extermination resulted. The minute this work ceases, the moths increase with astonishing rapidity.

FAMOUS DEXTER ELM AT MALDEN, MASS., ENTIRELY STRIPPED BY GYPSY MOTHS.—MEN AT WORK KILLING PESTS.

What was to be done? The Department of Agriculture was finally applied to, and it was realized that since the worm and moth might spread over the entire country, it became a national necessity to provide for its eradication. The department took up the subject at once. It was known that the Gypsy moth was of European origin, as it had been brought here in connection with silk worm investigations, some of the moths accidentally escaping. The question then arose, is this pest in Europe what it threatens to become in the United States? Dr. Howard, the Government entomologist, made a visit to continental countries and he has just returned, bringing with him the death warrant of the Gypsy moth.

In Europe this terror of the New England States is but one of the insect pests which do some, but not very material, damage to foliage plants and trees. Nature always provides for a proper equalization of things, and in its habitat this moth has some 20 enemies—parasites and carnivorous insects—which prey ferociously upon it, keeping it in check and reducing its ravages to a fairly negligible quantity.

Growing Moths' Mortal Foes.

"It only remains," said Dr. Howard, in speaking of his investigations, "to propagate some of these foes of the moth in this country. They can be secured, packed, shipped and landed in Boston in safety. Whether they will take hold in the United States is a question, but there is no good reason to believe that they will not thrive as well as in Europe, or as well as the moth does here, and grow fat and lusty when turned out to pasture upon their hereditary prey.

The Gypsy moth is one of those insect pests which has loomed up large before the entomologist or bug specialist of this country as a possible scourge of the entire United States, gradually spreading from State to State, eating and killing both deciduous and coniferous trees, devouring gardens and every green thing, and leaving behind them a brown trail of desolation, causing at least the expenditure of millions of dollars to hold them in check.

AUGUST SCENE IN MASSACHUSETTS. TREES DEFOLIATED.

Dr. Howard's trip for the Department of Agriculture shows this moth to be but one of a hundred minor annoyances which the country has to provide against. It is a question of tiger eat tiger, needing only the knowledge of how to apply the natural remedy.

Merciless to Grafters.

From the Kansas City Star.

If William Travers Jerome is reelected district attorney of New York on an independent ticket it will be because the people will respond to his splendid courage in denouncing all political bosses and to his remarkable activity and inspiring fearlessness in going after the evils of the Metropolis, showing no mercy to criminals on the one hand and shaming the well-disposed people for their indifference on the other.

THE KING OF CROPS.

SOME ADVICE FOR WIVES.

Would Not Have Hubby Made Nurse and Assistant Chambermaid.

From the Washington Times.

Are you one of those women who continually request your husband to run get you this, that, or the other as long as he is about the house? Do you habitually call him back from the corner to mail a letter or give him a sample of silk to match? Does he no sooner sit down than you ask him to run upstairs and get the baby's pins, or take the small child walking, or run around the corner and get the meat for supper?

There are misguided wives who make it a constant practice to keep the man of the house fetching and carrying for themselves and baby from the time he enters the door until bedtime and all day Sunday. It's "Tom, get me this," and "Tom, please bring me that," until in the eyes of a third party Tom's position in the home appears to be that of a well-trained servant.

The Poor, Patient Worse Half.

It is hardly fair to let him drop to that, is it? Do you really require that he should go into bondage of this sort to you and baby? He does it patiently, maybe, but it wears on him, and hurts his self-respect. Why don't you do your own buying, and mail your own letters, and match your own samples? Why don't you have the baby's things handy, so he won't have to wait on you hand and foot when you're busy with the little one?

What would you think if your husband brought home a lot of his office work for you to do at night? Suppose he expected you to spend your spare hours clerking for him and helping him with his bills and accounts? Ridiculous, wouldn't it be? Yet, for some reason, you expect him to act as second housemaid and assistant child's nurse the whole time he is away from office.

In Times of Need, Yes.

Nine times out of ten it's simply a habit that gets you into this practice. Of course, there are exceptional cases of illness which make it necessary for a faithful husband to step into the shoes of a domestic help and assist with the meals and the children. But unless there is this necessity it ought not to be expected.

The man's field of labor, little wife, is his office or factory, where he earns the bread for you. Yours is in the home where you do every whit as much as he toward earning the living. He doesn't expect you to go down to the office and work. Don't expect him to come home at night and do the housework and mind the baby.

Do your end as well as you can. Be as independent and self-reliant about it as possible. When he comes home let him rest. And if you manage right you can be ready to rest, too.

ENGLAND'S WAR PROBLEM.

Royal Commission Finds That It Consists Mostly in Lack of Food Supply.

After all, what are the sinews of war? Are they ammunition, guns and men, heavy artillery, cavalry and infantry? The royal commission recently appointed to investigate the conditions of England with regard to her preparedness for war does not seem to pay much attention to the amount of men, ships or firearms on hand, but calls attention to the fact that if England's mighty navy were to prove as weak and inadequate as her dull battalions did in the Boer war, and were to be sent to slumber among the wrecks of the boastful Spanish Armada, the little island under a state of siege would be practically helpless. Much of England's actual necessaries of life is imported. Suspending these imports for any length of time the suffering among the inhabitants would be acute. The commission, then, in its wisdom, emphatically brings the people of England face to face with the actual conditions as they exist, brings them face to face with the fact that they have been providing for war by spending vast sums for army and navy and paying no attention to the actual sinews of war—food. Recommendation has been made to Parliament for the erection of a system of elevators and storage houses of sufficient capacity to store $50,000,000 worth of grain, besides a vast quantity of provisions. They reason that the storehouses should hold supplies of food sufficient for three months, figuring that that length of time would be long enough to prove whether Brittania would be sovereign over the waves or go down to the depths, leaving the coast undefended at the mercy of the blockading fleet.

The Commission would be wise, too, if it could work out an industrial revolution by which the vast tracks of land held in England in great unproductive estates could be transformed into small, self-supporting homes, such as can be found by the tens and hundreds of thousands in Japan. England itself contains much more arable land than all of Japan and the single island comprising England, Scotland and Wales has fully three times the agricultural land of Japan.

Pointed Paragraphs.

From the Chicago News.

Beware of the financial pointer; it usually points the wrong way.

As a weather forecaster there is nothing superior to a healthy corn.

Isn't it a pity that the average reformer neglects to begin his work at home?

Cigarettes, if properly classified, would come under the head of fouls of the air.

Any small boy will make a home run every time he knocks his ball through a pane of glass.

Nothing arouses a woman's wrath so much as a man who appears to be well satisfied with himself.

One man may be able to break a horse, but later the horse does a stunt on the race track and breaks a dozen men.

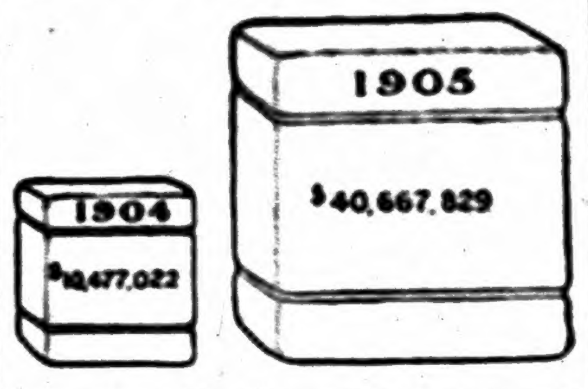
Easy for the Coroner, Anyway.

It is the usual custom in most cities to at once summon the coroner to view the remains of a person who has died without medical assistance, and he then impanels a jury to inquire the cause of death. A wise ruralist explained, however, that there is no reason for calling in a coroner to see the body of a man who has had a physician's aid, because everybody knows who killed him.

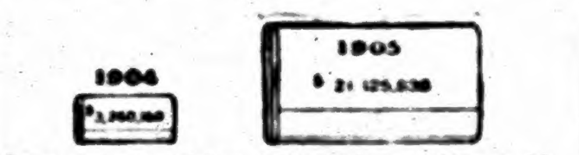
THE CHINESE BOYCOTT.

Alarm Beginning to be Felt by American Merchants.

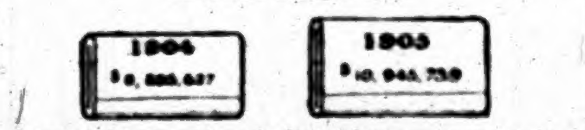
The Chinese boycott of American imports into China continues in spite of the action of the President in modifying the harsh execution of our exclusion laws, and our evident desire to placate the Chinese. This Chinese retaliation has been brewing and stewing for some time. There have been mutterings and threatenings during the past two years but they have been generally disregarded and it was apparently believed that they amounted to nothing more than futile threats. Information comes from San Francisco that in China some ten thousand of the merchants have signed the boycott resolutions, which carry a penalty of about $4,000 in each case for their violation. Further, the Chinese newspapers are refusing advertisements of American firms.



Since the facts are coming to be realized, the question in this country becomes a live one. The National Association of Manufacturers which supports nearly half a million working people and represents $800,000,000 in capital will use all its influence, it is stated, upon Congress to have the Chinese exclusion law mitigated in such a way as to appease the Chinese. On the other hand the labor unions will oppose every effort to modify Chinese exclusion, as is indicated by the recent interview of Mr. Gompers with President Roosevelt. The American interests which will be the heaviest losers if the Chinese persist in their boycott, are the cotton planters and the cotton and cotton cloth traders. The accompanying diagrams from Collier's Weekly indicate the rapid increase of our trade with China during the past two years.



Cotton cloth exported from the United States to China in the ten months ending in April



Cotton cloth exported from the United States to the rest of the world in the ten months ending in April

SHORT WEIGHTS IN HOUSEHOLD GOODS.

As Much Need for This Legislation as for Pure Food Laws.

A great deal has been said in the papers about adulterated goods, but very little about short weights, which are quite as dishonest. Now comes a correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, who declares there is as much need of full weight laws as of pure food laws. He says: "It is a well-known fact that candles weighing only 11 or 11½ ounces are sold as a pound; that raisins are put up in packages containing 12, 14 and 15 ounces, which are sold as pounds; that there is hardly a tin of lard, cottolene or any other product put up in packages that the tin or pasteboard is not weighed with the goods packed in them."

Paper made of wood and clay forms the wrappers for packages containing cereal products, crackers, etc., and these come a little cheaper to the manufacturer than the goods; but the consumer is not getting all he pays for, unless the actual contents of the package weigh a pound.

The package on the scales will usually weigh a pound, but the wrappings often exceed two ounces. Sir Thomas Lipton was once brought to time and fined by the English authorities for padding out his pound of tea packages with paper. The hand of the law needs to be applied in many such places in this country.

Southern Advancement.

Northern methods are gradually invading the South, and to its commercial advantage. Mr. M. V. Richards, head of the Industrial Department of the Southern Railway, who has carefully gone over conditions in the Southern field, says that when the farmers down there become inoculated with Northern system and economy, the South will take its right position in the country as a highly developed agricultural region, where every man on a piece of land, intelligently cultivated, can be his own master in a sense that no other man can be. A farm anywhere is nearer nature's heart than the sidewalks of the city. Besides the air is purer, and so is the water, and food right out of the ground is not adulterated.

The Packers Were the Hogs.

Of sixty-eight samples of sausages examined by the government analyst at Melbourne, Australia, not one was found unadulterated. In the so-called pork sausage put up by the packing houses not a particle of pork could be discovered.

The Race Growing Smaller.

Size and sufficiency are not necessarily associated, as is shown by the way the Japanese have outwitted and outdone their Russian enemies in strategy and in combat. Nevertheless, it is not a good sign to find a people diminishing in size, and the English people are properly disturbed at finding that such is the case with them. Their improper nourishment is supposed to be the leading cause, but Dr. Anna Shaw reminds us that the American people are on the verge of taking the same turn.

A Brockton shoe manufacturer already claims to note a sign of degradation in a falling off in the demand for the larger sizes of men's shoes, and predicts that if nothing intervenes to prevent we shall be no larger on the average in another 100 years than the present Japs or Frenchmen.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH

In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to

The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin
Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service

proves the ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue, how to obtain the description of exactly what you want
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of Standard Fruit

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs, Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

...missioners' Court Meets second ...day in February first Monday in ... first Monday in ... second ...day in July second Monday in A... ...d first Monday in November

CLANTON COTTON MART

...to day......10 ot 10 3 16
...same date last year 1...

...Bales received to date 1905 1904
...kard & Co ... 133
...I. Mullins ... 614 5
... Kanter & Bro ... 201
... Jones ... 706 16
...son & Co ... 54
...r Firms ... 15

Total ... 2214 ...6

...e above figures are obtained from several cotton buyers Wednesday ...ing five o'clock

HAS STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS
...e old, original Grove's Tasteless ...ll Tonic. You know what you ...taking. It is iron and quinine ...tasteless form No cure, no ... 50c.

...OUND a bill of money in ...nton, about a week ago, owner ...come and describe the bill and ...ive the same. R T Grant, Verbena, R F D No 1

...iss French Bates of Verbena is ...ting her aunt, Miss Martha Du..., and is expecting to enter ...ol here later.

...Misses Mattie Hand and Jessie ...d of Jemison spent Thursday in ...nton.

...ev. J. W. Shores of Prattville ...d Rev. J. T Eckford's pulpit ...day, morning and night. Bro. ...ford was able to be out but was ...strong enough to preach. We ...e he will be able to fill his ap...tment next time.

...rs. Lula Dudley of Dolive has ...n visiting her mother Mrs ...rnton for the past week

...ce cold soda water always ...ays on tap at Upchurch's ...g store.

...rs. G. L. Phillips wishes to ...ounce to her numerous friends ...t she will be with Miss Minnie ...e again this season where she ...l be glad to wait on her old ...nds. Don't fail to call on her.

...r. Wiley Mitchell of Maples...e visited Clanton Saturday.

...iss Lillie Gragg of Active is ...ting relatives here this week

...iss Hattie Jones of Mulberry ...a visitor here this week

...iss Turner Belle Mullins of Jum... visited Clanton Wednesday

...yon will keep his Gallery open ...he time. Plenty of Picture ...mes cheap.

...ome of the boys scrapped up a ...m and went to Thorsby Satur... and played the ball team at that ...e, winning the game by a score ...3 to 3. The Thorsby boys quit ...he fifth inning and said they ...ght play base ball next year."

...r. R. J. Mitchell, who has been ...e sick for some time at his sis..., Mrs. Smitherman, returned to ...home at Riderville Sunday

...rs. Ora Campbelle and daugh... Miss Marie, left monday for ...pa, Fla., where they will make ...r future home.

A nice lot of stationery ...t received at Upchurch's ...g store.

...rs. Crit Jones went to mont...ery monday

...iss Emma Thomas of Goodwa...s visiting Mrs. W. D. Spigener.

...isses Marion Matthews, Minnie ...ham and Nellie Mullins visited ...rsby Saturday.

...r. Eugene Evans went to the ...ital City Monday

...r. W. J. Moats of Billingsley ...a visitor here monday

...r. W. C. Blalock of Cooper was ...of our welcome visitors Tues...

...arriage licenses have been issued ...week by the Probate Judge to ...following persons.

...r. J. T. Fisher and Miss Lillie ...ter; Mr. Rufus F. Langston and ...Barbery Edwards.

...olored—Nathan McKenzie and ...a Smith; Demon Chapel and ...ie Callens.

Always Successful

...hen indigestion becomes chron... ...is dangerous. Kodol Dyspep... Cure will cure indigestion and ...roubles resulting therefrom, thus ...enting Catarrh of the Stomach. ... Newbrough, of League, W. Va. ...: "To those suffering from in...tion or sour stomach I would ...there is no better remedy than ...ol Dyspepsia Cure. I have pre...d it for a number of my pa... with good success." Kodol ...spepsia Cure digests what you ...and makes the stomach sweet. ...by Upchurch Drug co.

ONS APPROACH

nder all Conditions to

Old Hickory

URED BY

Manufacturing Co.

LE, KY.

M WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 ...ns a day. Has 40 inch feed ho... adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

24 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.

Write for Catalogue.

agle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,

Chicago, Ill.

F YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to ... the description of exactly what you want

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,

46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

la Nursery

...climated trees and the best ... Northern States.

Standard Fruit

..., Plums, Cherries and Trees ...uit Plants, Shrubs, Roses.

G STRAWBERRY

... OF

...S AND SHRUBS

...s. Also Vegetable Plants ...gue and Price List Free. ...ompt attention.

URSERY CO.

MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

...missioners' Court meets second ...y in February first Monday in ... first Monday in June second ...y in July second Monday in Au... and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

...to day.......10 @ 10 3 16¢

...same date last year 10c

Bales received to date	1905	1906
...ard & Co	639	937
...I. Mullins	614	551
...Easter & Bro	201	..
...Jones	706	167
... & Co	54	..
...Firms		156
Total	2214	1806

The above figures are obtained from several cotton buyers Wednesday evening, five o'clock.

HAS STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS

The old, original GROVE'S Tasteless Chill Tonic. You know what you are taking. It is iron and quinine in a tasteless form No cure, no pay. 50c.

FOUND a bill of money in Clanton, about a week ago, owner can have same and describe the bill and pay for the same. R. T. GRANT, Verbena, R. F. D. No. 1.

Miss French Bates of Verbena is visiting her aunt, Miss Martha Du..., and is expecting to enter school here later.

Misses Mattie Hand and Jessie ... of Jemison spent Thursday in Clanton.

Rev. J. W. Shores of Prattville filled Rev. J. T. Eckford's pulpit Sunday, morning and night. Bro. Eckford was able to be out but was not strong enough to preach. We hope he will be able to fill his appointment next time.

Mrs. Lula Dudley of Dolive has been visiting her mother Mrs. ...nton for the past week.

Ice cold soda water always always on tap at Upchurch's drug store.

Mrs. G. L. Phillips wishes to announce to her numerous friends that she will be with Miss Minnie ... again this season where she will be glad to wait on her old friends. Don't fail to call on her.

Mr. Wiley Mitchell of Maplesville visited Clanton Saturday.

Miss Lillie Gragg of Active is visiting relatives here this week.

Miss Hattie Jones of Mulberry is a visitor here this week.

Miss Turner Belle Mullins of Jumpe... visited Clanton Wednesday.

Lyon will keep his Gallery open all the time. Plenty of Picture frames cheap.

Some of the boys scrapped up a team and went to Thorsby Saturday and played the ball team at that place, winning the game by a score of ...ty to 3. The Thorsby boys quit in the fifth inning and said they might play base ball next year."

Mr. R. J. Mitchell, who has been quite sick for some time at his sister, Mrs. Smitherman, returned to his home at Riderville Sunday.

Mrs. Ora Campbelle and daughter, Miss Marie, left Monday for Tampa, Fla., where they will make their future home.

A nice lot of stationery just received at Upchurch's drug store.

Mr. Crit Jones went to Montgomery Monday.

Miss Emma Thomas of Goodwater is visiting Mrs. W. D. Spigener.

Misses Marion Matthews, Minnie ...am and Nellie Mullins visited Thorsby Saturday.

Mr. Eugene Evans went to the ... City Monday.

Mr. W. J. Moats of Billingsley was a visitor here Monday.

Mr. W. C. Blalock of Cooper was one of our welcome visitors Tuesday.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. J. T. Fisher and Miss Lillie ...er; Mr. Rufus F. Langston and Miss Barbery Edwards.

Colored—Nathan McKenzie and ...a Smith; Demon Chapel and ...ie Callens.

Always Successful

When indigestion becomes chronic it is dangerous. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will cure indigestion and all troubles resulting therefrom, thus preventing Catarrh of the Stomach. ... Newbrough, of League, W. Va. says: "To those suffering from indigestion or sour stomach I would say there is no better remedy than Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have prescribed it for a number of my patients with good success." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys.

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

Mr. A. D. Shelnutt of Mobile was in town this week

Mr. D. D. Woolley of Lily was in town last Friday.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Upchurch Drug Co sells and recommends them, at 50c a bottle.

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor I. B Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

	Beat	1905
Kircheon	6	October 2
Pletcher	8	" 3
Dixie	8	" 4
Shoults	7	" 5
Maplesville	7	" 6
Benson	3	" 7
Macedonia	3	" 9
Providence	2	" 10
Jemison	2	" 11
Mineral Springs	1	" 12
Flint Hill	11	" 13
Cane Ck. to 12 m.	4	" 14
Thorsby	9	" 16
Clanton	4	" 17
Cooper	10	" 18
Verbena	5	" 19

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE

BIRMINGHAM - ALABAMA

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

J. R. BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, Andirons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

What it Takes to Make a Happy Home

When you get mad just go off and go to singing. A happy home; I wonder which one you had rather visit, a home in the city or a happy home in the country. I believe I had rather visit a home in the city, hadn't you? You can see so many wonderful things there. I like to visit happy homes in the country too. What is more pleasant to visit than a happy home, and you are the one to make your home happy. If you want a happy home you must be kind to everybody and love everybody. You must never get mad and always be ready to do anything you can to please your father and mother and friends. Whatever you do try to improve it. You never did anything in your life but what you could have did it a little better if you had tried. Do your best in everything you do, always think of that little motto, "Do it well or not at all," and try to obey it, for you know you can if you will only try. A happy home is the pleasantest place I ever saw. Just think of a happy home and an unhappy home; I am sure you know of a home or have heard of one which is not always happy. I know quarrelling is the most unpleasant thing that ever was. Now, I don't say you quarrel for I don't know, I am only telling you how unpleasant I think it is, and trying to tell you what it takes to make a happy home. I am sure if you only knew what a happy place you can make your own home you would do your best to make it as happy as you could. Just think of some little children that havn't any home at all, just have to stay wherever they can, and then you will surely appreciate your own home more every day and try your best to make it a happy one. You ought to feel happy just to think that you have a home and a school to go to. I have just stopped going to one of the happiest and most pleasant schools I ever went to in my life. I am glad Miss Etta Mae Roper taught our school, and I hope with all my heart that it will be so she can teach our next school, we all learned to love her and hope that she loves us and hope that she had a good time with us. I learned more the two short months I went to her than I ever learned in two months in my life. Well, I must not say too much about the school for my subject was what it takes to make a happy home. Now, all I can tell you is to be kind to every body and obey your parents, and let me tell you once more, don't quarrel, for you know that is the most unpleasant thing that ever was. Well, I had better close for this time, and I hope you all will remember what I have said. Hoping this won't reach the waste basket. Much love to the Banner and its many readers.

ELLA MILFORD.

Numerous and Worthless

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Notice to Non-Resident.

G. H. Gerald, Plaintiff, vs. Hans Schytte, Defendant.

In the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama. To Hans Schytte, the Defendant in the above stated cause, who resides at Station B in the City of Seattle in the State of Washington, U. S. A.

You will take notice that G. H. Gerald, the plaintiff in the above stated cause, sued out an attachment against you, the said Hans Schytte, on the 21st day of April, 1905 to enforce the collection of a debt due him by you in the sum of $122.44 with interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum since the 11th day of October, 1904, together with an additional sum of $25.00, which the said Gerald states is a reasonable attorney's fee for collecting the note evidencing said indebtedness and said Gerald further states that said indebtedness is evidenced by a promissory note executed by the said Hans Schytte on the 11th day of October, 1904, to J. W. Franzen, and due on the 15th day of April, 1905, at Thorsby Savings Bank, that said note contained a waiver of exemptions as to personal property and a promise to pay a reasonable attorney's fee for the collection thereof, and that said note was duly transferred and assigned to said G. H. Gerald by said J. W. Franzen on the 10th day of March, 1905.

You will further take notice that said attachment was sued out without bond being given by the plaintiff and was levied upon the following real estate to-wit: The NW ¼ of NE ¼ of the NE ¼ of Section 6 in Township 22, of Range 14, in Chilton county, Alabama, as the property of the said Hans Schytte, the defendant, by the Sheriff of said Chilton county on the 8th day of May, 1905.

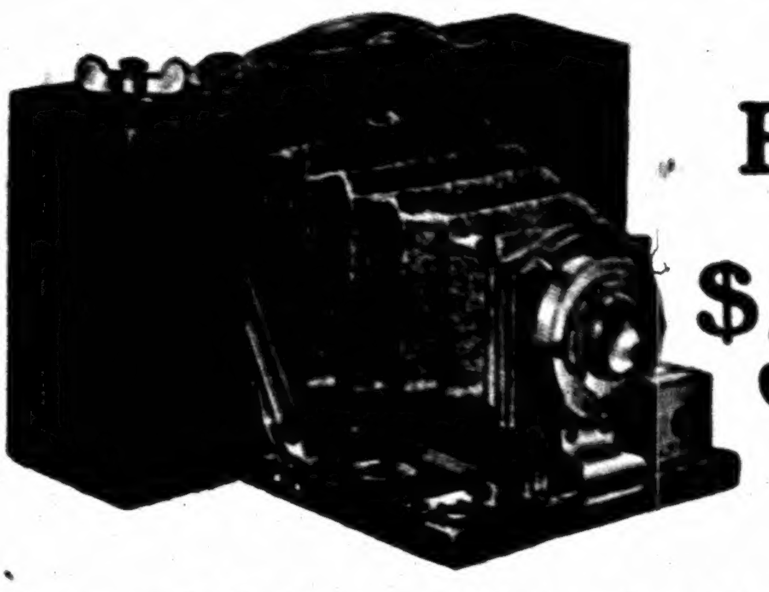
Let this notice be published in The Banner, a weekly newspaper published in said Chilton county, for three successive weeks next following, and a copy of each issue of said newspaper containing said notice be sent by mail to Hans Schytte, the defendant, properly addressed and postage prepaid.

Witness my hand, this the 15th day of September, 1905. SAM W. COLLINS, Clerk.

Beautiful Women.

Plump cheeks, flushed with the soft glow of health and a pure complexion, make all women beautiful. Take a small dose of Herbine after each meal; it will prevent constipation and help digest what you have eaten. Mrs. Wm. M. Stroud, Midlothian, Tex., writes, May 31, 1901. "We have used Herbine in our family for eight years, and found it the best medicine we ever used for constipation, bilious fever and malaria. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

•PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO., Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Links and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS

CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN

CURES NEURALGIA, SPRAINS, CUTS, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, OLD SORES, CRICK IN BACK, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, STIFF JOINTS, CONTRACTED MUSCLES, SPRAINED ANKLES, CORN HUSKER'S SPRAINED WRISTS, FROSTED FEET, CORNS, BUNIONS, CHILBLAINS, AND ALL INFLAMMATIONS OF MAN OR BEAST.

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTON

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

OPPOSITE THE BANKS CLANTON

"Bonnets o' Blue."

Just five years old,
This tale is true
In all respects of Bonnets o' Blue—
A dear little maid:
Not just for rhyme,
Am I writing this
("Am I keeping time,
And lockstep, too, like a soldier true,")
"Beautiful eyes of sweetest hue."

She played around when the day was fair,
All alone with no playmate there,
'Twas the time of battles and sword and hum—
Of bugle note,
("Am I with the drum,
And lock-step square like a soldier rare.")
"Beautiful eyes and sweetest hair."

'Twas in time of battles and she knew no more—
Than the battle song and the war man's lore,
She marched with curls and banner and gait—
Of knightly grace,
("Am I marching straight,
With lock-step lore, when the cannon's roar.")
"Soldier child with her soldier lore."

When the spring bird sang,
Not just for rhyme—
Am I writing this,
("Am I keep time
And lock-step, too, like a soldier true,")
Beautiful eyes of sweetest hue,
"Tears and angels and Bonnets o' Blue!"
—Capt. Wm. Page Carter in American Illustrated Magazine.

Two Fingers for His Life.

BY JOHN E. COTTON.

One blustering night last February I sat pressed in against the wall at Capt. Sol McDaniel's little shop.

Early in the evening, among the crowd of regular callers, a big, red-faced fellow, unquestionably a Newfoundlander, came in and greeted the old captain warmly. He extended his hand. "I'll have to offer you my left, cap'n," he said. "It's the best I've got. The other one was damaged a little when we lost the Peterheart."

"Hendry," said the old skipper, after he returned the newcomer's greeting, "I believe that's the only happening out of Gloucester here that I don't know all the particulars of. Sit down here, son, and tell us about it. We'd all like to hear."

Hendry needed a little urging, for he was a man not much given to talking. But when the other visitors warmly seconded the captain's request, he consented to tell the story. We all settled back on the hard benches, and Hendry began:

"We left the harbor here this time last year for Flemish Cap Bank. We were after a trip of codfish and gray halibut.

"Our skipper, Sarge Bohlin, was what we winter bankers call a driver. On that trip he lived up to his reputation, and drove the vessel straight offshore from Cape Ann lights for Flemish Cap in the face of everything we met.

"We got some fifty thousand weight of fish—'snatched them,' as we say in winter. And when the glass showed an able norther rising, we headed for home. It was night when we got under way. The wind had already shaken up a good hubbly sea.

"Our crew was a good one. Every night we used to get together aft in the cabin, headed by the cook's fiddle, and sing till we grew sleep. The skipper was one of the kind that always stood a watch on the runs in and out. That night he had the lay from nine to eleven o'clock.

"'Twas so black and thick you couldn't see the sheer-poles from the wheel. Sitting down on deck to get in the lee of the house, out of the cold wind, the skipper would poke his head into the companionway every now and then, and roar out, 'Pumb! Pumb! Pumb! Pumb!' at every rest in our songs. His big voice would start a laugh among us below every time.

"We had got round to 'The Island Belle,' a down-home song every one of us knew. We had finished the first part when in roared the skipper, 'Pumb! Pumb! Pum—' Only three times he shouted, then he stopped short.

"All hands seemed to be waiting for the fourth one before we started off on the second part of the song. Then suddenly the skipper cried in a different voice altogether:

"'Jump, men! Jump quick!'

"I was never so surprised in all my life. Our skipper was not the man to mix up a joke and a serious matter. I saw the companionway full of men struggling to get up on deck. A crash came on our starboard quarter. In pushed planks and timbers almost on top of me. I was the last man up.

"'A steamer,' thought I. But when I raised my head up above deck and caught sight of the big square sails of a bark towering above us in the darkness, I was more surprised than ever. Every man that sat in that cabin knew that our vessel's side was stove in for a space great enough to sink her in a very few minutes. The thoughts of cold, icy water and a rough sea flashed on my mind.

"I heard a foreign voice yelling out away up above us on the bow of the bark. I couldn't understand a word he said. He was terribly excited.

"'Heave over the port dories!' our skipper shouted. I started forward along the port side after the rest of the hands.

"Our vessel lurched ahead on a sea. Then on came the bark, crashing into us again. The planks even forward to where we stood began to rip and tear apart under our feet.

"'We're going down, skipper!' sang out one of our fellows. I could see from the way they fumbled the work getting the dories overboard that they were confused.

"'Hendry, you get a line aboard of her quick, if you can!' cried the skipper to me. I started back aft round the cabin house, intending to get to the other side, to where the bark had cut into us, gram the end of any piece of rope I could get hold of on our deck and climb up on the bark's headstays. Then I could make the rope fast to help all hands up. But my intentions miscarried.

"I threw my arms round in the darkness for the bark's big chain bobstay, the stay running from her stem at the water-line up to the end of her bowsprit. But I could find no trace of it. I knew that it must have been carried away when she struck us. There were no other stays low enough for me to reach them, I knew. I turned, and grabbing the end of our main-sheet, lying loose on deck, stood ready to jump at anything offering me a chance to get aboard the stranger.

"The noise of the two vessels grinding together, the roar of the wind and sea and the slatting of sails and booms were deafening. I could hear nothing above it but the wild yells of the foreigner on the back. We lurched ahead again on a sea. I felt something swing hard against my back. I turned and grabbed it. 'Twas the big iron chain, the bark's bobstay, dangling in the air from the end of her bowsprit. Gripping one of the big links in my right hand, and taking a turn in the main-sheet with my left, I sang out with all my might:

"'Cap'n, come round here! We can all get aboard of her!'

"Not a word came back to me from them. I did not know whether to try to go back to them or not. While I stood trying to decide, I felt our vessel begin to fall away on a big sea. It seemed to me that when the big craft lurched ahead and struck up again that she must bear us under.

"The chain I held to with my right hand suddenly grew taut. It began to pull away from me, and I knew the two vessels were drawing apart. I must let go either our own main-sheet or the bobstay. 'Twas hard to decide which to do.

"I felt our vessel shoot down and ahead in the sea. The big, heavy chain drew me along our deck to the rail. I braced my feet against it and pulled back with all my strength. I grew so confused in the next second by the drawing apart of the two vessels, the thoughts of my duty to our crew and the terrible roar all round me that I seemed unable to think at all.

"The chain bid up taut and hard. My feet slipped on the icy rail, my knees wabbled. Then off I shot from our deck after the bark's stay, my feet trailing along in the water. I roared out to our crew with all my might.

"The main-sheet was still wrapped round my left hand. I started to push the frayed end of it through one of the links in the chain to take a turn. But I had no sooner pushed the end into the link than the rope drew taut, so taut that I couldn't get a turn. I took a firm grip on it with my hand, so as not to lose it altogether.

"I heard the excited voice up above me on the bark's bowsprit keeping up a continuous yell. Then another joined him. I looked all round me in the darkness, to see if they had lowered any rope to me, but could see nothing.

"I began to call out to them to come down on the bobstay, when away drew the two vessels with a lurch, the rope and chain grew hard and tight, and I was raised up out of the water. I hung there in the air, clutching the rope in one hand and the stay in the other.

"While I hung there another voice broke out above me on the bark, and sung out:

"'You speak English? Speak French? Speak German, or what you speak?' And I knew right away that the strong, calm voice belonged to the captain of the bark.

"'Throw me a rope, quick!' I called. Then my arms drew out straight. I bounced up and down between the tightening chain and rope as if I was on a throbbing clock-spring. A sharp twinge shot across my back from shoulder to shoulder, a burning sensation ran the length of my arms; then a numb, prickling feeling came over them. Down I dropped into the water. I had lost both my holds!

"The first plunge into the frosty water is hard. It struck me all over like a stinging slap. I came to the surface right away—in fact, I fell flat and didn't go under far.

"Then I began to swim. I roared once, then again. Then with a jolt my nose bumped hard against something.

"I couldn't see a thing before me. 'Twas all black. I put up my hands and could feel the big, cold planks and seams of a vessel. 'Twas not ours; I could tell by the wide planks and the rough seams. 'It's the bark,' thought I. 'She's cleared our vessel and is sailing off.'

"'Oh, aboard the bark! Oh-ho, cap'n!' I sang out.

"But with every word the side of the big vessel seemed to slip along by me faster and faster. My fingers, trailing along her side, clutched at every little rough spot, every paint blister, in the butts where her planks came together, but nothing gave to the digs I made.

"She was leaving me behind fast. I felt that my chance was gone. I began to wonder where the rest of our crew were, and if our vessel had gone down.

"I roared out again with all my might, 'Let go a boat or something, quick!'

"'American man, you aft here?' came back the captain's voice. 'You forward there? Or where you are?'

"'Right below you here! Throw me something, quick!' I cried. But with my words the side of the ship slipped away from my hands. She seemed to draw my strength and courage away with her again.

"'Catch a rope!' I heard the captain sing out. But before I could turn my head to look for it, I began to spin and twirl round in the big eddy in the bark's stern. In I shot, and brought up against it with a thump.

"I put up my hands when I struck, and made a wild lunge for anything I could get hold of. My right hand slipped along her sloping stern to the water. Then my fingers struck into a little crack. I drove them ahead as far as they would go. They were in the jamb round the rudder-post.

"When I started to move ahead with the vessel and bring strain on them, my fingers began to slip back from round the wet post. I put up the other hand.

"'O captain, come quick!' I cried, when I felt my hold with both hands slipping away, and I jabbed the fingers of my right hand in as far as I could, in the attempt to get them into the narrow space between the rudder-post and the circular groove that it hung in. But it was of no use.

"'American man, hang on one minute more!' cried out the captain, over the stern, to me. 'We're coming up into the wind!'

"But I could not hang on. I had nothing to hang on to. My strength was gone. My left hand slipped entirely away. I must let go and sink before the big ship could come round into the wind and lose her headway.

"Now my hold with my right hand began to draw away. Then I felt something tighten against my fingers. It bore and pressed them hard.

"They are putting the helm hard down," said I, 'and it's squeezing my fingers in the jamb.' By instinct I jerked my hand back toward me. Then, shutting my eyes and teeth, I forced it back into the little crack as far as I could.

"A terrible pain shot up my numbed fingers and arm. The big rudder-post turned slowly but surely. It held me there fast until they swung down and reached me from over the bark's stern.

"It spoiled my hand, but it saved my life—the only one of that crew."—Youth's Companion.

The Toyland of the World.

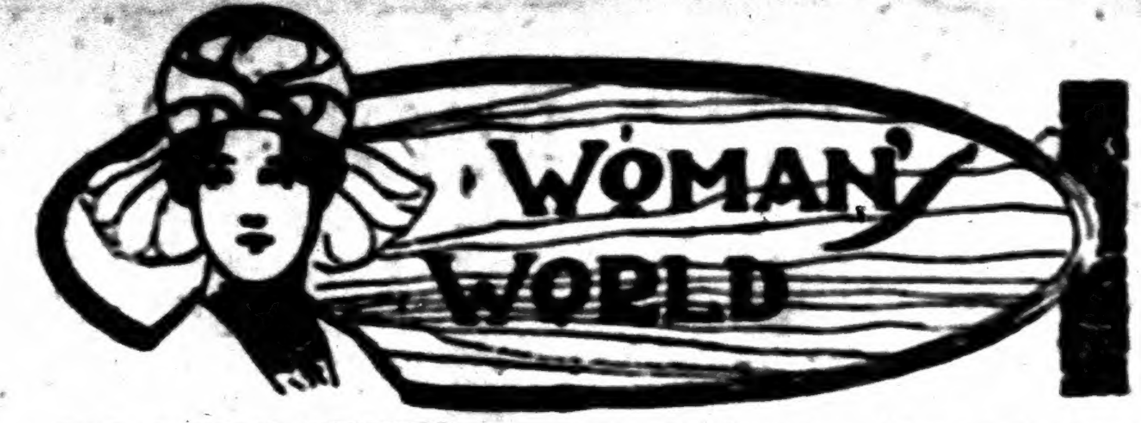
A Tokio correspondent of an American weekly has much of interest to say of Japanese toys. "Japan is the original toyland. I really think that Santa Claus must have a branch establishment in Tokio. There are mechanical toys that go about as if they were alive—tin turtles walking around on the earthen floor, mice scampering under counters and around on the shelves, huge gorgeously colored paper butterflies and dragon flies buzzing around in the air. There are no toy-carriages in Japan, because in Japan there are no real carriages. But there are toy jinrikishas, which are little two-wheeled carts pulled by little brown men under great big mushroom-shaped hats instead of by horses. And there are toy cagos, which are the oddest kind of grown-up cradles, that two men carry, suspended from long bamboo poles, upon their shoulders, and in which grown-up folks have to sit, curled up Turk-fashion, until their feet go to sleep and they are forced to demand the privilege of getting down and walking. These are the 'carriages' of Japan, and, as toys, would probably puzzle the average little boy or girl at home."

Scientific Fighting.

What is needed in military as well as industrial warfare is science, said Lord Roberts at a recent meeting of the London Chamber of Commerce. Great Britain could not be successful against an enemy of anything like equal strength, because she has failed to appreciate the value of modern science in warfare.

"Less attention should be paid," he said, "to such trivial matters as the shapes of headdresses or the cuts of jackets, and more given to the science of actual fighting. The Japanese had been successful because of their scientific spirit, and it was becoming plainer every day that intellectual efficiency is a truer safeguard of a nation than physical strength.

Reports from China indicate that there is a revival of the demand in England and the United States for Chinese teas.



RAG CARPET REVIVED.

And still another old fashion is being revived. There has been a return to favor of old clocks and bedsteads, tables and chairs and wall papers, until it seemed as though there was no accessory to an old fashioned house that has not had its counterpart put upon the modern market, with very often a pretty story attached to prove it an heirloom.

There is one thing, however, that until very recently has remained in the oblivion to which it was consigned years ago. With all the fad for things old fashioned, the homely but serviceable rag carpet was not resurrected until a short time ago, when an enterprising manufacturer made the venture. It is a real thing, too, not a paraphrase of rag carpet made of silk in the shape of fancy rugs, but the real old fashioned carpet that is woven of real rags, even if they it is woven of real rags, even if they are without family and neighborly associations. This particular manufacturer uses samples of curtains and upholsteries which have served their purpose as samples to make his rag carpets.

Some of them are woven with a striped effect, just as all the old fashioned ones were seen, the light and dark stripes alternating with more or less regularity, while others, showing the more elaborate results of modern machinery, are woven in checks about two inches square. In red and black and other colors producing a vivid contrast, these checks when like Scotch plaid, and their bright colors should contribute to the general cheerfulness of a room. For housekeepers who have only bare floors and do not care for carpets, there are rugs made of this rag carpeting, just as there are rugs made of every other conceivable kind of material for covering floors. These are made in all the shapes and sizes and patterns that could possibly be desired, with prices accordingly.—Brooklyn Eagle.

WOMAN AND THE PROVERBS.

The Spanish rhyme has it: "Were a woman as little as she is good, a pea pod would make her a gown and a hood."

An old English saying: "If a man lose a woman and a farthing he will be sorry he lost the farthing."

The French adage: "A man of straw is worth a woman of gold."

The German: "There are only two good women in the world—one dead and the other can't be found."

The Scotch say: "Honest men marry soon, wise men never."

In Fife they say: "The next best thing to no wife is a good wife."

The Abrabian declares: "Words are women; deeds are men."

The Persian sage says that a woman's wisdom is under her heel."

The German affirms that every daughter of Eve would rather he beautiful than good.

The Persian asserts that women and dragons are best out of the world.

The Corsican says: "Just as a good and a bad horse both need the spur, a good and a bad woman both need the stick."

The Hindoo: "A man is not obeyed by his wife in his own house, nor does she consider him her husband unless he beats her." Another Hindoo proverb says: "Drive out a woman's nature with a pitchfork and it will return again and again."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

HANDSOME EFFECTS IN COLLARS.

Very handsome effects by way of collars and berthas may be produced from the new lace ribbon work at really the cost of very little time or trouble, compared with the result; neither is a great deal of skill necessary, neat sewing being the chief requisite.

A strikingly pretty collar of this description, to be worn with a black evening gown, was a deep bertha, shaped to fit the shoulders in tones of mauve. The pattern is first cut in tough brown paper, one quarter of an inch larger than necessary, then black satin ribbon, one third of an inch wide, is basted down to the paper all around, leaving the quarter inch of paper beyond. Half an inch wide green shaded ribbon forms the leaves. Loops of ribbons are cut the necessary length, the ends secured by a thread of green floselle, then at the back of the leaf, within half in inch at the top, the ribbon is gathered across, when a leaf will be found to be formed. When there are in readiness, prepare the flowers. Those with points are made by turning the ribbons inward from left to right and from right to left. Five to eight will be required for these, according to the flower desired, and the width of the ribbon used; daisies require more petals, orchids less; the collar of the ribbon, of course, depending upon the flower to be formed.—Richmond Times.

SPONGING GARMENTS

After a thorough brushing, sponging and pressing is recommended to restore cloth to its pristine beauty, especially if the garment has been worn in the rain. After sponging allow the garment to become nearly dry before pressing. Never put a hot iron on woolen cloth; always have a white cotton cloth that will not deposit lint, to place between the garment and the iron. Wet right side of the garment to be pressed. With a hot iron pass quickly over the white cloth, removing it instantly and allowing the garment to steam. Do not put the iron directly on the garment until it is dry, otherwise the print of the iron will be visible and the seams will have a shiny appearance.

To press sleeves use a sleeve board. This can be made at home by curving the corners of a piece of wood about two feet long. Make about the same shape as the larger ironing board; use the smaller end for the cuffs. Press sleeves on the right side also. It is wonderful how the pressing will freshen even a wash dress; these, however, should be pressed on the wrong side, using a damp cloth to rub over the creases and then applying the iron directly to the gown.—Washington Times.

SHELVES SUPPLANT BOOKCASES.

Shelves, as perhaps few of us realize, add much character to a room. Like cushions and rugs and books they give that delicious air of comfort so often lacking in the stately, yet stiff drawing rooms of some of our modern homes.

Many people do not take to the idea of shelves, associating the shelf with the homely uses of the kitchen, the pantry, and cellar, whereas the real fact is the utility of the shelf constitutes much of its beauty.

People have become educated to seeing bookshelves in a library or sitting room in perference to bookcases, for these always seem designed more as showcases for books and their buildings than to hold books ready for intimate use.

Fewer bookcases are sold nowadays than formerly, for everybody seems to appreciate the charm of the low book shelves built in around a room for occupying some special nook or corner in a bay window or alcove. On the top of these shelves one can always have plants, photographs, magazines, all the hundred and one little furnishings that add to the beauty of a room. The high corner book shelves are always good, for they use space often otherwise wasted, and this is an important factor in these days of apartment houses.—Indianapolis News.

KEEP YOURSELF IN CONDITION.

To cure dyspepsia by means of exercise, try punching a bag. Suspend it at a convenient height from the floor to permit of pounding it vigorously, after the manner of a prize fighter. You must wear gloves to protect your knuckles. Twisting the body around in both direction from the waist is a good exercise for you. Leaning forward and then backward, as far as possible, also to the right and left, is good practice. Interlock the thumbs and with the knees straight, bend forward until the tips of the fingers touch the floor. Rise to an upright possition, with the arms above the head.

Besides curing your dyspepsia, these athletics should expand your chest, put roses in your cheeks and grace and vigor in every motion. Don't say that you are too weak and breathless to take exercise. This is a delusion. The weakness and the quick and short respiration arise from want of exercise. The less exercise one takes, the less one is fitted for and the more one needs it. Nerves will become disordered, the blood thick and sluggish and muscles will grow flaccid without exercise.

IN PLACE OF SHOE HORNS.

You've seen the girl who is at the mercy of a shoe horn, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. If she has lost or forgotten her own, she goes from room to room, seeking to beg, borrow or steal one, as if a pair of slippers might not actually be gotten on without a shoe horn.

Now, here is a pointer for her. If you can't get a shoe horn, use a spoon. That is what college girls do, and they find it just as convenient as the article designed for that purpose.

Not a teaspoon, but a tablespoon. Put the handle into the heel of a slipper and use it just as you do a shoe horn. When the shoe is on, the spoon handle really comes out easier than a shoe horn.

Of course, this is merely a substitute, but if there doesn't happen to be a shoe horn around, it's handy to know about the useful spoon.

FASHION HINTS.

Snakeskin is among the smartest leathers for the modish bag.

Back and side combs come in sets with handsome shell, metal or jeweled mountings.

Much favor appears to attach to golden-brown, and to brownish-olive and olive-green.

Handkerchiefs in sheerest linen with border of the finest hand run tucks.

THE COLLEGE ATHL

Oh, at the baseball he's a guff he's just the thing
He can hurl the classic
cubits, by jing!
He can hold two dozen people
form on his chest.
And at lifting and dumb-bells
equal of the best.

He can row or jump
smartest kind of style.
He can swim beneath the
least a half a mile.
At all useless sports and admitted to be good
But he has no startling comes to sawing wood.
—Louisville (Ky.)

"How did old P into society?" By lending some of its impoverished Chicago Tribune

"I wonder how it is that ceed who mind only ness?" "Because competition."—New Yorker

Mrs. Muggins—Mrs. Newrich's girl has a decided Irish brogue Buggins—That's what comes ing French maids.—Philadelphia Record.

Mrs. Foozle—My son is a surgeon. Mrs. Malaprop—Land He's a purty young lookin' call himself a veteran.—Philadelphia Record.

First Suburbanite—Is he Second Suburbanite—I should Why, even his neighbors and lay their eggs in his yard burg Dispatch.

She—And did you ever a girl in a canoe? He—Yes never do it again! The girl my proposal, and upset the Yonkers Statesman

Madge—They say she is er, but I have never noticed it jorie—Of course not. She the clever things about you have gone.—Harper's Bazar.

Customer—I want a book do for hot-weather reading seller—All right, sir. Here is a story that is warranted to make blood run cold.—Chicago News

Mother—Has Charles proved self to be a thoroughly man? June Bride—Yes, indeed particularly abstains from any money!—Detroit Free Press

Mr. De Rich—What? Another street dress? Where is the you got? Mrs. De Rich—I have it out. It isn't a week since it. I wore it out last Thursday York Weekly

"Mr. Dustin Stax is make an ostentatious display wealth." "You wouldn't said the government employe worked in the assessor's Washington Star.

"That girl has an unfortunate of repartee." "Yes," answered Cayenne. "She has an idea is saying smart things when merely saying things that Washington Star.

"Haven't you ever thought to work?" asked the farmer's Sauntering Sam. "Yes'm," veteran tramp; "I thought of —but I was deeloeryus at Cleveland Plain Dealer

"Being from the West, you have never before booming of the breakers "No; but being from the West heard the breaking of the many a time and oft."— Leader.

Weary Husband—Doctor, I see why you can't cure my aches and pains? Doctor— great regard for the opinion wife, and if I should cure aches and pains, she'd never me!—Detroit Free Press

"But you will admit that have the real flavor?" jokesmith with the rejected manuscript. "What do I their flavor?" growled the the comic weekly. "I am don't eat them."—Chicago Daily

First Artist—Well, old man business? Second Artist—Oh, did! Got a commission this for a millionaire. Wants painted very badly. First (pleasantly)—Well, my boy, the very man for the job— Evening Times.

"Why don't you try to fidence of the people?" answered Senator Sorghum. people have been gold-bricked much of late years that they see man trying to agreeable, they get Washington Star.

"Did you succeed in grandfather's will?" managed to bend it so more thousand dollars the family tree."—Detroit

"Do you believe there is mind-reading?" "If there wife's an awful good never has to wait for me confessing."—Chicago

Had Papa Dazed.

"What are you doing park?" asked the solicitous

"I'm thinking things swered the sincere man told me that children courage to ask questions aged my youngest, and ty seconds he wanted the next president will long it will take to canal."—Washington

BEST OF HEALTH SINCE TAKING PE-RU-NA.

MRS LENA SMITH

POOR HEALTH. PAINS IN BACK. SICK HEADACHES PE-RU-NA CURED

Lena Smith, N. Cherry street, Nashville, Tenn., writes: have had poor health for the past years, pains in the back and groins, dull, sick headache, with bearing down friend who was very enthusiastic about Peruna insisted that I it.

took it for ten days and was to find I had so little pain. therefore continued to use it and at end of two months my pains had disappeared.

I have been in the best of health and feel ten years younger. I very grateful to you."

Catarrh of the internal organs gradually away the strength, undermines the vitality and causes nervousness. Peruna is remedy.

Woman 171 Years Old.

remarkable case of longevity is vanced by the Canadian Gazette, which records that a Chinese woman through Montreal the other who claimed to be 171 years old. had nothing to prove her age the word of her friends added her own, but her appearance was eloquent and certainly tended confirm her remarkable statement. an official put it, she seemed as she had been dug out of the great of China, built some 5,000 years She was on her way home from merara to China in order to make last resting place in the celestial gdom, for she feared she had not ny more years to live. She was nearly double, and her face like crinkled yellow parchment. It appears that she left China 70 years old, and has resided Demarara for the last 100 years.

Mikado's Large Income.

The yearly allowance of the Mikado, which is at the same time that of the imperial family, is now $1,500, Besides, he has the yearly income of $500,000 from the interest on $10,000,000 which was given to from the war indemnity received China ten years ago, of $250,000 his private estates, which amount $5,000,000 or more; of $500,000 from forests, covering an area of 5,124, acres and valued at $512,487,300, $100 an acre; in all $1,250,000. Thus yearly net income amounts to $2, 000. There are in all sixty members of the imperial family, inclusive eleven married and four widowed princesses, who are members of the family by marriage, not by birth.

In Norway servant girls hire for a year at a time by contract at public registry offices.

GET POWER.

The Supply Comes From Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skilfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire and a poor fire is not a good steam producer.

"From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from little town in Missouri.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heart-burn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton, and time was compelled to keep to my bed.

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed. All my unpleasant symptoms, the heart-burn, the inflated feeling which gave me so much pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 lbs., my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my housework and enjoy it. The Grape-Nuts did it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten days' trial will show any one the facts about food.

"There's a reason."

THE COLLEGE ATHLE

Oh, at the baseball he's a wonde
golf he's just the thing;
He can hurl the classic discus
cules, by jing!
He can hold two dozen people on
form on his chest,
And at lifting and dumbbells he
equal of the best.

He can row or jump or wrestle
smartest kind of style;
He can swim beneath the water
least a half a mile.
At all useless sports and pastime
admitted to be good,
But he has no startling record
comes to sawing wood.

Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Jou

JUST FOR FU

"How did old Pacadda ever into society?" By lending mone some of its impoverished leade Chicago Tribune

"I wonder how it is that men ceed who mind only their own ness?" "Because there is so competition."—New Yorker.

Mrs Muggins—Mrs. Newrich's girl has a decided Irish brogue. Buggins That's what comes of ing French maids.—Philadelphia ord.

Mrs Foozle—My son is a veter surgeon. Mrs Malaprop—Land sa He's a purty young-lookin' fell call himself a veteran.—Philade Record

First Suburbanite—Is he lo Second Suburbanite—I should say Why, even his neighbors' hens and lay their eggs in his yard.—P burg Dispatch

She—And did you ever propo a girl in a canoe? He—Yes, an never do it again! The girl jump my proposal, and upset the b Yonkers Statesman.

Madge—They say she is very er, but I have never noticed it. jorie—Of course not. She says the clever things about you after have gone.—Harper's Bazar.

Customer—I want a book tha do for hot-weather reading. seller—All right, sir. Here is a story that is warranted to make blood run cold.—Chicago News.

Mother—Has Charles proven self to be a thoroughly abstem man? June Bride—Yes, indeed! particularly abstains from giving any money!—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. De Rich—What? Another street dress? Where is the last you got? Mrs. De Rich—I have it out. It isn't a week since you it. I wore it out last Thursday.— York Weekly

"Mr. Dustin Stax is inclined make an ostentatious display of wealth." "You wouldn't think said the government employe, "i worked in the assessor's office Washington Star.

"That girl has an unfortunate of repartee." "Yes," answered Cayenne. "She has an idea that is saying smart things when s merely saying things that sma Washington Star.

"Haven't you ever thought of to work?" asked the farmer's w Sauntering Sam. "Yes'm," repli veteran tramp, "I thought of it —but I was decloeryqa at do tim Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Being from the West, Mrs. B you have never before heard booming of the breakers, I supp "No, but being from the West, I heard the breaking of the boom many a time and oft!"—Clev Leader.

Weary Husband—Doctor, I see why you can't cure my wife o aches and pains? Doctor—Sir, I great regard for the opinion of wife, and if I should cure her o aches and pains, she'd never fo me!—Detroit Free Press.

"But you will admit that my have the real flavor?" ventured Jokesmith with the rejected hal manuscript. "What do I know their flavor?" growled the edi the comic weekly. "I am no g don't eat them."—Chicago Daily N

First Artist—Well, old man, h business? Second Artist—Oh, did! Got a commission this mo for a millionaire. Wants his chi painted very badly. First (pleasantly)—Well, my boy, y the very man for the job.—Ch Evening Times.

"Why don't you try to win the fidence of the people?" "Not answered Senator Sorghum. people have been gold-bricked much of late years that every they see man trying to make hi agreeable they get suspicio Washington Star.

"Did you succeed in breaking grandfather's will?" "No; bu managed to bend it so that a more thousand dollars oozed o the family tree."—Detroit Free P

"Do you believe there is anyth mind-reading?" "If there isn't, wife's an awful good guesser. never has to wait for me to do confessing."—Chicago Record-He Had Papa Dared.

"What are you doing out here park?" asked the solicitous "I'm thinking things swered the sincere man. told me that children ought to couraged to ask questions. I aged my youngest, and inside ty seconds he wanted to the next president will be long it will take to dig the canal."—Washington Star.

BEST OF HEALTH SINCE TAKING PE-RU-NA.

POOR HEALTH.
PAINS IN BACK.
SICK HEADACHES.
PE-RU-NA CURED.

Mrs Lena Smith, N. Cherry street, cor. Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"I have had poor health for the past years, pains in the back and groins, sick headache, with bearing down

A friend who was very enthusiastic about Peruna insisted that I try it.

I took it for ten days and was surprised to find I had so little pain. I therefore continued to use it and at the end of two months my pains had fully disappeared.

I have been in the best of health and feel ten years younger. I am very grateful to you."

Catarrh of the internal organs gradually wears away the strength, undermines the vitality and causes nervousness. Peruna is the remedy.

Woman 171 Years Old.

A remarkable case of longevity is reported by the Canadian Gazette, which records that a Chinese woman passed through Montreal the other day who claimed to be 171 years old. She had nothing to prove her age, but the word of her friends added to her own, but her appearance was eloquent and certainly tended to confirm her remarkable statement. As an official put it, she seemed as if she had been dug out of the great wall of China, built some 5,000 years ago. She was on her way home from Demerara to China in order to make her last resting place in the celestial kingdom, for she feared she had not many more years to live. She was bent nearly double, and her face looked like crinkled yellow parchment. It appears that she left China when 70 years old, and has resided in Demerara for the last 100 years.

Mikado's Large Income.

The yearly allowance of the Mikado, which is at the same time that of the whole imperial family, is now $1,500,000. Besides, he has the yearly income of [illegible] from the interest on [illegible] which was given to him from the war indemnity received from China ten years ago, of $250,000 from his private estates, which amount to [illegible] or more; of $500,000 from his forests, covering an area of 5,124,000 acres and valued at $512,487,300, [illegible] in all $1,250,000. Thus the yearly net income amounts to $2,[illegible]. There are in all sixty members of the imperial family, inclusive of eleven married and four widowed princesses, who are members of the family by marriage, not by birth.

In Norway servant girls hire for half a year at a time by contract at public registry offices.

GET POWER.

The Supply Comes From Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skilfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor food makes a poor fire and a poor fire is not a good steam producer.

"From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heart-burn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton, and in time was compelled to keep to my bed.

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed. All my unpleasant symptoms, the heart-burn, the inflated feeling which gave me so much pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 lbs., my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my housework and enjoy it. The Grape-Nuts food did it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten days' trial will show any one some facts about food.

"There's a reason."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR OCTOBER 1.

Subject: Daniel and Belshazzar, Dan. v., 17-30—Golden Text, Prov. xxxiv., 16—Memory Verses, 29, 30—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. The handwriting on the wall. Belshazzar, only sixteen or seventeen years old, was the ruling king in the city of Babylon. Secure within his defenses, he felt confident of safety, and therefore engaged in revelry at a feast which he made to a thousand of his lords. In his drunken folly and wickedness he called for the golden and silver vessels which had been taken from the temple at Jerusalem, that he might drink from them as a token that his gods had given victory over the God of the Jews. During this profane revelry a hand appeared and wrote upon the wall. This filled the king with fears, and he declared that the wise man who should interpret the meaning should be clothed with scarlet and have a chain of gold, and be third ruler in the kingdom. When all had failed, the queen, mother of Belshazzar, came in and persuaded her son to send for Daniel, to whom, when he came, the king repeated his promise made to the wise men.

II. Daniel reproving the king (vs. 17-24). 17. "Let thy gifts by to thyself." Daniel as a prophet of God cares nothing for any reward this king can give, nor does he fear him. 18. "The most high God." Whom Daniel proclaimed as the only God, and whose power Nebuchadnezzar had recognized in the deliverance of the Hebrews out of the furnace. "Thy father." Grandfather. "Majesty." In the eyes of his subjects. "Glory." From his victories. "Honor." From the enlargement and decoration of the city. 19. "Whom he would he slew." In dispensing punishments he condemned or acquitted at pleasure, and in dispensing rewards he granted or denied preferments. 20. "Heart was lifted up." In pride and arrogance, wilful and obstinate. "Deposed." This occurred not by the rebellion of his people, but by the direct visitation of God. He became insane. 21. "He was driven." The madness that fell upon him induced him to forsake society and to run to the woods and deserts, where he lived like a wild beast. 22. "Thou—hast not humbled." Thou hast sinned, not through ignorance, but through deliberate contempt of God, regardless of all warning. 23. "Against the Lord." As if thou hadst been equal or even superior to Him in wisdom and power. "Vessels of his house." From the temple of Bel, where they have been treasured up since the conqueror had carried them from Jerusalem. The thirty chargers and thirty vases of gold which had been made for the temple of Solomon, and had continued there till the captivity of Jehoiachin, and the thousand chargers and the four hundred basins of silver by which Zedekiah had supplied their place, and which were carried away in the final deportation. They profaned these vessels to show their contempt for Jehovah. It was an open insult to the Almighty. 24. "Hand sent from Him." From God.

III. Daniel interpreting the writing (vs. 25-28). 25. "The writing." The words were Aramaic, with letters like the Hebrew. Why could not the wise men read them? Perhaps they could read the words, but were not able, or did not dare, to explain their meaning. 26. "Mene." This word is repeated to give emphasis. It comes from a word meaning to number, to count. The days of the empire were counted out in full. The soldiers of the conqueror were awaiting outside and would destroy it before morning. 27. "Tekel." Which means weighed (hence a shekel, which was originally a certain weight). It resembles a word which signifies "light," light of weight, like a counterfeit coin. The application is that Belshazzar had been weighed as to his moral character and actions, and had been found wanting, of light weight. He had not come up to the standard required. God had tested him and he had failed.

28. "Peres." This is the singular, while upharsin is the plural of the same word with "u," which means "and," prefixed. It is given in verse 25 in the plural, for emphasis, just as "mene" is doubled. It means divided, but has the same consonants as Persians, and suggests them. "Is divided." Not divided into two parts, but broken into pieces, destroyed. "Medes." Media was a large country lying east of the Caspian Sea.

IV. "Daniel rewarded (v. 29). 29. "With scarlet," etc. These carried with them rank and power. "Third ruler." Next to Belshazzar, who was second. Nabonidus, the king, was first.

V. The king slain (v. 30). 30. "In that night." It must be understood that the River Euphrates flowed through the midst of Babylon. Cyrus for some time had been planning to draw away the water of the river and enter the city through the bed of the river. When all was prepared he waited for the great feast. When it came all the leaders were reveling in the palace. Elsewhere the population was occupied with feasting and dancing (Jer. 51: 39). Drunken riot and mad excitement held possession of the town: the siege was forgotten; ordinary precautions, as the closing of the river gates (Isa. 45: 1), were neglected. The undefended gateways were seized; a war shout was raised; the alarm was spread. The drunken revelers could make no resistance. The king, paralyzed with fear at the handwriting which had warned him of his peril, could do nothing to check the progress of the assailants, who carried all before them everywhere. Bursting into the palace a band of Persians made their way into the presence of the king and slew him.

GRAFT IN JAPAN'S NAVY.

Just Discovered Three Paymasters Have Embezzled $165,000.

Tokio, Japan.—Information has been made public that three naval paymasters have embezzled $165,000 of Government funds.

Russia Protests to Turkey.

Russia has made a strong protest to the Porte regarding the fortifications which Turkey is building on the Bosporus.

Picture Postal Cards.

The picture postal "craze" has hit us Americans at last, and forcibly. Ten years or more ago the picture postals had already a wide circulation in Europe. They were pretty, generally clever, often worth something as souvenirs, and formed an agreeable method of remembering the folks at home. Now the picture postals are bringing in their American wake the postal albums, a sure sign of the popularity of this pictured private mailing card. At the N. E. A., to cite one example, the mail was considerably increased by the sending of Asbury Park postal souvenirs.

But there is one development of the postal picture "craze" that we not only deplore, but protest against, namely, the obscene card. While passing recently through several cities we noted their frequency on the news-stands. Many have a certain cleverness of the risque and unrefined that can well be dispensed with. Europe was flooded with questionable cards of this sort; the United States should be no further culture-ground for them. Our law forbids the transmission of obscene matter through the mails; it is obvious, however, that where there is much selling, there must be some sending. We protest, however, particularly against the display of these cards, be it in Boston or elsewhere. It is a kind of publicity that we believe can be checked and soon stamped out by a counter-publicity of the facts by the press.

The Boston and Maine railroad is testing peat as a fuel for its engines. So far the test has been very satisfactory. The source of supply is in the town of Lexington, Mass., and it is said that this single deposit would furnish enough fuel for all the railroads entering Boston.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Genuine Russian caviar is one of the most costly commodities.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

Madrid still has the mediaeval night watchmen.

I do not believe Piso's Cure for Consumption has an equal for coughs and colds.—John F. Boyer, Trinity Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

The whole coast of the Gulf of California abounds in pearls.

Draws the Poison.

Sloan's Liniment, the great antiseptic, draws the poison from mosquito bites and stings of all insects. It kills yellow fever and malaria germs.

The Atlantic Ocean has an average depth of 16,000 feet.

Senator Morgan's Vitality.

One of the most wonderful men in the United States senate is John T. Morgan, of Alabama. He is 81 years old, and two years from this time he will complete thirty years' continuous service in the senate. During the recent short session he spoke for more than four hours for two successive days. The physical effort of speaking for four hours on one day is more than many senators care to attempt. On every foreign subject he knows all there is to know and has the knowledge at command without reference books or documents. No other man knows so much about the isthmian canal. Once some one asked how long he could really talk. "It depends upon the subject," he replied. "If it were a matter that I thoroughly understand I could talk for two or three days; if it were a matter I knew nothing about I could talk for two or three weeks."

DISFIGURING HUMOR

Brushed Scales From Face Like Powder—Doctor Said Lady Would Be Disfigured For Life—Cuticura Works Wonders.

"I suffered with eczema all over my body. My face was covered; my eyebrows came out. I had tried three doctors, but did not get any better. I then went to another doctor. He thought my face would be marked for life, but my brother-in-law told me to get Cuticura. I washed with Cuticura Soap, applied Cuticura Ointment, and took Cuticura Resolvent as directed. I could brush the scales off my face like powder. Now my face is just as clean as it ever was.—Mrs. Emma White, 641 Cherrier Place, Camden, N. J., April 25, '05."

Sherborne.

Sherborne, where the pageantry befitting a 1,200 anniversary is now in progress, is not only beautiful in herself; she has a lovely name in sound and sense, for it means in the old Saxon "clear brook." Dorsetshire people attach a deal of importance to the curse on any confiscator with which the knightly bishop of Sarum accompanied his gifts of lands to the bishopric. The fact that misfortune befell everybody, including Sir Walter Raleigh, who entered upon the unblessed enejoyment of these lands, is held to prove the old Norman's curse. If you remind the old Dorsetshire woman that the man who kept his head in the days of Raleigh was a rarity, and that, therefore, sudden death could hardly be held to prove the fulfillment of the curse, she naturally remains unconvinced.

A serum for hay fever is used by physicians in the Island of Heligoland.

LIGHTING LORE

ACETYLENE EXCELS AS AN ILLUMINANT.

Gas For Lighting Formerly Confined to Cities and Large Towns, Now in General Use in the Country.

The satisfactory lighting of suburban and country homes requires that the means used shall be convenient, safe, economical and furnish a brilliant, penetrating, effulgent light.

Everybody admits that these are not the characteristics of the candle or kerosene lamp, which, formerly, were the only feasible means of producing light for domestic use in the rural districts.

For generations there was a crying need, a yearning for something better, which was not satisfied. A few years ago deliverance came in the shape of the chemical compound, Calcium Carbide, from which, by the simple application of water, the gas Acetylene is derived. Acetylene meets all the requirements fully and admirably and is being generally used.

Common lime and carbon in the form of coke or coal are the raw materials which, fused in an intensely heated furnace, make Calcium Carbide, and there is no difficulty in obtaining it in any part of the country.

The machine into which the Calcium Carbide is fed and from which the Acetylene is distributed through the building to be lighted, is but little larger than a thirty-gallon milk can, and of the same general form. It is easily and cheaply installed, either in the cellar or in an outbuilding.

The light from burning Acetylene is exquisite, and lighting experts agree that it surpasses all other known illuminants. It does not taint the air nor strain the eyes, and is not objectionable in any respect. Every up-to-date rural residence should be equipped with Acetylene light.

In Sensible Switzerland.

Whenever the temperature reaches a certain point in Switzerland the schools are dismissed. This is on the theory that after a certain degree of suffering has been reached by both teachers and pupils, the one cannot impart nor absorb instruction that would be of any value, and so the time spent in attempting it is wasted.

"Green Goods" King.

James McNally, once noted as "the king of green goods men," is serving as a waiter in a Coney Island hotel. Fifteen years ago he was worth $500,000. Now he has reverted to his original estate, for he began life as waiter in a cheap restaurant.

ARTIFICIAL SUNLIGHT

ACETYLENE GAS

PILOT Automatic Generators can be installed at small cost in any home, large or small, anywhere. Acetylene Gas is cheaper than kerosene, brighter than electricity, safer than either.

Ful particulars FREE for the asking.

Acetylene Apparatus Mfg. Co.,
157 Michigan Ave., ∴ Chicago

Pollock-Stephens Institute.
Birmingham, Ala.
Select Day and Boarding School for Girls.
Opens Sept. 27th.
Catalogue on application. Address
Madame Catharine Deschamps Elford, Principal.

Mothers Are Helped

THEIR HEALTH RESTORED

Happiness of Thousands of Homes Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.

A devoted mother seems to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells her to guard her health, and before she realizes it some derangement of the female organs has manifested itself, and nervousness and irritability take the place of happiness and amiability.

Mrs. Ph. Hoffman

Tired, nervous and irritable, the mother is unfit to care for her children, and her condition ruins the child's disposition and reacts upon herself.

The mother should not be blamed, as she no doubt is suffering with backache, headache, bearing-down pains or displacement, making life a burden.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for this condition. It strengthens the female organs and permanently cures all displacements and irregularities.

Such testimony as the following should convince women of its value:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I suffered for eight years with ovarian troubles. I was nervous, tired and irritable, and it did not seem as though I could stand it any longer, as I had five children to care for. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and it has entirely cured me. I cannot thank you enough for your letter of advice and for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.—Mrs. Ph. Hoffman, 100 Himrod Street, Brooklyn, N. Y."

Mrs. Pinkham advises sick women free. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines, Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES
GILBERT'S
GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Gilbert's Gravel Weed Compound, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

WANTED—Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who were drafted in Kentucky, (3) of mothers of soldiers who have been denied pension on account of their remarriage, (4) of men who served in the Federal army, or (5) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased.
NATHAN BICKFORD, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS. FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. BLELOCK MFG. CO., 913 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

MONEY $$$ Write to E. E. Behr, La Crosse, Wis.

THE MAN BEHIND THE SAW

Has easy work if it's an Atkins. The keen, clean cutting edge and perfect taper of the blade make it run easily without buckling. No "humping" to do with the Perfection Handle.

But there are other men behind the Atkins Saw. The originator of SILVER STEEL, the finest crucible steel made, was a good deal of a man. The discoverer of the Atkins secret tempering process was likewise a man of brains and genius.

And there are high-class workmen behind this saw, masters of their craft, whose skill and pride of workmanship have helped to make the Atkins Trade Mark an assurance of quality as reliable as the Government assay stamp.

We make all types and sizes of Saws, but only one grade—the best.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World.
Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana.
BRANCHES: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto (Canada).
Accept no Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand
SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC
FOR WOMEN
troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.
Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all
TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES
For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.
Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.
The R. Paxton Company Boston, Mass.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES
W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
ALL STYLES
SOLE AGENTS FOR W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES
Established July 6, 1876.

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

CRAB ORCHARD WATER
TRADE MARK.
IS A CERTAIN CURE FOR Dyspepsia
Sick Headache
Constipation...
Stimulates the Liver, cures Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Irregularities of the Bowels.
A NATURAL product, prepared by concentration; a genuine natural water.
Crab Orchard Water Co.,
Louisville, Ky.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

IF IT'S CHILLS YOU HAVE, IT'S OXIDINE YOU NEED

It is sold under ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE, and if you are not cured your druggist will refund your money. Made also in Tasteless Form. :::: sold by all druggists for 50 cents per Bottle.

PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.
Myer, Dallas, Tex. and Memphis, Tenn.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed
To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICE

Anticipating the wants of the good people of [illegible] ton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising [illegible] latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention [illegible] line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broad-cloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes.

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, [illegible] at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coff .

W. I MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA

I SELL

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.

Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companies.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High [illegible] Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48 00 to $6 .00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Caps and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,
Singer Office, CLANTON.

BARGAINS

FOR YOU.

Between the 1?th of September and the 25th of December, I will have

BARGAIN DAYS

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays

OF EACH WEEK, AND ON

THESE DAYS ONLY

will give a discount of 20 per cent off of my regular prices on all Dry Goods, Shoes, and Clothing. My goods are priced as low as any merchant can afford to sell, but I have bought very large quantities of goods as I had to buy in large lots in order to secure the lowest prices and as it is against my business principles to carry any goods over from one season to another, I am offering these bargain days in order to reduce my stock. This 20 per cent discount will reduce the price of 6 cent Prints to less than 5 cents, and Rescue Plaids from 7 cents to about 5 1-2 cents, Shoes worth $1.50 and $1.25 to $1.20 and $1.00 respectively, and everything else proportionately.

Think what this will save you and call here on these days for all your goods. No goods can be charged to any one at these prices as there is positively no profit on them whatever.

I also buy cotton and pay Montgomery prices less the shipping and selling expenses for same, and weights guaranteed absolutely correct.

I also buy Wool and all other country produce, paying the highest market price obtainable, and loan money on cotton at a reasonable rate of interest.

Call to see me when in need of anything either for cash or on time.

C. A. PATTILLO

BILLINGSLEY, ALA.

NEW STORE

Now Open Ready For Business

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers. Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

Give us a chance at your Cotton, Wool and everything you have to sell.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats
Pattern Hats
Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS. 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - ALA.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr. Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we have clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit them and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especially low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of Suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants, and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a good many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen. Cashmere. Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth ?5 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No. 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

Clothiers To The Whole Family

THE BARGAIN STORE

Clanton, Ala.

Had to Wait Events.

Alice—Ethel says she really doesn't know whether he will propose or not. Jack—Just like a novel, isn't it? Alice—Yes. But in a novel you could turn to the last chapter and find out.

Life.

A colored philosopher is reported to have said, "Life, my breddern, am mos'ly made up of prayin' for rain and then wishin' it would cl'ar off."

Hard to Get.

The Doctor—Queer saying that, about truth lying at the bottom of a well. The Lawyer—You wouldn't think so if you knew the amount of pumping we lawyers sometimes have to do to get at it.

More Than Engaged.

"I'd like to see your mistress. Is she engaged?"

"Why, sir, she's married; been married for twenty years!"

DO YOU HAVE BACKACHE

Shortness of Breath, Loss of Appetite, Fever, Sleeplessness, Vertigo, Constipation, Sallow Complexion, Sour Stomach, High Colored Urine, Yellowish Eyeballs, Coated Tongue, Depression, Headache, Nervousness, Swelling of Hands or Feet, Puffs under the Eyes?

Any one or all of these symptoms occurring frequently and persistently is a sure sign of

Liver, Kidney or Bladder Trouble

Then there is just one wise and sensible thing to do—go right away to your druggist and buy a bottle of the greatest Liver, Kidney and Bladder cure that the world has ever known, and that is

URACURA

It will cure you beyond the shadow of a doubt. A great Nervine Tonic, Blood Alterative, Liver Regulator and Kidney and Bladder cure. It restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the blood, relieves biliousness and constipation, and produces a healthy appetite and sound digestion. If you would be well and happy

Buy A Bottle To-day—Price 50c

Dr. Granger Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

TONIC
URACURA
BLOOD ALTERATIVE LIVER REGULATOR KIDNEY AND BLADDER CURE

NOTICE.

All the male members of New Prospect and Fairview Churches are requested to meet at the arbor near the residence of A. C. Mims, Sept 30th at 3 p.m., for the purpose of attending to important matters pertaining to Church matters. Our pastor, Bro. J. F. Eckford, is also requested to be present, if so he can, and any others that are interested in a good cause and the upbuilding of Christ's Kingdom. A MEMBER

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow Jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured three of us." For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Position GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day. GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS and COLDS — Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.

Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

God's Wrath is Close at Hand.

Lesson No. 15. Evening of same day. And God said "The heading shall be God's wrath is close at hand," and said this matter must be put in the Banner six months without ceasing. He said I think the Editor is a Christian man, and said if anybody wants a message direct from God, apply to NEWTON COOPER Verbena, Ala., R. F. D. No. 2.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.

Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.

PARTIAL PROG

A partial program of County Baptist Associ
will meet with the Pl
Baptist church, Maplesvil
5 and 6, 1905

Welcome address,
in behalf of the town by Crumpton, at 7 p m. A on the Holy Land by the Crumpton.

J. S. PRENTICE, Mo
Prof. K. N DRAPER, Re

Chamberlain's Cough Reme Nature.

Medicines that aid natu ways most effectual. Cha Cough Remedy acts on this p allays the cough, relieves th aids expectoration, opens th tions, and aids nature in the system to a healthy
Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., C
A. Horn, Thorsby.

NOTICE.

Applications have been
the Board of Education of county for the following
school districts:

(1) To form a new district
tricts Nos. 39 and 40 as follows
ning on east boundary line of 22, R 14 east, and ½ mile from thence west ¾ mile; thence
mile to south boundary line of 16; thence west ¼ mile to said Sec 16; thence south 1½ half mile stake on west bound of Sec 28, T 22, R 14 east; the "Hurricane Branch" to its thence down Goose Pond
railroad; thence northwester
line of said railroad to point
ning.

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' farm is now in no district, be added
trict No 40. Also a certain now in district No. 43, (see added to district No. 40, as Beginning at sw corner Sec 11, T
14; thence ½ mile east; thence Yellowleaf creek; thence up sa
to district No. 40, Lomax.

(3) To begin 1-4 mile
corner. Sec. 2. Tp. 20. R 14
south ¾ mile; thence east 14 west boundary line of District N

(4) To make the following
district No. 47, Mineral Spring
ginning at se corner of Sec 2, T
14; thence south to Yellowlea thence up said creek to the Turkey creek; thence up sa creek to south boundary line of T 23, R 14 east; thence east
line to the southwest corner of
east.

(5) To divide district No.
lows: Dividing line to begin east of the southwest corner of 20, R 16; thence north to Chesta new district to be known as

The above applications will upon by the Board of Education
Court House in Clanton, on 7th
October, 1905.

Done by order of Board in
Aug. 12, 1905. G. L. S
Sec. Board of Edu

Abscess.

Abscesses, with few ex are indicative of Constipa
debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland,
writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I
say a word of praise for Snow Liniment. I stepped which caused the cords in to contract and an abscess my knee, and the doctor
that I would have a stiff leg day I went to J. F. Lord a dr
(who is now in Denver, Colo)
recommended a bottle of Sno ment; I got a 50c size, and my leg. It is the best lini the world. Sold by Upchurch
Co.

Commissioners' Sale

Under and by virtue of the manda mission issued out of the Probate C ton county, Alabama, directed to Davis, as Commissioner, will procee partition and division among Mary horn Clifford A. Gullahorn and oth interest, the following described la Chilton county, Alabama, to-wit:
Sw ¼, W ½ of Ne ¼, E ½ of Nw of Nw ¼, Sec 35, Tp 22, R 13, for the Court House Door, in Clanton, Ala
FRIDAY, the 6th day of OCTOBER
This the 20th day of September,
CLYDE DAVIS, Com

$2 25 By special arrang
we are enabled to offer the bama Baptist ($2 00 and the
ner ($1.00) both papers
for $2.25

Send a sample copy of The ner to your friends.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-one hundred people who have can remember when it was tion. It is a scientific fact that heart disease, not organic, are traceable to, but are the direct gestion. All food taken into the which fails of perfect digestion swells the stomach, puffing it up heart. This interferes with the the heart, and in the course of delicate but vital organ become

Mr. D. Kauble, of Nevada, O., says trouble and was in a bad state as I with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure months and it cured me.

Kodol Digests What You and relieves the stomach of all strain and the heart of all pr Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ size, which sells for 50c.
Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO.

For sale by Upchurch

T

XIII

Twelve

AN ON THE CORNER

e Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

a jovial party from Coosa at Clanton last Thursday solicit the aid of Judge to make the course of run smooth. There was Miss Mary Lee Wilbanks
most charming and de-
of Coosa's fair daughters, gallant groom, James Martin, wishing to be made dge Reynolds was other-gaged, but Clerk Henry
, who rejoices to make re happy, soon joined the ple from Equality in dage. Miss Annie Nolen,
a peach, was bridemaid,
Ben Wilbanks, of Montand Mr. Joe McCarley, of
, completed the party.
was pretty and vivacious,
manly and handsome,
entire party was rejoicing glamor of love's young
I can wish the happy thing better than that the r of their lives may be a their wedding day.

Stanfeln, one of Clanton's young men, was married, at Rushton, to Miss Emma , Judge Reynolds per-the ceremeny. Good luck wishes to them.

y was a busy day with Court. Several trivial disposed of, and James was charged with attempt Mountain Creek. There
mber of witnesses examin-after hearing the evidence was acquitted. A gypsy $60 and costs for horse without license. He paid, out license also.

Morgan returned from Texas, Sunday, with Claud having had some exciting es with quarantine officers phis, Tenn. Tuesday, he Branch over to Maplesville preliminary trial was held ustice of the Peace B. W. and Branch was charged
oting Ralph Callaway.
put under $500 bond to an-
the grand jury and made released.

. A. Collier returned from on Sunday. Mrs. Collier, baby, will return later.

be just as skeptical and as you please. Kodol will you eat whether you eat
You can put your food in a a little Kodol Dyspepsia it and it will digest it the will in your stomach. It but cure Indigestion and
. It is curing hundreds nds—Some had faith and
n't. Sold by Upchurch

Card of Thanks.

Banner: We desire the Banner, to express our appreciation of the many extended us, and the expressed by our generds and neighbors during
of our little daughter,

T. E. TYUS.
E. L. TYUS.

of Tragic Meaning

lines from J. H. Simmons, , Ia. Think what might d from his terrible cough not taken the medicine h he writes: "I had a gh that disturbed my
. I tried everything,
I would relieve it, until I King's New Discovery for , Coughs and Colds, pletely cured me." In[illegible]
throat and [illegible] [illegible] At Drug co. [illegible] 50c
Trial bottle free.

COR

TO CU
Take La Tablets.
money if Grove's s
25 c.

Editor space in words in letter. M have not yet, but if the Forit southwest and we w get a sco their nine
They said
Blue Dart to let us coming.

T

Then s bade Him
ner or a s nor thy br man nor they also compense when thou poor, the blind, and they can Should n us in getti
In large almost su disabled p unfortuna prepare t
the benef should be Let all spread the invitation partake, they choo
like best,
going thr
the most with them
table in a excludes a for bowe they usua spect and when oth invitation course th present th
but it can attract from duty them to should no tion but company love the t loaves and job to find

We hav meetings that every fully with feel the work at th days. Th may the them all:
in grace
the truth

Misses Lovelady
with us,
them; co

Rev. W
and Mr. were with

Our cot must pick

Our U session Sa were add Gipson an boys, and work. W and its ma

How to

First, s warm wat it down a out drawi berlain's rubbing v
at each ap should be tect it fro liniment f ness and r unequaled Drug co.,
by.

PARTIAL PROGRA

A partial program of Co... Baptist Association will meet with the Pilgrim's Baptist church, Maplesville, 5 and 6, 1905

Welcome address, to be d in behalf of the town by Hon. Crumpton, at 7 p.m. Also on the Holy Land by the Hon. Crumpton.

J. S. Prentice, Mode
Prof K. N Draper, Rec.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Nature.

Medicines that aid nature ways most effectual. Chambe Cough Remedy acts on this pla allays the cough, relieves the aids expectoration, opens the tions, and aids nature in res the system to a healthy co Sold by Upchurch Drug co., Cl A. Horn, Thorsby.

NOTICE.

Applications have been receiv the Board of Education of C county for the following chang school districts.

(1) To form a new district fr tricts Nos 39 and 40 as follows: ning on east boundary line of Sec 22, R 14 east and ¼ mile from se thence west ¾ mile; thence mile to south boundary line of 16, thence west ½ mile to sw said Sec 16; thence south 1½ half mile stake on west bound of Sec 28, T 22, R 14 east; thence "Hurricane Branch" to its thence down Goose Pond Swa railroad; thence northwesterly line of said railroad to point of ning.

(2) That Mr. N. Watts' farm, is now in no district, be added to trict No. 40. Also a certain terr now in district No. 43, Cane Cr added to district No. 40, as fol Beginning at sw corner Sec 11, T 14; thence ½ mile east; thence nor Yellowleaf creek; thence up said to district No. 40, Lomax.

(3) To begin 1-4 mile west of corner, Sec. 2. Tp. 20. R 14; th south ¼ mile; thence east 1-4 mi west boundary line of District No.

(4) To make the following cha district No. 47, Mineral Springs: ginning at se corner of Sec 25, T 14; thence south to Yellowleaf c thence up said creek to the mo Turkey creek; thence up said T creek to south boundary line of S T 21, R 14 east; thence east along line to the southwest corner of east.

(5) To divide district No. 16 lowa: Dividing line to begin 1-4 east of the southwest corner of Sec 20, R 16; thence north to Chestnut new district to be known as Canaa

The above applications will be p upon by the Board of Education Court House in Clanton, on 7th d October, 1905.

Done by order of Board in Aug. 14, 1905. G. L. Sra
Sec. Board of Educat

Abscess.

Abscesses, with few excep are indicative of Constipation debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I wa say a word of praise for Balla Snow Liniment. I stepped on a which caused the cords in my to contract and an abscess to ri my knee, and the doctor told that I would have a stiff leg, day I went to J. F. Lord a drug (who is now in Denver, Colo.) recommended a bottle of Snow L ment; I got a 50c size, and it my leg. It is the best liniment the world. Sold by Upchurch D Co.

Commissioners' Sale.

Under and by virtue of the mandate of mission issued out of the Probate Court of ton county, Alabama, directed to me, L. Davis as Commissioner, will proceed to partition and division among Mary A. horn Clifford A Gullahorn and other par interest, the following described lands Chilton county, Alabama, to-wit:

Sw ¼, W ½ of Ne ¼, E ½ of Nw ¼ and of Nw ¼, Sec 35, Tp 22, R 15, for cash, in the Court House Door, in Clanton, Ala FRIDAY, the 6th day of OCTOBER,

This the 20th day of September,
CLYDE DAVIS, Comm

$2.25 special arrange we are enabled to offer the A bama Baptist ($2 00 and the ner ($1.00) both papers one for $2.25

Send a sample copy of The B ner to your friends.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of one hundred people who have heart can remember when it was simple tion. It is a scientific fact that all heart disease, not organic, are traceable to, but are the direct result of gestion. All food taken into the which fails of perfect digestion fer swells the stomach, puffing it up ag heart. This interferes with the the heart, and in the course of delicate but vital organ become

Mr. D. Kauble, of Nevada, O., says: I ha trouble and was in a bad state as I had with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for months and it cured me.

Kodol Digests What You E

and relieves the stomach of all strain and the heart of all pre Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ size, which sells for 50c.

Prepared by E. O. DeWITT & CO.

For sale by Upchurch

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

XIII | Twelve Pages | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1905 | Pages 1 to 8 | No 51

AN ON THE CORNER

Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

jovial party from Coosa Clanton last Thursday solicit the aid of Judge to make the course of run smooth. There was Miss Mary Lee Wilbanks most charming and de- of Coosa's fair daughters, gallant groom, James Ma- tin, wishing to be made Judge Reynolds was other. gaged, but Clerk Henry who rejoices to make happy, soon joined the people from Equality ie Judge. Miss Annie Nolen, a peach, was bridemaid, Ben Wilbanks, of Montand Mr. Joe McCarley, of completed the party. was pretty and vivacious, manly 'and handsome, entire party was rejoicing glamor of love's young I can wish the happy nothing better than that the of their lives may be a their wedding day.

Stauffeln, one of Clanton's young men, was married, at Rushton, to Miss Emma d. Judge Reynolds per- the ceremeny. Good luck wishes to them.

y was a busy day with Court. Several trivial disposed of, and James was charged with attempt at Mountain Creek. There number of witnesses examinafter hearing the evidence was acquitted. A gypsy $60 and costs for horse without license. He paid, out license also.

Morgan returned from Texas, Sunday, with Claud having had some exciting with quarantine officers phis, Tenn. Tuesday, he Branch over to Maplesville preliminary trial was held Justice of the Peace B. W. and Branch was charged shooting Ralph Callaway. put under $500 bond to anthe grand ?ury and made released.

W. A Collier returned from Sunday. Mrs. Collier, baby, will return later.

be just as skeptical and as you please. Kodol will you eat whether you eat You can put your food in a a little Kodol Dyspepsia and it will digest it the will in your stomach. It but cure Indigestion and It is curing hundreds —Some had faith and Sold by Upchurch

Card of Thanks.

Banner: We desire the Banner, to express our appreciation of the many extended us, and the expressed by our generand neighbors during of our little daughter,

T. E. Tyus.
E. L. Tyus.

of Tragic Meaning

lines from J. H. Simmons, la. Think what might ted from his terrible cough not taken the medicine he writes: "I had a cough that disturbed my I tried everything, would relieve it, until I King's New Discovery for Coughs and Colds, completely cured me." Inlieves an [illegible] ently throat an [illegible] ses; grip and [illegible] At Drug co., [illegible] 50c Trial bottle free.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 c.

Verbena.

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your paper for a few words in answer to Mr. Big Ike's letter. Mr. Big Ike, the Blue Stars have not played the Blue Darters yet, but if they will come down to the Foritch old field, nine miles southwest of Clanton, let us know and we will play them if we don't get a score. Tell them to bring their nine, don't bring anyone else They said they wanted to play the Blue Darters one time, so tell them to let us know when they are coming.

Blue Darters.

The Church Dinner

Then said He also to Him that bade Him when thou makest a dinner or a supper call not thy friends nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsman nor thy rich neighbor, lest they also bid thee again and a recompense be made thee. But when thou makest a feast call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind, and thou shalt be blessed for they cannot recompense thee. Should not this same spirit guide us in getting up the church dinner? In large congregations there are almost sure to be some poor, old disabled people or those who are so unfortunate as to have no one to prepare them a nice dinner, and for the benefit of such ones the dinner should be conducted in this way: Let all that wish to entertain spread their provisions and a public invitation be given all to come and partake, then all can go where they choose and eat such as they like best, but when there are some going through the crowd inviting the most distinguished ones to dine with them and march them to the table in a most public manner, this excludes all others from their table, for however humble one may be they usually have a little self-respect and do not wish to intrude when others have had a special invitation and they have not. Of course there are generally some present that one wishes to invite, but it can be done quietly and not attract attention. Those who, from duty or inclination, cause them to attend such places often should not wait for a special invitation but should mingle with the company and go with them, if they love the top seats or to follow the loaves and fishes it is quite an easy job to find them.

An Observer.

Macedonia.

We have just finished a series of meetings at this place and glad that everybody was blessed bountifully with the spirit of God. We feel the Lord has done a great work at this place for the last few days. There were 22 baptised, and may the Lord of heaven be with them all: we hope they will grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth.

Misses Beulah Nichols and Della Lovelady spent the past week with us; we were glad to have them; come again.

Rev. W. H. Connell of Stanton and Mr. H. Martin of Randolph were with us Sunday.

Our cotton patch is white, so we must pick it out.

Our Union met in its regular session Saturday and two members were added, they were H. W. Gipson and W. Y. Nix. Come on, boys, and let us make it a good work. With success to the Banner and its many readers.

The Banner Boy

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closley as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily. rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequaled. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

Billingsley.

Rev. Williams filled his regular appointment at the M. E. church. Sunday. Our Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely.

Mrs. Houlditch and children have returned home after a pleasant visit to relatives and friends at Montevallo.

We are glad to know that Mrs. Wright is able to return home after a long stay at her father's, Mr. Sim Ramsey.

Messrs. E. R. Horne and A. M. Roper took a long wheel ride Sunday evening.

Mr. J. E. Felton paid a flying visit to his home Sunday.

Mr. W. W. Carter went to the capital Sunday.

Miss Lena Williams of Mulberry is visiting friends at Billingsley.

The farmers are bringing in a great deal of cotton.

Mr. C. A. Pattillo went off on business Monday.

Two Little S. S. Girls.

Union.

Mrs Alice Honeycutt has been on the sick list for some time, but we are glad to note she is improving.

Quite a number of our young people attended singing at Mineral Springs Sunday evening and reports a nice time.

Cotton picking is all the go with a short crop.

Mr. H. Sorrell will leave for Birmingham on the 3d to attend medical college, his second term.

Success to the Banner.

Rain Bow.

CHILTON COTTON ASSOCIATION.

The Chilton County branch of the Southern Cotton Association will meet at the court house on Saturday, October 7th. 1905, and we earnestly solicit the attendance of all persons interested in cotton, whether they are members of the Association or not.

J. N. Dennis, Sec.

JOINT MEETING.

The Chilton Farmers' Alliance and the Farmers' Union of Chilton county will meet with Pleasant Grove Alliance and Union on Oct. 18 and 19, five miles west of Jemison. Send delegates with credentials.

J. W. Sorrell, Sec.

New Cure For Cancer.

All surface cancers are now known to be curable, by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Jas. Walters, of Duffield, Va., writes: "I had a cancer on my lip for years, that seemed incurable, till Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it, and now it is perfectly well." Guaranteed cure for cuts and burns. 25c at Upchurch drug store.

If some men were to lose their reputation, they would be lucky.

Pleasant Grove.

That the death angel visits those in the bloom of youth as well as the old was forcibly exemplified in the person of Miss Bettie, the beloved and obedient daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gibson, who departed this life the 27th ult. in the youth of her life. She was about 18 years of age and was beloved by all her schoolmates and companions. It was touching to see them pay her their last tribute of respect by placing beautiful wreaths of flowers and evergreen upon her casket and lastly upon her grave. We should bow submissively and not question the will of God who doeth all things well. After an illness of about four weeks her sweet life she laid aside and took up her abode with the angelic hosts in the paradise of God by the beautiful tree of life where death never comes and pains and partings are unknown. A father, mother, brother and three sisters survive her. Our tenderest sympathy goes with them who mourn her loss. All that loving hearts and willing hands and skilled physicians could do availed not to keep her here. The entire community extends deepest sympathy to the bereaved ones.

About the beginning of her illness she professed a hope in Christ and united with the church at this place and was baptised, which banishes all doubts as to her peace and happiness in eternity. We observe that,

Poor man is unfortunate, born full of trouble,
And is as the grass of the field.
His life like a vapor, will soon go forever,
His spirit he'll soon have to yield.

Then we imagine we hear our loved one singing the beautiful chorus,

I will be waiting, waiting up there.
I will be waiting, waiting up there.
With harps of pure gold we'll sing of His love
While waiting for you in heaven above.

Then comes to mind the beautiful words,

O what a shout when we all get there
Safe in the glory land,

Jas. F.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Any information as to the whereabouts of my grandson, Shelton Bryant, age 14 years, who left my home near Bozeman on Sunday the 24th September, 1905, in company of John Stanton, will be thankfully received and rewarded by me. All the parties are colored.

Tobe Bryant.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

WANTED.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

WRITE Stanley's Business College, Macon, Ga., at once for catalogue. This School can not supply its demand for its graduates.

FOR SALE—Two Boar Pigs, born May 31, 1905. Berkshire, crossed with Poland China. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby. Ala.

WANTED—Someone to get out stumps. Will let the job by the stump or by the job. Come and figure on it. If you have a stump puller nine-tenths of them could be pulled with ease. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—Fresh Milch Cows, the same not to give less than three gallons of milk per day. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—to exchange a good 2¾ wagon for a 2½ wagon, as mine is too heavy for my team. I will pay the difference if any is deserving. My wagon is a Mitchell & Lewis and is in good running order. Address, R. E. Roper, Clanton, Ala., Route 3.

LOST—from my home last Friday night, a deep red hound dog, about five years old, with dew claws on all feet. Anyone finding him and letting me know I will satisfy them for their trouble. John S. Dennis, Clanton, Ala., Route 5.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggist refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure any case, no matter of how long standing, 6 to 14 days. First application gives ease and rest. 50c. If your druggist hasn't it send 50c in stamps and it will be forwarded post paid by Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION,
Thorsby, Ala.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

BETTER GET READY FOR THE

ALABAMA STATE FAIR

AT BIRMINGHAM

October 23-November 2--10 Days

GREATEST FAIR IN THE SOUTH

CATALOGUES NOW READY

Liberal premiums for all the products of Farm, Garden, Orchard and Household. Show your Live Stock and Poultry. Don't be backward—enter something.

Write for the new catalogue now.

EUGENE FIES, President. R. M. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicts the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

THE BANNER.

Published Weekly

CLANTON, ALA.

The Paterson, N. J., landlady who was badly scalded by the explosion of a huckleberry pie revealed a new danger in boarding house pastry, already sufficiently menacing, observes the Boston Transcript.

An old farmer in Nemaha County, relates the Kansas City Journal, remarks that a home-grown, hand-spanked, barefooted, and hard-fisted country boy makes a much better fighter in the battles of life than does the pampered, high-collared, creased-trousered youth of our towns and cities, whose clothes have always been dusted with a whisk broom instead of a shingle.

The New York World gives ten reason—and very plausible reasons—why Roosevelt will be re-elected to another term in the Presidency. But there are two lions in the way, points out, the Philadelphia Record. (1) Mr. Roosevelt has said he will not have another term. (2) He could not hope to keep on the up grade. He has reached the summit. A second term would be a stepping down to lower levels.

The farmer has the rural free delivery or mails—although this was thought to be impossible a few years ago. Shall he not have a parcels post? Each year the good-roads movement, originating at the cities, is extending itself further into the real country. Trolley lines are extending countryward; soon they will come actually to serve the farmer's needs. The telephone, as a separate rural enterprise, is extending itself. Extensional educational enterprises are reaching further and further into the open farming districts. Co-operation and organization movements are at the same time extending and concreting themselves, suggests the Scientific American.

Conscience in many respectable people consist in denouncing the sins of other people. This may sound cynical, but it is meant to a bald statement of facts. What respectable citizen likes to call himself a rascal? He never bribes. He is held up by labor organizations, city councils and state legislatures. He does not graft. He does not expect to apply the Sermon on the Mount to business. He contributes to no corporation fund. He only helps to save his country with his money. Other men may buy water stock. He simply capitalizes his company on the basis of its earning capacity. There are bribers and corruptionists and stock gamblers. He laments the fact and writes essays on the moral of the country in which such men live. And he is worse than the men he condemns, concludes the World today. He is a hypocrite.

The magnificent stone foundation which was laid for a capitol at Olympia a dozen years ago, is now being used as a cowshed, states the Portland Oregonian. Any visitor who has viewed the old foundation and the building now used as a state capitol can hardly fail to be impressed with the belief that the cows are being shelterd in the wrong building.

Gradually we are working toward a better understanding. Not yet can we abandon navies and abolish standing armies. It is feared that the appeal to arms has not been made for the last time. Nations may agree to arbitrate matters that do not affect their honor, but of honor all countries are jealous. But the horror of war is wrong, and The Hague has been the centre of discussions and agreements which have decreased the dangers of open combat. This American idea, this latest plan of the President to bring about a better understanding among nations, is of the utmost importance. And to think that the most influential man in the world for peace is one who has been accused of carrying a big stick, reflects the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Charged With Discriminations.

Washington, D. C.—The railroad commission has filed with the interstate commerce commission a complaint against the Louisville and Nashville and others, alleging discrimination in freight rates against Owensboro and Henderson, Ky., in favor of Anderson, Ind., and contiguous territory. It is alleged by the Kentucky commission that a combine has been effected by the defendant roads with what is known as "trunk line and central freight associations" in order to carry on the discriminations.

Progress at Winchester.

Winchester, Tenn.—The M. E. church has purchased a $2,000 pipe organ. Dr. Knox has begun building the new postoffice, and two other handsome store buildings are to be commenced soon. Several beautiful homes are in process of construction.

Stockholm has the largest death rate from the use of alcohol of any city in the world. The number of deaths from this cause is 90 in 1,000.

ALABAMA STATE EVENTS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Coal Company Incorporated.

Russellville, Ala.—The Alabama-Louisiana Coal Company was recently incorporated here with a capital stock of $200,000. They have purchased 3,320 acres of coal land in Franklin county, about twelve miles south of Russellville. This will be be fully developed, and the initial output will be at least 400 tons daily. W. S. Douglass, of this place, will be superintendent and in charge of the construction.

Putting Mines in Order.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Sumter and Johns mines are being placed in order. Some time ago the former mine caught fire and the blaze raged for months. It is now out, but the mine is filled with water, as is the Johns mine. Pumps are being used for the purpose of getting out the water, and the work will be completed in a few days or so, when the mines will again be operated.

Tragedy Near Brewton.

Brewton, Ala.—A tragedy occurred about four miles west of Brewton Friday, in which J. F. Steele lost his life and J. W. Jernigan sustained serious cuts in his left arm and hand. Jernigan was Steele's stepson, and from the best information obtainable it seems that bad blood had existed between them for some time. It appears that Steele went to Jernigan's field, where he was at work, and waited for him to reach the end of a row, when he (Steele) rushed at him with an open knife, striking at him. Jernigan received the blow on his left arm. When Steele struck at him the second time he caught the blade of the knife in his hand, receiving a bad cut and severing an artery. Jernigan then knocked Steele down and at the same time drew his knife, cutting Steele in the neck one or more times, the wounds producing death in a short time. Jernigan came to town for medical attention and reported the tragedy, saying that he did not know at that time how badly Steele was hurt, as he left him lying in the field.

Can Enter Church.

Huntsville, Ala.—Another interesting case in connection with the Christian church matter has been settled by the issuing of a decree by Chancellor William H. Simpson, of the chancery court, an injunction restraining Elders Daniel Sommer, W. F. Fulghum and E. I. Cambron and Messrs. J. R. Jones and Robins Jones from entering the Christian church of this city. The injunction had been in effect nearly two years, and was granted by Judge Paul Speake, of the circuit court, after trouble in the church had broken out afresh.

Destroyed by Fire.

Selma, Ala.—The salughter house of Ed R. Jones, on the Burnsville, road, about one mile east of the city, was destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to have originated from sparks from the tallow furnace, which was being operated when the fire was discovered. The building and its contents, consisting of meats, hides and tallow, were destroyed, and the loss is estimated at about $1,200, which is covered by insurance. There were stored in the house many hides, which were estimated to be worth at least $600. Many of these hides, it is thought, will be found good when thoy are taken out.

Thomas E. Berry Kills Himself.

Florence, Ala.—Thomas E. Berry killed himself here by shooting himself through the head with a 38-calibre pistol while in a state of mental abberation, caused by ill health. He sent his little son for the weapon on the pretext of cleaning it to sell, but his daughter hid it in a dresser drawer in an adjoining room. While the family was at breakfast he found it, and lying on the bed fired the fatal shot. He was 50 years old and leaves a widow and six children. He was a prominent Mason, a Knight of Pythias and Woodman of the World.

Stole a Bible.

Mobile, Ala.—Much indignation is expressed by parishioners of St. Patrick's church just now. Only a few nights ago vandals visited the church on two successive nights and stole therefrom valuable altar cloth, pictures, a Bible and statues. Now it is discovered that the school of the parish, located just one door away, has been entered and valuable stolen from that building. There is not as yet a single clue as to the guilty person or persons, but the parishioners declare they will prosecute to the bitter end if the right one or ones land in jeopardy.

Budglars at Trussville Stores.

Trussville, Ala.—Unknown persons entered the store of Glenn Brothers here, blew open the safe and secured about $500 in cash, in addition to some merchandise. The store of Newman & Terry was also entered and an unsuccessful effort was made to blow the safe. Some merchandise was secured from the latter store. The robbers escaped.

Failed to Sign Indictments.

Selma, Ala.—Saturday it was discovered that practically the last week's work of the grand jury was for naught. After the final report had been made and the jury discharged it was discovered that fifty-six true bills, the entire work of last week, were illegal, the foreman having, through an oversight, failed to sign them before the grand jury was discharged. A number of the cases were brought up in court, and some, by agreement between counsel, were allowed to stand, as if the indictments had been signed. Wherever there was a contest the solicitor moved to quash the indictment and asked for a bond to require the parties to appear at the next session of the grand jury, which will be in January. Of course it will be an easy matter at the next session of the grand jury to find the bills over again, but the oversight has caused no little worry and chagrin to the hard-worked solicitor and foreman of the grand jury, both of whom have been exceedingly faithful in endeavoring to ferret out crime.

Sheffield Uses Whip on Labor Agents.

Sheffield, Ala.—Some of the so-called "labor agents" were caught here last week, arrested, jailed and then chastised with raw-hide whips, and they instantly took their departure. They came to this city from Bessemer for the alleged purpose of enticing laborers from their work here. The mayor has offered a reward for the arrest of any "labor agent" caught here. Any agent caught here again will very likely be more severely dealt with. The officers of the law are on the alert.

Fired Into Officers.

Selma, Ala.—Watchman William Vaughan, of the Southern Railway's North Selma yard, was made the target for would-be car robbers. In company with Mr. Holt, an employe of the road, he was walking up the track, when suddenly from about ten car lengths ahead of him shots blazed forth. About a dozen shots were fired, but only one took effect, that one striking him in the leg and inflicting a painful, though not serious, wound. Not a form could be seen that was pouring the deadly fire into the two men. It is thought, however, that the shots were not intended to kill, but to prevent their further approach until after the robbers had successfully gotten away. Three cars were found broken open. Two of the cars contained rope and hardware, evidently not what the robbers were looking for, but the third car was filled with dry goods and miscellaneous freight. They had not had time to get anything out of the latter car when the watchman came along. The robbery was reported to police headquarters, and Captain Miller and Officer Blaton went out to the scene, but could get no clue to the robbers.

A Revenue Raid.

Huntsville, Ala.—Deputy Collectors Root and Anderson and Deputy Marshal H. C. Arnold made a raid near Grenada, in Lawrence county, and captured a fine illicit distilling outfit and a large amount of supplies. The still had a capacity of sixty-five gallons. A run had just been made. Ellis Davis and John Arnold, alleged owners of the still, were captured and taken to Sheffield.

Deputy Marshal Henry Arnold has captured Victor Peek, an alleged moonshiner, who has been sought by revenue men since three years ago. Peek was a passenger on the train from Bear Creek when the deputy marshal chanced to recognize him and placed him under arrest. Peek was part owner of a distillery in Jackson county, and when it was raided he fired on the officers and was shot through the arm. He escaped to Georgia and remained there nearly three years.

Quarantine Against the State.

Birmingham, Ala.—Alabama established a quarantine against the entire state of Mississippi Saturday. The announcement was made by Dr. W. H. Sanders, state health officer, who spent a portion of the day in Birmingham.

Bold Robbery in Selma.

Selma, Ala.—One of the boldest burglaries in the history of Selma was committed at Tepper Bros.' clothing store on Broad street. The store was closed during Saturday owing to the Jewish holiday. When opened at 6 o'clock it was found that the lock had been broken off the rear door and burglars had helped themselves to hats, clothes, shoes and other articles as suited them. Several pairs of shoes were tried on. The curtains on the door were up, and that the burglars were not seen is a wonder.

Merchants Become Bankrupt.

Huntsville, Ala.—J. Asby Selman and A. J. Selman, formerly engaged in the general merchandise business at Albertville, Ala., have filed voluntary petitions in bankruptcy. The liabilities of each petitioner are about $10,000, and neither has any assets. The creditors of the bankrupts are jobbing houses located in the leading cities of the south

Give Themselves Up.

Prattville, Ala.—Walter Slaton and Jack Nelson, who have been wanted for the murder of Lewis Heath, are safely lodged in the county jail. Walter Slaton was brought in by his brother and friends, and Jack Nelson was brought from Alexander City by Deputy Sheriff McCann. Slaton decided to give himself up a few days ago and sent word to the sheriff that he would be in. The circumstances of the killing seem to be that Lewis Heath was due Jack Nelson $15, and Jack with Slaton went to the home of the Heaths to collect the debt. They found Lewis Heath, and it appears all started to hunting squirrels. They had gone only a short distance from the home when it was decided to be too late to go hunting, and Lewis Heath called to a little girl and started her home with his double-barreled shotgun. Slaton, it seems, intercepted the gun, and on returning with it emptied the contents of both barrels in the body of Lewis Heath. The first shot took effect in the lower part of the back, and it appears that on Lewis turning to face his assailant the contents of the other barrel of the gun was fired into his right shoulder.

Roller Cattle Guard Factory.

Florence, Ala.—Luther W. Carden, of Iron City, Tenn., and other prominent business men of Tennessee and Alabama, have organized the Florence Machine and Railroad Supply Company and purchased the Hoxie-Kells machine shops in East Florence for the purpose of manufacturing the Carden smooth surface roller cattle guard. Maj. A. J. McGarry, of Florence, is president of the company; L. W. Carden, the patentee, secretary, and James Garrett, of Lawrenceburg; Forsythe Bros., of Iron City, and George L. Hoxie, of Florence, are large stockhilders. New machinery and equipment for the manufacture of the cattle guard will be installed.

Charges Against Postmaster.

Florence, Ala.—The citizens of Florence are interested in sensational charges brought by John T. Sego, a special mail carrier, against the Florence postmaster, Dr. James T. Pitt. The origin of the trouble was a claim made by Sego for back pay, which he alleges is due him for work done in the postoffice last summer during the absence of Dr. Pitt. Sego laid his claim before the department at Washington and his letter was referred back to Dr. Pitt for his explanation. Dr. Pitt, on receiving the letter, prepared a statement for Sego to sign, which embraced a general denial of the charges made to the department. Sego swore out a warrant against Dr. Pitt, charging that he called him into his house and at the point of a pistol compelled him to sign the paper. Dr. Pitt denies using any violence and claims that he did not touch the pistol.

Charged With Dynamiting.

Birmingham, Ala.—Charles Patterson, Marcus Dockery and H. H. Morgan were arrested at Bessemer charged with dynamiting the house of a negro woman in that city. The woman escaped death because she had suspected that an attempt would be made on her life and had removed her bed to another part of the house. The rooms in which she usually slept was blown to atoms by the explosion. It is said the woman had been repeatedly warned to move from the locality in which she was living.

Alabama R. F. D.

Washington, D. C.—Postmasters appointed: Jefferson, Marengo county, William H. Gregor; Taylor, Houston county, Annie D. Taylor.

Rural free delivery route No. 1 ordered established December 1 at Gwin, Marion county, serving 460 people and 115 houses.

Rural carriers appointed: Baker Hill, route 1, Carnelius West carrier, Andrew West substitute; Fort Payne, route 4, Byron Sloane carrier, Bob Tiner substitute; Waterloo, route 2, Albert V. Humphrey carrier, William H. Nichols substitute.

New Speed Orders.

Birmingham, Ala.—Superintendent Griggs, of the Alabama Great Southern Railway, has issued orders that the speed of freight trains must not exceed twenty-five miles per hour between Whitney and St. Clair and that passenger trains must not run at a higher rate of speed than sixty miles. The road bed between the points mentioned is in excellent shape, and passenger trains have been known to run at a rate of eighty and ninety miles an hour. The order, it is thought, is only temporary.

Kills His Wife and Tries to Suicide.

Anniston, Ala.—Sheriff Woodruff has received a telephone message from Dukes saying that Boss Greene, alias Boss Wood, murdered his wife and attempted to kill himself at Beato. Greene's wounds are not considered fatal. The cause of the tragedy is not known.

Improving Two Plants.

Eufaula, Ala.—The telephone company is greatly improving the service here, and a force of hands is engaged in overhauling the wires and main cables.

The electric light company is also improving its plant and increasing its power. It has been rumored that after January 1 next a day current will be put on and regularly maintained.

MASSACRES COMMON

Even More Than Before the Interference, So Hope is Small.

THE TURKS ARE RESPONSIBLE.

London Tourist Returns and Tells of the Awful Scenes He Witnessed on Every Hand.

London.—W. A. Moore, secretary of the Balkan committee, who has returned from a two months' tour of Macedonia, said:

"The wanton slaughter of Christians in Macedonia continues under the eyes of Europe's representatives. Crossing the Bulgarian frontier the first news to greet me was an unpardonable massacre in the little village of Konopnitza which occurred three days before my arrival. On visiting the village I found the bodies of a man, two women, a girl and three children still unburied and laid out in the Christian church. The woman had been shot, but I saw one child whose head had been crushed probably with the butt of a gun. The wounded had been taken to Egri Palanka, an hour's ride distant, where resides the Austrian representative in charge of the district.

Deal Revenge on Christians.

"The story of the affair is a repetition of the oft-told tales. An insurgent band visited the village and demanded food on departing. The Turkish authorities learned of the visit, dispatched a body of troops which, discovering no insurgents in the place, dealt out their revenge on the Christians. The observation of the European officers seldom deters the Mohammedans from slaying Christians. The Austrian officer in the Koumanova district has charge of 119 villages, where most brutal murders are of daily occurrence, and are not noticed by the authorities. In the Monastir district, the Italian officers sleep with the Turkish army in order to observe its methods of 'suppressing insurgents.' This, however, only prevents special detachments from perpetrating crime.

"The village of Mogla in which an Albanian brigand was assassinated, was punished by the Turkish troops. Nine unarmed peasants were killed and arms were placed beside them in a corn field, in order to deceive the Italian officers who were invited to inspect the 'insurgents,' but the rifles were of the pattern used by the troops in the Monastir district.

No Hope for Macedonians.

"Brigandage continues flagrantly and life and property are less safe before Russia and Austria were given the mandatory power to reform the country two years ago. The gendarmerie officers admit their inability to protect the population and several of them told me that they had so reported to their governments. The Macedonians have no hope left."

Mr. Moore says the country is still swarming with Asiatic troops which have not been removed since the mobilization against Bulgaria in 1903.

James Bryce, M. P., president of the Balkan committee, is now touring Macedonia and observing conditions there preparatory to laying the result of his tour before the British parliament.

In Violent Eruption.

Mazatlan, Mex.—The Santiago volcano, in Nicaragua, is in violent reuption and is throwing water and hot rocks over a considerable area. Passengers arriving here on the Kosmos liner from the south report that the hot water fell on the vessel at several locations off the coast of Nicaragua. At Corinto it was stated that millions of coffee trees on plantations adjacent to the volcano had been destroyed by boiling water falling upon them. The Santiago volcano has not been violently active for several years.

Wreck on Rock Island.

Des Moines, Ia.—Rock Island passenger train No. 23 collided near a high bridge at Iowa City with a freight train which was running at full speed. Four were severely hurt. Of the injured Frank Rogers, the fireman, may die. The hundred passengers had a remarkable escape. The trains met upon the embankment just after the freight had crossed the bridge over the Iowa river. Both engines and many cars were derailed.

Wreck of the Chatham.

Port Said.—The fore part of the wreck of the British steamer Chatham, which was blown up here, has entirely disappeared, but the stern must be further demolished by dynamite. There is a hole 110 feet deep at the spot where the wreck rested.

Can't Wait for Trains.

Cheneyville, La.—For the past few days this place has been overrun with passengers coming here on the Southern Pacific train, remaining from twelve to eighteen hours waiting for the east or west-bound Texas and Pacific train. As the Board of Health considered this dangerous, an ordinance was passed to the effect that in the future no passengers would be allowed to remain here over thirty minutes.

$100,000 South Carolina F

Charleston, S. C.—A spe Bennettsville says the bu west of the public square sumed by fire, with the the Planters' Bank building was started by the explosion brazier in a bicycle shop will aggregate about $100 buildings burned including fice, which was of wood, building occupied by W. P. as a harness and buggy & Excelsior, hardware. dry good store. The man brazier was injured and caped with his life. Insurance about half the loss.

Present for the Mikad

Ottawa, Ont.—A present dent Roosevelt to the empe pan was on the special tra here bearing Baron Koma ward. It was a large parc and handled carefully. Nobody what it contains, and nobody know until it reaches the imp ace at Tokio. The president of the plenipotentiar stood, that no notification ent was being forwarded and it was asked that until presented to the emperor said about it.

New Ministers Expected

Washington, D. C.—In view fact that Norway and Swed become separate nations and the future be represented by ministers, Washington will lose the nestor of the foreign sentatives in this city. Mr. the minister of Sweden and to this country since 1889, is a gian, and it is believed that follow the example of many temporaries and swear alleg the new flag of Norway present position and placing at the disposal of the Norweg ernment.

Cannot Be Tried Agai

Newton, Ga.—The commit of Mrs. Cornelia Milner, warrant sworn out against son, Quentin Miller, charg with the murder of her hus eigh Milner (Quentin's father materialize. Mrs. Milner's succeeded in obtaining a ru court that Mrs. Milner had had one commitment trial been discharged. This was case was first investigated tin Milner was bound over.

Alleged Lynchers Under

Abbeville, S. C.—The pr examination of John M. Ashl Moore, John Moore, William Hugh Bowen and Sam Bigby, with lynching Allen Pendleton gro, near Honeapath, on 17, was held here. The sta was based on statements of who testified as to threats the defendants and the fact were in the crowd who took away. The contra-evidence tablish the presence of the at another place when the occurred. After hearing the the judge admitted the me placing bonds at $7,000 each was furnished. Pendleton k Moore in a fight.

Crazy Woman Kills Seven

Rock Island, Ill.—Mrs. Markham, of Cambridge, near a fit of temporary insanity, seven children with an which she placed their bo bed, saturated it with coal fire to it. She then hacked with a knife and threw herself burning bed. Neighbors but she was so badly burned died soon after she made a The eldest child was 9 years youngest a baby in arms.

Dowie Has Paralysi

Chicago, Ill.—John Alexan who claims to be the reincar the Prophet Elijah, and to ha power to cure all diseases, stricken with paralysis. on his way to Mexico and attached him while on the letter to his followers at Zion nounces that Dowie has successor, but that the name be revealed until after his

Turkey Apologizes

Belgrade.—The Turkish delivered to the Servian the reply of Turkey to Servi plaint on the subject of the Servian subjects in Turkey. ish government expressed promised to punish the sponsible and adopt strict for the prevention of simil in the future. No reply Servia's claim for pecuniary

Town in Ruins

Capetown, Cape Colony.— struck Malmesbury, a town inhabitants, situated thirty from here, and reduced it number of persons were kil

Harvesting and Threshing

Crowley, La.—Rain fel fectually stopping har threshing operations. No has been done in this Tuesda reports receiv to the that very or thre has been anywhere in the rice be

Baton Rouge, La.—The Railroad Commission is furniture for the ho

LOW FEVER NEWS.

Latest Reports From the Infected District.

Orleans, La.—For the last 24 in this city the yellow fever is as follows: New cases, 19. cases, 2,042; deaths, 3; total 294; new foci, 6; cases under 304; cases discharged, 2.

Country Cases.

try news was not at all dis The marine hospital serv found eleven cases on Fillawood ation in Jefferson parish, over they have recently assumed

Springs, 1 new case
wood plantation, 11 new cases
, 20 new cases in two
, 1 death.
ner, 2 new cases
LaFourche Crossing, 2 new cases inte-a-la-Hache, 1 case odlawn plantation, 1 case elia, Bayou L'Ourt and Boeuf new cases, and no deaths in seven

Lake Providence, 7 new cases
Tallulah 1 new case on plantation several suspicious cases on other

Mississippi Summary.

Jackson, Miss.—The Mississippi yel fever summary is as follows:

Moss Point and Scranton—No new , no deaths.
Vicksburg—New cases, 8, deaths, 1.
w cases in county, 8.
Gulfport—New cases, 3, deaths,
No new cases at Mississippi City or andsboro.
Port Gibson—New cases, 3, deaths new cases in county, 2.
Hamburg—No new cases, one death
No reports from Roxie, Harriston Rosetta.

Rapid Spread in Natchez.

Natchez, Miss.—The record shows a spread of yelow fever in the twenty-four hours, as six new are listed on the local map. One case is in "factory row," which in the first ward, thus infecting ery one of the four wards in the y. As the houses in factory row close together, it is feared the kness will spread rapidly in that ighborhood.

The record: New cases, 11; new , 6; total cases to date, 108; total , 33; deaths, 2, both colored; total deaths, 7. Under treatment, 30; discharged, 8.

Situation in Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla.—Eight new cases fever have been reported up to 6 o'clock, with one death. The death was that of a nine days' old infant whose mother was taken down with er two days before the child was n. Great difficulty is being experienced by the health authorities in getting prompt reports of fever cases the officials are nearly worked down in an effort to cover the ground themselves.

The fever summary is as follows: ew cases, 8; total to date, 166. deaths, 1; total, 27. Cases discharged ; under treatment, 78. One of the new cases is that of Miss Ruth Glenn, daughter of Rev. B. C. Glenn, pastor the Palafox Street Methodist church.

Stole Preacher's Apparel.

Glasgow, Ky.—While Rev. T. V. Harwood was absent at the camp meeting few days since some one entered his residence and stole all his wearing apparel. The theft was discovered when Rev. Harwood went to dress to attend the annual conference at Leitchfield. He was compelled to buy a suit of clothes, shoes and underwear before he could make the trip.

Memphis Theatre Burned.

Memphis, Tenn.—The Memphis Theatre, probably the most notorious resort in Memphis, was burned here. The employes left the building after the vaudeville, and no one was injured. Loss, $10,000, and it is understood is fully covered by insurance.

Alleged Woman Murderer.

Carnesville, Ga.—A bench warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mrs Amanda Cobb, charged with murder. She is held in an office at the court house, but has not been in the court room. It is not known when she will be tried, but the case cannot be reached this week. There will probably be a called term of the court for the purpose of trying her.

Government Hospital.

Springfield, Ill.—Dr. Louis DeClermont secured an option on 840 acres of land at $250 an acre at Illipolis, this county. On the land the government contemplates a $400,000 hospital for the army and navy. The hospital will be for the treatment of bowel and stomach disorders. The capacity will be 400 patients.

Progress at Winchester.

Winchester, Tenn.—The M. E. church has purchased a $2,000 pipe organ. Dr. Knox has begun building the new postoffice, and two other handsome store buildings are to be commenced soon. Several beautiful homes are in process of construction.

Stockho largest death rate from alcohol of any city in th number of deaths from this cause is 90 in 1,000.

$100,000 South Carolina F

Charleston, S. C.—A spec Bennettsville says the busi west of the public square sumed by fire, with the excep the Planters' Bank building. was started by the explosion brazier in a bicycle shop, and will aggregate about $100,0 buildings burned included the fice, which was of wood; a large building occupied by W. P. as a harness and buggy store & Excelsior, hardware; Wea dry good store. The man work brazier was injured and narro caped with his life. Insurance about half the loss.

Present for the Mikado.

Ottawa, Ont.—A present from dent Roosevelt to the emperor pan was on the special train here bearing Baron Komura ward. It was a large parcel and handled carefully. Nobody what it contains, and nobody know until it reaches the imperial ace at Tokio. The president req of the plenipotentiary, it is stood, that no notification that ent was being forwarded be and it was asked that until pers presented to the emperor nothi said about it.

New Ministers Expected.

Washington, D. C.—In view of fact that Norway and Sweden become separate nations and w the future be represented by dif ministers, Washington will pro lose the nestor of the foreign sentatives in this city. Mr. A. the minister of Sweden and No to this country since 1889, is a N glan, and it is believed that he follow the example of many of his temporaries and swear allegian the new flag of Norway, resigning present position and placing hi at the disposal of the Norwegian ernment.

Cannot Be Tried Again.

Newton, Ga.—The commitment of Mrs. Cornelia Milner, under warrant sworn out against her by son, Quentin Miller, charging with the murder of her husband, eigh Milner (Quentin's father), materialize. Mrs. Milner's att succeeded in obtaining a ruling court that Mrs. Milner had al had one commitment trial and been discharged. This was whe case was first investigated and tin Milner was bound over.

Alleged Lynchers Under Bo

Abbeville, S. C.—The prelim examination of John M. Ashley, Moore, John Moore, William Hugh Bowen and Sam Bigby, ch with lynching Allen Pendleton, gro, near Honeapath, on Septe 17, was held here. The state's was based on statements of wit who testified as to threats ma the defendants and the fact that were in the crowd who took the away. The contra-evidence was tablish the presence of the defen at another place when the lyn occurred. After hearing the evi the judge admitted the men to placing bonds at $7,000 each, was furnished. Pendleton killed Moore in a fight.

Crazy Woman Kills Seven Chi

Rock Island, Ill.—Mrs. Cla Markham, of Cambridge, near b a fit of temporary insanity, kill seven children with an axe, which she placed their bodies bed, saturated it with coal oil a fire to it. She then hacked her with a knife and threw herself burning bed. Neighbors rescued but she was so badly burned th died soon after she made a conf The eldest child was 9 years o youngest a baby in arms.

Dowie Has Paralysis.

Chicago, Ill.—John Alexander D who claims to be the reincarna the Prophet Elijah, and to have power to cure all diseases, has stricken with paralysis. Dowi on his way to Mexico and the d attached him while on the tra letter to his followers at Zion Ci nounces that Dowie has cho successor, but that the name w be revealed until after his death.

Turkey Apologizes.

Belgrade.—The Turkish minis delivered to the Servian gove the reply of Turkey to Servia's plaint on the subject of the ar Servian subjects in Turkey. The ish government expressed reg promised to punish the offi sponsible and adopt strict m for the prevention of similar in the future. No reply was g Servia's claim for pecuniary d

Town in Ruins.

Capetown, Cape Colony.—A t struck Malmesbury, a town of inhabitants, situated thirty-five from here, and reduced it to r number of persons were killed.

Harvesting and Threshing

Crowley, La.—Rain fell h fectually stopping harvestin threshing operations. No has been done in this vic Tuesday reports received to the that very li or thre has been don anywhere in the rice belt.

Baton Rouge, La.—The Railroad Commission is furniture for the LLOW FEVER NEWS.

Latest Reports From the Infected District.

Orleans, La.—For the last 24 in this city the yellow fever is as follows New cases, 19; cases, 2,942; deaths, 3; total 294; new foci, 6; cases under 204, cases discharged, 2,-

Country Cases.

try news was not at all dis- The marine hospital serv- found eleven cases on Fillswood in Jefferson parish, over they have recently assumed ge.

Springs 1 new case.

wood plantation, 11 new cases.

Patterson 20 new cases in two 1 death.

Kenner, 2 new cases.

LaFourche Crossing, 2 new cases.

Pointe-a-la-Hache, 1 case.

Woodlawn plantation, 1 case.

Amelia Bayou L'Ourz and Boeuf, new cases, and no deaths in seven

Lake Providence, 7 new cases.

Tallulah 1 new case on plantation several suspicious cases on other

Mississippi Summary.

Jackson, Miss.—The Mississippi yellow fever summary is as follows:

Moss Point and Scranton—No new cases, no deaths.

Vicksburg—New cases, 8; deaths, 1; new cases in county, 8.

Gulfport—New cases, 3; deaths,

No new cases at Mississippi City or Handsboro.

Port Gibson—New cases, 3; deaths, new cases in county, 2.

Hamburg—No new cases, one death.

No reports from Roxie, Harriston Rosetta.

Rapid Spread in Natchez.

Natchez, Miss.—The record shows a rapid spread of yellow fever in the twenty-four hours, as six new are listed on the local map. One case is in "factory row," which is the first ward, thus infecting every one of the four wards in the As the houses in factory row close together, it is feared the sickness will spread rapidly in that neighborhood.

The record: New cases, 11; new foci, 6; total cases to date, 108; total foci, 33; deaths, 2, both colored; total deaths, 7. Under treatment, 30; discharged, 8.

Situation in Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla.—Eight new cases of fever have been reported up to 6 o'clock, with one death. The death was that of a nine days' old infant, whose mother was taken down with fever two days before the child was born. Great difficulty is being experienced by the health authorities in getting prompt reports of fever cases and the officials are nearly worked down in an effort to cover the ground themselves.

The fever summary is as follows: New cases, 8; total to date, 166; deaths, 1; total, 27. Cases discharged under treatment, 78. One of the new cases is that of Miss Ruth Glenn, daughter of Rev. B. C. Glenn, pastor of the Palafox Street Methodist church.

Stole Preacher's Apparel.

Glasgow, Ky.—While Rev. T. V. Harwood was absent at the camp meeting a few days since some one entered his residence and stole all his wearing apparel. The theft was discovered when Rev. Harwood went to dress to attend the annual conference at Leitchfield. He was compelled to buy a suit of clothes, shoes and underwear before he could make the trip.

Memphis Theatre Burned.

Memphis, Tenn.—The Memphis Theatre, probably the most notorious resort in Memphis, was burned here. The employes left the building after the vaudeville, and no one was injured. Loss, $10,000, and it is understood is fully covered by insurance.

Alleged Woman Murderer.

Carnesville, Ga.—A bench warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mrs. Amanda Cobb, charged with murder. She is held in an office at the court house, but has not been in the court room. It is not known when she will be tried, but the case cannot be reached this week. There will probably be a called term of the court for the purpose of trying her.

Government Hospital.

Springfield, Ill.—Dr. Louis DeClermont secured an option on 840 acres of land at $250 an acre at Illipolis, this county. On the land the government contemplates a $400,000 hospital for the army and navy. The hospital will be for the treatment of bowel and stomach disorders. The capacity will be 400 patients.

Progress at Winchester.

Winchester, Tenn.—The M. E. Church has purchased a $2,000 pipe organ. Dr. Knox has begun building the new postoffice, and two other handsome store buildings are to be commenced soon. Several beautiful houses are in process of construction.

Stockholm fore largest death rate from rum alcohol of any city in th new number of deaths from this cause is 90 in 1,000.

ITEMS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

The Alabama Trust and Savings Bank has been incorporated at Florence, with such men as Supreme Court Judge R. T. Simpson and Lee Ashcraft, cotton mill man, as incorporators. The capital is $40,000.

Appointments.

The governor has appointed James T. Frederick coroner of Lee county to succeed Q. P. Siler, who has removed from the county.

F. M. Burnell has been appointed justice of the peace at Clinton and T. O. Smith notary public and justice of the peace at Millport.

Received Picture of Governor Watts.

Director Thomas M. Owen, of the state department of archives and history, has received a life-sized photograph, an excellent likeness of Alabama's war governor, Hon. Thomas H. Watts, who died in Montgomery September 16, 1892. The photograph, in frame, will be hung in the department gallery in the capitol, where many others have been collected.

Many Incorporations.

There is a continuance of the disposition over the state to incorporate and inaugurate business enterprises, and the keeping of the record has become quite a clerical effort on the part of the secretary of state. The following new enterprises were reported Saturday:

Clio Hardware Company, Clio; capital, $4,200. Incorporators, A. B. Byrd and others.

Oakman Loan and Trust Company, Oakman; capital, $2,000. Incorporators, J. Logan and associates.

Southern Loan and Investment Company, Birmingham; name changed from the Southern Loan and Jewelry Company.

Lighter Land Company, Birmingham; B. C. Lighter and others incorporators; capital, $2,500.

Webber Iron Company, Birmingham; capital, $10,000. P. S. Webber and others incorporators.

Resignation In.

The office of the governor Saturday received the following notice of the intention of Judge Peyton Norvell, of the Walker county law and equity court, to retire from the office:

"Hon. William D. Jelks, Governor of Alabama, Montgomery:

"My Dear Sir—I desire to tender you hereby my resignation as judge of the Walker county law and equity court, and will thank you to make the same effective at once.

"Most respectfully,

"PEYTON NORVELL,

"Judge of the Walker County Law and Equity Court."

To Have a Bridge.

Montgomery for the first time in its history is soon to have a bridge over the Alabama river and a new avenue of trade and commerce with Elmore and Autauga counties. The bridge planned by Maj. Belton Mickle and undertaken by the Converse Bridge Company, of Chattanooga, is well under way, and the completion of the costly structure is only a matter of the future.

Two Pardoned.

Being of the opinion that injustice was done in their conviction, Governor Jelks has pardoned Ann Baker, a white woman, and Early Mencer, a negro man, now in the penitentiary serving sentences for miscegenation. They had been sent up from Barbour county, and were convicted in the spring term of the 1903 circuit court of that county. Several developments in favor of the convicts since their trials moved the governor to issue the pardons and the state board of pardons to recommend the clemency. The chief witness for the state, who was very material in bringing about the conviction of the couple, has since the trial been impeached by reputable showings presented to the governor.

Heavy Earnings.

The books of the state auditor show that for the twelve months ending September 30 the convict department turned into the treasury of the state the gross sum of $561,000. It was shown in the report of President Carmichael for the year ending August 31 that the gross receipts were $541,563, which makes the receipts from twelve months ending the last of August $20,000 less than for the same length of time ending the last of September. If it had not been that a check for $2,500 was sent in unsigned and had to be returned the amount would have included that also, running it to $563,500. President Carmichael is quite proud of the record of the department, it being shown that the net receipts for the year ending Saturday are in the neighborhood of $300,000, which is a vast aid to the finances of the state.

Austin, Tex.—The sixteen railroads which sought in the state district court to enjoin the collection of the 1 per cent tax on their gross earnings have waived their petition for a temporary injunction, and the cases have been set for final hearing on their merits for October 11. The law became effective October 1, but the roads will not pay their tax until forced to do so, after testing the new law in every court at their disposal.

SERIES OF SENSATIONS

Three Deaths in One Town in Illinois are Shrowded in Mystery.

ONE VICTIM WAS A WOMAN.

Attorney Refuses to Prosecute Cases Because the Men Charged With Murder Are His Friends.

Chicago, Ill.—Details of a series of sensations which are alleged to have smoldered for months in Cambridge, Ill., and which may explain the mysterious death of John V. Steed, a prominent attorney and politician, who was found lifeless at his office door in Cambridge a week ago with a bullet through his head, have been revealed here.

Dr. Byrd C. Powell, a veterinary surgeon living in Sandwich, Ill., came to Chicago and told a story back of the recent suicide of his brother, William D. Powell, of Cambridge. The story discloses a chain of facts connecting the Powell and Streed case with the virtual murderer of a Swedish domestic in the home of a wealthy man in Cambridge more than five years ago. She was buried secretly without a death certificate or inquest.

Because They Knew the Truth.

In the opinion of Dr. Powell, Attorney Streed was murdered because Streed knew the truth behind the woman's death. Streed got the facts from William D. Powell, who committed suicide August 26 last, after William Powell's home had been broken up and the guilty persons shielded, it is alleged, by an influential political friend. Dr. Powell declares that his brother was driven to his death by a clique in Cambridge.

It is said Powell went to Cambridge to live about the time of the death of the domestic, the facts of which he learned accidentally. His own domestic life was unhappy. He suspected several men of prominence of being too friendly with his wife, and encountered as a result persecution, which it is said drove him to suicide.

First stories detrimental to Powell's business were circulated. Then the crowd made it their business to offend him on the streets. Men came to him at unexpected hours day and night to his home and to his office and told him he had better leave town. He refused to be intimidated.

Then Comes the Climax.

Finally came a climax. Powell awoke one morning to find "tar and feathers" written on his door, with a note ordering him to leave town within four days or suffer violence at the hands of a mob. Then Powell summoned his brother. They talked all night long, William detailing the story of his sufferings, of his love for his wife, the persecutions and the threat of death.

"What shall I do?" he asked in despair.

"Go after them," replied his adviser. "You know something of the death of this Swedish girl. The men persecuting you are involved in that case. Go after them."

Refused to Prosecute Friends.

Two detectives arrived in Cambridge as a result to work up evidence in reference to the death of the domestic. W. D. Powell took the evidence to Attorney Streed and asked him to prosecute the men. Streed refused to do it, because it involved some of his best friends. William D. Powell's suicide followed. W. D. Powell believes that Streed and some of the suspected men quarreled and in the heat of dispute Streed betrayed knowledge of the domestic's tragedy.

"My brother," said Dr. Powell, "was hounded to death by a clique of men who control everything in the administration of law in Cambridge. His knowledge of the girl's death, passing to Streed, shifted to the latter the fatal mark of that 'gang's' enmity. If Streed was murdered it is a simple matter for the Cambridge authorities to figure out who are the persons interested in bringing about his death. But they have purposely suppressed the truth, which if revealed may lead and bring to light another murder."

Rolling Mill Plant Destroyed.

Anniston, Ala.—The Weller Rolling Mills plant was completely destroyed by fire here. The loss to the building and machinery is $76,000; insurance, $15,000. The fire originated from a heating furnace stack. About 175 men are out of employment as a result.

Money Is Safe.

Colon.—The iron safes in the government offices here destroyed by the recent fire, have been opened. The specie in the local treasurer's safe was found to have sustained no damage.

Option on Railroad.

Talladega, Ala.—The A., B. & A. Railroad has purchased an option on the Eastern Railway of Alabama, running from this city to Pyriton, Clay county. Should this road be acquired it will save much time in completing the new line into Birmingham. The A., B. & A. is now preparing to move the houses off the property purchased in this city for terminal facilities.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. W. H. BURGWIN.

Subject: Sowing and Reaping.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—For the last sermon in his series on "The Substance of Christian Doctrine" the Rev. W. H. Burgwin, pastor of the Eighteenth Street M. E. Church, preached Sunday morning on "Sowing and Reaping." His text was chosen from Galatians xi:7-8: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting." Mr. Burgwin said:

Our statement of the substance of Christian doctrine in the four preceding discourses has presented the Creator of all things as a merciful and bountiful Provider for His creatures. Man, because of unique relationships to God, is the object of His particular and peculiar favor. Insisting that "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God," the divine love finds a way to satisfy infinite justice and to redeem for eternity every sinner who will be saved. The nature of the sinner, as created, precludes the idea or the possibility of compulsion.

There is, however, a too general tendency to discount Scriptural teachings—to feel that God, having done so much for man, will do more, that, in some way, a comfortable and blissful future is assured us, even though unbelief and disobedience mark our conduct here. The apostle combats such a conception. Jesus Himself contradicts it: "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." The Scriptures uniformly oppose it by precept and example.

It is my task this morning to enforce this thought: All men are redeemed by Christ; but we are not saved from our guilt and its fixed penalty until we are in accord with Christ and the divine plan. What the sowing is the harvest will be. This is the truth as taught us.

Our text is a warning—an unmistakable danger signal. This warning is given in view of real dangers apparent to all observers of human nature. It assures us that God does not make spiritual or moral paupers of men. Men cannot be redeemed without God; but, in the divine economy, God does not save the man without the man himself. The man, in addition to God's work, must work out his own salvation. For man there is a sowing and there is a reaping. There is good seed for sowing in moral and spiritual soil; there is other seed which develops degraded human character. Man selects his own seed and sows it. The seed proceeds to follow the law of nature. It brings forth after its kind—noisome weeds or golden grain. It is an eternal harvest of "corruption" or of "everlasting life." Even if man be deceived, God is not mocked.

This Scripture warns us that every mortal has freedom to direct his own career within well known fields, for good or evil. Above the human actor is the Divine Governor, who will not compel human loyalty, but who, ruling in more extensive fields than the merely finite and human, invariably directs the mortal to the future his own freedom has chosen, to the reaping of the harvest his own life has sown. Thus it is clear that man's destiny is in his own control.

It becomes apparent that this universal governor in administering his government is not anarchic. He is the supreme exponent of order and law; He, the arch-opponent of confusion. All disorder tends to confusion, in particular as in universal dominion. The human sinner is a begettor of confusion in that he interferes with law and order. He thus challenges the divine wisdom, power and will. He is a rebel against the Creator and Ruler of all things. Were all nature to follow him, the original chaos and anarchy would prevail in all realms. Perfect order in human life would bring man to the perfect destination for which he was originally designed. That perfect order becomes a real fact for man through Jesus Christ, who is the exemplar of that order, "Who His own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sin, should live unto righteousness; by whose stripes ye were healed." If we encourage sin in our lives, if we do not persistently resist the devil, we are sowing accursed seed; we are not dead to sins, we do not live unto righteousness, consequently, that perfect order is not an actuality for us, though it remains a possibility, because of the divine mercy and our ability to sow the seed of repentance, by God's help, if we will.

Evidently, then, the glorious destination of man as described in Scripture, bringing the creature back to his lost estate, where he is conformed to the image of Him who is the express image of God's substance, is not an arbitrary goal to which every creature move whether or no. The attainment of that destination is a matter of choice and decision on the part of the creature—that decision and choice indicating his accord with the will and plan of the Creator. Man has a goal, a great purpose for living, set before him, the "life everlasting" of our text, toward which it is his personal responsibility and duty intelligently to direct his way. He is not like the cricket. If you have ever noticed this insect in an open space, bound for somewhere, you will remember that he spring a foot or so into the air, turns a somersault or two at each jump, his course being zigzag and uncertain, as likely to terminate in one place as another, so far as you can determine. Many mortals do resemble the insect, with this exception, that the unintelligent, zigzag course cannot possibly bring them to the right destination.

That this zigzag course exists indicates that the truth has been perverted. Men have been deceived. In their confident intellectual self-conceit they have proclaimed various modifications of the Christian plan as we possess it. In their reasonings and speculations they have argued that a loving God would not do this, that He would not do that; that a just God would act thus and so, and would not act in certain other ways. So they have announced their conclusions that all will eventually be saved, whatever their lives' sowing may have been; or that immortality is conditional, that the incorrigible will not suffer eternal punishment, but that finally they will be annihilated, utterly destroyed; that there will be a future probation, an opportunity beyond the grave to accept the divine mercy. All of this is attractive as speculation. The truth is, there is no adequate warrant in the Holy Scriptures for any such hopes. God says, "Be not deceived." God insists that the eternal life is a harvest following a seed sowing.

In practice, too, there are dangerous theories, for "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." If he makes himself believe that everything is coming out all right, irrespective of his conduct, his belief will affect his conduct. If a man argues himself to feeling that if God cannot receive him into heavenly realms, He will put him out of his misery, annihilate him, the tendency will be for him to throw himself into the flood of activity, whatever its character, which promises him the fullest and most satisfactory return to his present selfish ambition. Such attitudes of mind, with their baneful results, are all too common. The thought of the judgment of God in absolute equity in the eternal existence of the soul is a most admirable and effective check upon all such human presumption. Well may we pray with the Psalmist, "Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over me."

The baneful results referred to have illustrations in every field of endeavor. In no other way can I account for the astonishing attitude of people whom I am meeting often—not bad, vicious people, either—but folks who are utterly careless and indifferent in relation to this duty or that; the moral and religious instruction of their children, Sabbath observance, the payment of bills due, the speaking of the unblemished truth, the holding of malice against fellow Christians; in perfect calmness men will argue in extenuation of any sin in the catalogue. Then, there is a popular feeling that a man to get along must have a "pull." Character, ability, the whole moral and practical capacity of the individual, are discounted. This feeling is so current that you may hear it expressed anywhere. It has come to me recently from different sources, in one case expressed by a man, in the other by a woman. In both instances, children are being reared, reared and trained by professed Christians in that atmosphere. Most emphatically, I resent and condemn such an attitude on the part of any, especially Christians. It is specious, vicious, disastrous. "Pull" may secure place among men, but character and ability only bring honor. Some men may be tardy in recognizing worth. God is not. His judgments are based on character. Again, in business it has come to pass that too often any legal means is considered justifiable. "According as you put something in, the greater will be your dividends of salvation," one man of enormous wealth and extensive business interests is reported to have said. That "something" which you put in is not money, or words, or deeds. These, one or all, may be a symbol of that "something." The thing put in must be a self-surrender to God, an acceptance of the Divine will as our standard of conduct. If Mr. Rockefeller is destitute of this disposition of moral self-surrender, all his great gifts are not sufficient to win Divine approval. None can buy the gift of God. God is too rich to sell, and man is too poor to buy. Any man's gifts may indeed become an obstacle to favor with God in that they may promote a conceit of self-righteousness such as certain ancient Pharisees had. It is worse than useless for a man to make the church his hobby if he gouges his fellow-men in business every chance he gets. "Be not deceived." Remember the harvest and be heedful of the sowing.

There are men active in political life, professed Christians, who, according to rumor—in some instances the rumor has been proved fact in court—are the recipients of peculiar favors popularly known as "graft." It's custom. Others do it, they say. Yes, and it's illegal, dishonest; it's perjury, too. Secretary Bonaparte does well to insist that this species of dishonesty is a grave menace to the nation. The book says, "Be not deceived." I speak to young men. Some of you may hold political position, as you now hold business places of responsibility. I speak forcefully, for I know your possible temptations. Abhor any moral compromise in politics, in business or in social life. The man who leads a double life is a doomed man. He may not be condemned to prison by a jury of his peers; his integrity may escape question because of prevailing laxity or personal shrewdness. But, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked." "Be sure your sin will find you out." All souls reap, gathering as they have sown. Thank God, there are men, many of them here and everywhere, who are above reproach. May their tribe increase.

So we deceive ourselves. In our self-deceived state, we may find a sort of comfort; we are with the crowd; our chances are as good as another's; we'll turn over a new leaf, now or hereafter. "God is not mocked." We cannot treat God contemptuously, as we may our fellows. As truly as seed brings a like harvest, so truly our derision of God resolves itself into despair. The insult to Deity always reverts to the insulter. Men must not find comfort in the thought that such willful disorder on their part can produce order hereafter. If the sowing be sin, disorder, the reaping must be confusion.

Christianity offers humanity its greatest conceivable opportunity, but humanity must embrace the opportunity.

Victory.

The joy of resisting temptation is the highest joy men can feel. It is a moment when our little life here grows larger, and we feel ourselves lifted into a wide sphere; we have a sense of fellowship with higher beings, and are somehow conscious of their sympathy. All God's creation smiles upon us and appears made for our joy.—A. B. Davidson.

A Prayer.

O God, who art the truth, make me one with Thee in everlasting love! I am often weary of reading, and weary of hearing; in Thee alone is the sum of my desire! Let all teachers be silent, let the whole creation be dumb before Thee, and do Thou only speak unto my soul.—Thomas a Kempis.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR OCTOBER 8.

Subject: Daniel in the Lion's Den, Dan. vi., 10-23—Golden Text, Psa. xxxiv., 7—Memory Verses, 21-23—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. Daniel praying (v. 10). 10. "When Daniel knew," etc. Daniel knew that the king's edicts were irreversible. "Open—toward Jerusalem." This was not an act of superstition, but a recognition of God's promise to Solomon (1 Kings 8:33-44), who had in his prayer at the dedication of the temple entreated God to hear the prayers of those who might be in strange lands or in captivity when they should turn their faces toward their own land and city and the temple. It was an aid to the spirit of devotion. "Kneeled." Compare 1 Kings 8:54; Ezra 9:5; Eph. 3:14. Kneeling is a fitting attitude for humble prayer. "Three times a day." See Psa. 55:17. The three hours of prayer were the same as the hours of sacrifice in the temple. "As he did aforetime." He did not swerve a hair's breadth. He could have prayed in secret and been heard, but that course would have been a public confession of want of faith in God and of yielding to the enemy. Daniel simply went on his daily path of life, as if no such order had been given. There was no time when he needed to pray more than at this time.

II. Wicked men plotting (vs. 11-15). 11. "These men." The princes who had been plotting against Daniel. "Assembled." Ran hastily, so as to come upon Daniel suddenly and detect him in the act. They had heard his voice and now rushed in upon him.

12. "Law—which altereth not." It was quite common in ancient times to worship the king. To alter the law would be a confession of fallibility, and an abrogation of godhead.

13. "That Daniel," etc. The accusers do not mention the high official station of Daniel and his intimate official relations with the king, but merely refer to his foreign birth in order that they may thereby bring his conduct under the suspicion of being a political act of rebellion against the royal authority. 14. "Sore displeased." Vexed at thus being overreached; for he saw that it was enmity toward Daniel and not anxiety for the maintenance of his authority which had led to the plot. "Labored." Endeavoring to find some way to evade the execution of the sentence. 15. "Know, O king." Their tone was masterful now, for they felt able to compel the king to work their will. Kings are the slaves of their flatterers. These wicked men were determined to get rid of the holy Daniel. They hated him.

III. Daniel among the lions (vs. 16-18). 16. "They brought Daniel." According to Oriental custom the sentence was carried out on the evening of the same day in which the accusation was made. "Thy God—will deliver." The heathen believed in the interposition of the gods in times of calamity. While Darius did not recognize Daniel's God as the true God, yet he was "a god," and Daniel's character was such that the king believed his God would deliver him. 17. "Sealed it." In the days when very few could read or write signets were used instead of writing the name. 18. "Passed the night fasting." The soul of the pleasure-loving king was so stirred that he had no care for food or sleep. His grief was greatly increased by his consciousness that this evil came from his own weakness and sin.

IV. Daniel's deliverance (vs. 19-23). 19. "Went in haste." A strange spectacle for a monarch of the world thus to be attending upon a condemned servant of God. Yet the king had never appeared to such a good advantage.

20. "Lamentable voice." Deeply distressed and in an agony of anxiety. He cried out between hope and fear. "Servant of the living God." Darius borrowed this phrase from Daniel. God extorted from an idolater a confession of the truth. "Is thy God—able." Full of concern, he trembles to ask the question, fearing to be answered with the roaring of the lions after more prey. 21. "O king, live forever." The common salutation in addressing a king. Daniel might have indulged in anger at the king, but did not. His sole thought was that God's glory had been set forth in his deliverance. 22. "Sent His angel." Daniel had company in the den of lions. There was no music nor gladness in the palace, but celestial joy in the intercourse between Daniel and the angel in the den. Daniel takes care to ascribe his deliverance to the living God, that He may not be confounded with the false gods of the heathen. He speaks of the angel as God's instrument, not the author of his deliverance. "Shut the lions' mouths." Angels had held the lions' jaws and paws and made them peaceable companions and harmless as doves. This was a new and wonderful experience for Daniel. He delighted to relate it to the king, whose voice betrayed his agony. "Innocency was found." By this wonderful deliverance Daniel learned how God estimated faithfulness and how He is pleased to reward it. God had shown Daniel that his disobedience to a heathen king was not sin. He had been faithful in what he believed to be right, and in the test God declared him innocent by his wonderful deliverance. "No hurt." Daniel had been misrepresented before the king as having evil designs against his authority, but to the king himself Daniel declares he could not be guilty of such designs when he was faithful to his God.

23. "Exceeding glad." That the evil consequences of his folly had been warded off; that his best counselor was left to stand at the head of his government.

RELIEF FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

General Booth Charters Three Steamers to Carry Emigrants to Canada.

London.—General Booth, of the Salvation Army, in a long article dealing with the situation arising from the great number of persons at present out of employment in England, announces that he has chartered three steamers, which in the spring will sail for Canadian ports with emigrants, to all of whom employment will be guaranteed.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

Highways conditions in the United States are deplorably bad. Everybody at all capable of thought realizes that in comparison with older countries, over whore civilization we boast superiority, we stand in a most disgraceful attitude in the matter of road building and improvement. The reasons why we have bad roads almost universally are that the people of the rural districts have been forced to bear the whole burden of road making, and this they have not been able to do in any better way than has been done. The time has come in the history of our country when the Government must take hold of the matter, and the Brownlow-Latimer Good Roads bill points the way. The conclusion is irresistible that to secure a permanent and adequate system of highway improvement the National Government must lend its substantial aid to the States, following the same principle of necessity and justification as the support given to railways, waterways, postal extensions, irrigation, expositions, national parks, experimental stations, weather bureaus, and many other useful internal improvements. It is too much to expect, as we have been doing, the local communities to construct and maintain permanent roads. The burden is too great and wholly unjust. The public roads are the common property of all, used by all, and their cost and maintenance should be shared by all.

From present indications the great State Fair at Birmingham, which opens on October 23rd and continues for ten days, will be an unprecedented success. Work is progressing with almost magic rapadity on those buildings which have not been already completed and everything will be in tip top shape for the opening day.

The live stock exhibit promises to be the finest ever seen in Alabama. There will be handsome premiums for beef cattle, including Hereford, Shorthorns, Aberdeen, Angus and other breeds, and also for dairy cattle, including Jerseys Holsteins, Areshires, etc.; for sheep of all breeds, Angora goats, and for Berkshire, Poland China and other breeds of hogs.

The races during the fair will witness the competition of some of the world's most noted running, trotting and pacing horses, and there will also be mule races as well as pony races for boys.

A distinctive feature of the big fair will be the horse show, which will be held during six nights of the fair, beginning on the evening of October 23rd. The feature of the horse show will be the appearance of the Barney Demorest combination of equestrains, which includes the high jumpers Kingful, with a record of 7 feet 1½ inches, and Major McKinley, with a record of 6 feet 11 inches. These noted performers will be ridden by ladies, of which there are three with the Demorest combination, said to be the finest riders of their sex in the world. The Horse Show arena, which is 200x400 feet, and is situated directly opposite the mammoth grand stand, will be brilliantly lighted with large arch lights, and will be one of the finest and most spectacular exhibitions of its kind ever seen in the South.

The agricultural exhibit will be a splendid one, and will be a credit to Alabama. It will occupy a space 250x30 feet and will include all the various products of Alabama farms. This exhibit will be managed by the State's representative, and will include at least nine seperate county exhibits.

The merchants of Birmingham are going to make handsome exhibits of their various lines of merchandise in seperate booths in the main Exhibit Building and in the Mines and Machinery Hall.

The Poultry Show will embrace all known varieties of chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks, etc. Liberal premiums are offered, and from present indications there will be at least 2,000 fowls on exhibition.

TOWN OF CLANTON.

RESOLUTIONS.

Be it Resolved by the Mayor and Council of the Town of Clanton: First: That whereas, the said Mayor and Council, through its Mayor, has contracted with one T. B. Teel for the erection of a certain school house, or building in the town of Clanton, for the use and benefit of the white citizens of the town of Clanton, at and for the sum of Three Thousand and Fifty Dollars; and whereas, there is not sufficient funds in the treasury of the said town of Clanton to pay and discharge said indebtedness incurred in the erection of said school building.

Second: And whereas, the town of Clanton, through its Mayor, is desirous of securing the said T. B. Teel for the erection of said school building for the said town of Clanton, as is provided for in a certain Act of the Legislature of the State of Alabama, approved October 6th, 1903, said Act being an Act "To empower Municipal Corporations to purchase school property and maintain public schools."

Third: Therefore be it further resolved by the Mayor and Council of the town of Clanton that the Mayor of the town of Clanton be and he is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to issue notes to the said T. B. Teel against the said town of Clanton for such aggregate amount, as in the discretion of the said Mayor, may be necessary to pay in whole, or in part, the indebtedness due the said T. B. Teel, or that may be due him for the erection of said school building.

Fourth: Be it further resolved by the Mayor and Council of the town of Clanton that none of the notes so executed by the said Mayor to the said T. B. Teel, on behalf of the said town of Clanton, shall be for a less amoun than the sum of Twenty-five dollars and shall bear interest from date; and shall be transferable; and shall be received and accepted by the town of Clanton in the payment of any, or all taxes due the town of Clanton, except street taxes, due by the holder, or holders of said notes.

Fifth. Be it further resolved by the Mayor and Council of the town of Clanton that the notes so executed by the said Mayor, on behaf of the town of Clanton, may be executed in series of one, two, three and four years from the date of the execution of said notes; and all of the said notes executed by the said Mayor, in behalf of the town of Clanton, under the provisions of this resolution shall be attested by the Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Sixth. Be it further resolved by the Mayor and Council of the town of Clanton that the notes so executed by the said Mayor, on behalf of the said town of Clanton, shall be substantially in the following form:

TOWN OF CLANTON.
Clanton, Alabama,..........1905
$........

On or before the....day of............190.. the undersigned, a municipal corporation, promises to pay to T. B. Teel, or order, the sum of.........
.........Dollars, with interest from date.

Said note being negotiable and payable at the office of the Mayor of the Town of Clanton.

This note is given in part payment of the contract for the erection of a school house for the use and benefit of the white citizens or the town of Clanton.

This note shall be received and accepted by the Town of Clanton in payment, in whole, or in part, of any taxes due the Town of Clanton, except street taxes, by the holder, or holders thereof.

The Town of Clanton,
By..........Mayor.

Attested:
..........chairman finance committee.

Published by publication in The Banner this, the 5th day of October, 1905.

HARVEY F. CHANDLER, Mayor.
Countersigned, E. CLAY JONES, clerk.

No Pill is as pleasant and positive as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These Famous Little Pills are so mild and effective that children, delicate ladies and weak people enjoy their cleansing effect, while strong people say they are the best liver pills sold. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Personal.

Col. Robt. H. Knox went to Maplesville Saturday on professional business.

Mr. J. L. Smith returned to Colorado Wednesday.

To Fairview and New Prospect.

I am sorry to announce that I will not be strong enough to fill my appointment at the arbor Sunday afternoon. Will preach there the Fourth Sunday afternoon.

J. T. ECKFORD.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Commissioner's Sale.

Under and by virtue of a commission issued to me on the 27th day of September, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds as Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, I, H. I. Honeycutt, the Commissioner named in said commission, will proceed to sell, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, on MONDAY, the 30th day of OCTOBER, 1905, between the hours of eleven o'clock in the morning and four o'clock in the afternoon, the following described real estate, to-wit:

W ½ of W ½ of Se ¼ of Se 1-4, and all that part of the Sw 1-4 of the Se 1-4, lying east of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, all in Section 28, of Township 22, of Range 13, containing twenty four acres more or less, except that part now occupied by negro graves, all situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of division and distribution among tenants in common, to-wit: W. W. Ryan, Nellie Paulson, Austin Larson and Gerhard Larson, in pursuance of an order of said Court of Probate.

Given under my hand this the 27th day of September, 1905.

H. I. HONEYCUTT, Commissioner.

A DAILY PAPER FREE.

Well, not exactly free, but the next thing to it. What do you think of this offer? The Banner and the CHICAGO NATIONAL DAILY REVIEW $1.50 A YEAR!

This offer is open for a limited time only. We can't tell how long we shall have an opportunity to give you such a bargain, so come early.

Pay up your arrearages and a year in advance, and for only 50 cents additional we send you a Daily Newspaper for one year. Think of it!

The Chicago National Daily Review is a phenomenal success. It is a four-page, seven-column paper printed in large type on good quality of paper. Started in January, 1905, it already has thousands of subscribers and it intends to add thousands more in the next few weeks by arrangements with the Banner and other newspapers, such as we have outlined above.

The Chicago National Daily Review is published every week day in the year and contains all the news thats worth remembering. It has a complete market report, excellent reading matter for the family, condensed and readable reports of the world's news, and every day gives its readers a Magazine Article by one of the high-class special writers on its staff.

Remember that the regular price of the Chicago National Daily Review is One Dollar per year. For a limited time only, all new subscribers to the Banner who pay a year in advance and all old subscribers who pay arrerages and a year in advance can get the Review for only 50 cents additional.

Don't wait; now is the time to get a Good Daily Newspaper for the smallest price ever offered.

PROGRAM

Chilton County Singing Convention, to be held with Concord church, two miles east of Clanton, Oct. 14 and 15, 1905.

SATURDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercise, J. J. Grant,

10;30. Welcome address, E. H. Mims. Response, R. D. Durham.

11. Song service, led by R. D. Durham.

12. Dinner.

1:30 p.m. Methods of teaching vocal music, J. L. Gore, James Franklin and J. B. Northcutt.

2:30. How may pastors help the singing teacher? G. W. Gothard, W. A. Mims.

3:30. Business of convention.

SUNDAY, 9:30 a.m. Devotional exercise, W. A. Mims.

The remainder of the day spent in singing. Lovers of music are earnestly requested to attend.

COMMITTEE.

It is impossible to have a clear head, an active brain, a vigorous constitution or a strong body when the digestion is weak or when the stomach is out of order. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will put the stomach and digestive organs in good condition and improve the general condition. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Sunday School Convention District No. 5.

The Annual Convention of District No. 5, composed of the Sunday schools in Beats 5 and 10, will be held on the 4th Sunday, October 22d, 1905. The place and the program will be published next week. The officers of this District are: President, D. W. H. Caffey, Verbena; Vice-President, D. S. Robinson, Verbena, R. F. D. No. 2; Secretary, Miss Lila Meriwether, Verbena.

FOR BOTH

One disease of thinness in children is scrofula; in adults, consumption. Both have poor blood; both need more fat. These diseases thrive on leanness. Fat is the best means of overcoming them; cod liver oil makes the best and healthiest fat and is the easiest and most effective form of cod liver oil. Here's a natural order of things that shows why Scott's Emulsion is of so much value in all cases of scrofula and consumption. More fat, more weight, more nourishment, that's why.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists
409 415 Pearl Street, New York
50c. and $1.00 : : : : : All druggists

For Lung Troubles

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral certainly cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. And it certainly strengthens weak throats and weak lungs. There can be no mistake about this. You know it is true. And your own doctor will say so.

"My little boy had a terrible cough. I tried everything I could hear of but in vain until I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first night he was better, and he steadily improved until he was perfectly well."—MRS. E. J. [illegible], Alton, Ill.

Ayer's
Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of SARSAPARILLA.
PILLS.
HAIR VIGOR.

Keep the bowels regular with Ayer's Pills and thus hasten recovery.

Mulberry.

As we have recently had a Teachers' Institute at our church, and had a rousing good time, and more so when our loved friend and noble man, Sydney J. Bowie, talked unto our community, I think, will take a new step towards educating our young people. If anyone could hear Hon. Syd say just a few words on the subject they would certainly be in favor of local taxation, and our teachers seem to be interested in educating our young people, and when we count up all the advantages that education brings to a community, we certainly ought to use all the means we can for its advancement. If our boys and (sad to say) our old men and some few ladies could be educated, then the awful white-washed sin of base ball would be a thing of the past. Think of it, it's a savage game, no fun in it, hard on fingers, noses, eyes, and in some cases almost cripples boys. Ask mother and father their opinion of base ball, and if they cousent and you ever expect a home in the sweet by and bye, ask the Bible if our dear Savior ever engaged in any such sport, if you call it sport. If you ever saw a minister of Christ in a base ball team put his name down and see if he ever accomplishes much towards the ministry. I don't intend to hurt anyone's feelings, but ask you to think for yourself quietly and soberly on the subject. If you knew you would die next Sunday could we find you at the ball ground next Saturday? As for me I would not go there to look for you, and you may be called to judgment at any moment and at any place, therefore be careful how you act. Well, I don't aim to preach, so I will drop the subject.

Well, we had a good time, and let's have another one at Mulberry some time after we get local tax and see the improvements which are sure to come. But say, Mr. we won't have stock law in our part of the woods, so any issue with any part of stock law attached to it will be a total failure. It's a good thing in its place but we haven't a place for it in Beats 3 and 7 yet.

Our cotton crop is short and most all open and being sold. Corn is moderately good, peas and potatoes fairly good and our people in good condition to prosper, and we have many things to be thankful for.

Our sister church, Macedonia, is having a great revival meeting and several have joined the church.

We are especially glad our paper has 12 pages and full of good reading, but sorry our friends don't sign any other name but successful ball player. With best wishes to you and Banner and all people, I am

Yours truly,
WILLIAM Y. ATCHISON.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled fo in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Oct. 2, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

P. Y. Noah, F. W. Kelly, Cara Sikes, C. L. Rhode, Wm. Williams.

LADIES' LIST.

Mrs. W. O. Logan, Lula Williams, Loney Williams, Mrs. S. H. Blakrie.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Oct 16, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY, Postmaster.

Don't Borrow Trouble.

It is a bad habit to borrow anything, but the worst thing you can possibly borrow, is trouble. When sick, sore, heavy, weary and worn-out by the pains and poisons of dyspepsia, billiousness, bright's disease, and similar internal disorders, don't sit down and brood over your symptoms, but fly for relief to Electric Bitters. Here you will find sure and permanent forgetfulness of all your troubles, and your body will not be burdened by a load of debt disease. At Upchurch drug store. Price 50c. Guaranteed.

F. A. GULLEDG

Real Estate, Loans and Disc

Liberal long time loans on I
Farms, also Life Insurance Policie

Annual loans on good Personal P
ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered o ton being held now, either on farms warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, A

The Big Mail Order Hous
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Price
Send Us Your Mail Orders
BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00
Wilson Whiskey	85
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va.
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of win whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STOR
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything
and Everything of the

Staple & Fancy Groce
DRY GOODS, CLOTHI
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - - A

WELLS Bored and Dr

T. B. TEEL
Contractor and Driller of Deep Water
CLANTON, ALA.

PATTILLO BROS.
MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN YELLOW PINE LUMB

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. F ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at na. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be to you

PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, A

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and C
stock for the Clanton trade.

Always Remember the Full N
Laxative Bromo Qui
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in T
E. W. Grove on Box. 25c.

Job Printing cheap at [illegible] BANNE

VOL. XIII Maga

TO BUILD A NEW FORTUNE.

NEARLY EIGHTY YEARS OLD, FORMER SENATOR STEWART BEGINS LIFE ANEW.

Takes his Young Bride to Gold Camps of Nevada and Rears Comfortable Home—Still feels the Wine of Youth

At the age of seventy-eight, after having seen two generations rise and pass away; a former Governor of Nevada, a mine owner of great wealth, a United States Senator for eighteen years, William M. Stewart for long known as the "Santa Claus" of the Senate, is starting life anew amid the gold fields of Nevada.

With the virility of youth this robust and hearty old-timer, says a dispatch from Rhyolite, Nev., has, with his young bride started in to make another million.

Fortune has played pranks with Senator Stewart; at one time he had been one of the rich men of that millionaires' club the Senate, owning one of the most magnificent private houses in Washington. In the earlier days he extracted huge fees from the law suits of western mines; at another time he has been down on his uppers; again he has been engaged in a big dairying project in Virginia; at other times he has dabbled again in Western mines and has run an Eastern mule farm.

Senator William M

Retiring from the Senate last spring, he was again once more a poor man and with his advanced years it was presumed by the unknowning ones he would sink into obscurity but like some others, "Bill Stewart" has never known when he was down and out, and he immediately started forth again in the battle of life with the purpose to again rebuild his fortunes. The chances are more than even that he will although he is nearly four score years.

The Senator expects to reap a profitable harvest from the various legal matters arising out of the vast new gold fields which have been discovered in Nevada. He is an expert on mining law and has at least the precedent established of having received in former years a fortune as a single fee.

Not Crushed by Failure.

Whatever may be said about the Senator politically, his bitterest enemies will not deny that the physical make-up of the man is marvelous to the last degree and that his courage is splendid. He is of the type that cannot conceive defeat but goes on fighting.

VIEW OF RHYOLITE, NEVADA, SEN

"This air makes me feel like a four-year-old," he said as he landed in Nevada with his daughter and his newly-married young wife. "There's no place like Nevada. I tell you and I figure that I'll be doing a big law business here before long. Better to wear out than to rust out you know."

The Senator's new house was built from what he had saved out of his

GULLEDGE
, Loans and Disc
ong time loans on Im
Life Insurance Policies
ns on good Personal Pr
Crops.
al advances offered on d now, either on farms
Address
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, AL

Mail Order House!
CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
g at Cut Prices!
Your Mail Orders.
E GOODS PER QUART.
Our Price
skey 75
75
75
50 60
65
Virginia Rye 75
75 e Whiskey 85
ye 1 00
1 25
84
1 00
1 00
1 00
1 00 85 ond 1 00
ond 1 25 1 50 without a headache 1 00
50
75
65
50
75
50 50
el goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.
gallon
$2.00 Old Mason's Pure Rye
3.00 Private Stock Virginia Rye
2.00 J. Mattin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
2.00 Old Style Country Club
3.00 Old Lincoln County
2.00 Richmond Club Virginia Rye
1.50 R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye
We carry a full line of wines
ndle low grade goods.
DRUG COMPANY
T RATE DRUG STORE
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Everything
Everything of the b
Fancy Groceri
DS, CLOTHIN
HATS, ETC.
ONES & BRO.
.AL Bored and Drill
B. TEEL
ller of Deep Water W
NTON, ALA.
LLO BROS.
ERS OF AND DEALERS IN PINE LUMBE
rough and dressed lumber. Floo
to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at V d, get our prices, they will be sa
PATTILLO BROS.
VERBENA, AL
ll carry our Flooring and Ceili
mber the Full Na
Bromo Quini
One Day, Grip in Tw
on Box. 25c.
heap at THE BANNER

THE BANNER.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIII Magazine Supplement CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No 51

TO BUILD A NEW FORTUNE.

NEARLY EIGHTY YEARS OLD, FORMER SENATOR STEWART BEGINS LIFE ANEW.

Takes his Young Bride to Gold Camps of Nevada and Rears Comfortable Home. Still Feels the Wine of Youth

Senator William M. Stewart.

At the age of seventy-eight, after having seen two generations rise and pass away, a former Governor of Nevada, a mine owner of great wealth, a United States Senator for eighteen years, William M. Stewart for long known as the "Santa Claus" of the Senate, is starting life anew amid the gold fields of Nevada.

With the vitality of youth this robust and hearty old timer, says a dispatch from Rhyolite, Nev., has, with his young bride started in to make another million.

Fortune has played prankes with Senator Stewart; at one time he had been one of the rich men of that millionaires' club the Senate, owning one of the most magnificent private houses in Washington. In the earlier days he extracted huge fees from the law suits of western mines; at another time he has been down on his uppers; again he has been engaged in a big dairying project in Virginia; at other times he has dabbled again in Western mines and has run an Eastern mule farm.

Retiring from the Senate last spring, he was again once more a poor man, and with his advanced years it was presumed by the unknowning ones he would sink into obscurity but like some others, "Bill Stewart has never known when he was down and out, and he immediately started forth again in the battle of life with the purpose to again rebuild his fortunes. The chances are more than even that he will although he is nearly four score years.

The Senator expects to reap a profitable harvest from the various legal matters arising out of the vast new gold fields which have been discovered in Nevada. He is an expert on mining law and has at least the precedent established of having received in former years a fortune as a single fee.

Not Crushed by Failure.

Whatever may be said about the Senator politically, his bitterest enemies will not deny that the physical make up of the man is marvelous to the last degree and that his courage is splendid. He is of the type that cannot conceive defeat but goes on fighting.

"This air makes me feel like a four-year-old," he said as he landed in Nevada with his daughter and his newly married young wife. "There's no place like Nevada. I tell you and I figure that I'll be doing a big law business here before long. Better to wear out than to rust out you know."

The Senator's new house was built from what he had saved out of his model dairy in Virginia which put the last touches on a financial ruin that was begun when he tried to force a real estate boom in the direction of "Stewart's Palace," the gorgeous structures he had put up when he was one of the wealthiest men there.

Back Among the Boys.

The new Nevada home is a one-story abode, ornamented with red and white stone. It has ten rooms, the bathroom dazzels with tiles and trappinngs and has a genuine shower bath.

"I want to make it as comfortable as I can for my wife nd daughter," said the old Senator. "They're not as used to roughing it as I am."

A wide veranda stretches around the entire house, and the grounds are being graded, fenced and sodded.

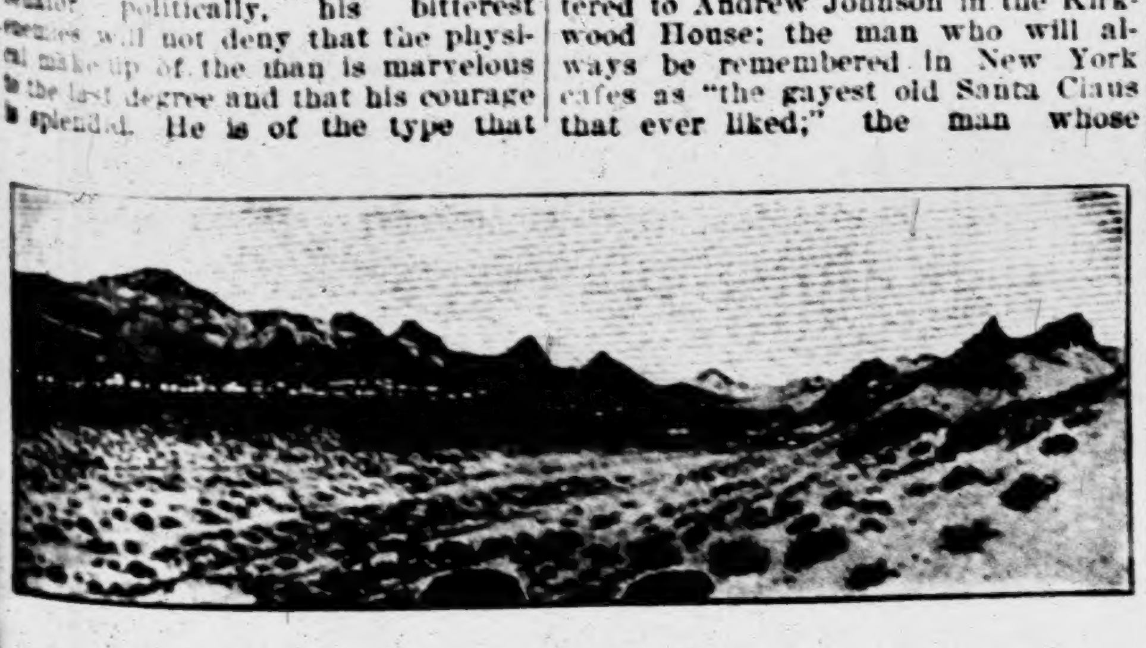
There is a pretty stable and a quaint little chicken house. The Senator has purchased two hundred fowls and in his stable, instead of thoroughbred horses he has a large, sleek pair of mules, which he considers more appropriate to the country.

Of Another Generation.

He is as interested in all these preparations as though he were sixty years younger than he is, and combining a honeymoon with the first serious battle in life. The mules please him as much as if he had never ridden behind the handsomest teams and in the most luxuriouscarriages in the capitol. The house, pretty as it is, compares to his Washington palace about as a penny compares to a $20 dollar gold piece, and yet he is immensely pleased with it.

When you see him laughing, boisterous and boyish, taking the keenest pleasure in all his poor possessions, and seemingly never giving a thought to those he had lost in his old age, you have to rub your eyes and say to yourself:

"Can this really be Senator William M. Stewart who has had the world at his feet time and again, the man who, as leading counsel for the Fair-Flood-Mackay syndicate on the famous Comstock Lode, received in one fee $250,000, then the largest sum ever received by any lawyer in the world in a single fee; the man who was in his prime when President Lincoln was assassinated, and who is the only living person that saw the oath administered to Andrew Johnson in the Kirkwood House; the man who will always be remembered in New York cafes as "the gayest old Santa Claus that ever liked;" the man whose political career has had more crooks and turns than a Boston street; the man who controlled the state of Nevada absolutely; the man who has not even great piety or overscrupulous integrity to cheer him in misfortune and enable him to look back over a pathway of good deeds and noble endeavors—can it be that this happy, vigorous, hopeful septuagenarian is actually Senator Stewart?



VIEW OF RHYOLITE, NEVADA, SENATOR STEWART'S NEW HOME.

CLIMATE IN MANCHURIA.

It Plays a Prominent Part in the Fortunes of War.

The climate of Manchuria plays an important role in the war between Russia and Japan. Up to the present we have had but little precise information upon this point. M. J. Ross has lately given the Scientific American indications as to the climate of that region and the character of the different seasons. He states that in the months of March and April there are strong southwest winds which bring with them heat and moisture. At the end of March the winter season ends. The undersoil is still frozen at this time, but the ground can be worked for agriculture. April appears to be the only month of spring. At the end of this month the sowing of wheat commences. Summer begins in May, and at the end of June or the beginning of July the wheat is cut. Up to the end of June rain is rare and the sky is generally clear, while cloudy weather is an exception. The heat reaches a maximum at the end of July and first part of August. Afterward come heavy rains or storms. It often rains for several days and nights without stopping. The soil is completely saturated and inundations are frequent.

September is the harvest month, while October gives some of the finest weather of the year. At this time the climate is agreeable during the day and the sky is clear, with bracing air, while vegetation is at its height. At the end of the month the first night frosts begin to appear, and in November the cold weather commences and keeps up until March. At Mukden the temperature sometimes reaches a very low degree. During the day, however, the cold is not excessive, and sometimes in the middle of the winter the sun's rays become very warm, on account of the southerly position of that locality. The maximum temperature of summer is 100.4 deg. F. About ten months of the year are dry for the most part, and the excessive wet season only occurs during a month or so. At Niuchwang, on the north shore of the gulf of Liaotung, the mean winter temperature is 16 deg. F., and the mean fo the summer, 74.8 deg. The mean annual temperature is 47.1 deg. F. The Russian maritime provinces have a very low mean annual temperature. At Vladivostock the average for the winter is 10.2 deg. F., and for the summer it is only 39.9 deg. F.

THE RIGHTS OF MAN.

They Should Include an Opportunity to Make a Home on a Piece of Land.

The right to work, to employ one's self, comes from Nature, and not from legislative action. If that is true, says the Detroit News Tribune, it follows that legislatures have no right to make regulations which will permit the cornering of opportunities for self-employment. The United States laws governing our national domain of land were originally designed to conform to the rights of man. Our homestead acts were designed to place the land in the hands of those who would actually use it productively, and much of the land was so parcelled out to the great advantage of society. But cunning lawyers and unscrupulous men who want to reap where they have not sown, who seek to avoid productive labor themselves by controlling the opportunities of self-employment, have succeeded in cornering large sections of the United States. The revelations of the land frauds in the West are worthy of great attention, but they excite less interest than do our troubles with President Castro of Venezuela. The astonishing fact is learned that one man has acquired nearly 15,000 square miles of public land. He does not want to use it himself, and his only object is to make others pay him for the privilege of using it. He therefore makes it more difficult for men to employ themselves, and the rights of man are to that extent denied.

20th Century Empire Building.

Great as is the power of war in the building of an empire—and the Japanese-Russian war will probably make a great nation of Japan—there is an even greater force at work in the world that will in the end decide the fates of peoples. This is the power of one nation to absorb the individuals rather than to wipe out or swallow another government. The Twentieth Century will probably witness the greatest centralization of peoples under vast empires, that the world has seen since the days of Roman greatness. When the century ends, the outlook is that there will be a half dozen first nations, created by assimilation instead of war. Japan will be one, with its influence felt throughout Eastern Asia. Russia will, of course, advance. Germany will probably have absorbed Austria. The Latin races of Southern Europe may have combined for self-protection. England will go on empire building, and the United States will have spread over the continent, and maybe two continents, besides having absorbed vast numbers of peoples from all countries of the earth.

With His Favorite Punch.

From the Washington Post.

Colonel Watterson said he would enter the political arena again in the fall, but declined to tell just how, says the New York Sun.

It's a safe wager that he will enter it as usual, prodding the elephant.

POLITICAL MACHINERY.

WAS NEVER SO PERFECT, FAR-REACHING AND EFFECTIVE AS TO-DAY.

At the Same Time the Voter Has Never Been So Independent—Educational Campaigns a Feature of Practical Politics.

J. J. Dickinson.

Only one aphorism is known to have been publicly uttered and reiterated by the late Orville H. Platt, a Senator in Congress from Connecticut for a quarter of a century and one of the really great statesmen of our time and country. It was this:

"Ours is a government of parties by parties for the people."

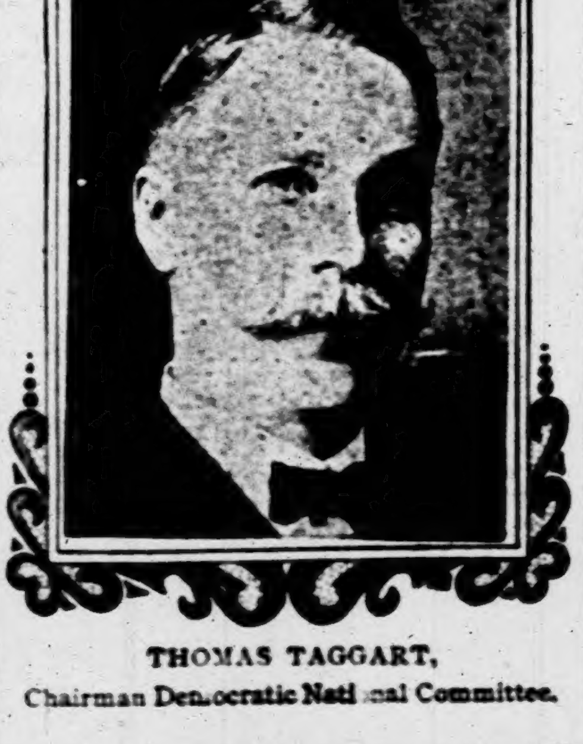
It was by this rule that the fine old Yankee squared his vote at the polls and in the Senate. It guided his thought and action. It accounted for his partisanship, which, though never offensive, was always robust.

HON. GEORGE B. CORTELYOU,

Chairman Republican National Committee.

Insensibly the American people have adopted the Platt aphorism. Party organization was never so strong and carefully nurtured as at present; party discipline was never so rigid; party leadership was never so placidly recognized and implicitly obeyed by party workers. The change has come about in comparatively recent years. In fact, the present generation of voters have witnessed its coming. Samuel J. Tilden showed the way. As a result of his teaching, not party principle, but party organization, won for the Democratic party sweeping victories in Republican strongholds and was started fairly on the road to a long lease of national control. Then appeared the late Marcus A. Hanna from his business cloister and gave impulse within his party to a movement similar to that which, under the tutelage of Tilden, had brought surprising victories to the Democrats.

The spirit of organization which now animates both of the great parties is not indolent or lukewarm between campaigns. In an important sense, it is as active now as it was when the lines of battle were drawn after the national conventions of last summer had done their work. The difference between them is made conspicuous by reason of the fact that the Republican party is in power and its central organization—the National Committee—is necessarily more in evidence than its counterpart in the opposition organization—the Democratic National Committee. These central bodies of the two great parties have lines of subsidiary organizations reaching down through the States, cities, Congressional districts and counties to the voting precincts.



THOMAS TAGGART,

Chairman Democratic National Committee.

Between campaigns, the National Committees are neither idle nor unwatchful. The permanent headquarters of the Republican National Committee are in Washington, and are under the immediate supervision of Elmer Dover, the committee's secretary, and formerly Senator Hanna's private and confidential secretary. The committee's headquarters occupy rooms in one of the finest office buildings in the National Capital. The Hon. George B. Cortelyou, who vacated a seat at President Roosevelt's Cabinet board to succeed Mr. Hanna as chairman of the National Committee in order that, at the President's request, he could direct the militant forces of Republicanism in the last campaign, has not been able to even nominally surrender the reins of party management, although the vast responsibilities of the Postmaster-Generalship devolved upon him at the beginning of this year.

It was under the Hanna regime that permanent headquarters of the Republican National Committee were established in Washington. Mr. Hanna set the fashion of the chairman of the National Committee settling quarrels between warring factions, quarrels that threatened so to disrupt the party between campaigns as to seriously darken its prospects in intervening State, Congressional and city elections.

The Democratic National Committee's headquarters are nominally in the offices of Chairman T. T. Taggart, in Indianapolis, though much of the work of that organization is still done in New York by August Belmont and Wm. F. Sheehan, the leading members of the Executive Committee in the last campaign. As the Democrats have no Federal patronage to dispense, the work that falls to Messrs. Taggart, Belmont and Sheehan is of a purely advisory and supervisory character. It goes without saying, of course, that the Hon. William J. Bryan has very great influence in the decisions as to policies, even though he is clothed with no official authority.

The organizations next in importance to the National Committee are the State Committees. In each of the forty-five States both of the old parties maintain central committees, whose functions within their respective jurisdictions are similar to those of the National Committees.

The Congressional National Committee stands next in the line of our militant political system. These committees are of comparatively recent origin, and are a logical development of our party government system. Each party in Congress selects its own committee in caucus in Washington usually just before the expiration of the Congress then in session. Each committee in turn selects its officers, who, as a rule, are members of the House. Both of these committees have permanent headquarters in Washington, from which are conducted those fierce biennial struggles for control of the House of Representatives. Attached to each committee is a corps of salaried assistant secretaries, stenographers, etc.

City, ward, county and precinct committees, State legislative and senatorial committees, Congressional committees in each district of the States, judicial district committees, not to mention the myriad host of political clubs of mushroom growth and others of stable life and permanent habitations, complete a line of political organizations that ramify every avenue of our activities and are in the woof and web of our national life.

Nearly every candidate for President keeps always in his employ—rarely, of course, avowedly—a well-organized machine, usually headed by one or more alert and enterprising press agents and seconded by practical politicians ranging in the social scale from the highly respectable corporation president to the much-abused ward worker. These private machines are grinding from the close of one Presidential campaign to the opening of the next. In a word, so numerous are the political organizations, so varied are their methods, so unceasing are their activities that the American voter finds it virtually impossible to escape surveillance.

With all this marvelous perfection of political machinery, however, it is worthy of note that at no time in the recent history of the United Staes has the American voter shown more independence of thought. In fact, this is one of the reasons for the unceasing labor and vigilance of party leaders. To test public opinion, to follow popular sentiment in the making of platforms and the nomination of candidates is one of the important functions of organization. The American voter is intelligent, alert and independent. The party machinery of to-day is not created for the purpose of driving men, like sheep, to the polls or in the expectation of hoodwinking the voters. It exists for the purpose of crystallizing and making effective a particular political creed. It can do nothing more than this.

ANCIENT AND MODERN JEW.

Peculiar Customs in Blowing the Rams on Jewish New Years.

The customs of different religious bodies have undergone many changes since their inauguration, and these changes are as marked among the Jews as they are other religious bodies. A few ancient customs, however, are still followed out as they were in the days of Moses, by the strictly orthodox Jews, especially in certain parts of Europe, and among those orthodox Jews who, owing to persecution at home, have come to America to make this land their future home, where they may enjoy religious liberty.

ANCIENT MANNER OF BLOWING THE RAM'S HORN.

On September 30 is the Jewish New Year, this year Number 5666, one of the most sacred holidays to the Jew, when all petty quarrels are forgotten, and every man is at peace with his neighbor.

The Jewish New Year is observed in accordance with the injunction:

"And in the seventh month on the first day of the month shall ye have a holy convocation; no servile work shall ye do; a day of blowing the cornet shall it be unto you."—Numbers xix.1.

But it is observed quite differently by the orthodox and the reform Jews.

The cornet mentioned in the bible is made from a ram's horn, and is known as the "shofar," and is used in all Jewish synagogues on this New Year's day.

MODERN JEW BLOWING THE RAM'S HORN.

In the strictly orthodox church the man who has the duty of blowing the shofar must be an exceedingly strict Jew. He must not have shaved his beard; indeed the ancient Jew never shaved. He must not have committed any offence which would bar him from this sacred office. When he is ready to blow the shofar he dons the "tallith," a silken cloth, and takes his stand at the altar, beside the rabbi, and at certain places in the service blows the solemn sounds.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated
by Ernest
Haskell

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

13TH THOUSAND
ALREADY

All Bookstores,
$1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion." —St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story." —N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study." —N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs—I inclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy "The Missourian."
Name ....
Address ....
Ky. Ky.

GERMAN NURSES BEST.

MORE NATURAL METHODS EMPLOYED THAN BY AMERICANS.

Early Months of a German Baby's Life are Very Quiet and Simple.—Fancy Baby Clothes Tabooed.

The mother of a large family of American children chanced to be living abroad when the last baby was born, and she has since often times said that she wished all of her children had been born in Germany.

The last little girl, during its first three months of existence, in charge of a native German nurse, was not only more comfortable, but better cared for in every way than the other children who were born in America. The little girl was brought up by the native German method, and this means, in the first place, that the German baby is treated scientifically. Nor does this signify by the rules of a recently acquired experimental science, the result of attending a series of mothers' congresses, but a science which is the inheritance of the race.

Plain Clothing; No Frills.

In the wardrobe of a German baby there are no dainty little dresses with frills and laces and blue ribboned petticoats and ruffles and furbelows. It has, in place of these, an ample supply of little chemises, merino undershirts, and diapers, while for a dress, a two-yard square of white flannel serves.

A case is recounted of one proud American mother who exhibited with maternal delight the dainty things she had brought over for the expected baby. She was much shocked and hurt to see them all brushed ruthlessly aside—all but the shirts—and further to see all the lovely baby coats, with their fine embroidery, heartlessly ripped from the waists. The other things, she was advised, would not be needed for three months.

The Dressing Table.

For the German baby's bath his little tub is filled with tepid water and he lies entirely immersed, only his little face above the surface, his back and head supported on the nurse's arm. Then he is rolled and patted dry in his towels in the usual way, after which he is dressed, not on the nurse's knee, but on the "Wickeltisch," or swaddling table, a conveniently high commode with top slightly slanting, before which the nurse stands. If this is not available, an ordinary table is always used.

First, the batiste chemise is put on, and then the merino shirt, both fastened in the back by strings. Then comes the diaper, and then from under the arms the baby is simply swaddled in his blanket, which is turned up at the bottom and pinned together like a meal sack.

If the youngster inclines to curl his legs or to lie with his knees curved, they are tightly bandaged with a broad linen band. Cruel, you say? It seems so, perhaps, but the babies do not appear to mind. Your German nurse never uses talcum powder unless it is absolutely necessary.

The Lung Development.

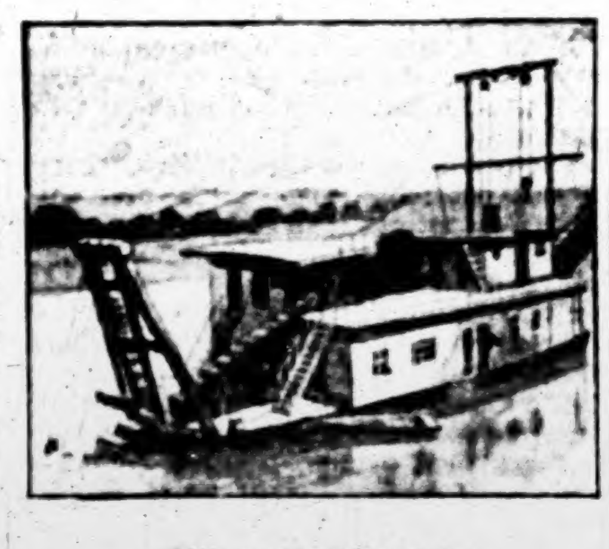
Having dressed the baby, he is now ready for his bottle, followed by a nap. This he takes in his carriage or in his crib, and these are never, never joggled or rocked. He is placed flat on his back for his bottle, and must not be moved for one hour after. He is not expected to be a soundless baby. In fact, he is, as it were, if necessary, made to cry for a portion of the twenty-four hours. The German nurse makes him entirely comfortable and then leaves him entirely alone. In a short time he shows signs of impatience and sets up a lusty wail, thus giving his lungs the needed exercise. There is little difference between the American German method of feeding bottle babies, sterilized milk being used.

Quietude for Three Months.

The first three months of the German baby's life is very quiet. He is allowed to grow and is handled as little as possible. After this, if he is strong enough, he is dressed, and his treatment then depends upon the family into which he is fortunate enough, or possibly unfortunate enough, to have been born.

A New Gold Digger.

The present yield of gold is double what it was ten years ago, now amounting to a million dollars a day. Within the next ten years it bids fair to double again. This advance in the last decade is largely due to the invention of the cyanide process. Outside of new discoveries the gold output for the future will be largely increased by what Alexander Delmar calls a gold ship, a dredge that moves over the land and extracts every particle of gold out of long neglected placers. This Eldoradian ship is now beginning to clean up the abandoned places of California and will soon be doing the same in Brazil, Siberia, Mexico and Peru.



THE GOLD DREDGE.

What is this wonderful gold ship which extracts every scintilla of yellow metal. It is, according to the New York Engineering Magazine, simply a dredge that floats on a pond of its own making—a pond which accompanies it wherever it chooses to go and enables it to move over the land in any direction. It scoops up the gravel, subjects it on its decks to the desired chemical action, and then casting it behind, keeps on advancing until the field before it is sifted and treated from surface to bed rock.

GOSSIP FROM ABROAD.

Tales of Diplomatic and Court Intrigue.

When Edward was simply Prince of Wales, he owed Poole, the London tailor, at times as much as $1[illegible], and even suffered the tailor to address him in public places without fear of the Tower. There are several distinguished Pooles in England but none so famous as Tailor Poole. One day at Ascot, Poole, hovering near the Prince's person and seeking to be agreeable, remarked, sweeping his hand over the assemblage, "Your Royal Highness, the crowd to-day appears to be rather mixed." The Prince, who always hated a snob, looked amusedly at Poole and replied: "Well, Poole, we can't all be tailors."

KING EDWARD.

Poole renders his accounts once a year, just around Christmas. If not paid he waits twelve months and sends a second bill. Such as do not pay on receipt of the second statement are dropped from his books, and never again are they allowed to give an order in his establishment.

Speaking of clothes, the Duke of Norfolk is a man of simple tastes, and yet he is the possessor of the most extravagant costume in England. The uniform which he wears as Earl Marshal represents an outlay of over $1,500, exclusive of jewels. Seventeen thousand yards of embroidery are worked into the coat in gold lace until little of the original cloth is to be seen. His Grace feels more at home in his old clothes I assure you.

There is nothing in which Lady Minto, wife of the Governor General of Canada, and successor of Lord Curzon, of India, takes more pride than in her own children. Her eldest daughter, Lady Eileen, was born during their first visit to Canada as Lord and Lady Melgund. Her other daughters are Lady Ruby and Lady Violet Elliott, and both are still in school. The youngest son, the Hon. Esmond Elliott, is a cheery and much admired youngster.

The yearly allowance of the Mikado, which is at the same time that of the whole imperial family, is now $1,500,000. Besides, he has the yearly incomes of $500,000 from the interest on the $10,000,000 which was given to him from the war indemnity received from China ten years ago, or $250,000 from his private estates, which amount to $5,000,000 or more; of $500,000 from the forests, covering an area of 5,1[illegible],873 acres and valued at $512,487,300 at $100 an acre; in all, $1,250,000. Thus his yearly net income amounts to $2,750,000. There are in all sixty members in the imperial family, inclusive of eleven married and four widowed princesses, who are members of the family by marriage, not by birth.

Lord Cassillis pronounces his name "Castles." At a reception one night his hostess failed to recognize him. Quite sharply she demanded his name. He replied "Castles," and he was practically turned out. Next morning he received her card of invitation and a polite explanation of the cause of her mistake.

Vegetarianism is becoming a cult among the British aristocracy, and includes among its followers, Lady Anglesey, Lady Essex, Lady Gwendolen Herbert, Lady Windsor, Baron and Baroness de Meyer, Lord Buchan, Lord Charles Beresford, Neville Lytton and Canon Edward Lyttelton, now provost of Eton.

Van Calava.

Japanese Verse.

Eastern writers report the Japanese to be a nation of verse writers, from the Imperial family down to the coolies in the rice fields and the rickshaw man. Occasionally a poem by the Emperor or Empress has appeared in translation in America. Professor Arthur Lloyd of the Imperial University in Tokyo has collected and translated nearly 200 pages of these verses. The following is the translation of an Imperial song of Her Majesty, the Empress:

"Take heed unto thyself; the mighty God
That is the Soul of Nature, sees the good
And bad that man in his most secret heart
Thinks by himself, and brings it to the light.

* * *

A "Tanka" by the Emperor runs:

"The foe that strikes thee,
For thy country's sake Strike him with all thy might;
But while thou strikest,
Forget not still to love him."

* * *

By the Crown Prince:

"On fair Arashi's slopes the rooted pine-trees stand;
So midst the storms and wind, firm rooted, stands Our Land."

THE LEMON A SPECIFIC.

Obviates Need of Doctors and Drugs. Should be Used Without Sugar.

Drink expert Warman recommends the drinking of lemon water. Lemon water, without sugar, he believes, is of great medicinal value. It makes a beverage that will cool the blood, clear the brain, remove biliousness, clear the complexion, and save the expenditure of money for drugs and doctor bills and a few other things—a health drink that can not be discounted.

But do not use sugar with the lemon. It neutralizes the effect that would otherwise be produced. Consider for a moment, he says, a few of the uses of the lemon.

In the morning, half an hour or more before breakfast, take the juice of half a lemon in a glass of cold water. It will clear the system of humor and bile without any of the effects of calomel, congress water, or any drastic drug. But the benefit is more than doubled by repeating this just before retiring. This is a much safer way to get the better of a bilious condition than resorting to quinine or blue pills.

Do not irritate the stomach by taking the lemon clear. The powerful acid of the juice, when taken alone, is always most corrosive and invariably produces inflammation, if long continued, but when properly diluted so that it does not harm or draw the throat, it does its medical work, and when the stomach is clear of food it has abundant opportunity to work through the system thoroughly.

Not only is the drink of lemon water an excellent liver corrective, but, if taken in hot water instead of cold, it will prove a very efficacious anti-fat remedy.

It is better than any drug or complexion powder for giving permanent clearness and beauty to the skin.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a small cup of black coffee will relieve bilious headache.

Two or three slices of lemon in a cup of strong tea will cure a nervous headache.

Lemon juice has also been used in Germany, with marked effect, in cases of rheumatism, especially articular rheumatism.

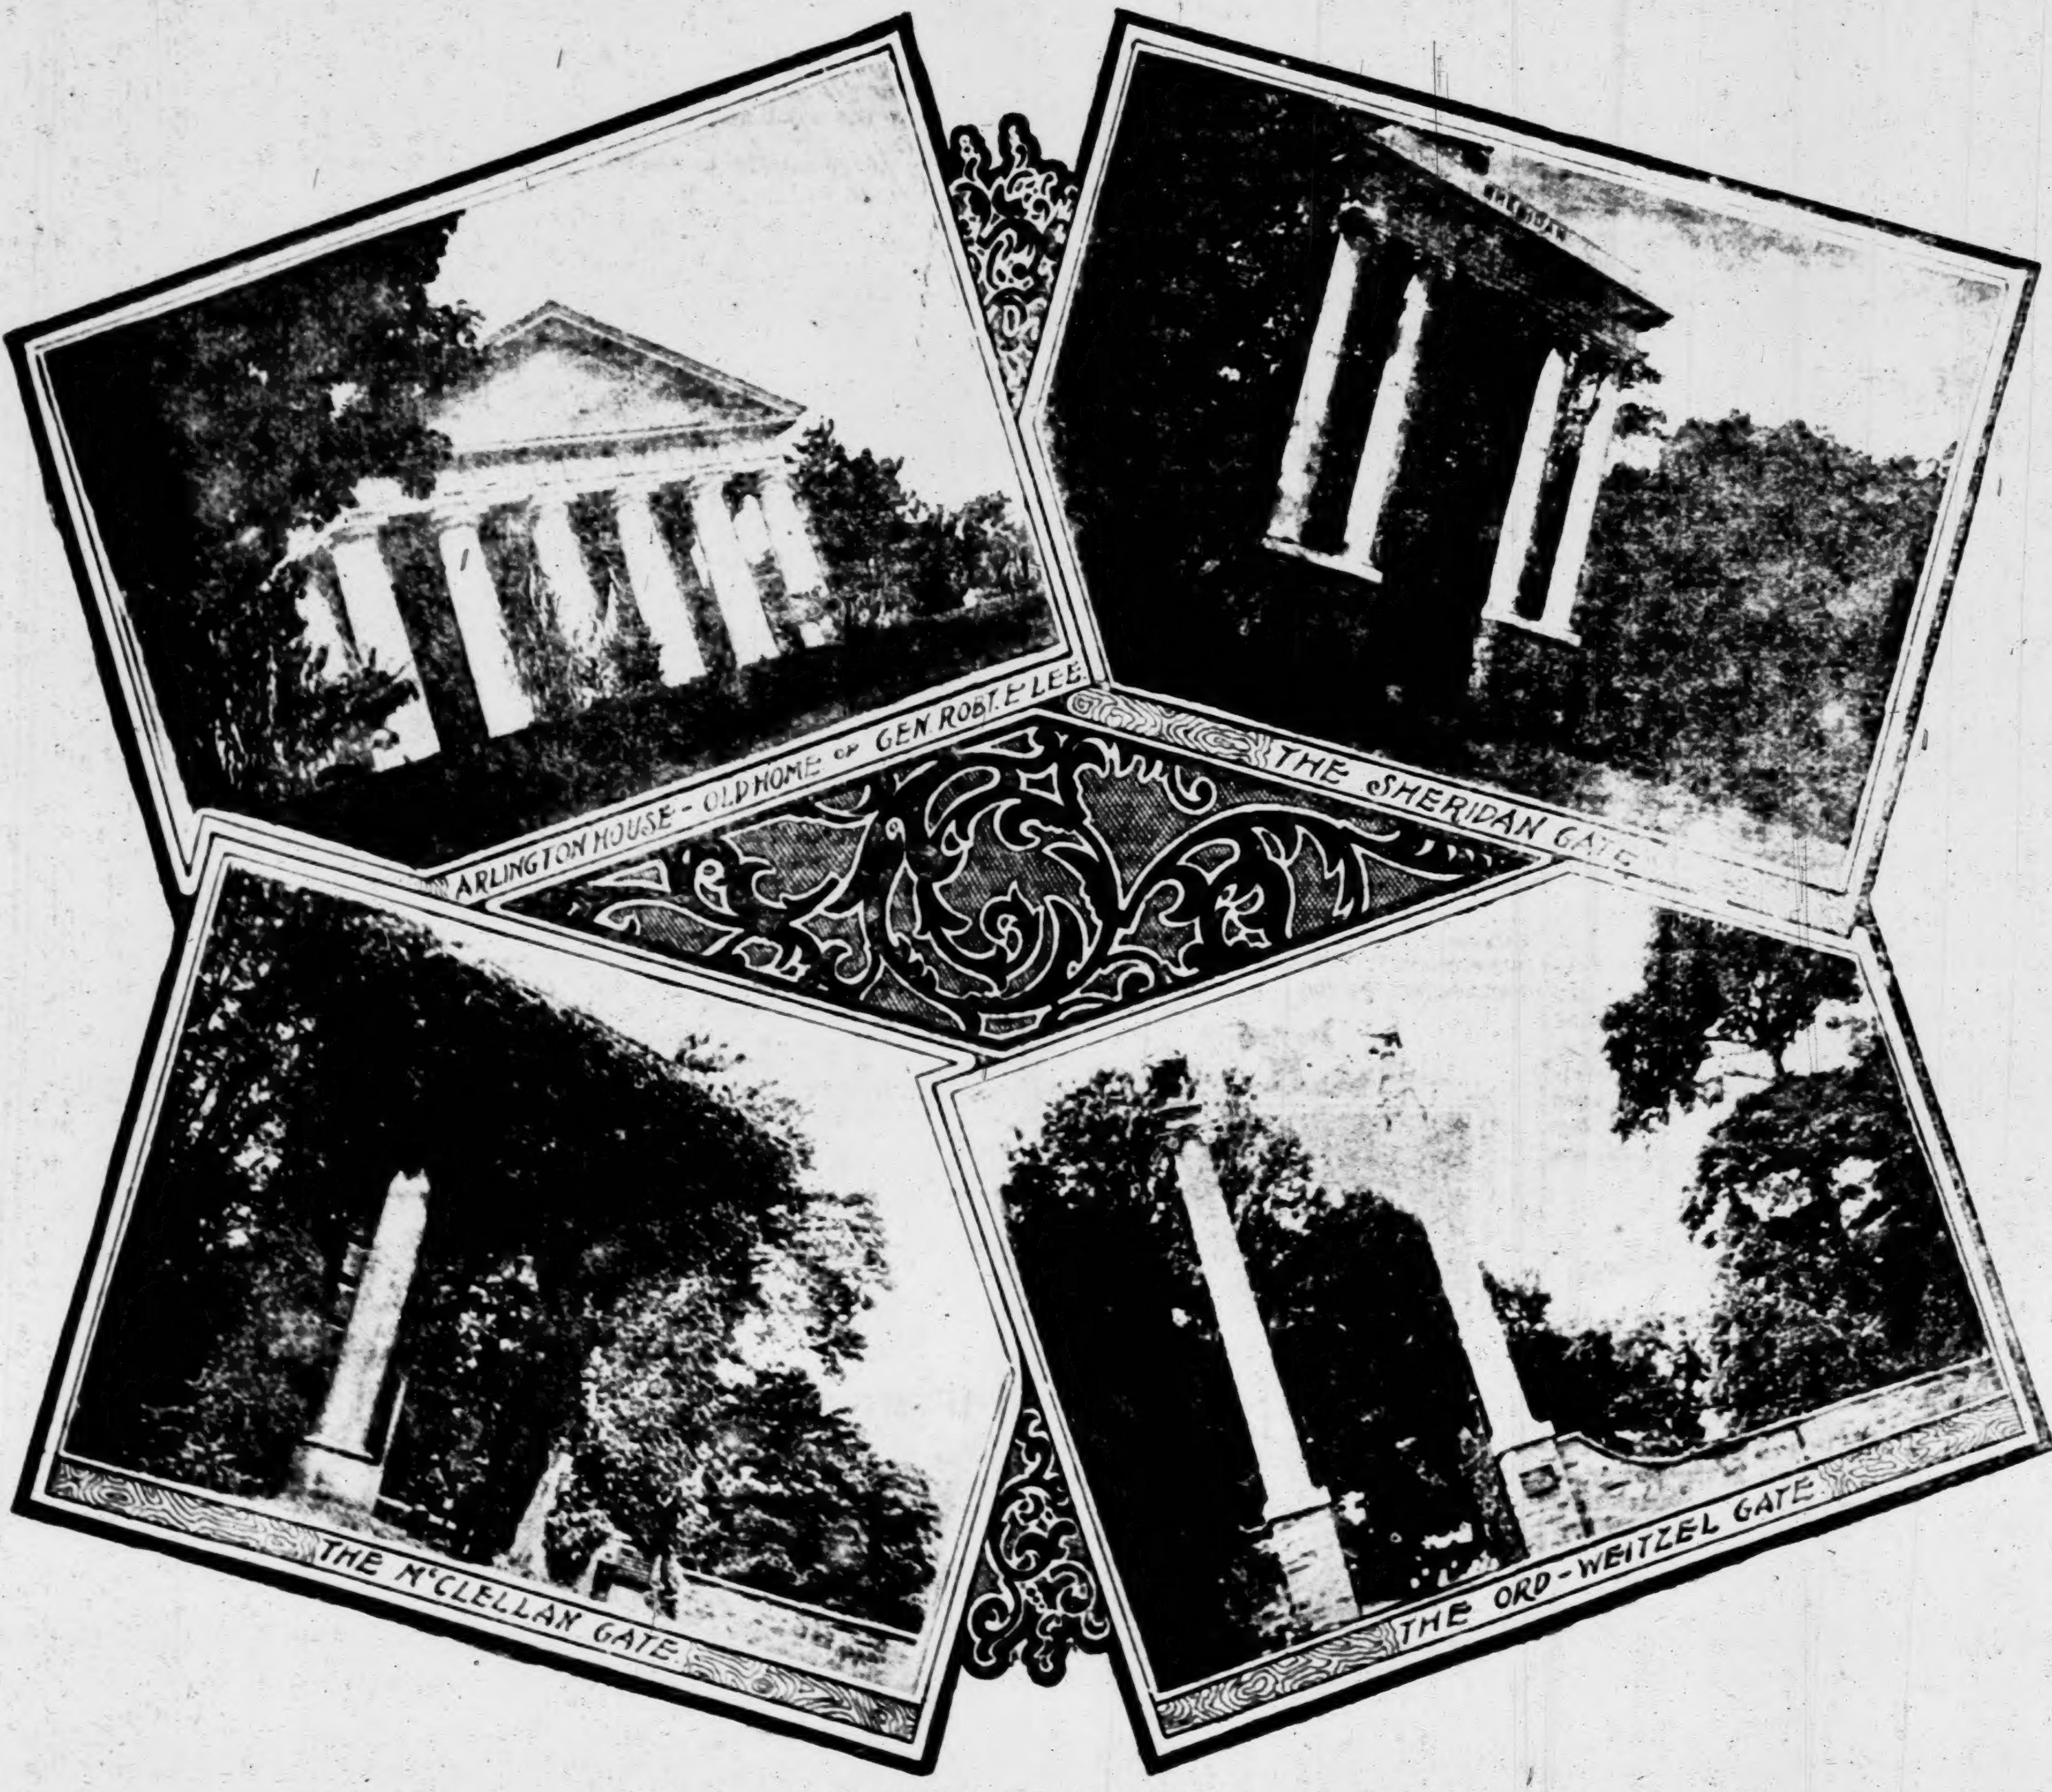
Spain's King a Humorist.

Spain's youthful king is still, it seems, very much of a boy, at least in spirit. He is apparently too closely wedded to his "hobbie" to care to consider seriously any other sort of marriage [illegible] that every once in awhile he drops [illegible] in a way productive of much embarrassment to his [illegible].

His latest prank was played in the great cathedral at [illegible], to which his majesty paid an unofficial visit recently. He had gone into the organ loft—for Alfonso's education has made of him an organist of ability as well as a fluent linguist—and had begun to play a chant when, with no warning whatever, he switched off into a sharp military march, at the same time calling out in a loud voice:

"'Tention! Quick step! March!"

Priests and people were for the instant too surprised to do anything but gasp, and the next minute there were the solemn strains of the chant again, with the hearty laughter of the king heard beneath them.



THE GATES OF ARLINGTON.

Arlington National Cemetery has three gateways of rare distinction and architectural beauty, though few of even Washington's residents are acquainted with this fact. Visitors seldom enter or leave the majestic place through these portals. The reason for this is that Arlington has changed front, or, that circumstance has changed its front. The great public surges in and out of Arlington through what was the back gate. This is now called the main west gate, and it is a commonplace double gate of ornate iron rods and spears, glittered over with gold-leaf, and such a gate as may be seen in other national cemeteries or Government reservations.

The beautiful gates of Arlington stand on the east face of the estate. The ancient Georgetown-Alexandria road, a section of the old post highway stretching from the New England to the Southern colonies, skirts the east boundary of Arlington. Though in other days this was a great thoroughfare, it is little traveled now. Other roads and steam and electric transport have deflected traffic.

Arlington House faces east. In the time of George Washington Parke Custis, grandson of Mrs. Martha Dandridge-Custis-Washington, and the ward of George Washington, the main entrance to Arlington was from the east and at the spot where the Sheridan Gate stands. George Washington Parke Custis built Arlington House. At the death of his father, John Parke Custis, aide-de-camp to George Washington, at Yorktown, he went to live at Mount Vernon. His home was there till the death of Mrs. Washington, in 1802. Then he began the construction of Arlington House on land inherited from his father. He cut a winding drive from the Alexandria-Georgetown road to the crest of the height where Arlington House stands. Robert E. Lee, the husband of George Washington Park Curtis' daughter, while on duty at the War Office, always rode his horse between home and office and used the east gate.

In the spring of 1861 the Federal Government established military camps on the plateau west of Arlington, and it was from these camps that the army of McDowell set out in July, '61, to the attack of Beauregard, on Bull Run. The buildings on the Arlington estate were converted to hospital uses. The big camps west of Arlington created new roads between Georgetown and the camps and these roads passed around to the rear of Arlington. Fort Whipple, one of the cordon of fortification for the defence of Washington, was erected west of Arlington, and the site of this Civil War earthwork is now covered by the important cavalry post, Fort Myer. Villages have come into being in that neighborhood, the highways have been improved, an electric car line built and thus have been cut channels through which nearly everyone passes in and out of Arlington.

The eastern gates are at the foot of a long, steep hill, and there are no graves near the McClellan or Sheridan gates, though the Ord-Weitzel gate leads into a part of the cemetery where five thousand men, mostly colored soldiers, are buried.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES

LOOSE TENSION TIGHT 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means [illegible] and easier sewing.

It's our own [illegible] and is found only on the WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other [illegible] improvements that [illegible] the careful buyer [illegible] our elegant H. T. [illegible]

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million [illegible] allowed our clients [illegible] six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed [illegible] the last six months. Disability, Age and increase pensions [illegible] in the shortest possible [illegible] Widows' claims Usually granted within 90 days if placed [illegible] only on soldier's [illegible] fixed by law and [illegible] allowed pension. A [illegible] experience of [illegible] years [illegible] officially calls at Pension [illegible] are at your service. [illegible] ences furnished. [illegible] trates pecuniarily benefited by [illegible] claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.
Warder Bld'g, Washington D.C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, [illegible]

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin

PIANOS AND ORGANS

Foster's Ideal Cribs

Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION
Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

Agents Wanted

To Canvass for the

United States Senator Number

NOW PUBLISHED.

The issue contains portraits of the two from each State in the Union. This [illegible] made from recent exclusive sittings for the

NINETY MEMBERS

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 x 8 inches in size

are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced [illegible] forms the most valuable [illegible] of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of [illegible] value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

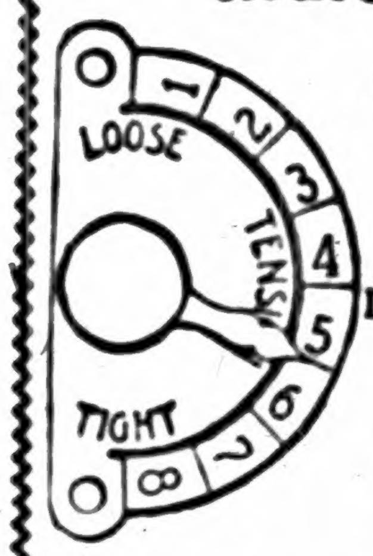
The Budget Company,
220 Washington Street,
Boston, Mass.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of Developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.



A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE
Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately after soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for [illegible] Send for free copy. Read it, [illegible] want to subscribe. 6 month's trial [illegible] Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal
Cribs
Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

RAPHERS
es and Scales Away

ticles and scales cause you trouble?
developers, put up READY TO USE.
he developing tray and add the water—latter. Large quantities of developer il. With our developers you only make ubes sufficient for 24 ounces of devel-other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and will not stain the fingers or nails, and oner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

HIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

His LORDSHIP'S CHAUFFEUR

By Cyril K. Twyford

They were sitting in chairs hidden away among the palms and flowers on the roof of the houseboat Sunshine. A great moon topped the pine-clad hills above Wargrave.

The [illegible] of the bright July night was broken only by a rich baritone voice singing a Southern love song to a banjo accompaniment on one of the neighboring boats.

From the saloon below there came every now and then the jarring sound of "No trumps." "May I play?" "Having no hearts?"

The girl turned to her companion. "I really believe that when mama dies she will turn into a bridge marker."

The man gave a short laugh. "Yes, it is a sacrilege to play bridge on a night like this. 'In such a night Medea gathered the enchanted herbs.'"

"Please don't get poetical; besides, it's Kipling."

"I wasn't being poetical, and I was quoting Shakespeare, not Kipling," he retorted.

"Oh, well, it does not matter, they are both alike. But seriously, Bob, I don't think mama has an idea in life beyond getting me married."

"I don't suppose not," he answered, obviously thinking of something else. Silence followed and the man began to fidget.

The girl turned to him. "Bob, dear, please spare me the trouble of saying I will be a sister to you."

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"Well, you see I know the symptoms. When you are going to propose you always take your handkerchief out of your pocket, put it back with the utmost care, find your cigarette case and suddenly remember that you can not ask permission to smoke while proposing."

"Really, Madge, you're a bit hard on a fellow."

"Don't you know," she continued, "that if I had not stopped you this would have been the seventeenth time that you have proposed to me?"

"Why won't you marry me?"

"Simply I don't see why I should."

"But I'm as good as most other fellows."

"That's just it. You are exactly like other fellows. There is nothing to distinguish any of you except your waistcoats."

"You are rather cruel," he observed.

"Isn't it true?" she said.

"But what on earth do you want me to do?" he asked. "You say I ought to do something. Well, if it will please you I will put on a frock coat and silk hat and row and punt you down to Henley in a canoe."

"Don't be flippant," the girl replied, half laughing, half annoyed.

"Look here," he said, "what do you want me to do? I have dabbled in things and"——

"That's it! That's it," she cried. "You read for the bar; you stand for [illegible]; the war breaks out, and you glorify every one by enlisting and going to the front—for six months. You wrote half a play—you—you—oh, you're impossible, Bob. There's nothing solid or permanent about you." Thoughtfully she continued, "No, I don't see why I should marry you. As mama says, Lord Daventry is a much better match."

"What!" he exclaimed. "You don't mean to tell me that you are going to marry that young ass, Daventry?"

"I don't see why I shouldn't," she said, concealing her amusement. "You are both much alike" (here she nearly laughed outright "and he has the advantage of being a viscount and a millionaire, while you are merely Mr. Robert Langley."

"Madge, you can not be in earnest about marrying him. You shall not marry him. I say you shan't," he exclaimed, and getting up, began to pace the deck.

"Be careful, Bob," she answered. "You are going just the right way to make me want to marry him."

"Look here," he said, coming back and standing in front of her, "at the risk of becoming tedious I have to repeat, Miss Heathmere, that you shall never marry Daventry."

Looking up at him the girl suddenly realized that she loved him. It had needed this touch of masterfulness to bring the long-suspected fact vividly before her.

"Lord Daventry has invited mama and me to tea at Ranelagh on Tuesday next. He is going to drive us down in his new car."

"Which of course you will not go now," he remarked.

"Why not, pray?" she asked.

"Because I don't want you to, Madge; simply I don't."

"Just now when mama nobly announced her intention of sacrificing a whole afternoon's bridge to my interests I said I would not go, but now you forbid it, Master Bob, I most decidedly shall."

"Please, Madge—as the first favor that I have ever asked—I beg of you to let me drive you and your mother down."

"Don't be absurd. Of course I shall go with Lord Daventry," she answered.

"Very well, then I shall stop it."

"How, pray?"

"That will be as I may think fit. But be certain of one thing, Miss Heathmere, you shall drive down to Ranelagh with me and not with Daventry, and you shall take tea with me and not with Daventry."

* * * * *

On the following day the week-end house party broke up, and Bob Langley travelled back to town with mother and daughter, much to the former's annoyance.

Mrs. Heathmere sat in one corner of the carriage and wondered why she had lost that last rubber and incidentally why people who were not wanted could never take a hint when they were given one. It was a well known fact that Langley had ten thousand a year, but then Daventry had as much and a title as well. Yes, she must snub Langley well.

The other two talked commonplaces in a desultory sort of way, neither referring to their conversation of the previous evening.

As Langley handed them into their carriage at Paddington he made a seemingly pointless remark. "By the way, I don't know if I told you that Reggie Daventry can not drive his own motor. I think he is afraid of it." Then bowing he hastened away.

* * * * * *

Lord Daventry sat up in bed and began his breakfast. He was feeling pleased with life. Things were going right. His supper party the night before at the Savoy had been successful. His epigrams more brilliant than usual, moreover, his new pink silk dress waistcoat had created quite a sensation even among chosen companions who were more or less accustomed to bask in the sunshine of his genius. Even the coming of his man Jackson with a blank sheet of paper in his hand failed to upset his good humor.

"What! no epigrams again this morning?" he exclaimed. "Why, you only had three for me yesterday."

"Very sorry, milord," said Jackson. "I have been turning out on an average six epigrams a day for your lordship for the last two years, and I am beginning to 'dry up,' if you will pardon the expression."

"Jackson, it is absolutely necessary that I should make epigrams."

"I know, milord. The only thing I can think of this morning is that your lordship might bring in a travesty of a proverb such as 'Where there's a will there's a—legacy.'"

"That's not up to your usual form, Jackson, and besides it is more or less a pun, and you know I hate puns."

"I am afraid it's the best I can do this morning, milord."

"Well, never mind. Telephone to the stables that I shall want the car at the club about 3:30. I am going down to Ranelagh."

"Will your lordship drive yourself?"

"You know very well that I never do."

"I thought, perhaps, after the month's lessons your lordship has taken"——

"That will do, Jackson. Telephone."

It was a sore point with Daventry that although he possessed one of the largest cars in town and a motor coat which would have aroused the envy of a rhinoceros he had never yet had the courage to drive himself.

He rose leisurely, dressed with the utmost care and lunched at his club. At 3:30 his car was announced. He got into his enormous motor coat, put on his goggles, and told the chauffeur to go to 267 Brook street.

The car shot forward, darted in and out of the traffic, and after whizzing round the corner into Brook street at a pace that made his lordship clutch at the side of his seat, pulled up at 267 with a jerk.

"What the devil are you up to? Haven't I told you over and over again that I will not be driven at that beastly pace?"

The chauffeur remained silent.

"Why don't you speak, man?"

"Because, milord, I have a very bad cold and have lost my voice," replied the chauffeur in a hoarse whisper.

"Oh, all right then. Get out and ring."

Mrs. and Miss Heathmere promptly appeared, and as the latter came out in her dainty motor suit he thought he had never seen such a charming picture. She hesitated, looking up and down the street, though she hardly knew what she expected to see. Bob Langley's words were ringing in her head. "You shall drive down to Ranelagh with me and not with Daventry. You shall take tea with me and not with Daventry," and though she had not confessed it to herself she had half hoped that he would succeed in making good his words. Greeting their host they entered the car.

"Ranelagh," his lordship said, and with a jerk the huge machine started again. They tore down Brook street, shot across Park lane and flashed round into the park.

"Drive slower!" screamed his lordship.

"Can't—the—engine's—got—out—of—control" panted the chauffeur, as the car dashed along.

"Put the brakes on!" yelled his lordship.

"I'm trying. They won't act."

Just as they were nearing Shepherd's Bush the brakes seemed suddenly to grip.

"I think I can hold her while you get out," shouted the chauffeur.

Shaking with fright, Daventry jumped from the car, handed Mrs. Heathmere out, and was just turning to help her daughter when with a crash the car broke away and vanished in a cloud of dust.

Mrs. Heathmere screamed and dropped in the middle of the road.

"What has happened?" she wailed. "Oh, why did you make me risk the life of my only child in your terrible machine? What will happen to her? Oh, do you think that she will have a painless death?"

"I'm afraid it has got out of control again," began his lordship feebly. "Why could not the d—d idiot hold the infernal thing another minute?"

"Why don't you do something," she cried, "instead of standing there and swearing?"

By this time a crowd had collected anxious to know what had happened.

"I think we had better take the Tube back and inform the police," remarked his lordship dolefully. "I don't see what else we can do." And so saying he seized the unfortunate Mrs. Heathmere and bundled her into the stuffy station.

* * * * *

In the meantime the car had continued its mad career. Miss Heathmere, after she had recovered from the first shock, resigned herself to her fate. After a minute or two the pace had become somewhat slower, and the chauffeur seemed able to steer with ease.

Just as she was going to ask him if he could not turn back and find the others the car gave a sudden swerve and pulled up—inside the gates of Ranelagh.

The chauffeur calmly got down and handed her out. Taking off his cap and mask he cooly remarked:

"I gave you due warning that Daventry should not drive you down here today."

"Bob!" she exclaimed. Then, suddenly remembering how indignant she ought to be, she turned to him. "How dare you! This is nothing more nor less than a gross piece of impertinence. Never speak to me again. Mama will—Oh, it's disgraceful! Drive me back at once, sir."

"Where to?" he asked.

"Where you left mama, of course."

"My dear girl, you don't imagine that your respected parent is still sitting in the middle of the road at Shepherd's Bush waiting for a runaway motor to come back and pick her up."

"I don't believe the motor ever did run away," she remarked.

"Of course it didn't," he observed. "And I think we had better have some tea."

"I shall do no such thing. Besides, it would not be proper with you alone," she added.

"Oh, yes you will," he answered, "and it will be quite proper, as we are engaged."

"What do you mean, Bob? After your disgraceful behavior do you think that I"——

For answer he took her in his arms and kissed her.

A quarter of an hour after when they were sipping their tea on the lawn she asked: "How did you manage to change places with the chauffeur?"

"Oh, a ten-pound note and a promise to take him on if he got discharged did the trick," he answered.

SUGARS AND SYRUPS.

WE PAY $130,000,000 A YEAR FOR SUGAR MADE ABROAD.

Millions of Acres Adapted to Cane and Beets in the South and West. The Maple Sugar Industry.

Sugar is the only important farm product which the United States imports, notwithstanding the fact that it can be profitably produced here from both cane and beets. We use more than 2,000,000 tons of sugar annually, or one-fifth of the entire product of the world, and of this we produce only about one-third.

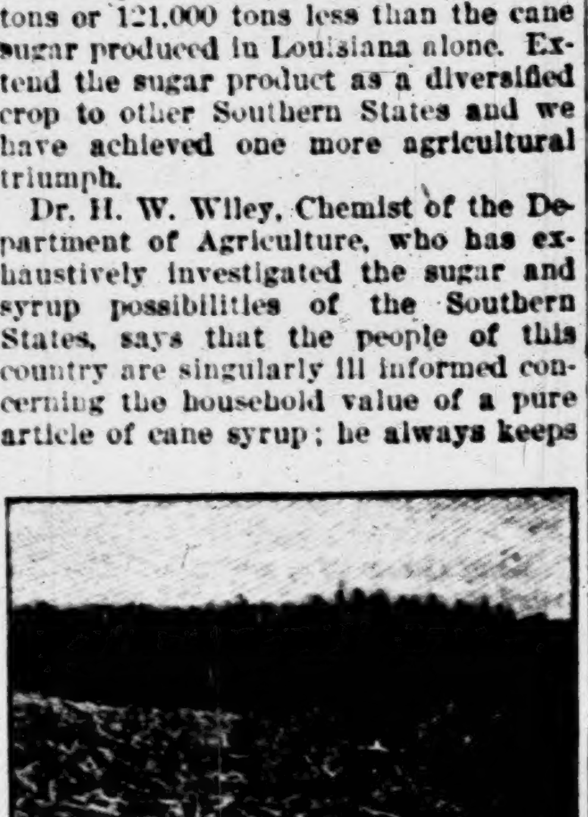
It is estimated by the Department of Agriculture that not less than 140,000 square miles of country in the Gulf and South Atlantic States will grow good sugar canes, a region sufficient to make all the sugar we need.

Cotton, a product of the States in question, is our largest agricultural export, and excepting it no two other staples exported by us equal the value of the sugar imported. All the live stock exported does not represent one-half the value of the sugar brought in every year from foreign lands.

OLD FASHIONED SYRUP BOILING.

Our Southern States alone could produce all our sugar, to say nothing of the sugar possible from beets in the North and West. The sugar from the beet crop of 1904 amounted to 209,722 tons or 121,000 tons less than the cane sugar produced in Louisiana alone. Extend the sugar product as a diversified crop to other Southern States and we have achieved one more agricultural triumph.

Dr. H. W. Wiley, Chemist of the Department of Agriculture, who has exhaustively investigated the sugar and syrup possibilities of the Southern States, says that the people of this country are singularly ill informed concerning the household value of a pure article of cane syrup; he always keeps a supply in his own home, but doubts very much whether any considerable number of consumers in the Northern States have ever tasted the pure article.



STANDING AND CUT SUGAR CANE.

All Southern cane syrup is mixed with other ingredients by the distributors, or is made outright from sugar and glucose. Sugar does not as yet in some sections pay as much per acre as syrup, and the latter could be made still more profitable by replacing its manufacture by the usual crude methods with the improved mill, after the style of the creamery and custom flouring mill in the North.

The farm mill with insufficient apparatus gets hardly more than half the juice, and still the farmer realizes from $75 to $150 an acre, double the amount cotton brings.

To set the pace for the Southern syrup maker, the Department of Agriculture has established an experimental mill at Waycross, Ga., where a syrup of high market quality and uniform color and grade is being manufactured. Dr. Wiley favors the dark colored syrup for the reason that it contains more caramel and flavor than the light varieties. Artificial makes of syrup are usually light and while perhaps not injurious, they lack the flavor and tone of the real article.

Diversity is making gains in the agricultural methods of the South as it is in the North and West, and when this improved system becomes an established fact in our Southern States a prosperity unknown since early days will take hold of the country.

Experiments are being made in various parts of the South to utilize the bagasse, or waste, from cane mills, using it as an absorbent to make the molasses available as dry stock feed. Commenting on these experiments the Agricultural Department recently predicted that the time will come when the manufacture of stock feeds containing molasses will be a great industry. The belief is expressed that the sugar cane world will find in molasses feed for live stock a by-product of sugar manufacture as essential to its success as is the feeding of cattle and horses to the manufacturing distilleries in the Northwest. One of the large sugar refineries in Brooklyn, N. Y., has been mixing molasses with the feed for its truck horses, and finds it not only successful but also about 25 per cent. cheaper than oats and hay. When properly prepared, the molascuit, as the bagasse compound has been termed, carries with it an acceptable flavor to stock and it has the additional value of improving the flavor of any other food with which it is mixed.

CRUDE SUGAR CANE PRESS.

The maple tree now furnishes but a small per cent. of the commercial maple syrup and sugar. While the demand for both these commodities has constantly increased, the output from maple trees has decreased during the last twenty years. The trade has been supplied only by radically adulterating the pure goods, or by manufacturing a product entirely from foreign materials. It is conservatively estimated that seven-eighths of what is sold as maple syrup and sugar is a spurious article. The fault does not lie with the producers, those who tap the trees and reduce the sap to syrup and sugar, but with the dealers, and so-called refiners, who buy the real article and mix and adulterate it in ways most profitably for themselves. The most common substitutes used in the adulteration are other sugars and glucose with flavorings of vanilla or extracts from corn cobs and stalks. Formerly there was a good deal of maple sugar produced in the South, but now Vermont, New York and Ohio are the largest producers. Attempts have been made in the West to produce sugar from sorghum cane, but the syrup can not be successfully granulated, and so far the manufacture has been limited to the making of molasses for local use.

A GIANT BRIDGE.

Clear Span of Third of Mile.

The St. Lawrence is soon to be bridged at Quebec with a bridge having a span of 1,800 feet, being the largest span in the world, exceeding the Firth bridge in Scotland, with its 1,710 feet, and that of the Brooklyn bridge, with 1,680 feet. The weight of the new bridge will be about 35,000 tons and its total length 3,300 feet. It is 150 feet above the highest tide and carries a double track railroad, a double track trolley, a highway and two sidewalks. Of course, an American bridge-building concern is to build the structure, which is to be completed in about two years.

COFFEE
DOES
HURT

Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE
in its place.

That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ills begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

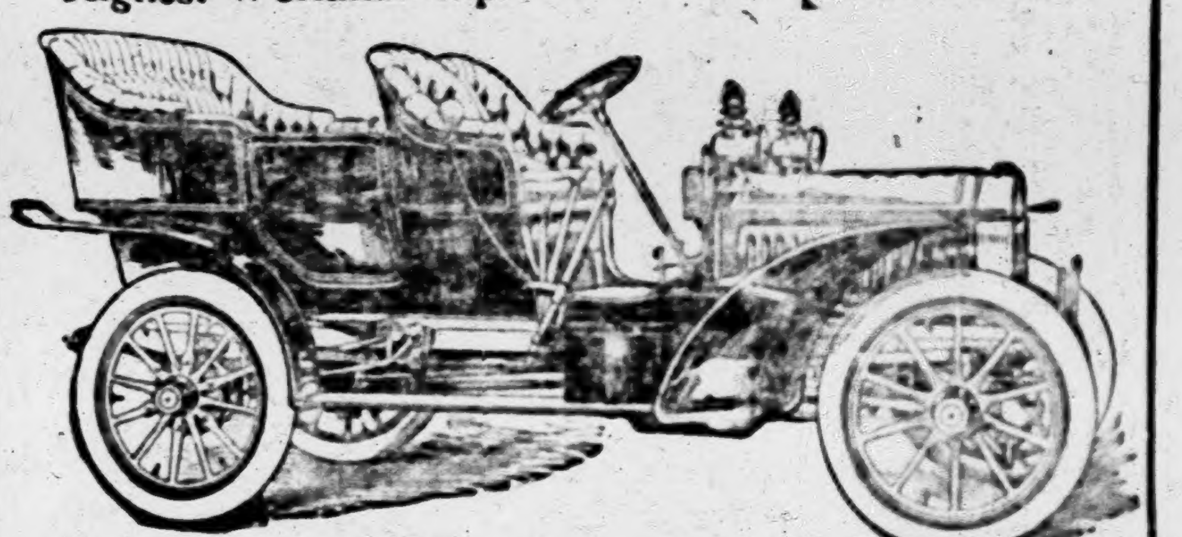
THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS
Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings

No1 (Bicycles)
No2 (Racycle)

Which Stone will Turn Easier?
The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

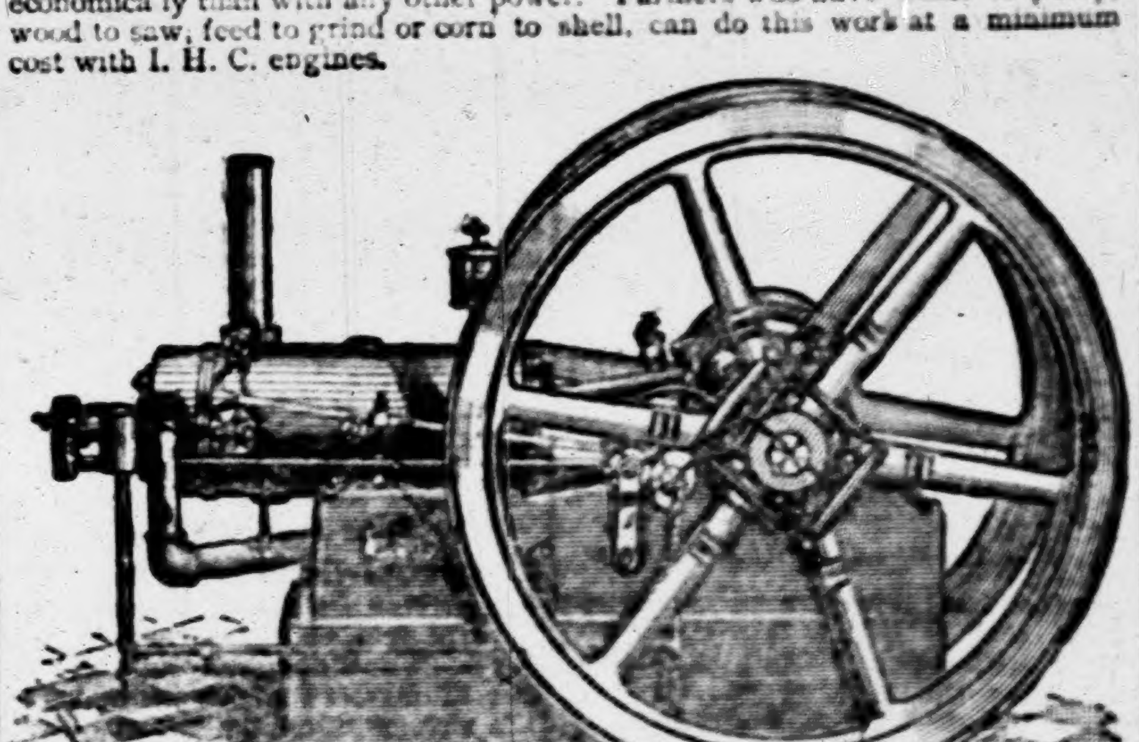
OLDSMOBILES for 1905
THE CAR THAT GOES
Highest Workmanship.
Lowest Prices.



Cars for Immediate Delivery.
Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street
Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

THE HISTORIC SHENANDOAH VALLEY.

Work of the United States Department of Agriculture.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

The famous Shenandoah Valley is one of the best farming sections of Virginia, and I had the pleasure recently of taking a trip, in company with my father, down to its lower end at Harrisburg, probably 140 miles south of Washington. The valley was the scene of many hard fought skirmishes and battles in the late civil war between Sheridan and Early, and we touched at the point where Sheridan made his famous ride to Winchester and turned back the victorious troops of Early. I have more than once heard my uncle, who was a captain in the [illegible] Illinois under Sheridan, relate how after working all night making up his company pay rolls, he had turned out of his tent just in time to see Sheridan riding by on his black charger, swinging his saber, swearing like the typical cavalryman that he was, and shouting to the boys, 'turn back, we've got them licked.' A great fighter too, was Early, who was said never to know that he was whipped.

TWO VIRGINIA CORN FIELDS.
THE GOOD CORN WILL YIELD SIXTY BUSHELS PER ACRE.
THE POOR FIELD NOTHING BUT FODDER

This part of Virginia is full of landmarks of the great civil strife. Many old fashioned houses, with their great outside stone chimneys, tell their own tales of antebellum days when tobacco was King in Virginia, and when peace reigned in the great state which was the Mother of Presidents. Peace again prevails over Virginia and she is now taking on a second prosperity. The Shenandoah Valley, as a whole, is rich in agriculture; it has also many stone quarries and some manufactories. Few prettier places could be found to live in than the country around Harrisonburg.

Nestling Among the Mountains.

The valley nestles between the [illegible] spur of mountains to the west and the Blue Ridge of the Alleghanies to the east. It grows great quantities of corn and wheat; some sheep and cattle are raised and considerable fruit. "The horticultural possibilities of this section of Virginia are wonderful," said one of the fruit men of the Department of Agriculture to me recently. "Old Virginia will yet wake up some day. The main stay of the country, however, now, is the trinity of wheat, corn and grass (timothy and clover). One feature of the trip was a Pekin duck farm with 25,000 birds, which produced, it is claimed, $16,000 last year. But corn and wheat are the principal money crops. Wheat costs about 70 or 75 cents a bushel to raise. This includes seeding the field with timothy and clover and consequently a stand of pasture land, which gets its start from the fertilizer for the wheat crop. So that if a farmer gets 75 cents a bushel for his wheat, he comes out whole and is getting his grass and clover without cost. This rotation of crops and the plowing under of the clover the second year keeps the land fertile and improved.

RUSSIAN SUNFLOWER VIRGINIA.
TWELVE INCH HEAD.
Introduced by Department of Agriculture.

Money in Well Tended Corn.

Corn, well planted and cultivated, is a good money crop in Virginia and is almost necessary to a proper rotation. The average of the Virginia crop is $11.55 per acre; in Illinois, which has much richer soil, the value is $11.59 and much of the corn yield in Virginia is pitiably small. There are thousands of acres of worn-out lands yielding no higher than 20 or 15 or even 10 bushels to the acre. The Shenandoah Valley farmers all say that their good bottom lands, and even some of the uplands, will give 50 and 60 bushels. I noticed large acreages of poorly cared for corn which would not make half a crop, even where the land was apparently fairly good.

It seems singular that so many farmers, not only in Virginia, but in every State, will plough a field, harrow it, fertilize it, and lay it off and plant it, cultivate it once or twice and then through neglect to give it two or more cultivations at the proper time reduce their yield from 20 to 40 per cent. I noticed many corn fields on this trip—and they can be seen in every farming district in Virginia—where the corn had gotten a good start and grown well, up to its first cultivation; then work had ceased on it and the wire grass and weeds were gathering as much fertility as the corn itself.

Corn in Virginia appears to be the favorite crop for planting in young orchards. It is, in fact, believed by many farmers and fruit growers to be the best orchard crop.

It seemed to me that there must be much pleasure in getting up in the early morning and looking over toward a range of mountains with their summits in the clouds and the mists rising from smoke. As the sun breaks over the crests the clouds are dispersed and it is then time for breakfast.

Bureau of Animal Industry.

Dr. D. E. Salmon, who has recently resigned as chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Departmnt of Agriculture, has held that position for over twenty years and has done some of the best work which has been accomplished in that department. Under his direction and supervision the system of inspection of slaughtered meats intended for interstate shipment and export has been brought to a high state of perfection until American meats which are received abroad with the official tag from the Bureau of Animal Industry are assured as good.

The integrity of the American merchant or shipper may be as high as that of the merchants of any other nation, but it is nevertheless a fact that without some such supervisory action on the part of the government, the foreign market would soon be completely killed by unscrupulous dealers, and it is believed that the inspection system of the department has done and is doing more to build up American trade abroad for agricultural products than any other work.

Inspection of Dairy Products.

A very important branch of the Bureau of Animal Industry is the dairy division, and of late years government inspection and regulation, to some extent, has been extended to dairy products. Congress recently passed a law authorizing the Department to inspect butter shipped abroad, and further to supervise and practically compel creameries and renovated butter establishments to adopt cleanly and sanitary methods.

Dr. Salmon resigned, presumably, on account of the charges made against him by reason of his connection with a private corporation supplying tags and labels to the bureau of which he was chief. After an exhaustive investigation by the Department of Justice, Secretary Wilson exonerated Dr. Salmon from any wrong doing in this connection, but, either he himself desired to sever his connection with the government, or it was thought advisable to ask his resignation and later appoint a new man not connected with such charges.

Dr. A. D. Melvin, an assistant in the bureau, has been placed in charge and may become the permanent chief.

Free Farm Bulletin.

The Department of Agriculture has just printed a small bulletin which will be sent free to any farmers applying for it. It outlines the results of a number of farmer's experiments made at the various State Experiment Stations in cooperation with the Department at Washingon. It includes such questions as the top dressing of grass land, peanuts as forage crops; winter killing of fruit trees; cranberry culture lime-sulphur-salt wash for scale insects; clean milk; poultry houses, etc. The bulletin is one of a series known as "Experiment Station Work." Four or five of these particular bulletins are issued by the Department during the course of each year, each one containing from six to a dozen short articles on practical farm matters. These publications are of the most popular and useful little documents issued by the Department. The one referred to is No. 227 and can be had upon application to members of Congress, or Senators, or to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Orange Tree Foe.

The Department of Agriculture has received a report from an agent in Mexico stating that in six and perhaps more states in Mexico he has found traces of the orange maggot, which is a dreaded foe of oranges, and it is feared that this condition might permit of its entry into California.

The Mexicans in attempting to eradicate the maggot have destroyed thousands of orange and mango trees. The multiplication of the orange maggot is said to be something enormous.

Japanese Paper Plant.

Secretary Wilson's men are working to introduce a sort of vegetable leather. It is in reality a paper plant, as much so as the papyrus plant of ancient Egypt, but its uses are manifold, ranging all the way from dainty note paper to water-proof garments—and which are really water-proof under the severest tests—and leather pocketbooks which outwear real leather. The plant is a pretty little shrub called in Japanese "mitsumata," and it is its inner bark which is converted to use. The plant grows in the mountains of Japan, and Explorer Fairchild, of the Department of Agriculture, believes that it will thrive over a large part of the Appalachian range and other similar sections of the United States.

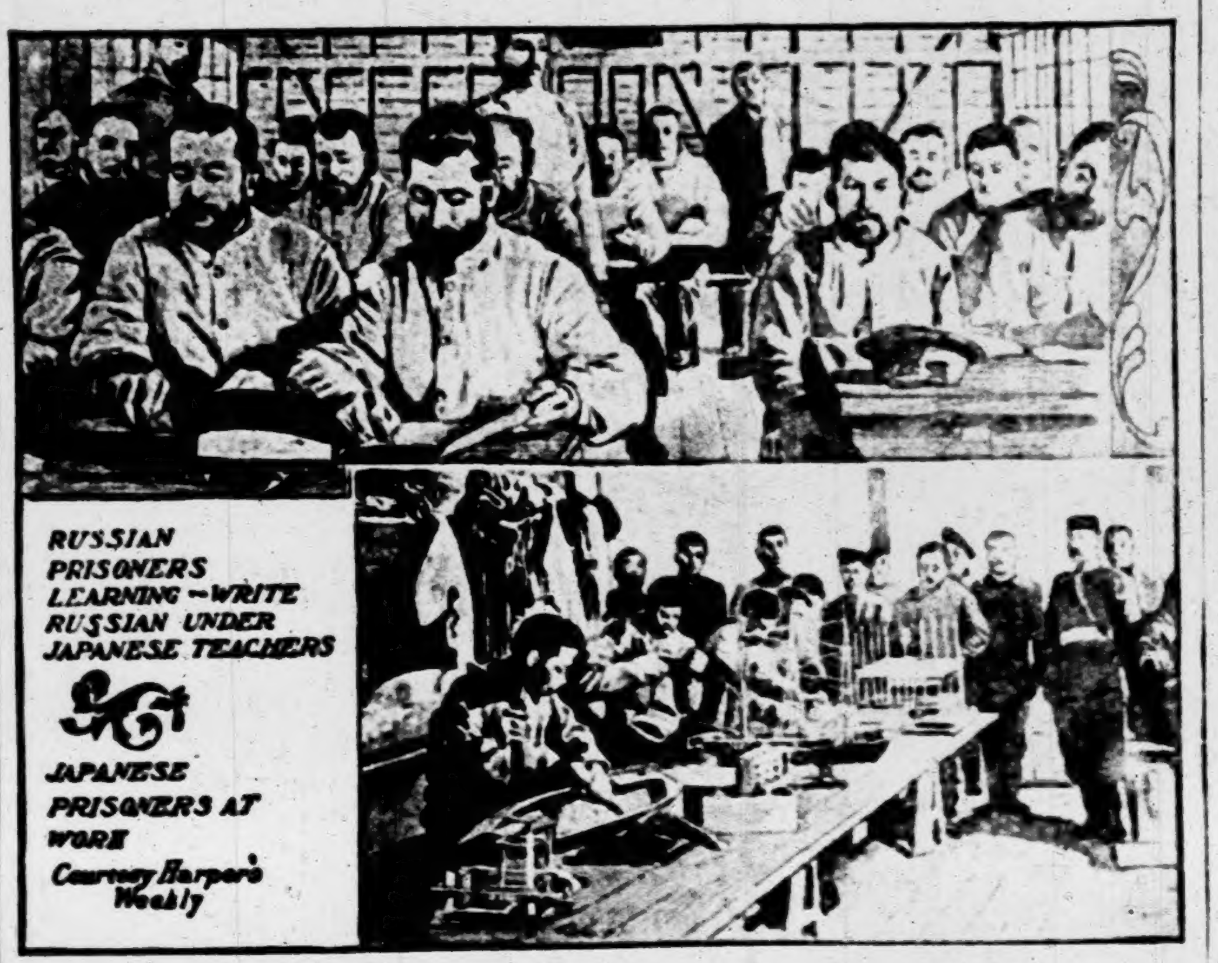
In Japan pipe cases and tobacco pouches are manufactured from the material, as well as a kind of wall paper, which is already becoming fashionable in America. Such wall papers of vegetable leather are turned out in bautiful designs for wall and ceiling decorations, being stamped and modeled by hand in the most artistic patterns. It would seem that Americans have a great deal to learn from the Japanese about paper-making. Already large quantities of another kind of paper obtained from the same plant are imported for use as legal documents, diplomas, deeds and bonds. There are at least eight other plants from which the subjects of the Mikado obtain paper stuff, while this country depends for such material upon linen. Mr. Fairchild, who has made a special study of this subject, says that it is not pleasant to think that the brilliant white note paper which a woman uses may have in it part of the filthy garment of some Egyptian fellah saved by a ragpicker from the gutter, yet it is a fact that hundreds of tons of Egyptian rags are fetched every year to the United States to supply the paper mills. At Mannheim on the Rhine the American importers have rag-picking houses, where rags are collected from all over Europe (the disease infected levant not excepted), and where women and children work with wet sponges tied over their mouths sorting the filthy scraps for shipment to New York. The best papers are made of these vile rags.

Papers made from the inner bark of plants, like the "mitsumata," are a creation of the Orient. They are softer, silkier, tougher and lighter than American-made papers. If wet they lose their strength, like tissue paper, but on drying regain it.

JAPANESE TEACH RUSSIANS.

Remarkable Incidents Connected with the East War.

War and peace are strange bedfellows, for over in Japan, the land of the rising sun, the Japanese readily mixed the two arts in a fashion totally unexpected. The Japs had coralled at Himeju somewhere in the neighborhood of 75,000 Russian prisoners, mostly from Port Arthur, probably 70,000 of whom were illiterate. A well-known writer in commenting on the success of the Japanese arms brings out into the light the secret of Japan's strength. It is in just one thing, the men have mental as well as physical training. The majority of Nippon's soldiers have received education in some form, and with the desire to enlighten the Russian prisoners, the government of Japan established in the prison at Himeju a school wherein was taught to the illiterate Russians their own language. Strange as this may seem this fact has been brought out by a short article in the Japan Daily Times in which appears the statement: "Thanks to the teaching, those soldiers who were totally illiterate are now able to write letters to their homes. It is stated that the authorities of the quarters received inquiries from Russia asking if the letters were really written by the senders."



RUSSIAN PRISONERS LEARNING—WRITE RUSSIAN UNDER JAPANESE TEACHERS

JAPANESE PRISONERS AT WORK

Courtesy Harper's Weekly

Credit Due Japan.

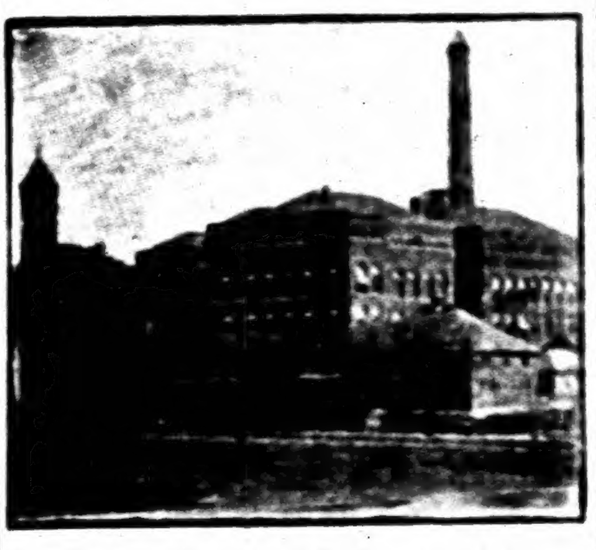
This, one of the most unusual events ever produced by war, is as much to Japan's credit, as it is valuable to the poor Russian peasantry. The Kobe Daily News has been issuing an illustrated weekly for the Russian prisoners. The first issue of the sheet called "Japan and Russia" contained over twenty excellent photographic illustrations. This paper in introducing itself stated that its object was "to keep the 70,000 Russian prisoners now in this country informed about the general situation at the front and the attitude of the various powers in connection with the war, as well as to acquaint the prisoners with the characteristics of our people, thus preparing the way for mutual friendship and confidence between the two nations after the restoration of peace."

NEW MONEY NEEDED.

The Government Cannot Print It Rapidly Enough.

The great Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington has reached its limit, and new machines and additional workmen must be provided to turn out the money needed for the country.

"We are even now having much difficulty in keeping up with the demand for new money," said Charles H. Treat, the United States Treasurer, "and it is going to be difficult to supply the demands for the busy business season. Large amounts of old money are coming into the treasury for redemption, with the request that new money be issued in its place. The business of the country must have what it wants in the way of currency, and when this old money is sent in for redemption it is not wise to delay getting out the new money to replace it.



WHERE THE MONEY IS ENGRAVED.

"The national banks of the country are increasing their circulation at a remarkable rate. During this last year this increase has been about $[illegible], and many of the banks have had to wait much longer than prudent to obtain their circulation. These delays 'tie up' the circulating medium. There were recently 118 banks on the list waiting for new currency. This increased growth of the circulation outstanding of national banks represents the normal growth of the country."

Plans are being considered at Washington for the extension and enlargement of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where all of Uncle Sam's money is manufactured.

Briefs From Everywhere

The honey bee is said to be the inveterate foe of the bumble bee and will kill him on slight provocation, and often without provocation at all.

There were imported into the United States for the last fiscal year [illegible]447 pounds of sugar.

The product of the poultry industry in the United States was worth last year $280,000,000. The value of dairy products was $1[illegible]6,520,000.

Salt is a government monopoly in Italy, and people living on the sea coast are forbidden to evaporate sea water to obtain salt.

Iced whale was one of the delicacies served by the Emperor of Japan at his dinner to Secretary Taft and party.

Thomas Kilpatrick, who gave to New York its first apartment house, in 18[illegible], was ridiculed as a man who built five houses, "one on top of the other."

The fact that malaria was caused by mosquitoes was known to Cingalese physicians in the sixth century.

The harassed Sultan of Turkey never sleeps in a dark room. His chamber and the nearby apartments and gardens are brilliantly lighted all night. He is read to sleep each night, usually by his brother.

The Michigan Central Railroad will tunnel the Niagara River.

Fifty million codfish are caught in the waters of Norway annually.

The great turbine steamers of the Cunard line, which are expected to show a speed of twenty-five knots an hour, will be in service in the spring of 1907.

King Oscar of Sweden and the Norwegian poet Bjornson are great personal friends, though the poet has long been writing in behalf of the independence of Norway.

The black spotted trout is the greatest climber among fish. He goes up falls and dams on his way to headquarters with ease.

An automobile omnibus line is in operation in Lima, Peru.

The total number of merchant vessels registered in the world is 29,736.

The German sculptor, Meissner, has completed his statue of Peter Henlein, who four hundred years ago substituted springs for weights in clocks, thus making the watch a possibility. The statue is to be erected in Henlein's birthplace, Nuremburg.

Daniel Webster, on his Marshfield farm, was a scientific farmer and a breeder of thoroughbred cattle—Alderneys, Ayrshires and Devons.

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH
In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to
The Strong Old Hickory
MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP
is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½, 25 and 50 lb pails.
James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service
proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

BOOKS—BOOKS
We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm. Write for our catalogue.
WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines
Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin
Repeaters
are the original solid top and side ejectors. This top forms a solid sheet of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the [illegible] The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very [illegible] Our new [illegible] makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. [illegible] catalogue, 300 illustrations, [illegible] in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.
The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS
The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to [illegible] tons a day. Has 40 [illegible] feed [illegible] Adapted to bank barn work. [illegible] to its work—no digging [illegible] wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.
Send for Catalogue
SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill.

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 221 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue [illegible]
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery
Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.
Every Variety of Standard Fruit
Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees
Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs,
Vines and Roses.
THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY
A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS
Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free.
Mail orders have prompt attention.
MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

TOWN ITEMS

[illegible] Commissioners' Court meets [illegible] in February first Monday in [illegible] first Monday in [illegible] Monday in July, [illegible] Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

Price to day [illegible] same date last year [illegible]

Bales received to date	1905	1904
ckard & Co	1344	11[illegible]
J. L. Mullins	734	[illegible]
W. Kanter & Bro	[illegible]
C. Jones	335	18[illegible]
nnon & Co	66
her Firms		189
Total	[illegible]	[illegible]

The above figures are obtained from the several cotton buyers Wednesday evening, five o'clock.

HAS STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS
The old, original Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. You know what you are taking. It is iron and quinine in a tasteless form. No cure, no pay. 50c.

FOUND a bill of money in Clanton, about a week ago, owner can come and describe the bill and receive the same. R. F. Grant, Verbena, R. F. D. No. 1.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co., Cooper, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Retherford spent a few days with relatives in Summer last week.

Miss Jennie Toland of Jemison is visiting the family of Mr. Wm. Adams this week.

Miss Ressie Johnson of Stanton will board with Mr. Wm. Adams this winter and will attend the Clanton school.

LOST two Gold Rings. One with three opals and ten pearls, the other one opal, two rubies and four pearls. Return to Banner office and get Reward.

Miss Lillie Slaton visited her sister, Mrs. Reynolds, at Jemison Saturday.

Mr. C. W. Reynolds of Jemison was a visitor here the past week.

Be sure and see Miss Minnie [illegible]'s hats before you leave Clanton, they are prettier than ever before. Prices very reasonable.

Ice cold soda water always always on tap at Upchurch's drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mullins returned Tuesday from Montgomery where the former has been under treatment for some time.

Mr. Freeman of West Virginia, who has been night operator for the past few weeks, is very ill at Dr. Hannons.

Mrs. I. R. Mullins is visiting friends in Birmingham.

Mr. John Rollins left Monday for Memphis, Tenn., to enter medical college.

Messrs. Arthur Johnson and [illegible] Downs have gone to Nashville to attend medical college.

To draw the fire out of a burn, heal a cut without leaving a scar, or cure boils, sores, tetter, eczema and all skin and scalp diseases, use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A specific for piles. Get the genuine. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

[illegible]yon will keep his Gallery open all the time. Plenty of Picture frames cheap.

Mr. E. G. Hyman visited Jemison Tuesday.

Mrs. J. P. Gore is visiting relatives at Mulberry.

Mrs. Fred Martin and Miss Belle [illegible] of Lily were visitors here Saturday.

A nice lot of stationery just received at Upchurch's drug store.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. James Marion Martin and Miss Mary Lee Wilbanks; Mr. J. [illegible] Thomas and Miss Della Foshee; Mr. S. S. Stanfield and Miss Emma [illegible]send; Mr. Dock Ellison and Miss Bessie Martin.

The Original Laxative Cough Syrup is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It expells all cold from the system by acting as a cathartic on the bowels. It relieves the feverish [illegible] of the throat, draws out inflammation, cures the cough, strengthens the mucous membranes of the lungs and bronchial tubes. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is a certain, safe, prompt, harmless cure for colds, croup and whooping cough. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

GONS APPROACH

Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

CTURED BY

Manufacturing Co.

LLE, KY.

ARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine. Write for Catalogue.

Eagle Tank Co., 231 N. Green St., Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain description of exactly what you want

Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co., 46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

ula Nursery

acclimated trees and the best in Northern States.

of Standard Fruit

Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees Fruit Plants, Shrubs, and Roses.

ING STRAWBERRY

CIALTY OF

NTS AND SHRUBS

esigns. Also Vegetable Plants

talogue and Price List Free.

e prompt attention.

NURSERY CO.

LA, MONTANA

TOWN ITEMS

Commissioners' Court meets second Monday in February first Monday in [illegible] first Monday in [illegible] second Monday in August and first Monday in November.

CLANTON COTTON MART

to day .... 7¾ @ 9⅛

same date last year 9⅜

No. Bales received to date	1905	1904
hard & Co.	1344	1176
I. Mullins	754	546
Kanter & Bro	243	..
C. Jones	895	187
son & Co	66	..
er Firms		189
Total	2784	2048

The above figures are obtained from the several cotton buyers Wednesday evening, five o'clock.

HAS STOOD THE TEST 25 YEARS The old, original Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. You know what you are taking. It is iron and quinine in tasteless form No cure, no pay. 50c.

FOUND a bill of money in Clanton, about a week ago, owner can come and describe the bill and receive the same. R. T. Grant, Verbena, R. F. D. No. 1.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders. Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. Kicker & Co, Cooper, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Retherford spent a few days with realitives in Cooper last week.

Miss Jennie Toland of Jemison is visiting the family of Mr. Wm. Adams this week.

Miss Ressie Johnson of Stanton will board with Mr. Wm. Adams this winter and will attend the Clanton school.

LOST two Gold Rings. One with three opals and ten pearls; the other one opal, two rubies and four pearls. Return to Banner office and get Reward.

Miss Lillie Slaton visited her sister, Mrs. Reynolds, at Jemison Saturday.

Mr. C. W. Reynolds of Jemison was a visitor here the past week.

Be sure and see Miss Minnie ...'s hats before you leave Clanton, they are prettier than ever before. Prices very reasonable.

Ice cold soda water always always on tap at Upchurch's drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mullins returned Tuesday from Montgomery where the former has been under treatment for some time.

Mr. Freeman of West Virginia, who has been night operator for the past few weeks, is very ill at Mr. Hannons.

Mrs. J. R. Mullins is visiting friends in Birmingham.

Mr. John Rollins left Monday for Memphis, Tenn., to enter medical college.

Messrs. Arthur Johnson and Ho... Downs have gone to Nashville to attend medical college.

To draw the fire out of a burn, heal a cut without leaving a scar, or cure boils, sores, tetter, eczema and all skin and scalp diseases, use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A specific for piles. Get the genuine. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Lyon will keep his Gallery open all the time. Plenty of Picture frames cheap.

Dr. E. G. Hyman visited Jemison Tuesday.

Mrs. J. P. Gore is visiting relatives at Mulberry.

Mrs. Fred Martin and Miss Belle ... of Lily were visitors here Sunday.

A nice lot of stationery just received at Upchurch's drug store.

Marriage licenses have been issued this week by the Probate Judge to the following persons.

Mr. James Marion Martin and Miss Mary Lee Wilbanks; Mr. J. Thomas and Miss Della Foshee; Mr. S. S. Stanfield and Miss Emma Townsend; Mr. Dock Ellison and Miss Bessie Martin.

The Original Laxative Cough Syrup is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It expells all cold from the system by acting as a catharic on the bowels. It relieves the feverish conditions of the throat, draws out the inflammation, cures the cough and strengthens the mucous membranes of the lungs and bronchial tubes. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is a certain, safe, prompt and harmless cure for colds, croup and whooping cough. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys,

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

Last Thursday night Steve McCall and Will Goongame, both colored, engaged in a shooting match, Steve was shot in the leg and had to stay here, Will was supposed to be wounded but ran away, and has not again been heard from.

A new idea in a Cough Syrup is advanced in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Besides containing Pine Tar, Honey and other valuable remedies, it is rendered Laxative, so that its use insures a prompt and efficient evacuation of the bowels. It relaxes the nervous system and cures all coughs, colds, croup, etc. A red clover blossom and the honey bee is on every bottle of the Original Laxative Cough Syrup—Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor L. B Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

	Beat		1905
Kircheon	Beat	6	October	2
Pletcher	"	8	"	3
Dixie	"	8	"	4
Shoults	"	7	"	5
Maplesville	"	7	"	6
Benson	"	3	"	7
Macedonia	"	3	"	9
Providence	"	2	"	10
Jemison	"	2	"	11
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	12
Flint Hill	"	11	"	13
Cane Ck. to 12 m.	"	4	"	14
Thorsby	"	9	"	16
Clanton	"	4	"	17
Cooper	"	10	"	18
Verbena	"	5	"	19

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE

BIRMINGHAM - ALABAMA

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

J. R. BROADHEAD & SON

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise

Fine Groceries

None better on the market.

CLANTON, ALA.

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, Andirons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15 c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

Practical Education

This is the great age of practical education. Every branch studied must lead to some practical result. In other words it must pay in dollars and cents.

Taken in the right way this is all right. We want pupils to spend their time in what will benefit them. Yet the dividing line between the practical and non practical is very hard to fix. We may take up a wide scope with the term practical. I should discard many things that are often called practical and include much of the opposite. A trade that has been learned without books may be much less practical than one learned with all the facilities that the best schools can afford. I have seen book keepers and many people who follow certain occupations who could not give as much information on their respective trades as a truly educated man is able to learn in four days. The so-called practical man is generally found wanting when it comes to clear, vigerous thought in any given line. The educated man has more insight than the uneducated. You may discover this easily by putting the test to uneducated workmen. Many of them really know very little about their own business. They are ignorant of the fundamental principles of natural law, which a bright school boy, studying elementary physics, knows all about. Many a man running a steam engine knows practically nothing about the expansive power of steam and its application in running machinery. While on the other hand, it is true that some educated persons cannot make a practical application of their acquirements. Their theories have no tangible connection with reality. In the truly educated man, the practical and theoretical are combined. When we are truly educated we are ready for the great work that lies out before us.

Now, Mr. Editor, with a few other remarks I will close. I am a subscriber to the dear old Banner. I like to read even the local news, and especially the letters from the boys and girls, for if any body should have a chance it should be the boys and girls. If this don't reach the waste basket I will do better next week. With best wishes to the Banner readers.

J. F. Bone.

Troy, Ala., Oct. 2, 1905

Insomnia and Indigestion Cured.

"Last year I had a severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton county.
Chancery Court. Seventh District, Northeastern Division.
Henry Davis, Complainant, vs. Francis Davis, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. A. Jordan, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Francis Davis, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that her place of residence and post office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Francis Davis, is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Francis Davis, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 6th day of November, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this 3d day of October, 1905,
S. A. Stewart, Register in Chancery.

Notice to Non-Resident.

O. H. Gerald, Plaintiff, vs. Hans Schytte, Defendant.
In the Circuit Court of Chilton county, Alabama.
To Hans Schytte, the Defendant in the above stated cause, who resides at Station B in the City of Seattle in the State of Washington, U. S. A.

You will take notice that O. H. Gerald, the plaintiff in the above stated cause, sued out an attachment against you, the said Hans Schytte, on the 21st day of April, 1905 to enforce the collection of a debt due him by you in the sum of $132.44 with interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum since the 11th day of October, 1904, together with an additional sum of $20.00, which the said Gerald states is a reasonable attorney's fee for collecting the note evidencing said indebtedness and said Gerald further states that said indebtedness is evidenced by a promissory note executed by the said Hans Schytte on the 11th day of October, 1904, to J. W. Franzen, and due on the 15th day of April, 1905, at Thorsby Savings Bank, that said note contained a waiver of exemptions as to personal property and a promise to pay a reasonable attorney's fee for the collection thereof, and that said note was duly transferred and assigned to said O. H. Gerald by said J. W. Franzen on the 10th day of March, 1905.

You will further take notice that said attachment was sued out without bond being given by the plaintiff and was levied upon the following real estate to-wit: The NW ¼ of NE ¼ of the NE ¼ of Section 6 in Township 22, of Range 14, in Chilton county, Alabama, as the property of the said Hans Schytte, the defendant, by the Sheriff of said Chilton county on the 8th day of May, 1905.

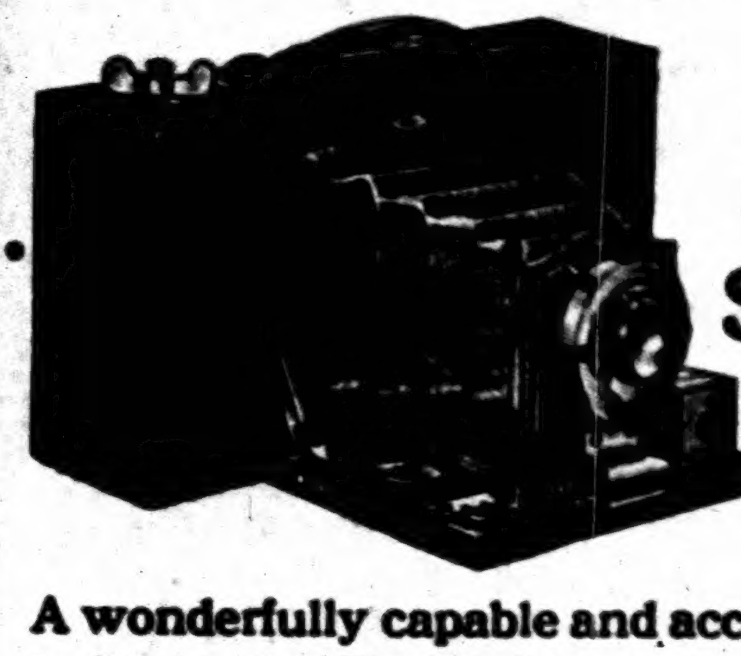
Let this notice be published in The Banner, a weekly newspaper published in said Chilton county, for three successive weeks next following, and a copy of each issue of said newspaper containing said notice be sent by mail to Hans Schytte, the defendant, properly addressed and postage prepaid.

Witness my hand, this the 18th day of September, 1905.
SAM W. COLLINS, Clerk.

Cures Chills and Fever.

G. W. Wirt, Nacogdoches, Texas, says: "His daughter had chills and fever for three years; he could not find anything that would help her till he used Herbine. His wife will not keep house without it, and cannot say too much for it." 50c Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Loin and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

Do Not Neglect a Cold.

Every cold weakens the Lungs, lowers the Vitality and makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold, thus paving the way for more serious diseases.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES?

BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Lungs.

EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW THAT BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP CONTAINS NO OPIATES, DOES NOT CONSTIPATE CHILDREN AND WILL POSITIVELY CURE CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

MRS. SALLIE LOCKHAR, Goldthwaite, Tex., says: "We have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup in my family for several years, and it always gives satisfaction. When the children had Croup and Whooping Cough it always relieved them at once, and I would not be without it in the house, as it is the BEST MEDICINE we know of."

Best Remedy for Children. Every Bottle Guaranteed

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c and $1.00.

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTON

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

OPPOSITE THE BANKS CLANTON

.·. Rumbolt's Heir .·.

BY MALCOLM FURZE.

"THERE is nothing else that can be done, of course." The speaker thrust his well shaped hands through his thick, curly hair. "I am the heir to my uncle's title, but his estates are so mortgaged that I am forced to sell them. Of course, I have my profession, but my clients are few and far between, and I have been accustomed to a liberal allowance, little dreaming that some day I should have to pay for it out of my heritage."

The late Lord Rumbolt's family lawyer looked sympathizingly at the young man whose fate was so different from what it should have been. Up stairs, in the room above them, lay all that was mortal of Cuthbert, Baron Rumbolt, whose funeral was to take place that very day. The morning sunshine flickered in through the deep, bay windows, as if mocking the young man whose prospects had been shattered at a blow.

But Anthony Rumbolt was no coward and no fool. Once he had mastered the news he was ready to be up and doing.

"I can't stay here, under the circumstances, for I can't afford to keep up this place on the earnings of a briefless lawyer," he told Carew. "There is nothing else to be done; the dear old place must come under the hammer. I expect it will fall into the hands of some upstart local merchant or a mutton raiser from New Zealand. Thank heaven, my duties will keep me in London, and I shall not be harrowed by its desecration."

The lawyer looked at him a little keenly from under his shaggy brows.

"You might marry," he ventured, timidly. "You are a prize in the matrimonial market, Lord Rumbolt. Many will——"

"Sell themselves for a title?" burst in Anthony, impetuously. "Don't think of that again, please. I've not sunk so low as that yet, and, please heaven, I don't intend to——"

"But there are many lovely girls, who have enough money—and you are good looking!" put in the elder man, unabashed. "There's nothing like looking all your chances in the face, I say——"

"So you want me to look one 'chance' in the face forever afterward!" added his lordship, grimly. "No, no, Carew, as I have said, I hate all that sort of thing. When I marry, it will be for love alone—love and nothing but love. I'm glad you broke the news of my uncle's bankruptcy to me beforehand. I should have hated to have to face all those gaping relations unprepared. As it is, of course, I shall not give myself away, but I shall take it stoically, and let's hope that I shall not be commiserated with, that's all!"

The two men passed out of the library then and into the hall. The coffin was on its way down the broad, oaken stairs—the dead man's last journey across the threshold of the ancestral home he had ruined was just about to be taken.

Anthony slipped into his place as heir-at-law and chief mourner, and many a seedy connection of the late baron's, who had not been aware of the state of affairs at Rumbolt Chase, slipped into the procession which followed the body across the soft, green grass to the little churchyard, where the service was soon read and the dust finally committed to the dust. Then the solemn procession re-formed and made its way back to the old mansion in readiness to hear the will read.

All eyes in the room were turned on Anthony Rumbolt as the words fell clearly from the lawyer's lips—words that made him practically penniless, with a title to keep, and only his profession upon which to do it.

There were murmurs of disappointment, growls of surly rage, sobs from hysterical feminine relatives, who subsided behind their black-edged handkerchiefs, presumably to dry their tears and swallow their secret sorrow.

In the midst of it all the heir stood up and threw back his handsome head with a thoroughly characteristic gesture.

"Friends," he said, and his voice was perfectly steady, "I am very glad to see you here, and to know that you have joined with me in honoring my dead uncle. He was, as you all know, never a very wealthy man, and some—undertakings of his were not successful at the last. That is the reason why so many of you are disappointed of legacies to-day. That is all I have to say, I think. Thank you all very much, and good-bye."

He turned to the old lawyer, shook his hand warmly, and, still holding his head high, he left the room, leaving those behind him to retire as best they could.

But his heart was heavy when he went to bed that night, and it did not grow any lighter as the days went on and the time drew near for Rumbolt Chase to be put up to auction. He was young, handsome and a baron, but he hardly knew from day to day where his next meal would come from—as he said himself, he was an impoverished baron!

Then, one glorious spring morning, the news came to him, as he sat in his stuffy chambers in the Temple, that the Chase had been bought by a certain American, one Clive Warrender by name. Whoever it was he wrote a decidedly bold and legible hand, Anthony thought, as he looked over the necessary papers and wrote the words that signed the Chase away from himself and his heirs forever. Then he worked harder than ever at his books, thrust the thought of his lost inheritance far into the back recesses of his mind, and purposely ground all through an unusually hot August.

The result was only what might have been anticipated. He broke down completely, and the doctor ordered him away for entire rest and change of air. His thoughts turned involuntarily into the forbidden direction. The temptation was too great for him. The physician murmured something about the Continent, a sea voyage, etc., etc., and Rumbolt acquiesced ungracefully, but he packed his bag with feverish haste, and the train took him, not to Dover or Folkstone, but down into the heart of Devonshire, where, in the fairest county of England, his forfeited heritage stood.

He put up at the little inn of the market town, which was situated about ten miles from the Chase. It was rather a rough night, a boisterous gale was howling across his beloved pastures, and the rain was coming down in sheets. Suddenly, below in the hall, he heard a commotion. A private carriage had met with an accident; the horses had just escaped being killed by a tree falling across their path, but the carriage had suffered, being almost crushed by the weight of the branches as they fell. Anthony was soon in the tiny hall, listening to the tale of woe, as a tall, slender girl, with her well-shaped head, came forward into the dim light.

She turned her eyes on the young man who had just joined the assembled company, and Rumbolt's heart gave a big throb and passed out of his own keeping forever. The eyes that had wrought this havoc were wide and velvety, of a color something between a deep shade of gray and purple—big, innocent, fearless eyes, that rested on his face for the space of a second, and then sought the circumscribed hall for the innkeeper. The latter came forward a little tremulously. The accident was not his fault, but the young lady would doubtless want to be put up for the night, and his lordship had the best room in the house, and the only one that was worth offering to a lady.

"I cannot go on," she said, in clear tones, which reached Rumbolt's ears; "perhaps, Mr. Jenkins, you will place a room at my disposal?"

The innkeeper prevaricated to gain time. He murmured his desire to meet with the lady's wishes in every respect, shrugged his shoulders, and invited her to be seated in the parlor until her room had been prepared. Then he turned helplessly to Anthony, who stood leaning against the balustrade, watching the little play.

"It's your room, my lord, which is the very best," he said, entreatingly. "Might I make so bold as to ask you to——"

He stopped, awed by the curious look in his companion's face. Anthony purposely misunderstood him.

"Give her the best room," he said, magnanimously, "as long as you don't disturb me!"

"But——"

Anthony waved him aside with a laugh.

"Don't 'but' me," he remarked. "Put the young lady in your best room, and make no more apologies about it. There, that will do!"

Consumed with a desire to meet the glance of those lovely eyes once more, Rumbolt sauntered into the little room where the lady was waiting until her room should be ready for her. He was rewarded, for the girl looked up at his entrance. She smiled at him so frankly that he decided to ignore Mrs. Grundy.

"It was an awkward accident," he said, taking a chair at the table, while he concentrated his gaze upon some wax flowers in a glass case at the other end of the room. "It was lucky that you were near this place——"

"It would have been luckier if I had been nearer my own house," she answered, with a faint show of constraint. Something told her that just because this young man was handsome and everything that could be desired, she had better keep him at a distance.

"You will be quite comfortable, I assure you, here," he assured her, smiling. "Do you live near?"

She looked out of the window.

"Rather near," she answered in low tones.

"Then perhaps you have heard of the gentleman who bought Rumbolt Chase?" he ventured, eagerly.

"Gentleman? You mean—er—yes, of course, I know—him!" the girl answered, hurriedly. "Nice—girl—I mean man—Clive Warrender! Have you met him?"

Anthony shook his head. "No," he answered, decidedly, "and I don't want to, either. You see, I was—the heir, and I was forced to sell the old place, and it went against the grain. One can't keep up a title on nothing, so the place had to go!"

"You—you are the heir?" repeated his companion, wonderingly, a little flush mounting to her half averted cheek.

Tony bowed. "I happen to be that most unfortunate person," he returned, gravely.

Something seemed to excite his companion's risible faculties, for at this moment she laughed outright, a clear, bell-like sound which irritated Rumbolt.

"Why didn't you—marry money?" she asked, after a pause. "That's what all impoverished peers do nowadays, don't they—or perhaps you are already married?"

It was curious, but with those eyes fixed upon him he was glad to answer in the negative.

"I'm not married, nor ever likely to become a benedict," he answered, rising to his feet and going over to the fireplace. "I would never demean myself so much as to marry money——"

"But if you loved—the girl, irrespective of her money?" The question was asked in a low voice.

Tony shrugged his shoulders.

"I should give the girl too wide a berth to make such a possibility possible," he returned stiffly.

And at that moment the innkeeper returned, saying that the room was ready for the lady, and she promptly followed him out into the hall.

Fortunately, he was not in the hall when she came down the next morning, her groom having driven over a smart dogcart to fetch her, and she escaped with a mixed feeling of resentment and relief. Once at the Chase she sought a big, sunny room, where a sweet faced woman lay on a couch with a book in her hands.

"My darling Clive, I thought something dreadful had happened to you!" the elder woman said, taking the lovely, flushing face between her two thin hands and kissing her tenderly. "Fortunately, Jenkins told me you were putting up at the inn, so I knew you would be all right. What an escape you had! Thank God, you are safe!"

"Oh, I'm all right, aunty," the girl answered, throwing aside her cloak and kneeling by the couch. "Is your head better to-day? If so, I will tell you of my adventure."

Mrs. Warrender patted her niece's hands affectionately, and listened to her account of the meeting with the heir.

"Poor man!" the girl sighed, softly. "He was so handsome—and looked so sorry, aunty. If he comes to-day I shall show him round——"

"And do the honors, though I am afraid he will hardly allow you to do that, considering what a violent dislike he seems to have taken to you already, though he has never seen you," the invalid answered, stroking the bright head.

An idea was borne in upon Clive's mind at her aunt's words. Why let him know that she was the Clive Warrender whose money had enabled her to buy his heritage from him? Why not make out that Mr. Warrender—Lord Rumbolt believed him to be a man—was away from home, and that his wife, to whom she was companion, was too ill to see him?

Her decision was quickly made, for a servant came in at that moment to tell her that a gentleman was down stairs who would like to see the place if it was possible.

Going slowly down stairs, she found herself at length face to face with Lord Rumbolt in the big, old-fashioned drawing room.

He started upon seeing her, and she anticipated the question his lips were framing by saying quickly:

"Mr. Warrender will be delighted for you to see as much of the house and grounds as you like. Mrs. Warrender is, I regret to say, too ill to come down stairs, or she would have welcomed you in Mr. Warrender's absence, which she much regrets——"

"But you——?" He stopped, and she smiled at him bravely.

"I?" she repeated. "Mrs. Warrender keeps a paid companion."

He jumped at once to the conclusion she wished.

"Ah! You are the companion. Now I understand——"

The glance he gave her was such as made her turn round hastily to the door. "I will show you round, or would you rather go by yourself?"

He hastily vetoed the latter suggestion, and together they made a tour of the house and gardens.

After the rains of the previous day the skies had cleared, and a brilliant sun shone high in the blue heavens. Rumbolt was young, his companion was young, the earth was fair—hope was in the air—the summer hours flew all too quickly, and she dared not ask him to stay to lunch lest, unconsciously, something should arise to disclose her identity.

But Rumbolt was very much in love for the first time in his life, and the obstacles were as nothing. This young girl was a paid companion to wealthy Mrs. Warrender, and he loved her. Why should she not become his companion? His profession brought him in enough to justify his asking such a girl to marry him. So he cut at the corn as he walked through the scented fields and wandered by the silver trout streams, and when he caught sight of her pink linen gown through the hedge, two days later, he made haste to overtake it.

Something in his eyes warned her. She noted the danger signal, and a shy flush rose to her cheek as she extended her hand in greeting.

Then he became conscious that he did not know her name. She had never told him beyond the bare fact that it was—Martyn.

"Miss Martyn," he cried, all at once plunging into the subject that was uppermost in his heart, "I have something to say to you, and you will listen to me patiently, won't you? I am poor, but I have reason to believe that you also earn your own livelihood, and I want to know if you think you could ever bring yourself to give up your luxurious life here and marry me? I love you, darling, with all my heart and soul. Come away and be my queen, my best beloved. Say you will try very hard to love me."

He caught one slim hand that hung at her side and carried it to his lips. "I worship the very ground you tread on," he said, fervently. "Give me, oh, give me a little hope that some day you will take pity on me."

"You love me?" she asked, softly. "You are quite, quite sure of that, whatever happens?"

"I am quite, quite sure of that," he answered, passionately. "Look in my eyes and read it for yourself."

Thus adjured, she raised her lovely eyes to his, and in a second he had caught her, trembling and blushing, to his breast.

"Whatever happens—till death us do part!" he cried, triumphantly. "You can never go back upon that, darling."

She pushed him from her a little. "My name is—Mary," she said, with an adorable little smile. "I must break the news to Mrs. Warrender, and perhaps she will see you to-morrow!" Then she hid her face on his breast again and sped away so swiftly that he decided she wanted to be alone, and resisted the temptation to follow her.

He received a short note that evening at the inn. It was in a bold, decisive hand, and was signed "Clive Warrender." The writer desired to see Lord Rumbolt at 10 o'clock the next morning.

"So at last I shall see the brute!" he murmured, as he replaced the small sheet of note paper in the envelope. "I hope he will let me carry off his wife's companion before the year is out. There is nothing to wait for."

It was with curiously mixed feelings that he had awaited in the library the coming of the master of the house. The room in which he stood bore little or no trace of masculine occupation, but the fact escaped Anthony's attention at the time, though afterward it occurred to him.

There was a slight hesitation outside the door—it opened slowly, and admitted, not the tall, overbearing man he expected to see, but—Miss Martyn, looking for all the world rather ashamed of herself.

He strode forward eagerly, but she held up her hand.

"Mr. Warrender——?" he said, in tones of surprise. "Has he sent you to say——"

"I am Clive Warrender," she said, steadily. Then she slipped into a chair while Rumbolt drew a long breath.

She glanced up furtively between her fingers, after a long pause. The silence was becoming unbearable. She would rather he had commenced to storm and rave at her!

Anthony's handsome face was in danger of being spoiled by a very decided frown. Miss Warrender took the bull by the horns, and, rising, she went over and laid a very contrite little head on his shoulder.

"You said—you would love me—whatever happened!" she murmured, softly. "Tony, you aren't going to take back your words—because—because I happen to have a little money——"

His mouth began to show signs of relenting. It was hard to be stern when she was—so near!

"But I told you——" he began.

She broke in with a little, troubled laugh.

"I know you did," she answered. "If you hadn't perhaps I shouldn't have deceived you—so it's all your fault. In fact"—stepping back from him and looking rather severely at his troubled countenance — "I don't know that I should have thought of you at all—if you had not said you would give a girl with money a wide berth—you know you did, Tony, there's no denying it—"

"Suppose I don't deny it?" He was certainly relenting.

"Suppose—I give in," she returned, all at once. "I'm sorry to have caused you any inconvenience, Lord Rumbolt, but I give you back your promise—I"—with a sob—"don't want to marry——"

He strode over to her again and pressed her in his arms. The sob had quite undermined his courage.

"You are going to marry——" he said, passionately, "of course you are. Clive, darling—who are you going to marry? Tell me quickly——"

The spirit of mischief died hard in her. She struggled to free herself, and sweeping a low courtesy, she smiled happily.

"I am going to marry—Lord Rumbolt's heir," she said. And the said heir, coming to his senses, stopped further confessions with his kisses.—New York Weekly.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Virtue by calculation is the virtue of vice.—Joubert.

If thou hast a loitering servant, send him on thy errand just before his dinner.—Fuller.

We are as near to heaven as we are far from self and far from the love of a sinful world.—Rutherford.

There never was any heart truly great and gracious that was not also tender and compassionate.—South.

Unhappy he who from the first of joys—society—cut off, is left alone, amid this world of death.—Thomson.

Every lie, great or small, is the brink of a precipice, the depth of which nothing but Omniscience can fathom.—Reade.

Never hold any one by the button or the hand, in order to be heard out; for, if people are unwilling to hear you, you had better hold your tongue than them.—Chesterfield.

Newly Found Rubber Tree.

It is reported that a new kind of rubber tree has been discovered in the Island of Madagascar, said to contain much caoutchouc juice, which coagulates upon being boiled, producing eighty-nine per cent. caoutchouc of good quality. The tree is called "Pirahazo" by the natives and attains a height of over forty feet. It is found in groves on the northwestern part the island near Amboyo, and is marketed in Soolola. This caoutchouc has slight mineral ingredients.

THE NORDLAND FISHER FO

TWO YEARS IN THE LAND OF THE M SUN

THE HARD LIVES OF THE LOFOTEN FISHERMEN..THE MOUNTAIN LAPPS--SOCIAL LIFE OF THE RULING CLASS.

ON a beautiful summer day, I took the boat from Bergen, in Southwestern Norway, to Ranen, in the district of Nordland, to the north. We landed at Hemnas, a picturesque village built on a terraced promontory, with small white houses, surrounded by trees and gardens, while crowning the hill stood the church. It was an hour when folk in lower latitudes were abed; but in Hemnas the villagers were up and about, all evidently enjoying the indescribable light that poured down in a soft gold and purple flood from the north.

Many, even the natives, are unable to sleep soundly in this strange light, which permits one to lie in bed and read through all hours of the night, even with the blinds down. In these high latitudes tree fruits do not ripen, but during the brief summer a great variety of berries are to be found, and wild and domestic flowers flourish in a surprising way. Neither soil nor climate lends itself to farming, so the hardy natives turn to the sea for their harvest. During summer the men, aided at times by the women, are busy preparing their boats and nets for the fishing, which is carried on during the darkness of the long, trying winter.

Away from Norway, there is a pretty general belief that the Scandinavians are distinctly blond, but while there may be more light-haired, blue-eyed people among them than, say in Belgium, dark hair is not uncommon. In the district of Sogn, in Western Norway, the people are tall and dark, and they are as emotional and quick-tempered as the Celts of Connaught. The fishermen, who comprise the most part of the coast population in Nordland, are physically sturdy, and on shore the men seem heavy and even dull; but a transformation is wrought when they stand on the decks of their boats. At the tiller, or managing sail or net, these men seem the embodiment of physical activity and mental alertness. At such times the observer can well believe the traditions told of the progenitors of these sailors, who, as Viking freebooters, devastated the coast of Britain and the continent.

Norway's compulsory education laws are active in the remotest villages, and so these fisherfolk are able to read and write. Some of the young men, but very few, break away and seek a broader culture to the south, but as a class they cannot be said to be intellectually hungry.

The Lutheran is the state church of Norway; indeed, other denominations cannot be said to exist in the north. The clergymen, holding their parishes by government appointment, are, as a rule, an intelligent, self-denying class, and their influence is a potent factor in forming the character of their congregations. Despite this Christian influence, the Nordman fisherman is distinctly superstitious. This may be said of most men who live by the sea, but these people have superstitions that have survived, despite the church, for 900 years, and can be traced back to the times when Thor and Odin were the ruling gods, and Valhalla was the haven of the Norseman. Certain premonitions of death are believed to be infallible. One of these is the sight of a man seated in the half of a boat and rowing through the storm. When this vision is reported, men say, "He has seen Draugen and is sure to be drowned." On black nights, when the north winds are in battle with the white waters, and the weird cry of the loon cuts through the storm, the bravest feels a chill at his heart. "That is Draugen calling for his prey!" they whisper. At times when they would break away and try to live ashore, they hear, with ever-increasing pitch, the call of the waves, and they are again drawn back to the sea, as the needle is drawn to the pole.

CURING CODFISH.

When in spring the fishing boats return from Lofoten, the catch is cleaned and spread out to dry on the surrounding little rocky islets that dot the surface of the fjords like monstrous water fowl. On these islets there are huts on which the cod livers are tried out, the crude fluid being sent away for refinement. At such times, no matter the direction of the wind, the air is heavy with the odor of cod livers. This odor is said to be very healthful, and perhaps it is, but, like many other good things in the pharmacy, it is not calculated to induce a habit by a pleasant appeal to the senses.

Summer is devoted to curing the fish, which by the early fall is ready for the market, and then comes the one gala period in the fisherman's dreary year.

Outside the rutted mountain trails, there are no roads in this part of Norway; the sea is the one great highway and avenue of business and neighborly communication, and the boat is the one vehicle for rich and poor.

To add to the human interest of the picture, the Lapps, although only nominally Christians, often come down from the mountains to attend church. The condition of the snow has much to do with these visits. The Lapps travel on skis, and clad in reindeer suits and wearing they look, as they dash down like flying gnomes, avoiding and brush in their course, and fearlessly on till the bottom is These people are said the manners, being easily moved ter or to tears. Their eyes crying prevailed, for they are swollen from the smoke which their tents, in which the made to answer for a the Lapps do not confine to Sundays. On weekdays often seen about the little the village where their principal purchase being which they are very fond.
the Lapps bring their herds the valleys. One morning aroused from sleep by a clicking sound like the ing of castanets and tain, I looked out to see the window, a herd of eighty with their little masters clicking sound is made by a together of the divided hoofs creatures move about.

THE NORWEGIAN L

While racially the same wegian Lapps—they are gollians—are divided by the life into two classes or tribes sea Lapps, who live by fishing the coast, and the mountain who depend wholly on the their subsistence. When a a thousand reindeer, he is very rich. The pastoral necessarily nomads, their influenced by the supply of their herds. Short of brown in color, and with hair, these vivacious little a striking contrast to the Norse fishermen, near whom lived for so long, without the strain of intermixture.

At Hemnas—and this
the whole of Nordland—the other class, which, while fewer, is perhaps the most in a social way. I refer chants, professional men ment officials. These are culture, with social needs, gratify by closer relations equals than is the custom densely populated this land and with this generous, whole-hearted the rule. The presence of regarded as a favor to his are seldom for less than a in case of a storm, which quent, the week becomes people are not exiles from vored places. Many of the ilies have lived for centuries land, and have as much pride, and with better
the titled heirs of Vere de silver and china tell of taste. The furniture is old-fashioned massive kind required to climb to the high four-poster before dropping covered bed of eider down.

The customs are not unlike a similar class in the particularly in the South.
ing coffee and cakes are
The shoes are blacked and brushed by a servant.
ten; then come calls on there are any, the evening
ing with a dance.

But despite these social the winters are woefully and, whether from the South, or to the manner yearns for the return of the the glimpse of a wild flower, of the spring that has delayed.—New York Post.

Privations of Travel

It was in the parlor of a man inn that an American two of her countrywomen their itinerary, with great
"There are three places coast of Italy," said one, highly recommended for beauty of scenery and they must be a good deal
do you say to skipping
"Well, let's wait and see the first one," said her friend, registered as coming from chusetts town. "Being sea, I should think we'd chance of getting a good and that's something we since we left home."—
panion.

The Diner's Pet

"I never do things by marked Biffkins, and the elbow put on an expectant had only expected a maybe the gentleman
more. "As I was saying,"
kins, pushing back his cepting his hat. "I by halves. Especially ways use quarters.
Detroit Tribune.

A Long War

For over a century between the Dutch and
and, though the dom of Achin is northeast corner of tives are still unsubdued.

SUFFERINGS UNTOLD.
Woman's Terrible Experience With Kidney Sickness.
Cogin, 20th St. and Cleveland, Kansas City, Mo., says:
"For years I was run down, weak, lame and sore. The kidney secretions were too frequent. Then dropsy puffed up my ankles until they were a sight to behold. Doctors gave me up, but I began using Doan's Pills, and the remedy cured. Since I have been well ever since. I had a fine baby, the first in that was not premature born."
by all dealers. 50 cents a box.
Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Electricity and Plant Life.

electricity influences plant has been easy to explain. It is out that the heat can have effect, as this cannot replace or greatly reinforce the heat of sun.
The electricity acts rather as a
to all the vital processes, attraction of water is pro-by a positive current flowing up and an electric influence is bene-ly with an abundance of water of fluid is assumed to play a
In some exceptions a positive downward gives the best results, is thought to mean that more supplied by the leaves than is only supposed.

DON'T MISS THIS.
For Stomach Trouble—A New Method, by Absorption—No Drugs.
You Belch?
means a diseased Stomach. Are you with Short Breath, Gas, Sour Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dys-Burning Pains and Lead Weight of Stomach, Acid Stomach, Dis-Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic?
Breath or Any Other Stomach Tor-send you a box of Mull's Anti-Wafers free to convince you that it else like it known. It's sure pleasant. Cures by absorption.
No drugs. Stomach Trouble be cured otherwise—so says Medical Drugs won't do—they eat up the
and make you worse.
know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cure want you to know it, hence this REAL OFFER.—The regular price of Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, introduce it to thousands of suffer-will send two (2) boxes upon re-75c. and this advertisement, or we you a sample free for this coupon.
A FREE BOX 114
this coupon with your name address and druggist's name who not sell it for a free box of Mull's Belch Wafers to Grape Tonic Co., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill.
Full Address and Write Plainly
at all druggists, 50c. per box.

Newfoundland's Governor.

William Macgregor, governor of Newfoundland, is one of the most re-able men of the British colonial both physically and intellect-and, indeed, his herculean has contributed in no small to impress the savages over he has been called upon to rule past, with a sense of the power British empire. He is the only governor to wear the Albert which is the civilian counter-of the Victoria cross. He re-it for the heroic rescue of the and passengers of the steamship when it was wrecked at the foot precipice near Suva, the capital of Fiji Islands.

Girl Started Cheers for Peace.

was Miss Zelma Pilson, of Wash-a Kentucky girl by birth, who the cheering when peace was announced at Hotel Wentworth, Ports-N. H. "Let us cheer," she said, set the example with a good American hurrah.

Poisoning the Milk.

most every little stream in rural has wash houses on its banks, the women of the neighborhood their clothes. They use a great of soap and chemicals. These so contaminate the water that the milk of cows sometimes is poisoned.

Cheshire, England, and the ad-counties more than 25,000 tons
Cheshire cheese are made annually.

NOTICED IT
Lady From New Jersey Put Her Wits to Work.
Coffee gave me terrible spells of indigestion which, coming on every week made my life wretched until one told me that the coffee I was to blame. That seemed but I noticed these attacks to come on shortly after eating were accompanied by such excrupains in the pit of the stomach
I could only find relief by loosenclothing and lying down.
circumstances made it impossible to lie down I spent hours in misery.
refused to really believe it was coffee until finally I thought a trial at least do no harm, so I quit in 1901 and began on Postum.
troubles left entirely and convinced the cause.
Postum brought no discomfort, nor indigestion follow its use. I have return of the trouble since I to drink Postum. It has built restored my health and given new interest in life. It certainly to be well again." Name given Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
the little book, "The Road to FFERINGS UNTOLD.

y Woman's Terrible Exper with Kidney Sickness.

Cogis, 20th St. and Cleve Kansas City, Mo., says: "For years I was run down, weak, lame and sore. The kidney secretions were too frequent. Then dropsy puffed up my ankles until they were a sight to behold. Doctors gave me up, but I began using Doan's Pills, and the remedy cured I have been well ever since, had a fine baby, the first in was not prematurely born." all dealers. 50 cents a box. Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

ectricity and Plant Life.

electricity influences plant been easy to explain. It is out that the heat can have as this cannot replace or reinforce the heat of sun. The electricity acts rather as a to all the vital processes. attraction of water is pro by a positive current flowing up and as electric influence is bene with an abundance of water, of fluid is assumed to play a In some exceptions a positive downward gives the best results, is thought to mean that more supplied by the leaves than is supposed.

DON'T MISS THIS.

for Stomach Trouble—A New ment, by Absorption—No Drugs.

Belch" a diseased Stomach. Are you with Short Breath, Gas, Sour Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dys Burning Pains and Lead Weight Stomach, Acid Stomach, Dis Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic? Breath or Any Other Stomach Tor

send you a box of Mull's Anti Wafers free to convince you that it like it known. It's sure pleasant. Cures by absorption. No drugs. Stomach Trouble cured otherwise—so says Medical Drugs won't do—they eat up the and make you worse. Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cure want you to know it, hence this OFFER—The regular price of Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. a box, introduce it to thousands of suffer will send two (2) boxes upon re 75c. and this advertisement, or we you a sample free for this coupon.

A FREE BOX. 114
the coupon with your name address and druggist's name who sell it for a free box of Mull's Belch Wafers to GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave. Rock Island, Ill.
Full Address and Write Plainly

all druggists, 50c. per box.

Newfoundland's Governor.

William Macgregor, governor of Newfoundland, is one of the most re men of the British colonial both physically and intellect and, indeed, his herculean has contributed in no small to impress the savages, over he has been called upon to rule past, with a sense of the power British empire. He is the only governor to wear the Albert which is the civilian counter the Victoria cross. He re it for the heroic rescue of the and passengers of the steamship when it was wrecked at the foot precipice near Suva, the capital of Fiji Islands.

Girl Started Cheers for Peace.

Miss Zelma Pilson, of Wash Kentucky girl by birth, who the cheering when peace was at Hotel Wentworth, Ports N. H. "Let us cheer," she said, set the example with a good hurrah.

Poisoning the Milk.

every little stream in rural has wash houses on its banks. the women of the neighborhood their clothes. They use a great soap and chemicals. These so the water that the milk of sometimes is poisoned.

Cheshire, England, and the ad counties more than 25,000 tons cheese are made annually.

NOTICED IT

Lady From New Jersey Put Her Wits to Work.

gave me terrible spells of in which, coming on every week made my life wretched until told me that the coffee I was to blame. That seemed but I noticed these attacks come on shortly after eating accompanied by such excru pains in the pit of the stomach could only find relief by loosen clothing and lying down. circumstances made it impossible to lie down I spent hours in misery. to really believe it was until finally I thought a trial at least do no harm, so I quit in 1901 and began on Postum. left entirely and convinced the cause. brought no discomfort, nor follow its use. I have return of the trouble since I to drink Postum. It has built restored my health and given interest in life. It certainly to be well again." Name given Co., Battle Creek, Mich. the little book, "The Road to in each pkg.

Household Matters

A Beautiful Flower Piece.

For a beautiful flower centrepiece fill a glass bowl with carbonated water and immediately arrange in it nasturtiums with plenty of leaves. The flowers will soon be covered with sparkling dew, presenting the coolest appearance.

Buttonholes That Last.

In making buttonholes in children's underclothes, after getting the hole ready to be worked, place a cord (I use fine binding twine) around the hole with the part at the front (where the wear of the button comes) and work over it; the buttonholes will then outwear the garment.—A. M. B., in The Home.

To Dip Broth.

To dip broth or soup from the kettle when cooking, and the fat is on it, draw the kettle forward to the hot part of the range, making the soup boil furiously. This raises a large bubble in the middle of the pot from which a cupful of soup at a time may be dipped out—that fat all goes to the sides of the pot.

For Laundering Woolens.

In the Ladies' Home Journal, we find the following, which we give in answer to query of Mrs. E. G.: Dissolve white soap; put about two pailfuls of warm water in a tub, and add enough dissolved soap to make a heavy suds. Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of borax in a quart of boiling water; pour half of this into the suds; shake the white flannels free from dust and put them in the suds; work the suds through the articles by lifting, squeezing and kneading; never rub or twist woolens. A washing machine is excellent for all woolen fabrics. Squeeze the water from the washed article; rinse in two waters having about the same temperature as the washing suds; put a cupful of dissolve borax in each rinsing water, and pass through the wringer.

Sunday Night Supper.

I wish I could head an insurrection against the Sunday night supper as it is usually met. It would be swept out of existence with a celerity that would be astonishing even in this day of rapid transit. Gone forever would be the supper table of one section of the country—the plate of cold chopped beef or dried codfish, the pile of white and brown bread, the little dishes of apple sauce, the large ginger cookies. Gone, too, would be that other variety of supper table which thinks to make up for its lack of savory dishes by its much cake. I am afraid even baked beans and brown bread, beloved as they are by certain worthy beings, might not stand against the bosom of destruction.

Instead of any or all of these the supper table that should supplant them should be a board of surprises. The Sunday night supper should be the unexpected feast of the week. At this meal the family would never know what to look for. One time the repast would be hot and savory; the next it would be cold, but no less savory. New and startling salads would make their first bow, so to speak, at the Sunday night supper table, and it would be the housekeeper's dissipation to devise and search out novelties for this meal. Here she should give rein to any pioneering or adventurous spirit she had in her and train her family to equal daring.—Harper's Bazar.

Peach Fritters—Sift together one cupful of flour, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt; then pour over one well-beaten egg and one-third of a cupful of milk; then add three tablespoonfuls of sugar, and four peaches chopped in small pieces; drop big spoonfuls into hot fat; drain them on paper; sprinkle with powdered sugar; serve hot.

Date Whip—Wash and soak a pound of dates, then put them in water to simmer on the stove until very soft. Remove from the fire, drain, and rub them through a sieve. And one-third of a cupful of sugar and a spoonful of lemon juice, and whip in the unbeaten whites of four eggs. Turn into a buttered mold, set in a pan of hot water and bake slowly until firm. When cold, serve with whipped cream.

Gravied Cucumbers — Fry a sliced onion in a little butter until partly cooked, then add six cucumbers which have been quartered lengthwise. Cook until the cucumbers are nicely browned. Remove the vegetables from the frying pan carefully and add to the butter left in it a pint of good soup stock. Season to taste and thicken slightly with flour—a teaspoonful will be sufficient. Put the fried vegetables into this preparation; cover closely and cook until tender enough to serve.

Peanut Pudding—Scald one pint of milk in a double boiler; beat the yolks of four eggs and four tablespoonfuls of brown sugar together, and stir in three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch made smooth with a little milk. Stir this mixture constantly until it thickens, then add one cupful of peanut paste and flavor with a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Pour into a pudding dish and cover with a meringue made by beating the whites of four eggs with six tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Set in the oven to brown.

The Color of Gold.

The idea that gold varies somewhat in color, according to the locality in which it is found, is widely prevalent even among miners and money-changers and handlers in the gold-producing districts, but such notion is, on the authority of experts at the Philadelphia mint, wholly erroneous.

Pure gold—that is, gold without any alloy or other impurity—is of one unvarying color. Few people, however, see such gold. All the gold of commerce used either as money or for jewelry has alloy in it after it is manufactured into the desired article. Even the nugget of gold, which is sometimes quite pure, is covered with dirt and stains on the outside that conceal its true color, and all gold dust which is melted at the place of mining contains impurities which go into the bar.

This is the reason why Mexican gold, for instance, has a redder tinge than that of California, and the same is true whether it be a piece of money or of jewelry. The red tinge is caused by the presence of copper and the paler tinge by silver, and in the mints of the different countries the amount and kinds of alloy used differ sufficiently to give different tints to the money.

"His Excellency."

It was recently announced in the Moniteur Official that hereafter the president of France and the minister of state would be styled "excellencies." In his congratulations to President Roosevelt over the peace of Portsmouth President Loubet addressed the American chief executive as "His Excellency"—a title that always stirs Mr. Roosevelt's bile. The governor of Massachusetts is by constitutional degree "his excellency," but the president of the United States is not. He is simply "Mr. President," although Senator Hoar denied even the "Mr." and used to insist on addressing the chief executive as "President." President Loubet may prefer to be known as "his excellency," but nobody will achieve popularity at the White House or Sagamore Hill by addressing Mr. Roosevelt by that title.

Hereditary Fear in Animals.

People who drive to the Bronx zoo, New York, often wonder what causes the nervousness of their horses after they have looked at the animals and come out to drive home. It is the wild animal scent in their clothes. The same manifestations appear in the frightened horses of the country town when the cages of circus tigers, lions and panthers are near enough for them to get the smell. All dangerous wild animals have a strong odor. In times of excitement this odor is emitted so excessively as to be almost sickening. Even in the best zoological gardens and menageries the smell of the animals cannot be avoided.

Simplon Tunnel.

Although the Simplon tunnel is so much longer than either the St. Gothard or the Mount Cenis, it was completed in six and a half years, while it took eight years to construct the St. Gothard and twelve years for the Mont Cenis. The difference in favor of the Simplon was due almost entirely to the improved rotating drills now used in tunnel construction.

An Epidemic of Hammers.

With reference to the recent closing of Stonehenge to the public, Sir Edmund Antrobus, the owner, entered a shop in Salisbury, where dozens of small hammers were on sale. Asking an explanation, he was assured by the shopkeeper that people bought the hammers in order to chip off souvenirs from the ancient Druidical stones.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ld. 931 Arch St. Phila., Pa.

More than 2000 people earn a living in Paris by fortune-telling.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

Sir Isaac Holden used to get recreation out of compulsory walking.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. THOMAS ROBBINS, Maple St., Norwich, N.Y., Feb. 17, 1900

The native of India has an average life of twenty-four years.

Yellow Fever and Malaria Germs

Are instantly killed by the use of six drops of Sloan's Liniment on a teaspoonful of sugar. It is also an excellent antiseptic.

A penny is estimated to change hands about 125,000 times in its life.

Relics of "Othello."

Documents have been discovered in Venice which are said to identify Othello, of Shakespeare's tragedy, with a certain Nicholas Querini, son of Francesco, while Desdemona was the daughter of Palma Querini. Both belonged to noble Venetian families and they were related.

Photography's Latest.

Since the process of photographing on silk and linen has been brought to such perfection in France, many persons have their portraits upon their linen, instead of their names or initials. The portraits are not injured by washing.

England's population at the time of the conquest did not exceed 2,000,000.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Frankie Orser
Miss Pearl Ackers

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, leucorrhœa, or perhaps irregularity or suppression of "monthly periods," causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

Women who stand on their feet all day are more susceptible to these troubles than others.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Miss F. Orser of 14 Warrenton Street, Boston, tells women how to avoid such suffering; she writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered misery for several years with irregular menstruation. My back ached; I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches; I could not sleep and could hardly drag around. I consulted two physicians without relief, and as a last resort, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to my surprise, every ache and pain left me. I gained ten pounds and am in perfect health."

Miss Pearl Ackers of 327 North Summer Street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered with painful periods, severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen; was very nervous and irritable, and my trouble grew worse every month.

"My physician failed to help me and I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found it was doing me good. All my pains and aches disappeared, and I no longer fear my monthly periods."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman, and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A BANK DEPOSIT
$5,000
R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken 500 FREE COURSES
Board at Cost. Write Quick
GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

The Atlantic depth has an average depth of 16,000 feet.

RESTORED HIS HAIR

Scalp Humor Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment After All Else Failed.

"I was troubled with a severe scalp humor and loss of hair that gave me a great deal of annoyance. After unsuccessful efforts with many remedies and so-called hair tonics, a friend induced me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The humor was cured in a short time, my hair was restored as healthy as ever, and I can gladly say I have since been entirely free from any further annoyance. I shall always use Cuticura Soap, and I keep the Ointment on hand to use as a dressing for the hair and scalp. (Signed) Fred'k Busche, 213 East 57th St., N. Y. City."

Invents New Life Raft.

Mr. Matson, chief steward of a steamer of the New York and New Haven line, has invented a life boat which gives promise of being useful. This boat is 12x9x8 feet, is water tight, with compartments for food and fresh water. It rests upon the decks on a platform, the latter being supported by uprights kept in proper position by pins. By pulling the lever chain the lever turns, the platform is tilted and the raft glides into the water. At its first trial twenty-five men were lowered into the raft by an automatic pulley, and in five minutes after reaching the water the raft left the side of the steamer.

Friends of the Abused Bachelor.

Lord Iveagh has been entertaining a number of visitors at the newly finished home for single men which he has built and equipped at Bride Road, Dublin. Iveagh house will afford the struggling single men a healthful home and separate sleeping accommodations at a rent of about 75 cents per week, and will be conducted on the principles which obtain at the Rowden houses in London. The house has a frontage of 196 feet and a depth of ten feet, and is five stories in height. It contains 516 cubicles and is provided with dining, smoking and reading rooms, free library and shoemaker, grocer and tailor shops.

Postage Stamp Dress.

Over 30,000 postage stamps were used in the making of a dress for an American lady which she wore at a ball at Berlin a short time ago.

COLEMAN'S
Duplicate Repair Parts
For "Maid of the South" Corn Mills, Coleman's, Simmon's, Reynold's and other Cotton Presses.
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
714 Perdido St., NEW ORLEANS, LA.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS. FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. BLELOCK MFG. CO., 913 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

In one year this country turns out 1,500 books of fiction alone.

MOZLEY'S
LEMON ELIXIR
—A SURE CURE FOR—CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS
and all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels. 50c. a bottle at drug stores.

Am. 40, 1905.

MONEY $ $ $ Write to E. E. Behr, La Crosse, Wis.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN

troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhoea and nasal catarrh. Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box. Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free. THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES
W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
ALL STYLES
SOLE AGENTS FOR W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES
Established July

W. L. DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES
GILBERT'S
GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.
The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking GILBERT'S GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO., Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

YOUR SHOE MONEY

Will go farther and last longer if you Insist upon having the Right kind of Shoes. Your dealer will sell you the

"ALWAYS JUST CORRECT"

CLOVER BRAND SHOES

If you ask him for them; if he hasn't got them, they're worth waiting for until he gets them.

The RIGHT SHOES for ALL SORTS of WEAR

You can pay as little or as much as you want to.
For the most for your money, buy "Rigeur."

Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co.
LARGEST FINE SHOE EXCLUSIVISTS
ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

IF IT'S CHILLS YOU HAVE, IT'S OXIDINE YOU NEED

It is sold under ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE, and if you are not cured your druggist will refund your money. Made also in Tasteless Form. Sold by all druggists for 50 cents per Bottle.

PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.
Props., Dallas, Tex. and Memphis, Tenn.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., [illegible]

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

BIG STOCK

LOW PRICE

Anticipating the wants of the good people of Chilton county, we have laid in a most extensive stock, comprising all the latest fashions and novelties, and particularly call your attention to our line of

LADIES' Trimmed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Skirts, some samples at wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; Underwear, heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc.

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices. Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for that reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHING you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.

W. I. MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA.

I SELL.

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company.

Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to policy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High Arm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48 00 to $65.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping. Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,

Singer Office, CLANTON.

BARGAINS

FOR YOU.

Between the 18th of September and the 25th of December, I will have

BARGAIN DAYS

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays

OF EACH WEEK, AND ON

THESE DAYS ONLY

will give a discount of 20 per cent off of my regular prices on all Dry Goods, Shoes, and Clothing. My goods are priced as low as any merchant can afford to sell, but I have bought very large quantities of goods as I had to buy in large lots in order to secure the lowest prices and as it is against my business principles to carry any goods over from one season to another, I am offering these bargain days in order to reduce my stock. This 20 per cent discount will reduce the price of 6 cent Prints to less than 5 cents, and Rescue Plaids from 7 cents to about 5 1-2 cents, Shoes worth $1.50 and $1.25 to $1.20 and $1.00 respectively, and everything else proportionately.

Think what this will save you and call here on these days for all your goods. No goods can be charged to any one at these prices as here is positively no profit on them whatever.

I also buy cotton and pay Montgomery prices less the shipping and selling expenses for same, and weights guaranteed absolutely correct.

I also buy Wool and all other country produce, paying the highest market price obtainable, and loan money on cotton at a reasonable rate of interest.

Call to see me when in need of anything either for cash or on time.

C. A. PATTILLO

BILLINGSLEY, ALA.

NEW STORE

Now Open Ready For Business

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right. Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers. Call and see us. we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

Give us a chance at your Cotton, Wool and everything you have to sell.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats

Pattern Hats

Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS, 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - ALA.

TO DELICATE WOMEN

You will never get well and strong, bright, hap py, hearty and free from pain, until you build up y constitution with a nerve refreshing, blood-ma tonic, like

Wine of Cardui

It Makes Pale Cheeks Pink

It is a pure, harmless, medicinal tonic, made from vegeta ingredients, which relieve female pain and distress, such as headach backache, bowel ache, dizziness, chills, scanty or profuse menstr ation, dragging down pains, etc.

It is a building, strength-making medicine for women, the only medicine that is certain to do you good. Try it.

Sold by every druggest in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER

freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"YOU ARE FRIENDS

of mine," writes Mrs. F. L. Jon, of Gallatin, Tenn.:

"For since taking Cardui I ha gained 35 lbs., and am in better he than for the past 9 years. I tell my husband that Cardui is worth its weight in gold to all suffering ladies."

PARTIAL PROGRAM

A partial program of the Bibb County Baptist Association, which will meet with the Pilgrim's Rest Baptist church, Maplesville, Oct. 4, 5 and 6, 1905.

Welcome address, to be delivered in behalf of the town by Hon. T. U Crumpton, at 7 p.m. Also a lecture on the Holy Land by the Hon. T. U. Crumpton.

J. S. PRENTICK, Moderator.

Prof. K. N. DRAPER, Rec. Sec.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Send a sample copy of The Banner to your friends.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wing, writes, June 18, 1902: "I tell you I believe Ballard's Liniment saved my life. I under the treatment of two d and they told me one of my was entirely gone, and the badly affected. I also had a on my side. I don't think could have lived over two longer. I was induced by a to try Ballard's Snow Lin The first application gave me relief. Two fifty cent bottles me sound and well.

It is a wonderful medicine recommend it to suffering hu ity." Sold by Upchurch Drug

Commissioners' Sale.

Under and by virtue of the mandate mission issued out of the Probate Court on county, Alabama, directed to me, Davis, as Commissioner, will proceed partition and division among Mary A. born Clifford A. Gullahorn and other in erest, the following described lands Chilton county, Alabama, to-wit:

Sw ¼, W ½ of Ne ¼, E ½ of Nw ¼ of Nw ¼, Sec 35, Tp 22, R 15, for cash, the Court House Door, in Clanton, Alab

FRIDAY, the 6th day of OCTOBER

This the 20th day of September, 190

CLYDE DAVIS, Comm

The above sale is continued to Friday, 13, 1905. CLYDE DAVIS, Comm

---

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNG

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS

Price 50c & $1 Free Tri

Surest and Quickest Cure for THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

has stood the test 25 years. Average Annual Sales over One and a Half Million bottles. Does this record of merit appeal to you? No Cure, No Pay. 50c.

Enclosed with every bottle is a Ten Cent package of Grove's Black Root Liver Pills.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Mr. Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long experience enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the express purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we have clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit them and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at especially low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of Suit you wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Boy's Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short pants, and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No matter what you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's Hats, all styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest style of Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a good many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods of all kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 yards, worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so long as they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the exclusive agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 and Men's from No. 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are offering all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO

Clothiers To The Whole Family

THE BARGAIN STORE

Clanton, Ala.

Notice of Sale Under Execution, by Sheriff

Under and virtue of an execution in my hands from the circuit court of Chilton county, Alabama, in favor of Drennen and company against J. Bice, I will proceed to sell, on

MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905,

at public outcry, for cash, to the highest, best and last bidder in front of the court house, in Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, the following described real and personal property as the property of said defendant, J. Bice, to satisfy in whole or in part, said execution to-wit:

Eleven (11) shares of stock in the Farmers' Warehouse and Fertilizer company, of the par value of twenty-five (25) dollars each and the following real estate: Lots 18, 19, 20 and 21 in block one (1) city of Thorsby of said county and State as per plat of said city of Thorsby, recorded with judge of Probate court of said county and State and a parcel of land 25 feet wide on and along the whole north side of Nw ¼ of Nw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 6, Township 22 Range 14; and a parcel of land on and along the whole east side of said described 12 feet running east to the alley in block No. Nine, as per recorded plat of Thorsby of said county and State, which said Block No Nine (9) is included in cancelled part of said recorded plat containing two acres, more or less, and also Nw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 17, Township 22, Range 14 mineral excepted all of said real estate being situated in Chilton county, Alabama,

This the 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

WM. M. ADAMS,

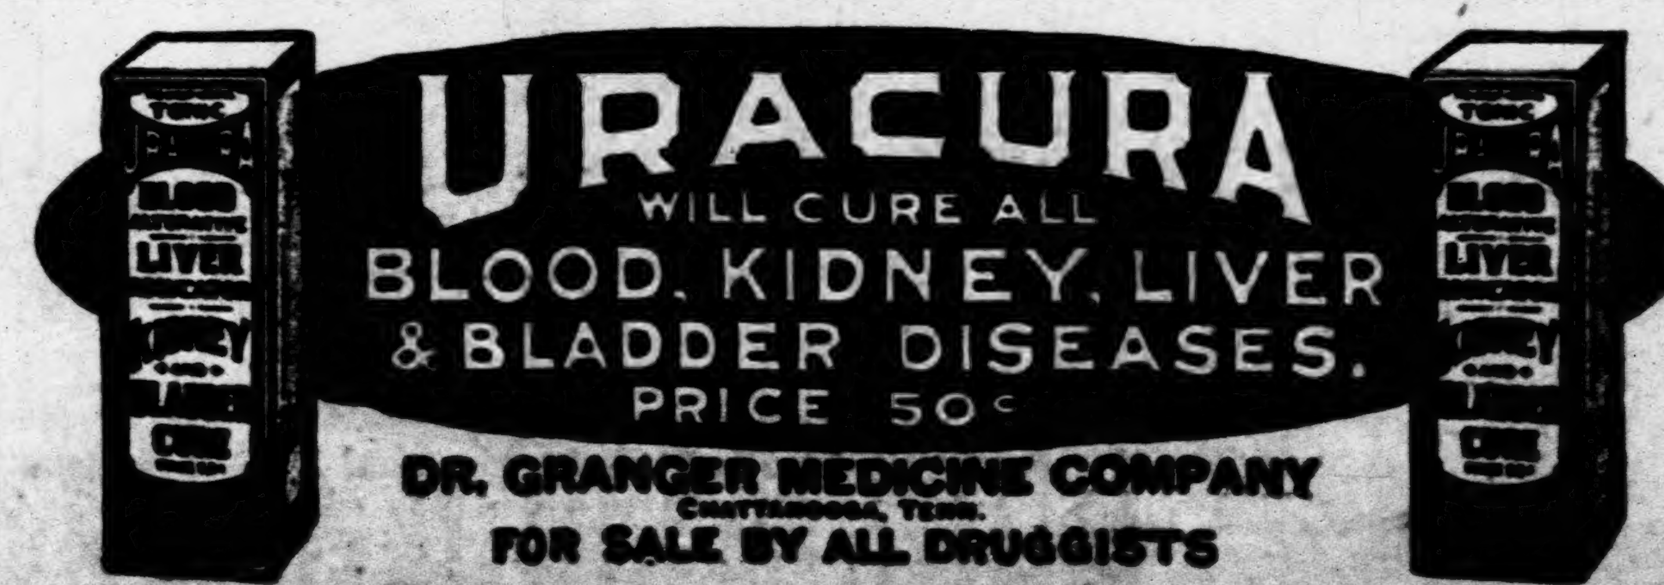
Attorney for Plaintiff, Drennen & comp'ny.

Posted at the court house door of Chilton county Alabama, in Clanton, Alabama, on this 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

Plans to Get Rich

are often frustrated by sudden breakdowns, due to dyspepsia or constipation. Brace up and take Dr. King's New Life Pills. They take out the materials which are clogging your energies, and give you a new start. Cure headache and dizziness too. At Upchurch drug store; 25c., guaranteed.



URACURA

WILL CURE ALL

BLOOD, KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER DISEASES.

PRICE 50c

DR. GRANGER MEDICINE COMPANY

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STO of Fine Clocks just in from New York, nice line of Ladi and Gent's Gold Fill Watches and Jewel If you need a pair Spectacles I have in best grades. Sew Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL

CLANTON, ALA

THE ORIGINAL LAXATIVE COUGH SY

Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.

(Trade Mark Registered.)

KENNEDY'S LAXA HONEY AND TA

E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO

For sale by Upchurch Dr

VOL. XIII Fo

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

There is a regular building boom in Clanton. Tuesday the Coun Commissioners met and the con was signed with Wagoner & dson, of Montgomery, for the ension to the court house, raising the jail, and some necessary re irs to the present court house, for sum of $6,950. The contrac will start to work next Monday.

The new warehouse is fairly rted, foundations are in and work being pushed vigorously. Ben has the contract for building new school house, and is getting material on the ground. Duke are also building a new brick rehouse for O. O. Roper on the west of the railroad next to Wiley Smith's store.

And residence property is in t demand. There is no vacant uses in Clanton, and I verily be ve quite twenty more houses uld be readily rented at the present moment. Peyt Wilson's addi n at West Clanton which he has d surveyed and laid out in lots ight well be covered with resi nces and every one would be nted before they were built.

Clerk of the Circuit Court Sam Collins was married last Sunday ternoon to Miss Rosa Cooley, one ex-Sheriff Cooley's charming ughters, Judge Reynolds per ming the ceremony. Sam is to congratulated on securing such bonny bride, and I wish them heartily a long, happy and sperous life.

E. C. McMorries, who has been in d health for some time, left Tues y morning for Birmingham, his other, Bascombe, coming down nday to carry Caldwell home th him. I sincerely hope the ange will prove beneficial to him.

Last Friday night, about 7:30, sound of smashing was heard to the court house. Will Bur tt was in a buggy, driving a mule, hich ran away, starting from the urt house well across the lot to rd the jail. The buggy was oken but Will and his companion aped unhurt.

Chilton loses one of her most ogressive citizens next week en Aiken Mims removes from llins Chapel to Mobile county, here he purposes going extensive into stock raising. I am sorry is leaving us, but wish him all sperity in his new home. He ll be missed at Collins Chapel.

Tom Pyron, of Verbena has ught out the Popwell livery stable d proposes giving us a first class rvice.

rs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" ll be played at Stanton school use Friday evening, Oct. 20, 1905, ginning at 8 o'clock. This will be are treat for those who are pres t. Proceeds will be used to paint school house. W. B. SPEER.

Full of Tragic Meaning

these lines from J. H. Simmons, Casey, Ia. Think what might e resulted from his terrible cough he had not taken the medicine which he writes: "I had a ful cough that disturbed my ht's rest. I tried everything, nothing would relieve it, until I k Dr. King's New Discovery for sumption, Coughs and Colds, ch completely cured me." In tly relieves and permanently s all throat and lung diseases; ents grip and pneumonia. At church Drug co., guaranteed; 50c d $1.00. Trial bottle free.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIII Fourteen Pages CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1905 Pages 1 to 8 No 52

MAN ON THE CORNER

of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

There is a regular building boom in Clanton. Tuesday the Coun- Commissioners met and the con- was signed with Wagoner & son, of Montgomery, for the sion to the court house, raising the jail, and some necessary re- to the present court house, for sum of $6,950. The contrac will start to work next Monday.

The new warehouse is fairly ted, foundations are in and work being pushed vigorously. Ben has the contract for building new school house, and is getting material on the ground. Duke are also building a new brick house for O. O. Roper on the west of the railroad next to ley Smith's store.

And residence property is in demand. There is no vacant in Clanton, and I verily be- ve quite twenty more houses ld be readily rented at the pres- moment. Peyt Wilson's addi- at West Clanton which he has surveyed and laid out in lots, ght well be covered with resi- ces and every one would be ted before they were built.

Clerk of the Circuit Court Sam J. Collins was married last Sunday afternoon to Miss Rosa Cooley, one ex-Sheriff Cooley's charming daughters, Judge Reynolds per ming the ceremony. Sam is to congratulated on securing such bony bride, and I wish them heartily a long, happy and perous life.

E. C. McMorries, who has been in health for some time, left Tues- morning for Birmingham, his ther, Bascombe, coming down day to carry Caldwell home with him. I sincerely hope the nge will prove beneficial to him.

Last Friday night, about 7:30, sound of smashing was heard to the court house. Will Bur- was in a buggy, driving a mule, which ran away, starting from the rt house well across the lot to- rd the jail. The buggy was ken but Will and his companion aped unhurt.

Chilton loses one of her most gressive citizens next week Aiken Mims removes from Collins Chapel to Mobile county, where he purposes going extensive- into stock raising. I am sorry is leaving us, but wish him all sperity in his new home. He will be missed at Collins Chapel.

Tom Pyron, of Verbena has ght out the Popwell livery stable proposes giving us a first-class vice.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be played at Stanton school Friday evening, Oct. 20, 1905, ginning at 8 o'clock. This will be rare treat for those who are pres- Proceeds will be used to paint school house. W. B. Speer.

Full of Tragic Meaning

these lines from J. H. Simmons, Casey, Ia. Think what might resulted from his terrible cough he had not taken the medicine which he writes: "I had a rful cough that disturbed my ht's rest. I tried everything, nothing would relieve it, until I Dr. King's New Discovery for sumption, Coughs and Colds, ch completely cured me." In- tly relieves and permanently all throat and lung diseases; vents grip and pneumonia. At church Drug co., guaranteed; 50c $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

What it Takes to Make a Happy Home

First, I would like to shake hands with Miss Ella Milford. I sure enjoyed your piece. Miss Ella, come again. I would like to write a few words myself about what it takes to make a happy home, but I fear someone will criticise me just a little.

"Home is not merely four square walls,
Though hung with pictures nicely gilded.
Home is where affection calls,
Filled with shrines the heart hath builded.

Of course we can have homes happy or unhappy just as we wish. If we are always complaining and looking on the dark side of life, we will not only make ourselves miserable but will make others unhappy.

"And so it is much as we take it,
This mystical world of ours.
Life's field will yield as we make it
A harvest of thorns or flowers."

Indeed it is a pleasure to visit a happy home, but much more a pleasure to have a happy home, a home where love and happiness ever abides, always forgetting strife and bad words and thoughts, we will thereby greatly improve our homes. We know it takes a goodly number of things to make a happy home, but when we have been blessed with a happy home (be it ever so humble) and Christian parents we should count ourselves wonderfully blessed. A happy home is not merely roof and room, home needs something to endear it. A happy home is where the heart can bloom, where there is kind lips to cheer it. What is home with none to meet, none to welcome, none to greet us? Home is sweet and only sweet when there are those we love to meet us.

Now, dear readers, suppose we all try wearing rose colored glasses, (I mean try looking on the bright side of life) I think we will find life like a sweet summer day, we will love our neighbors better, the birds' song will be more cheering, the flowers sweeter, for we are like the flower of the grass, we must soon pass away, and let us make the best of life while we have the opportunity. Though we may wander far away there will be a spot cherished in our memory—home, where mother told us to be truthful and honest and to be thankful to our Redeemer for His many blessings. And where we have had a good father to love us and send us to school, this is much better than to look back on a life spent in an unhappy home. I don't suppose it would be quite so pleasant. Well, I guess the Editor is looking around for the waste basket, I had better be closing, with much love to the Banner and my respects to all its readers.

Lucy Ella House.

Billingsley.

I guess that Mr. J. H. Williams and family rejoiced to see the letter from their little daughter in Talladega, for she is getting along fine.

Some of the people of this place witnessed the wedding of Mr. Moore and Miss Essie Durbin last Sunday afternoon. We wish them a long and happy life.

Mr. A. M. Roper took a long drive to Clanton Sunday.

Mr. W. A. Montgomery of Mobile visited relatives here last week.

The F. N. C. run an excursion to Mr. Apperson's last week and a nice time was reported.

School will commence next week.

A Subscriber.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closley as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequaled. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

Wm. E. Holloway, President. W. T. Callen, Cashier.
W. I. Mullins, Vice-President. John A. Thomas, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:
W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

Mullins Hill.

I am sorry to say our Sunday school is dead. Some were very much interested and others were not. I did not miss a Sunday, I certainly did enjoy going.

We are glad to see Miss Lela Oats out again after a spell of fever.

Mrs. B. H. Hubbard is visiting her son, W B. Hubbard, near Clanton

Mr. George Freeman is at home on the sick list; hope he will soon recover.

Misses Pardelia Glass and Emma Hubbard visited Mr. V. L. Hubbard of Riderville the past week.

Mrs. Malonia Rasberry has returned home from Randolph and we are glad to have her with us again.

Mr Craton Lenoir has built a new house. The wedding bells surely will ring one more time.

Isn't it so nice to get our mail brought to us. M. V. G.

JOINT MEETING.

The Chilton Farmers' Alliance and the Farmers' Union of Chilton county will meet with Pleasant Grove Alliance and Union on Oct. 18 and 19, five miles west of Jemison. Send delegates with credentials. J. W. Sorrell, Sec.

A new idea in a Cough Syrup is advanced in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Besides containing Pine Tar, Honey and other valuable remedies, it is rendered Laxative, so that its use insures a prompt and efficient evacuation of the bowels, It relaxes the nervous system and cures all coughs, colds, croup, etc. A red clover blossom and the honey bee is on every bottle of the Original Laxative Cough Syrup—Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Notice of Sale Under Execution, by Sheriff

Under and virtue of an execution in my hands from the circuit court of Chilton county, Alabama, in favor of Drennen and Company against J. Bice, I will proceed to sell, on

MONDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1905,

at public outcry, for cash, to the highest, best and last bidder, in front of the court house, in Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, the following described real and personal property, as the property of said defendant, J. Bice, to satisfy in whole or in part, said execution to-wit;

Eleven (11) shares of stock in the Farmers' Warehouse and Fertilizer company, of the par value of twenty-five (25) dollars each, and the following real estate: Lots 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 in block one (1) city of Thorsby of said county and State as per plat of said city of Thorsby, recorded with Judge of Probate court of said county and State, and a parcel of land 125 feet wide on and along the whole north side of Nw ¼ of sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 6, Township 22, Range 14; and a parcel of land on and along the whole east side of said described 125 feet running east to the alley in block No Nine, as per recorded plat of Thorsby of said county and State, which said Block No. Nine (9) is included in cancelled part of said recorded plat, containing two acres, more or less, and also Sw ¼ of Nw ¼, Section 17, Township 22, Range 14 minerals excepted. All of said real estate being situated in Chilton county, Alabama.

This the 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

Wm. M. ADAMS,
Attorney for Plaintiff, Drennen & Company.

Posted at the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, in Clanton, Alabama, on this 4th day of October, 1905.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

Old Waddy.

Well, the cotton picking in this community is just about over for this year; corn is not so good as some people thought it was.

The Union boys and Collins Chapel boys crossed bats again on the latter's grounds Saturday evening, the score was 18 to 7 in favor of the Union boys. Also played on Union grounds the Saturday before and the score was 8 and 7 for the Union boys. Well, you Chapel boys will have to go somewhere besides Thorsby and Jemison to get somebody to beat us playing ball.

Well, I agree with Mr. W. Y. Atchison on the local school tax, for we want it 16 to 1 and we want stock law voted out 16 to 1, but think that he is a little too hard on our ball playing; if we ball players and the biggest portion of our preachers and yes, Mr. Atchison, too, would do no meaner than play ball we might expect something better some other day. Judge not.

Green Retherford.

You may be just as skeptical and pessimistic as you please. Kodol will digest what you eat whether you eat or not. You can put your food in a bowl, pour a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure on it and it will digest it the same as it will in your stomach. It can't help but cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It is curing hundreds and thousands—Some had faith and some didn't. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Sardis.

Our Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely. Rev. Lynch filled his regular appointment at Antioch church Sunday and preached an excellent sermon to a large congregation.

Misses Everee Ratliff and Mollie Walker visited Miss Minnie Klinner and report a nice time.

Misses Vanie Grooms and Cellie Bowden of Mulberry are visiting Misses Zadie and Lauila Deason.

Two of the Boys.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief. Two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well.

It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Everybody is holding for 11 cents.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. Mullins, President E. A. Matthews, Cashier
W. H. Sartor, Vice President E. B. Deason, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe, warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

MONEY TO LOAN—From $300 to $500—on good real estate security. Apply to X. Y. Z., care of The Banner, Clanton, Ala.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

WRITE Stanley's Business College, Macon, Ga., at once for catalogue. This School can not supply its demand for its graduates.

FOR SALE—Two Boar Pigs, born May 31, 1905. Berkshire, crossed with Poland China. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—Someone to get out stumps. Will let the job by the stump or by the job. Come and figure on it. If you have a stump puller nine-tenths of them could be pulled with ease. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—A farm hand for the year 1906. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—Fresh Milch Cows, the same not to give less than three gallons of milk per day. M. J. Barrett, Thorsby, Ala.

WANTED—We want some good families, boys and girls, to work in the Cotton Mills. Healthy place; cheap rent—mill and mill village supplied with artesian water. No better place to live. Good churches and Sunday schools, also literary schools. Good wages paid twice a month. Apply to J. M. Martin, Superintendent Prattville Cotton Mills & Banking Co., Prattville, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. Higgins, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Plans to Get Rich

are often frustrated by sudden breakdown, due to dyspepsia or constipation. Brace up and take Dr. King's New Life Pills. They take out the materials which are clogging your energies, and give you a new start. Cure headache and dizziness too. At Upchurch drug store; 25c., guaranteed.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address
THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION,
Thorsby, Ala.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

HEAR
PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
WILL SPEAK AT ALABAMA STATE FAIR
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA
OCTOBER 24
GREATEST FAIR EVER GIVEN IN THE SOUTH

Opens Oct. 23rd
Closes Nov. 2nd Ten Days

ALABAMA WILL BE ON PARADE.
REDUCED RAILROAD RATES.

EUGENE FIES, President. R. M. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

CATE WOMEN
well and strong, bright, hapm pain, until you build up your erve refreshing, blood-making

Cardui
ale Cheeks Pink

nedicinal tonic, made from vegetable ale pain and distress, such as headache, s, chills, scanty or profuse menstru-making medicine for women, the only you good. Try it.
$1.00 bottles.

"YOU ARE FRIENDS of mine," writes Mrs. F. L. Jones, of Gallatin, Tenn.: "For since taking Cardui I have gained 35 lbs., and am in better health than for the past 9 years. I tell my husband that Cardui is worth its weight in gold to all suffering ladies."

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, writes, June 14, 1902: "I want tell you I believe Ballard's Liniment saved my life. I under the treatment of two doct and they told me one of my was entirely gone, and the badly affected. I also had a on my side. I don't think could have lived over two longer. I was induced by a fri to try Ballard's Snow Linim The first application gave me relief. Two fifty cent bottles me sound and well.

It is a wonderful medicine recommend it to suffering hum ity." Sold by Upchurch Drug

Commissioners' Sale.

Under and by virtue of the mandate of mission issued out of the Probate Court of ton county, Alabama, directed to me, I, Davis, as Commissioner, will proceed partition and division among Mary A. horn, Clifford A. Gullahorn and other in erest, the following described lands Chilton county, alabama, to-wit:

Sw ¼, W ½ of Ne ¼, E ½ of Nw ¼ and of Nw ¼, Sec 35, Tp 22, R 13, for cash, in the Court House Door, in Clanton, Alab

FRIDAY, the 6th day of OCTOBER,

This the 20th day of September, 1905.
CLYDE DAVIS, Commis

The above sale is continued to Friday, 13, 1905. CLYDE DAVIS, Commis

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNG WITH Dr. King's
New Discovery
FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS and COLDS
Price 50c & $1.00
Free Trial.
Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

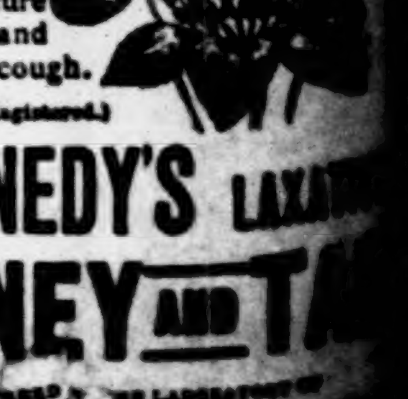
EYES
TESTED FREE

A COMPLETE STOCK of Fine Clocks just come in from New York, and nice line of Ladies' and Gent's Gold Filled Watches and Jewelry. If you need a pair of Spectacles I have them in best grades. Sewing Machines from $10 up.

L. D. POPWELL
CLANTON, ALA.

THE ORIGINAL
LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

Cures all Coughs and assists in expelling Colds from the System by gently moving the bowels. A certain cure for croup and whooping-cough.
(Trade Mark Registered.)



KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE
HONEY AND TAR
PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF
E. C. DeWITT & CO., CHICAGO
For sale by Upchurch

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

London is going mad over a jiu-jitsu for women by which a woman can throw a man down. That's nothing! Lots of our girls who never even heard of jiu-jitsu can throw a man down any old time.

Not the least impressive of the many figures in regard to railroad mileage, passengers carried, etc., are those which show that 10,046 persons lost their lives on American railroads last year, asserts the New York Tribune. In other words, the railroads annually kill as many people as perish in a great battle.

It is calculated that in every 10,000 of the English and Welsh population 31.4 people are lunatics, states an English periodical. In every 10,000 of the Scotch population 33.6 people are lunatics. In every 10,000 of the Irish population 40.3 people are lunatics. Altogether, one person in every 306 inhabitants of the United Kingdom is demented.

The Dean of Canterbury, preaching in the cathedral, said the progress of surgery had been so great that the time might come when all but the richest classes would resort to hospitals for treatment that they could not have in their homes, relates the Medical Record. Hence the support of these hospitals was a duty for all, and unless that duty was carried out voluntarily compulsion would become necessary.

Tokio dispatches to the London Times say it has been ascertained that the Russian warships at Port Arthur were not blown up or sunk by gunfire. The Russians opened valves, having previously greased and otherwise protected the machinery and vital parts. Evidently the capture of 203-Metre Hill exposed the ships to such danger that the Russians decided to sink them, pending their recovery when the command of the sea had been gained by the Baltic fleet. Their four battleships and two cruisers will speedily form a serviceable addition to the Japanese navy, concludes the Army and Navy Journal.

When all the world is lauding our President, we need not stint our praises of him; but we praise him most for having seized so strongly and employed so nobly the function of America as the bringer of peace on earth, says the New York Evening Post. In the new radiance which he has cast upon our country, we see her again as she from the first appeared to lofty natures looking for a better age—the great protest against tyranny and oppression and war. Shelley's hail across the ocean to "a people mighty in its youth," embodied this conception of our true national greatness; and there is something almost prophetic of what we have just witnessed in his description of how Europe "Turns to her chainless child for succor now." To have recovered so vividly this world-position for the United States is Mr. Roosevelt's truest glory.

Straight-front corsets are going out, states Collier's Weekly. At least so the dressmakers have decreed, and their usually stupid and time-serving word is law. The round kind, whatever they be called, that crush all the organs into the space of one, are to be restored, to give variety to the female form and work to the profession which flourishes by making new garments while the old are still as good as new. Modern male dress is ugly and hygienic. Modern European and American female apparel substitutes an artificial idea of beauty for one which was good enough for Phidias. In place of a covering which respected the functions and needs of a healthy human animal, our women have invented a cage to decrease their vitality and make a natural life difficult and rare. Sheep rush madly about a pasture, not in search of any comprehensible ideal, but because one sheep started, and emotion increases with each sheep that joins. Likewise reasonable is the tendency of women to imitate an hourglass in despite of nature. The straightfront corset has been perfectly satisfactory to her, and she has no idea why she is about to give it up.

Three Houses Burned.

Avondale, Ala.—Three houses were destroyed by the fire at Avondale on Monday. The loss is estimated at $1,000. The Birmingham fire department was called on to assist, but the flames were under control when two hose wagons and a small engine responded.

Camping Song.

Has your dinner lost its savor?
Has your greeting lost its cheer?
Is your daily stunt a burden?
Is your laughter half a sneer?
There's a medicine to cure you,
There's a way to lift your load,
With a horse and a saddle and a mile of open road.

Is your eyeball growing bilious?
Is your temper getting short?
Is this life a blind delusion,
Or a grim, unlovely sport?
There's a world of health and beauty,
There's a help that cannot fail,
In a day behind the burros,
On a dusty mountain trail.

Come out, old man, we're going
To a land that's free and large,
Where the rainless skies are resting
On a snowy mountain marge.
When we camp in God's own country,
You will find yourself again,
With a fire and a blanket and the stars upon the plain!—Bliss Carman in the Reader.

The Last Watch on the "Empress"

Strained, tempest-buffeted, leaking at a dozen seams, her foretopmast gone, her yards splintered, her sails in rags, and with four feet of water in her lower hold, the old bark Empress, three weeks overdue with a cargo of rice from Calcutta, came lurching heavily into the lower harbor through the fog of the May afternoon.

At her wheel stood the captain, and amidships two wearied Swedes were pumping desperately. Brushing aside pilot boats, tugs and quarantine steamer, heedless of the hoarse warnings screeched from a half-dozen metal throats, she made straight for the crescent of Hospital Bank, and there ran hard and fast aground.

As she settled she made a bed for herself in the soft mud, so that when the tide left her she stood nearly upright.

During the next week her rat-riddled cargo was lightered out. Then her owners weighed its fate in council and their verdict was, "Strip and burn." For five days more the swarming riggers worked havoc with knife and hatchet and marlinspike, until, on Friday afternoon, the decks were litered with food for the junk shop and the oakum factory, and the three masts rose bare of their familiar tracery of rope and spar.

At three o'clock on that very Friday, Emerson Hardy, just turned twenty-two, licensed engineer of the gasoline launch belonging to Smith & Cutcliffe, the firm that owned the bark, had finished cleaning up his boat, after a short trip, and had moored it securely off the foot of the landing stairs. The machinery needed some repairs, so for two or three days his craft would be out of commission.

He had not the slightest objection, therefore, when his employers asked him to act as watchman for a single night in place of the colored steward, who had for the past ten days stood grand over the vessel, but who had that morning sailed on a fruit ship bound for Jamaica. Smith & Cutcliffe knew well that the bark was safe from harbor thieves so long as the engineer had charge of it.

It was already dark, and a dense fog blanketed the day, when the tug Orion, on its way out to watch all night for incoming vessels, steamed up close to the Empress to set Hardy on board. He scrambled up the low side, and was on deck in a moment.

"Don't let the rats eat you up, Emerson!" called out the pilot, as the tug swung away. "I'll give you a call in the morning on the way in, to see if you are all there."

Hardy flung back a jest in reply. The first things he did after the Orion had vanished in the mist and its distant puffing died down to an asthmatic whisper, were to light his lantern and load his revolver. Then he straightened up and looked about him.

The bark was entirely dismantled. Her ragged sails were bundled up, the cordage lay along the deck in coils and lines, extending from the cabin top forward. In short, the vessel had been stripped of everything of value in preparation for the final trips of the lighter. The only spot above decks not covered with debris was the roof of the forcastle.

With the advance of night the fog grew thicker. Back and forth paced the engineer. He consulted his watch; it was eight o'clock. He came to a stop near the end of the cabin, where the ship's bell hung tongueless.

The fancy came to him to strike the hours upon it, as if he were keeping watch during an ocean voyage; it would break the monotony of his tight. With a rusty iron marlinspike, picked up from the deck, he beat out eight clear, silvery notes from the sea-mellowed brass.

The night wore on. Every thirty minutes Hardy paused near the binnacle, and the bell pealed out its warning beneath his vigorous arm—one stroke at half past eight, two at nine, and so on.

But the hours moved slowly. He was just on the edge of the channel and up to midnight there was plenty of passing—passenger-boats, freighters, tugs towing lines of barges; he could hear and tell them all, although the fog hid them from view. Toward twelve o'clock they thinned out, and it would have been lonely enough on the deserted hulk but for the rats.

They were present in scores, great, gray, leaping bewildered fellows, scurrying about decks and quarreling with one another, no half-tame inoffensive house animals, but savage, impudent brutes, born and bred on shipboard.

For want of anything better to do, Hardy watched them. Finally he grew tired, and at midnight, after eight strokes on the bell, went down into the cabin. In the middle of the floor stood a huge rat. The watchman shouted at it. The beast lifted its head inquiringly without a sign of fear, and then trotted leisurely into the captain's stateroom.

Hardy stretched himself out in a dilapidated haircloth armchair, the sole remaining article of furniture, set his lantern down near by and tried to fancy himself in command of the bark on a foreign voyage. He lost consciousness for a time, but was suddenly roused by a sharp pain in the right hand. Springing up, he flung from him with a shudder of disgust a rat which, emboldened by his silence, had leaped into his lap and bitten the knuckle of his middle finger.

He looked at his watch. It was nearly two o'clock, the time when man's life forces are said to be at their lowest ebb. Over the decks above, Hardy could hear numberless feet pattering and racing, while the air was rent by shrill, continuous squeals. In the cabin itself were fully a dozen rats, darting in and out of the open staterooms. Taking his lantern, Hardy went up the companionway.

The tide, which was almost high, gurgled steadily into the hold through the open seams, driving all the rats upward. Until a few days before, the animals had had enough to eat from the cargo to keep them from being hungry, but now lack of food had made them savage. The decks were literally alive with them, running squealing, fighting.

Hardy had no sense of fear, but the incessant squabbling wearied him and he longed for the approach of morning. He almost wished that the harbor thieves would put in an appearance. They could easily be frightened off by a show of his revolver; and almost any human interruption would be welcome to vary this ceaseless squealing.

The turmoil on the decks increased. The watchman started forward, and trod on the tail of one of the rats. The animal turned upon him and sank its teeth into his ankle with a shriek.

There was something about that note different than the others. As its sound a dead silence suddenly fell upon the bark, and Hardy was aware that every rat turned toward him. Another shrill, vicious call from his assailant, and in an instant the engineer found himself the object of attack by scores of foes.

Against the binnacle leaned a wooden capstanbar. Hardy siezed this with his right hand, and with the latern in his left, vaulted upon the cabin roof, which rose about four feet above the deck.

He gained thereby a momentary respite, but soon his enemies discovered his whereabouts. Up they swarmed, clambering over the festoons of rigging along the edge of the cabin top. The watchman set down his lantern, grasped the capstan-bar tightly with both hands, and began to lay about him with long, sweeping blows that sent rat after rat flying over the rail into the sea.

At first the engineer despised his assailants. It seemed absured to think that his safety could be seriously endangered by such contemptible animals. They assailed him from behind and he wheeled to meet them, raining his blows in every direction, and striving to shake himself free from their attack. But they pressed him hard, with an ominous, deadly earnestness, and it did not take him long to realize that he was fighting for his very life.

Hardy's wiriness now stood him in good stead. A bigger, clumsier man could not have handled himself so quickly. Up and down, right and left, swept the capstan-bar like a flail. He grew sick of the massacre. He could see nothing outside the little mist-walled circle illumined by the lantern. Slay as many as he might, their numbers seemed unthinned, and their assault continued with undiminished vigor. His arms were wearied with wielding the bar, but he had to fight on.

Had Hardy cared, he would have jumped overboard; but he was only a very ordinary swimmer, the water was cold, and the shore nearly a mile away.

But something must be done at once. His breath was coming short. He stumbled and almost fell. Once down! He shuddered at the thought and wielded his bar desperately.

An incautious sweep caught the lantern, and whirled it over the rail with a jingling crash of glass.

The watchman's face was now turned toward the bow. As he shot a glance forward through the mist, he caught a glimpse of the forecastle, rising above the littered decks. Once on its top he would be safe. Could he gain it? One jump took him off the cabin to the break; another planted his feet on the main deck amidships. His enemies pursued him. The black square of the open hatch yawned before him. Round it he darted, threading his way among the rope coils. Once or twice he was almost thrown headlong.

Close before him rose the forecastle. It was six feet high. Could he reach its summit? He must.

Up he leaped and flung his hands over the edge. Beneath him the rats bit at his feet and hung at the bottoms of his trousers. With a mighty effort he threw his left leg up over the side of the roof, caught his heel, and a moment later lay there in safety, half-fainting.

There Hardy spent the remainder of the night. With the coming of dawn a fresh landbreeze dispersed the fog, and as the tide fell the rats disappeared into the hold to search for scattered rice grains. When the Orion took the watchman off at six o'clock the decks showed no signs of life.

Late that evening, as the lighter drew away toward the city with its last load, a match touched to a ball of rags soaked in kerosene lighted up a beacon visible afar over sea and land, the funeral pyre of the Empress. The flames danced along her bulwarks and streamed up her masts, until she stood in luried outline against the surrounding gloom.

But before the conflagration touched them the rats leaped overboard, and soon the firelit surface was alive with swimming forms. Few reached the shore, however, for the sea was rough through the long mile they had to traverse. Meanwhile the old bark burned far into the night, until her upper works were consumed; and it was well toward morning when the rising tide put out the flames.—Youth's Companion.

HENRY SLADE DEAD.

The Noted Spiritualistic Medium Dies in a Michigan Sanatarium, Aged 80.

Henry Slade, the noted spiritualistic medium, who died recently in the Belding, Michigan, Sanatarium with nobody to claim his remains, as stated by a despatch from there to supposed relatives at Lockport, N. Y., was a Niagara county man. He was one of the most noted slate writers in the world and created a great sensation years ago. He exhibited his weird and so-called occult powers before most of the crowned heads of Europe. Some of his performances, it is said, baffled the close investigation of scientists.

Henry Slade was about 80 years old at the time of his death. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Slade of Johnson's Creek, and was born in that little hamlet in the town of Hartford, Niagara county, when most of the county was a wilderness. The Slades were among the first settlers. Henry attended the district school and later went to a local seminary.

One of Henry's schoolboy friends was Abe Taylor, the patriarch of Johnson's Creek, he is now over 80. Mr. Taylor relates that Slade, when a mere youth, used to exhibit his strange powers in a manner that made their blood creep. He could make a table with a lighted lamp lean toward him by a mere motion of the hands. The table, which he did not touch, would incline to an angle of 45 degrees, yet the lighted lamp would maintain its equilibrim and never upset. He could place his hand on top of a piano when 21 years of age and lift both piano legs off the floor.

Over animals he presented a marvelous influence. He was known as a great colt breaker and bull tamer. He used to entertain his young friends by slate writing and many of them held him in absolute awe.

Slade left Lockport when about 21 and began his tours later. In New York he turned away great crowds. He went to Europe and Kings and Queens and their courts gave him audiences. Emperor Napoleon III. gave him a three caret diamond. It is said he was at one time worth a million.—New York Sun.

A Tragedy of Foolhardiness.

As a result of the foolhardy practice of inexperienced persons entering the cages of wild beasts, a terrible tragedy was yesterday found to have taken place at Blackpool. When, during the day, a butcher went to the stockyard of the Blackpool Tower Company at South Shore, where sick and reserve animals for the menagerie are kept, he was terrified to find the three lions roaming at will about the yard. He obtained assistance, and drove them back to the cage, where the mangled and half-eaten body of a man was then discovered. On the remains being recovered, they were found to be those of a carter named Livesey, who was in the employ of the Tower Company. He had been heard to express his intention of going into the cage where the lions were kept, and late on Saturday night he was seen to enter the stockyard with another man. Cries of fear were afterward heard, coming from within, and shortly afterward a man was seen running away from the stockyard. The manager of the Tower Company states that Livesey had no right to go into the cage.—London Pall Mall Gazette.

"Yankee Doodle" an Irish Jig.

Mr. W. H. Grattan Flood writes:

Will you allow me to point out to you that the tune of "Yankee Doodle" is an old Irish jig of the early eighteenth century, well known in Ireland still as "All the Way to Galway?" Your statement that it was composed by Dr. Schuckburgh is a slip. You probably meant that he wrote the doggerel words, which is generally admitted, but he merely adapted his verses to the Irish jig, which was printed as "Yankee Doodle" in 1782, and was subsequently introduced by Arnold into his "Two to One."—London Truth.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. LOUIS ALBERT BANKS.

Subject: The Compassion of Christ.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Dr. Louis Albert Banks, at one time pastor of the Hanson Place M. E. Church, where he was most successful, preached there Sunday morning on "The Christ Who is Touched With the Feeling of Our Infirmities." The text was from Hebrews iv:15. "We have not a high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, but was in all points tempted as we are, yet without sin." Dr. Banks said:

"The last part of this text explains the first. Christ is in sensitive touch with us in the temptations and trials of life because He has personally experienced them. He is not a stranger standing off on the ramparts of heaven, looking down, though it be ever so benevolently, upon sorrows and difficulties which He has never personally known. Such compassion could not mean much to us. But Jesus Christ perfected Himself as the captain of our salvation through suffering. For three and thirty years He wore our flesh, and tasted our grief, and He is touched with the feeling of our infirmities. How much that ought to mean to us. When we are in any trial or trouble, and we need comfort, it is not to the most joyous and happy, who have never known what sorrow was, to whom we go for sympathy.

"Some years ago I was surprised to receive from a very rich man in a city where I was then pastor a check for a large sum of money which he said he wished me to use among the poor in my part of the city, and especially among children who were having a hard time of it. I followed his directions and gave him an account of how portions of it were used. Still other sums followed until I was very much interested in the matter, and wondered not a little at the cause of it. After it had gone on for nearly a year I received a letter from him inviting me to take lunch with him at a hotel. When we met he said: 'I suppose you have wondered at my sending this money to you, an entire stranger to me, and at my being so much interested in the children of the poor in your section of the city. But this is how it comes. My father died when I was a very little boy. My mother was left a widow with a large family of children, all of whom were too small to be of much help. She had to work very hard, but work as hard as she could, she was unable to procure enough food and clothing to give us comfort all the time. For two or three years I knew what it was to be hungry. Many a night I have cried myself to sleep in silence lest my mother should hear and it should make her feel bad, because I was so hungry. I could not keep back the tears, and I knew she had no bread to give me. You would scarcely believe it,' continued the millionaire, 'looking at me now and knowing what you do of me that on more than one occasion I have run and snatched a crust of bread thrown away from a wagon where some teamster had eaten his lunch, and rescued it from a dog, and sat down and ate it gratefully, and washed it down with a drink from the town pump.' Then the tears came into the big man's eye and one rolled out on his cheek as he said: 'Now you know why I have so much sympathy for the poor children. It makes me shiver on a cold night when I think of the boys and girls who have not clothing enough to keep them warm. For I have been in their place, and I know how it feels. I know how a boy feels when he is hungry and cold, and, God helping me, I shall never lose a chance to help a boy or a girl that is in a hard place.'

"As I listened to this big-hearted man there came into my mind the Scripture we are studying. He was able to sympathize with and comfort others, because he had a fellow feeling with their infirmities and their sorrows.

"So, no one could be a Savior for us who had not suffered. No one could have compassion on us in our weaknesses who had not himself been tempted and tried as by fire. Only a man who has been hungry, and has not known where to lay his head at times, knows how to sympathize with others who are in similar experience. Only he who has been in the wilderness with the devil, tempted on every side, struggling for his life, knows how to sympathize and have true compassion with tempted men and women to-day. Only He who has been crowned with thorns, who has been spit upon and whipped with the scourge, who has fainted under His cross, knows real compassion, knows how to be touched with the feeling of people who are lashed by cruel misfortune and who are fainting under burdens too heavy for their shoulders. But Jesus Christ meets all these requirements. He knows all about it.

"The incarnation of Jesus was no sham. He wore our humanity completely, and there never was a more perfectly sensitive human nature, one more tender and exquisite in human feelings than that of Jesus Christ. As has been well said, Christ affected none of that hard indifference in which some ancient philosophers vainly gloried. He felt as a man, and He sympathized with the feelings of others. On different occasions we are informed that He was troubled in spirit, that He groaned, and that He wept. The story of His agony in the Garden of Gethsemane exhibits a striking picture of the sensations of innocent nature oppressed with anguish. It discovers all the conflict between the dread of suffering on the one hand, and the sense of duty on the other; the man struggling for a while with human weakness, and in the end rising superior and winning victory. We hear the Savior say, 'Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from Me.' There is the dread of suffering natural on all our lips, but the next moment we hear Christ saying, 'Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt. Thy will be done.' So our Savior was touched with the feeling of our infirmities. He was a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. His whole life was an experience of the ordinary trials and provocations that lead to evil, and these were sometimes aggravated into the most intense temptations. He was the target of all the arrows of though He was tempted in all like as we are. He came off and without sin.

"These reflections bring us preciate the fact that Christ is perfect as a friend and Savior in the weaknesses and infirmities which our lives in this world miliar. We may comfort with the assurance of seve inspiring reflections.

"First—Christ, being touched the feeling of our infirmities make a distinction between weak and what is wilfully us. Jesus gives us a very illustration of this in His the disciples, those three cho Peter and James and John, who took with Him into the Garden Gethsemane on the night of trayal. He said to them as den of sorrow pressed upon Him soul is exceeding sorrowful, even death; tarry ye here and watch Me.' And then He went away tle by Himself and fell on His prayer, and after a time He wishing the comfort of the with His friends. And behold were all asleep. They aroused step, and Jesus said to Peter could ye not watch with Me Watch and pray, that ye enter temptation.' Then Jesus, in derness of His great heart sympathy and compassion them, begins to apologize for explain to them their weakness spirit indeed is willing, He the flesh is weak.' Was there greater tenderness than that can easily imagine the sarcasm poleon or Frederick the Great occasion like that. But could thing more clearly illustrate derness of Christ in distinguishing tween our weakness and wilful doing? We may be sure that will never misjudge us. If we ing the best we can, He and appreciates it to its full He sees every battle we make when we are defeated, and motive behind every blow struck in His name. He will reject or look with indifference tempt on any effort we make to Him because of our infirmities make us to blush. What we words are not the only prayers hears, but every secret aspira longing for goodness or for service is a prayer which He and answers. There is no human lips that can compare penitential tears shed in secret ing from sincere meditation duty to God, and heartfelt we may render Him truer service

"Second—Jesus, knowing our ities, will not allow us to be heavier than we are able to will not allow us to be tempted such a way that there is no us. He will not permit us to be ed, unless we bring it on our own sin, with unnecessary bles. His measure about infinitely tender: 'Come unto ye that labor, and are heavy and I will give you rest. yoke upon you, and learn of I am meek and lowly in heart shall find rest unto your My yoke is easy, and My light.'

"And in regard to temptation have the direct promise that grace shall be sufficient for that in every temptation He a way for our escape, so that in our sorrows and in our Christ, touched with the our infirmities, stands ready fort and defend us. We shall path so lonely or uncertain may find marks to show really seek for them, that Christ been over the way first. Maclaren recalls the custom neers in trackless lands, how one friend passes through forests he breaks a branch anon as he goes, that those after may see the traces of ing been there, and may they have not lost the trail. we are journeying through the night, and the dark woods of and sorrow, it is a precious find here and there a broken or a leafy stem bent down tread of Christ's foot and the thoughtfulness of His hand passed, and to remember that He trod He has hallowed, there are lingering fragrance hidden strengths in the remem that He was tempted in all as we are, bearing grief for ing grief with us, bearing grief

"Third—As angels comforted in His sorrows, so He will in our trials and weaknesses tenderly Jesus prayed for us He offered Himself upon an atonement for our sins! tender prayer in which He states that it was not only for ciples, but for all who should on Him through their words end of the world, and therefore cludes us, the Savior prays: no more in the world, but these the world. Holy Father! were, and Thou gavest them Me them through Thine own Sanctify them through Thy Keep them from the evil one may be where I am, and may the glory which Thou hast How tender Christ was to hard places during His earthly istry! Recall His journey Martha and Mary when their Lazarus was dead. Remember kindness to the poor woman touched His garments as the pressed about Him. Remember woman who brought her precious ointment as He sat feast in the house of Simon His feet with her tears and them with the hairs of her all these, and in multitudes cases how conspicuous the and sensitive compassion of Christ in comforting those tried and troubled. Surely there be nothing more attractive Nothing which could more appeal to our confidence and faith than the character and of Jesus our Savior as set forth Word of God."

Narrow Way Easiest.

It is easier to take the narrow the broad way. If you go to tion you must leap over over the Church of Christ, prayers of parents and must leap over the love Himself.—Evan Roberts.

STATE HAPPENINGS

General and Local In as They Occur.

Convict Prison Burned.

gomery, Ala.—News of the destruction of the convict prison Horse Shoe Company at River Friday came to Judge J. M. Car president of the state board convict inspectors, in a brief tele from Maj. M. A. Sparks, the wa that point. The loss will be thousand dollars.

contract which the state has the Horse Shoe Company guar the state against loss by fire will be sustained by the com None of the convicts were or hurt in the fire. Seventy of them are being worked in the mill plant at that point.

convicts for some time to will be forced to camp out Carmichael and Hon. M. W. r, a member of the board, whose it is to inspect these prisons, a contract soon after getting information of the fire for forty and a sufficient number of which will be shipped to River as quickly as possible.

no details of the disaster are own to the convict board, it is general belief that the prisoners all at work when the fire started. Carmichael expects complete mation from the warden at River in a written report.

prison was built to accommo twice as many convicts as are hire to the saw mill concern at Falls. It had every modern venience that most of the prisons Alabama have, and regret is ex in all quarters that the jail destroyed. There was a hospital which went to ashes, too.

Four Young Men in Trouble.

ttsboro, Ala.—Four young white giving their names as Dug Dil Pat Hall, Case Baster and Harry were brought here by Sheriff and placed in jail charged with ny. A box car of the Nashville tanooga and St. Louis Railway broken into at Bridgeport and pairs of fine shoes taken from on Tuesday. These four men strangers in the town and claim to hail from Chattanooga, were ed on suspicion. The three were before Justices Henson and more charged with the offense Jallion confessed, implicating the three men. Their bonds were at $500 each, which they failed ecute, and were remanded to niston, Ala.—Special Engineers and A. W. Haskell, of Birming were at Jacksonville recently into the inducements offered city toward getting the Sea Air Line Railway extended to via the Jacksonville route. result of their findings is that the ard proposes to have its road and in operation between Jack and this city within eighteen of the date on which they are the right of way. J. D. Crow Martin and D. J. Privett, of Jack ille, are at work securing the of way. They report that splen success is attending their efforts, believe the road will be in opera in less than two years without a

Engineers in Field.

Stole Diamond Ring.

mingham, Ala.—The theft of a ring from a prominent young woman of Montgomery, a trip of one of her admirers to ngham and back to the state in one day, and the discovery ring in a local pawnship, are of the details, say the police, of they have just unearthed. The ption given by the pawnbroker with the description of the man who called at the girl's on the eve of his departure from omery, but to avoid disgracing man's family, the police say, the of the girl will not prosecute ase.

Suit Against Garry.

mingham, Ala.—E. R. McDavid nce commissioner of Alabama instructed Collector John McQueen ng suit for $8,500 on behalf of state against Robert Garry, a sale merchant of this city, whose was recently destroyed by fire. alleged that Garry carried insur with seventeen companies not to do business in Alabama. code of Alabama provides that placing insurance with com not qualified must report the to the insurance commissioner 1 per cent of the gross pre to the state. In case of loss of 1 per cent of all amounts must be given to the state.

American Murdered.

les, Ariz.—American Consul at Nogales and Sonora, has a telegram from Choix, a town Fuerte, Sinaloa, Mexico, announc assassination by a Mexican of V. O'Daly, a prominent civil mining engineer of this section, one of the engineers of the Pacific Railroad. The mur captured. No particulars learned.

tense temptations. He was target of all the arrows of though He was tempted in like as we are. He came off and without sin.
"These reflections bring us to preciate the fact that Christ is perfect as a friend and in the weaknesses and infir which our lives in this w miliar. We may comfort with the assurance of several inspiring reflections.
"First—Christ, being touched the feeling of our infirmities make a distinction between weak and what is willfully us. Jesus gives us a very illustration of this in His treat the disciples, those three close Peter and James and John, whom took with Him into the Garden Gethsemane on the night of His trayal. He said to them as the den of sorrow pressed upon Him soul is exceeding sorrowful, even death; tarry ye here and watch Me.' And then He went away a tle by Himself and fell on His fa prayer, and after a time He came wishing the comfort of the asso with His friends. And behold were all asleep. They aroused at step, and Jesus said to Peter, 'W could ye not watch with Me one h Watch and pray, that ye enter not temptation.' Then Jesus, in the derness of His great heart, fe sympathy and compassion to them, begins to apologize for them explain to them their weakness spirit indeed is willing,' He says, the flesh is weak.' Was there greater tenderness than that?
can easily imagine the sarcasm of poleon or Frederick the Great on occasion like that. But could thing more clearly illustrate the derness of Christ in distinguishing tween our weakness and willful w doing? We may be sure that C will never misjudge us if we are ing the best we can. He knows and appreciates it to its full v
He sees every battle we make, when we are defeated, and knows motive behind every blow that struck in His name. He will n reject or look with indifference or tempt on any effort we make to s
Him because of our infirmities w make us to blush. What we spe words are not the only prayers C hears; but every secret aspiration longing for goodness or for h service is a prayer which He h and answers. There is no eloquence human lips that can compare with penitential tears shed in secret, sp ing from sincere meditation upon duty to God, and heartfelt longing
we may render Him truer service.
"Second—Jesus, knowing our in ities, will not allow us to be burd heavier than we are able to bear.
will not allow us to be tempted such a way that there is no escape us. He will not permit us to be t ed, unless we bring it on ourselves our own sin, with unnecessary bles. His measure about burde infinitely tender: 'Come unto Me ye that labor, and are heavy la and I will give you rest. Take yoke upon you, and learn of Me;
I am meek and lowly in heart; and shall find rest unto your souls.
My yoke is easy, and My burde
light.'
"And in regard to temptation, have the direct promise that grace shall be sufficient for us, that in every temptation He will m a way for our escape, so that in our sorrows and in our da Christ, touched with the feeling our infirmities, stands ready to fort and defend us. We shall n path so lonely or uncertain but may find marks to show us, if really seek for them, that Christ been over the way first. Alex Maclaren recalls the customs of neers in trackless lands, how w one friend passes through path forests he breaks a branch ever anon as he goes, that those who c after may see the traces of his ing been there, and may know they have not lost the trail. So w we are journeying through the n night, and the dark woods of affli and sorrow, it is a precious thin find here and there a broken br or a leafy stem bent down with tread of Christ's foot and the k thoughtfulness of His hand as passed, and to remember that the p
He trod He has hallowed, and there are lingering fragrances hidden strengths in the rememb that He was tempted in all points as we are, bearing grief for us, b ing grief with us, bearing grief li
"Third—As angels comforted Je in His sorrows, so He will succo in our trials and weaknesses.
tenderly Jesus prayed for us be He offered Himself upon the cross an atonement for our sins! In tender prayer in which He expr states that it was not only for His ciples, but for all who should bel on Him through their words to end of the world, and therefore cludes us, the Savior prays: 'Now I no more in the world; but these ar the world. Holy Father! Thine were, and Thou gavest them Me. K them through Thine own n
Sanctify them through Thy tr
Keep them from the evil one, that may be where I am, and may be the glory which Thou hast given How tender Christ was to people hard places during His earthly istry! Recall His journey to Martha and Mary when their br Lazarus was dead. Remember kindness to the poor woman touched His garments as the cr pressed about Him. Remember woman who brought her box precious ointment as He sat at feast in the house of Simon, who His feet with her tears and w them with the hairs of her head.
all these, and in multitudes of cases how conspicuous the tende and sensitive compassion of Je Christ in comforting those who tried and troubled. Surely there c be nothing more attractive to Nothing which could more p appeal to our confidence and to faith than the character and the of Jesus our Savior as set forth in Word of God."

Narrow Way Easiest.

It is easier to take the narrow the broad way. If you go to tion you must leap over the over the Church of Christ, prayers of parents and frie must leap over the love of Himself.—Evan Roberts.

STATE HAPPENINGS

General and Local In-
as They Occur.

Convict Prison Burned.

ery, Ala.—News of the to-struction of the convict prison
Horse Shoe Company at River Friday came to Judge J. M. Car-, president of the state board vict inspectors, in a brief telefrom Maj. M. A. Sparks, the war-at that point. The loss will be thousand dollars.
contract which the state has the Horse Shoe Company guar-the state against loss by fire it will be sustained by the con-None of the convicts were or hurt in the fire. Seventyof them are being worked in the mill plant at that point.
convicts for some time to will be forced to camp out Carmichael and Hon. M. W.
, a member of the board, whose it is to inspect these prisons, a contract soon after getting information of the fire for forty and a sufficient number of which will be shipped to River as quickly as possible.
no details of the disaster are known to the convict board, it is general belief that the prisoners all at work when the fire started.
Carmichael expects complete mation from the warden at River in a written report.
prison was built to accommotwice as many convicts as are hire to the saw mill concern at Falls. It had every modern venience that most of the prisons Alabama have, and regret is ex-d in all quarters that the jail destroyed. There was a hospital which went to ashes, too.

Four Young Men in Trouble.

ttsboro, Ala.—Four young white giving their names as Dug Dil-Pat Hall, Case Baster and Harry
, were brought here by Sheriff and placed in jail charged with . A box car of the Nashville, anooga and St. Louis Railway broken into at Bridgeport and pairs of fine shoes taken from on Tuesday. These four men, strangers in the town and claim-to hail from Chattanooga, were ted on suspicion. The three were before Justices Henson and more charged with the offense Dallion confessed, implicating the three men. Their bonds were at $500 each, which they failed execute, and were remanded to

Engineers in Field.

niston, Ala.—Special Engineers and A. W. Haskell, of Birming-were at Jacksonville recently into the inducements offered that city toward getting the Sea-Air Line Railway extended to ton via the Jacksonville route.
result of their findings is that the board proposes to have its road and in operation between Jack-ville and this city within eighteen of the date on which they are the right of way. J. D. Crow, Martin and D. J. Privett, of Jack-ville, are at work securing the of way. They report that splen-success is attending their efforts, believe the road will be in opera-in less than two years without a

Stole Diamond Ring.

mingham, Ala.—The theft of a mond ring from a prominent young woman of Montgomery, a trip of one of her admirers to mingham and back to the state in one day, and the discovery the ring in a local pawnship, are of the details say the police, of they have just unearthed. The ription given by the pawnbroker with the description of the man who called at the girl's on the eve of his departure from gomery, but to avoid disgracing man's family, the police say, the of the girl will not prosecute case.

Suit Against Garry.

mingham, Ala.—E. R. McDavid, rance commissioner of Alabama, instructed Collector John McQueen bring suit for $8,500 on behalf of state against Robert Garry, a sale merchant of this city, whose was recently destroyed by fire.
alleged that Garry carried insurwith seventeen companies not fied to do business in Alabama.
code of Alabama provides that one placing insurance with com-not qualified must report the to the insurance commissioner pay 1 per cent of the gross pre-to the state. In case of loss half of 1 per cent of all amounts must be given to the state.

American Murdered.

gales, Ariz.—American Consul at Nogales and Sonora, has ed a telegram from Choix, a town Purotesinaloa, Mexico, announc-assassination by a Mexican of V. O'Daly, a prominent civil mining engineer of this section, was one of the engineers of the and Pacific Railroad. The mur-was captured. No particulars been learned.

Wreck in Escambia.

Brewton, Ala.—A wreck occurred on the Cedar Creek Mill Company's log road, about twelve miles east of town. The wreck was caused by the track spreading, the engine and tender turning over. No one was dangerously injured, but the engineer, W. C. Darley, sustained painful bruises about the head, side and leg. The fireman escaped with very slight bruises. William Reiner, a drummer from Chicago, was also on the engine, and his left ankle was caught under the engine when it turned over, and it was two hours before he could be liberated.

Opera House Changes Hands.

Eufaula, Ala.—A recent deal in real estate here has caused the Morris Opera House to go into the hands of Messrs. Foy Bros. and John B. Whitlock, and it is highly probable that it will not be a great while before it will be restored to its former prestige. The new owners will open the opera house at an early date, and a current rumor is to the effect that this will be done some time about January 1. The building and the opera house will undergo some needed repairs later on, but nothing will be done in this line until next year. If the opera house is opened to theatricals at any time during this year it will be in its present condition.

Another Gas Well Comes in Huntsville, Ala.—The sixth gas well of the New York and Alabama Company came in at Hazel Green a day or two ago with a pressure estimated at 150 pounds. The company now has six natural gas wells within two miles of each other in the locality of Hazel Green, their average pressure being about 135 pounds, and the supply is estimated to be enough to furnish every industry in Huntsville with cheap fuel. An Indiana corporation that now operates a pipe line in Indian will move its line to this field, it is stated, and the work will commence during this season.

Attempted Hold-Up.

Anniston, Ala.—While going home after attending the performance of the minstrels W. M. Hames, Jr., shipping clerk of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, was held up at the corner of Fourteenth and Noble streets by an unknown negro. The negro was hidden behind a tree in a dark spot near Mr. Hames' boarding house, and as Mr. Hames was passing the tree behind which the negro was standing, the would-be robber stepped in front of Mr. Hames and, covering him with a revolver, demanded his money. Mr. Hames was unarmed, and, believing the negro would not shoot for fear of detection and arrest, turned and ran toward town. He met a friend, and together they made a thorough search for the would-be highwayman, but the latter was not to be found, and as the hold-up had been committed in the dark, Mr. Hames was unable to furnish the police a description of the would-be highwayman.

Negro Hanged.

Birmingham, Ala.—After confessing that he was implicated in the murder of E. G. Almon, flagman on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and after furnishing the police with information that lead to the arrest and conviction of two others, Wesley Hale, a negro, went to the gallows Friday morning protesting his innocence. The condemned negro refused to make a talk from the big steel frame which sent him into eternity, but his spiritual adviser, F. G. Ragland, a negro Baptist preacher, said that Hale wanted his farewell message to be that he was innocent. After the preacher finished a noose was adjusted around the negro's neck, the black cap placed over his head, and the trigger sprung at 10:43. Sixteen minutes later later the physicians pronounced him dead. The hanging took place in the yard of the Jefferson county jail and was witnessed by an unusually small crowd.

A Wreck.

Birmingham, Ala.—One man killed and six were more or less seriously injured in the wreck at the East Birmingham crossing Thursday, when a Louisville and Nashville engine struck a Southern Railway freight train. The wreck occurred shortly after 3 o'clock. H. E. Abercrombie, a Southern fireman who was learning the road, was killed. This was his second trip on an engine. He only recently quit working in the shops.

The injured are: M. F. Fulghum, aged 27 years, Southern engineer, blow on the head and injury to arm, condition serious, but not fatal; A. B. Davis, Southern brakeman, badly bruised and legs sprained badly; Charley Glass, negro fireman Southern, badly burned from waist to knees and bad wound on the head, condition serious, but not fatal; H. L. Stewart, Louisville and Nashville conductor, badly bruised about body; D. M. Jones, Louisville and Nashville engineer, bruises and burns; Silver Harris, negro fireman for the Louisville and Nashville, bruised.

No Such Corporation Exists.

Montgomery, Ala.—A special from Selma, Ala., says that in the circuit court there, in which an indictment charged the defendant with theft from the Southern Railway, the prisoner's attorney contended that no such corporation exists, and the presiding judge continued the case until the next term of court in order that the solicitor might examine the charter of the railroad named.

GIRL FOUND DEAD.

The Revolting Crime Was Brought to Light in Chicago. Scene: Doctor's Room.

MAN IS A MILLIONAIRE'S SON.

Was Under Influence of Morphine When Found By Neighbors—Wife Had Gone Shopping.

Chicago, Ill.—Dr. Oliver B. Hart, a young physician residing in the suburb of Rogers park, is in the custody of the police pending further investigation of the death of Irene Knowkow, 10 years of age, which occurred Friday in the residence of the physician. It is the opinion of the police that a charge of murder will be lodged against Dr. Hart.

The girl died in a bedroom of the Hart residence in which she and the physician had been locked for several hours. It is the opinion of the authorities that the girl was maltreated and then poisoned in an attempt to conceal the crime.

After it was impossible for the child to recover, the physician swallowed morphine and lay in an unconscious condition all night and during the greater part of the day. In the afternoon he partially recovered and was brought to the city and locked up in the East Chicago avenue police station.

Desired as Companion for Wife.

The girl was taken about a year ago from the Illinois Industrial Home for Girls by Dr. Hart and his wife as companion for Mrs. Hart, who is but 17 years of age, and to do light work about the house. The two sisters of Irene Klowkow called at the Hart residence and with Mrs. Hart went on a shopping expedition to the city. Irene complained of a headache and was left alone with the physician. What happened in the house is not known, but the first intimation that anything was wrong was a telephone message sent by Dr. Hart to a neighbor, Mrs. Richard Cortis. Dr. Hart told Mrs. Cortis to summon help at once, as he was dying. Mrs. Cortis sent word to a physician and then ran over to the Hart residence. She let her little daughter climb through a cellar window and unbolt the front door so that she could get into the house. After entering, she called to Dr. Hart and he shouted from the floor above:

"Here I am. You will have to break through another door."

Broke Open the Door.

Mrs. Cortis threw her weight against the bedroom door and broke it open. The Klowkow girl was lying on the bed partially dressed, her hair disarranged, and much of it torn from her head, and the room showed evidences of a desperate struggle. The girl was unconscious and evidently dying, and Dr. Hart informed Mrs. Cortis that she had swallowed morphine pills after he had given her some medicine.

When the physician, Dr. Hulstrom, went to work over the body of the girl, Dr. Hart went into an adjoining room and swallowed a large quantity of morphine. The efforts of Hulstrom to revive the girl were unavailing, and she died in a short time. Dr. Hart was given some restoratives and Dr. Hulstrom labored over him for several hours before being convinced that he would ultimately recover. A detail of police officers were placed at Dr. Hart's bedside and he was not placed under arrest until in the evening.

Dr. Hart has resided in Chicago but a short time, and is a son of a millionaire residing in St. Louis. Mrs. Hart was before her marriage Vera Kreigesmann, the daughter of an official in the St. Louis postoffice. They were married when Mrs. Hart was but 16 years of age. She testified at the coroner's inquest that she left Irene Klowkow and her husband alone in the house, but believed him innocent of any wrong doing, and that in her opinion the statement of the doctor that the girl ate the morphine tablets by mistake is the truth.

Police Inspector Wheeler subjected Dr. Hart to an exhaustive examination in the effort to secure from him a statement of the occurrence in the house, but the physician refused to alter the story he had previously told. He insisted throughout that the girl was not murdered; that he did not misuse her, and that he did not attempt to commit suicide. He declared repeatedly that the girl had taken the position, by mistake and said that his excitement was caused by the fear that he might be accused of her death. After finding that the girl was dead, he declared that he took an injection of morphine to quiet his nerves and took an overdose.

Fell From Gallery.

New Orleans, La.—Augustine Marshall, aged ten years, of 709 St. Ann street, was severely injured by falling from the front gallery of her home to the banquette, a distance of fifty feet. The little girl received injuries of the head and body, which necessitated her being sent to the Charity Hospital in an ambulance.

No French Gold Shipped to America.

Paris, France.—Leading American shippers of French gold say they have not made any shipments to the United States out of the $5,000,000 recently withdrawn from the Bank of France. The report of the shipment to America grew out of Thursday's statement of the Bank of France showing that the gold balance had fallen during the week from $592,414,434 to $587,961,323. This unusual fall of $4,453,111 attracted the attention of the bourse, where it was attributed to the needs of the monetary situation in London. When the London bankers said they had not received any French gold the reduction was then attributed to shipments to the United States. However, Lazard Freres, who are the chief shippers, have not shipped the amount referred to and are not aware of any other shipments to New York. They incline to the view that the amount has gone to Egypt and other points outside of the main markets, London and New York. The managers of the Bank of France say they are not aware of the destination of the shipments, as they deal with bankers who make their own shipments.

The European Economist calls attention to the movement of precious metals to the United States and gives a table showing that the French export of gold to New York since January 1 totals $5,070,513.

Too Many in Debt.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—The seventy-sixth semi-annual conference of the Mormon church has begun here, with more than 7,000 Latter Day Saints present in the tabernacle at the opening session. Apostle and United States Senator Reed Smoot, whose absence from the previous conferences caused some comment, was present with the other apostles. The feature of President Smith's address to the conference was his appeal to the saints to get out of debt, and keep out. He deplored the readiness of Mormons to be "gulled into contracts under iron-clad notes," and urged his followers to live so that they will have means on hand instead of their means being in the hands of others. Many of the elders who had been called to missions, President Smith said, had been unable to respond because they were in debt.

"We want the young men," he said, "to prepare themselves financially, intellectually and spiritually to preach the gospel."

Has Foot Seriously Injured.

Gadsden, Ala.—C. Kennedy, who lives at Alabama City, sustained a double fracture of the large bone in his right foot while at work at the Alabama Consolidated furnace here, and his injuries are quite painful. Monday a boiler had been propped, and the permanent supports, fourteen-foot pillars, were being removed. Kennedy was on top of the boiler and in the act of kicking one of the pillars over, when it went in the wrong direction, catching his foot against the boiler.

Big Coal Plant.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—The purchase and cash payment for the Charleston coal field near Dawson Springs, in Hopkins county, Kentucky, for $300,000, with the main office at Dawson, has been made public, together with pending negotiations in North Alabama for similar coal fields, including mines and the plant of the largest coal companies in the south. When combined the Dawson coal field will make a $1,000,000 property, with a daily output of 2,000 tons of coal daily.

Daughters of Confederacy.

San Francisco, Cal.—The United Daughters of the Confederacy have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Miss Lizzie George Henderson, Mississippi; first vice-president, Mrs. Alfred H. Voorhies, San Francisco; second vice-president, Mrs. V. A. S. Vaught, Louisiana; recording secretary, Mrs. P. Hickman, Tennessee; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. W. Rattey, Mississippi; custodian of crosses, Mrs. R. Gabbett, Georgia; custodian of flags, Mrs. A. Cantrill Kentucky; treasurer, Mrs. James Y. Lee, Virginia.

Coal Dealers Conspired.

Chicago, Ill.—Mine officers of the Retail Coal Dealers' Association of Illinois and Wisconsin, who were fined $100 each on charges of conspiracy to raise the price of coal, will be obliged to pay theeir fines, according to a decision handed down by Judge Henry M. Freeman, of the appellate court. In the opinion on the case the appellate court declares that the verdict and judgment are amply justified by the evidence and the law.

Worry Drove Him Mad.

Morristown, Pa.—Wilkins Hobensack, aged 33 years, private secretary for Congressman I. P. Ganger, committed suicide here. Hohensack's wife died about six months ago, and worry over hear death is supposed to have been the cause of his act.

Doubles Its Capital.

Abbeville, La.—The shareholders of the First National Bank have voted to increase the capital stock of the bank from $25,000 to $50,000, the new stock to be sold at 160. The payments will be so called that the entire amount will be paid in by January 1. There was no opposition to the amendment, and the stock was over-subscribed.

ITEMS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

Accounts of the City.

The books and accounts of all officials of the city of Montgomery were correct at the close of the fiscal year, October 1.

This statement was conveyed Saturday to Acting Mayor C. P. McIntyre by J. M. Riley, an expect accountant, who has been at work two weeks investigating the accounts of the various city departments.

The report of Mr. Riley was as follows:

"Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 6, 1905.

"Hon. C. P. McIntyre, Acting Mayor of the City of Montgomery, Ala.:

"Sir—I beg to advise you that I have carefully examined the books, receipts, vouchers and accounts of the officers of the various city departments from October 1, 1904, to October 1, 1905, and find the same correct, the accounts of the officers of each department corresponding with the treasurer's ledger.

"The treasurer's bank balance is $177,159.95.

"Cash on hand, $1,812.52.

"The books of the different officers are neatly and properly kept, and I thank them for courtesies extended me.

"Respectfully submitted,

J. M. RILEY,

"Examiner."

In every one of the departments employes are busily engaged in compiling annual reports, which are to be submitted to the city council at its next annual meeting, to be held on the night of October 16.

Until these reports go to the council they will not be made public.

Fire at Cotton Oil Plant.

Fire discovered at 1 o'clock Sunday morning at the plant of the Southern Cotton Oil Company, near Riverside Park, destroyed a considerable quantity of cotton seed and caught in one of the big oil tanks. With the magnificently equipped fire fighting service of the company the blazes were controlled to some degree until the Montgomery fire department could make the run of two miles over some of the worst roads around the city. The fire was extinguisheed by 2:15 o'clock. Resident Manager J. W. Black did not get to the fire until a late hour, and during the confusion no one would venture an estimate at the loss. It will probably reach $5,000.

Official Changes.

These appointments were given out by Gov. William D. Jelks Saturday:

To be judge of the Walker county law and equity court, Thomas L. Sowell, of Walker county.

To be state auditor to succeed Col. T. L. Sowell, resigned, Judge J. M. Carmichael, of Dale.

To be president of the state board of convict inspectors, Dr. Shirley Bragg, now physician inspector.

To be physician inspector to succeed Dr. Shirley Bragg, Dr. Nat G. Clarke, of Ensley.

The appointments are effective October 15, at which time Col. T. L. Sowell, whose appointment to the judgeship of his county has caused all the shift, will assume the judicial functions of his new office, relieving Judge Peyton Norvell, who resigned last week.

Executive Appointments.

Thomas J. White, of Corona, was appointed a justice of the peace by Governor Jelks.

Other executive appointments were made as follows:

Notaries Public and ex-Officio Justices of the Peace—J. W. Tosey, of Monroeville, and J. J. Grass, of Dodsonville.

Constable—G. R. White, of Flomaton.

Notaries Public—R. W. Andrews, of Ozark; Miss Ruby B. Harres, of Mobile, and H. F. Cooper, of Selma.

There is the greatest interest here in the displacement of Col. Robert Barber, register of the land office, and the appointment of Gen. R. D. Johnston, of Birmingham, to his place. So far as any one can tell, there is nothing against the record of the man to retire, and it has been wondered why he has lost out. There is an impression, however, that he has not been in line with the leaders, and that this and the fact that the president is anxious to favor some of the older families of the south has worked to his downfall. He is a man of many friends and there is general regret that he has lost his place.

Governor Jelks at private sale disposed of the refunding issue of the $966,666 of state bonds maturing next January to the First National Bank of Montgomery at a basis of 102. If the whole issue is sold at the same ratio the saving over the offer of some weeks ago will be about $14,000.

Woman Seeks Pardon.

A woman and six children have come to the capital to try to have a husband and father released from the toils of the laws of Alabama, which is demanding and collecting from him twenty years of penal servitude for murder in the second degree. Oscar Earle is the man, convicted in Tallapoosa in 1902, and now at hard labor. So far as can be ascertained his chances for release are poor, though not altogether hopeless.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR OCTOBER 15.

Subject: Returning From Captivity, Ezra 1., 1-11—Golden Text, Psa. cxxvi., 3—Memory Verses, 5, 6—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

I. The proclamation of King Cyrus to return (vs. 1-4). 1. "First year of Cyrus." That is his first year as sole king at Babylon. He was king twenty years before this, of Elam and gradually extended his empire over the Persians and Medes, Babylonians and Chaldeans. For two years after the capture of Babylon Darius was king of Babylon, under Cyrus. Now Cyrus reigned at Babylon. "Word of the Lord." See Jer. 25:12; 29:10. The promise was that after seventy years the Lord would bring His people again to Palestine. "Stirred up—Cyrus." There is good reason to accept the Jewish tradition according to Josephus, that Daniel, occupying a high position in the court of Cyrus, brought to his attention the prophecies of Isaiah which name Cyrus as God's servant (Isa. 44:26-28; 45:1-4), and perhaps, also, the prophecies of Jeremiah, showing that God had for this purpose given Babylon into the hands of Cyrus. "Made a proclamation." See chapter 6. "In writing." To prevent any mistake or reversal.

2. "God of heaven." Hence the Controller of all men and affairs. "God of heaven" seems to have been a usual title of the Supreme Being among the Persians. At this time the Medo-Persian empire was very extensive, extending on the east to the Red Sea, on the north to the Black Sea, on the west to the Island of Cyprus and Egypt and on the south to Ethopia. "Hath charged me," etc. Cyrus probably accepted the prophecy of Isaiah as a charge to build the temple. "The existence of predictions in which, 200 years before he was born, his victorious career and the important services he should render to the Jews were foretold, led him to acknowledge that all his kingdoms were gifts bestowed on him by 'the Lord God of heaven,' and prompted him to fulfill the duty which had been laid upon him long before his birth. This was the source and origin of the great favor he showed to the Jews." 3. "Who is there among you." The return was to be a volunteer movement. "His God be with him." A pious wish, indicating the deep religious feeling and goodness of heart which characterized Cyrus alone of Persian monarchs. He ruled his subjects like a father. No nobler character appears in ancient history. "Let him go." As the carrying away of the Hebrews had taken place at intervals of from seventy to fifty years before, there were but few of the original exiles remaining, and it is somewhat remarkable that so many of their descendants, nearly 50,000 in all, should be willing to go to a country they had never seen. "Build the house." This was their great errand, not to build their own houses, but the house of God. "He is the God." We can understand this great truth far more clearly than could Cyrus. Let us see to it that we live out the knowledge which we possess.

4. "Whosoever remaineth." Some persons of true and eminent piety so situated that they did not deem it their duty to go, as Daniel in the court of Cyrus; others were hindered by old age. Many more returned than we read of being carried away captive. "Let the men—help him." Let the heathen population help him. "Free will offering." Probably that made by Cyrus himself.

II. The captives make preparations for the return (vs. 5-11). 5. "Chief of the fathers." Venerable men, heads of families, some of whom had seen the first temple. "Judah and Benjamin." These tribes, last exiled, were the first to return. But that there were many from the other tribes also who returned appears from many other passages. 6. "Strengthened their hands." Their neighbors helped them and contributed liberally. 7. "Cyrus—brought forth," etc. Nebuchadnezzar little thought that he was unconsciously preserving the sacred vessels of Israel in a safe and inviolable stronghold, till the day when Jehovah would bring about their restoration to His people.

8. "Sheshbazzar." The Chaldee or Persian name of Zerubbabel, given him at court as other names were given to Daniel and his friends. Born in Babylon and named by his friends Zerubbabel (exile in Babylon). He was recognized as hereditary prince of Judah; was leader of the first company of exiles and director of the rebuilding of the temple.

11. "All the vessels," etc. This number, 5400, is more than double the sum of verses 9 and 10, which was 2499. It is probable that only the larger or more costly vessels were numbered in detail, and the 5400 includes a great number of smaller and less costly ones. So they are reckoned by Josephus. In the history of the restoration of the Jews to their country, the names of three Jewish leaders and of three Persians are prominent. The first Jewish leader was Zerubbabel, who left Babylon under this proclamation of Cyrus, B. C. 536, seventy years after the first captivity. After an interval of about twenty years he was enabled to complete the rebuilding of the temple, in the reign of Darius Hystaspes, seventy years after the destruction of the temple. The second Jewish leader was Ezra, who went up from Babylon about eighty years after Zerubbabel, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes Longimanus. He labored chiefly to restore the institutions of Moses. The third Jewish leader was Nehemiah, who went up from Susa, or Shushan, in the twentieth year of the same Artaxerxes. He rebuilt the wall and set up the gates of Jerusalem and promoted many reforms.

STARVING IN CAUCASUS.

Armenians, Fired Upon by Tartars, Cannot Till Land.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—Private dispatches received here from Tiflis say that conditions in the Caucasus are deplorable. The Armenians are starving and are abandoning their property because it is impossible for them to cultivate their land on account of the manner in which they are fired upon by the Tartars, despite the efforts of the troops who have been sent there to protect them.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

When Congressman Brownlow, of Tennessee, introduced what has become known as his good roads bill, some well meaning people looked upon it as a visionary proposition; others as a Constitutional innovation, and still others as a something calculated to bankrupt the National treasury. A little thought on the subject discovered that it was none of these, but the most practical and important economic measure ever submitted in the House of Representatives. Following the Brownlow bill there came two bills from the Senate—from Senators Latimer, of South Carolina, and Gallinger, of New Hampshire, and two or more in the House. The bills are similar in their provisions, what is known as the Brownlow-Latimer bill being recognized as covering the provisions of the others. It is believed that during the life of the 59th Congress, soon to convene, the bill will be enacted into law. It is inconceivable that Congress will refuse to extend the relief to the country which is called for. When it is remembered that, according to Census figures, the value of farm products in the United States for 1899 footed up the total of $4,739,118,752, and that every dollar's worth of this product is moved over the public roads—all of it, less the live stock, hauled in wagons—to the railroads and waterways, and that these wagon roads as a rule are deplorably bad, the necessity of relief impresses itself without argument. Old systems of road improvement are worthless. Local effort has proven a flat failure, as the experience of seventy five years has proven beyond cavil. States and counties, with a few wealthy exceptions, are unable to cope with the trouble. There must be Government aid, and the Brownlow-Latimer bill provides for it.

The Alabama State Fair to be held in Birmingham October 23 to November 2, a period of ten days, will eclipse anything of the kind ever held in Alabama. More than $50,000 has been spent in preparations and any one who visits the beautiful grounds and sees the extensive buildings can rest assured that every dollar has been wisely expended. The buildings are completed and ready for exhibitors. In this connection it may be stated that every foot of floor and exhibit space has been engaged. When it is known that the main building is 200x125 and the mines and machinery hall is 200x75 the magnitude of the exhibition becomes apparent.

The County Board of Education at an adjourned meeting Monday appropriated the public school funds to the several districts. It amounts to $1.60 per child.

New Cure For Cancer.

All surface cancers are now known to be curable, by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Jas. Walters, of Duffield, Va., writes: "I had a cancer on my lip for years, that seemed incurable, till Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it, and now it is perfectly well." Guaranteed cure for cuts and burns. 25c at Upchurch drug store.

BENEFIT TO MANKIND

One of the Greatest Discoveries of the Nineteenth Century.

There is nothing in the way of a discovery in the nineteenth century that has proved of greater benefit to mankind than that of two eminent French chemists, Morgues and Gautier by name, who discovered a way to separate the medicinal curative elements, of which there are about fifty different kinds in the cod's liver from the oil, and give to modern medicine all the tonic, body building and curative properties of that grand old remedy cod liver oil, unencumbered by the oily, greasy part, which science had proved of no value whatever, either as a food or medicine. Thus they produced Vinol.

Vinol is guaranteed to contain in a highly concentrated form all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, and wherever old fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions will do good, Vinol will do far more good—for being without oil, it is delicious to the taste, easy assimilated and won't upset the weakest stomach.

Vinol tones up the digestive organs, creates a hearty appetite, makes rich, red blood and creates strength for old people, weak women, puny children and after sickness, and for all pulmonary troubles it has no equal

So strong is our faith in Vinol that we freely offer to return money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction. Upchurch Drug co.

CHILTON COTTON ASSOCIATION.

The Association held its regular meeting at the court house last Saturday, Pres. W. H. Conway presiding. He said that he regretted that no more farmers were present, and proceded to show that the organization was now recognized as a power in the commercial world. He stated that Montgomery was the best organized county in the State, and then introduced Rev. N. B. Williams of that county, who gave a very interesting lecture.

Mr. Williams said he was a country minister and not a professor, only in the profession of faith of Jesus Christ. Our worthy President, W. H. Seymour, has spent at least $500 of his own cash in advancing the interests of the Association, besides the amount he has lost on his West Alabama farm and mill interests. The lack of confidence is the cause of hard times. God will bless, and man will bless, the man who stands in his tracks. The conflict between Russia and Japan was a mere bagatelle compared with the commercial conflict now on between nations. There is no such thing as over-production of cotton. We do not want to sell Japan, or anybody else, raw cotton, we want to sell the finished product. We need confidence, we need an organization that is stout as the fence—horse high, bull stout and pig tight. It is only the country that is inhabited by patriotic citizens that can and will prosper.

Adjournment was taken for dinner, after which Pres. Conway offered cards to be posted at all public ginneries requesting all members to pay the ginners 3¢ per bale of cotton ginned, said amount to go to the funds of the Association. $7.30 was paid by members to the Secretary.

J. H. Thomas made a strong address.

Judge Reynolds said if the S. C. A. was a failure the farmer would be the cause it.

Tipton Mullins made a brief but very interesting talk.

By request, the Secretary read a letter of Pres. Harvie Jordan, after which Mr. Williams read an article "Are Government cotton crop figures correct."

The following resolutions were offered and adopted:

Resolved, that we endorse the action of the S. C. A. at Asheville, N. C., in fixing the minimum price of cotton at 11 cents, and urge members, when practicable, to hold their cotton for that figure, and that under no circumstances will we accept less than 10¢. We insist on all farmers co operating with us in this movement.

Resolved, by this Association, that we pay the brother from Montgomery (N. B. Williams) $5 and expenses, and heartily thank him for his services in our behalf to day, and cordially commend him to other counties.

A committee of three, consisting of Pres. Conway, Vice-Pres. Gulledge and Sec. Dennis was appointed to select an organizer for each Beat in the county, and they have appointed the following organizers: Beat 1, J. W. Sorrell; 2, E G. Cofer; 3, J. H. Thomas; 4—; 5, J. A. Mitchel; 6, I. M. Deason; 7, —; 8, T. U. Crumpton; 9, J. D. Collins; 10, S. S. Scott and E. L. Manning; 11, W. S. Cox.

The Association then adjourned.

A DAILY PAPER FREE.

Well, not exactly free, but the next thing to it. What do you think of this offer? The Banner and the CHICAGO NATIONAL DAILY REVIEW $1.50 A YEAR!

This offer is open for a limited time only. We can't tell how long we shall have an opportunity to give you such a bargain, so come early.

Pay up your arrearages and a year in advance, and for only 50 cents additional we send you a Daily Newspaper for one year. Think of it!

The Chicago National Daily Review is a phenomenal success. It is a four-page, seven-column paper printed in large type on good quality of paper. Started in January, 1905, it already has thousands of subscribers and it intends to add thousands more in the next few weeks by arrangements with the Banner and other newspapers, such as we have outlined above.

The Chicago National Daily Review is published every week day in the year and contains all the news thats worth remembering. It has a complete market report, excellent reading matter for the family, condensed and readable reports of the world's news, and every day gives its readers a Magazine Article by one of the high-class special writers on its staff.

Remember that the regular price of the Chicago National Daily Review is One Dollar per year. For a limited time only, all new subscribers to the Banner who pay a year in advance and all old subscribers who pay arrerages and a year in advance can get the Review for only 50 cents additional.

Don't wait; now is the time to get a Good Daily Newspaper for the smallest price ever offered.

PROGRAM

Chilton County Singing Convention, to be held with Concord church, two miles east of Clanton, Oct. 14 and 15, 1905.

SATURDAY, 10 a.m. Devotional exercise, J. J. Grant,

10;30. Welcome address, E. H. Mims. Response, R. D. Durham.

11. Song service, led by R. D. Durham.

12. Dinner.

1:30 p.m. Methods of teaching vocal music, J. L. Gore, James Franklin and J. B. Northcutt.

2:30 How may pastors help the singing teacher? G. W. Gothard, W. A. Mims.

3:30. Business of convention.

SUNDAY, 9:30 a.m. Devotional exercise, W. A. Mims.

The remainder of the day spent in singing. Lovers of music are earnestly requested to attend.

COMMITTEE.

It is impossible to have a clear head, an active brain, a vigorous constitution or a strong body when the digestion is weak or when the stomach is out of order. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will put the stomach and digestive organs in good condition and improve the general condition. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Sunday School Convention District No. 5.

The Annual Convention of District No. 5, composed of the Sunday schools in Beats 5 and 10, will be held on the 4th Sunday, October 22d, 1905. The place and the program will be published next week The officers of this District are: President, D. W. H. Caffey, Verbena; Vice-President, D. S. Robinson, Verbena, R. F. D. No. 2; Secretary, Miss Lila Meriwether, Verbena.

One Cold and Another

The season's first cold may be slight—may yield to early treatment, but the next cold will hang on longer; it will be more troublesome, too. Unnecessary to take chances on that second one. Scott's Emulsion is a preventive as well as a cure. Take when colds abound and you'll have no cold. Take it when the cold is contracted and it checks inflammation, heals the membranes of the throat and lungs and drives the cold out.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Send for free sample.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists
409-415 Pearl Street, New York
50c. and $1.00 • • • All druggists

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, g-o-n-e!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It checks falling hair, and always restores color to gray hair. A splendid dressing also. Sold for over sixty years.

"My hair came out so badly I nearly lost it all. I had heard so much about Ayer's Hair Vigor I thought I would give it a trial. I did so and it completely stopped the falling, and made my hair grow very rapidly."—MARY H. FIELD, Northfield, Mass.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
Ayer's SARSAPARILLA. PILLS. CHERRY PECTORAL.

NOTICE

Applications have been received by the Board of Education of Chilton county for the following changes in school districts:

District No. 53—Beginning at the northwest corner of Sec 33, Tp 24, R 12; thence east two miles, thence south ½ mile, thence east 1½ mile, thence south ½ mile, thence west ½ mile to east boundary line of District No 53.

District No. 57—Beginning at the Northwest corner Sec. 20, Tp 23, R 14; thence north 1½ miles, thence east ½ mile, thence north ½ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence north ½ mile thence east 1 mile, thence north 4½ mile, thence west 3 miles to range line, thence south 3 miles, thence west 1 mile, thence south 3½ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence south ½ mile, thence east to point of beginning.

The above applications will be passed upon by the Board of Education at the Court House in Clanton, on 11th day of November, 1905.

Done by order of the Board in session Oct. 7, 1905.

G. L. SPEER,
Sec. Board of Education,

No Pill is as pleasant and positive as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These Famous Little Pills are so mild and effective that children, delicate ladies and weak people enjoy their cleansing effect, while strong people say they are the best liver pills sold. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

New Prospect.

Dear Editor—Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in reply to a piece I noticed in your paper headed, "What it takes to make a happy home." I agree with almost every sentence. Even the subject itself has, if properly considered, a meaning that would take hours to relate. The writer seems so enthusiastic and earnest in her plea for happy homes until it seems that she deeply realizes the pleasures and much more the need of happy homes. If we were to consider the matter properly there are a great many things that it takes to make homes happy. In the first place it takes a good, pious, Christian hearted father; one who loves his family dearly, and one who will teach his children the right way and one will pray for and with his family, that his children while young may learn to love and reverence the great God of heaven. I am afraid the reason we have so many unhappy homes and so many heart-aching mothers is due to the fact that the fathers have not done their duty in trying to bring their children up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Oh how it causes our hearts to ache when we look around and see so many of our young men going down the road to destruction drinking the poisonous drugs called liquor and dissipating in every other sinful and destructive thing that could be mentioned. Parents, whose fault is it? Is it yours or not? Have you set the example? Raise a child in the way you would have it to go and when it gets old it will not depart from it. And then if you have taught it the right things to obey you and to love and fear God, then the mother's heart will be at ease and your home will be forever happy.

Well, I had better close for I think I can hear the Editor sigh. Hoping this will not reach the waste basket I am still a friend to the Banner and its many readers..

D. M. W.

A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

F. A. GULLEDGE
Real Estate, Loans and Disco

Liberal long time loans on Impro Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Prope ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on co ton being held now, either on farms or warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

The Big Mail Order House!
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!
Everything at Cut Prices!
Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	[illegible]
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	[illegible]
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	[illegible]
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	[illegible]
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	[illegible]
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	[illegible]
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	[illegible]
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	[illegible]
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	[illegible]
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	[illegible]
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	[illegible]
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	[illegible]
Murray Hill Club	1 00	[illegible]
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	[illegible]
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	[illegible]
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	[illegible]
Wilson Whiskey	85	[illegible]
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00	[illegible]
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25	[illegible]
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50	[illegible]
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00	[illegible]
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50	[illegible]
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75	[illegible]
Old Lincoln County	65	[illegible]
Old Holland Gin	50	[illegible]
Old Crown Gin	75	[illegible]
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	[illegible]
California Sherry or Port	50	[illegible]

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon		Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	[illegible]
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	[illegible]
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	[illegible]
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	[illegible]
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	[illegible]
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	[illegible]
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	[illegible]

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines and whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything and Everything of the be

Staple & Fancy Groceri
DRY GOODS, CLOTHIN
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - AL

THE WHOLE FAMILY

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which our Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long exper enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men—we clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can fit and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at espe low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in short and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants No matter you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to 10 worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard so they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. Men's from No 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We are all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole Family
THE BARGAIN STORE
Clanton, Ala.

VOL. XIII

WITTE IN RUSSIA

RETURN OF THIS SUCCESSFUL DIPLOMAT NOT A MARCH OF TRIUMPH.

Despicable Manner in Which Divine Royalty is Wont to Accept Valuable Services of Subjects.

Charles E. Kern

With Bowed Head and Humbly

ULLEDGE
oans and Discou time loans on Improve Insurance Policies.
n good Personal Proper
ps.
dvances offered on cot
, either on farms or i ss
F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA.

il Order House!
RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
ur Mail Orders.
ODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular Price
....	75	1 00
....	75	1 00
–	75	1 00
....	50	75
....	60	1 00
....	65	1 00
a Rye	75	1 00
....	75	1 00
skey	85	1 25
....	1 00	1 50
....	1 26	2 00
....	84	1 50
....	1 00	1 50
....	1 00	1 50
....	1 00	1 50
....	1 00	1 50
....	85	1 50
....	1 00	1 50
....	1 25	1 75
....	1 50	2 00
t a headache	1 00	1 25
....	50	75
....	75	1 00
....	65	1 00
....	50	75
....	75	1 00
....	50	75
....	50	75

ds and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Lincoln County	2.50
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

e carry a full line of wines and low grade goods.
RUG COMPANY
RATE DRUG STORE
MINGHAM, ALA.

rything erything of the be ancy Groceries
S, CLOTHING
HATS, ETC.
ES & BRO.
.ALA

LE FAMILY

out in an immense stock which our M for spot cash, his long experien vantageous prices, with the expr he entire family. outh and the grown men—we hav
-quality guaranteed.
and the matrons—we can fit tha and fashionable goods at especial can show you any kind of Suit y
We have the largest stock of Boy rs old to 16 years old in short pant outh's long pants No matter wh price. Men's and Boy's Hats, a largest stock of the latest style Flannel Shirt Waists, and a go finest stock of Dress Goods of a
s. Extra Fine Waist Goods.
in short lengths from 3 to 10 yard them at 9 cents per yard so long for which we have the exclusi Ladies' from No. 3 to No. 5 a izes in Children's. We are offeri sale price.
to be satisfied.
OS. & TOURO
e Whole Family
AIN STORE
n, Ala.

THE BANNER
LET THE PEOPLE RULE.
VOL. XIII Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No 52

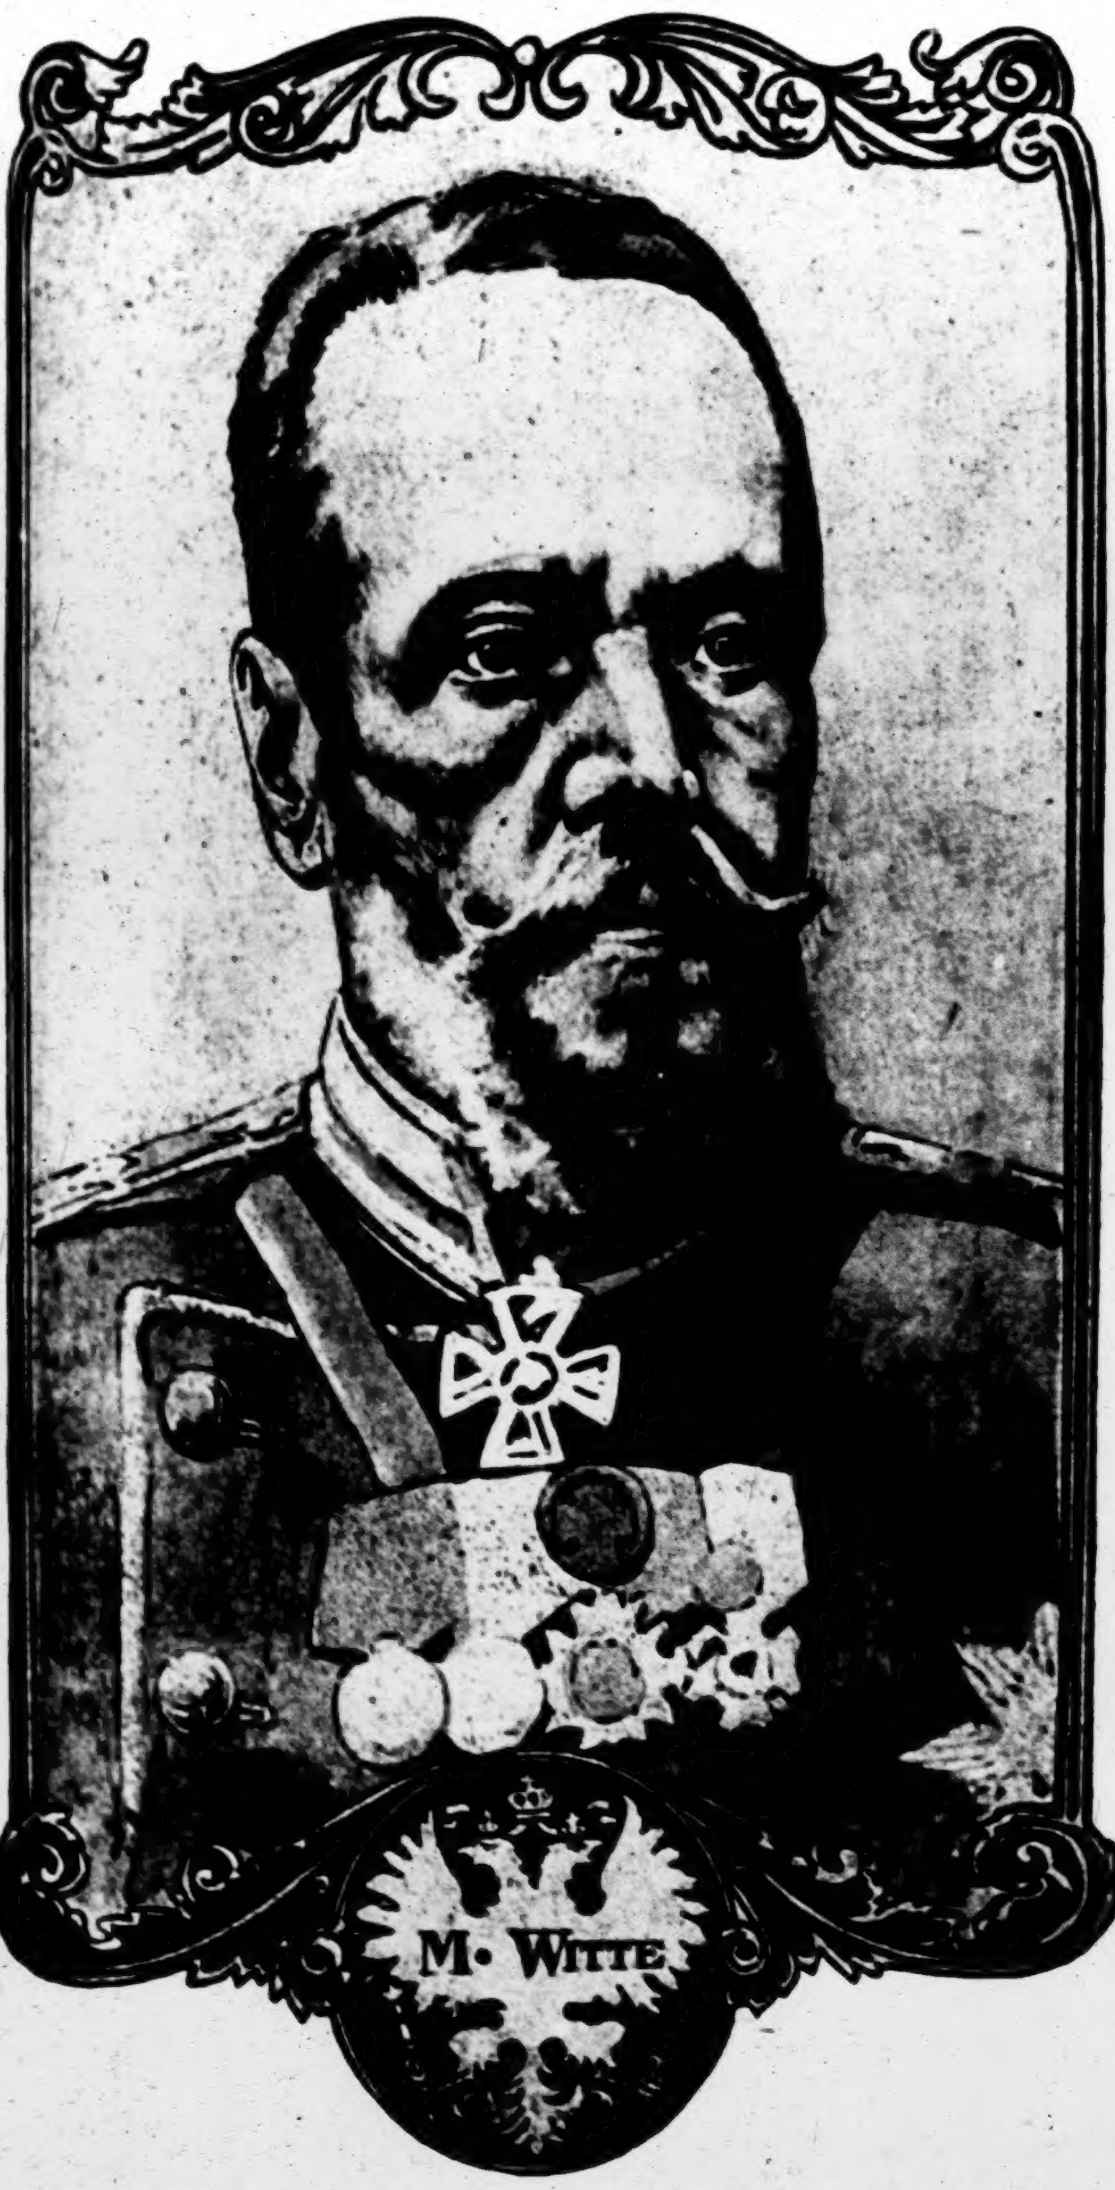
WITTE IN RUSSIA

RETURN OF THIS SUCCESSFUL DIPLOMAT NOT A MARCH OF TRIUMPH.

Despicable Manner in Which Divine Royalty Is Wont to Accept Valuable Services of Subjects.

Charles E. Kern.

There is pathos in the attitude of the great Russian statesman, M. Witte, largely to whose diplomacy the Czar owes the favorable conclusion of the war with Japan, in his presentation in person to his majesty, of a report on the details of whose historic meetings at Portsmouth which were so managed as to "save the face" of Russia, as they say in the far East. It is difficult for an American to understand the nature of this meeting between Czar and subject, and although we as a people cannot admire M. Witte's braggadocio, we must in fact feel sorry for a man who returns to his country after accomplishing so much in her behalf and finds it at once necessary to plan an intrigue in order to prevent effacement



Only those who have been within the charmed circle of the court at St. Petersburg can imagine the conditions influencing this interview between the Czar and his representative who has carried off the honors of the diplomatic game that has recently been played to determine the terms on which peace would be concluded between Russia and Japan.

The American imagines the Russian statesman and diplomat returning to the presence of the Czar with form erect and countenance beaming with just pride in having performed service for which he would naturally expect to be received with honor. But those who have been at the Imperial Court of Russia know that no such scene is enacted upon the return of M. Witte.

With Bowed Head and Humbly

They know he will return to the presence of his royal master, the Czar, if he has already reached St. Petersburg with bowed head, regretting that he has been unable to serve his master in a more worthy manner, and praying, with the hunted countenance of a criminal, that he be forgiven for having performed so poor a service. He will protest that if there can be found any act of his own worthy of favorable comment that that act is due wholly to having obeyed the royal will and having properly interpreted the royal purpose. He will conclude that act of humiliation by begging forgiveness of his august master for his shortcomings. No menial in America could play the part of humility so earnestly as will the distinguished diplomat M. Witte.

"The attitude of statesmen of monarchical governments toward their royal masters is one that cannot be understood by Americans and is known only to those who have been in close touch with them abroad," said a high official of the State Department in commenting upon the return of M. Witte to his home.

Would have Presidential Bee.

"The men who make European and Asiatic history to-day can never hope to approach their royal masters, who are in many cases mere puppets, except in a manner indicating the utmost humility. The American who would perform such service as that of M. Witte would return home with a straight backbone and with the presidential bee buzzing under the crown of his hat. He would accept as his right every bit of credit pertaining to his successful work, and no one would expect him to perform any act of humiliation in the presence of the President or any one else."

The fact is, M. Witte began his act of humility while in this country. He referred to the Czar at all times as his august master and while crossing the Atlantic ocean, when accorded deserved honor for his diplomacy, was quick to disavow being worthy of the least credit for his labors, stating in effect that he was a miserable creature who breathed because of the goodness of his "august master" and that anything he had done in connection with the peace negotiations was merely in obedience to the will of his master, the Czar.

Expectations That He Would Fail.

The return of M. Witte to St. Petersburg also has a special interest because, as is fully understood in the inner circles of the Diplomatic Corps at Washington, his appointment as a peace commissioner to represent the Czar was given him not for his benefit but was brought about by his enemies, who expected that his failure to effect a successful peace negotiation would be his permanent political undoing. It was M. Witte who opposed the war and favored its conclusion long before peace was arranged. He was detested by the military party, and the intrigues of the Russian court placed him in an uncomfortable position before the Czar. It was argued that if he could be sent on the impossible mission of making peace when the entire court was convinced that the attitude of Japan would make the peace conference a failure, he would return discredited and forced for the first time in his career to approve the continuance of the war, which was desired by certain of the court dignitaries up to the time peace was declared.

Still Working for his Downfall.

Now that the good fortune and the artful diplomacy of M. Witte have confused his enemies he is no better loved by them than he was when they conspired to intrust him with a mission they believed he could not successfully perform. It is learned at Washington that even now those same enemies are planning future traps for the eminent statesman who has been favored by the god of fortune. When he appears before his august master in the traditional attitude of a slave there will be many of his enemies to endeavor to persuade the Czar that the formal words of self depreciation which he must utter to conform to court etiquette are in fact only plain truth.

WORKING GIRL'S CHANCES.

CHOOSE CONGENIAL OCCUPATION THEN HOLD FAST TO THE FIRST GOOD JOB.

It Is Not the Kind of Work but the Manner of Working That Brings Forth the Dollars.

"It is not my specialty, madame," said the little French milliner who had just finished a beautiful beruched hat for me, when I asked her to make one of those pretty mousseline shoulder ruches; and she would do nothing outside her specialty. So it is in all the big cities where women flock to make a living or a name; whether in Paris, London, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, one must have one's highly perfected specialty in order to win even moderate recognition.

"Don't scatter" is the very best advice to the girl worker. "Oh, I know how to do ever so many things," says the latest entry on the books of a big employment agency.

"Can you cook?" asks the manageress with breathless eagerness.

"Yes," is the reply rather shamefacedly.

"Good! I'll put you down under Cooks."

"But, I don't want to cook. I've been through our academy and I've graduated in all the latest accomplishments. Besides, I've come up to the city to make money—a lot of money."

"You'll make a lot of money if you'll cook," says the manageress in her take-my-advice tone. "Why, any girl that can pretend to cook, if she don't know a souffle from a hoe cake can make more money in this town than a whole class of academy graduates with ten accomplishments apiece."

It is not the kind of work, but the manner of working that brings in the dollars.

A girl of twenty-three, thrown suddenly on her own resources, made the lives of her friends miserable by a constant cry of "What can I do?" A yellow streak of snobbishness made it all the more difficult to help her. Without even facility in writing, she begged assistance in becoming a paid contributor to a scandalmongering newspaper. Fortunately, she lacked as much in perseverance as in literary ability. Her next venture was in trained nursing; but, being placed in the colored ward, her southern prejudices drove her out of the hospital just three days later than her date of entry. From a spasmodic effort to acquire a knowledge of stenography, she set out on a quest for a place as nursery governess. A practical friend met her just after her first rebuff, and much against her will pushed her into a situation in a fashionable millinery establishment, at $3 a week. Now it developed that trimming hats is that girl's gift.

It usually takes about three years in the workshops of the swell milliners to arrive at the degree of proficiency which commands a salary of $25 per week, but the girl in question made hats for her friends evenings. Her friends sent their friends, and inside of a year she had saved enough to take a trip to Paris during the summer. She bought not a single model but gathered impressions, went back to New York, rented a couple of rooms in a side street between the shopping and the residence sections, dropped a little note to each of her patrons saying she had taken a flyer abroad—and the rest was easy.

Choose a Congenial Occupation.

The secret of success is finding out one's special bent or talent. Usually the thing that it is easiest to do, that one likes best to do, is the work in which one will be able to make greatest progress. A very few are favored with inspiration along original lines. Some unfortunates commit the folly of choosing a profession or trade because of the results secured in it by others, rather than because of any personal inclination or adaptability.

Voluminous statistics show that a girl need not be limited in her choice of work, for some one hundred and fifty occupations, meeting every need or desire of existence—from doctor to undertaker—have already been exploited by women. However, for the average girl, comparatively few trades and professions seem within her scope. Outside of the enormous number who become teachers, very few women are afforded the opportunity to acquire a profession; consequently, certain trades required for carrying on of routine work in business offices, shops and factories, have come to be regarded as the only money-making channels open to the girls who arrive at the end of their school days confronted with the question, "What shall I do for a living?"

Always Room for Good Ones.

Most discouraging of all the obstacles to the girl seeking her living is the constantly repeated falsehood that the occupations open to the average female intelligence are overcrowded. Thirty years ago the same statement was made to almost every female applicant for employment as bookkeeper, clerk, agent, stenographer, saleswoman, etc. At that time less than one per cent. of all the women wage earners were employed in clerical positions. In twenty years the percentage of women in this class increased to five per cent. of the total employed, while the figures of the last census promise a still more encouraging advance. It is further shown that in the last decade of the 19th century the number of woman bookkeepers in the United States increased by about 50,000, the number of woman clerks by over 10,000, the number of saleswomen by over 100,000, the number of stenographers and typewriters by 65,000; and the list might be continued through every profession or trade entered by women. All show a greater or less increase, proving that there is always room for the competent. It is only by adding real effort, perseverance and determination to a natural talent, however, that the top is reached. The woman who spends months, even years, in acquiring skill or knowledge in some line of work that appears attractive because of the few women in it, and not because she has any special talent for it, makes a fatal mistake.

Stick to a Good Job.

A weary little public school teacher, worried into a state of hysteria by a long year with a class of unruly slum children, threw up her position, and, misled by the success of a friend, undertook to become a stenographer. She had just the qualities that make a good teacher, but none of the alertness, endurance and steady nerve that are indispensable in the shorthand writer. She remembered that her friend had spent only three months on a course of lessons, but forgot that at the end of the three months had come a position at $5 per week with eight hours of uninterrupted typewriting each day, after which, in order to make headway toward a better salary, every evening from half past seven to eleven was spent in speed practice. The little teacher put in a hot summer in a private business school and later, through the kindness of friends, obtained a position in a section of the country most unhealthy

The choice of the right work determines at the start the measure of success.

SENATOR MARTIN'S CASE.

Renomination of Virginia Statesman Cost a Small Fortune.

Senator Martin of Virginia is out of pocket $11,500 in expenditures to secure a renomination to the United States Senate. This is more than one-third of the salary he would receive during the whole six years of his new term. The expenditure, it seems, was necessary. The Senator had a popular opponent who set a hot pace and kept it up to the end. There was nothing for Mr. Martin to do but to canvass the State from end to end and this, with other necessary expenses, ran the total high. This fight of Senator Martin for renomination and the necessary large expenditure, which is looked upon as entirely legitimate and free from any corruption, has aroused considerable comment among politicians and prominent men at Washington, as being an exceptional clear cut example of present political methods and necessities.

"Martin's troubles are now practically over," said a prominent Southerner, stopping at the national capital, who has all his life been familiar with the practical methods of political nominations and elections. "Martin can draw a check or two more and then close up his book because Virginia is not a close State; but suppose it were, and that Senator Martin was now obliged to meet a Republican antagonist, able to give him the fight for the election that Governor Montague gave him for the nomination, so that he had to spend $11,500 additional—a total of $23,000. This would leave him $7,000 of salary for his full time of six years of service.

SENATOR MARTIN.

Might Have Cost Thirty Thousand.

"Nay, more. Virginia is a State where campaigning is rather primitive. Money still has a good value in most of the sections. There is not the holding up and bleeding of candidates at every turn that there is in some of the more closely contested States, so that it is entirely conceivable that Senator Martin might have legitimately expended more than his entire $30,000 in order to be re-elected; a man, too, of character and ability, who has served his State so well in the Senate that people might have thought he could have had the renomination for the asking, if it was not actually forced upon him.

"But the case is typical, although it may not be usual. Politics are everywhere getting to be very expensive where two men want the same place. I have seen the increase in cost grow and grow. What I hear asked now, among thinking men is, what is the effect upon our national legislation when it would appear that only wealthy men can think of running for election and where there can be no contest for the honor by any but the wealthy. Is the situation telling upon our public affairs? and if so, what is the remedy: what can we do about it?"

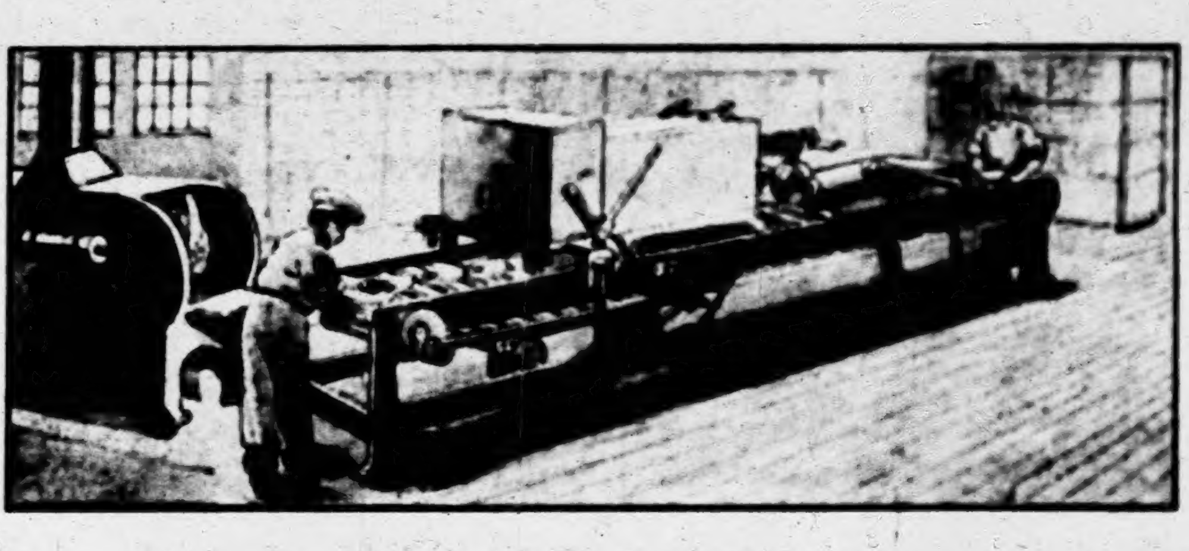
FORTY PIES A MINUTE.

PITTSBURG MAN INVENTS A MACHINE TO MAKE PIES BY THE MILLION.

Annual Output Would Reach Half Across the Continent.—Would Drive Mother Out of Business.

"Pies like mother used to make!" Is that possible? And yet it is learned by dispatches from Pittsburg that a man there can make such appetizing delicacies at a rate of twenty-four thousand pies in ten hours, or forty in a minute through the aid of a machine which he has just perfected. If the machine can do what is claimed for it and turn out good wholesome pies there should be enough to go around to everybody even following the fiercest political campaigns. The statement made by the inventor from the Smoky City certainly is a marvel when it is figured just what the machine's capacity for pie-making is. Suppose we have the machine running ten hours a day, six days in the week, allowing for holidays and breakdowns, making the lemon meringue pies, for which the machine is specially adapted, we have, with say 300 working days a year, the sum total of 7,200,000 pies a year. If these pies are like mother used to make, then of course they are each about nine inches in diameter and an inch and a quarter thick. Mother always used a couple of eggs and a lemon to each pie and so the Pittsburg baker would use 7,200,000 lemons, and 14,400,000 eggs. Laying these 7,200,000 pies out in one long row, we would have a distance of about 1,022 miles from the first pie in the row to the last. A reckless chauffeur in an up-to-date automobile, traveling at a rate of 25 miles an hour, including necessary stops, could make the journey across these pies in a little less than three days.

H. L. SONS, THE PIE MAN.



AT THE RATE OF FORTY A MINUTE.

A Pie Tower Magnificent.

Again taking "Mother's pies" as a basis, the products of this machine in a year, if piled one on the other would give us a monstrous column over 142 miles high. Of course a generous housekeeper would divide the pies in fifths, so that if our 7,200,000 pies were so shared, we would be able to feed 36,000,000 people, or nearly one-half the population of the United States, or more than 100 times the number of people living in Pittsburg. By using different shifts and working the machine to its full capacity the pie line would extend nearly across the continent and furnish pie to every man, woman, and child in the United States.

The story of the actual performance of the pie machine is truly wonderful. In fact two machines are necessary. In the first the crust is produced. Instead of pie pans, molds like waffle irons are used to form the crust. As the molds pass along on an endless chain, they move a lever at one end which permits the pie dough to enter the pans, shaped something like waffle irons, and they then pass between two sets of burners which take the place of the oven. Of course before the dough is released the irons are heated to the proper temperature. The dough is contained in a huge tank above the machine, a feed pipe running down, and by means of a piston, just enough dough is forced down to fill one of the molds as it passes under the pipe. The strokes of the piston are so regulated as to be timed with the arrival of each pan under the pipe. As soon as the crust is baked they are removed by an attendant who stands at one end of the machine. These crusts are then arranged on a large pan which is taken up by another attendant who places the crusts in the second machine.

Filling by the Ton.

This is also of the endless chain type, with two vast vats at one end, one of which contains the lemon filling and the other the meringue. By carefully regulated ratchets the filling and the meringue are fed alternately. The pies then pass on to an overhead burner which gives the top of the meringue a rich brown. The pie, thus completed, is passed out from under the baker and is ready for disposal by the American pie eater.

A RUG FIT FOR A KING.

Shah's Gift to Edward of a Wonderful Product from the Eastern Hand Looms.

Never outside fairyland has been seen such a wonderful carpet as that which King Edward received the other day as a present from the Shah of Persia—a token of his appreciation of the affectionate hospitality extended to him on the occasion of his last visit to England.

When this marvelous production of Persian artists and weavers was spread out before his majesty at Buckingham Palace he must have been reminded of some of the scenes depicted in the "Arabian Nights."

It had been known for some days past that a special Ambassador from the Persian monarch was to wait upon the King, and there was some speculation as to the object of his mission. The secret was well kept, and it was not until the arrival of the ambassador at the palace that any information could be gained as to the contents of the great packing case over which he kept vigilant guard.

For more than two years quite a little army of designers and weavers has been constantly at work upon the carpet, and the result has been the production of what even in Persia must be considered a royal masterpiece.

The design is very curious, complex and certainly most ingenious; the colors are perfect and faultlessly blended; and the manufacture is flawless. The rug has been made entirely by hand.

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated
by Ernest
Haskell

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

18TH THOUSAND
ALREADY

All Bookstores.
$1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion."
—St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
[illegible]
The Missourian.
Name........................
Address........................

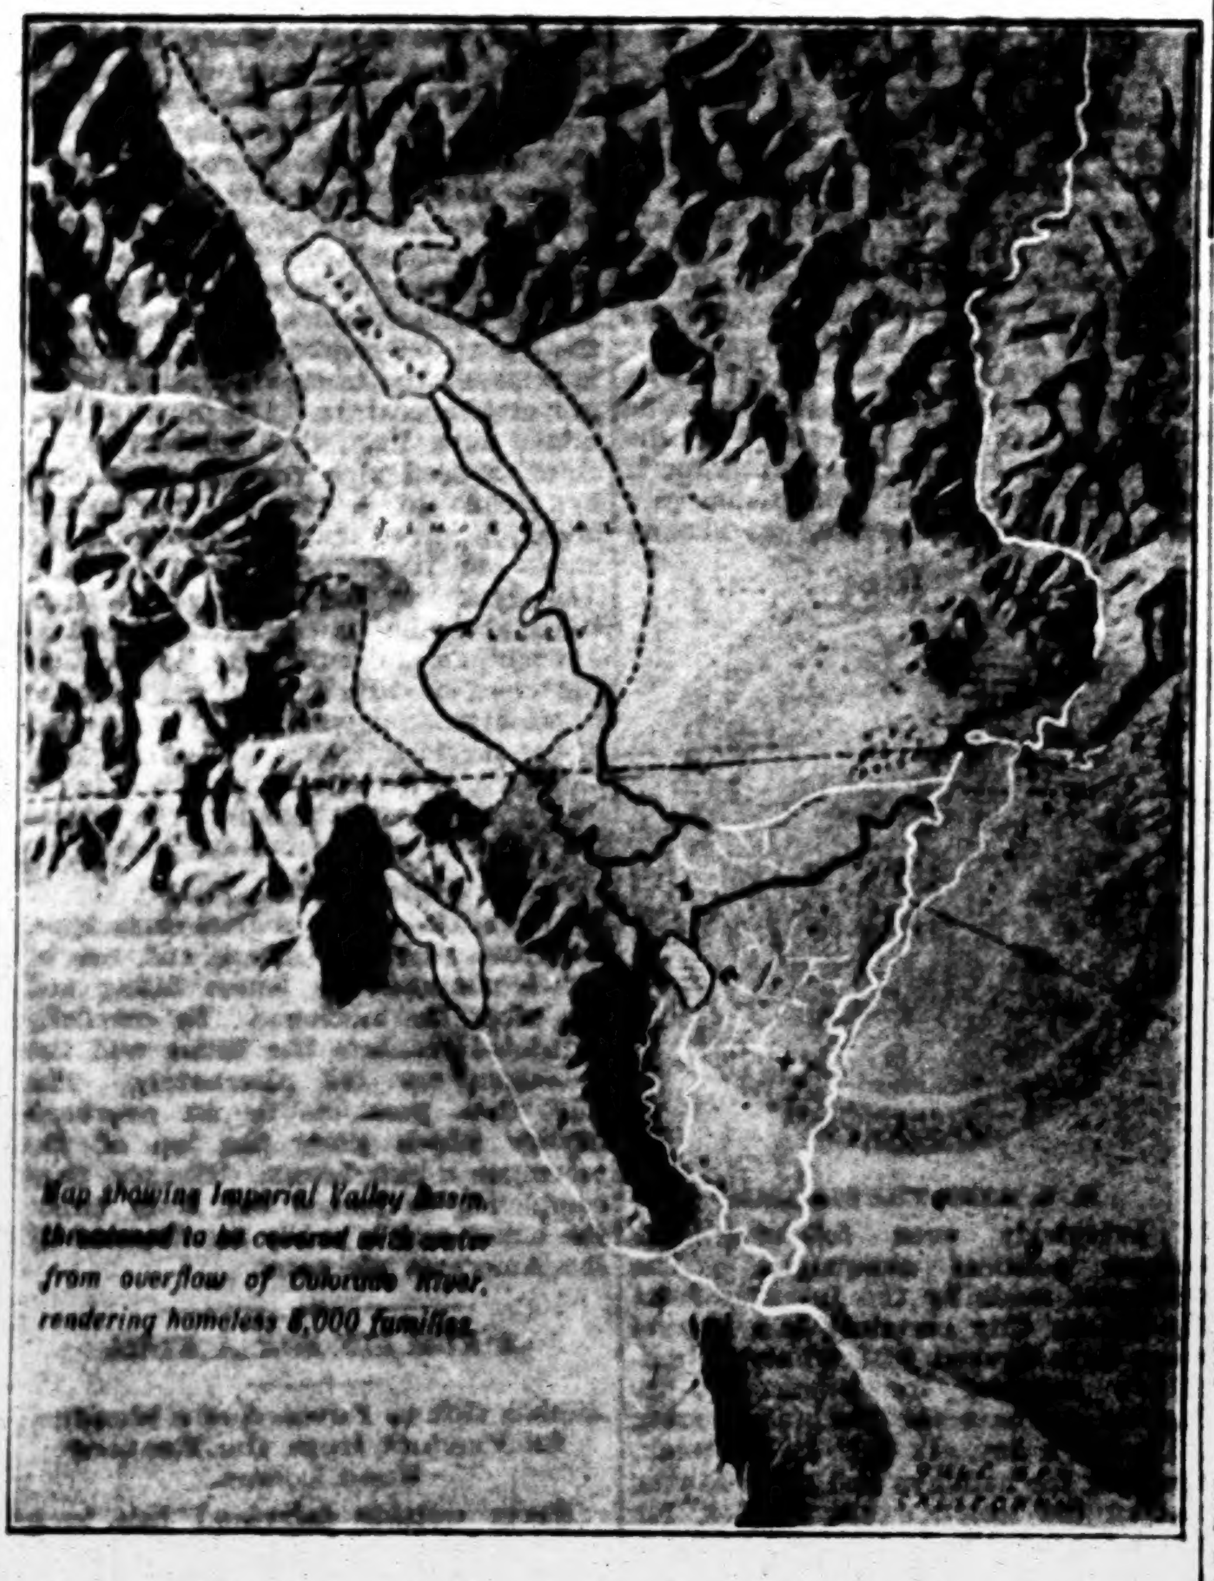
GREAT INLAND SINK.

FIERCE RAMPAGE OF COLORADO RIVER DESPOILS THOUSANDS OF FERTILE ACRES.

Huge Engineering Difficulties Must be Overcome; or Otherwise Eight Thousand Families Will Be Rendered Homeless and Destitute

C. J. BLANCHARD at Los Angeles.

The great Colorado river of the southwest the Nile of America, is on its bad behavior. Like old travellers who forsake the beaten highways, the Colorado, grown tired of its channel, is seeking a new route. Its desire for change naturally is the cause of much consternation on the part of the railroad which happens to be located near by, and of some little disquietude among several thousand settlers whose farms are apparently threatened unless the erratic stream can be induced to return to its old pathway to the sea. A glance at the map will make clear the unusual conditions which at present prevail in the Colorada Delta.



Map showing Imperial Valley Basin threatened to be covered with water from overflow of Colorado River, rendering homeless 8,000 families.

Below the town of Yuma, Arizona, the stream has cut its banks at three places and passing through old, dry channels, is now pouring westward and northward into Salton Sink. Augmented by the volume of this great stream the Sink has already become a vast inland sea, spreading out for 60 miles in one direction and 30 miles in another, and growing daly.

The Giant Force of Nature.

Passengers on the train now exclaim with wonder as they look out upon the broad sea reaching to the western horizon, where but a short time ago the desert reigned supreme in its awful desolation.

SIXTY FIVE MILES OF LAKE.

Glance at the map again and note the faint line near the international boundary, and encircling the large area marked Imperial Valley. All the land included within this line is below sea level, the lowest portion situated in Salton Sink where it is 287 feet below. To those who visit this remarkable region it is apparant that in ancient geological times the Gulf of California extended far northward. The Colorado River, carrying as it does a vast load of silt and detritus from a drainage basin covering 225,000 square miles, built a bar entirely across the Gulf and created a huge inland sea which covered all of what is now known as Imperial Valley. The shore line of this great sea can be distinctly traced by the old beaches which are found there.

Enormous Salt Beds.

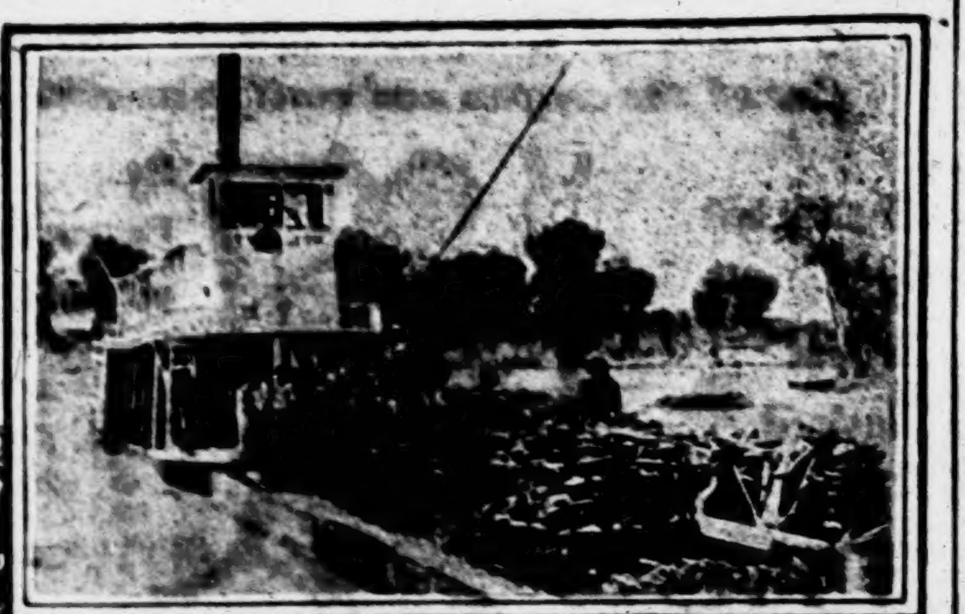
Under an almost tropical sun the sea evaporated, uncovering a great level plain over large portions of which was laid a deep deposit of rich river sediment wanting only irregation to produce abundant harvests. At the lowest depression in the valley, where evaporation has not yet carried off all the water, the salts were depostted thickly and large works have long been established there marketing thousands of tons of this mineral.

For centuries the Colorado has been building up its delta, higher and higher until today the bed of the river is above the valley on either side. Once let it cut its banks and the stream spreads out all over the country. About four years ago a large corportion, imbued with the laudable purpose of making homes for settlers in the Salton Desert, completed a big canal heading in the river below Yuma and almost on the International boundary. The canal was a large one, 60 feet on the bottom, and carried a great amount of water through Mexico into California on to the area now called Imperial Valley. The canal heading, owing to the character of the banks of the stream, was insecure. It has always been a source of trouble and annoyance. The river resented it as an obstruction in its course and deposited great loads of silt in front of it and then proceeded to cut a channel around it. Dredges were used constantly to keep the canal heading open.

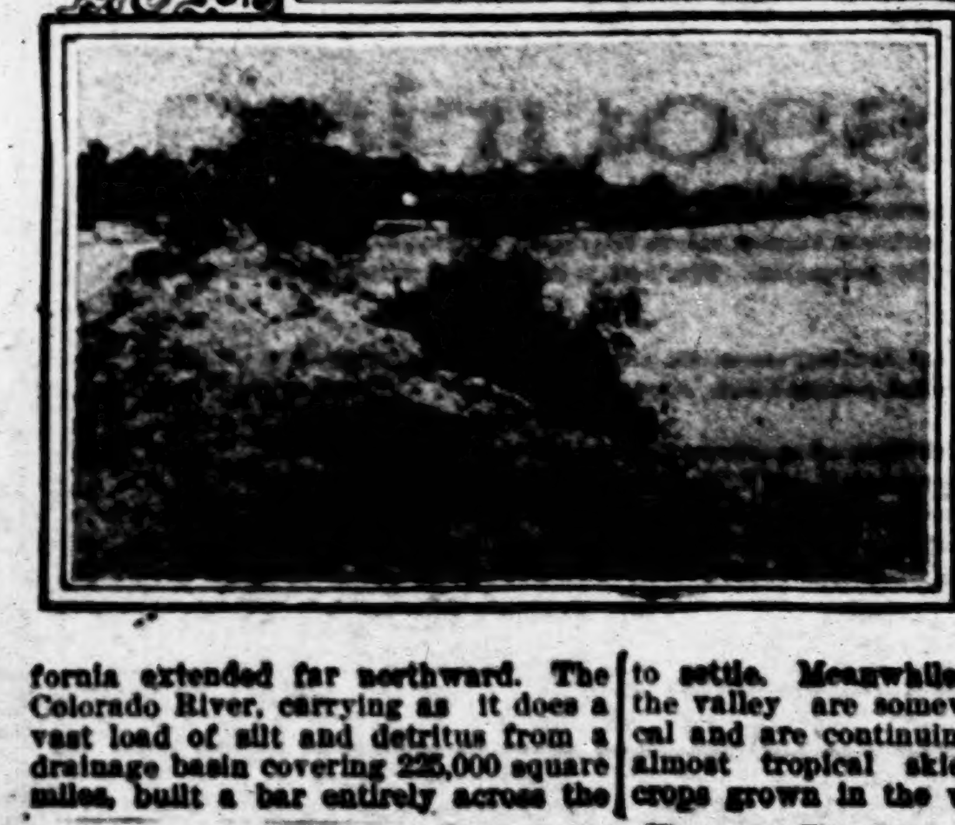
The last great flood in the stream simply wiped away the head gates and opened a way for a large part of the stream to flow into the valley. Just below this point the stream spilled over the banks again and following down an old stream channel it finally began to pour its whole volume in to Salton Sink. Only the high banks of the Imperial canal prevented larger areas of irrigated lands from being inundated and millions of dollars in crops from being destroyed.

Great difficulties are presented to the engineers who are trying to induce the stream to go back to its old channel. A new heading is projected. Thousands of feet of lumber have been ordered and steamboats are awaiting its arrival. If these means prove ineffective there is danger that 8,000 families now residing in the Imperial Valley, may be rendered homeless. Competent engineers are inclined to believe that the task is beyond the strength of the present company to perfom and that measures now being undertaken will not properly nor permanently safeguard the property of the people in the valley.

This is a question for the engineers to settle. Meanwhile, the citizens of the valley are somewhat philosophical and are continuing to reap, under almost tropical skies, the heaviest crops grown in the world



Steamboat Crew preparing to build Dam.



The Imperial Canal during high water.

THE JOY OF AGE.

Misinterpretation of Dr. Osler's Statement.

Dr. William Osler, late professor in John Hopkins University, Baltimore, met with a great deal of undeserved notoriety because he was misunderstood when he said the creative faculty disappeared usually at the age of forty years. He did not mean to convey the impression that man's usefulness ceased at that time, but that the imaginative faculty was not as active then as it was in earlier years, when men are green and raw in judgment and put forth many things that they wish to have suppressed later on. His little jest about chloroforming those who "lag superfluous on the stage" was meant to apply only to teachers who failed to move with the advanced thought and had a special humorous reference to himself, but the miscomprehension and exaggeration of the press has magnified his utterance and given it a sweep he never intended.

Must Seek New Fields.

When the acquisition of knowledge is used merely as a means through which to earn bread, that is the end of a man's career, whether he be thirty or forty or a thousand years old. Men who seek no new fields of exploration nor carry forward to fulfillment any work they attempt in early days are mere drones in the hives of life.

Dr. Osler, who is close to the sixty year line, has gone to England to take a professorship of medicine in Oxford University, which will without doubt lead to an increase of his professional fame, which did not come to him until after he had passed the half century post in his journey of life. His parting injunction to his medical associates in America, at the Washington meeting in May, was to follow the Golden Rule in all their actions, and to cultivate that moderation which is said to be the golden thread running through all the virtues. This advice is not new, but it cannot be repeated too often in an age when many men are striving to shove their neighbors to the wall in their desire to occupy the middle of the road themselves. Man is naturally a selfish animal and needs to be often reminded that he must do unto others as he would have them do unto him, even if he desires to attain more worldly success. The man who has no consideration for his laboring fellows is likely to find no consideration extended to him when the hour of misfortune comes.

Best Work Late in Life.

Dr. Osler never depreciated age, knowing that man's best work is done after age has mellowed his understanding and strengthened his judgment. There are numerous examples of what virility in age can do all along the track of history. It was seen in Benjamin Franklin, William E. Gladstone, is seen in Edward Everett Hale, Lord Kelvin, Charles H. Haswell, engineer and author, still at the age of 97 at his desk in New York, and other names will occur by scores to general readers.

It is an inflexible law of nature that the being who does not progress must retrograde. There is no place on this fearful ascent of life where, spiritually and intellectually, we are not forced to go forward lest we slip back. But it is a happy provision in nature that even in the longest life there is no arbitrarily fixed point of time where expansion must cease as if by a fiat, where there are no more heights before the soul to climb, no more views to be obtained, no broadening and expanding of the vision possible. Always and forever a new bud may be formed on the topmost bough of the old tree, even though the trunk be partly hollow, and the nourishing sap mount slowly through the bark.

CHINESE GRAVEYARD CUSTOMS.

Peculiar Custom of Placing Cooked Food on the Graves of the Departed.

Assorted foods, literally by the wagon load, are annually taken out to Cypress Hills Chinese Cemetery by members of New York's Chinese colony, says the New York Times, and these offerings, which are to us such strange evidences of affection and remembrance, are placed with picturesque rites, on the graves where the departed Celestial brothers of the colonists are awaiting the convenient—or is it the auspicious?—season for transshipment to the land which these most stolid of sentimentalists insist on believing to be the only one where the dead can rest comfortably. These annual illustrations of the fact that the Chinaman has feelings like the rest of us, even if he does choose different ways of showing them, attracts the usual amount of attention, some of it respectfully curious and some openly derisive, but neither variety affects the performance of the ceremonies or enables us to get a bit nearer the mysterious Mongol mind. It is hard to believe that our far-traveled Chinese really think that anything is accomplished for the dead by putting roast pig and boiled rice on a grave, and yet they do it year after year.

A Bright Retort.

The ancient story of the Chinaman who, when asked at what hour the spirits consumed the food thus offered to them, replied that it was at the same hour chosen by our dead for smelling flowers we similarly place, is always pertinent to discussion of this mystery, and reflection on the story has the admirable effect of giving a new standpoint from which to study the "outlandish" custom of our useful but unloved guests. In all these things it is the thinking so that constitutes right, propriety and congruity. The Chinese ceremonies do show affectionate or pious remembrance, and whether the dead are indifferent or not, the reflex action on the living is effectively brought to bear.

Black Friday.

"Now, children," said the Sunday school teacher, addressing the juvenile class, "can any of you tell me anything about Good Friday?"

"Yes, ma'am, I can," replied a boy. "He was the colored man what done the housework for Robinson Crusoe."

A Good Buggy For Sale.

Leesville (Mo.) Light: Luke Belmont's new buggy is for sale. He got married last week, you know.

TOBACCO FOR THE NAVY.

Government Selects Supply for Officers and Men.

The American naval officer and the jacky smoke and chew. This is a fact of which the Government takes official cognizance and recognizes in a way that makes such habits inexpensive incidents to life on board ship. Recently the Navy Department had under consideration the award of a contract for 150,000 pounds of cut plug tobacco, and in November next bids will be called for another supply of like amount. The contract under which the supply is now being furnished was secured on a basis of a bid of 40 cents a pound. Twenty-nine bids are now under consideration, the prices ranging from 30¼ cents a pound to 48 cents. The contract will not necessarily be let to the lowest bidder, but to the one supplying at the lowest price the grade best suited for the purpose.

Practical Chewing Tests.

Each bidder is required to submit a sample of the tobacco to be furnished, and these, after the factory labels are removed and secret identification marks substituted, are divided into small lots, part being sent to a chemist for analysis, and a goodly supply going to the various navy yards for distribution among officers and men for practical test, the opinion of the officers and "jackies" being taken before the award is made. Final results are reached by the process of elimination, until the selection of the chewers dwindles down to two or three samples which are bound to be favorites. These favorites are then taken up with regard to the chemical test, and the contract is awarded, so that perhaps the lowest bidder has no consideration whatever when the final result is obtained.

While heretofore the navy supplied the men with the tobacco (a very inferior article) free of cost, the Government now insists upon the best grade, which it sells to the sailor at the contract price, plus a very small percentage to cover the cost of handling. Only such tobaccos are considered which are manufactured from pure leaf tobacco of the growth of the current or preceding year in which the contract is made, and which shall have undergone a natural sweat.

How to Tell Counterfeits.

Any visitor to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing where Uncle Sam is printing the much sought-after greenbacks, comes away impressed with the intricacies of the manufacturing of a paper note. Few, indeed, understand the rule of four adopted by the Government as an aid in thwarting the plans of counterfeiters. Acquaintance with the rule of four, might help many people of the outside world in detecting counterfeit money. Every note printed by the Government—national currency and not bank notes—contains a number and a letter, no two bills having the same number. These are printed, as the visitor can see, in the blocks of four as they leave the plate printer's table. For instance, a number will be found on a note, 58,383 with the letter C in the upper left hand and lower right hand corners; another bill bears the number 79,988 D; another 42,566 B. These numbers and letters have a relation for each other and are easily determined. The last two numbers on the note determine, when divided by four, the letter to be found in the two corners. Should the last two numbers be divisible by four, with a remainder of one, the letter appearing should be A; if two remain, B; if three remain, C; and if the last two numbers are exactly divisible by four, with no remainder, the letter appearing should be D.

Rest the Bones of Pocahontas.

The proposition to bring back to the ancient city of Jamestown the body of Pocahontas, in connection with the exposition at that place, has aroused considerable indignation, both in England and in America, by people who believe that such a step is nothing more than a move intended as a side-show feature of the exposition. While it is true there have been instances of a disturbance of a grave made hundreds of years before, as in the recent case of Admiral John Paul Jones, still the cases cannot be compared. One is a man who had much to do with the preservation of the American nation and navy; the other was the central figure in a bit of fiction surrounding the settlement of this country by English settlers. Pocahontas, it is true, was a native American, which John Paul Jones was not, but Pocahontas married an Englishman, lived and died in England, and the traditions of her later life were surrounded by all that is English.

The London Standard, in commenting on the movement to bring her body to America, cites pages from a book by an American writer tending to show that the life of Pocahentas was a tradition and poetical version and adding: "If the original myth is really believed by the people of Jamestown, we only hope they will do something to answer the audacious skeptic that has impugned it."

Toothache or Appendicitis?

A movement looking to the better care of children is spreading. It is proposed now that the tooth brush drill be a part of the curriculum of our schools, and that dentists should visit regularly the children attending them. Doctors have spoken very strongly on the usefulness of taking tonics and similar medicines in order to promote better digestion, or to purify the blood, when a constant system of poisoning is going on in the mouth. It is claimed that much poor blood and weakness in children comes from dental decay. A noted physician declares that appendicitis is caused by bad teeth. Take your choice—either have your teeth extracted or your appendix cut out. The doctors get you either way, going or coming.

To Be Reunited.

"Have you seen my poor, dear little duckling?" asked the distressed but bewitching young mother duck.

"Ah! madame," replied the polite but still hungry fox, "I have inside information on that point; you will soon meet your little one."

STOP LAND-GRABBING.

THE DUTY OF CONGRESS IS TO AMEND FAULTY AND ANTIQUATED LAND LAWS.

President Hill, of the Great Northern Railroad, Calls Attention to Enormous Disposals of Government Land Without Settlement Into Homes.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

There will be people ill-natured enough to charge that President Hill, of the Great Northern Railway, did not come into court with entirely clean hands in the vigorous denunciation of the land-grabbers contained in his recent speech before the National Irrigation Congress at Portland. This, however, does not necessarily detract from the truth of his charges. Perhaps few men in the country are better qualified to speak upon the blighting effects of the dishonest policy which has appropriated millions of acres of valuable lands, only to exclude from them the actual settlers who would have developed them.

President Hill is a railroad manager, and railroads depend for profit upon a traffic afforded by a populous and well-cultivated country. A railroad extending through territory without farms or farmers, towns or industrial communities must suffer serious disadvantages. Where great tracts of land are owned and controlled by mere speculators, development is impossible. It is very likely that President Hill spoke by the card when he charged that those who go upon Government land at this time for the purpose of making homes are only a handful.

Rapid Disposals of Public Lands.

His figures, showing the rapid increase in area of public lands which have passed into private ownership since 1898, possess a significance that is startling. Nearly 90,000,000 acres, a total area equal to three times that of the State of Pennsylvania, have been awarded to private owners in the six years from 1898 to 1903, inclusive, very little of which—according to President Hill—has become the property of homestead seekers. The bulk of it has become the holdings of the lumber kings, cattle barons, and speculators pure and simple. It is evident that there are more men who deserve the penalties of the law which have lately been inflicted upon Senator Mitchell, of Oregon.

The duty of Congress in this connection is unmistakable. The laws under which this vast domain has been secured by private interests with no intention of opening it to development should be repealed or amended to prevent any further looting of the public lands.

The Modern Rush.

From the Chicago Times-Herald.

He didn't have time to chew
  The food that he had to eat;
But he washed it into his throat
  As if time was a thing to beat.
At breakfast and lunch and dinner
  'Twas a bite and a gulp and go—
Oh, the crowd is so terribly eager,
  And a man has to hurry so!
A bite and a gulp and away
  To the books and the ticker! A bite
And a drink and a smoke and a seat
  At a card table half of the night;
A pressure, a click and a pallor,
  A cloth-covered box and a song;
A weary old fellow at forty,
  Who is deaf to the noise of the throng.

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance.

Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the

WHITE

Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars allowed our clients during the last six years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us during the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained in the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees fixed by law and payable out of allowed pension. A successful experience of 25 years and benefit of daily calls at Pension Bureau are at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us claims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Warder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

Gleanings in Bee Culture

teaches you about bees, how to handle them for honey and profit. Send for free copy. Read it. Then you'll want to subscribe. 6 months trial 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Foster's Ideal Cribs
Accident Proof

Agents Wanted

To Canvass for the

United States Senator Number

NOW PUBLISHED.

The issue contains portraits of the

NINETY MEMBERS

two from each State in the Union. This collection was made from recent exclusive sittings for the

BOSTON BUDGET

The Pictures

12 x 8 inches in size

are protected by copyright and can not be reproduced legally elsewhere. The group forms the most valuable collection of statesmen ever offered to the American people. The number will be of unrivalled value to individuals, schools and libraries.

Price 50 Cents Delivered

For terms and other particulars address

The Budget Company,
220 Washington Street,
Boston, Mass.

EXCAVATION WORK
With Greatest Economy
use the
Western Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
Western Wheeled Scraper Co
AURORA, ILL.
Send for Catalog.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Throw Your Bottles and Scales Away

DO YOU KNOW that dirty bottles and scales cause you trouble? Obviate this by using our Developers, put up READY TO USE. Simply empty our tubes into the developing tray and add the water—we don't charge you for the latter. Large quantities of developer made up at one time oxydize and spoil. With our developers you only make up enough for immediate use.

Send 25 cents for half a dozen tubes sufficient for 24 ounces of developer for Velox, Azo, Cyko, Rotox, or other papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and Film Developer—a Developer which will not stain the fingers or nails, and is non-poisonous. We have a Sepia Toner for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICAL COMPANY
11th St. and Penn Ave., Washington, D. C.

CUNNINC

ieutenant-Go sues Address of Alabama.

gives his view

questions.

upon nearly lem before t

the State.

Duties of the Office

A Tension Indicator

IS JUST WHAT THE WORD IMPLIES.

It indicates the state of the tension at a glance. Its use means time saving and easier sewing.

It's our own invention and is found only on the WHITE Sewing Machine.

We have other striking improvements that appeal to the careful buyer. Send for our elegant H. T. catalog.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO.
Cleveland, Ohio.

PENSIONS.

Over one Million Dollars llowed our clients during the last ix years.

Over one Thousand claims allowed through us durng the last six months. Disability, Age and Increase pensions obtained n the shortest possible time. Widows' claims a specialty. Usually granted within 90 days if placed with us immediately on soldier's death. Fees xed by law and payable out of llowed pension. A successful xperience of 25 years and benefit f daily calls at Pension Bureau re at your service. Highest references furnished. Local Magistrates pecuniarily benefited by sending us laims.

TABER & WHITMAN CO.,
Varder Bld'g, Washington, D. C.

leanings in Bee Culture

aches you about bees, how to handle them for ney and profit. Send for free copy. Read it, hen you'll want to subscribe. 6 months al 25c. Don't delay but do it to-day.

A. I. Root Co., Medina, Ohio.

Mason & Hamlin
PIANOS AND ORGANS
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

oster's Ideal
Cribs
Accident Proof

EXCAVATION WORK.
With Greatest Economy use the Vestern Elevating Grader and Ditcher.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.
estern Wheeled Scraper Co.
AURORA, ILL.
d for Catalog.

APHERS
and Scales Away

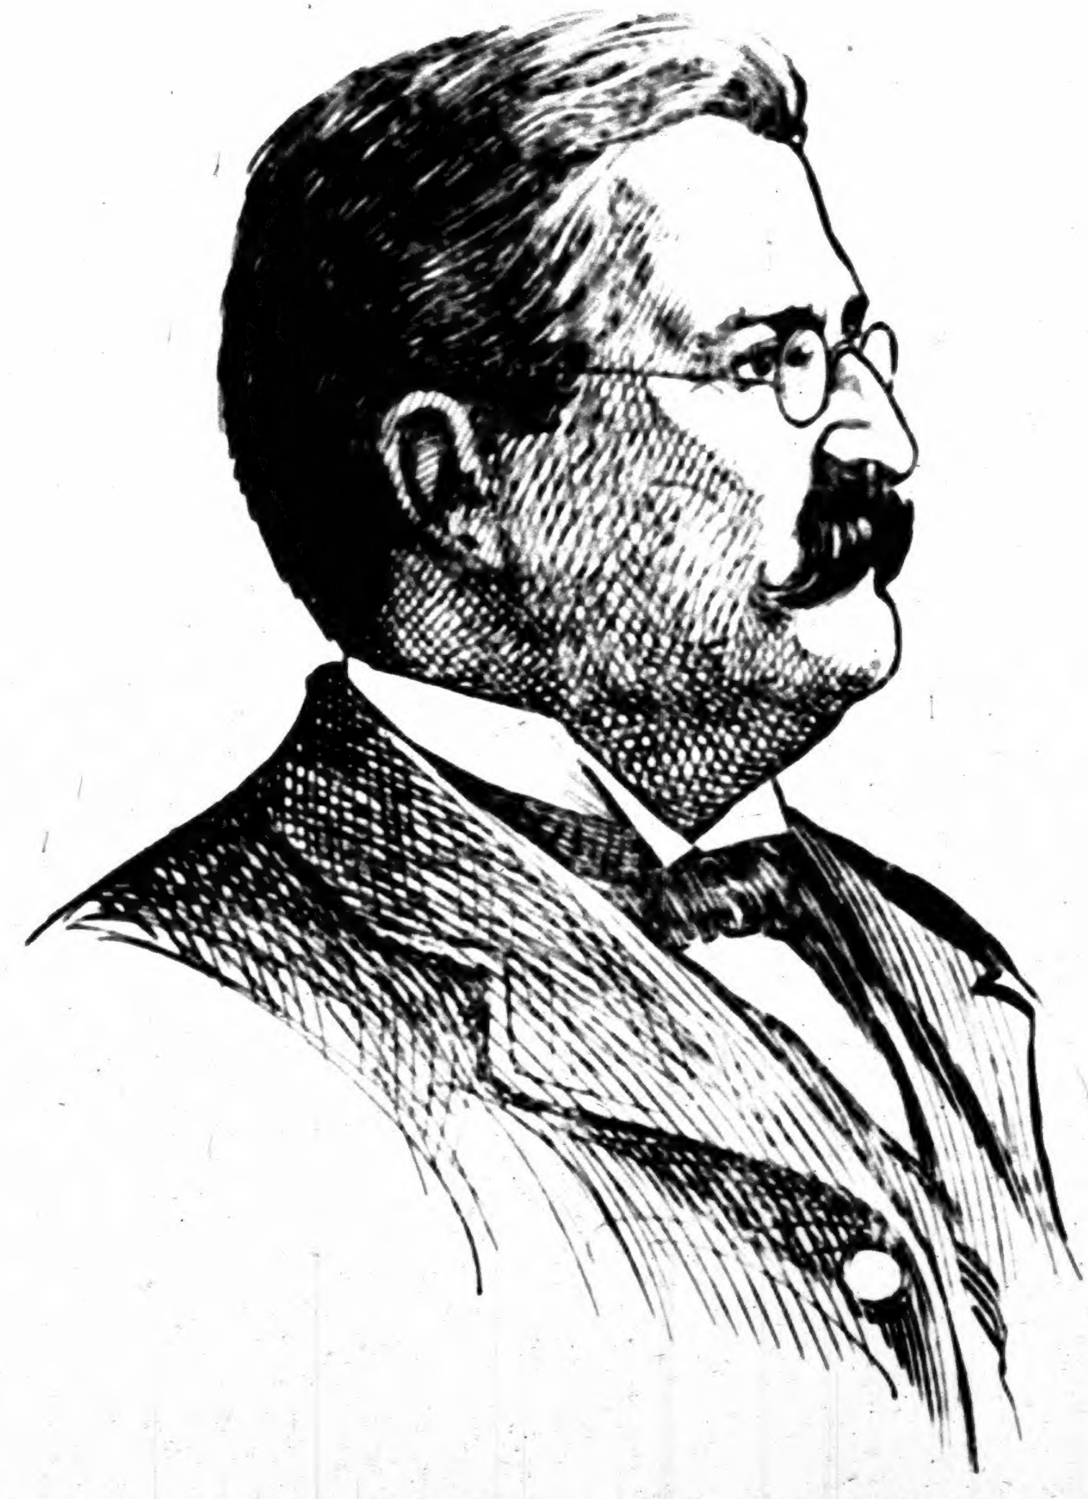
and scales cause you trouble? lopers, put up READY TO USE. eveloping tray and add the water r. Large quantities of developer Vith our developers you only make sufficient for 24 ounces of develo papers, or 60 ounces of Plate and not stain the fingers or nails, and for gaslight papers, 6 tubes, 25c.

CHEMICAL COMPANY
Washington, D. C.

Supplement to CLANTON BANNER

CUNNINGHAM ANNOUNCES FOR GOVERNOR

Lieutenant-Governor Issues Address to the People of Alabama, in which he gives his views on public questions. He touches upon nearly every problem before the voters of the State.



Favors Railroad Rate Reform, and cites his Record on this Issue, which covers Period of 25 Years. He has been Consistent in his Efforts for Freight Rate Reduction.

Dr. Russell M. Cunningham, of Ensley, the Lieutenant Governor of Alabama, has issued the following signed statement in which he announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Dr. Cunningham's announcement, which is herewith printed in full, comes out emphatically in favor of railway regulation; stating specifically that he would, if Governor, "approve a bill establishing the Georgia classification of railroads and Georgia rates for the transportation of property."

Here is Dr. Cunningham's statement, which reviews his political record and makes clear his position on many issues as well as that of railway regulation:

Section 113 of the Constitution of the State of Alabama provides that "The supreme executive power of this State shall be vested in a chief magistrate, who shall be styled 'the Governor of the State of Alabama.'"

The office of Governor is the greatest office under the constitution of the State. It is great because of its duties, responsibilities, power and honor. To measure up to the standard of this office, the Governor ought to be a man of patriotism, honesty, fidelity and ability. For one who may be a candidate for this office to entertain these high ideals appears presumptuous. Let it be remembered, however, that the qualifications of the candidate will be passed upon by those whose duty it is to elect the Governor, and not by the candidate himself.

Duties of the Office.

The lawful duties of the Governor are both constitutional and statutory. Covering all these like a blanket is the constitutional provision that "the Governor shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed." Among other constitutional duties he may require information in writing under oath from the executive officers of the government and officers and managers of State institutions; on extraordinary occasion to convene the legislature; to submit message to the legislature at each session giving information as to the State government and "recommend for its consideration such measures as he may deem expedient;" and shall present to the legislature estimates of the amount of money required to be raised by taxation for all purposes; to remit fines and forfeitures, to reprieve, to commute sentences, pardon and parole, except in cases of impeachment, and to relieve civil and political disabilities of persons convicted of crime; to examine all bills passed by both houses of the legislature and approve, suggest amendments to them, or veto them; to be commander-in-chief of the militia and volunteer forces of the State; to sign all grants and commissions issued by the State. Among the statutory duties are to issue proclamations in all subjects when required by the law, to offer rewards for absconding felons, to issue requisitions; to pass upon requisitions of other States; to order the national guard into camp; to order court-martials; may remove notaries public and ex-officio justices of the peace and notaries public; to fund public debt; to borrow money as provided by law; to order impeachment proceedings in certain cases, and such other suits as may be brought in the name of the State; to employ counsel in certain cases; to approve contracts for public printing, expenditures in convict department, contracts for the employment of convicts, geological surveys, agricultural and insurance departments, and bonds of State officers; to cause removal of insane convicts to hospital for the insane; to cede jurisdiction over lands to United States; to control all property of State except money or evidence of debt; to authorize, when necessary, employment of additional clerks at capitol; to secure copyright of statutes and Supreme Court reports; to supervise offices of State auditor and treasurer; to maintain and defend authority and jurisdiction of State; to appoint three convict inspectors, three examiners of public accounts, State tax commissioner, three mine inspectors, one health examiner, examiner of mine bosses, boards of pharmacy and embalmers State and county pension examiners land agent, special judges and chancellors, trustees of sundry schools and colleges, etc.; to fill by appointment vacancies in the office of the United States Senate, all executive, judicial, county and precinct offices, except circuit clerk and county treasurer. He is a member of the State board of compromise and trustee of sundry colleges and schools; is president of text book commission and of various boards of trustees, and of the State board for assessment of railroads, telegraph and telephone property, and of the State board for the appointment of registrars. There are many other duties not prescribed by law which he must strictly perform.

In submitting my candidacy for the office of Governor to the voters of Alabama who will participate in the Democratic primary for the nomination for Governor, that they may know what qualifications I possess for the office of Governor. I know of no better method to fairly and honestly submit to them for their consideration the principles and policies which would govern me in the discharge of the duties of the office, and to give my views upon leading and important questions involving the interest of the people of the State, and to give also my record in public life upon these matters where I have had an opportunity to make a record.

Political Principles.

I believe in the fundamental principles of Democracy. I believe in party organization, loyalty and authority. I have never voted any other than the straight Democratic ticket.

I have done under the direction of the proper authorities a great deal of canvassing in this State in the interest of Democratic principles, policies and nominees. These services were mainly rendered in the national and State elections of 1896, 1900 and 1902, and for the call and ratification of the new constitution.

I was a member of the General Assembly from the county of Franklin in 1880 and 1881; was physician of the penitentiary from March, 1881, to March, 1885; was State Senator from the county of Jefferson from 1896 to 1898 and was president of that body, session 1898 and 1899; was a member of the constitutional convention from the county of Jefferson 1901; was elected Lieutenant Governor for four years in November, 1902; was acting Governor from the latter part of April, 1904, to March 18, 1905.

I therefore do not go before the people as an untried experiment. I have made a record sufficiently long, broad and diversified to enable the people to judge my patriotism, honesty, fidelity and ability. If there are no others before the people possessing these in a higher degree, I have a right to their support; otherwise I am not entitled to it.

I will now proceed to the discussion of some of the important questions involved in the approaching nomination for the office of Governor.

Supremacy and Enforcement of the Law.

In our present advanced civilization there can be but one authority and but one method to settle the differences among men, and to maintain the "peace and dignity of the State," and to protect individuals, families, communities and society from criminal aggression, and to punish those who commit offenses against person, property, character, rights, society, etc., and that authority and method is the law of the land. Upon this great question there should be universal agreement, and the one covenant of all the people should be to maintain the dignity, majesty and supremacy of the law. My record upon this matter is too recent and well known to require much discussion. While Governor I did everything that could be done under the laws of the State to maintain and enforce the laws thereof.

Executive Clemency.

The policy of executive clemency is intimately associated with the enforcement of law. The power of executive clemency is really appalling and is the one great power of the office of Governor. If there is anything in the world that will send a man who has this power to his knees that he may pour out his heart to Almighty God in prayer and supplication for help and light it is this power when confronted with its exercise or the death of a human being. There should be but one motive and that is the discharge of duty. Duty to the State, society, the law, the lawful tribunals, to the dead, the living and—by no means least—to the unfortunate applicant for executive clemency.

While acting Governor I pardoned twenty-two; paroled thirty-one; commuted and remitted seventeen sentences and forfeitures; and restored seventeen to civil rights. The rules that governed me in the exercise of clemency were as follows:

1. New evidence properly submitted, that established grave and serious doubt of guilt.

2. Extenuating circumstances which in the opinion of the judge or solicitor, or both, justified a lighter punishment than that prescribed by law.

3. When the applicant was convicted of a misdemeanor and had some organic disease which prison confinement would probably augment to a dangerous degree, and when he could not be transferred to a safe and sanitary prison. (This applies especially to persons sentenced to confinement or to hard labor for the county.)

4. Long and continued faithful service with good conduct and having discharged the greater part of a long sentence.

5. Condition of applicant's health, his family and petitions.

Regulation of Railroad Rates.

A question which involves the rights of property assessed for taxes in this State at $54,000,000, and the equitable rights of near 2,000,000 of people cannot be an insignificant and unimportant subject. This matter cannot be, ought not to be, and must not be ignored, supposedly dodged or delayed. On the contrary it must be met and solved rightly to the end that justice and equality may be established and maintained between the common carriers and the people of Alabama. The law, the method and the means must be adequate, certain and efficient. It is with the people whether or not these things come to pass.

Opinions on this question may be classified as follows:

1. That railroads are wholly private property and amenable to the law only as other private property.

2. That railroads are to be operated and controlled by law exclusively for the public benefit.

3. That railroads are private property entitled to a just and fair return upon capital invested in them and in which the people have a lawful, just and equitable interest and are entitled to just, fair and equitable rates for transportation of persons and property.

If railroads are wholly private property amenable to the law only as other property, they can refuse to transport person or property or may charge such rates as to prohibit transportation. Therefore, they could destroy the industry and commerce of any section, community, industry, corporation, firm or individual. Such a theory is undoubtedly selfish and dangerous.

If railroads are wholly for the public benefit, private capital spent in their construction would be denied a just and fair return. Such an opinion is also selfish and dangerous.

If railroads are private property in which the public have an equity there is a mutual relation of reciprocal justice, equity and fair play. This theory is right and it is also the law of the land. It is right because the physical necessities of a railroad require the intervention of the sovereignty of the State in the condemnation of private property for a right of way and also because a railroad is essentially a monopoly in the transportation business for certain communities, areas and districts. Nothing is better established in the science of economics than that a monopoly affords a greater return upon a given expenditure of capital and labor than when competition exists.

The law, as I understand it, is as follows:

1. There is Federal and State constitutional authority for the regulation of railroad rates.

2. For the regulation of inter-state commerce the authority is the Congress of the United States.

3. For the regulation of intra-state commerce, that is within the State, the authority is the legislature.

4. That these authorities may indirectly regulate railroad rates by establishing a tribunal for that purpose, for example, a commission.

5. That the power of these authorities is limited as to the degree of regulation and that the regulation must be in accordance with certain rules, and procedure which have been established by law.

Fair and Just Return.

These rules and procedure relate to a fair and just return upon the capital invested in railroad properties, to the elements of value, in intra-state regulation, to the earnings within the State relating to the value of the property, the cost of its operation and the gross and net earnings, etc. These various factors in the problem of the regulation of railroad rates have been fixed and determined by the courts and are therefore the law of the land.

There are two methods advocated for the regulation of transportation rates, to wit: commercial and governmental. The principle of commercial regulation is competition and the reciprocal relation that exists between the common carrier and its patrons. The principles of governmental regulation is the authority of law to establish and maintain by law justice and equality between the common carrier and its patrons.

Mr. Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern Railway, delivered a very thoughtful address upon this subject before the annual convention of the Southern Hardware Jobbers' Association. He discussed more particularly inter-state rates. Speaking of inter-state rates he says:

"The development of the iron industries of Alabama and Tennessee was made possible only by the making of low freight rates from those regions to the portions of the country where iron and its products are consumed in the largest quantities."

He further says:

"Rates upon the raw materials necessary for the operation of the Alabama furnaces were made unprecedentedly low, in order that those furnaces might be built, might continue to run at low cost, compete in distant markets and build up a trade against powerful competitors already intrenched in wealth and resources, and situated nearer the established markets."

There could not be cited a more conspicuous illustration of the power of railroads to develop and build up a country, nor a more conspicuous example of the benefits of low rates, and in the present prosperous condition of the iron industry in this State, and in the enormous tonnage furnished the railroads for transportation, is found an apt illustration of the reciprocal benefits accruing to both producers and carriers by the observance of mutual interest. Commercial rate-making, therefore, is a good thing when it is fair and equitable, but a bad thing when it is unfair and inequitable. Therefore, governmental regulation and supervision is the better, indeed the essential policy.

Favors Rate Regulation.

I am heartily in favor of the regulation by law of railroad rates in the State of Alabama, and, if Governor, would so recommend to the legislature.

Section 243 of the constitution of Alabama confers this power directly upon the legislature. I am of the opinion that the following legislation would result in the regulation by law of railroad rates and in the maintenance of justice and equity between the carriers and the people.

(1). The enactment of a law classifying the railroads of this State and fixing maximum rates on these roads to be charged for certain distances for transportation of classified kinds of property.

(2). The enactment of a law conferring upon the railroad commission plenary power to further regulate, adjust and fix rates; to send for persons and papers and to have access to the records of the railroads in order that they may learn the facts as to the value, earnings, expenses of operating, etc., and all other information necessary to the just and equitable fixing of rates; that the rates when fixed by the commission shall go into effect at once, or at such time as the commission may fix; a liberal appropriation subject to the order of the commission for the employment of expert evidence, clerical force and of counsel to defend their findings in the courts; in the case of appeal, or injunction proceeding instituted by the railroads, the railroads to be required to deposit with the State lawful money of the United States or such security as the commission may approve equal to the difference estimated by the commission in the rates fixed by the commission and that charged by the railroads; if the contention of the railroads is sustained by the courts, the money or security to be returned; but if the rates fixed by the commission are sustained, the money deposited with the State to be distributed among the shippers who paid the unfair rates pending the decision of the courts; and adequate penalties for the violation of the law, and adequate means for its enforcement. In addition to these laws acts regulating the car service and providing for the prompt adjustment of claims.

I am in favor of such legislation, and all legislation as may be necessary that the sovereign State of Alabama may exercise its authority in fixing just and equitable railroad rates and in maintaining and enforcing its mandates. I am now, and have always been, opposed to a railroad commission with advisory powers only. An old definition of law is: "Power to command that which is right and prohibit that which is wrong." A law which is merely advisory is an absurdity and a farce.

As to whether there is inequity in railroad rates in this State there is unfortunately a difference of opinion among those constituting the tribunal provided by law for the investigation and regulation of rates. Yet there is agreement among them as to some of the facts. The associate commissioners in their opinion rendered say: "It was further shown by the evidence that the average of all rates in classes A to F and 1 to 6 for distances from five to three hundred miles applicable over all lines in Georgia as compared with the average of all rates applicable over all lines in the State of Alabama is greater in Alabama by 4.39 per cent."

Opinion of President.

The president of the commission in his opinion says: "A comparison of the freight rates of Alabama on the following articles of common product, manufacture, and uses, namely, lumber and the products of lumber, brick, lime, cement, marble, fruit jars, melons, meat, lard, soap, potatoes, rice, molasses, cotton, cotton seed, cotton seed meal and hulls, fertilizer, cotton ties and bagging, domestics, cotton rope, ground peas, grain, hay, flour, scrap iron, nails, barbed wire, wire fence and fencing, iron pipe, farm wagons, horses, mules, cattle, sheep and hogs, coffee, sugar, ice, bran, dry goods, boots and shoes, was made with the freight tax paid by the Georgia manufacturer, producer and consumer on the same railroads and same class roads in Georgia and Alabama, and it was shown that Alabama freight tax was 20 to 120 per cent. higher than the Georgia freight tax."

As to the conditions which must be considered in fixing rates in the two States, Alabama and Georgia, the associate commissioners, after quoting the Nebraska case as it bears upon the point, say:

"The testimony upon this hearing disclosed that the very points of dissimilarity mentioned by the courts as existing between Iowa and Nebraska, visible, greater earnings per mile, and increased population per mile in Iowa exists between the States of Georgia and Alabama, the former showing greater earnings than upon Alabama lines, and on the whole more population per mile of road."

On this point the president of the commission says: "Both are agricultural States and alongside of each other, and have nearly the same population—Alabama has 37 inhabitants to the square mile, and Georgia has 39; Alabama produced last year 350 bales of cotton to the railroad mile, Georgia 335; Alabama has 425 population to the railroad mile, Georgia 335. Alabama has more tonnage from the Birmingham district alone than the whole State of Georgia, and will call attention to the Nebraska cases cited in the majority report. Iowa which has a much less freight rate than Alabama, has 230 population to the railroad mile, while Alabama has 425."

As to what may be expected in the final adjustment of this problem in the State of Alabama, I quote the president of the commission, who says: "It was in evidence that the same citation of the law and court decision and the same statements of earnings and poverty conditions was used by the railroads before the railroad commission of Virginia, Carolina and Georgia, and yet these commissions established classification of freight and enforced a freight rate much lower than ours—a rate lower than the railroads claimed they could stand, yet the history of those States, which was in evidence, showed that both the railroads and States were prosperous."

From the evidence at my disposal it is clear to me that three facts are established:

1. The rates in Alabama are higher than in many other Southern States.

2. That all the conditions which enter the problem of rate-making are more favorable to a reduction of freight rates in Alabama than are the conditions in the State of Georgia.

3. That if the legislature or the railroad commission of Alabama reduce the rates in Alabama to a rate as low, or even lower, than they are in the State of Georgia the courts will sustain the reduction.

Therefore, I would, if Governor, approve a bill establishing the Georgia classification of railroads and Georgia rates for the transportation of property.

Record on Question.

My record on this subject began in 1881, when I voted for the Langdon bill, H. 171. This bill conferred upon the commission all the powers necessary to regulate and fix freight rates in this State. I opposed the substitute adopted by the Senate, which practically destroyed the power of the act and made the commission advisory. I opposed the report of the conference committee, which, in effect, sustained the Senate's substitute. (See House Journal, pages 549, 665 and 686 and 731 and 740.) When in the Senate, session 1896-7, I voted for the Boykin bill, S. 237, which was a bill providing for the fixing and enforcement of rates, and for the election by the people of the railroad commission. (See Senate Journal, page 687.) On the last day of the session House bill 402, "To prevent overcharges on freight rates, etc.," was brought up for consideration. It was perfectly apparent that it was impossible to pass this bill owing to its being the last day of the session, when the calendar was crowded with so much unfinished business. A motion was made to table this bill, which motion prevailed. I voted with the majority. What this bill provided I do not recall. (See Senate Journal, page 1080.) As the president of the Senate during the last session of the Legislature, while the bill providing for the election of railroad commissioners, etc., was pending, a motion was made to amend the bill in such a was as to provide for the election of the commissioners in 1906, instead of 1904. On a motion to table this amendment the vote was a tie. I voted "aye" and tabled the amendment. (Senate Journal, page 559.) Had I not thus voted the motion to table would have been lost and the next question would have been the adoption of the amendment. Had the vote in that case been a tie, it would have been in my power to have voted "aye," and thus defeated the election of the commissioners in 1904. (The act was afterwards amended so as to provide for the election of the associate commissioners in 1906, which I opposed.) On the last day of my administration of the office of Governor I wrote a letter to the railroad commissioners calling their attention to the importance of the question of regulation of rates and urging them to act, and gave it as my opinion that if they failed to do so it would be the duty of the Governor to convene the legislature in special session. My reasons for writing this letter were the following:

"The tribunal authorized by law to act and regulate the rates had failed at that time to investigate and to reduce rates, if in their judgment, such action was justified.

2. The rates submitted by the president of the commission, in my judgment, showed great inequity of the rates in this State.

3. The constitution provides specifically that the legislature has authority and power to fix and regulate rates. Therefore, if the tribunal already provided for that purpose refused or failed then it would be the duty of the Governor to convene the legislature that they might directly legislate upon the subject.

4. There is some doubt as to the validity of the act providing a railroad commission in this State, and if that be true, then there ought to be an amendment to the constitution providing for a railroad commission.

After studying the subject more fully I am persuaded that the circumstances then existing constituted an "extraordinary occasion," as provided by the constitution, and after reading the opinions of the associate commissioners and of the president of the commission I believe that the "extraordinary occasion" still exists, and if Governor I would communicate with the legislature and if a constitutional majority agreed with me I would convene them in extra session for the purpose of legislating directly for the fixing and regulation of railroad rates.

It seems to me that I have a fairly consistent record covering a period of twenty-five years upon the question of the regulation of railroad rates.

Pension for Soldiers.

All who love patriotism, admire valour, honor duty, respect devotion, appreciate loyalty to conviction and revere age, must feel an interest in the old soldiers of the State. In all of these qualities the Confederate soldier is a shining and conspicuous example. The cause for which he fought was the right of self-government and the perpetuation of the institutions of his State by the exercise of this right. He lost his cause, but he wrote his name by his valour, loyalty and courage in letters of living light which shall endure forever. Returning home to his poverty-stricken State he set his face to the future, and has faithfully and effectually met every obligation and has overcome every obstacle. Among these heroes of the South are many who ar eunably to wholly support themselves. These should be provided for by the State to the very best of its ability. The law provides a tax of 10 cents on the $100 for the old soldiers. This will raise under our present assessment about $325,000. I am in favor of appropriating for the next four years at least the present appropriation, which is an addition to the special fund for the benefit of the old soldiers.

Regarding Education.

The merits of education require no discussion here. There are few people who do not concede its advantages and even necessity.

The State funds for the common schools consists of the moneys raised by the three mill tax to-wit: 30 cents out of the 65 cents tax rate on the $100 of property, the poll tax and the interest on the Sixteenth section fund. These are permanent appropriations. In addition to this the counties may levy a one mill tax, or 10 cents on the $100 worth of property, when voted by the people. Many of the counties of the State have already voted this tax and the probability is that within a year or two nearly all of the counties will have voted the tax. The cities and towns of the State make additional appropriations for the public schools. The only source for further appropriations to the schools is out of any surplus that may be in the State treasury. Should such a surplus exist, and I am informed that it does, I am in favor of appropriating it to the common schools of the State. I am in favor, however, of an appropriation of not less than $50,000 to build an additional dormitory for the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo. The students of this school are young ladies who are being taught an occupation to enable them to make a living. It seems to me that the necessity and advantages of this school should appeal to all our people. I am in favor of every dollar paid into the State treasury from the fertilizer tax being appropriated wholely in the interest of agriculture in this State. In addition to the agricultural schools now established for teaching the science and art of agriculture farmers' institutes and assemblies should be held in every county of the State at which lectures, demonstrations and illustrations could be employed for the instruction of the farmers of Alabama in the science and art of their business.

My record on the subject of education has been wholly in its interest. I have uniformly supported all appropriations for the schools of the State and for the improvement and betterment of the public school system. I have also done what I could in discussing before the public questions of educational interest.

Emigration.

The development, progress and destiny of any commonwealth depend upon two things, to-wit:

1. The physical, intellectual and moral character of its people—their aspiration, ambition, skill and energy.

2. The natural resources and environment of the commonwealth.

In my judgment the policy of Alabama should be to increase its white population and to gradually diminish its colored population. To do this two things are necessary, to-wit:

1. To keep our own white population in the State by making our State so attractive as to cause our boys and girls to remain in the State.

2. To bring into the State desirable immigrants who will make good citizens, build homes and who are capable of assimilation with our people.

As to the character of these immigrants, the formula of Grote should be kept in mind, to-wit: "The fellowship of blood, the fellowship of religion, the fellowship of language, and the fellowship of custom." Of these the "fellowship of blood" is absolutely essential, and the fellowship of religion very important. Therefore, immigrants from the countries from which our own ancestors came, e. g., England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Germany, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, France, etc., are desirable. I do not think that people who differ from us in all of the elements necessary to a homegeneous people should be encouraged or permitted to come among us. I am opposed to the immigration of the Mongolian races, nor do I believe it best to introduce into our States races and nations who worship a different God from us.

I shall not take the time to quote statistics to demonstrate the great importance of immigration to this State. I have discussed this question fully before the Alabama commercial organization at its annual meeting last year in Anniston.

Regulation of Liquor Business.

The necessity for regulation of this business is recognized and accepted. The methods adopted in this State are prohibition, dispensary and high license saloon. The policy adopted is to confine this regulation to prescribed limits, e. g., counties, precincts, cities, towns, etc. The principle governing this regulation is local option. Heretofore the regulation of the liquor traffic has been through local legislation. I subscribe to the principle of local option, and such has been my record on this question. I favor a general law that will enable the people of localities, as may be prescribed by law, to vote upon this question, and settle for themselves what they want, whether that be prohibition, dispensary or saloon. As to what shall constitute the locality or unit, whether a county, precinct or incorporated city or town, there is a difference of opinion. In my judgment it ought to be the county and incorporated city or town, that is to say, that an election may be ordered for the whole county or for any incorporated city or town in the county.

Convict System.

In the administration of any convict system the following points should be kept in mind: humanity, revenue, equity to free labor and reformation of the convict.

In the present convict system established by Governor Jelks and managed by him and the able board of convict inspectors appointed by him all these points are favored. This is particularly true as to the revenue. This new system alone will make the administration of Governor Jelks one of the best in the State's history. The present surplus in the State's treasury is mainly due to this source. There is also greater humanity and a more equitable distribution of the competition with free labor and an effort made at reformation, especially of the younger convicts. As an illustration of the difference in the revenue between the new and old system, the net earnings of each convict at Pratt mines under the new system is about $35 per month, while under the old it was about $10 per month—a difference of $25 per month on each convict employed at mine labor in favor of the new system. This profit now goes into the State treasury while formerly it went to the profits of the contractors. The system is now earning over and above all expenses about $300,000 a year.

From March, 1881, to December 31, 1902, I was associated more or less in an official and professional capacity with the convict system of the State. What I accomplished in the reformation of the old system by improvement in sanitation and in the treatment of the sick I shall pass over and will refer those interested upon this subject to the reports on the convict system.

As a legislator my record on this question I think will show that I can claim, without boasting presumption or infringement upon the credit due to Governor Jelks, to be the author of the new system. Senate bill 104, which was introduced by me into the Senate, contained among other things the following important provisions: the abolition of the lease and county convict system; the establishment of a manufacturing, mining, agricultural and invalid department; the establishing of a board of managers consisting of a general manager, superintendent of mines, superintendent of farms, a medical director and a jail inspector. Convicts allowable for work in mines were limited to 25 per cent. of the whole number of convicts and the State was authorized to work them as follows:

1. To mine coal for the owners of mines at an agreed price per ton, the coal to be delivered on the tipple, that is to say, on the outside of the mine.

2. To mine coal for owners of mines at an agreed price per ton, the coal to be delivered at the mouth of the room in the coal mine.

3. To hire convicts at an agreed price per class to coal operators, the State maintaining and retaining entire control of the convicts.

4. To lease coal lands and open and operate mines on State account.

This bill passed the Senate but was defeated in the House. Had it become a law it would have netted the State between January, 1898, and January, 1903, at least a million dollars more than was netted under the old system. The system adopted by Governor Jelks is in accordance with the first, second and third forms of employment above suggested. For the reasons why this system should be a success and for its necessity, the reader is referred to a report of a joint committee which was prepared by me and which is printed in the Senate and House Journals, session 1896. Governor Jelks has thoroughly demonstrated the wisdom and practicability of this policy.

While acting Governor the board of inspectors with my approval refused to hire convicts under the old system to the saw mills, but made contracts with them in accordance with the new system. The convict lease system, therefore, has been practically abolished so far as the State convicts are concerned.

I think, however, that the problem will not be fully solved until the State is wholly independent of private interests. While acting Governor I endeavored to lease coal lands from the University and Girls' Industrial school for the purpose of opening and operating coal mines on State account. I had not succeeded when I retired from the office. If elected Governor I shall endeavor to wholly separate the State from private interests in the operation of the convict system.

County Convict System.

The county convict system is a disgrace to the State and should be abolished. I favor its abolition and to provide for the protection of the fine and forfeiture fund of the several counties of the State; that 30 per cent of the net revenue derived from the whole convict system to be returned to the counties in accordance with the earnings of the convicts from the several counties, to be placed to the credit of the fine and forfeiture fund. If this is done all the court officers will receive their costs in full, and in a short time the deficit in the fine and forfeiture fund of the several counties would be abolished and witnesses could be paid in cash instead of script, which script is now bought up by scalpers. What has been done for the State convicts can be and ought to be done for those who are sentenced to hard labor for the county.

There are many other matters of importance, but it is impossible to discuss them all in one address, nor is it possible to discuss fully the policy that should be adopted in the discharge of all of the duties of the executive. I desire, however, to call attention to some of them.

Official Appointments.

In the filling of offices required by law to be filled by executive appointment, I would try to select one of my friends who is in every way worthy and well qualified to discharge the duties of the office, to the credit of the appointing, to his own honor and to the satisfaction of the people.

In filling vacancies in office as provided by law I would insist that the applicant be honest, of good character and capable. With that settled, I should be governed by endorsement.

I believe that United States Senators should be elected by the people. This cannot be done under the constitution of the United States. The next best thing is for political parties to nominate their candidates in a primary to be voted for by members of the legislature. If it be a good thing to nominate candidates to be elected by the legislature to the United States Senate, is it not also a good thing to nominate a candidate to be appointed by the Governor to the United States Senate? In my opinion, both are good things. Therefore, if the executive committee of my party were to order a primary to nominate a candidate to be appointed by the Governor to the United States Senate, in the event such an appointment became necessary, I would appoint the nominee of my party. If no such primary were ordered, I would appoint one of my friends who is in line with the public sentiment of the State, and who, in my judgment, would be acceptable to the people, and who would be their choice, as expressed by their endorsement.

Board of Compromise.

This board consists of the Governor, auditor and attorney general. A great many things arise that come before this board. In my judgment the jurisdiction of that board is confined to the adjustment of claims, etc., under the law, and that the board has no authority or power to suspend or modify the law. Entertaining this view, I refused to compromise the mortgage tax on a large mortgage given on a railroad basing the compromise upon the mileage of road in this State. I also refused to compromise with the foreign corporations in the payment of the franchise tax, as provided by law, because of the probable unconstitutionality of the law. I also refused to compromise with the custodians of public money who put their money in a bank which subsequently failed, the law not authorizing the deposit of public moneys in banks. In the case of the railroad mortgage tax and the bank failure there was certain equity, but to have compromised would not have adjusted a claim or a difference, but simply have suspended the law.

The Examination of Books of Public Officers.

This is a very important work of the executive department of the government and in my judgment should be continued. These examinations should be systematic and in regular order, and should be done without favor or prejudice. When a State examiner was asked by the court of county commissioners to examine the books of county officers in matters relating to the county, I required the county to pay the expense. When this examination was made in compliance with the request of the statutory number of citizens the State paid the expense. Many thousand dollars have been recovered to the State by these examinations, and many errors and mistakes entirely innocent of moral delinquency are through these examinations corrected.

Tax Commission.

When a member of the Senate I supported the bill known as the "back tax law." This is a very important department in the State government, and in my judgment should be continued. The policy adopted by me was to leave the appointment of the county tax commissioners wholly to the State tax commissioner as provided by law, and in approving his appointment I was governed entirely by the efficiency of the appointee where he had been in office before.

Approval of Expenditures.

The strictest economy should be practiced in all the departments of the State government consistent with efficient service. In the matter of the expenses incurred in the transportation of prisoners back to the State who had absconded from the State, I was perhaps rather liberal in that I felt it to be the duty of the State to give the criminal class notice that if they committed crime in this State and absconded that the power of the State would be employed to effect their return, trial and punishment.

Conclusion.

It is a well known fact that my name has been frequently mentioned in connection with the office of Governor. I have never asked a man in my life to vote for me for this office. Neither have I ever authoritatively announced my candidacy. I believe the time has arrived when I should make known definitely my intentions. I have therefore prepared this address that the people of the State may form some idea as to my fitness for the office and as to my views upon questions of public interest. I have had a great deal of assurance throughout the State of support in the event that I offered for the office of Governor. I am in favor of a primary for the nomination of State officers. I expect to support for the United State Senate our present distinguished Senators, General Morgan and General Pettus, provided they offer as their own successors. I shall not run as a candidate of any special interest. I have very little money of my own to spend in the campaign, nor can I accept contributions to a campaign fund from any interest which may be specially interested in the office of Governor. In my judgment, any funds expended from whatever source derived, other than the strictest legitimate campaign purposes, is against the letter and spirit of the constitution and good morals. I shall not promise to appoint any man to office nor make any pledge to serve any special or particular interest. Of all men in the State the Governor should be absolutely free and independent in the discharge of the duties of his office. There should be only one obligation resting upon him, and that is the patriotic, honest, faithful, and able discharge of duty.

While acting Governor I made it a rule to listen to everybody and take orders from nobody. If elected Governor of the State such would continue to be my policy. I am a practicing physician and have to make my living, and it is impossible for me to engage in an active campaign for twelve months. After the executive committee meets and fixes the plan for the nomination I shall actively enter the canvass, and it will be my purpose to go into every county of the State. My aspirations for the office of Governor are based upon a legitimate ambition and a sense of duty and loyalty to my State and friends who have offered their support and urged me to offer for Governor. If in the course of the campaign I am convinced that in this aspiration there is nothing left but ambition, I shall not run for Governor.

Alabama is a great State and it is doing well and progressing rapidly. In my judgment all that can be done by the executive department of the government has been done, and is being done by Governor Jelks and his able associates in the executive offices. If elected to the high office of Governor I shall endeavor, praying the blessings of God upon my efforts, to do all that I can to continue and further the upbuilding of our State.

R. M. CUNNINGHAM.

THE FATTED CALF.

(By Sharp Findlay.)

The other morning I strolled into the Union depot and, feeling somewhat fatigued, took a seat in the gentlemen's waiting room. An old man occupied a seat near me. His head was bowed and he seemed to be in deep thought.

I had only been in the room a few moments when Clapperton, a newspaper reporter, sauntered in. He gazed curiously about him, and shortly his eyes fell upon the old gentleman with the bowed head. One of Clapperton's cherished delusions was that he could write stories from real life whose interest would transcend the wildest efforts of pure imagination, and in his alertness for material frequently walked in where angels might reasonably be supposed to halt delicately on the threshold. His eyes lighted up with the fire of a noble genius, and he approached the old man with all the freedom of an old acquaintance.

"Fine morning," he observed, taking a seat at the stranger's side.

The old man raised his head drearily.

"It is?" he said.

"You bet it is," bubbled the reporter; "going somewhere?"

"No."

"Oh; waiting to meet some one."

The old man nodded affirmatively.

"Fine day for traveling. What train she get in on?"

"He arrives on the 10:40."

"That's the flyer, too; generally on time, though. How long since you saw your brother?"

"My boy has been away six years."

"Oh, your son. Long time to stay away from home. Suppose you have slaughtered the fatted calf and stand ready to have your neck fell on?" and Clapperton laughed delightfully—not, however, at his notion of the correctness of the English language.

The old man made no reply.

"Fine thing to have a son, I suppose," continued the genius; "kinder lean on him in your old age, you know. Good boy, this son of yours, no doubt?"

"He was a splendid lad when I saw him last," the old man replied, "handsome, kind and brave. I was very proud of him."

"And so you should be, as I have often remarked to my father. What business he in?"

"He was braking on a railroad."

"Quit his job?"

"Yes."

"Better things in sight, eh? Maybe you are going to set him up in business. Braking is rather hazardous work."

"Yes, it is," the old man assented wearily, "but I shall not set him up in business now."

"Make him wait a while, eh? Well, perhaps you are not far wrong—appreciate it more after roughing it some. Train about due, isn't it?"

"I think so."

"Like to see the young fellow," said Clapperton; "here's my card. Give him a write-up this afternoon. Six years since you've seen him, eh?"

"Six years."

"Long time to be away. But that's the train pulling in now."

They went out together and I followed. They stood against the wall, watching the passengers come through the big gate. But the old man did not move, or rush forward to grasp the hand of his son. The last passenger came out, still he stood in silence.

"Must have got left," suggested Clapperton.

"Wait a minute; he'll be along directly," the old man said, and I detected something in his voice that I am sure escaped the reporter.

A moment later the old man pointed to a baggage truck which was being hauled along inside the railing.

"That's him," he said.

It was loaded with a coffin.

SEASON FOR PLANTING FRUIT TREES IS NOW

Ground Should be Carefully Prepared. Marked Advantage Obtained by Early Planting. Stock Should be Kept Out of Orchard.

By Fulton S. White.

This is the season of the year when the planting of fruit threes should be looked after. The trees in the nurseries will soon be ready to take up and plant. So that the land intended for fruit trees should be prepared at once if it has not already been. It is far better to prepare the soil before planting by fertilizing, subsoiling where needed, and put in tile drainage where necessary. This work can all be done much more cheaply before planting than it can after the trees are on the land and in the way.

There seems to be an unusual interest at this time in fruit growing, and many orchards will be planted this season. A thorough preparation of the soil and a wise selection of trees is the surest road to success. Now I find that the planter must be largely governed by the local and soil conditions in the planting of an orchard. Our readers nearly all live where the soil is a heavy clay or has a clay subsoil, so that what I may say here will apply to such soils. Out in sections of the west where the soil is a deep sandy one, different methods of planting may be required. Only a few days ago I was reading advice given by a nurseryman out west, who recommended taking a large hammer or post mall and packing the dirt hard around the tree, as we would do for setting a fence post. This plan might work all right for the sands of his section, but it is not the plan for our clay soils in the east, where the soil will settle around the roots of the trees without any packing.

These heavy clay soils should be broken deep by subsoiling, the soil made very fine, and the holes for the trees dug so that the trees may set just a little deeper than they grew in the nursery. The holes should be dug large enough so that the roots of the trees may be set out straight and not doubled up. All broken roots should be cut off, and often some of the longer roots will need to be cut back.

Setting the Trees.

After preparing the holes and pruning the trees, both roots and tops are needed; set the tree in the hole, spreading the roots out, then fill in around the tree with fine rich dirt from the surface. When the holes are filled, the soil may be pressed firmly around the treet with the feet. As stated before, much of the success will depend upon the right start, planting right and cultivating right after the trees are planted.

Last spring I set sixty apple trees, filling in my orchard where trees had died out from neglect. I have fifty-seven of the sixty still growing, and I think if I had selected the trees myself at the nursery I could have saved every one. It is much more difficult to get trees to grow in an old orchard than where we are commencing anew. This instruction is all right for all varieties of fruit trees.

There is quite an advantage in planting in the fall or early winter, but trees should not be taken up until they finish the season's growth and the wood has hardened. Some of the advantages of planting in early winter or late fall are: First, it then does not have to be done in the spring, when there is always a rush of work, and there are generally spring rains which either cause delay or cause the trees to have to be planted in the mud, a thing that should never be done; second, when trees are properly planted in the late fall or early winter they will start a good growth during the rainy winter season and be more able to resist the summer's heat and drouth in case we should have a dry summer following; and, third, the planter can generally have his pick of trees in the fall, which advantage he does not always get when buying in the spring.

Tree Protection.

After the trees a[illegible] have to be wat[illegible] protected from [illegible] and insects. Hea[illegible] should be used [illegible] prevent the rabb[illegible] gnawing the bark [illegible] The orchard should [illegible] ery week to see th[illegible] right and that n[illegible] the trees. Fruit [illegible] other class of work on a [illegible] pay in proportion [illegible] work and care given the trees.

Now, also, is the [illegible] orchards that were planted [illegible] son and see that [illegible] worms or insects are stored away on the [illegible] or under the bark. I have just [illegible] ed to mine, have cleaned out all [illegible] pillars and webs from the trees [illegible] have taken away all trash and [illegible] which might harbor mice or [illegible] This is also a good time to [illegible] the soil for the growth of the [illegible] My orchard is planted in cow [illegible] which have shaded the soil and helped the trees to make a [illegible] growth. The cow pea is the [illegible] be grown in a young orchard.

This subject is more fully [illegible] in my bulletin, "Apple and [illegible] Growing," which will be mailed [illegible] on application.

I want to repeat that if we [illegible] make fruit growing a success, [illegible] for home or commercial use, we [illegible] take care of the trees.

Few Seasonable Hints.

The fruit orchard is not the [illegible] matter that should be looked af[illegible] this season. Soils for asparagus [illegible] should be prepared and the [illegible] soil as fast as crops are taken [illegible] should be cleaned, fertilized, [illegible] and made ready for an early [illegible] the next spring. Then again, [illegible] the time for sowing a line of [illegible] and grasses, as well as grains for [illegible] ter pastures. Rye and barley for [illegible] ter pasture should have been [illegible] some weeks ago, yet it may still [illegible] sown to good advantage. Cri[illegible] clover should now be sown as [illegible] as possible.

This is, or should be, the [illegible] time on all farms. There are [illegible] to harvest, new crops and orchar[illegible] plant and the supply of winter [illegible] tables to be looked after. Stock [illegible] pecially the dairy cows, will [illegible] special attention at this season.

Western Crops.

I am now touring the two [illegible] tories, Indian and Oklahoma, h[illegible] farmers' conventionshrdlufm0 [illegible] farmers' meetings and giving [illegible] from our Frisco Educational [illegible] Grain Exhibit car. The attend[illegible] has been large at most places, and [illegible] farmers are taking great interest [illegible] our work. The crops in this co[illegible] are very good. The corn crop is [illegible] of the best ever grown in this sect[illegible] The cotton crop is late and [illegible] time yet to mature. However, [illegible] ing is now in progress in nearly [illegible] cotton growing sections, and the [illegible] are starting up. This year's crop [illegible] fall short of that of last year. T[illegible] has been an abundance of rain [illegible] there are plenty of fruits, vegeta[illegible] and grasses all over the country.

I was with the people at Shawnee [illegible] their fair one day last week and [illegible] very much surprised at their exhib[illegible] Stalks of corn twenty-two feet h[illegible] were shown and many stalks measur[illegible] ing thirteen feet to the first ear. [illegible] exhibit of corn and cotton was [illegible] fine, also the exhibits of both [illegible] and Irish potatoes.

I had the pleasure of addressing [illegible] people Thursday and Thursday [illegible] ing. The attendance was very lar[illegible] A great many samples of grains, [illegible] ses, potatoes, fruits and vegetab[illegible] were donated to our car. The [illegible] of cow peas and peanuts are fine.

Nut Salad.

Nuts Lettuce
Cucumber Dressing.

Wash nice, crisp lettuce leaves, place over them ground nuts (pecans preferred) and finely-cut fresh cucumbers, and serve with salad dressing or olive oil.

Cress and Cabbage Salad.

Cabbage Radishes
Water Cress Hygia Dressing.

Line salad bowl with finely sliced cabbage; cover this with water cress, and so on until bowl is filled. Decorate with tuliped radishes and [illegible] with dressing.

Boiled Salad Dressing.

Mix the yolks of three eggs, [illegible] double boiler, one teaspoonful of [illegible] tard, one half teaspoonful of salt, [illegible] one-quarter teaspoonful of pap[illegible] slowly add two tablespoonfuls each [illegible] lemon juice and vinegar, and four [illegible] blespoonfuls of melted butter. C[illegible] until the consistency of soft c[illegible] then cool. When ready to serve, [illegible] one-half cupful of rich cream [illegible] stiff.

A VICTIM OF CIRCUM

My servant showed her in, and I [illegible] a start, for the new patient was [illegible] Varnay, the charming young [illegible] of whom all the country, the [illegible] section of it, at least, [illegible] talking. Here was a sad face, [illegible] had been deep trouble there, I [illegible] as I asked her to sit down. [illegible] voice was extremely musical.

"Dr. Raymond," she said, "I have [illegible] told that you were a specialist on [illegible] and, therefore, I came to ask [illegible] if you could do anything for me. [illegible] feel the strain, and then——" She [illegible] herself quickly.

"Your profession is a very arduous [illegible] madam."

"Yes; and yet to me the world has [illegible] kind. But I was told that, per[illegible] you could authorise me to take [illegible]"—handing me a slip of paper, con[illegible] on it the name of a drug—"as [illegible] stimulant—harmless, I believe, and [illegible] efficacious than other medicines. [illegible] was tired out last night with the new [illegible] and I have so much to do—so [illegible] Tell me, could you recommend [illegible]?" And there was a quaint, appealing [illegible] in her voice.

"Humph! I'm not sure. It is only [illegible] the experimental stage as yet. Still, [illegible] might have the effect you wish. One [illegible] though, to proceed very cautiously with a drug like that."

"Oh, yes," she said eagerly. "But, of course, I will be careful. I promise that."

"Then let me see," I said, and I walked across the room to my desk, where I wrote out the required prescription. "I must ask you to report progress. Let me see you again." And that was the beginning.

THREW THE LONG COAT OVE

Subsequently I saw Miss Varnay on a good many occasions, and she seemed brighter; while now it was I who suffered as our friendship grew, and I hated the thought of the battle she had had to wage with the world, for her life was not all flowers and incense to her beauty and histrionic talent.

Her season in town was only brief —for once in a way I had read the theatrical announcements with sedulous care—and then she was going to the Argentine for a tour through South America, which commenced at Buenos Ayres; and a month later I called upon her at the hotel where she was staying, and asked her to be my wife; but the look which came into her face told me at once how vain were my hopes.

Yet the way in which she refused was, perhaps, worth it all.

"If you can talk like that to me," she said, tenderly, as she laid a hand on my arm, "you can be a friend, and I want a friend. But for the rest there is only one answer now. Can you be a friend?"

"You have hundreds?" I said doubtingly.

"No—scarcely one."

I took my leave, and went back home sad at heart, feeling that work was the only panacea, though may be at times the doctrine of toil is rather overdone.

And as I thought and thought, the night bell rang.

It was nothing extraordinary. Sometimes the police require my help, but as I opened the door it was not to see silver buttons and a bull's eye lantern but a wizened looking man.

"You are a doctor?"

"Yes."

"Then let me come in."

I did as the visitor desired, and led the way to my consulting room, where I turned up the light, to see that the man—a clean shaven, one-time smart individual—did indeed require aid.

"Heart?" I muttered.

"Yes," he said.

"Who are you?"

"It doesn't matter. I'm going, and somehow, the red lamp—its habit—I came in"; and he sank into a chair with the air of a runner who is far spent.

Not much help was required. I was sure of that, for there was a tell-tale something presaging the end.

"I want to be blotted out of the world," said the newcomer—"forgotten forever—I know it's near"; and he sat farther back in his chair. "I am quite beat. Good-bye."

"Come, come," I said. "That for a [illegible]"; and I forced him to swallow some brandy and water. "Now——"

"It's no use, doctor."

"[illegible] tell you it is."

"No, no. I am one of the beaten. Let me go."

"Be a man."

PLANTING TREES IS NOW

Carefully Prepared.
e Obtained by Early tock Should be of Orchard.

Tree Protection.

Few Seasonable Hints.

Western Crops.

Boiled Salad Dressing.

A VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCE

By C. R. FENN.

My servant showed her in, and I [illegible] the new patient was [illegible] the charming young [illegible] all the country, the [illegible] of it, at least. Hers was a sad face, [illegible] a deep trouble there. I asked her to sit down. [illegible] extremely musical.

"Dr. Raymond," she said, "I have [illegible] you were a specialist on [illegible] therefore, I came to ask [illegible] could do anything for me. [illegible] and then——" She [illegible] quickly.

"Your profession is a very arduous one, madam."

"Yes, and yet to me the world has [illegible] I was told that, perhaps, you [illegible] authorise me to take [illegible]—handing me a slip of paper, containing the name of a drug—"as [illegible] I believe, and [illegible] than other medicines. [illegible] last night with the new [illegible] and I have so much to do—so [illegible] would you recommend [illegible]" And [illegible] was a quaint, appealing [illegible]

"Hemp[illegible] I'm not sure. It is only [illegible] stage as yet. Still, [illegible] the effect you wish. One [illegible] proceed very cautiously [illegible] that."

"Oh, yes," she said eagerly. "But, of [illegible] careful. I promise [illegible]"

"Then let me see," I said, and I walked [illegible] the room to my desk, where I wrote out the required prescription. I must ask you to report progress. Let me see you again." And that was the beginning.

THREW THE LONG COAT OVER THE PROSTRATE FORM.

Subsequently I saw Miss Varnay on a good many occasions, and she seemed [illegible] while now it was I who suffered as our friendship grew, and I [illegible] the thought of the battle she had had to wage with the world, for her life was not all flowers and incense [illegible] her beauty and histrionic talent.

Her season in town was only brief [illegible] in a way I had read the theatrical announcements with sedulous care—and then she was going to the Argentine for a tour through South America which commenced at Buenos Ayres, and a month later I called upon her at the hotel where she was staying and asked her to be my wife; but the look which came into her face told me at once how vain were my hopes.

Yet the way in which she refused was, perhaps, worth it all.

"If you can talk like that to me," she said, tenderly, as she laid a hand on my arm, "you can be a friend, and I want a friend. But for the rest there is only one answer now. Can you be a friend?"

"You have hundreds?" I said doubtingly.

"No—scarcely one."

I took my leave, and went back home [illegible] feeling that work was the only panacea, though may be at times the doctrine of toil is rather overdone. And as I thought and thought, the night [illegible].

It was nothing extraordinary. Sometimes the police require my help, but as I opened the door it was not to see [illegible] and a bull's eye lantern but a [illegible] looking man.

"You are a doctor?"

"Yes."

"Then let me come in."

I did as the visitor desired, and led the way to my consulting room, where I turned up the light, to see that the man, a clean shaven, one-time smart individual, did indeed require aid.

"Heart," I muttered.

"Yes," he said.

"Who [illegible] you?"

"It [illegible] matter. I'm going, and [illegible] the red lamp—its habit—I came in," and he sank into a chair with the air of a runner who is far spent.

Not much help was required. I was aware of that, for there was a tell-tale something presaging the end.

"I want to be blotted out of the world," said the new comer—"forgotten forever—I know it's near"; and he sat farther back in his chair. "I am quite [illegible] Good bye."

"Come, come," I said. "That for a [illegible]," and I forced him to swallow some brandy and water. "Now——"

"It's no use, doctor."

"But I tell you it is."

"No, no. I am one of the beaten. Let me go."

"Be a man."

"Let me die," he said, in a faint voice. "It is the only thing I ask now. Here, doctor, you are the last—and you seem a friend. Take it; it's gold! take it—no scruples"; and he thrust a small bag into my hand.

The bag fell with a clinking sound to the floor, as I leaned over my visitor.

"Dead. Quite dead," I muttered.

There could be no doubt of that.

Not a scrap of identification—not so much as a letter, a card, an initial on his linen. It was hopeless. Not a word of his story, of how he came to be fainting at my door, of what trouble it was, the nature of the blow that had caused him to quit the world without a regret.

What could I do? Here was a man who wished to hide everything, to be a nameless victim; and he had selected my surgery in which to die.

But there would be police inquiries, every kind of publicity, necessary and unnecessary—the unknown, the mystery of Dr. Raymond's surgery, etc.—I saw it all! Lurid contents bills, a crowd in the street, and—ting, ting, the bell again—this time a District Messenger boy who handed me a note.

"Dear Dr. Raymond—Please come to me at once. I badly need your help. You will think perhaps that I have not been fair to you; but I dared not explain. Yet now come—please. You have proved yourself a friend.—Yours sincerely,

"ESTELLE VARNAY."

"Very well," I said to the messenger. "There is no answer."

In her private sitting-room at the hotel I found her; but she was not alone. I went forward eagerly.

"Is there something to be explained away?" I said. "Can you——"

She checked me with a glance.

"It is not that."

"No?"

"No, no. It is because——"

"You said farewell this afternoon, and told me not to hope," I jerked out.

"I know," and she held out her hand toward the young man, who seemed to wish to blot himself out in a corner of the apartment. "Come," she whispered to the stranger, "this is our friend"; and then to me, "Do you care for me still?"

I bowed my head.

"Then," she cried earnestly, "surely only the better part of that feeling will be left to a man like you—deep friendship—when I tell you that this man is my affianced husband, and that, therefore, there was only one answer I could make to you."

"Your affianced husband!" I cried.

"Yes," she said excitedly! "You should hear all. He came to England on business, and suddenly he seemed to be lost, for we heard nothing, and we might never have heard but for the detectives——"

"But for you, Estelle," murmured the stranger.

"He killed a man in a fight—not in self-defense, but in defense of a woman who was being ill-treated, and——"

"It was about like that," said the stranger; "but, sir," he went on, turning to me, "I did not want my own name, Dallas, in this. Well, well, I don't suppose I should have struggled to be free of it if it had not been for her."

"His enemies were ruthless," cried the girl. "It was not his fault, and he is my love. I have lived and worked to save him—he who would not help himself by declaring who he was."

"You are an actress, Miss Varnay. Tell me—you are not acting now—is this all true?"

"This man is no friend, Estelle," came in a husky voice, and the speaker, a youngish-looking, beardless, but strong man, muffled in a long cloak, took a step forward, and I noticed the well-cut, refined features. "We will manage without his aid."

"You will help us?" she pleaded.

"Yes, if I can," I replied.

"There," she cried, "I knew it! Lawrence, Dr. Raymond is our friend."

"I hope I am, Mr. Dallas," I said, and I held out my hand, which the other now eagerly grasped.

"You can help. Believe me, I shall endeavor to show my gratitude."

A sudden idea had struck me.

"There might be a way," I said.

"Oh, tell it to me!" she pleaded.

"I will. But we must leave here at once, and go to my house."

The girl acquiesced at once, and en route passing through the shadowy streets I learned fully how the escape had been accomplished, and how she had contrived and plotted to get a message through to him, succeeding where probably others would have failed, just because a lovely woman's wit is transcendent when difficulties are great.

A medical man is like a priest so far as the inviolability of those things which come to his ears are concerned, but I should be sorry to be the repository of many such secrets. But just then calm thought was impossible, for I could feel that the girl's arm touching mine trembled, and I thought "what might have been."

"Here is the house," I said, at last, rousing myself. "You feel that you are in no immediate danger, sir?"

"On the contrary, I feel that I am always in danger."

"Ah! Keep back in the shadow—good!"

Two policemen passed us, talking, and it was only when they had turned the corner that the girl gave a sigh of relief.

"Now quick! Come!" I said.

For I had made up my mind. My visitor of the night—the bearer of an impossible burden, of a tremendous sorrow, wished to be lost, to be unknown. Was I doing him a wrong? I thought not. It was not he, but his form, his existence, or, rather, what had been his existence, that I wished to subserve in the interests of these two. That there would be inquiries about a piece of cold clay seemed a matter of extreme doubt. It was not probable that anyone had seen that solitary wayfarer of the night who lay there dead, and now that all was well with him, he would, I doubted not, have cheerfully consented to aid the cause of these two friends—my friends.

"This is what I propose," I said, averting my glances from the girl. "You are in convict garb?"

"Yes, yes."

"Then, quick, come with me!" And leaving the girl who had sunk into a chair, I led the ex-captive up to my dressing-room, through the hall, past the surgery door, which was ajar, showing the light within. "Now you must change," I said.

The transformation did not occupy him long, and when we rejoined Miss Varnay he was a different looking individual, and might have walked the streets with safety.

I felt eager for them to go.

"Good-by," I said; and the girl seized my hand.

"Will there be no——"

"Pursuit?" I cried. "No. Mr. Dallas will have no need to look around now. I promise you that."

"How can I thank you?" she said, wistfully.

"By insuring the success of my plan. Farewell! Go!"

It was an hour later that the scheme was completed, and then the cast-off garments of the ex-prisoner had another owner, and I wiped my streaming brow.

"There can be no mistake," I said to myself, and I took a turn up and down the room before throwing the long cloak Dallas had carried over the prostrate form. "Now for it;" and giving one more glance around I seized my hat and went out into the street, where I did not have to look long for what I sought—a constable, leisurely making his round.

"Officer!" I said.

He turned sharply.

"Dr Raymond, sir!" he said. "What's wrong?"

"A man is lying dead in my surgery—heart failure—and he is wearing convict clothing."

"'Dead, sir! I will come at once."

Half an hour later all that was mortal of a supposed captive who had fought his way to freedom was taken away. If doubts arose I never heard of them—in fact, the affair died away except in my mind.

She had told me that if matters had been different I should not have asked in vain; but, ah, she loved that man as though he were a god. Heaven grant that he loves her as well. Well, it is not every man who loses that has that much to the credit side in the ledger of the past.

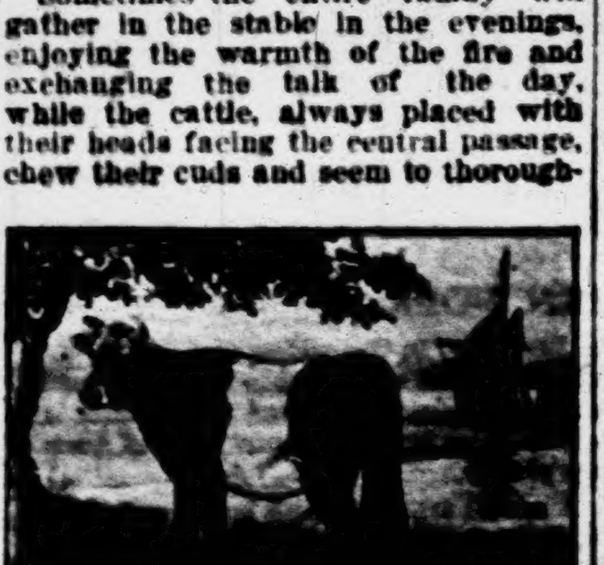
The Happy Dutch Cow.

Pastoral scenes are proverbial for their quiet beauty and the spirit of contentment which they breed, but you must go to Holland to find the highest type of this idea.

In Holland cows are as much a part of the family as the Irishman's pig, for one member of the family always sleeps in the stable to watch, and often the place is made a sort of family sitting room.

The cow stable is generally a large building, paved with brick, upon which the cow lies, straw being scarce. There is a brick paved passage down the centre, at one end of which is a fireplace, and the windows are covered with white curtains as dainty as those used in the house proper.

Sometimes the entire family will gather in the stable in the evenings, enjoying the warmth of the fire and exchanging the talk of the day, while the cattle, always placed with their heads facing the central passage, chew their cuds and seem to thoroughly enjoy the human companionship.



THE DUTCH BELTED COW.

These cows are seldom brown, most of them being either black or white or of the two colors mixed, and because of the fertility of their pasturage and the care taken in their keep they are capable of giving large yields of rich milk. In no place in the world are cows as a rule made as much of, and from the annual yield of butter it would seem that the care is not taken in vain.

Norway's Caution.

From the Detroit Free Press.

Having taken note of how things are going in Russia, it is not surprising that Norway should have displayed no greater haste in securing a ruler.

KAISER AN ART CRITIC.

Small Talks on Continental and Canadian Affairs.

It is well known that the German Emperor has a fine taste in matters of art. He has recently given a demonstration of his own imperial will and severe judgment in such matters. Sometime ago the German Protestant community of Moscow solicited his aid in building a church, to be named the Temple of SS. Peter and Paul. His majesty readily undertook to be responsible for all the lamps and candelabra to be used, and asked for their designs for these things, as well as for a plan of the interior. On examination, the Kaiser found the designs so far out of harmony with his own taste and with the style of the building that he at once set to work correcting and sketching, and when the whole had been made to his mind, he entrusted them to the architect charged with the restoration of the Metz Cathedral, with instructions to execute the work "according to my ideas and intentions."

On his recent visit to Paris, the Shah of Persia was fanned night and day by relays of perspiring attendants.

KAISER WILHELM.

Little Prince Edward of Wales is already showing a delightful sturdiness of character. He has a profound dislike for arithmetic and shares in the axiom: "Multiplication is vexation."

The matter of a minute may be fraught with the greatest importance. The old saying, "First come first served," holds good when sons of the British aristocracy make their entry into this world. In 1891 twin sons were born to the Countess of Clancarty, the elder of whom made his infantile bow to the world as Lord Kilconnel, a future double baron and viscount, an earl, a marquis of Holland and lord of 25,000 acres, while his younger brother had to content himself with the modest appellation of Master Power Francis Le Poer Trench, and the prospect of a younger son's portion.

Mlle. de Rosen, daughter; of the Russian Ambassador, when she makes her debut in society will receive from the Czarina the badge and the title of "Titular Maid of Honor to her Majesty."

The Canadian Government House at Ottawa, known as Rideau Hall, is a quaint, old-fashioned palace of gray stone, replete with queer chimneys, and odd corners. It is on the east bank of the wild Rideau River, and in winter, when the trees are leafless, is in full view from the other bank. The Canadian Government House social functions during the "season," include a couple of dances at Christmas time, a state ball after Easter, musicale in the Lenten season skating and tobogganing parties every Saturday in winter, several garden parties in the early summer and a never-ending round of dinners. Many of the customs and courtesies traditional of the old monarchial days are faithfully preserved.

Russia's cross of St. Andrew has a remarkable peculiarity attaching to it. All who are decorated with it have the right once to demand a pardon for a Russian subject condemned to death.

Japan was the last nation to enter the circle of the world's powers but her Emperor's degree makes the pedigrees of other sovereigns look shabby. He is the 112th in unbroken, direct descent, the founder of the house being contemporary with Nebuchadnezzar, 666 B. C.

Five thousand dollars is about the average cost of a dinner in the Turkish Sultan's palace. The meal comprises fifty or more dishes daily and the Sultan generally partakes of from five to six. Every dish, before it reaches the royal table, is tasted in the kitchen by the royal Grand Vizier to guard against poison. It is then sealed and taken to the Sultan. The vast cost of these repasts comes from the fact that the guests and retainers who dine at the Sultan's expense daily number several thousand.

van Calava.

Swell London Attire.

The latest notes from London state that fashionable young men during the spring and summer seasons have been ideally clad in green. The outfit was as follows: Olive green Trilby hat, Lincoln green flannel suit (like Robin Hood's archers) with sea green stripes, emerald green tie, pea green striped flannel shirt with collar to match, and sage green socks relieved with pale green spots. The boots were to be left to the taste of the wearer. A green whangee cane was considered the thing. An American contemporary remarks that in this country a shotgun would be the most effective.

A Tempest in a Watermelon.

Great oaks from little acorns grow: So also has a law suit, in which $10,000 damages are claimed, arisen out of a 35-cent watermelon. It appears that a groceryman, of Washington, D. C., had caused the arrest of one of his neighbors, charging her with the theft "of one watermelon, of the value of 35 cents," and that when the police court judge heard the testimony he solemnly declared her not guilty. The lady has felt very much hurt over the charges of her grocer, and so now has entered suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for $10,000 damages.

COFFEE
DOES
HURT

(Make the trial yourself—leave off Coffee 10 days and use

POSTUM
FOOD COFFEE

in its place.

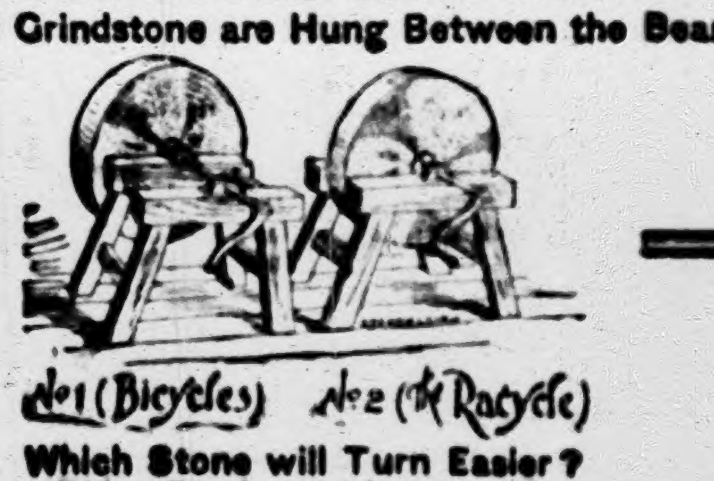
That's the only way to find out.

Postum is a sure rebuilder and when you cut out the coffee and use Postum instead, you get a taste of health, for the aches and ails begin to leave. You may THINK you know, but you don't until after the trial. Remember

"There's a Reason."

Get the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

THE RACYCLE SPROCKETS
Like No. 2 Grindstone are Hung Between the Bearings

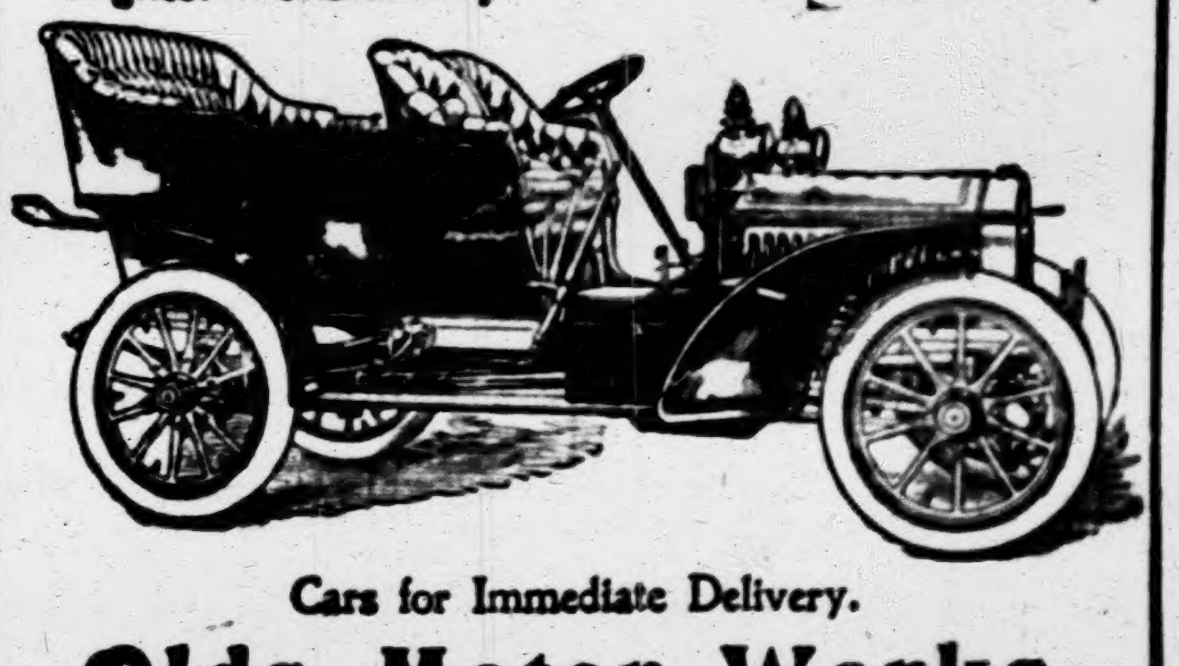


Which Stone will Turn Easier?
The Racycle Rides Further with one-quarter less work

MIAMI CYCLE & MFG. CO.
MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

OLDSMOBILES for 1905
Highest Workmanship.

THE CAR THAT GOES
Lowest Prices,

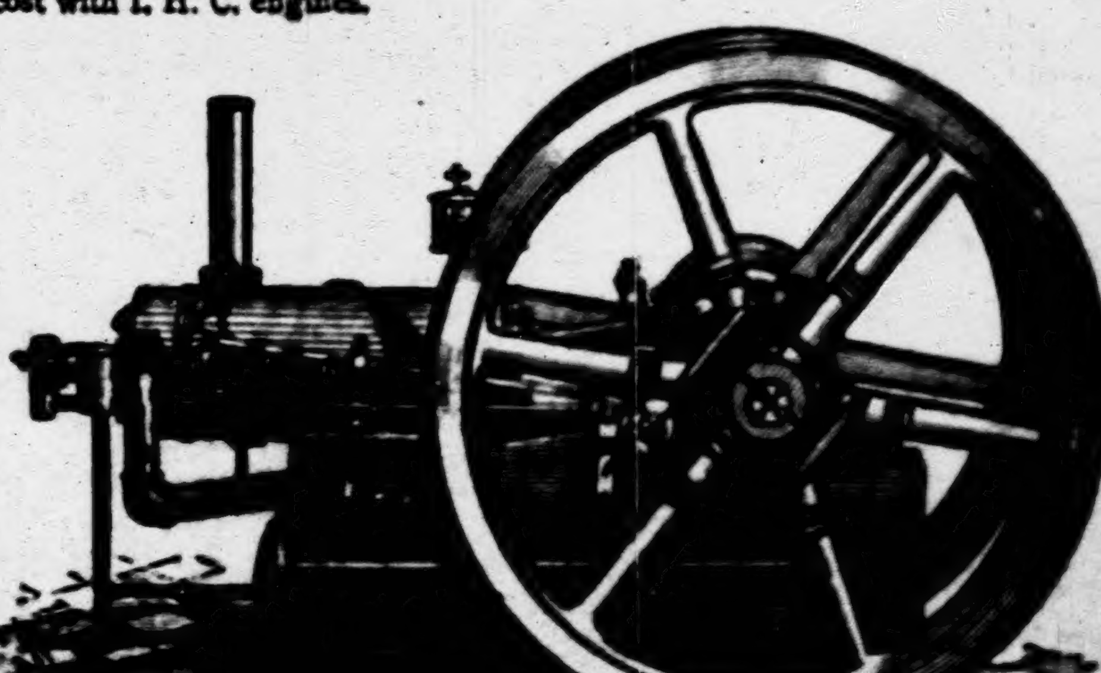


Cars for Immediate Delivery.

Olds Motor Works
DETROIT, MICH.

International Harvester Co.
GASOLINE ENGINES

When equipped with an I. H. C. gasoline engine, the farm, the dairy, the mill, the threshing machine, or the husker and shredder can be operated more economically than with any other power. Farmers who have water to pump, wood to saw, feed to grind or corn to shell, can do this work at a minimum cost with I. H. C. engines.



I. H. C. HORIZONTAL ENGINE

I. H. C. gasoline engines are made in the following sizes: 2, 3 and 5 H. P., vertical type, stationary; 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, stationary; and 6, 8, 10, 12 and 15 H. P., horizontal type, portable.

WRITE FOR GASOLINE ENGINE BOOKLET.

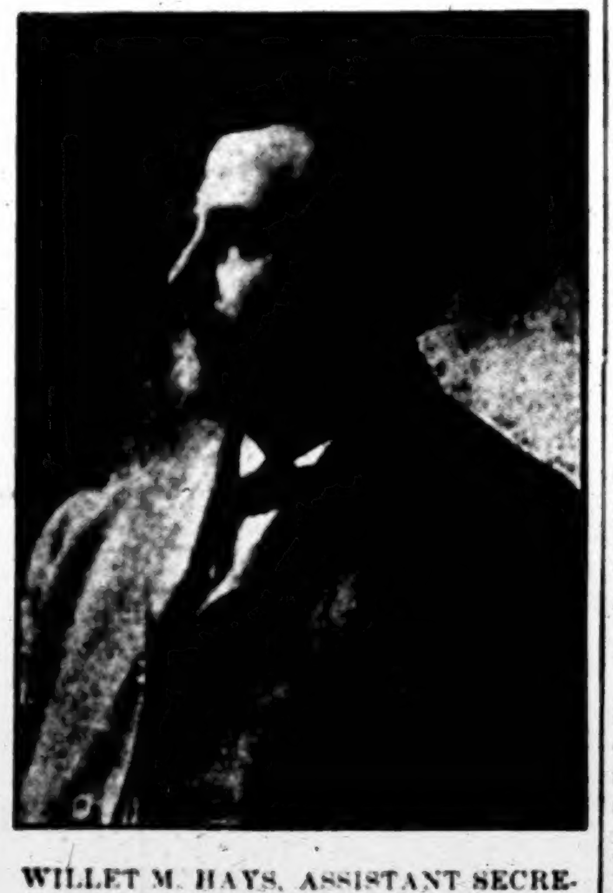
International Harvester Co. of America
(Incorporated)
7 Monroe Street Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

FARMER and PLANT BREEDER.

Work of Assistant Secretary Willet M. Hays.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

The country has realized for some time that it has in its Secretary of Agriculture a real farmer; its new Assistant Secretary is likewise a farmer, and unless all records and appearances are false, a good one. He has the valuable faculty of knowing how to do things; and at the same time to be able to tell others how. This Assistant Secretary is Willett M. Hays. Professor Hays was Secretary Wilson's choice for Assistant Secretary, after Colonel Brigham's death, and it appears as though Professor Hays' appointment was anything but a political one. There is a fine entente cordial between these two broad-gauge men and the work of the Department has taken a distinct forward sweep since Mr. Hays' appointment. He put his shoulder to the wheel at once and seemed able to dispense with the usual two or three months of "breaking in," which an Assistant Secretary for a big department usually undergoes. He fits his environment well wherever he happens to be. Instructing his classes in the field at the University of Minnesota, located just between the Twin Cities, you would have suspected that Professor Hays seldom visited St. Paul or Minneapolis; on the other hand, when you see him walking along the streets in Washington you would scarcely expect him to be able to drop a straight furrow. But in coming cityward and wearing a crease in his trousers he has not lost his straightforward way of taking people at their word and believing just what they say. I asked him for a photograph to accompany this letter, remarking that I would like to have one of him as he looked as I last saw him "down on the farm" (he would be arrested if he went around Washington looking as he was then), and he gravely responded that he had no photograph such as I wanted, but that he would send me one taken at a later date.

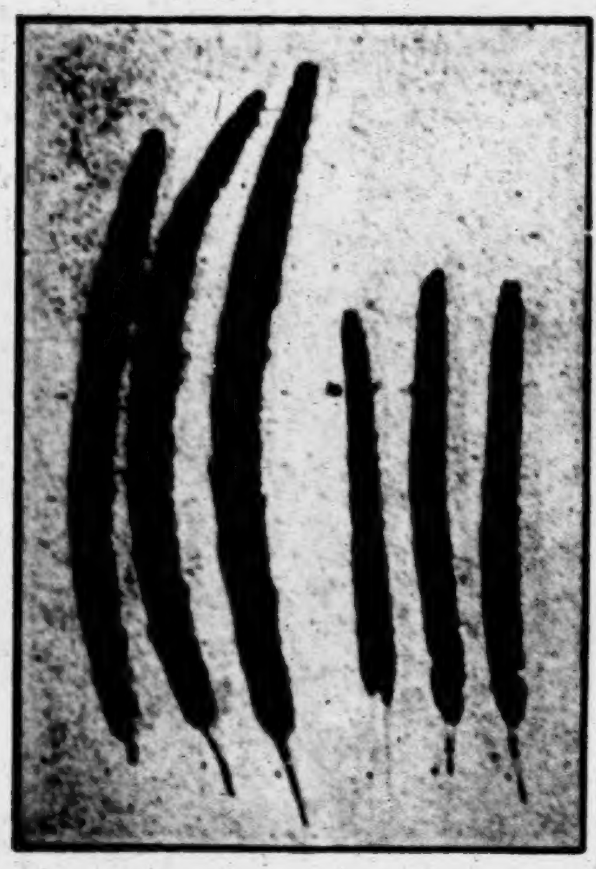


WILLET M. HAYS, ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

HYBRIDIZING WHEAT IN THE FIELD.

Breeding up Plants.

The work which has made Professor Hays most famous is his plant-breeding experiments. He is the wizard of farm plant life as Luther Burbank is of horticulture. He has taken wheat and bred it up, by selection and hybridization covering periods of five and ten years, so that the improved strain yields probably 25 to 30 per cent. heavier. He has done the same with flax and with timothy and with corn and other farm crops. This has entailed the most painstaking work, continued year after year, but always with gratifying results. The average wheat yield of the Northwestern States—Minnesota and the Dakotas—ranges, as I remember, from thirteen to fifteen bushels to the acre, which is about the average for the entire United States. Increase this say one-fourth by simply using this new seed, as in the case of thousands of acres in the State of Minnesota, and figure out the gain to the country. And this is only from results already obtained in seed improvement.



SHOWING IMPROVEMENT IN TIMOTHY BY BREEDING.

To Double the Wheat Yield.

The wheat breeding work is going on steadily, and Professor Hays says that he has probably not yet reached the half-way point in increased yield. In the work of simple wheat breeding by selection each grain is planted and cultivated separately, a thousand of them in rows, each one like a tree, and then the best ten heads are selected from those thousand plants, and the plumpest grains again selected from those ten heads. Then you are ready for the planting of next year. And so on for ten years. In hybridization there are many more pains taken. Here the best specimens of two different varieties are crossed upon each other by hand pollination and the complex system of selection simultaneously carried on year by year. But the labor is more than justified by the results.

Other experiments have been successfully carried along under Professor Hays with the idea of changing the constituents of the crops—putting more protein or muscle-producing elements in the grain and forage crops just as the beet grower works to put more sugar into his beets.

Practical Farm Teaching.

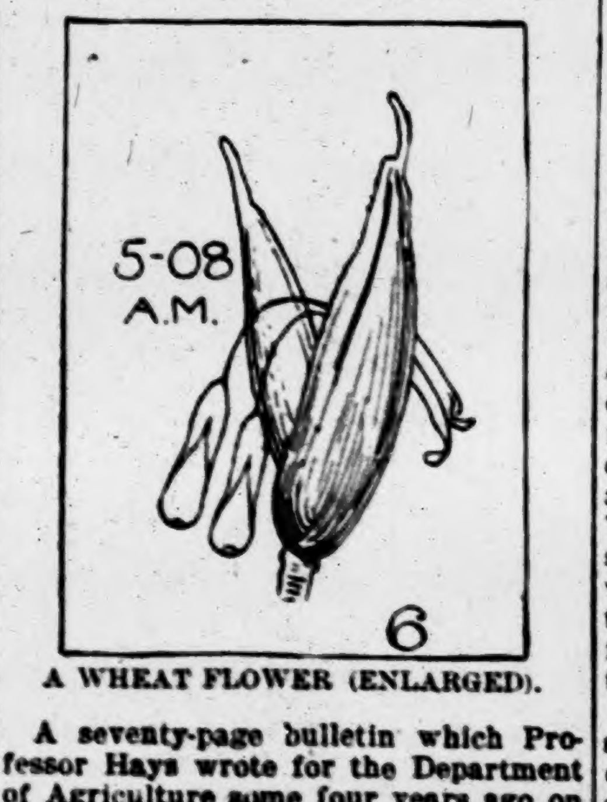
All this work is technical; it might be the doings of the recluse. The other side of Professor Hays' make-up stands forth when he gets out on a swing 'round the circle and preaches what he knows; when he distributes literature and delivers lectures to the farmers in halls or from the rear platforms of trains—a practical educator.

More agriculture in our national system of education is his slogan, practical farm education that will enable a man to farm better and make more money at it. He urges the consolidation of the small rural schools—bringing four or five of them into one good-sized school where more competent teachers can be hired and a much broader education afforded. The interesting thing about his boys at the University of Minnesota was that they were there to study plants and animals and then go back to the farm. They were at a college, to be sure, but they were taking a sort of high school agricultural course, many of them for one or two years, and were not figuring on getting a diploma and then leaving the farm and striking out for some city, as is unfortunately the history of so many of the graduates of the agricultural colleges.

Working through the Boys.

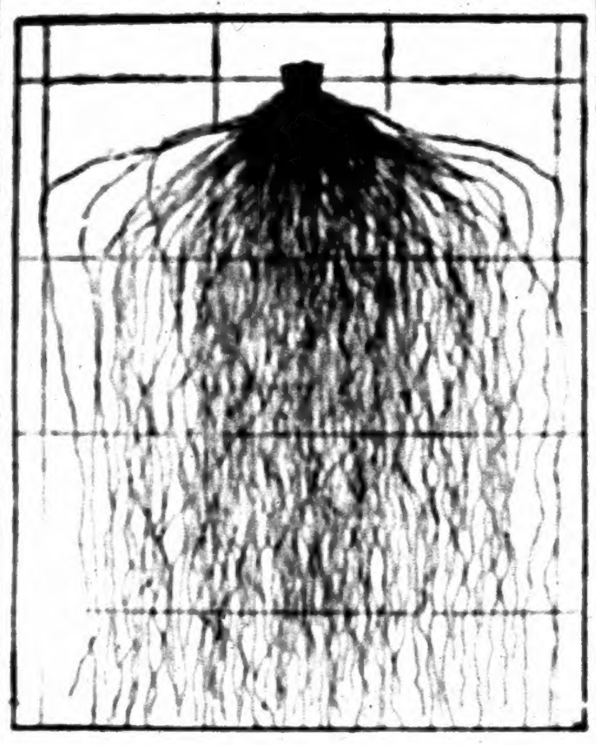
"Do your new methods stick with the boys when they get back on the old farm?" I asked. "How do the boys' fathers take it?"

"Oh, they think at first when the boys go home and want to make changes that we are teaching them a lot of new-fangled notions. After the first year perhaps they let the boy take a try on a small scale. Then with the good results shown by the trial they are more than likely to come around by the second or third year and there is apt to be quite a shaking up of methods in the work on the old place. You can't expect to make much headway teaching the older farmers, but you can get at them through the boys."



A WHEAT FLOWER (ENLARGED).

A seventy-page bulletin which Professor Hays wrote for the Department of Agriculture some four years ago on the subject of plant breeding brought his work into great prominence. In it he outlined numerous possibilities of increased production of all crops through plant breeding. Every man knows that the American trotting horse has been wonderfully improved by breeding. And Professor Hays drew a parallel, step by step, between the improvement of the Wealthy apple, tracing its history and improvement from the tree developed by Peter M. Gidden of Minnesota, and Messenger, an imported English racing horse, which became the leading progenitor of the American racing or trotting horse, and he thus showed that plants were capable of the same development by breeding as are animals.



WHEAT ROOT SYSTEM.

If you are interested in learning something about plant breeding you might write to your Congressman for a copy of Bulletin 29 of the Department of Agriculture, or probably Professor Hays himself has a few extra copies.

FROM POLE TO EQUATOR.

Arctic Explorer Now Penetrating the Heart of Africa.

Whether in the frigid grip of the north polar country or the burning sands of tropical Africa, the Duke of Abruzzi seems equally at home. This Italian scientist, who made such a high reputation by his recent arctic explorations, has started for unknown regions of Central Africa with a fully equipped expedition, proposing to explore the Ruwenzori Mountains and climb their highest peaks. This range crosses the Equator in the vicinity of the Lakes Nyanza, whence flow the waters of the Nile. It is some eighty miles long, a vast pile of black rock hurled upward in some ancient convulsion of Nature.

The English explorer, Stanley, found Ruwenzori twenty years ago. It was pointed out to him as a big salt mountain. As the sun ascended, it assumed shape before his view—a great mountain clothed in snow—and it took him weeks of travel to find out that it belonged to a range. Stanley believed that the Ruwenzori range and the Mountains of the Moon, which can be found on old maps, are identical. According to the old geographies, the waters of the Nile rise in the Mountains of the Moon.

The Duke of Abruzzi has a difficult task before him to conquer the Mountains of the Moon, even though their summits fall somewhat short of that orb. A large quantity of supplies must be carried on the backs of natives, and though the start will be made in the most torrid of tropical climes, the party will soon ascend into temperate regions and then trudge for months in a truly polar climate.

Milk In Your Tea.

"The use of plenty of milk with tea," says The Lancet (London), "is a wise precaution and must be regarded as a sound physiological proceeding, since the proteids of milk destroy astringency and probably prevent the otherwise injurious action of tannin on the mucous membrane of the stomach. In the intestinal juice the proteids are separated and the tannin probably combines with the sodium salts. The immoderate drinking of tea is an unquestionable evil, but, on the whole, we are inclined to think that the evils of tea-drinking have been exaggerated. The real difficulty is to convince people that a lightly drawn infusion gives them their money's worth."

GROWTH OF RAILROADS.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION PLACES PAR VALUE AT 13 MILLIONS.

More than Three Quarters of a Billion Dollars Paid Out Annually by the companies in Salaries to Over a Million Regular Employees.

The annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, giving railroad statistics at the end of 1904, shows the enormous total of 297,073 miles of railroad in the United States. More recent railroad construction has brought this figure up to more than 300,000 miles. The number of railroad corporations included in the report was 2,104. That the railroads are prosperous is shown by the fact that only 1,323 miles of road were in the hands of receivers.

The total number of locomotives in use was 46,743 and of cars, exclusive of those owned by private companies, 1,798,000. Of these, 39,000 were in the passenger service and 1,692,000 engaged in hauling freight. Practically all the passenger locomotives and cars were equipped with air brakes and automatic couplers, and the same was true of freight locomotives and a large majority of freight cars.

The number of persons on the pay rolls of railroads in the United States was 1,296,000, with annual wages and salaries amounting to $817,598,000.

The par value of the amount of railway capital was $13,213,124,000, or a capitalization of $64,265 per mile.

Six Per Cent. Dividends.

Of the total capital stock outstanding, 42 per cent. paid no dividends. The amount of dividends declared during the year was $221,941,000, or a little over 6 per cent. on dividend-paying stock. The number of passengers reported as carried by the railways in the year was 715,419,000. The number of tons of freight carried was 1,309,899,000, an increase over the previous year of over five and one-half million tons.

UNEXPLODED PROJECTILES.

Danger Lurks Therein—Chinese Inquisitiveness Proves Fatal.

The dispatch coming from the Far East of the killing of nearly a dozen people by the explosion of a mine near Chefoo, brings to light incidents going to show that the land in the vicinity of Port Arthur is a fertile field of unexploded land mines and shells.

"When the Russians were shelling the Japanese positions near the village of Suishiying many shells fell in the localities desired by the gun pointers, but the ordnance was of such a defective quality that they failed to explode. A good lot of these projectiles have lain where they fell, objects of the careful investigation and inspection of the wondering and speculative villagers. On one occasion a dispute arose as to the danger in these innocent-looking pieces of iron, and a bold native, to prove his contention that they were harmless, as well as his bravery, struck one of the missiles with a big stone. This was going a little too far, and unfortunately he hit it on the nose, the tender spot of projectiles. It exploded with a terrible noise, killing ten of the interested spectators.

Another Chinese discovered a shell which had found a resting place in the fresh water lake just behind the Russian naval dockyard of Port Arthur. At that time the lake was one mass of ice and the head of the shell was just sticking up through the frozen mass. John Chinaman was attracted by the shining brass screw at the top and went out on the ice to try to get it off. Good metal was worth having in the land of the Oriental, and this is what attracted him. He used an old nail to remove the tempting object. His inquisitiveness was a dear lesson for his family, although the pieces were never found.

SCHOOL GARDEN WORK.

The Department of Agriculture is just issuing an attractive illustrated bulletin on school gardens. In his introductory, Dr. Galloway, Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, says, that as agriculture in its broadest sense is the primary basis of wealth in the United States, it seems essential that efforts should be made in our general educational system to bring early to the mind of the child facts which will be of value as emphasizing the importance and necessity of agricultural work. There is no better way to do this, he says, than through a well-managed and well conducted system of school garden training which early awakens interest in an industry which means much to the future prosperity of the country.

When the work of handling Congressional free seed distribution was turned over to the Bureau of Plant Industry several years ago efforts were made to arouse interest on the part of members of Congress with large city constituencies, who might be able to encourage the school garden movement through the distribution of specially prepared seed packages. Since then millions of packages of seeds have been distributed in this way in the cities, and the result has been that much school garden work has been organized and thousands of pupils have learned something of growing plants.

A small tract of land back of the Department of Agriculture Building has been set aside for model school garden work.

The bulletin in question has illustrations of a number of successful school gardens in various cities, and has plans outlined for carrying on such work. The following interesting paragraph is quoted from the bulletin on the work at Hampton Institute, Virginia:

"When it was announced two years ago to the children of the Whittier school that they were to be taught gardening on a two-acre tract the news was received with mixed feelings. While the little ones were pleased, the older girls thought it a disgrace to work in the fields. After two years there are no pupils in the school who do not look forward with eagerness to this work. If it is necessary to be absent from school, they think it must not be on gardening day."

NO OTHER WAGONS APPROACH
In Perfect Adaptability Under all Conditions to
The Strong Old Hickory

MANUFACTURED BY
Kentucky Wagon Manufacturing Co.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
LARGEST PRODUCERS OF FARM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

Kirk's
AMERICAN CROWN
SOAP

is a green soap, consistency of paste, a perfect cleanser for automobile machinery and all vehicles; will not injure the most highly polished surface. Made from pure vegetable oils. If your dealer does not carry American Crown Soap in stock, send us his name and address and we will see that your wants are supplied. Put up in 12½ 25 and 50 lb pails.

James S. Kirk & Company
CHICAGO, ILL.

BOOKS—BOOKS

We have published some good ones specially suited for farmers. Books that will help every farmer to make more out of his farm. Write for our catalogue.

WEBB PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Paul Minn.

Well Drilling Machines

Over 70 sizes and styles for drilling either deep or shallow wells in any kind of soil or rock. Mounted on wheels or sills. With engines or horse powers. Strong, simple and durable. Any mechanic can operate them easily.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
WILLIAM BROS., Ithaca, N. Y.

Marlin

Repeaters

are the original solid top and side ejectors. This feature forms a solid shield of metal between the shooter's head and the cartridge at all times, throws the empties away from him instead of into his face, prevents smoke and gases from entering his eyes and lungs, and keeps the line of sight unobstructed. The MARLIN action works easily and smoothly, making very little noise. Our new automatic recoil-operating locking device makes the Marlin the safest breech-loading gun ever built. 120-page catalogue, 300 illustrations, cover in nine colors, mailed for three stamps.

The Marlin Fire Arms Co.
New Haven, Conn.

A Quarter of a Century
of unfailing service
proves the
ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY
of the Remington
TYPEWRITER
WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT
327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich
SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE
HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 tons a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. Adapted to bank barn work. Stands up to its work—no digging holes for wheels. Self-feed Attachment increases capacity, lessens labor, makes better bales and does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.
124 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill.

SILOS
Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.
Eagle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.
Chicago, Ill.

IF YOU WANT A JACK
Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to contain the description of exactly what you want.
Hydraulic Jacks our Specialty
Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

The Missoula Nursery

Producers of Northern grown acclimated trees and the best varieties for planting in Northern States.

Every Variety of Standard Fruit

Thoroughly tested Apples, Pears, Plums, Cherries and Trees
Ornamental, Small Fruit Plants, Shrubs,
Vines and Roses.

THE EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

A SPECIALTY OF
FLOWERING PLANTS AND SHRUBS

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs. Also Vegetable Plants shipped by express. Catalogue and Price List Free. Mail orders have prompt attention.

MISSOULA NURSERY CO.
MISSOULA, MONTANA.

GONS APPROACH

Under all Conditions to

Old Hickory

TURED BY

Manufacturing Co.

LLE, KY.

RM WAGONS IN THE WORLD

A Quarter of a Century

of unfailing service

proves the

ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY

of the

Remington

TYPEWRITER

WYCKOFF, SEAMANS & BENEDICT

327 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Sandwich

SELF FEED FULL CIRCLE TWO HORSE

HAY PRESS

The Baler for speed. Bales 12 to 18 ns a day. Has 40 inch feed hole. lapted to bank barn work. Stands up its work—no digging holes for wheels. elf-feed Attachment increases capity, lessens labor, makes better bales d does not increase draft.

Send for Catalogue

SANDWICH MFG. CO.

24 Main Street, Sandwich, Ill

SILOS

Pine, Fir, Cypress and Yellow Pine.
Write for Catalogue.

gle Tank Co., 281 N. Green St.,
Chicago, Ill.

F YOU WANT A JACK

Send for our Jack Catalogue. Sure to n the description of exactly what you want draulic Jacks our Specialty

Watson-Stillman Co.,
46 Dey St., N. Y. City.

a Nursery

imated trees and the best rthern States.

Standard Fruit

Plums, Cherries and Trees t Plants, Shrubs, oses.

STRAWBERRY

Y OF

S AND SHRUBS

Also Vegetable Plants e and Price List Free. pt attention.

RSERY CO.

NTANA.

OWN ITEMS

[illegible] Court meets second [illegible] February first Monday in [illegible] Monday in Au[illegible] in November.

COTTON MART

[illegible]	9¼ @ 9½c
date last year	9½c
[illegible] to date	1905	1904
[illegible] C	1357	1760
[illegible]	760	650
[illegible] & Bro	247	..
[illegible]	405	261
[illegible]	73	..
[illegible]		256
Total	2842	2437

[illegible] figures are obtained from [illegible] cotton buyers Wednesday [illegible] o'clock.

[illegible] a bill of money up about a week ago, owner [illegible] d describe the bill and [illegible] the same R. F. GRANT, Verbena, R. F. D. No. 1.

[illegible] ORE is the marvel of in curing Rheumatism, Ca- Female disorders, Liver, and Bladder troubles, Ge- [illegible]bility, etc Postpaid to [illegible] for 95 cents. Litera- [illegible] J A KICKER & Co., Ala.

Chilton will fill his regular [illegible] here next Sunday, [illegible] He will preach at 3:30 p.m. There will be no [illegible] Saturday.

[illegible] two Gold Rings. One three opals and ten pearls; one opal, two rubies and [illegible] Return to Banner [illegible] get Reward.

Lillie Slaton visited Jemi[illegible].

E. A. Matthews visited the city Wednesday.

W. A. Reynolds of Jemison [illegible] pleasant visitor here the past

Gamma Anderson has re[illegible] Birmingham where she [illegible] on account of sickness [illegible] brother's family.

[illegible] and Mrs W. H. Sartor were [illegible] Birmingham Friday on [illegible] of an accident sustained by [illegible] Stewart in a railroad col[illegible] near Boyles.

[illegible] cold soda water always on tap at Upchurch's store.

[illegible] E. M. Pinckard and J. [illegible] went to Birmingham

Joseph Johnson of Chatte[illegible] has been visiting relatives [illegible] in Clanton.

W. H. Fosbee went to the city Tuesday.

John Davis came down from [illegible] Sunday to perform an [illegible] on Mrs. L. A. Campbelle. [illegible] glad to note she is getting [illegible].

[illegible] the fire out of a burn, [illegible] without leaving a scar, or boils, sores, tetter, eczema skin and scalp diseases, use [illegible] Witch Hazel Salve. A [illegible] for piles. Get the genuine. Upchurch Drug co.

[illegible] will keep his Gallery open [illegible] time. Plenty of Picture cheap.

J. T. Eckford filled his pulpit Sunday morning at 11. The Spirit delivered a message His servant that will tell [illegible] eternity. The thought God seest us" will be well [illegible] to consider.

Minnie Muse is selling her [illegible] at the most reasonable Don't fail to call and see [illegible] you leave Clanton. [illegible] stylish and pretty.

J. A. Skaggs of Jemison [illegible] visitor here this week.

[illegible] nice lot of stationery received at Upchurch's store.

[illegible] licenses have been issued [illegible] by the Probate Judge to [illegible] persons.

J. H. Moore and Miss Essie [illegible]; Mr. Elijah Mims and Miss Belle Powell; Mr. J. E. [illegible] and Mrs. Susan McQuary; [illegible] W. Collins and Miss Rosa Cooley.

[illegible] John Alexander and [illegible] Phillips.

Original Laxative Cough Sy[illegible] Kennedy's Laxative Honey [illegible] It expells all cold from [illegible] by acting as a cathartic on [illegible] It relieves the feverish [illegible] of the throat, draws out [illegible] inflammation, cures the cough [illegible] strengthens the mucous mem[illegible] of the lungs and bronchial Kennedy's Laxative Honey [illegible] a certain, safe, prompt [illegible] cure for colds, croup [illegible] whooping cough. Sold by Up[illegible] Drug co.

Save Money

Large stock of Winter Suits for men, women and boys,

Also Hamilton Brown Shoes, all sizes.

Don't waste your time and money by trying some other kind, but use the old tested tried and true.

E. M. PINCKARD & CO.

CLANTON

Mr L A Campbelle returned from Tampa, Fla., Sunday

Mr. H. J Taylor of Verbena was a visitor here Saturday.

Mr. J. B. Campbell of Jemison gave us a pleasant call Saturday.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of letters remaining uncalled for in the Clanton, Ala., postoffice, for week ending Oct. 9, 1905. Persons calling for same will please say "advertised," and give date. One cent must be paid on each letter.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

S. T. Turner, Flem Mickey, Tobe Kenedy, (col.)

LADIES' LIST.

Mrs. T. H. Poole, Mrs. Mollie Moss.

These letters will be sent to the dead letter office, Oct 23, 1905, if not delivered before.

F. O. DUDLEY Postmaster.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Pleasant Grove.

On the evening of the 9th inst, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. McCary and took away their little three months old boy. It had been sick quite while and all the tender nursing and medical aid that could be obtained availed not to preserve life. A father, mother and little sister survive him. Our tenderest sympathies go with all the bereaved ones. We can only point them to the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the world. God doeth all things well and can take better care of little children than we can. Christ said suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven. J. F.

Don't Borrow Trouble.

It is a bad habit to borrow anything, but the worst thing you can possibly borrow, is trouble. When sick, sore, heavy, weary and worn-out by the pains and poisons of dyspepsia, biliousness, bright's disease, and similar internal disorders, don't sit down and brood over your symptons, but fly for relief to Electric Bitters. Here you will find sure and permanent forgetfulness of all your troubles, and your body will not be burdened by a load of debt disease. At Upchurch drug store. Price 50c. Guaranteed.

Mr. J. R. McDaniel of Montgomery spent Sunday and Monday in town.

Birmingham Paint & Glass Co.

PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH, GLASS,

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Small lots, Car Lots, Contract Lots.

Let us figure with you on
your next bill.

2016-2018 THIRD AVENUE

BIRMINGHAM - ALABAMA

Wanted!

500 Dozen Eggs at 15 cents per dozen.

Also Wool and Beeswax at Montgomery Prices.

MOTTO: "LIVE AND LET LIVE"

W. H. SARTOR

General Merchandise

Corner Seventh Street and Second Ave. CLANTON

Fall and Winter Hardware.

Do not forget that at our store is the place to find Grates, Andirons, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Hods, Fire Guards, Shovels, Coal Vases, Heating Stoves, one and two burner Oil Stoves.

Have received a full supply of Window Panes and Putty, and when you are ready to repair the broken sash, call on us for the panes, we can furnish any size you need.

Would be pleased to give you our prices on Crockery, Glassware and Table Cutlery before you buy elsewhere, we feel sure can please you both in quality and price.

And if you want a lamp, do not consider that the city is the best and only place you can obtain what you wish, but come direct to the Hardware Store and we can show you Lamps worth from 15 c to $8.00 just as nice and pretty as you will see anywhere at a higher price.

Wish to say to mill and gin men that we make a special effort to keep a full stock of Pipe and Fittings, Globe and Check Valves. Oil Cups, Guage Glasses, Inspirators, Jets, Hemp, Flax and Rubber Packing, a good grade of four ply Rubber Belting, Engine and Cylinder Oil.

We have bought the line of Paint recently carried by the Clanton Drug Co., known as Hammar Paint, which we will sell in future with our well known Sun Proof. We also have Carriage and Wagon Paints, Varnish, Stain, Enamels and Japalac Paint and White-wash Brushes, Turpentine and the best Linseed Oil made.

For any kind of Paints come to us, we can furnish it. Also Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Builders' Hardware.

We have never had a more complete stock of General Hardware than now, prices close and quality good. When in town call to see us.

SPIGENER & JONES,

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

Tax Collector T. J. Hubbard and Tax Assessor I. B Pounds will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton county for the year 1905, and assessing the taxes for the year 1906:

				1905
Flint Hill	Beat	11	October	13
Cane Ck. to 12 m.	"	4	"	14
Thorsby	"	9	"	16
Clanton	"	4	"	17
Cooper	"	10	"	18
Verbena	"	5	"	19

Second Round.

				1905
Kincaron	Beat	6	Nov.	1
Enterprise	"	6	"	2
Pletcher	"	8	"	3
[illegible]antonford till 12 m.	"	8	"	4
[illegible]ta too	"	8	"	6
Valley Creek	"	8	"	7
Dixie	"	8	"	8
Shoults	"	7	"	9
Maplesville	"	7	"	10
Benson	"	3	"	11
Macedonia	"	3	"	13
Gentry & Cofer's Mill	"	2	"	14
Hayes' Mill	"	2	"	15
Providence	"	2	"	16
J. Killingsw'th's, to 12 m	"	2	"	17
Mrs Cofers Gin 2 to 4 p m	"	1	"	7
Jemison	"	2	"	18
Smith's Schoolhouse	"	1	"	20
Mineral Springs	"	1	"	21
Flint Hill	"	11	"	22
Providence	"	10	"	23
Burwell	"	10	"	24
Thorsby	"	9	"	27
Clanton	"	4	"	28
Cooper	"	10	"	29
Verbena	"	5	"	30
Mountain Creek	"	5	Dec.	1
James Maddox's Mill	"	4	"	2

Clanton, last ten days in the year, commencing December 20, 1905.

Insomnia and Indigestion Cured.

"Last year I had a severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

Notice to Non-Resident.

The State of Alabama, Chilton county.
Chancery Court. Seventh District, Northeastern Division.
Henry Davis, Complainant, vs. Francis Davis, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit on file of W. A. Jordan, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Francis Davis, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that her place of residence and post office address are unknown to affiant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant, Francis Davis, is over the age of twenty-one years

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in The Banner, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Francis Davis, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 6th day of November, 1905, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons a decree pro confesso may be taken against her in said cause.

Witness my hand this 3d day of October, 1905.
S. A. STEWART, Register in Chancery.

Administrator's Notice.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court. Oct. 7, 1905.
In the Matter of the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased.

Letters of Administration on the Estate of W. H. Mills, deceased, having been granted to the undersigned on the 7th day of October, 1905, by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said Estate, are hereby required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or the same will be barred.
R. P. MILLS, Administrator.

Commissioner's Sale.

Under and by virtue of a commission issued to me on the 27th day of September, 1905, by the Hon L. H. Reynolds as Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, I, H. I. Honeycutt, the Commissioner named in said commission, will proceed to sell, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, on MONDAY, the 30th day of OCTOBER, 1905, between the hours of eleven o'clock in the morning and four o'clock in the afternoon, the following described real estate, to-wit:

W ½ of W ½ of Se ¼ of Se 1-4, and all that part of the Sw 1-4 of the Se 1-4, lying east of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, all in Section 36, of Township 23, of Range 13, containing twenty four acres more or less, except that part now occupied by negro graves, all situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of division and distribution among tenants in common, to-wit: W. W. Ryan, Nellie Paulson, Anetta Larson and Gerhard Larson in pursuance of an order of said Court of Probate.

Given under my hand this the 27th day of September, 1905.
H. I. HONEYCUTT Commissioner.

Cures Chills and Fever.

G. W. Wirt, Nacogdoches, Texas, says: "His daughter had chills and fever for three years; he could not find anything that would help her till he used Herbine. His wife will not keep house without it, and cannot say too much for it." 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Position GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes taken on tuition. BEST and cheapest on earth. Don't delay. Write to-day.

GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

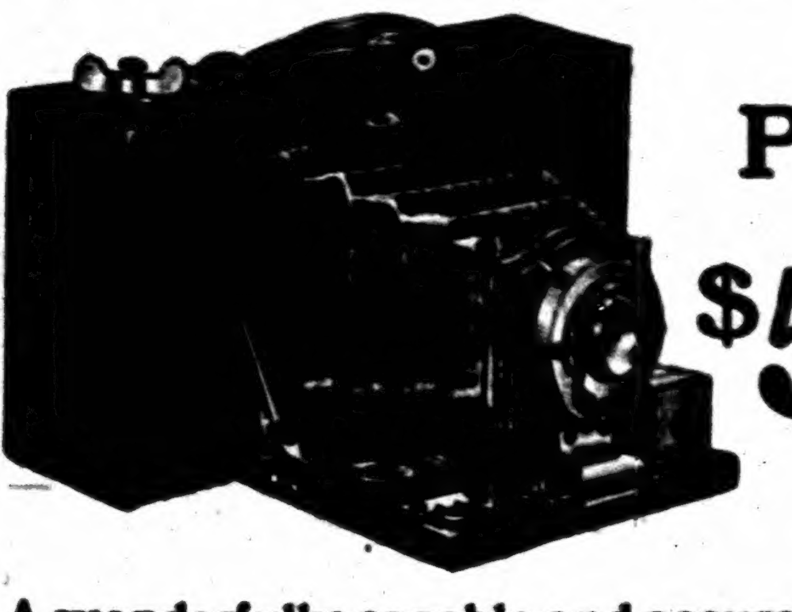
WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION COUGHS and COLDS

Price 50c & $1.00 Free Trial.

Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

No. 2 Folding Brownie



Price, $5.00

A wonderfully capable and accurate camera built on the Kodak plan. Good enough to satisfy experienced photographers, yet so simple that children can use it.

PICTURES 2¼ x 3¼ inches.

Loads in daylight with film Cartridges.

Fitted with meniscus lens, and shutter with iris diaphragm stops.

Full description in Kodak Catalog FREE at any photographic dealers or by mail.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Rochester, N. Y.

—GO TO—

A. M. JOHNSON

—MANAGER OF—

THE CASH GROCERY STORE

THORSBY, ALA.

FOR BARGAINS IN

Staple and Fancy Groceries

We make a specialty of Fresh Fish and Oysters, Fresh Pork Lights and all kinds of Sausage, Breakfast Bacon, Boneless Ham and other

—DELICATESSEN—

Pop, Soda Water and Jersey Butter always on hand.

Country Produce Bought, Sold and Exchanged.

KING OF ALL LINIMENTS

CURES RHEUMATISM AND ALL PAIN

CURES [illegible]

BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT

READ THIS REMARKABLE CURE

"I was much afflicted with rheumatism, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kansas, "going about on crutches and suffering a great deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured me, after using three 50c bottles. IT IS THE GREATEST LINIMENT I EVER USED; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, and am able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm."

THREE SIZES: 25c, 50c AND $1.00

BALLARD SNOW LINIMENT CO.

ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

SOLD AND RECOMMENDED BY

UPCHURCH DRUG CO., CLANTON.

J. F. LEWIS & CO.

MEAT MARKET

BEEF PORK MUTTON

FISH AND GAME IN SEASON

Fresh Sausage a Specialty

OPPOSITE THE BANKS CLANTON

DEMAND THAT M'CALL

Return Money to the Treasury of New York Life Company. Vandiver's Letter.

WILL REVOKE THE LICENSE.

Missouri Insurance Commissioner Demands That New York Life Elect New Officers.

Jefferson City, Mo.—State Superintendent of Insurance W. D. Vandiver Saturday sent a communication to John A. McCall, of the New York Life Insurance Company, demanding that the $148,702 campaign fund contributed be replaced in the treasury of the company under penalty of revocation of the company's license to transact business in Missouri for failure to comply with the demand.

In the communication Superintendent Vandiver also informed President McCall that the Missouri department of insurance will insist on a new president, vice-president and financial committee for the New York Life Insurance Company just as soon as the directors can possibly effect the reorganization.

The letter in full follows:

"To Mr. J. A. McCall, President New York Life Insurance Company:

"The recent startling disclosures in regard to the management of the funds of the New York Life Insurance Company, and particularly the testimony of yourself and other officers of the company given before the investigation committee of the New York legislature, make it my duty as superintendent of insurance for the state of Missouri to communicate to your company the views and requirements of this department, to the end that the policyholders in this state may not be defrauded of any portion of the dividends or surplus earnings that are justly due them on the premiums that they have paid.

Constitute Fiduciary Trust.

"The public has been very properly taught by yourself and other officials of great insurance companies that the funds of the mutual company constitute a fiduciary trust, held and administered for the use of those named as beneficiaries, many of whom are, or will be, widows and orphans; and many thousands of people have taken insurance in your company because of this very fact and the assurance that every dollar of assets belongs to the policyholders. That any portion of the policyholders' premiums or profits on premiums could be diverted to political purposes or other uses not contemplated when the premiums were paid in, and not consistent with the avowed purpose of a life insurance organization, must be considered by all right thinking people as gross violation of a sacred trust, if not embezzlement, as defined by the statutes.

"This department holds, therefore, that all moneys taken by your order from the treasury of the New York Life Insurance Company and donated to any political committee, campaign fund, or legislative agent or lobbyist for aiding or in defeating legislation, whether audited or unaudited on the books of the company, were taken without warrant of law or morals, and without proper appreciation of your responsibilities as trustee of the funds committed to your keeping. And, therefore, this department must insist that all funds so used by you or by your order, and particularly the sum of $148,702, which amount you confess to having contributed out of the funds of the company to the republican national campaign committee for the years 1896, 1900 and 1904, must be replaced in the treasury of said New York Life Insurance Company within the next thirty days.

Will Revoke the License.

"Notice is hereby served upon the New York Life Insurance Company, through you as its president, that unless this requirement is met or assurance is given that it will be met without unnecessary delay, I, as superintendent of insurance for the state of Missouri, will proceed under the provisions of section 8022, revised statutes of Missouri, to cancel or revoke the license of the company to do business in this state.

"There are many other transactions disclosed by the investigation now in progress, particularly the payment of large sums of money to one Judge Hamilton, without any accounting or auditing on the books of the company, and the occupancy of costly real estate of the company by members of your family, and at a rental so low as to be practically a gift of the property, and also the protection of a subsidiary company from the loss of many thousands of dollars by the use of policyholders' money, as well as the immense and disproportionate expense of the company in its mad rush for new business; all of which indicate the grossest impropriety and recklessness in management, and may call for further investigation and official report.

"But from the facts already disclosed it is evident the intent of the policyholders of the New York Life Insurance Company, as well as the public generally, is to demand a change in the management of the company. This department will, therefore, insist that a new president, vice-president and finance committee be put in charge of the affairs of the company as soon as its board of directors may be able to effect the change. Very respectfully, W. D. VANDIVER."

Buys Birmingham Dirt.

Birmingham, Ala.—Representatives of the Illinois Central Railroad have bought centrally located property in Birmingham, for which $130,000 was paid. Options are also held on adjoining property, the value of which whole being $500,000. The property lies between First and Second avenues, and will be used for terminal purposes by the Illinois Central, which will soon extend its lines into this city.

Internal Revenue Statement.

Washington, D. C.—The monthly statement issued by the commissioner of internal revenue shows that the total collections of internal revenue for the month of August 1905, were $19,935,072, which is an increase as compared with August, 1904, of $802,780. The receipts of revenue from the several sources are given as follows: Spirits $9,926,559, increase $242,645; tobacco $4,274,299, increase $256,045; fermented liquors $5,632,863, increase $512,494; oleomargarine, $31,122, increase $12,530; process or renovated butter $10,614, increase $1,929; miscellaneous $59,574, decrease $222,789. For the months of July and August there was a net increase of $1,188,242.

Build Telephone in Gadsden.

Gadsden, Ala.—Work on the independent telephone company will begin in a few days and install a modern telephone system in the city. A representative of the new company states that they will furnish an up-to-date system, automatic phones, metallic circuits and long distance connections from New York to Birmingham, and including numerous other cities and towns. The system when completed will cost about $100,000. The franchise was granted to the new company at a recent meeting of the city council.

To Excavate the Shoals.

Florence, Ala.—The North Alabama Contracting Company, of Florence, has secured a contract for half the excavating on Colbert Shoals, amounting to $350,000. The stockholders of the company are all Florence men, and the work will be under the supervision of Thomas W. Crow and James A. Angel, of this city. Mr. Crow is now in Memphis making preparations to commence the work.

Warehouses Are Taxed.

Union Springs, Ala.—The warehouses, three in number, are taxed to take care of the cotton that is brought in every day. The high prices prevailing here, brought on by the competition between the compress and ware houses, is bringing cotton and trade here from points that formerly went to other markets.

Negro Tries to Cut a Woman's Throat.

Beaumont, Tex.—Lester Renfro, a negro with a criminal record, early Friday morning entered a residence, and when Miss Lucy Brogdon was awakened and tried to make an outcry he cut her across the throat in an effort to murder her. He was indicted the same day for burglary and for the wounding of the young lady, and was given a term of ninety-nine years in the penitentiary.

Killed at Helena.

Birmingham, Ala.—William J. Killough, aged 21 years, son of W. M. Killough, rural free delivery carrier on route No. 8, was fatally hurt at Helena, on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, twelve miles south of Birmingham, Saturday morning about 10 o'clock while at work with a bridge gang. He died while being brought to the city within thirty minutes after the accident.

Big Stove Concern.

Sheffield, Ala.—The King Stove and Foundry Company, of Atlanta, has acquired the Lizzie Lowman stove foundry and organized the King Stove Manufacturing Company with a capital of $100,000 and is enlarging the plant, which from the time of its establishment, about six years ago, has been one of the solid and prosperous industries of this city.

Buried in Ruins.

St. Petersburg.—A five-story building in course of construction on Meschtschankaja street collapsed Saturday and a hundred workmen were buried in the ruins. Up to the time this dispatch was filed only seven of the men had been extricated. They were seriously injured.

Wanted in Little Rock.

Bloomington, Ill.—Harry Wasser, wanted in Little Rock for the alleged theft of $8,000 worth of jewelry, and who has within two weeks escaped from officers twice, was arrested near Ellsworth.

Cotton Mills Start.

Uniontown, Ala.—The Ellawhite Cotton Mill, which has been shut down for several weeks in order to put in new machinery, started up again last week.

B. B. Isom Injured.

Decatur, Ala.—B. B. Isom, a Southern Railroad switchman, was thrown from a car in the yards here and one foot was cut off. He also received internal injuries, but will recover.

YELLOW FEVER NEWS.

The Latest Reports From the Infected District.

New Orleans, La.—In this city the yellow fever report for the last twenty-four hours is as follows: New cases, 17; total cases, 3,112; deaths, 1; total deaths, 411; new foci, 6; cases under treatment, 187; cases discharged, 2,614.

Country Cases.

Reports from the country were:

Patterson, nine new cases, one death.

Kenner, two new cases, one death.

Bayou Natchez, one suspicious case, one death.

Barrataria, one death.

Amelia, two new cases.

Gretna, one case, one death.

Willswood, two new cases, one death.

Mississippi Summary.

Jackson, Miss.—The offcial yellow fever summary for the past twenty-four hours is as follows:

Natchez, eight new cases, two new foci; Roxie, six new cases; Vicksburg, three new cases, one death; Hamburg, one new case, one death, four patients discharged.

Gulfport, Mississippi City, Soria City, Scranton, Moss Point, Port Gibson and Harriston, no new cases and no deaths. This is the third consecutive day that has passed without new infection from the gulf coast. State Health Officer Magee has asked for an allowance of $6,000 for fumigation work to be used under the direction of the marine hospital service.

Increase in Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla.—The following is the summary of the yellow fever situation as given out by the state board of health:

New cases, 22; deaths, 4; total cases, 275; total deaths, 42; discharged, 114; under treatment, 123.

Five Killed and One Wounded.

Indianola, Miss.—Last Saturday was a dark and bloody day in the history of Sunflower county, five people meeting death at violent hands.

Near Woodburn, Miss., Sid Goodall and Jim Hodges engaged in a duel and when the smoke of battle cleared away both were dead upon the battlefield.

About 10 o'clock Saturday morning F. F. Harwell and Frank Fuller, both white, had a difficulty in Rulenville, which portended to be serious, but friends intervened and induced Mr. Harwell to go home. He had proceeded but a short distance when he was overtaken by Fuller, who shot him off his mule, breaking his leg. Fuller then advanced on him to finish up his bloody deed, when Harwell turned over, and pulling his gun, shot Fuller through the heart, killing him instantly.

Later in the day the young son of Harwell had occasion to go to Rulenville, when C. Z. Bennett, who was a friend of the dead Fuller, secreted himself, and without a word of warning emptied both barrels of a shotgun into him, killing him instantly.

The preliminary trial has been postponed. The killing of young Harwell was regarded as one of the most cruel murders that has ever occurred in this county. The elder Harwell is at death's door, and his death is hourly looked for.

At Elliott's mill, near Indianola, one of the most cruel killings that has ever disgraced the criminal annals of Sunflower county occurred Saturday night. In a difficulty at the mills T. Allen, laborer, plunged a knife into Jim Decker seven times, killing him instantly.

Railroad Safe Blown Open.

Anniston, Ala.—News reached here that the safe in the depot of the Seaboard Air Line railroad at Oahatchie was blown open Monday morning and the contents appropriated by the robbers. The robbery occurred between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock, and nitro-glycerine was the explosive used. Entrance was affected through the front door of the office, and the exit through the freight room, where it is supposed the robbers secreted themselves during the explosion. The robbers went into Tarvin's blacksmith shop and secured a monkey wrench and chisel, and these were left on top of the safe. The amount secured was $225 belonging to the road and the Southern Express Company, and all the money of the agent, Miss Hattie McEachern, the amount being about $200. There is no clue as to who the robbers were.

Leg Broken By a Fall.

Birmingham, Ala.—In some mysterious way J. S. Chalmers, employed at the Sunny Brook dairy at Powderly, fell from a wagon Monday and sustained a broken leg. He was brought to the city in an ambulance and carried to the hospital.

Record for Stock Exchange Seat.

New York, N. Y.—A seat on the New York stock exchange was sold for $85,000, a new high record.

Injured Unloading Logs.

Brewton, Ala.—A young white man by the name of Ellis, while unloading logs from the cars at the Cedar Creek mill, was painfully hurt by the end of a log striking him under the chin, large pieces of flesh being knocked off.

Deputy Sheriff Ward Drowned.

Shreveport, La.—News reached the city Saturday of the drowning of Deputy Sheriff T. W. Ward, of the fifth ward of Rossier parish, in Bodcau Bayou Saturday. No one witnessed the accident, and it is not known just how it occurred. It is believed he was fording the bayou and was thrown from his horse. The animal was seen coming out of the bayou riderless and a search resulted in the finding of the body of the missing man. Ward leaves a wife and eight children.

Crushed to Death Beneath a Train.

Raceland, La.—Alidor Robichaux, an old and respected citizen of this place, was crushed to death by one of the switch trains of the Southern Pacific Company on the Raceland plantation of the Messrs. Godchaux, where he was employed as a cane car crater. During a shower he took shelter under an empty car on a switch, when the engine backed in upon him. Mr. Robichaux was once well-to-do, and leaves a large family of grown children.

Killed By Physician's Son.

Opelousas, La.—Dr. Zachary Y. Young, a prominent citizen of this parish and one of the best known men at Ville Platt, was killed by Dougall Thompson, the 22-year-old son of Dr. E. Thompson, another prominent physician of that vicinity, near the home of the deceased.

North Alabama Wants New Judge.

Birmingham, Ala.—At a meeting of the bar association Saturday a committee of fifteen was named to go to Washington when congress meets and use efforts to get a new federal judge for North Alabama. Congressmen Bowie and Underwood attended the meeting and will aid the movement.

Assets Are Far Short.

St. Louis, Mo.—The report of Fred Essen, of the People's United States Bank, filed in the circuit court at Clayton, shows an excess of liabilities over assets amounting to $196,051, according to book values, while the estimated values make it $187,237.

Ask Adjudication as Bankrupt.

Anniston, Ala.—C. P. Johnston has filed a petition with Judge H. D. McCarty for the adjudication as bankrupt of the T. M. Nolen Lumber Company, situated near Talladega. Mrs. T. M. Nolen, a member of the lumber company, resists the adjudication, and will ask for an injunction preventing bankruptcy proceedings.

Dr. Calderon Will Not Return.

Washington, D. C.—Dr. Calderon, who has been for many years Peruvian minister at Washington, and is now on a special mission to Chile, will remain there as minister. He will be succeeded at Washington by Senor Pardo.

Amount is $4,530,000.

Washington, D. C.—The amount of 3 and 4 per cent government bonds received at the treasury department for refund into 2 per cent consols under Secretary Shaw's offer, which went into effect three days ago, is $4,530,000, of which $4,310,600 were 4s and $219,400 3s.

Arrested on Information.

Zachary, La.—On information from the authorities of Tangipahoa parish, Deputy Sheriff Netterville arrested Oscar Oneal for a shooting. Oneal had been around here a short time and on arrival of an officer from that parish he readily confessed as being the right man, and was taken back to Amite to answer the charge.

A Boy Killed and One Wounded.

Memphis, Tenn.—Wild with rage because of the ridicule of several small boys, in front of the Bijou theater on Main street, Monday night, an unknown negro emptied his revolver into a mass of people. One boy is dying, another is dangerously wounded, and a negro girl received slight injuries.

Foot and Leg Broken.

Birmingham, Ala.—While stooping to fix a water pipe the wheel of a wagon run over Stationary Engineer Burns' foot and leg, breaking both. The accident occurred Monday morning at the Cahaba Coal and Coke Company's mine, a few miles from Birmingham, on the Southern railway.

Hot Springs Doctor is Shot.

Hot Springs, Ark.—Dr. G. H. Alexander was shot and killed near his home by Merch Jamison. Dr. Alexander and his daughter, Nora, were going home when they met Jamison who began shooting.

Banker Goes to Poor House.

New York, N. Y.—Jefferson P. Raplee, once a wealthy banker and business associate of Jay Gould, Commodore Vanderbilt and John P. Blair, went to the poor house here Monday.

Fayetteville Flouring Company.

Fayetteville, Tenn.—The Fayetteville Flouring Company, recently organized with a capital stock of $11,000, has elected the following officers: President, A. M. McLaughlin; vice-president, H. K. Holman; secretary and treasurer, J. H. Harms; general manager, C. T. Harms. This company is laying the foundation for their plant, which will be erected near the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad freight depot.

What is Success?

By William E. Towne.

SUCCESS is not merely a question of dollars and cents accumulated wealth mean success always, according standing of the term. Success is a realization of the will enable you to carry out your undertakings. with the idea that money and success are synonymous become so lost in contemplation of the substance as to principle of success upon which the substance depends.

Again, true and lasting success is built only upon a basis of towards your fellow man. You cannot acquire real wealth without value for every penny of it. To obtain money by deceiving your to rob yourself. The law of justice is immutable. Neither can you success in the true sense and realize health and happiness success is an empty name) so long as you hold a grudge of any any living being. The kicker, the pessimist and the chronic fault not true success. This is not a matter of sentiment or religion. law—the immutable law of the universe. The man who is can find it on every street corner, yea in his own house, in his own he who nourishes a grievance does so at his own expense of his ness and success.

Don't give people an opportunity to take undue advantage of don't, for heaven's sake, be everlastingly going around with a chip shoulder. Some people spend more time and energy in getting even fancied grievance than would suffice to make them first-class success

Keep calm; keep your temper and keep at it.

A person with uncontrolled, jerky, nervous movements will waste amount of vital force in an exceedingly short time. Bodily as is taught in the various books on personal magnetism will to conserve this force, and thus make you better able to win success not space here to go into this subject, as it would require to deal with it, but a few hints may prove helpful. The secret of developing magnetism lies in cultivating controlled movements at all Keep the mind on what you are doing and do not allow it to wander time. Useless thinking dissipates force. Avoid the habit of breaking denly when you have started to do something. Don't on any account your mind to run ahead of what you are doing. Don't strain after Don't allow the mind to get in an attitude of straining. This is what thousands of people old before their time.

Life is yours to use only, therefore do not grasp it or hold it. Let it go out from you freely as you go about your work, knowing will take its place. If you grasp life with frenzied grip it will lead nation and death. You are shutting yourself away from the universal tions of life, health and success, and not until you let go and allow expression through you will you be able to realize the things you are for. "He that loseth his life shall find it" applies to the attainment of in a very brief sense.

In conclusion I will give a few brief suggestions for business They may be time honored, but their observance will help you.

Keep awake.
Keep interested.
Keep cool.
Keep your mind concentrated.
Keep from envying those who appear to be more succesful than Keep your thoughts away from business out of business hours.
Relax—create.
Be progressive, but not reckless.
Be business-like.
Be courteus to all.
Be accurate in keeping accounts.
Be prompt.

⁂

The Great Destiny of Jap

By Dr. Walter Page.

WHAT effect will the Japanese victory have on the future and especially on the future of China? This is the that every man asks who studies the world in a large

The saddest fact that the widely traveled or the man finds on the earth is the condition of Asia. part of the human race live yet unhelped by the chanical, economic, and social discoveries whereby Western World has been freed, to a degree, from plagues and poverty and abjectness. These swarming millions of our fellow miss most things that make life worth living, as we regard it—such able safety from hunger and want, reasonable labor, and reasonable —a chance for a child to grow to full stature, to live a normal years, well clad and well fed, and to enjoy also a fair degree of in mind and character. During the few centuries that we have enjoyed things, Asia has hardly changed at all. True, British rule in India has order in a small area and has made life safer and lifted it to a there has been no great change. Such change as has come has imposed. It has not proceeded from within nor taken deep root. look of these hundreds of millions of human creatures is much the it was in the time of Warren Hastings. And China remains in a a less sad plight. The fate that seemed even a year ago to await Oriental peoples was the unsympathetic domination of Western nations chiefly to despoil them in trade—nations which were alien and which force, lacked the ability even when they had the wish to change the condition of Oriental life.

Now Japan's rise to power puts a new force at work in this Old The most important question that touches the lives of hundreds of of men is whether the Japanese can do for other Oriental nations have done for themselves, and what no Western people can do—break stagnation and lift them to the Western level in health, in normal in opportunity. They are akin to the Chinese in race and thought guage and religion; and they are much nearer than any branch of race to the other Asiatics. Their ambition, too, must urge them to nobling effort.

This much at least is true—whereas there was no hope of European ening Asia to a healthful and active existence, there is now a chance Japanese may do this great task in the course of the coming It is the greatest task of human helpfulness that is presented in tion of mankind—to lift half the human race from sadness into activities.—World's Work.

⁂

Why Landlords Object to Childr

loomy Views of the Rising Generation

By Heinrich B. O'Tool.

I AM a real estate broker and also manage several estates. infrequent for us to hear from some man or woman, that children are not wanted in our flats, remarks like you want us to kill our children?" "What are we to our children?" "You must hate children," and other asinine comments.

Children of today are not brought up as they should cipline is not taught and applied as in the old days. In my boyhood respect to your elders, subordination to authority, education manners, as well as in schooling. It also meant punishment for mitted as a preventive for the future.

Nowadays a mother seems to think her child can do no wrong is above reprimand or correction.

What a folly! The result of this mistaken kindness is that a tage of the children of today are nuisances and objectionable —especially to owners of realty, whose property is destroyed, wasted ured by these young free lances.

The old proverb "Spare the rod and spoil the child" is just as as when it was written.

Children have not the reasoning faculties—they have to be through experience and training. While there may be little angels sexes, lovely, refined, intelligent and above doing harm and wrong remains that they are the exceptions. The great majority of to be taught through pain and fear the lessons of self-control and others' rights and privileges.

It was a great mistake in my judgment to abolish corporal in the public schools. The majority of school teachers in all the tell you that impudence and disrespect are more common and in the days when the rattan was applied to the hoodlums and the tle roughs and toughs now defy their teachers and laugh at such ishment as being "kept for a few minutes after school hours." contaminates other children who sit in the classes with the

The result you know; and you cannot blame owners, janitors who draw strict rules against children. They have suffered from misdeeds and lack of discipline, and have to safeguard themselves further troubles, annoyance and loss by what seems to some not think or care to think) selfishness and injustice. Actually and wrong are all on the side of families with undisciplined parents and guardians who object to proper rules and require

The total number of men in the United States liable to military service is 11,222,750.

San Francisco's dema is so great it has cre famine in California.

EY TROUBLE
E TO CATARRH.

Curative Power of PE-RU-NA Kidney Disease the Talk of the Continent.

J. Hertz, Member of Ancient Workmen, Capitol Lodge, No. Street Hotel, Albany, N. Y.

months ago I contracted a heavy settled in my kidneys, and each was exposed to inclement weather was aggravated until finally I to work.

trying many of the advertised for kidney trouble, I finally Peruna.

week the intense pains in my were much relieved and in four I was able to take up my work

continued to use Peruna for anmonth and at the end of that time perfectly well.

take a dose or two when I have exposed and find that it is splendid me well."

Hundreds of Cures.

Hartman is constantly in receipt of from people who have been of chronic and complicated kidney by Peruna. For free medical ad Address Dr. Hartman, President of Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Mozley's
Lemon Elixir
The Ideal Summer Medicine

Cures Constipation, Indigestion, Stomach, Headache, Colic, Disordered Liver and Kidneys, and keeps the system in perfect condition by regulating the bowels.

Tones Up the System and enables you to enjoy the summer. Pleasant to take, gentle action, but thorough in results. and $1.00 at drug stores.

"ONE DOSE CONVINCES."

O'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
ONSUMPTION

Poorest Prime Minister.

Marquis Ito is of comparatively birth. His father, Juzo Ito, rustic gardener. It is said that Marquis is the poorest prime minister actual or retired, in the world. went to Europe by working passage, having stowed himself on board a ship bound for Liverpool a bale of silk, in which he lay for thirty-six hours, in order to escape the vengeance of the conservative party, which resented advanced views and attempts to raise Japan. He is now, perhaps the most western in his tastes the Japanese, and it is his custom to spend five hours a day in reading European newspapers and magazines.

Great Admirer of Byron.

Englishman, Sir J. G. T. Sinclair enthusiastic an admirer of Byron has built in London—in Fleet a Byron house in the poet's There is a medallion of Byron door, surrounded by a wreath in statuary marble, and an inside, while several hundreds of his poetry are engraved on tablets on the walls of the en lobby and staircase.

largest raindrops are about one of an inch in diameter.

"GOLD GOLD"
" He Says, "But Comfort Better."

that fits is better than a gold says a grateful man.

I commenced to use Grape-Nuts no man on earth ever had a affliction from catarrh of the than I had for years.

could eat nothing but the very food and even that gave me distress.

through the catalogue of prepared foods but found them all (except Nuts) more or less indigestible, gas in the stomach (which produced headache and various pains and aches), and otherwise able for my use.

Grape-Nuts food I have found easily and assimilated, and it has re my health and vigor and made a well man again. The catarrh of stomach has disappeared entirely its attendant ills, thanks to Nuts, which now is my almost I want no other." Name by Postum Co., Battle Creek.

days' trial tells the story. a reason.

Old
Prof. timore w which h land mo principal crown a the city to discov are in f are the rock tha
These
from vo latter fo stones heated in these the whol a molten was for form an forced
The metal b green a
Dr. Uhle were som

Portr
The fa
pires in curate a great m caused mirers o set them ture of and to b tory. T years, is
A. Lowe ton, wh
the exac
Lee's r days aft
ture has the Lee most p
the gene when fin
art of st
thus be

Pra Attack
newspap millionai
vay. Hot are good
"gondola ican rec carpente decorato put mon ous elec
other wo

Bi
Dr. Ad
burg, ha ding pri bicycles therefor call atte ceased sport, an wheel m who hav congrega places

Letter Fr
Pat
Marcus America

several w ly they w back, be tacks an glad to remedy
(Signed
Sold b
Foster-M

B
Robert sistant than us
His train that has the incu will be were Fr
Hay, and Wharton
these w in either whereas in busine

In the Consur-Sa 160 and ebrated of their their pla

A sig
bears th Pichot, d floors, un val and provided

The co
dents of sities in the amo insuranc

The fa
Glasgow
900 poun

uccess?

owne.

a question of dollars and cents, nean success always, according to Success is a realization of the ry out your undertakings. If you oney and success are synonymous templation of the substance as to pon which the substance depends. is built only upon a basis of strict not acquire real wealth without btain money by deceiving your e is immutable. Neither can you lize health and happiness (with as you hold a grudge of any sort pessimist and the chronic fault find atter of sentiment or religion. It is verse. The man who is looking for ca in his own house, in his own room, so at his own expense of his health, lity to take undue advantage of singly going around with a chip on time and energy in getting even for e to make them first-class successes. nd keep at it.

nervous movements will waste a ngly short time. Bodily self-control s on personal magnetism will help ke you better able to win success. would require a separate prove helpful. The secret of retaining vating controlled movements at all ing and do not allow it to wander force. Avoid the habit of breaking off something. Don't on any account ou are doing. Don't strain after any attitude of straining. This is what time.

e do not grasp it or hold it. Express u go about your work, knowing that ife with frenzied grip it will lead to g yourself away from the universal t not until you let go and allow life to able to realize the things you are str nd it" applies to the attainment of brief suggestions for business observance will help you.

ppear to be more successful than yo business out of business hours.

* * *

estiny of Japa

ge.

nese victory have on the future of future of China? This is the que ho studies the world in a large wa at the widely traveled or the widely h is the condition of Asia. The gr e live yet unhelped by the sanitary, d social discoveries whereby life i a degree, from plagues and famine arming millions of our fellow cre th living, as we regard it—such as re reasonable labor, and reasonable fre full stature, to live a normal numb enjoy also a fair degree of indepe few centuries that we have enjoyed l. True, British rule in India has b life safer and lifted it to a degre uch change as has come has been n within nor taken deep root. Th of human creatures is much the sa ings. And China remains in a sim emed even a year ago to await all etic domination of Western nations, ions which were alien and which, hey had the wish to change the sta

a new force at work in this Old W ouches the lives of hundreds of mi do for other Oriental nations what no Western people can do—break up ern level in health, in normal activity he Chinese in race and thought and uch nearer than any branch of the mbition, too, must urge them to th

reas there was no hope of Europe's existence, there is now a chance th in the course of the coming cen lpfulness that is presented in the uman race from sadness into hea

* * *

rds

ct to Childre

he Rising Generation.

ch B. O'Tool.

nd also manage several estates. It r from some man or woman, when nted in our flats, remarks like this: children!" "What are we to do ust date children!" and other si not brought up as they should be. the old days. In my boyhood it n to authority, education in morals also meant punishment for errors ink her child can do not wrong; th mistaken kindness is that a big isances and objectionable in many e property is destroyed, wasted or and spoil the child" is just as good g faculties—they have to be deve hile there may be little angels of above doing harm and wrong, the s. The great majority of juveniles the lessons of self-control and to judgment to abolish corporal puni of school teachers in all the borough t are more common and pronounced lied to the hoodlums and the vicious teachers and laugh at such a light nutes after school hours." Their in the classes with the bad ones. annot blame owners, janitors and en. They have suffered from chil d have to safeguard themselves by what seems to some persons s and injustice. Actually the families with undisciplined children proper rules and requirements.

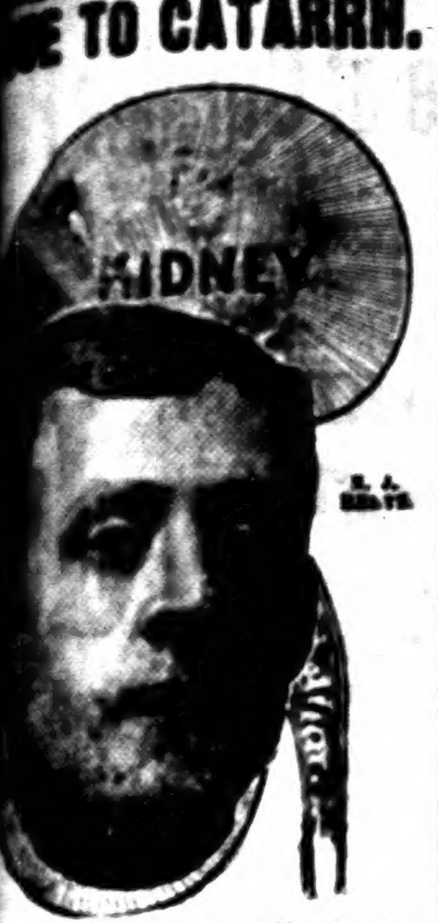
San Francisco's demand fo is so great it has crea famine in California.

EY TROUBLE
E TO CATARRH.



urative Power of PE-RU-NA Kidney Disease the Talk of the Continent.

J. Hertz, Member of Ancient Workmen, Capitol Lodge, No. Street Hotel, Albany, N. Y.,

months ago I contracted a heavy settled in my kidneys, and each was exposed to inclement weather was aggravated until finally I to work.

trying many of the advertised for kidney trouble, I finally Peruna.

week the intense pains in my much relieved and in four I was able to take up my work to use Peruna for an month and at the end of that time perfectly well.

take a dose or two when I have and find that it is splendid be well.

Hundreds of Cures.

Hartman is constantly in receipt of from people who have been chronic and complicated kidney by Peruna. For free medical address Dr. Hartman, President of Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Mozley's
Lemon Elixir
The
eal Summer Medicine

ures Constipation, Indigestion, Stomach, Headache, Colic, rdered Liver and Kidneys, and the system in perfect condition by regulating the bowels.

nes Up the System enables you to enjoy the summer. Pleasant to take; gentle action, but thorough in results. and $1 at drug stores.

"ONE DOSE CONVINCES."

O'S CURE FOR
WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
ONSUMPTION
25 CTS

Poorest Prime Minister.

Ito is of comparatively birth. His father, Juzo Ito, gardener. It is said that is the poorest prime minister, actual or retired, in the world. went to Europe by working passage, having stowed himself on board a ship bound for Liverpool in a bale of silk, in which he lay for thirty-six hours, in order to escape the vengeance of the party, which resented advanced views and attempts to Japan. He is now, perhaps, the most western in his tastes of the Japanese, and it is his custom to spend five hours a day in reading European newspapers and

Great Admirer of Byron.

Englishman, Sir J. G. T. Sinclair enthusiastic an admirer of Byron has built in London—in Fleet a Byron house in the poet's There is a medallion of Byron door, surrounded by a wreath in statuary marble, and an inside, while several hundreds of his poetry are engraved on tablets on the walls of the en lobby and staircase.

argest raindrops are about one an inch in diameter.

"COLD COLD"

He says, "But Comfort Better."

that fits is better than a gold says a grateful man.

I commenced to use Grape- had no man on earth ever had a affliction from catarrh of the than I had for years.

could eat nothing but the very food and even that gave me distress.

through the catalogue of pre foods but found them all (except Nuts) more or less indigestible, gas in the stomach (which produced headache and various pains and aches), and otherwise able for my use.

Grape-Nuts food I have found easily and assimilated, and it has re my health and vigor and made well man again. The catarrh of stomach has disappeared entirely all its attendant ills, thanks to Nuts, which now is my almost food. I want no other." Name by Postum Co., Battle Creek,

days' trial tells the story. a reason.

Old Volcanoes in Maryland.

Prof. Philip R. Uhler returns to Baltimore with the report of a discovery which he made in the Western Maryland mountains. Three peaks, the principal one named Buzzard's Knob, crown a plateau about six miles from the city. It was for Professor Uhler to discover that the three prominences are in fact volcanoes, and that they are the very oldest type of volcanic rock that is found in the United States. These peaks are of a different form from volcanoes like Vesuvius. In the latter form of volcano molten lava and stones are forced up by the superheated steam, leaving a deep hole, but in these craters in Western Maryland the whole mountain was originally in a molten condition and the top crust was forced upward in a dome-shaped form, and such lava as did escape was forced out in vents at various places. The volcanic rock of the regions is metal-bearing and specimens of gray, green and gold copper were found by Dr. Uhler. The domes of the craters were somewhat eliptical in shape.

Portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

The fact that too frequently it transpires in American history that no accurate and authentic portrait of her great men is faithfully preserved has caused a number of the devoted admirers of Gen. Robert E. Lee to interest themselves to cause a perfect picture of the great general to be made and to be preserved for all future history. This work, after a lapse of forty years, is now under way by the John A. Lowell Bank Note Company, of Boston, who are using for this purpose the exact photograph made at General Lee's residence in Richmond a few days after the surrender, which picture has always been considered by the Lee family and friends as the most perfect likeness ever taken of the general at this period. The work, when finished, will be of the highest art of steel engraving, so that it will thus be preserved for all future time.

Praise for "Freak Dinners."

Attacks having been made in the newspapers on the "freak" dinners of millionaires, the secretary of the Savoy Hotel, London, replies that they are good for trade. The celebrated "gondola dinner," given by an American recently, gave employment to 100 carpenters, thirty painters and twenty decorators, all at "fancy" wages, and put money into the pockets of numerous electricians, florists, artists and other workers.

Bishop Opposes Bicycles.

Dr. Adolph Fritzen, bishop of Strasburg, has again issued an edict forbidding priests within his diocese to use bicycles. He is sharply criticised therefor by the newspapers, which call attention to the fact that bicycling ceased long ago to be a mere secular sport, and that priests often find the wheel most useful, especially those who have to visit members of their congregation in remote country places.

GRATIFYING PRAISE.

Letter From Marcus Mayer, the Great Patron of Music and Drama.

Marcus R. Mayer, who brought to America Mme. Patti, Duse, Salvini, Coquelin and other famous singers and actors, writes:

Gentlemen: I wish as many suffering men and women as I can reach to know the excellence of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was greatly benefited by this remedy and know it cured several who had kidney trouble so badly they were agonized with pain in the back, head and loins, rheumatic attacks and urinary disorders. I am glad to recommend such a deserving remedy.

(Signed) MARCUS R. MAYER.

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Bacon a Business Man.

Robert Bacon's appointment as assistant secretary of state is of more than usual interest in one respect. His training has not been of the kind that has usually been looked for in the incumbent of the office which he will hold. Among his predecessors were Frederick W. Seward and John Hay, and more recently Messrs. Rives Wharton, Uhl, Day and Hill. All of these were men more or less skilled in either diplomacy, literature or law, whereas Mr. Bacon's training has been in business, and especially in finance.

Wedded Long.

In the village of Verjux, near Chalonsur-Saone, France, a couple, aged 100 and 90, respectively, have just celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of their wedding, which they called their platinum wedding.

Jack of All Trades.

A signboard in Chartres, France, bears the following inscription: "E. Pichot, dealer in firewood, polisher of floors, undertaker and emblamer, festival and wedding dinners and suppers provided. Debtors evicted."

College Salaries.

The combined salaries of the presidents of the fourteen leading universities in the United States do not equal the amount paid the head of one life insurance company.

The famous marble staircase of the Glasgow municipal buildings cost 30,000 pounds sterling.

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. Kline, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

A Londoner suggests that church bells be abolished.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c. a bottle

The population of France increased only 2,701,000 in forty years.

Avoid Yellow Fever.

Use the great antiseptic preventative, Sloan's Liniment. Six drops of Sloan's Liniment on a teaspoonful of sugar will kill yellow fever and malaria germs.

The income of Oxford University is slightly under $350,000 a year.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. Samuel, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900

About 90,000 tons of butter are made yearly in Great Britain.

Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullen is Nature's great remedy—Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. At druggists, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Schwab's Dinner Service.

Charles M. Schwab has placed an order for a carved gilt dinner service at a cost of $150,000. This splendid collection of silver, it is said, will be the finest ever made for a private dining room. It is being manufactured by a firm at Providence, R. I., which makes a specialty of elaborate silverware. With the gold effect, the set will make a most striking appearance. Antique lines will be followed in the manufacture and elaborate hand-work will be a notable factor in the cost.

BABY ONE SOLID SORE

Could Not Shut Her Eyes to Sleep—Forty Boils on Head—Spent $100 on Doctors —Baby Grew Worse—Cured by Cuticura For $5.

"A scab formed on my baby's face, spreading until it completely covered her from head to foot, followed by boils, having forty on her head at one time, and more on her body. Then her skin started to dry up and it became so bad she could not shut her eyes to sleep. One month's treatment with Cuticura Soap and Ointment made a complete cure. Doctors and medicines had cost over $100, with baby growing worse. Then we spent less than $5 for Cuticura and cured her. (Signed) Mrs. G. H. Tucker, Jr., 335 Greenfield Ave., Milwaukee, Wis."

An inventor has patented a process for improving the flavor of raw coffee.

Vegetation Defies Cold.

"People in the far north latitudes would have a bad time of it if vegetation was wholly dependent upon the heat of the sun," says a scientist. "As a matter of fact, wheat will grow in soil that, even in midsummer, is not thawed more than a foot below the surface. In Norway oats ripen under 69 degrees of north latitude, rye a half degree and barley a whole degree further north. In Mammerfest, in latitude 70 degrees, the grass grows underneath the snow. It has been found by experiment that in latitude 65 degrees north barley will grow two and a half inches and peas three inches in the twenty-four hours for several consecutive days. Barley is harvested in the week after being sown."

He Stopped a Battle.

While regiments of London volunteers were engaged in a sham battle in the suburbs the other day a man on a coach, passing along a neighboring road, sounded "Cease firing" on his bugle. The call was passed along the lines and the battle was suspended till the joke was discovered.

The Kaiser's Gift.

A gold metal, a pipe and five pounds of tobacco constituted the kaiser's gift to Franz Grunwald, an inveterate smoker, who celebrated his 104th birthday at Burg, Prussia, recently.

Prosperity's Lesson.

Electric light is being used in the Congressional district in Kansas are vacant, going to show that as the people grow wealthy they become more careful.

Advancing the Farmers' Interests.

Traveling agents and salesmen are now sent from the home offices of the Chicago packers into all South American and Asiatic countries. They are going into every land, no matter what language may be spoken or what money be used. They will exchange their goods for cowries or elephant tusks—anything to sell the product and get something in return convertible into money. It may seem odd to some folks, but traveling men, carrying cases with samples of American meat products, can be seen in the desert of Sahara, the sands of Zanzibar or in Brazil, "where the nuts come from." Great is the enterprise of the Yankee merchant. The greater the market, the greater the price and stability of the price of the product and all that goes to make it in its various stages.

Still Uses Goose Quills.

George Meredith is one of the group of authors who remain faithful to the old-fashioned quill pen. There be those who believe that no work of genius can be produced with anything else in the way of pens and the authorities of the British museum seem to agree with them, for they still offer to visitors the good old goose quill.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE
OFTEN THE BEST PART OF LIFE
Help for Women Passing Through Change of Life.

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely.

Mrs. Mary Koehne

Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth.

When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation, and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up woman's nervous system and during the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here is an illustration. Mrs. Mary L. Koehne, 371 Garfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years in my family and it never disappoints; so when I felt that I was nearing the change of life I commenced treatment with it. I took in all about six bottles and it did me a great deal of good. It stopped my dizzy spells, pains in my back and the headaches with which I had suffered for months before taking the Compound. I feel that if it had not been for this great medicine for women that I should not have been alive to-day. It is splendid for women, old or young, and will surely cure all female disorders."

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick and ailing women to write her for advice. Her great experience is at their service, free of cost.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 41, 1905.

CONCENTRATED
Crab Orchard
Water...

TRADE MARK.

A SPECIFIC FOR

3 DYSPEPSIA, SICK HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION. 3

The three "Ills" that make life a burden. Nature's great remedy. In use for almost a century. Sold by all druggists.

CRAB ORCHARD WATER CO.,
Louisville, Ky.

25,000 FREE SAMPLES
GILBERT'S
GRAVEL WEED COMPOUND.

The Great Tonic is Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when, through neglect or other cause, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorders of these most important organs.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need your attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Gilbert's Gravel Weed Compound, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one. Write us for a sample of this famous remedy—will be sent free of charge.

THE T. H. GILBERT DRUG CO. Huntsville, Ala.

Regular sizes sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

PAXTINE TOILET ANTISEPTIC

FOR WOMEN troubled with ills peculiar to their sex, used as a douche is marvelously successful. Thoroughly cleanses, kills disease germs, stops discharges, heals inflammation and local soreness, cures leucorrhœa and nasal catarrh.

Paxtine is in powder form to be dissolved in pure water, and is far more cleansing, healing, germicidal and economical than liquid antiseptics for all

TOILET AND WOMEN'S SPECIAL USES

For sale at druggists, 50 cents a box.

Trial Box and Book of Instructions Free.

THE R. PAXTON COMPANY BOSTON, MASS.

UNSEEN IN A SAW

There are unseen things about this Saw. You cannot see the temper of the steel which takes a sharp cutting edge and holds it longer than any other Saw. You cannot see the toughness of them; bends without a break or a kink. SILVER STEEL, the finest crucible steel in the world, is made on the Atkins formula, tempered and hardened by the Atkins secret process, and used only in Atkins Saws. You cannot see the perfectly graduated taper of the blade; runs easily, without buckling.

But you can see the Atkins trade-mark and it is your protection when you buy a Saw. We are saw-makers and our trade-mark on a Saw means that it is our own make and that we are justly proud of it. We make all types and sizes of Saws for all purposes.

Atkins Saws, Corn Knives, Perfection Floor Scrapers, etc., are sold by all good hardware dealers. Catalogue on request.

E. C. ATKINS & CO., Inc.
Largest Saw Manufacturers in the World.
Factory and Executive Offices, Indianapolis, Indiana.
BRANCHES: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland (Oregon), Seattle, San Francisco, Memphis, Atlanta and Toronto (Canada).
Accept no Substitute—Insist on the Atkins Brand
SOLD BY GOOD DEALERS EVERYWHERE

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 SHOES FOR MEN
W. L. Douglas $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price.

W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES ALL PRICES
BEST IN THE WORLD
ALL STYLES
THE WORLD'S GREATEST SHOEMAKER
SOLE AGENTS FOR W.L.DOUGLAS SHOES

Established July 4, 1876.

W.L.DOUGLAS MAKES AND SELLS MORE MEN'S $3.50 SHOES THAN ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting, and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5.00 to $7.00 — the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced in the world.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

W. L. Douglas Strong Made Shoes for Men, $2.50, $2.00. Boys' School & Dress Shoes, $2.50, $2, $1.75, $1.50

CAUTION.—Insist upon having W. L. Douglas shoes. Take no substitute. None genuine without his name and price stamped on bottom.

WANTED. A shoe dealer in every town where W. L. Douglas Shoes are not sold. Full line of samples sent free for inspection upon request.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

At Last--Don't Miss It.
A CURE FOR Stomach Trouble
Science declares it the only way.
A New Method. By Absorption. No Drugs.
FREE!
DO YOU BELCH?

It means a diseased Stomach. Are you afflicted with Short Breath, Gas, Sour Eructations, Heart Pains, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Burning Pains and Lead Weight in Pit of Stomach, Acid Stomach, Distended Abdomen, Dizziness, Colic, Sick Headache, Pimples, Bad plexion, BAD BREATH or Any Other Stomach Torture?

LET US SEND YOU A SAMPLE BOX OF Mull's Anti Belch Wafers
FREE TO CONVINCE YOU THAT IT CURES.

Nothing else like it known. It's sure and pleasant. Cures by absorption. Harmless. No drugs. Stomach Trouble can't be cured otherwise—so says Medical Science. Drugs won't do—they eat up the Stomach and make you worse.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers cure and we want you to know it, hence this offer.

SPECIAL OFFER.—The regular price of Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers is 50c. for a full sized box, but to introduce it to thousands of sufferers we will send two (2) boxes upon receipt of 75c. and this advertisement, or we will send you a sample free for this coupon.

10145. COUPON 127.
THIS IS GOOD FOR A FREE BOX.
Send this ad, with your name and address, and the name of a druggist who does NOT sell it for a FREE sample box of Mull's Anti Belch Wafers to MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CO., 328 Third Ave., Rock Island, Ill. Give full address and write plainly. Write to-day as this offer may not appear again. SOLD AT DRUG STORES, 50 cents per box.

Avery & Company
SUCCESSORS TO
AVERY & McMILLAN,
51-53 South Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.
—ALL KINDS OF—
MACHINERY
Reliable Frick Engines. Boilers, all Sizes. Wheat Separators.

BEST IMPROVED SAW MILL ON EARTH.
Large Engines and Boilers supplied promptly. Shingle Mills, Corn Mills, Circular Saws, Saw Teeth, Patent Dogs, Steam Governors, Full line Engines & Mill Supplies. Send for free Catalogue.

WANTED-- Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who were drafted in Kentucky, (3) of mothers of soldiers who have been denied pension on account of their remarriage, (4) of men who served in the Federal army, or (5) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased.
NATHAN BICKFORD, Attorney,
Washington, D. C.

MONEY $$$ Write to E. E. Behr, La Crosse, Wis.

NEEDLES, SHUTTLES, REPAIRS. FOR ALL SEWING MACHINES. Standard Goods Only. Free Catalogue to Dealers. BLELOCK MFG. CO., 913 Locust St., ST. LOUIS, MO.

THE BEST
Antiseptic
Remedy
For Family and Farm
SLOAN'S LINIMENT
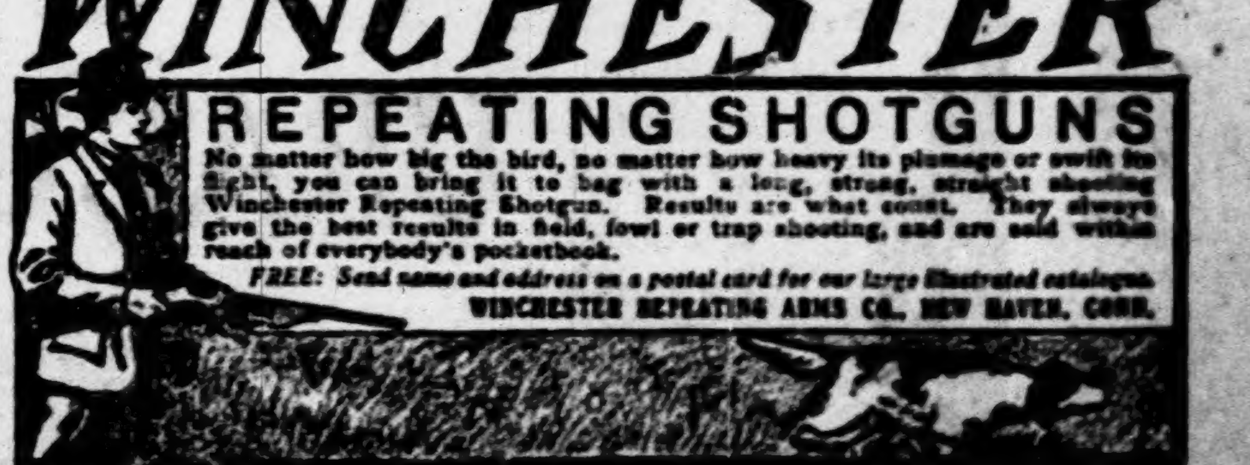
KILLS PAIN.
Dr. EARL S. SLOAN,
615 Albany Street, Boston, Mass.

IF IT'S CHILLS YOU HAVE, IT'S OXIDINE YOU NEED

It is sold under ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE, and if you are not cured your druggist will refund your money. Made also in Tasteless Form. Sold by all druggists for 50 cents per Bottle.

PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.
Mfrs, Dallas, Tex. and Memphis, Tenn.

WINCHESTER



REPEATING SHOTGUNS

No matter how big the bird, no matter how heavy its plumage or swift its flight, you can bring it to bag with a long, strong, straight shooting Winchester Repeating Shotgun. Results are what count. They always give the best results in field, fowl or trap shooting, and are sold within reach of everybody's pocketbook.

FREE: Send name and address on a postal card for our large illustrated catalogue.

WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., NEW HAVEN, CONN.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To cure, or money refunded by your merchant, so why not try it? Price 50c.

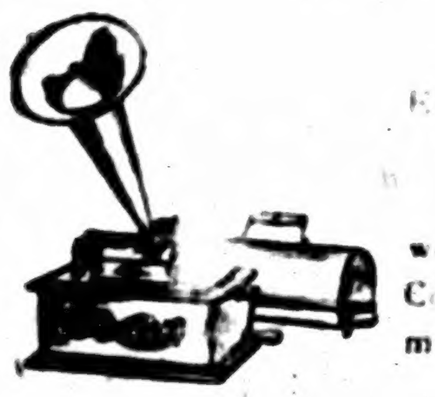
BIG STOCK

LOW PRICE

Anti good people of Chilton county, we have laid comprising all latest fashions and nov your attention to our line of

LADIES' immed Hats and Millinery of all kinds; Dress Goods; Underwear; Jackets of the latest styles; Broadcloth Ski wonderfully reduced prices; Shoes

GENT'S Hats, and a special line of 500 pairs of sample Shoes, worth from $3 50 to $5 00, to be closed out at $2 50 per pair; heavy fleeced lined, to go at 39 cents



MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

EDISON PHONOGRAPHS

VIOLINS, GUITARS, Etc

we keep in stock at the very lowest prices Come and hear the Phonograph talk—they make life worth living.

H. KANJUTZKY

THE FAVORITE STORE

Clanton, Ala.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

a good thing when they see it, and for t reason EVERYBODY should come and see the good things here. EVERYTHI you need, from a button to a wagon, from a needle to a coffin.

W. I. MULLINS

CLANTON - - - ALA

I SELL.

Pianos and Organs for the Jesse French Piano and Organ Company Life Insurance for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, paid to pol cy holders since organization in 1845 over $220,000,000.

Fire Insurance for the London & Lancashire, the Liverpool & London & Globe, and other leading Fire Insurance Companys.

And will have on hand at all times a complete stock of the celebrated High rm Singer Sewing Machines which we are selling at a reduced price. We have four styles now from which you may select, ranging from $48 00 to $60.00 on easy payments. Still a big discount from these prices for cash and also an allowance for your old machine. Machines rented, repaired and crated for shipping Needles, Oil, Bands, Cans and Singer Attachments. My regular office days, Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week.

C. R. MULLINS, Agent,

Singer Office, CLANTON

Job P ting ch ap t HE BANNER Office

NEW STORE

Now Open Ready For Business

THREE DOORS FROM COURT HOUSE

We will handle a general line of merchandise that will be bought and sold right Expect to buy cotton and country produce.

We want your business and will do what we can to please you, both in prices, quality and fair dealings.

Our motto is to please our customers Call and see us, we are a new firm as well as new comers and want to get acquainted with the people.

Give us a chance at your Cotton, Wool and everything you have to sell.

M. F. CANNON & SONS

Successors to Clanton Furniture Co.

A FINE SHOW OF

MILLINERY

Tailored Hats

Pattern Hats

Ladies' Street Hats

CHILDREN'S SCHOOL SAILORS. 50 Cents and up.

W. KANTER & BRO.

General Merchandise

CLANTON - - - ALA.

PATTILLO BROS.

MANUFACTURERS OF AND DEALERS IN

YELLOW PINE LUMBER

Can supply all kinds of rough and dressed lumber. Flooring, ceiling, etc. loaded direct on to cars on the L. & N. R. R. at Verbena. If you are going to build, get our prices, they will be satisfactory to you

PATTILLO BROS.

VERBENA, ALA.

B. H. DUKE & BRO. will carry our Flooring and Ceiling in stock for the Clanton trade.

A Painless Cure of Curable P

Never resign yourself to suffer pain. pains are curable. They are the sign of conditions of the female organs, which should promptly attended to or dangerous results will f

TAKE

Wine of Cardu

IT COMES TO WOMAN'S RELIEF

whenever she suffers from any of woman's biting and weakening It not only compels the pains to stop, but it follows up and the cause of the pains, which prevents them from coming back.

It makes you well. Try it.

Sold everywhere in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"WITHOUT A PAIN" writes Mary Shelton, of Bluff, Mo., "I can do my although, before taking CARDUI doctors had done me no good. truthfully say I was cured by I want every suffering lady to this wonderful medicine."

BARGAINS

FOR YOU.

Between the 18th of September and the 2 December, I will have

BARGAIN DAY

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fri

OF EACH WEEK, AND ON

THESE DAYS ONLY

will give a discount of 20 per cent off regular prices on all Dry Goods, Shoes, Clothing. My goods are priced as low merchant can afford to sell, but I have very large quantities of goods as I had in large lots in order to secure the prices and as it is against my business ciples to carry any goods over from one son to another, I am offering these days in order to reduce my stock. This cent discount will reduce the price of Prints to less than 5 cents, and Rescue from 7 cents to about 5 1-2 cents, Shoes $1.50 and $1.25 to $1.20 and $1.00 respectively, and everything else proportionately.

Think what this will save you and call here on these your goods. No goods can be charged to any one at these here is positively no profit on them whatever.

I also buy cotton and pay Montgomery prices less the nd selling expenses for same, and weights guaranteed rrect.

I also buy Wool and all other country produce, paying market price obtainable, and loan money on cotton at a rate of interest.

Call to see me when in need of anything either for cash

C. A. PATTILLO

BILLINGSLEY, ALA

STOP THE LEAK!!

Just so surely as the wasting sands of a broken hour glass shorten the time it has to run; so will Liver, Kidney or Bladder trouble waste away your health and strength and shorten the length of your life. If you had a broken hour glass and wanted it to run the full hour instead of half that time, you would stop the leak. Is not your life infinitely more precious? Don't you want to live just as long as you possibly can? Then stop the leak. Perhaps you don't know that the leak exists—you may have suffered with Backache, Shortness of Breath, Loss of Appetite, Fever, Sleeplessness, Vertigo, Constipation, Sallow Complexion, Sour Stomach, High Colored Urine, Yellowish Eyeballs, Coated Tongue, Depression, Headache, Nervousness, but did not know what they meant. You thought you just weren't feeling well and for some unaccountable reason one or all of these troubles just happened. Don't you know that nothing "just happens" in nature? Don't you know that these symptoms are just as sure an indication of Liver, Kidney or Bladder Trouble as a growing weed is an indication that a seed was planted before the weed ever grew? There never yet was an effect without its cause—then the only way to cure the effect is to cure the cause; just the same as you have to pull the weed out by the roots before you can stop its growth. Can you afford to risk the constant leak of health that may be going on, when an absolute test and a sure cure is offered you?

URACURA Will Cure You

as well as being a certain test for kidney or bladder trouble. After taking a few doses of this remedy you will find, if you have either of these diseases, that the urine is of a very dark or reddish color. This is the test. But in addition to this you will notice that the urine has a strong odor of the medicine, proving conclusively that it has begun its great curative work and has permeated thoroughly the kidneys and bladder where it is soothing pain and inflammation and destroying the roots of the disease. After two or three days the urine will clear up; you will feel less pain about the kidneys and the pains in the back will leave. Your nervousness will disappear and you will feel better and stronger in every way. Uracura is the greatest Nervine Tonic, Blood Alterative, Liver Regulator and Kidney and Bladder Cure that science has ever produced. By going directly to the cause of all the trouble and curing that, it proves its difference from all other so-called Kidney Cures—they are not cures but "soothers" containing drugs that cause a temporary stoppage of pain, but nothing to kill the root of the disease. Uracura on the other hand restores strength, renews vitality, purifies the blood, relieves biliousness and constipation and produces a healthy and sound digestion. A purely vegetable compound. Do you value your life above a 50 cent piece?

BUY A BOTTLE TO-DAY—PRICE 50 CENTS

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS

Dr. GRANGER MEDICINE CO., Chattanooga, Tenn.

EYES TESTED

A COMPLETE of Fine Clocks in from New York, nice line of and Gent's Gold Watches and If you need a Spectacles I in best grades. Machines from

L. D. POPWE

CLANTON

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of ness, headache, constipation general debility, sour risings of the stomach are all due Kodol cures indigestion. ery represents the natural tion as they exist in a combined with the greatest and reconstructive properties pepsia Cure does not only and dyspepsia, but this cures all stomach troubles purifying, sweetening and the mucous membranes

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravens "I was troubled with sour Kodol cured me and we are for baby."

Kodol Digests What

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding size, which se

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt

For sale by Upch

XIV

Twel

MAN ON THE CORNER

the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

dent Roosevelt on his way Montgomery to Birmingham Tuesday will stop at Clanton afternoon, some time after o'clock, and will make a short to the citizens of Chilton y. A meeting of citizens was the court house Wednesday and arrangements made for ption of the august visitor.

as an enthusiastic meeting court house, Wednesday Judge Reynolds stated the of the meeting was to make ments for the reception of nt Roosevelt next Tuesday, minated Col. Wm. A. Col chairman of the meeting, was unanimously elected. Crichton was elected secre On motion of T. A. Curry a ittee of nine was appointed charge of the coming of the ent, and the following were ted T. A. Curry, L. H. lds, Frank Crichton, Tipton s, W. I. Mullins, Harvey F. ller, Felix O. Dudley, E. B. and P. C. Dennis, and, at ggestion of Judge Reynolds, Collier was added. The meeting adjourned.

committee immediately met, motion of Col, Collier, a mittee of three was appointdge Reynolds, T. A. Curry F. Chandler—to raise funds tions and other expenses. Mullins moved that the authorities be requested to fficient police force to keep on that day. The committee structed, if possible, to emhand for the occasion. On of Judge Reynolds, 2,000 s, for distribution throughcounty, were ordered to be d, and the committee adjourn Thursday morning at 11.

a rare occasion for Chilton y to have the opportunity of aining such a distinguished , and we believe that our s will turn out in full force Tuesday afternoon to greet resident of the United States. give him a hearty Southern e, such as the people of county know how to give.

M. A. Crosby of the United Department of Agriculture Clanton last week The would not admit of going he agreed to come again in four weeks. The object of it is the location of an ex nt farm in Chilton county.

A MORNING BLAZE

Friday morning about 10 Clanton was alarmed by the g of the fire bell and the g of the gin whistles. Fire en a good hold of the barn ng to Mr. Wm. M. Adams, it was close to his residence were entertained for the g. Fortunately there was wind, and what there was, way from the house, and by f hard work the fire was d to the barn which with its ts was totally destroyed. dams carries insurance on his g, but had none on the barn.

Full of Tragic Meaning

lines from J. H. Simmons, y, Ia. Think what might lted from his terrible cough d not taken the medicine which he writes: "I had a cough that disturbed my rest. I tried everything, ht would relieve it, until I King's New Discovery for ption, Coughs and Colds, comp ly cured me." In relief and permanent the all lung diseases; grip pneumonia. At Drug Co. guaranteed; 50c 1.00. Trial bottle free.

CO Sick ordered is quick Stomach
sale by
A. Hor

To my Perm seeming hand, residenc
The ful borly lo need m
the tot
my bar

Edito
ilege to Chilton
Pleasan visitor, once in with th t'a I and th
Maness,
a single was acc
so that Bro. J
pastor, doing t
the sing and sun lish inst
that m which music a old fam manner and oth
our pla good ca age, la etc., no
Alabam
the For be read our chu the wea in numb have ch into a p new org in plent
in comf
The m whole t Modera wasted,
to a sub not 31
gave fi was five the Ass
my old winded sition a had a ch time of men we says"
were no will too that the
to deve them a This which That's was the

P S until the its work

Rev appoint were se
Miss
open up much su
Mr. T ther Jo
Mr. I have ju his fath
Mr. V iness tr
Cotto
this vic having account

"Mrs. W will be house F beginni a rare t ent. P
the scho

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

. XIV Twelve Pages CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1905 Pages 1 to 8 No. 1

AN ON THE CORNER

Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

ident Roosevelt on his way Montgomery to Birmingham Tuesday will stop at Clanton afternoon, some time after clock, and will make a short to the citizens of Chilton. A meeting of citizens was the court house Wednesday and arrangements made for ption of the august visitor.

as an enthusiastic meeting court house, Wednesday Judge Reynolds stated the of the meeting was to make ments for the reception of t Roosevelt next Tuesday, nominated Col. Wm. A. Col- chairman of the meeting, was unanimously elected. Crichton was elected secre On motion of T. A. Curry a ttee of nine was appointed charge of the coming of the nt, and the following were ted T. A. Curry, L. H. ds, Frank Crichton, Tipton , W. I. Mullins, Harvey F. ier, Felix O. Dudley, E. B. and P. C. Dennis, and, at gestion of Judge Reynolds, Collier was added. The meeting adjourned.

committee immediately met, motion of Col, Collier, a mittee of three was appointed Judge Reynolds, T. A. Curry F. Chandler—to raise funds rations and other expenses. Mullins moved that the authorities be requested to sufficient police force to keep on that day. The committee structed, if possible, to employ band for the occasion. On of Judge Reynolds, 2,000 for distribution throughout county, were ordered to be and the committee adjourned Thursday morning at 11.

s rare occasion for Chilton to have the opportunity of ining such a distinguished and we believe that our will turn out in full force Tuesday afternoon to greet resident of the United States. give him a hearty Southern e, such as the people of county know how to give.

M. A. Crosby of the United Department of Agriculture Clanton last week The would not admit of going he agreed to come again in four weeks. The object of it is the location of an ex- t farm in Chilton county.

A MORNING BLAZE

Friday morning about 10 Clanton was alarmed by the of the fire bell and the of the gin whistles. Fire n a good hold of the barn ing to Mr. Wm. M. Adams, it was close to his residence were entertained for the g. Fortunately there was wind, and what there was, way from the house, and by of hard work the fire was d to the barn which with its s was totally destroyed. Adams carries insurance on his g, but had none on the barn.

Full of Tragic Meaning

lines from J. H. Simmons, y, Ia. Think what might ulted from his terrible cough had not taken the medicine which he writes: "I had a cough that disturbed my rest. I tried everything, hin; would relieve it, until I Dr. King's New Discovery for ptio Coughs and Colds, com y cured me." In- relief and permanent ld lung diseases; s grip pneumonia. At h Drug co.'s guaranteed; 50c .00. Trial bottle free.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

Card of Thanks

To my Neighbors:

Permit me to thank you, who, seemingly directed by a Divine hand, on Friday last, saved my residence from destruction by fire. The full realization of your neighborly loyalty to me in my hour of need more than compensates me for the total destruction and loss of my barn and its contents.

Sincerely,

WM. M. ADAMS.

A Good Old Time.

Editor Banner: It was my privilege to attend the convening of the Chilton County Association at Pleasant Grove church. I was a visitor, not a delegate, but every once in awhile I was so pleased with the earnestness of the brethren tha I would "put in my mouth," and the Moderator, Bro. P. G. Maness, did not make me sit down a single time, something which I was accustomed to in other bodies, so that made me feel good. Then Bro. James D. Martin, the local pastor, took charge of the organ, doing the playing and leading in the singing with a clear fine voice, and sung the songs in plain English instead of the "Operatic lingo" that many good singers assume, which spoils the real beauty of music and you fail to recognize an old familiar song when sung in that manner. Then Bro. J. H. Thomas and others had much to say about our plain duty to give to all the good causes of missions, orphanage, infirm and aged ministers, etc., not neglecting our papers, the Alabama Baptist, the Home and the Foreign Field, all of which to be read to post us on the work of our church. This church is one of the weakest of the Association both in number and in finances, but they have changed a log church lately into a painted frame one, bought a new organ, and fed the large crowd in plentitude and lodged them all in comfort.

The most satisfactory part of the whole thing to me was that the Moderator would not have any time wasted, when he gave 30 minutes to a subject he meant 30 minutes, not 31 nor 40 minutes; when he gave five minutes to speeches it was five only. This was the way the Associations were conducted in my old home county. No long-winded essays on so plain a proposition as two and two make four had a chance to take up the business time of the association. The laymen were called out to say "their says" and the clergy practically were not in it, and by their own will too for they seemed to agree that the Association was intended to develop the laymen and give them a chance to exchange views.

This was an Association in which the brethren "associated." That's all of it, and the good Lord was there to.

T. U. CRUMPTON.

P.S. Not a single messenger left until the Association had completed its work. T. U. C.

Concord.

Rev. Lynch failed to fill his appointment here Sunday; there were several disappointed.

Miss Zellie Mims' school will open up Monday. We wish her much success.

Mr. Tom Carter visited his brother Joe here last week.

Mr. Enoch Weldon and family have just returned from a visit to his father at Kincheon.

Mr. Will Anderson made a business trip to Clanton Saturday.

Cotton is turning out well in this vicinity, but the people are having quite a time gathering it on account of so much rain.

SCHOOL BOY.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be played at Stanton school house Friday evening, Oct. 20, 1905, beginning at 8 o'clock. This will be a rare treat for those who are present. Proceeds will be used to paint the school house. W. B. SPEER.

Peoples Savings Bank of Chilton County.

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00.

WM. E. HOLLOWAY, President. W. T. CALLEN, Cashier.
W. I. MULLINS, Vice-President. JOHN A. THOMAS, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS:

W. I. Mullins, W. T. Callen, Wm. E. Holloway,
Sam Kaufman, H. M. Martin, Sr., M. L. Greil.

Security is the first thing to be considered in selecting a bank with which to do business; this applies to the depositor and borrower alike, and in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Chilton county.

Statement of the Condition of the Peoples Savings Bank, located at Clanton, Ala., at the close of business Oct. 7, 1905.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts		$45,444 00
Demand Loans		2,000 00
Banking House, Furniture and Fixtures		3,461 75
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	$17,154 70
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	6,519 50
Currency	12 223.00
Gold	296.00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,267 01
Checks and Cash Items	30 00
Profit and Loss	4 56
		$37,502 85
Total		$88,408.61

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in		$15,000 10
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid		7,578 35
Individual Deposits subject to Check	$60,172 50
Time Certificates	5,567 60
Cashier's Checks	81 06
		$65,821 16
Total		$88,408.61

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.

Before me came W. T. Callen Cashier of the Peoples Savings Bank, who being duly sworn, says that the above and foregoing statement is a true condition of said Bank, as shown by the books on file in said Bank,

W. T. CALLEN. Cashier,

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 12th day of October, 1905.

JOHN A. THOMAS, Notary Public.

ATTEST:

W. I. MULLINS
M. L. GREIL } Directors
SAM KAUFMAN

Statement of the Condition of the Clanton Bank, located at Clanton, Ala., at the close of business Oct. 7, 1905.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts	$60,636.61
Demand Loans	2,781 60
Furniture and Fixtures	2,294.23
Due from Banks and Bankers in this State	25,091.20
Due from Banks and Bankers in other States	10,164.68
Currency	[illegible]
Gold	1,700.00
Silver, Nickels and Pennies	1,128.00
Checks and Cash Items	230.00
Total	[illegible]

LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock, Paid in	$15,000.00
Undivided Profits, less Current Expenses and Taxes Paid	3,285.46
Due to Banks and Bankers in this State	312.64
Individual Deposits subject to check	77,670.25
Time Certificates	2,125.00
Bills Payable	12[illegible].00
Total	[illegible]

The State of Alabama, Chilton County

Before me came E. A. Matthews, Cashier of the Clanton Bank, who being duly sworn, says that the above and foregoing statement is a true condition of said Bank, as shown by the books on file in said Bank.

E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier.

Sworn to, verified and subscribed before me, this 13th day of October, 1905.

L. H. REYNOLDS, Judge of Probate.

ATTEST:

W. I MULLINS
W. H. SARTOR } Directors
P. D. WILSON

Maplesville.

Miss Nellie Dunn has been visiting Miss Elizabeth Ricketts, who has taken a most enjoyable trip to Atlanta of late.

Mrs. Goodwin has been to Clanton to be with her sister, Mrs. Campbelle, who has gone through a very dangerous operation.

Mrs. Dr. DuBose of Selma has been visiting relatives here.

Miss Mattie Lee Plant has just returned from Birmingham where she has made quite an extended visit to her grandmother, Mrs. Brown.

Mr. David Garner and little son Richard Clay, have been visiting here.

Our school will open here the 30th of October, which will be on Monday. Miss Florence Adair will take charge of the school.

Mr. Jesse Hayes is still faithful to his charge as carrier on R. F. D. No 2. All the girls very eagerly watch for the mail, either to get a glimpse of the carrier or to get a letter.

Mr. Bob Samples of Bellamy, Ala., has gone to work for the Twin Tree Lumber Co.

Last week we had a slight frost followed by a cold wind.

Farmers in this section are fast winding up their cotton crop, that is when the rain holds up long enough for one to go out to pick.

Everybody is talking about going to Birmingham on the 24th to get a glimpse of Mr. Roosevelt. Guess "Booker" will be on hand.

SUBSCRIBER.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closley as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily. rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequaled. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton; A. Horn, Thorsby.

A big crowd if expected at Clanton next Tuesday afternoon to see President Roosevelt. Better be on time—say two o'clock.

THE CLANTON BANK

CLANTON, ALA.

CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00

W. I. MULLINS, President E. A. MATTHEWS, Cashier
W. H. SARTOR, Vice President E. B. DEASON, Assistant Cashier

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

N. A. Kicker P. D. Wilson E. A. Matthews
W. H. Sartor W. I. Mullins J. P. Hayes

The Clanton Bank, organized by local men, with home capital, solicits the business of the people of Chilton and adjoining counties. The Board of Directors are all business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of this section—all are real estate owners and well known, reliable and responsible men, and in addition all the officers are heavily bonded.

The Bank has a fire proof vault and a Manganese Steel Safe warranted burglar proof.

All classes of banking business transacted and special attention given to local deposits. Safety deposit boxes for valuables.

WANTED.

COTTON SEED—Buy your Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls at Wade's ginnery. Just got in a car load, and can sell them at prices that defy all competition. Best grade of Meal that can be procured.

MONEY TO LOAN—From $300 to $500—on good real estate security. Apply to X. Y. Z., care of The Banner, Clanton, Ala.

FOR RENT—For year 1906, to responsible tenants, one hundred acres of improved farm land. Portion of rents permitted to go on improvements. Apply at The Banner office.

WANTED—We want some good families, boys and girls, to work in the Cotton Mills. Healthy place; cheap rent—mill and mill village supplied with artesian water. No better place to live. Good churches and Sunday schools, also literary schools. Good wages paid twice a month. Apply to J. M MARTIN, Superintendent Prattville Cotton Mills & Banking Co., Prattville, Ala.

TEACHER WANTED—The Trustees of District No. 38 are seeking a teacher. Apply to T. C. Jones, Maplesville, Ala., R. F. D. No. 1.

VITÆ ORE is the marvel of the age in curing Rheumatism, Catarrh, Female disorders, Liver, Kidney and Bladder troubles, General Debility, etc. Postpaid to any address, for 95 cents. Literature free. J. A. KICKER & Co., Cooper, Ala.

CATTLE—Any person finding any cattle over five miles from my ferry, marked with one hole in each ear about the size of a one cent piece who will take same up and write me, I will pay them for the expense and trouble of same. I also buy and sell cattle. B. F. HIGGINS, Jr., Rushton, Ala.

Plans to Get Rich

are often frustrated by sudden breakdowns, due to dyspepsia or constipation. Brace up and take Dr. King's New Life Pills. They take out the materials which are clogging your energies, and give you a new start. Cure headache and dizziness too. At Upchurch drug store; 25c., guaranteed.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

TIPTON MULLINS
ATTORNEY-AT LAW
Clanton - - Ala.

WILLIAM M. ADAMS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in all Courts. Office at the Adams' place. Long time loans negotiated on improved farm lands.
Clanton - - Ala.

JOHN C. DENNIS
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Practice in the Supreme Court of Alabama, and all Inferior Courts.
Clanton - - Ala.

ROBERT H. KNOX
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Clanton - - Ala.
Will practice in all the State and Federal Courts of Alabama.

DR. P. I HOPKINS
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Office Hours: 8 to 9; 4 to 5.
Office at Upchurch Drug Co. CLANTON

H. C. JUNKERMAN
DENTIST
GAS AND LOCAL ANAESTHETICS GIVEN. PORCELAIN CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.
THORSBY - ALA.

S. E. NORTON
PHOTOGRAPHER
ENLARGING AND FRAMING A SPECIALTY
THORSBY, ALA.
Work done at your home by appointment.

Thorsby.

To such parents who wish to come to Thorsby to educate their children we will give special rates on choice building lots within short distance of dormitory and college building. Call at our office or address

THE CONCORDIA LAND
AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION,
THORSBY, ALA.

Warranty Deeds, Mortgage Deeds, Waive Notes, Receipt Books, on sale at the Banner office

HEAR
PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WILL SPEAK AT ALABAMA STATE FAIR
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA
OCTOBER 24
GREATEST FAIR EVER GIVEN IN THE SOUTH

Opens Oct. 23rd
Closes Nov. 2nd Ten Days

ALABAMA WILL BE ON PARADE.
REDUCED RAILROAD RATES.

EUGENE FIES, President. R. M. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

COME AND BE PLEASED

Prices and terms upon which we are selling the most beautiful and attractive goods of the season will certainly please and surprise you. The styles on which fashion has stamped her approval for the coming season are now shown with newest materials.

A FULL LINE OF STAR BRAND SHOES
MENS' AND BOY'S CLOTHING
FULL LINE OF GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS
Ladies' and Children's Jackets, Skirts
and Ready-to-Wear Hats
Anything you want in Dress Goods, Hardware, Saddlery and Florence Wagons.

J. C. JONES
CLANTON - - - - ALA.

Cure of Curable P
urself to suffer pain.
They are the sign of dange emale organs, which should o or dangerous results will fo TAKE
e of Cardu
TO WOMAN'S RELIEF
any of woman's biting and weakening ns to stop, but it follows up and drives ch prevents them from coming back.
ry it.
.00 bottles.

confid- ns and advice ew to dvisory e Co.,

"WITHOUT A PAIN," writes Mary Shelton, of P Bluff, Mo., "I can do my h although, before taking CARDUI, doctors had done me no good. I truthfully say I was cured by C I want every suffering lady to know this wonderful medicine."

GAINS
R YOU.
September and the 25
ber, I will have
IN DAY
nesdays and Frid
WEEK, AND ON DAYS ONLY
nt of 20 per cent off all Dry Goods, Shoes, are priced as low to sell, but I have s of goods as I had rder to secure the against my business goods over from one am offering these duce my stock. This reduce the price of 5 cents, and Rescue ut 5 1-2 cents, Shoes 1.20 and $1.00 respe else proportionatel; you and call here on these be charged to any one at these them whatever.
ay Montgomery prices less the me, and weights guaranteed other country produce, paying the loan money on cotton at a ed of anything either for cash or PATTILLO
GSLEY, ALA

EYES TESTED FR

A COMPLETE S of Fine Clocks jus
in from New York,
nice line of La
and Gent's Gold F
Watches and Jew
If you need a pa
Spectacles I have in best grades. S
Machines from $10
L. D. POPWEL
CLANTON,

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of stre ness, headache, constipation, general debility, sour risings, of the stomach are all due to Kodol cures indigestion. This ery represents the natural j tion as they exist in a healthy combined with the greatest and reconstructive properties pepsia Cure does not only cure and dyspepsia, but this f cures all stomach troubles by purifying, sweetening and the mucous membranes lining

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravensw "I was troubled with sour stomach Kodol cured me and we are now for baby."

Kodol Digests What Y
Bottles only. $1.00 Size hold size, which se
Prepared by E. C. DeWitt

For sale by Upch

THE BANNER.
Published Weekly
CLANTON, ALA.

New Orleans, La.—The yellow fever report for the last 24 hours in this city is as follows: New cases, 15; total cases, 3,229; deaths, 3; total deaths, 434; new foci, 4; cases under treatment, 139; cases discharged, 2,756.

Country Cases.

Dr. Brady has returned from a tour of inspection in the Barrataria and Grand Isle districts, and reports that there have been 199 cases and seventeen deaths with nine cases still under treatment.

The country reports were:

Amelia and Bayou L'Ourse, three new cases.

New Iberia, one new case.

Lafourche Crossing, one new case.

Cote Blanche and Belle Ami, for the week, eight new cases and one death.

Near Plattenville, three new cases.

Terre Bonne parish, for the week, thirteen new cases and one death.

Patterson, one new case; plantations near by, seven new cases.

Decrease in Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla.—State Health Officer Porter believes the decrease due to cool weather which prevailed last week. The report is 7 new cases, with 2 deaths, with a total of 417 cases and 55 deaths, and 178 under treatment, while 184 have been discharged.

Two physicians, Drs. Phillips and Herron, were arrested for a violation of the city laws by not reporting cases of fever within five hours.

Mississippi Summary.

Jackson, Miss.—The Mississippi yellow fever summary for Monday is as follows:

Vicksburg, one new case; one death, in county, 12 new cases.

Natchez, three new cases, one new foci.

Hamburg, one new case, three suspicious cases.

Port Gibson, one new case.

Gulfport, one new case.

General Gomez Is Out of Job.

Havana, Cuba.—The provincial council of Santa Clara has accepted the resignations of the governor, General Gomez, who recently abandoned his candidacy on the liberal ticket, and M. Alverdi, the lieutenant-governor, who has been acting governor during the absence in the United States of Governor Gomez. The council then took up the question of the election of their successors.

The city council of Santa Clara, the members of which have heretofore been adherents of the liberal party, Sunday declared their adhesion to the moderate or government party.

Killed by Premature Explosion.

Guanajuato, Mex.—George Colvin Metz, a mining man connected with the Guanajuato Consolidated Company, a recent arrival from Colorado, was instantly killed by a premature explosion of dynamite in the LaSirena mine. No others were killed or injured. The damage to the mine will not be great.

Five Killed.

Oskaloosa, Ia.—Five trainmen were killed at Seaton, Ill., when a heavy double-header freight, east-bound, on the Iowa Central Railroad, ran into cattle on the track at a speed of twenty miles an hour. Both locomotives and freight cars loaded with grain and lumber were piled in a heap beside the track.

Another Earthquake in Calabria.

Reggio di Calabria, Calabria.—Another shock of earthquake, lasting ten seconds, occurred throughout Calabria, and caused a great panic. The situation was rendered grave by torrential rains, which undermined houses, causing some of them to fall, but fortunately there were no serious accidents.

Will Build in Mexico.

Chihuahua, Mexico.—The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has made a deposit with the state government amounting to $540,000 to guarantee the construction of the railroad line between Guayamas and Guadalajara. The road has already made a contract with Henry Lund & Co., of San Francisco, for 50,000 tons of steel rails.

Datto Ali Gets Busy.

Manila, P. I.—Datto Ali, with his followers in the province of Mindanao, has taken the aggressive and is killing many Moros friendly to the government. Ali has informed Dattos who are assisting the federal troops to effect his capture that he is now preparing to meet and kill them. Provisional companies of troops are now taking the field for a vigorous campaign, aided by friendly Dattos, who are being armed by the government.

Malfeasance in Office Charged.

Peoria, Ill.—The grand jury returned a final report with a true bill against Oliver J. Bailey, chairman of the finance committee of the Peoria school board, and holding him on the charge of malfeasance in office in "suffering and permitting one Newton C. Dougherty to misappropriate and unlawfully convert to his own use school moneys to a large amount." Mr. Bailey is one of the wealthiest men in this city.

HAS NOT RESIGNED

The Report That Governor General Luke Wright Had, is Erroneous.

WILL BE SEVERELY PUNISHED.

Representative Meyer Thinks There Will Be Little Increase in the Navy in Next Few Years.

Washington, D. C.—Private Secretary Loeb's announcement that Governor-General Luke Wright, of Memphis, Tenn., had ceased to hold his office in the Philippines turns out to have been erroneous. Mr. Wright is still governor-general, and so far as any one knows he has no intention of resigning. Secretary Taft, who saw him not so very long ago, is quite certain that he does not mean to quit.

Mr. Loeb's information was derived not from the president, but from some gossip which was contained in a private letter. This letter was shown him, and he observed in it some rumors of Wright's resignation. Hence it came about that the newspapers of the country informed their readers that Mr. Wright's resignation had been officially announced.

Spends an Unhappy Day.

Mr. Loeb spent an unhappy day as a result of his mistake. He had to explain it to the president, which is a task to which no official looks forward with unalloyed joy, and which had been known to unstring fairly strong nerves. He also became the subject of animated debate at the cabinet meeting. Mr. Loeb had several opportunities to explain, and each time he denied that he had ever made the statement at all. At the cabinet meeting it was suggested that Mr. Loeb be relieved of the onerous duty of communicating the news of these conferences to the press. It was observed that as he was not present at cabinet meetings and only knew at second hand what had occurred, he was hardly the proper channel through which to let the public know the results of these deliberations.

This was finally agreed upon, and it was decided that one of the cabinet should be designated for the duty. He was to make notes of what was to be given out, and communicate this information to the press. Who he is to be has not yet been decided. It is only two weeks since Mr. Loeb was selected for this work.

No Great Naval Increase.

Representative Adolph Meyer, of the First Louisiana district, who will be the ranking democrat on the naval affairs committee in the next congress, does not believe there will be the great increase in the United States navy which is now being advocated. His opinion is that the two 16,000-ton battleships authorized in the last congress will be increased to 18,000 tons, and probably a new battleship authorized to take the place of the old Texas. Further than this he does not expect any considerable increase.

The United States navy will shortly hold third place in the navies of the world, and this, General Meyer believes of sufficient strength for all practical purposes. General Meyer doubts very much if the people of the country will be willing to endorse the position of Admiral Dewey with reference to grade retirement. The Louisiana congressman points out that the admiral himself, with his victorious Manila battle in his 60th year, is a strong argument against it, without reference to the general feeling throughout the country against early retirements and pensions. General Meyer was asked about the great difficulty now being encountered in obtaining sailors for the navy.

"In my opinion," said he, "it is almost entirely due to the prosperity of the country. While we pay our sailors much more than any other navy of the world, it is by no means commensurate with what can be earned in civil life. If we ever have hard times you will see crowds around every enlistment place."

Texas Man Appointed.

O. F. N. Gray, of Houston, Tex., has been appointed second southern member of the statistical board, department of agriculture. Secretary Wilson in making this announcement has fulfilled a promise he gave some time ago to members of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association, that when the new statistical board was formed two experts in cotton statistics would be named. Two months ago P. L. Hutchison, of New Orleans, was selected, and then Gray. The selection of a statistician in chief has not yet been definitely settled. Mr. Stephen D. Fessenden, a present employe of the department, is regarded as the best man for the place.

Constable Rodgers Pleads Insanity.

Burns, Tenn.—Constable B. F. Rodgers, of White Bluff, who is reported to have shot a man on the Charlotte pike, near Nashville, is a well-known officer of White Bluff, and his actions seem to bear out the assertion that has been made recently that he was losing his mind, and the affair is greatly deplored by his friends.

Commits Another Murder.

Berkeley, Cal.—A man known as William Brush, or Curtis, who, with a woman companion, is wanted for the robbery and attack upon William Ellis, the Australian sporting man, in this city on Wednesday last, has been identified by the police as Milton Franklin Andrews, wanted for the alleged murder of Bessie Bouton on Mount Cutler, Col., on October 5, 1904. The detectives say that the identification is so positive as to admit of no doubt. Andrews traveled under the aliases of George Bennett and Moston Franklin, and it now appears that he has added the name of Brush to his list. Bessie Bouton's body was found hacked to pieces, and acid had been used to render the work of identification more difficult. No clue to the whereabouts of Brush and his female companion has yet been found.

Increases in Postal Receipts.

Washington, D. C.—The postal receipts for the fifty largest cities in the United States during September aggregated $6,512,500, against $5,907,203 for the corresponding month in 1904, or an increase of 10.26 per cent. The report on the subject shows that Portland, Ore., on account of the exposition there, had the heaviest percentage of increases. Likewise St. Louis, Mo., shows the greatest percentage of decrease because of the high record made during the exposition a year ago. New Orleans increased .73 per cent in spite of the prevalence of yellow fever.

Philippines Railway.

Washington, D. C.—According to the annual report for the year 1904 of the Manila Railway Company, owning the line connecting Manila on the south with Dagupan on the north, the road paid 15 per cent net profit. The total receipts were $1,415,069 and the expenditures $660,724, leaving a net profit of $815,145. The original cost of the road was $5,253,000. It is stated that by American methods of accounting the property would have paid almost 35 per cent on the investment. It is thought at the insular bureau that this showing may have an important influence upon the bidding of American capitalists for the right to construct railways in the Philippines.

Martin a Healthy Town.

Martin, Tenn.—Martin has enjoyed the unusual distinction of being a town of over 2,000 people where there has been no death from fever or disease of any kind, with the exception of one case of paralysis and one of apoplexy, since the first day of February of this year. Several infants and a few negroes have died. The surrounding country within a radius of ten miles has been equally as healthy. Barring chills and fever, which the people in and around Martin have had this year, and which have never been here to any great extent in previous years, Martin has enjoyed the healthiest season of her existence.

Newspaper Man Killed.

Birmingham, Ala.—A. J. McGhee, aged 55, in the employ of the circulation department of the Birmingham Ledger, was struck by a fast northbound passenger train on the Alabama Great Southern Railroad at Cottondale, Ala., south of here, Saturday morning at 7 o'clock and instantly killed. The man stepped in front of the train and was knocked twenty feet into the air. What caused him to get in the way cannot be accounted for. The train was stopped almost immediately, and the body of the dead man was brought to the city. He was a widower and lived formerly at Fruithurst, Ala. He was with the Ledger about a year and traveled in South and West Alabama.

President's Clemency.

Washington, D. C.—On the recommendation of Acting Secretary Oliver and General Bates, acting chief of staff, the president has exercised clemency in the case of First Lieut. Louis McLane Hamilton, Fourteenth Infantry, a great-grandson of Alexander Hamilton. That officer was convicted by general court-martial of certain violations of the army regulations and sentenced to be dismissed from the army. The president commuted the sentence to a reduction of thirty files in rank on the list of first lieutenants of infantry.

Convicts Escape.

Anniston, Ala.—Frank Woodward and John Hunt, colored convicts, effected their escape at different intervals Saturday, one from the chain gang and the other from the city prison. They have not been recaptured yet.

Killed by a Log.

Huntsville, Ala.—Andrew Isbell, a young farmer of this county, was killed near Concord by being crushed under a heavy log. He was engaged in loading some heavy logs on a wagon. He died almost instantly.

Martin, Tenn.—Mrs. Maud Hall, while out driving with another lady, ran the buggy on a stump, turning the vehicle over, her foot catching between the wheel and buggy bed, breaking her leg just above the ankle.

Memphis, Tenn.—Al Walters, a well-known man about town, was shot and probably fatally wounded in a saloon here. John Gill, a bartender, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., is under arrest charged with the shooting.

ALABAMA NEWS.

Current Events Gathered as They Happen.

Rural Carriers Appointed.

Washington, D. C.—Rural free delivery route No. 2 ordered established December 15 at Fyffe, DeKalb county, serving 530 people and 106 houses.

Rural carriers appointed: Arab, route 1, Andrew H. Riddle carrier, T. W. Riddle substitute; Auston, route 1, Robert A. Tate carrier, W. M. Ryan substitute; Centreville, route 4, Howard L. Cleveland carrier, James W. Cleveland substitute; Coldville, route 2, John W. Vickers carrier, William J. Vickers substitute; Greenville, route 4, James W. Calhoun carrier, Oscar Calhoun substitute; Logan, route 2, James W. Jaggars carrier, Charley O. Jaggars substitute; Millport, route 4, Colbrach Pratter carrier, James B. Pratter substitute; Newell, route 1, Robert W. Traylor carrier, George M. Cofield substitute; Rockford, route 2, William H. Bentley carrier, Lewis A. Bentley substitute; Spott, route 1, James T. Pack carrier, John A. Pack substitute; route 2, George F. Bolling carrier, J. A. Osbourn substitute; route 3, Dee Hughey carrier, A. B. Huey substitute; Tallassee, route 3, Stephen B. Renau carrier, John A. Culver substitute; Union Springs, route 2, George W. Chappell, Jr., carrier, George W. Chappell, Sr., substitue; White Oak Springs, route 1, Luther B. Anderson carrier, H. G. Anderson substitute.

Garrett Is Stabbed.

Gadsden, Ala.—A very serious and what may prove to be a serious cutting affray took place Thursday night about 7 o'clock at the home of P. M. Bomar, on South Fourth street. It seems from the best information obtainable that Bomar, who is a carpenter, went home in an intoxicated condition, and soon after his arrival there became involved in a row with a man named James Garrett, who boarded with Bomar, in which Bomar pulled his knife and stabbed Garrett in the left breast, producing a dangerous wound. As soon as he had stabbed the man Bomar left and is still at large. Garrett walked to town and had the wound dressed and went to the home of William Fleming, where he is in a serious condition.

Accidentally Shot Himself.

Birmingham, Ala.—J. J. Dickson, formerly a well-known insurance man of this city, accidentally shot and killed himself Tuesday night in New Orleans. He mysteriously disappeared from Birmingham July 10, and the first information as to his whereabouts was a telegram announcing that he had shot himself.

Fire in Brewton.

Brewton, Ala.—At 9 o'clock Friday fire destroyed the roof of J. M. Davidson's residence, on Parker avenue. The fire originated from a chimney and started in the attic. The entire roof was in flames when the fire department arrived, but by hard work the fire was confined to the roof and prevented from spreading to adjoining buildings. Loss estimated at $1,000, with $700 insurance.

Accident With Convict.

Montgomery, Ala.—News has reached the convict department of the death by accident of one of the men in charge of the Henderson-Boyd Lumber Company, at Richburg. It seems that there had been built a fence pretty close to the logging road of the company, and the men were being hauled along the side of it. It proved to be too close, and in some way it was shown that there was to be an accident. At this several of the men jumped while the train was in motion, one, Masterson Sherman, being killed. He jumped and was killed by coming in contact with the ground.

Fined for Enticing Labor.

Gadsden, Ala.—L. H. Giddens, a white man who has been employed by the Alabama Steel and Wire Company here for a long time, and who quit some time ago to go with a Birmingham corporation, was tried in the mayor's court here Friday on the charge of attempting to entire negro labor from this district and was fined $100. It seems that when Mr. Giddens quit here he attempted to take his labor with him, but there is a law here which prevents a person from enticing labor, and under this law he was arrested and convicted.

Seventh Victim of Feud.

Mobile, Ala.—William Young was killed from ambush while returning to his home at Wheelerville, thirteen miles west of Mobile, as the result of a feud which has continued there for the past twenty-five years, and of which he is the seventh victim.

Russian Soldiers in Clash.

Canea, Island of Crete.—Russian soldiers, gendarmes and civil guards have occupied the village of Armico, in the Italian zone, and a fight with the insurgents ensued, which lasted until midnight. The details have been censored, but the local papers say five insurgents were killed and eight wounded, and that the Russian troops suffered no casualties.

Will Blow in Furnace.

Gadsden, Ala.—The Eagle Iron Company, of Chattanooga, is assembling the ore, charcoal and other products for the starting up of their charcoal furnace in Attalla, which has been idle for some time. For the past month necessary repairs have been going on at the furnace, and now great quantities of charcoal are being received, while wood to burn in the coke ovens at the furnace is also being hauled in. It is the intention of the company to start the ovens at once and put the furnace in operation December 1. The Attalla furnace has a daily capacity of ninety tons of the very best charcoal iron, and is one of three similar furnaces in the Gadsden district. Over 150 men will be given employment when the furnace starts.

House Burglarized.

Birmingham, Ala.—The home of John B. Allen at Arcadia, Ala., was burglarized Friday. It was reported to the local police with a view of getting a possible clue from some of the local second-hand stores. Among the articles reported missing are the following: One brown coat, one pair of blue-black trousers, one pair of striped trousers, one blue flannel shirt, an undershirt, one black Stetson hat and a pair of shoes.

Another Cotton Mill.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Merrimack Manufacturing Company, it is reported, will soon begin the erection of a third mill in Huntsville. The original plans of the company provide for a series of eight mills and a bleachery, and the company bought enough land for that purpose, besides establishing a system of water works large enough for their mills and a town of 10,000 population.

Rural Carriers Appointed.

Washington, D. C.—Rural routes 2 and 3 ordered established December 15 at Hamilton, Marion county, serving 980 people and 245 houses.

Rural carriers appointed: Gadsden, route 3, Ernest C. Little carrier, James Little substitute; Hopewell, route 1, John W. Smith carrier, Melvin Smith substitute; Town Creek, route 1, William G. Norton carrier, John Vick substitute.

Sidewalk Ordinance.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—A sidewalk ordinance was presented and seconded at the last meeting of the city council, and after much discussion was laid over until the next meeting. The ordinance provides that all sidewalks in the city limits shall be paved with either concrete, stone or brick, and further, that the paving shall not be less than five nor more than ten feet. The mayor announced that at an early date a franchise would be applied for to lay gas pipes throughout the city. Another company will make the city a proposition to furnish the city with 125 water plugs to furnish artesian water at $40 each per year. Tuscaloosa is in a most prosperous condition, and the city fathers have their hands full.

Breaks Leg While Wrestling.

Gadsden, Ala.—S. N. Gaines, the street overseer, is laid up with his right leg broken just above the ankle. Mr. Gaines was showing a friend a new trick in wrestling, and had all his weight on his right leg, when he gave it an awkward twist and the bone popped in two. He was given medical attention and is suffering considerably from the accident.

Franchise Is Granted.

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—At a meeting of the city council the proposed electric railroad which will operate between this point and Birmingham was granted a franchise for thirty years by a unanimous vote. The company was represented by J. M. Dewberry, of Birmingham.

Found Dead in Bed.

Gadsden, Ala.—Mrs. J. W. Boone, a highly respected lady living below Gadsden, was found dead in her bed Tuesday morning. Mrs. Boone had retired the night before in her usual good health, but the next morning when her husband attempted to arouse her he was horrified to find her dead. She leaves a husband and four children.

Tuscumbia Court Notes.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—At the present term of the circuit court among the more important cases decided was that of the estate of Hirschel B. Key, who was run down and killed by a switch engine of the North Alabama Railway at Sheffield, for $3,000 damages. The jury awarded the plaintiff $2,000. In the case of Neely Pride, a Nashville drummer, against the Merchants' Bank, of this city, for $500 damages for personal injuries received by the plaintiff, who fell into the excavation made by the defendant for its new bank building on Main street, a verdict was returned for the defendant.

One Moscow Paper Appears.

Moscow.—The Russky Listok has appeared, but the other papers were not issued. The teamsters of the city slaughter houses have struck, but no further disturbances have occurred.

Cholera in Poland.

St. Petersburg.—Forty-seven cases of cholera, twenty-four of them resulting fatally, occurred in Poland between October 1 and 11.

Had a Tough Time With

Anniston, Ala.—Saturday chicken thief, who has been operating for some time the northeastern part of the city, number of chicken coops ton avenue. He practically Tax Assessor Cowden's flock of ered bipeds and then investigated barn of D. B. Lacey, where he a half dozen chickens and a set of ness. Sam, Mr. Lacey's negro discovered the thief and put Mr. cey's dogs on the fellow, who his bags and made off, but was brought to earth by a bulldog seized him by the foot. Freeing self the thief started again but was again downed by the who this time got hold of the foot. In the scuffle the man lost shoes, and, freed from these trances, he made such good time the dogs were unable to overtake again.

Flaw in Election Sets Town

Birmingham, Ala.—After a very citing election, in which John tin was chosen mayor and the had taken on city airs, it has discovered that the petition calling a vote on the question of incorporating the town of Jonesboro near semer, did not have the requisite ber of names of legal voters. the election was void and the has no legal charter, but is again village. Mr. Martin and his board down and out and many contemplated city improvements have been doned.

Torpedo Boat Damaged.

Newport, R. I.—While engaged a torpedo flotilla practice off the ton's reef lightship the Blakely in collision with the DuPont. Blakely's bow was bent, but the age was not serious enough to the vessel unmanageable. The Pont was not injured.

Killed in Wreck in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill.—The New flyer, west-bound, on the and Ohio Southwestern Railway off a derailing switch one mile of the city limits shortly after here. The passenger coaches overturned and went into a ditch passenger, Mrs. John Musch, of ginia, Ill., was killed and several passengers injured.

Earl Spencer Better.

London.—The condition of Spencer, the liberal leader in house of lords, who was stricken paralysis Thursday while at his ing box at Foxenham, Norfolk, slightly improved.

Thrown From Buggy and Killed

Louisville, Ky.—While on her to the funeral of Fred Schurch, committed suicide Wednesday, days after his marriage, Mrs. Wittwer was thrown from a buggy a runaway and her neck broken. lived only a few minutes.

Rather Startling.

Chicago, Ill.—A dispatch from burg, Pa., says: "Investigation the recent Adams Express when G. E. Cunliffe, a money disappeared with $101,000 brought light the fact that this clerk, handling perhaps a million yearly, was paid but $55 per month salary, and was under only bonds."

Badly Hurt in a Gin.

Florence, Ala.—C. A. Hays met a horrible accident while cleaning gin at Centre Star. He was with the brushes when his sleeve caught in the saws, drawing his and forearm into the machine. Three fingers and the thumb were entirely off, and amputation of hand may be necessary.

Hold Court in Montgomery

Atlanta, Ga.—After disposing of cases carried up from the courts the circuit court of closed its sitting in Atlanta. Judge Don A. Pardee, D. D. Shelby, Thomas S. Maxey left for Montgomery, where they will hold court week. From Montgomery the go to Fort Worth, Tex.

All Trains Now Running.

Monterey, Mexico.—All trains the Mexican Central are now on schedule time, and no further ble is looked for, the majority of striking firemen having returned work. The rurales, however, company all trains for a few until all excitement quiets down.

Tragedy Over Craps.

Sheffield, Ala.—A shooting over a game of craps on nearly cost Will White his Elmore did the shooting threatened a "get even" with and the latter got a double shotgun, and the result was is considered fatally wounded other fellow has escaped.

Cholera in Poland.

St. Petersburg.—Forty-seven of cholera, twenty-four ing fatally, occurred tween October 5 and

Asphyxiated Whil

Chicago, Ill.—Anthony years old, was asphyxiated tempting to steal a gas from a basement in Twenty He died alone, confronted dence of his unfinished

Had a Tough Time With Bulld

Anniston, Ala.—Saturday night chicken thief, who has presum been operating for some time in northeastern part of the city, visit number of chicken coops along Leig ton avenue. He practically wiped Tax Assessor Cowden's flock of feath ered bipeds and then investigated barn of D. B. Lacey, where he secur a half dozen chickens and a set of har ness. Sam, Mr. Lacey's negro driv discovered the thief and put Mr. La cey's dogs on the fellow, who drop his bags and made off, but was brought to earth by a bulldog, w seized him by the foot. Freeing him self the thief started again for safety but was again doomed by the bulldog who this time got hold of the oth foot. In the scuffle the man lost b shoes, and, freed from these incum brances he made such good time th the dogs were unable to overtake hi again.

Flaw in Election Sets Town Bac

Birmingham, Ala.—After a very ex citing election in which John D. Mar tin was chosen mayor and the tow had taken on city airs, it has bee discovered that the petition calling f a vote on the question of incorpora ing the town of Jonesboro, near Be semer, did not have the requisite nu ber of names of legal voters. Hen the election was void and the tow has no legal charter, but is again village. Mr. Martin and his board a down and out and many contemplat city improvements have been aba doned.

Torpedo Boat Damaged.

Newport, R. I.—While engaged i a torpedo flotilla practice off the Bre ton's reef lightship the Blakely w in collision with the DuPont. Th Blakely's bow was bent, but the dam age was not serious enough to rende the vessel unmanageable. The Du Pont was not injured.

Killed in Wreck in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill.—The New Yor flyer, westbound, on the Baltimo and Ohio Southwestern Railway, we off a derailing switch one mile we of the city limits shortly after leavi here. The passenger coaches we overturned and went into a ditch. O passenger, Mrs. John Musch, of Vi ginia, Ill., was killed and sevente passengers injured.

Earl Spencer Better.

London.—The condition of E Spencer, the liberal leader in t house of lords, who was stricken w paralysis Thursday while at his sho ing box at Foxenham, Norfolk, slightly improved.

Thrown From Buggy and Killed.

Louisville, Ky.—While on her w to the funeral of Fred Schurch, w committed suicide Wednesday, t days after his marriage, Mrs. Charl Wittwer was thrown from a buggy a runaway and her neck broken. S lived only a few minutes.

Rather Startling.

Chicago, Ill.—A dispatch from Pit burg, Pa., says: "Investigation i the recent Adams Express robbe when G. E. Cunliffe, a money cle disappeared with $101,000 brought light the fact that this clerk, tho handling perhaps a million dol yearly, was paid but $55 per month salary, and was under only $1 bonds."

Badly Hurt in a Gin.

Florence, Ala.—C. A. Hays met w a horrible accident while cleaning gin at Centre Star. He was work with the brushes when his sleeve w caught in the saws, drawing his ha and forearm into the machin Three fingers and the thumb were entirely off, and amputation of hand may be necessary.

Hold Court in Montgomery.

Atlanta, Ga.—After disposing of t cases carried up from the Geo courts the circuit court of app closed its sitting in Atlanta, a Judge Don A. Pardee, D. D. Shelby a Thomas S. Maxey left for Montg ery, where they will hold court t weeks. From Montgomery the ju go to Fort Worth, Tex.

All Trains Now Running.

Monterey, Mexico.—All trains o the Mexican Central are now run on schedule time, and no further tr ble is looked for, the majority of striking firemen having returned work. The rurales, however, will company all trains for a few d until all excitement quiets down.

Tragedy Over Craps.

Sheffield, Ala.—A shooting a over a game of craps on Furnace nearly cost Will White his life. J Elmore did the shooting. W threatened a "get even" with E and the latter got a double-bar shotgun, and the result was that W is considered fatally wounded and other fellow has escaped.

Cholera in Poland.

St. Petersburg.—Forty-seven c of cholera, twenty-four of them [illegible] ing fatally, occurred in Poland tween October 5 and [illegible] ber 11.

Asphyxiated While Committing C

Chicago, Ill.—Anthony Ga years old, was asphyxiated while tempting to steal a gas slot m from a basement in Twentieth He died alone, confronted by the dence of his unfinished crime.

FAUSSE ROUTE.

We walked along the placid ways
Of sweet content and simple things,
And far before us stretched the days,
Quiet as birds with folded wings.
[illegible] gave me back that time before,
[illegible] love drove friendship from the door.

[illegible] walked we turned aside
[illegible] narrow, tortuous lane
Where baffling paths the roads divide
And [illegible] brambles prick to pain;
Then [illegible] I saw, with quick surprise,
The strange new light in friendship's eyes.

But now in one stupendous dream,
We wander through the purple glades,
Where [illegible] tinted with the gleam
Of [illegible] enchanting shades
But [illegible] I gave it all away [illegible] those dear hours of friendship's day.

—Eleanor Eater, in "Dreamland."

AT THE LUM HEAD

Scene: THE VILLAGE OF LIBERTON

By J. WILSON MACLAREN.

For three weeks Tammas Wharrie had occasionally tried Jean Clavers with "off hand" questions concerning her "grand relations," mentioning casually Timothy Trauchle (the would-be dramatic author), but the washer-wife was either dumb or evasive.

So there was nothing else for it but to wait and wait. But there is a limit to all patience and endurance, and now that the joiner again beheld the man whom he was certain was trying to gain the affection of the woman he loved a sudden thought seemed to strike him. Quickly the expression of his face changed. The look of hatred died away, and in its place there was a smile of satisfaction and devilry. Like a new man he entered his workshop, and putting his eye to a small hole in the wall, which allowed him to look down the road without being seen, he watched until he saw Timothy enter Jean Clavers' cottage.

Wharrie no longer waited, but cunningly crossed the road, and crawling through the wire fence passed along the narrow path by the side of the stubble field until he came to the back of Jean's cottage.

It was then that Tammis felt that what he was about to do was not only lowering his dignity but degrading; still his curiosity was strong within him. No one was about. He would never have a better chance of hearing all that passed between the two.

"If any one gets a glisk o' me I can just say I'm puttin' a bit thack on the roof to keep out the snell wind when it comes. Od, ay, it's aye best to dae things like this aforehand."

Consoling himself thus, he cautiously moved along the roof of the cottage until he came to the gable end, then without more ado he set himself straddle-wise across the stone-work and put his head down the chimney.

Motionless for some time Wharrie remained in this ludicrous position, but the daring scheme of playing the listener down the wide chimney was about to be rewarded with a certain measure of success. It was, indeed, a mean tactic, but the joiner was in desperation. He could now distinctly hear the sound of conversation, and straining his ears he easily made out all that was passing between Timothy and Jean. But even when success had crowned his plan he seemed to be troubled with remorse of conscience.

"Stappin' yer heid twa fit doon an auld wife's lum's no' jist the kind o' job I'd like to be at ilka day," thought Wharrie as he drew his breath in fear of having to give way to a fit of sneezing, for already his grisly beard had come in contact with the sooty side of the chimney. "It's no' to my likin' ava this hidlin' way o' daein, though an' wad fairly tak doon ane's pride gin he was fan oot! But I'm o' the same opeenion as Benjamin Disraeli. When desperate measures need desperate means there's nae harm in't—at least to my way of thinkin'."

But Wharrie was also eagerly listening to the animated conversation that was taking place in the house below between the woman he loved and the man he had now come to look upon as an unscrupulous rival.

"Wonderful! Wonderful! Dearie me! Wha'd have thought it? Most extraordinary! Wonderful truly!" were the jerky sentences that came echoing up the chimney, and which he knew by the voice to be uttered by Timothy Trauchle.

But Wharrie, who had raised his body and his head, immediately went another half foot down the chimney, for Jean was now speaking.

"It's frichtsome to think upon't. What's this warld comin' to, I'd like to ken when sons tak' to the cuttin' o' their ain mither's throat. And wha could have jaloused that Alec Gordon would dae sic a like action?"

The joiner's head was now far down the chimney as his rather broad shoulders would allow.

"You speak legitimately correct, Mrs. Clavers, from a woman's standpoint," was the answer of Timothy. "But I've been suspicious of the young cock all along. Tut, tut! What were our clever police dreaming about? Stale, stale—nothing dramatic in it!"

"Will he be hanged, think ye?" asked Jean.

"For certain!" said Timothy in a deep-toned voice. Then he slowly added with emphasis—"and the sooner the better. Pity the hanging [illegible] done at the head of Liberton's [illegible] Tut, tut! I'm dead against the pandering to morbid curiosity but in favor of practical demonstration as the best and most efficacious way of paralyzing the brute nature o' such criminals!"

The drift of this rhetorical effort was scarcely as clear as Wharrie might have wished, yet he had already gathered sufficient from the talk to enable him to understand that his young friend was in trouble. But the climax was at hand.

"Mr. Wharrie, the joiner, for ane'll be gey sair pitten aboot when he kens that the police hae ta'en a grup o' Alec Gordon. They'd aye muckle wark wi' ane anither."

"Tut, tut! This Wharrie's a havering old idiot!" returned Timothy. "I'm convinced that he's been hoodwinking the police all along, and with his childlike simplicity completely puts them off the scent. He knows more of the crime than he cares to confess. If Wharrie was here now I would tell him to his face that he's only shielding a murderer from justice. He's paid to do it."

Accusations such as these were more than ordinary mortal could stand, far less the excitable and fiery-tempered joiner on the roof. More, Wharrie was certain that all he had heard could only have been the outcome of Timothy Trauchle's jealous disposition. So, unheeding the consequence, and before the sound of the last words of the dramatic author had died away, his outraged nature had asserted itself.

"It sets ye weel, coward that ye are, to say siccan things to a wumman. I'll hae it oot wi' ye yet!" were the hoarse words that were hurled down the chimney by Wharrie in his passion, and fell like a thunderbolt on the ears of Timothy and Jean.

But the words of retaliation were no sooner uttered than he realized that he had blundered, and if it were possible to make his escape without being seen it must be done at once.

So withdrawing his head from the chimney he crawled across the roof and safely reached the gable end. Without a moment's hesitation he now made a leap, but failing to clear the big water barrel that stood immediately beneath he soon found himself immersed up to the neck. Sick at heart and gasping for breath he scrambled over the side, his eyes wandering in every direction in fear some villagers being at hand to see the terrible plight into which he had brought himself.

But as yet all was clear. Not even Jean or Timothy was about, so along the narrow path he fled until he came to the wire fence, which he leaped with the agility of a schoolboy. Then, without daring to look around, he crossed the road, and entering his workshop locked the door.

It was some time before Wharrie recovered sufficiently to rise from the old armchair into which he had flung himself; but again the deadly pallor was leaving his usually rubicund countenance, and by the time it had assumed its normal hue he was cautiously looking through the cobwebbed window pane.

No villagers were about, as he had fully expected. The road was quite deserted. And now he seemed to realize that he was drenched to the skin, but it little mattered—he was safe from the eyes of all in his own workshop. But it had been a miraculous escape. How Jean Clavers and Timothy Trauchle had failed to rush out and confront him as he dragged himself out of the water butt was a problem over which he was now seriously reflecting.

At all events he had escaped from his undignified position on the house top, and even if it should come to the ears of Jack Trotter and the Radical clique of Liberton he by that time would be better able to withstand their assaults and retaliate.

"Twa blacks dinna mak' ae white, an' they'll hae to prove it," said Wharrie to himself, consolingly. "I'se warrant I'll be a match for ony fower o' thae Revolutionists, alang wi' this learned Timothy Trauchle forbye!"—Scottish-American.

Point Well Taken.

A certain New York judge has a little niece of whom he is very pround. A few days ago she came to him and said, with a very serious air:

"Uncle, there is a question about law I want to ask you."

"Well, dear, what is it?" patiently inquired the judge.

"Uncle, if a man has a peacock, and it went into another man's yard and laid an egg, to whom would the egg belong?"

The judge smiled indulgently and replied:

"Why, the egg would belong to the man who owned the peacock, but he could be prosecuted for trespassing if he went on to the other's property to get it."

The child seemed very much interested in the explanation and then observed innocently:

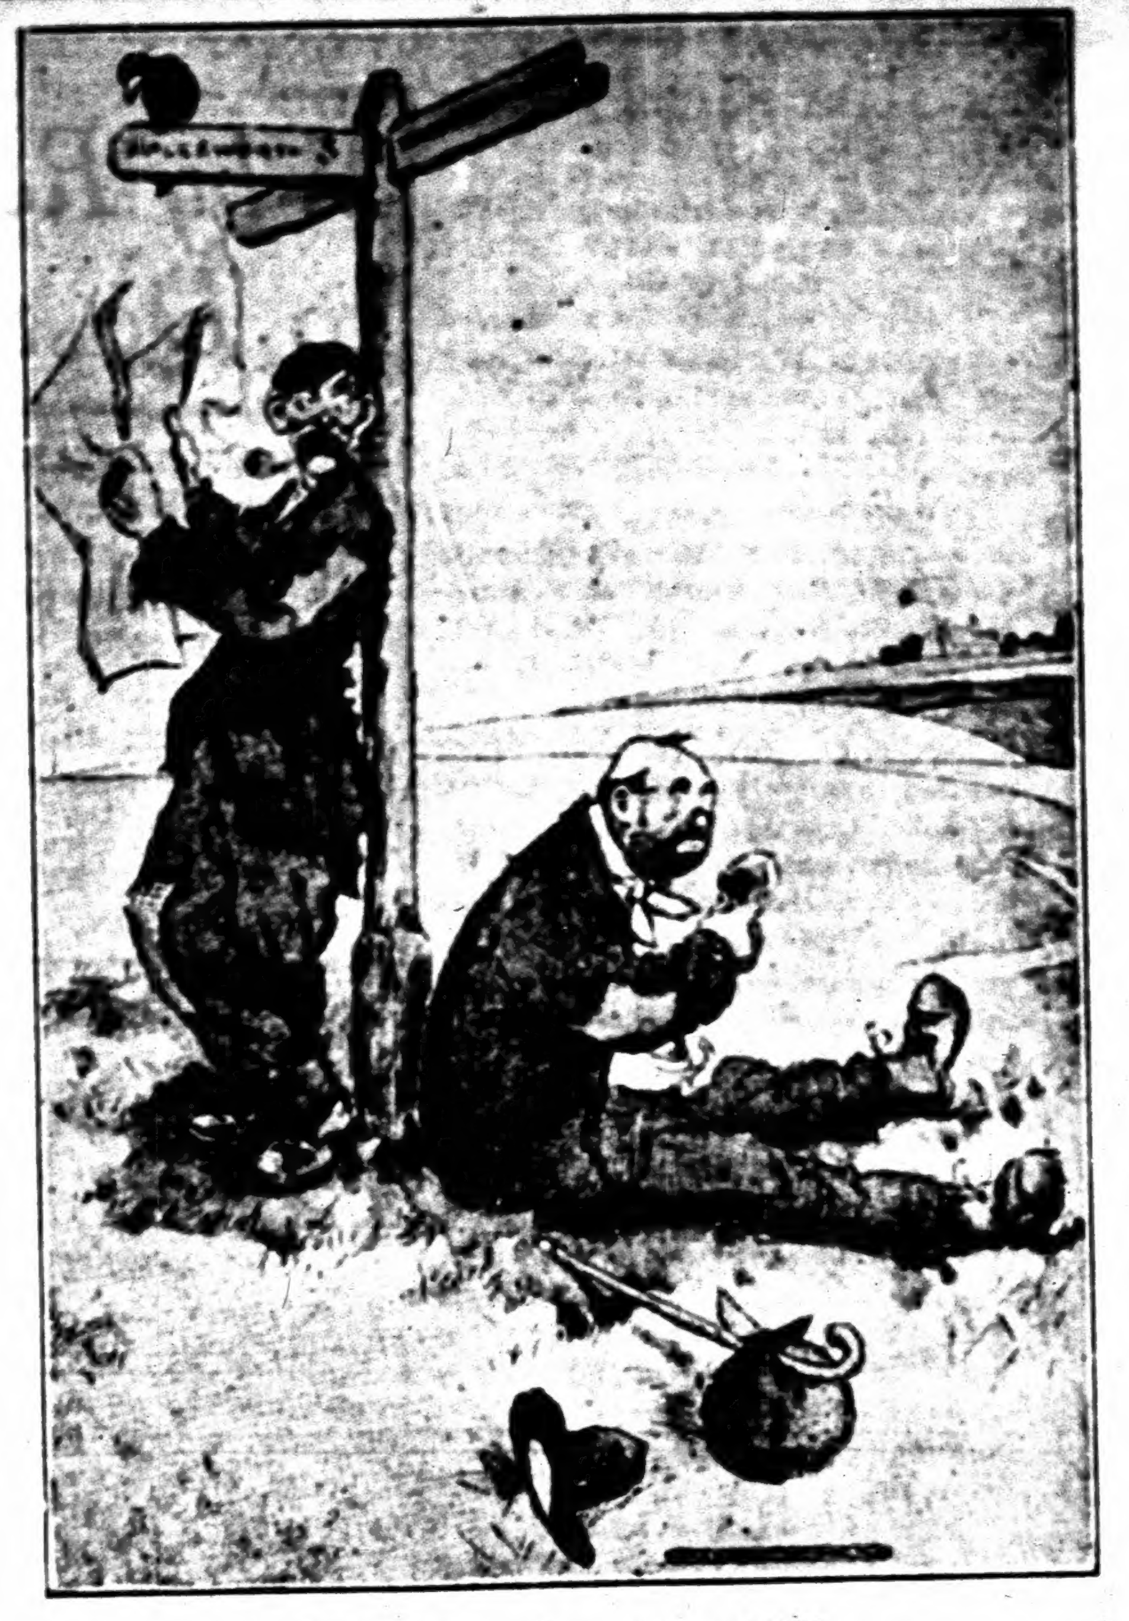
"Uncle, did you ever think that a peacock couldn't lay an egg?"

Girls to the Rescue.

Miss May Sutton is redeeming athletic America abroad. Her triumphant course through the woman's lawn tennis English championship tournament has shown England the most skilled and hardest play a woman ever exhibited. Compare the steadiness and stamina of Miss Sutton with the instability of Larned, Wright and Ward on English courts. It looks as though there is something in the oft-repeated statement that the young women of the present generation are physically superior to the young men of the same period.

And so there is hope for America after all.—Caspar Whitney, in Outing Magazine.

Guanajuato, the ruined city in Mexico, which was destroyed by a cloudburst, furnishes one of the ghastliest curiosities of the world.



THE FOOL AND HIS MONEY.

Joseph—"Do you believe all this, Arthur, about men buying wives?"
Arthur—"Oh, I expect so! Some men will buy anything."—The Tatler.

LUTHER BURBANK,

The MIRACLE MAKER OF GARDENS

The hundreds of valuable new fruits, nuts, grains, grasses, flowers and vegetables emanating from the experimental farms of Luther Burbank at Santa Rosa and Sebastopol, California, have made his name a household word the world over, and so marvelous are these creations that men and women everywhere are watching the progress of his work, and seek to know more of his methods.

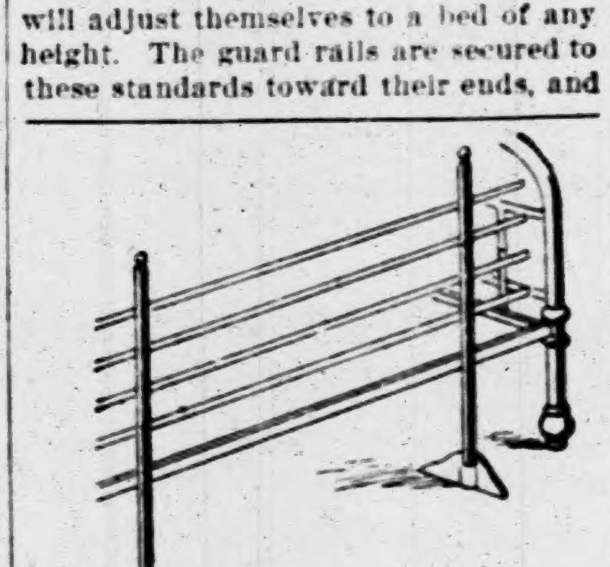
Varieties of fruit have been produced that are more prolific and hardier, growing in regions where the old varieties failed; the fruit season has been prolonged several months by early and late bearing varieties; keeping qualities have been developed so as to stand long distance shipment; many years of costly waiting have been saved the fruit growers by precocity in trees; fruits have been much larger, stones removed, thorns eliminated, shells made thinner, flavor, color and odor improved, and entirely new fruits produced. Grains and fodder plants have been made larger, more prolific, more nutritive and to have less waste; cotton, rice and sugar cane have been improved.—The National Magazine.

LUTHER BURBANK.

GUARD FOR BABY'S BED.

The means of keeping a baby or even older child in bed after it has been tenderly placed under the covers by its mother is one which is a matter of concern to parents. Children are all prone to toss or roll, and painful accidents are often the result. A great deal of gray matter has been expended in various means of fastening the youngsters in their beds, but such schemes are frequently a source of danger in themselves, particularly when rope or cord is used.

A recent patent has for its object the accomplishment of the purpose in a simple manner, consisting of a barrier of metal bars which is supported from the floor and fastened to the frame of the bed, forming a very substantial guard. The standards resting on the floor are clamped to the bed rail, and will adjust themselves to a bed of any height. The guard rails are secured to these standards toward their ends, and each rail consists of two telescoping parts so as to adjust themselves to a bed or crib of any length.



TO KEEP THE BABY IN BED.

In Munich there is a dairy, established by the authorities, where sterilized milk is sold at cost to families whose annual income does not exceed $500.

No Demi-Tasse For Him.

Some years ago Thomas B. Reed went to Ohio. On his journey out there he went into a little railway station to have dinner. At the end of his order he said:

"Bring me a demi-tasse, also."

The waiter stared. "What's that?" he asked.

"A small cup of coffee," Mr. Reed exclaimed. "A small cup of black coffee; see that it's good coffee, please. Demi-tasse means half a cup."

"Aw, g'wan," said the waiter. "I ain't a-goin' to bring you no half-cup. We don't sell nothin' less than five cents here."—Boston Herald.

How Swimming Reduces Weight.

"A man who swims and is vigorous in the water can get himself into condition more quickly by that form of exercise than any other," said the bathhouse man. "I've seen men take off as much as six pounds in a single afternoon in the water, and from two to four pounds from the weight of a man only moderately fat is not an uncommon afternoon's work. We have a scale here, and many of our patrons weigh in their bathing clothes before and after the dip, and there is always a decided loss except where men are very thin or else in prime training. Water exercise doesn't leave so much soreness as gymnasium work, either, and it brings every muscle of the body into play. We've a lot of college boys preparing for places on their football teams from this bathhouse. They have a trainer who watches their work, rubs them down and looks out for their food."—New York Sun.

IS AGAIN STIRRED.

Police of St. Petersburg, With Sabres, Charge Upon Demonstrators.

THEIR RENEWAL IS EXPECTED.

Newspapers Cannot Appear Because of Strikes and Other Lines of Industry Threatened.

St. Petersburg.—For the first time since the advent of M. Trepoff as head of the government of St. Petersburg demonstrations on a large scale took place here, the occasion being the removal of the body of Prince Troubetsky to the Nikolai Station for shipment to Moscow. Students, workmen and spectators gathered in thousands in the streets, and demonstrators with red flags paraded boldly through the Nevsky Prospect, the city's main avenue. The crowds and the processions were several times charged and dispersed by the mounted police, but fortunately with no grave consequences. The most serious injuries reported are those sustained by two men who were slashed with sabres. Firearms were not employed by the gendarmes or military, and though the first collision was provoked by a shot from the crowd and a few cases of stoning occurred, the crowds manifested no inclination to resist the police and troops.

Students Are Exasperated.

The students are exasperated over the attacks by the police and the arrest of several members of a coalition committee chosen by a student meeting September 26, and a renewal of the disorders is not improbable.

The serious feature of the situation is that a strike of printers was declared Sunday night on political grounds, which is to last for a period of three days, but it may be continued longer in case of repressive measures or arrests. A few of the leading daily newspapers hope to be able to issue a single sheet giving telegraphic news, but the others will suspend publication entirely.

The employes of several factories are ready to follow the lead of the printers, and the authorities are fully alive to the danger that the strike may become a general one.

Seeks His Mother and Sisters.

Huntsville, Ala.—Fred L. Howe, of Kansas, is in Huntsville looking for his mother and sisters, who disappeared from his home town several years ago while Mr. Howe was a soldier in the Philippine Islands. Howe was a member of the Twentieth Kansas Infantry, under Gen. Fred Funston. He enlisted in the regiment when only 16 years old, and was the mascot of the regiment. During his term of service in the Philippines he was wounded twelve times, five of the wounds being received when his company, C, was massacred by Moros and all but seven of the men killed. After serving out his term as a volunteer Howe enlisted in the Ninth Infantry and saw service in China. His wife, who accompanies him, was a Red Cross nurse in the Philippines.

Fire in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill.—Five firemen were injured, none fatally, and property valued at $150,000 was destroyed by fire which demolished the five-story brick building at 75 and 77 Lake street, which was occupied by Podrasnik Klapperich & Co., wholesale dealers in paints, oils and wall paper. The fire is supposed to have started, from spontaneous combustion, and several explosions of paints and varnish occurred, which for a time threatened to spread the flames to the building occupied by the law department of the Northwestern University. The firemen were injured by falling glass and flying splinters caused by the explosions.

Hancock Arrested.

Washington, D. C.—Winfield Scott Hancock, aged 43, a nephew of the late Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock, was arrested at Hyattsville, near here, Monday, charged with the murder of Emma Smallwood, a young white woman employed as a domestic in the Hancock household, who died as the result of a criminal operation. Hancock disclaims any guilt and declares that the woman left his home on Monday, but returned on Thursday, and died that night. Hancock was formerly in charge of the mails at the census bureau here, but had been unemployed for two years. Upon the finding of additional evidence in the case establishing a criminal operation, a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mrs. Amanda Mackall, a sister of Hancock, for complicity in the crime.

Parliament of Sweden.

Stockholm, Sweden.—Both houses of parliament unanimously adopted the government bill providing for the ratification of the Carlstadt treaty. There was no debate in the lower house, and the criticism in the senate was confined to one or two speakers, who alleged that too much consideration had been shown for Norway by the Swedish delegates.

To Make Iron in Montgomery County.

Clarksville, Tenn.—The Dover Pig Iron Company has been organized and chartered for the purpose of manufacturing pig iron at Bear Springs and Carlisle. The best boiler iron in the world is said to be made at these furnaces.

Bank at Bluff City.

Bristol, Tenn.—The business men of Bluff City, the first town west of Bristol, on the Southern railway, are organizing a bank for local conveniences. The new institution will have a capital stock of $10,000. It is not yet determined who the officers will be.

Two Children Burned to Death.

Franklin, Ky.—Della Mallory, whose home is six miles in the country, locked her two children, aged 2 and 3 years respectively, in a cabin and went to a country store a mile distant. She was absent but a short time and on her return home found the cabin burned, and only the charred remains of her children visible.

Cutting Affray at Circus.

Dickson, Tenn.—During the performance of the Sells & Downs shows here a man by the name of Overton and one of the showmen got into an altercation, as a result of which the former cut the latter severely with a pocket knife. Overton made his escape.

Earthquakes in Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica.—Two earthquake shocks of unusual duration and affecting the whole island of Jamaica were felt here last week. The first shock was on Thursday evening, and lasted nearly a minute. The second and most severe lasted for a minute and a half. The undulating motion of the ground made some persons ill. There was no damage to property.

Booming an Oil Find.

Evansville, Ind.—A report has reached here that oil has been struck on the land leased by the Western Kentucky Coal Company at Sturgis, Ky., and that the company is keeping the matter a secret. The company has recently leased several hundred acres of land and Sturgis is enjoying a boom.

Railroads Aid Project.

Consul Halstead, at Birmingham, End., calls attention to the fact that the London and Northwestern Railway Company, its stockholders approving, has made a contribution to the British Cotton Growing Association. The consul believes it to be significantly indicative of the strength of the sentiment which exists in England favoring the growth of cotton in the British colonies in competition with the United States. The railroad contributed about $5,000.

Canadian Postmaster-General Retires.

Ottawa, Ont.—Sir William Mullock, the retiring postmaster-general, attended his last cabinet meeting. He has been appointed chief justice of the new exchequer court of Ontario. A. B. Aylesworth, K. C., will be sworn in tomorrow as postmaster-general.

Ratification Formally Announced.

St. Petersburg.—The ratification of the treaty of peace was formally announced Monday in the Official Messenger, which says that its operation has begun. The text of the treaty is not given.

Treaty Goes Into Effect.

Tokio, Japan.—The peace treaty with Russia went into effect Monday. The text of the treaty was published in the afternoon.

Kills His Brother.

Shine, Tex.—At his home near here late Sunday night Frank Marek shot and instantly killed his brother, Vincent Marek, tearing a great hole in his breast with buckshot. There had been quarreling between the men for some time, it is said. The slayer notified the sheriff and was jailed.

Will Be Submitted to Douma.

St. Petersburg.—By command of the emperor the council of the empire has suspended the greater part of its legislative labors and returned the bills awaiting its consideration to the ministerial departments concerned for submission to the imperial douma.

Another Earthquake in Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica.—Another earthquake shock was felt at 4:35 o'clock Sunday, lasting for nearly a minute. It was oppressively hot before the shock took place.

Shoots His Daughter.

Maplesville, Ala.—Zell Cossey, who lives here, discharged a double-barreled shotgun at his home Sunday morning and hit his little daughter in the leg, inflicting a painful, but not dangerous wound. The gun was loaded with bird shot.

First Cabbage Snake Found.

Huntsville, Ala.—M. J. Blair, a well-known planter, has reported the first cabbage snakes seen in this locality this season. Mr. Blair found two snakes in a fine head of cabbage Saturday. Both of them had brown bodies and green heads. Several deaths, said to have been caused by eating poisoned cabbages, were reported last season, but these reports were never verified.

The Banner.

Printed and Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton County, Ala.

Entered at the postoffice at Clanton, Ala., as second-class mail matter.

"Here shall the press the people's rights maintain,
Unawed by influence and unbribed by gain,
Here patriot truth her glorious precepts draw,
Pledged to religion, liberty and law."

Subscription, yearly : : : $1.00
Invariably in advance.

Address all communications to THE BANNER, Clanton, Ala.

$5.00 for $1.50—The Banner $1.00; The Montgomery Weekly Advertiser $1.00; a magnificent map, up-to-date, of Alabama, a splendid map of the United States, and a grand map of the World $3; Total $5.00; you can get the combination for only $1.50. Every home should have them. Better get them at once, before the maps are all gone, there is only a limited number. Subscribe now!

The maps will be delivered at The Banner office, Clanton, Ala. Subscribers who wish to have them sent by mail will please send seven cents extra for postage.

With this issue of The Banner commences its fourteenth volume. For thirteen years we are proud to say there has been a steady increase of patronage, until now our regular issue every week is 1400 copies—this week, by-the-by, we are sending out 1500 copies. For thirteen years The Banner has never missed a single issue, accidents have occurred causing slight delays, but every week the paper has gone out to subscribers. To subscribers and advertisers we extend our hearty thanks for the generous support we have received, and it will be our constant endeaver to continue to merit their patronage.

A rousing reception awaits President Roosevelt when he visits the State Fair at Birmingham, Ala., on October 24. The day in the official calendar of the Fair has been designated President's Day, Elaborate preparations has been made to make the occasion the most gala event in the history of the State. More than 5,000 people can be comfortably seated in the grand stand. In the middle section of the stand is the reserved seat section, equipped with opera chairs of the same pattern and style as those in use in the high-priced theaters of the country. These seats may be reserved for 25 cents each on application, either in person or by mail, to Mr. R. M. Williams, general manager of the Fair. The famous First Regiment Band, of Cincinnati, which has been engaged for the Fair, will put on a special musical program for the occasion.

The Bar Association of Chilton county held a meeting at Clanton last Saturday, all the members in attendance. Col. Wm. A. Collier was chosen chairman, and John C. Dennis secretary. The following resolutions were adopted unanimously:

Whereas, the necessity for an additional District Judge for the Northern and Middle districts of Alabama is imperative, it being impossible for one Judge to dispose of the business of the courts in said districts, or even in the Northern District.

Therefore, be it resolved by the Bar of Chilton County, Alabama:

First, That we favor the passage of an act of Congress, providing for an additional United States District Judge for the Middle and Northern Districts of Alabama, to reside in the Northern District; and that such Judge and the Judge of said Courts residing in the Middle District have equal powers of said Districts, dividing the business between them.

Second: Resolved, further, that we consider the above plan as not only the best, but the only practical mode of obtaining relief; and we earnestly request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to do all in their power to procure the passage of such an act of Congress; and that a copy of these resolutions be published and sent to each of them.

Resolved, that the Secretary be directed to cause the proceedings of this meeting to be published in The Banner.

Wm. A. Collier, Chm.
J. C. Dennis, Sec.

FOR OLD PEOPLE

The Upchurch Drug Co. Have a Guaranteed Strength Creator.

A member of the above firm says "hundreds of old people right here in Clanton need just such a strength-maker and body builder as our delicious cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, and we simply cannot understand why they will continue to drag out a half-dead and half-alive existence, when we guarantee Vinol will strengthen and invigorate every organ in the body, stop the natural decline and make them well, strong and active.

This is because Vinol contains in a highly concentrated form all of the strength creating and body-building elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of the system-clogging oil to upset the stomach and retard its work.

Vinol creates renewed vitality in the most natural manner, making rich, red blood, and building up and strengthening every organ in the body to do its work as nature intended. Many old people have written that they would not take $1000 for the good Vinol has done them.

In the strongest manner we endorse and guarantee Vinol to increase the appetite, give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, build up the run-down, tired and debilitated, make the weak strong or return to the purchaser every dollar paid for it." Upchurch Drug Co.

PROGRAM S. S. CONVENTION.

The annual Convention of District No. 5, composed of the Sunday schools in Beats 5 and 10 will be held at Salem church, six miles north of Verbena, on the 4th Sunday, Oct. 22, 1905.

9:30 a.m. Praise service led by —Robinson.

10. President's address, Dr. H. W. Caffey. Secretary's report, Miss Lila Meriwether.

10:30. District organization, Judge Joseph Carthel, State Secretary.

11. The teacher before the class, W. B. Davidson. Enrollment of delegates. Appointment of committees.

1:30 p.m. Devotional exercises, N. J. Calloway. Reports of superintendents, W. L. Pyron, John Norris, W. H. Strock, Joseph Mims, Zeb Mims, D. L. Robinson, W. A. Huckebee, J. F. Williams, J. F. Patton.

2:30. Present status of Sunday school work, A. J. Brooks.

3. How to interest the parents, Judson Strock.

3:30. The Sunday school as factor in church work, Rev. J. L. Long.

It is earnestly hoped that the superintendents and delegates from Sunday schools in Beats 5 and 10 will be present, and an invitation is extended to all who are interested in Sunday school work.

H. W. Caffey,
D. L. Robinson,
Lila Meriwether.

Pay Your Dues.

Jemison, Oct. 16, 1905

Editor Banner—Please give me space in your paper to say a few words relative to the 3 cents assessment made by the Southern Cotton Association, at Asheville, N. C., per bale on cotton raised this year. Now, brethren, I think every farmer ought to come forward with this mite as it amounts to very little compared to the dividend he has already made and will make. Think what it will cost on ten bales of cotton, only thirty cents, Sell your cotton now at 9¢, ten bales will bring $450; hold it and get 11¢, $550. See the difference? Come out and pay your dues and assessments and keep the Association going. We have got control of the situation if we will stick together and attend to our business. We are in better condition than we have ever been. The Southern press is in sympathy with us as well as all the monied men of the South, the millionaire is ready, willing and anxious to help us. So if we let this chance slip God knows when another opportunity like it will be offered.

Hoping that every ginner will look after his customers and encourage them to pay the assessment, also their dues and hold their cotton for not less than 10 cents, and 11 wherever it is possible. Also to come to our next regular meeting. Success to the Banner.

J. W. Sorrell,
Chm. Ex. Com.

New Cure For Cancer.

All surface cancers are now known to be curable, by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Jas. Walters, of Duffield, Va., writes: "I had a cancer on my lip for years, that seemed incurable, till Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it, and now it is perfectly well." Guaranteed cure for cuts and burns. 25c at Upchurch drug store.

A DAILY PAPER FREE.

Well, not exactly free, but the next thing to it. What do you think of this offer? The Banner and the CHICAGO NATIONAL DAILY REVIEW $1.50 A YEAR!

This offer is open for a limited time only. We can't tell how long we shall have an opportunity to give you such a bargain, so come early.

Pay up your arrearages and a year in advance, and for only 50 cents additional we send you a Daily Newspaper for one year. Think of it!

The Chicago National Daily Review is a phenomenal success. It is a four-page, seven-column paper printed in large type on good quality of paper. Started in January, 1905, it already has thousands of subscribers and it intends to add thousands more in the next few weeks by arrangements with the Banner and other newspapers, such as we have outlined above.

The Chicago National Daily Review is published every week day in the year and contains all the news thats worth remembering. It has a complete market report, excellent reading matter for the family, condensed and readable reports of the world's news, and every day gives its readers a Magazine Article by one of the high-class special writers on its staff.

Remember that the regular price of the Chicago National Daily Review is One Dollar per year. For a limited time only, all new subscribers to the Banner who pay a year in advance and all old subscribers who pay arrearages and a year in advance can get the Review for only 50 cents additional.

Don't wait; now is the time to get a Good Daily Newspaper for the smallest price ever offered.

It is impossible to have a clear head, an active brain, a vigorous constitution or a strong body when the digestion is weak or when the stomach is out of order. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will put the stomach and digestive organs in good condition and improve the general condition. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

Gone to Join the Angels.

On Oct. 12th the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Waggoner and took from them their sweet little daughter Irene. She was taken sick late Wednesday evening with croup and lived till 9 o'clock Thursday morning, when it took its flight above. All that loving hands could do was done but all in vain, God had called little Irene home to rest, he saw her pains and suffering, and she has suffered long enough. She has gone home to sleep in the arms of Jesus and to await your coming. Weep not, dear father and mother. We feel that we cannot speak any consoling words that will make their grief lighter or fill the vacancy of the little one, but we would ask the grief-stricken parents to remember that God is a wise and just God and does all things for the best. Do not despair for you have something to live for which will make you nobler, for you will strive to follow your child into the realms of glory where there is no more parting. What is your loss is heaven's gain. She has left this world and gone to dwell where there is sunshine and love evermore. Just remember it is God's way, His will be done.

Lucy Jones.

The prosperous condition of the Clanton banks is shown by their published statements.

For Your Protection

we place this label on every package of Scott's Emulsion. The man with a fish on his back is our trade-mark, and it is a guarantee that Scott's Emulsion will do all that is claimed for it. Nothing better for lung, throat or bronchial troubles in infant or adult. Scott's Emulsion is one of the greatest flesh-builders known to the medical world.

We'll send you a sample free.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street New York

Why Refer to Doctors

Because we make medicines for them. We give them the formula for Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and they prescribe it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. They trust it. Then you can afford to trust it. Sold for over 60 years.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a remedy that should be in every home. I have used a great deal of it for hard coughs and colds, and I know what a splendid medicine it is. I cannot recommend it too highly."—Mark E. Cohen, Hyde Park, Mass.

Made by J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of Ayer's SARSAPARILLA
PILLS.
HAIR VIGOR.

Ayer's Pills greatly aid the Cherry Pectoral in breaking up a cold.

NOTICE.

Applications have been received by the Board of Education of Chilton county for the following changes in school districts:

District No. 55—Beginning at the northwest corner of Sec 33, Tp 24, R 12; thence east two miles, thence south ½ mile, thence east 1½ mile, thence south ¼ mile, thence west ¼ mile to east boundary line of District No 53.

District No. 57—Beginning at the Northwest corner Sec. 20, Tp 23, R 14; thence north 1½ miles, thence east ½ mile, thence north ½ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence north ¾ mile thence east 1 mile, thence north 4½ mile, thence west 3 miles to range line, thence south 3 miles, thence west 1 mile, thence south 3¾ mile, thence east ½ mile, thence south ¾ mile, thence east to point of beginning.

The above applications will be passed upon by the Board of Education at the Court House in Clanton, on 11th day of November, 1905.

Done by order of the Board in session Oct. 7, 1905. G. L. Speer, Sec. Board of Education.

No Pill is as pleasant and positive as DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These Famous Little Pills are so mild and effective that children, delicate ladies and weak people enjoy their cleansing effect, while strong people say they are the best liver pills sold. Sold by Upchurch Drug co.

PROGRAM

of District Sunday School Convention of the 6th District of Chilton county, to be held at Ebenezer Baptist church, Stanton, Ala., Oct. 29, 1905.

9 a.m. Devotional exercises, W. O. Perry.

9:30. Ends to be accomplished by Sunday schools, teachers and conventions, Rev. Robert Jones, T. G. Milling, Prof. W. B. Speer.

10:30. Development of schools in the district, superintendents.

11. Enrollment of delegates.

11:15. The value of inter-denominational Sunday school work, Miss Mary C. Gibson.

12. Recess.

1.30 p.m. The value of the Bible to a country, Hon. T. U. Crumpton, Rev. T. F. Davis.

2:30. A banner district. Geo. W. Fox, N. L. Broadhead.

3. The home department, Rev. W. J. Ruddick, R. P. Kendrick.

We cordially invite all Sunday school workers, superintendents and delegates from each school in the district to attend the convention. The Lord has blessed this work in every instance where the officers have held the conventions regularly and faithfully performed the duties intrusted to them. We ask you to co-operate with us in reaching the people of our district and in giving them more schools and better schools.

Yours in the work,
H. J. Groom, D. Pres.
Andrew B. Deason, D. Sec.

Sardis.

Farmers of this community are almost done gathering their crops.

We are glad to know Mr. Homer Ratliff is improving so fast.

Mr. Walter Roper was in Clanton Saturday on business.

Mr. Frank Roebuck and family visited Mr. T. J. Klinner Saturday.

Mrs. Ellen Walker visited her daughter, Mrs. Katie Robinson, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Roebuck visited Mr. Robert Klinner Sunday.

Miss Everee Ratliff and brother, Homer, visited Miss Minnie Klinner Saturday. Two Chums.

Insomnia and Indigestion Cured.

"Last year I had a severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Upchurch Drug co., Clanton, A. Horn, Thorsby.

F. A. GULLEDGE

Real Estate, Loans and Disc

Liberal long time loans on Imp Farms, also Life Insurance Policies.

Annual loans on good Personal Pro ty, including Crops.

Also liberal advances offered on ton being held now, either on farms warehouses. Address

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, AL

The Big Mail Order House!

THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE!

Everything at Cut Prices!

Send Us Your Mail Orders.

BOTTLE GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00
Stuart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00
Wilson Whiskey	85
J. M. Atherton Bottled in bond	1 00
Mammoth Cave Bottled in bond	1 25
Old Jordan Bottled in bond	1 50
Green River, the Whiskey without a headache	1 00
Old Sand Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Dew Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

We have a full line of barrel goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.

	Per gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Dew	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va Rye
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
Old California Port or Sherry	1 50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va Rye

Write for price list. We carry a full line of wines whiskies. We do not handle low grade goods.

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY
THE BIG CUT RATE DRUG STORE
2012 FIRST AVE. BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The best of Everything and Everything of the

Staple & Fancy Groce
DRY GOODS, CLOTHI
SHOES, HATS, ETC.

B. E. JONES & BRO.
CLANTON - - - - - A

THE WHOLE FAMIL

needs clothing, and we have just put in an immense stock which Touro purchased in New York, for spot cash, his long enabling him to buy at most advantageous prices, with the purpose of meeting the wants of the entire family.

The baby boy, the growing youth and the grown men clothing for them all, good fit and quality guaranteed.

The baby girl, the young lady and the matrons—we can and suit them all, with latest styles and fashionable goods at low prices.

In the Men's Department we can show you any kind of wish at a price that will suit you. We have the largest stock of Clothing, sizes in suits from 3 years old to 16 years old in and from 12 years to 18 years in youth's long pants. No you want we have it at the right price. Men's and Boy's styles at about ½ their real worth.

For the Ladies, we have the largest stock of the latest Jackets, Skirts, Silk Shirt Waists, Flannel Shirt Waists, and many other kind of Waists. The finest stock of Dress Goods kinds—Woollen, Cashmere, Plaids. Extra Fine Waist Goods.

2000 yards Fancy Flannelette in short lengths from 3 to worth 15 cents regularly; we offer them at 9 cents per yard they last.

1500 Pairs of Sample Shoes, for which we have the agency from a St. Louis house. Ladies' from No. 3 to No. Men's from No 5 to No. 9. All sizes in Children's. We all these shoes for less than wholesale price.

Call and see us, you are sure to be satisfied.

DAMSKY BROS. & TOURO
Clothiers To The Whole
THE BARGAIN ST
Clanton, Ala.

VOL. XIV

MONEY FOR POLITICS.

LEGISLATION TO PROHIBIT CORPORATIONS MAKING CAMPAIGN PAYMENTS.

Question of Taxing Patent Medicines to Be Discussed by Congress—One Method Suggested to Meet Deficit.

There are prospects that two pieces of legislation will be strongly advocated at the coming session of Congress, both of which, however, will be vigorously opposed. They relate to the practice of making political contributions and to the question of taxation upon certain patent medicines, although this latter is but a feature of the general subject of overcoming the Treasury deficit.

EX-SENATOR W. E. CHANDLER.

It is expected that the President will refer in his annual message to the question of campaign contributions, and it is known that there are many Senators and Representatives who would favor prompt action in the enactment of prohibitive legislation.

Chandler's Bill to Prohibit Contributions.

As far back as 1901, Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, introduced a bill to prohibit those national banks or corporations which do an interstate or foreign business from making any political contributions, and to prohibit any corporations from contributing to campaigns involving the election of United States Senators and Representatives. The bill was almost immediately favorably reported to the Senate, but it was near the end of the short session and it failed of passage. The evident fact that it could not be taken up and passed may account for the entire lack of opposition to it. What strength will develop against such a measure this winter is problematical. It is no secret that many corporations regularly contribute to both political parties. Mr. Havemeyer, of the sugar trust, has declared in plain language that he has contributed to the Democrats and Republicans alike.

Publishing the Donations.

The discussion next winter is likely to centre largely around the President's plan for the publication of all campaign contributions, with a view to framing such a law as will prevent money from being spent for corrupt practices. Every one recognizes that in order to have the great political issues properly contested there is a certain need of money. The publication and distribution of speeches and all classes of literature is quite generally regarded as not to be condemned, but as of advantage in having the questions of the day properly understood by the voters.

Leaders in Congress are but a unit in declaring that it is only when money is expended in order to corrupt voters that the expenditure can be criticised. But it is generally believed that this subject will give rise to an immense amount of debate in the next Congress. There are a score of Senators and a large number of Representatives who will wish to go on record saying things about the corporations and the practice of corporations making contributions to political campaigns.

Propose Tax On Medicines.

The question of the taxation of patent medicines, which contain considerable alcohol, is bound to receive serious consideration by Congress, especially if the present rate of the Treasury deficit continues. The deficit is running about $5,000,000 a month now, which is considerably less than last year, still it is possible that it may increase to an annoying extent and necessitate some action by Congress. There has been a number of extra expenses which has caused the deficit, and there are other extra expenses ahead, while it is, of course, not certain to what extent Congress will increase or pare down appropriations. A number of congressional leaders have had in mind, as a partial increase in the revenue desired, a tax on patent medicines.

Patent Medicine Men Will Fight.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has been called upon for unofficial [illegible] and an opinion on these [illegible] reducing alcoholics. The [illegible] the people recognize that [illegible] and they propose to [illegible] They will resist efforts to [illegible] taxes upon them, claiming with apparent force that the alcohol used in their medicines has already paid its tax.

GULLEDGE

Loans and Disco

time loans on Impro e Insurance Policies.
on good Personal Prop
rops.
advances offered on co
ow, either on farms or ress

F. A. GULLEDGE,
VERBENA, ALA

Mail Order House!
RATE DRUG STORE!
at Cut Prices!
Your Mail Orders.
GOODS PER QUART.

	Our Price	Regular P
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	75	1 00
	50	75
	60	1 00
	65	1 00
nia Rye	75	1 00
	75	1 00
hiskey	85	1 25
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	2 00
	84	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	85	1 50
	1 00	1 50
	1 25	1 75
	1 50	2 00
out a headache	1 00	1 25
	50	75
	75	1 00
	65	1 00
	50	75
	75	1 00
	50	75
	50	75

goods and sell in jugs by the gallon.
llon Per gal
.00 Old Mason's Pure Rye .... $2.
.00 Private Stock Virginia Rye . 2.
.00 J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye 3.
.00 Old Style Country Club ...... 3.
.00 Old Lincoln County .... 2.
.00 Richmond Club Virginia Rye 4.
.50 R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye.... 5.

We carry a full line of wines a le low grade goods.

DRUG COMPANY
RATE DRUG STORE
RMINGHAM, ALA.

verything
verything of the b

ancy Groceri
DS, CLOTHIN
HATS, ETC.

NES & BRO.
. . . .AL

DLE FAMILY

t put in an immense stock which o
, for spot cash, his long expe dvantageous prices, with the ex
f the entire family.
youth and the grown men—we nd quality guaranteed.
ady and the matrons—we can fit es and fashionable goods at espe
we can show you any kind of Sui
. We have the largest stock of ars old to 16 years old in short youth's long pants. No matter t price. Men's and Boy's Hat
th.
he largest stock of the latest st
, Flannel Shirt Waists, and a he finest stock of Dress Goods
ds. Extra Fine Waist Goods.
tte in short lengths from 3 to 10 y er them at 9 cents per yard so lo es, for which we have the ex
. Ladies' from No. 3 to No.
l sizes in Children's. We are a lesale price.
re to be satisfied.

ROS. & TOURO
The Whole
CAIN ST.
ton, Ala.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

VOL. XIV Part Two CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1905 Pages 9 to 12 No. 1

MONEY FOR POLITICS.

LEGISLATION TO PROHIBIT CORPORATIONS MAKING CAMPAIGN PAYMENTS.

Question of Taxing Patent Medicines to Be Discussed by Congress—One Method Suggested to Meet Deficit.

There are prospects that two pieces of legislation will be strongly advocated at the coming session of Congress, which, however, will be vigorously opposed. They relate to the practice of making political contributions and to the question of taxation upon certain patent medicines, although this latter is but a feature of the general subject of overcoming the Treasury deficit.

EX-SENATOR W. E. CHANDLER.

It is expected that the President will refer in his annual message to the question of campaign contributions, and it is known that there are many Senators and Representatives who would favor prompt action in the enactment of prohibitive legislation.

Chandler's Bill to Prohibit Contributions.

As far back as 1901, Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, introduced a bill to prohibit those national banks or corporations which do an interstate or foreign business from making any political contributions, and to prohibit any corporations from contributing to campaigns involving the election of United States Senators and Representatives. The bill was almost immediately favorably reported to the Senate, but it was near the end of the short session and it failed of passage. The evident fact that it could not be taken up and passed may account for the entire lack of opposition to it. What strength will develop against such a measure this winter is problematical. It is no secret that many corporations regularly contribute to both political parties. Mr. Havemeyer, of the sugar trust, has declared in plain language that he has contributed to the Democrats and Republicans alike.

Publishing the Donations.

The discussion next winter is likely to center largely around the President's plan for the publication of all campaign contributions, with a view to framing such a law as will prevent money from being spent for corrupt practices. Every one recognizes that in order to have the great political battles properly contested there is a certain use of money. The publication and distribution of speeches and all classes of literature is quite generally regarded as not to be condemned, but as an advantage in having the questions of the day properly understood by the voters.

Leaders in Congress are but a unit in declaring that it is only when money is expended in order to corrupt voters that the expenditure can be criticised. But it is generally believed that this subject will give rise to an immense amount of debate in the next Congress. There are a score of Senators and a large number of Representatives who will wish to go on record saying things about the corporations and the practice of corporations making contributions to political campaigns.

Propose Tax On Medicines.

The question of the taxation of patent medicines which contain considerable alcohol is bound to receive serious consideration by Congress, especially if the present rate of the Treasury deficit continues. The deficit is running about $5,000,000 a month now, which is considerably less than last year, still it is possible that it may increase to an annoying extent and necessitate some action by Congress. There has been a number of extra expenses which has caused the deficit, and there are other extra expenses ahead, while it is, of course, not certain to what extent Congress will increase its pare of appropriations. A number of congressional leaders have had in mind, as a partial increase in the revenue desired, a tax on patent medicines.

Patent Medicine Men Will Fight.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has been called upon for unofficial advice and an opinion on these medicines producing alcoholics. The patent medicine people recognize that the fight is ahead and they propose to resist it. They will resist efforts to impose special taxes upon them, claiming with apparent force that the alcohol used in their medicines has already paid its tax.

REAL HEART OF THINGS.

Its Found Not in the Great Cities; But in Country Homes.

"In time the great cities may become dominant, but it will be many years hence, and I would be sorry should I live to see the day," said James J. Hill, President of the Great Northern railroad. "The national welfare depends upon the prosperity of the farm lands, the mining districts, the lumber camps—not on the growth of big cities. The agricultural interests in particular represent the greatest strength of the country, and will for many years to come.

Yet men stand appalled at the spectacle of a metropolis. Let us take New York, as our most striking example—where the visitor gapes at the crowded markets, the endless traffic, the hurrying throngs, the skyscrapers, the roaring factories, the bustle of commerce, all the urban reek and riot, and heedless of what lies behind, the hidden motor power, cries: "Here is the heart of things; here is the pulse of the national life; here the life blood of the nation centers, life blood which, flowing through the veins of commerce, gives vigor to all the land." New York, the heart of the country? Rather New York the parasite—the blood sucker.

A Giant Exhibition.

At best, New York is but a monster exhibit of the products of mines, farms, cattle ranges, mills and factories, and of the rural homes where genius is born, nourished and inspired. What more speaking symbol of these things than the city's skyline. In itself that skyline of marvelous architecture, save as it excites wonder, admiration and a sense of enterprise and activity amounts to nothing. What it signifies in each ascention and depression is the comparative values of the country's material resources.

Concisely, it represents capital, labor and raw material. Of these three the city produces not one—in appreciable quantity. The raw material, the men to handle it, the gold to buy and sell the finished product, come out of the ground and from the open spaces.

New York, Chicago, St. Louis, or any other city, has its inception in the open country, and its existence is and ever will be dependent upon the latter. None recognizes this more quickly than the city man. He knows from experience that the city suffers first, last and most from any national disaster. To go no further back than the coal strike of three winters ago—New York faced for weeks a coal famine that paralyzed her activities and almost killed her poor. Manufacturers could not secure enough fuel to run their plants and women on the "east side" paid ten cents for as much coal as would fill a quart pail. The suffering in this city was out of all proportion to that of the rest of the country.

All food products come from the outside. New York uses three million eggs every day, and beef arrives in whole train loads daily. The city must go to the country for its building materials, for wool, cotton, everything that is needed to run its factories, stores and banks.

Dependent on the Country.

The reckless expenditures of the city dweller are continually giving rise to the question, "Where does the money come from?" From the country, of course. Every wild-cat scheme that is hatched in New York, from Wall Street to Madison Square, inaugurates its proceedings by sending circulars into the country, to catch the dollars of the farmer. The operations of the stock exchange are all based on the condition of the country. A short wheat crop, a slump in the production of grain, or the prospect of one, turns the floor of the Exchange into a pandemonium. Year by year the eyes of the moneyed interests are turned to the earth, figuratively speaking, and the keenest minds of the metropolis are speculating as to what success the farmer is going to have with his crops. The results of that speculation involve millions of dollars. All the country knows what happens in New York when the cotton crop fails. The beef strike last year caused meat to vanish from a million family dining tables in New York city. In summer eggs at 35c a dozen are too expensive as an article of diet for more than half the city's population.

Material and money she gets from the outside; and rarely, indeed, does she even produce the men to handle them. A glance at biographies will show that her captains of industry, merchant princes, men of art, professions, laborers, are country bred, from A. T. Stewart (to go no further back) to the Rockefellers, Clewes, Depews and all the rest of the present day leaders.

Even The People From The Country.

Dr. John H. Girdner, an eminent New York physician, said recently: "Build a wall around New York city allow no new men to enter, and in fifty years the city will depopulate itself. This city makes too many demands upon those who live and work in it. Thousands drop out each month. It is the fresh country people flocking here day by day that furnish the brains, sinews and pluck to carry the metropolis to its destiny. Its success in the past has been due to this out-of-town element and will continue to be."

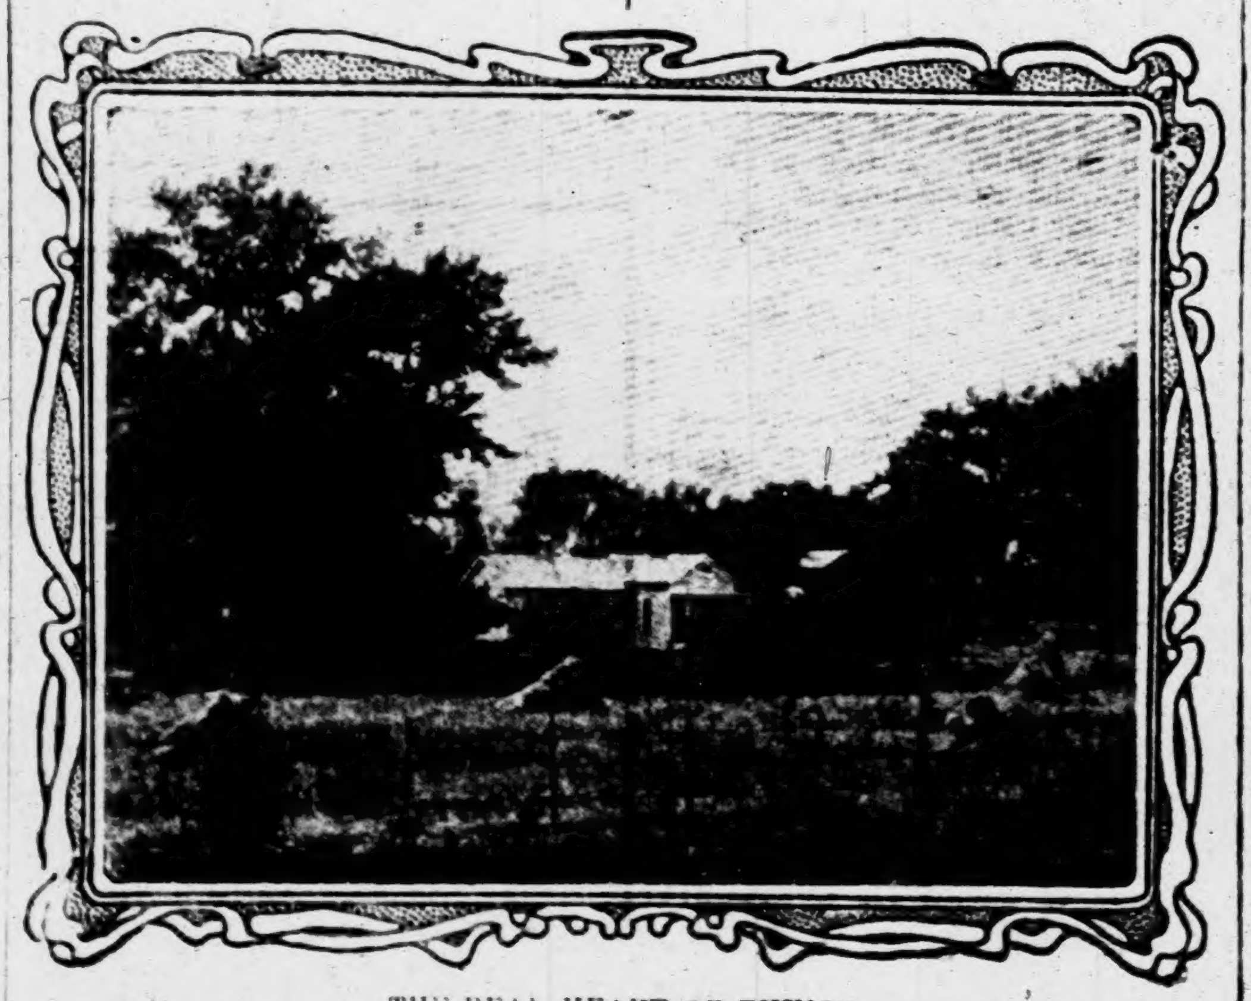
"Men, men, men," is the constant cry that New York sends out over the country and the response is adequate, eager and satisfying. It is in this fact that assurance of the city's still greater advance lies. Capital flowing in from the country made Wall street a by-word to all the world. Material drawn from the country has made her the greatest manufacturing town in the United States. Men attracted from the country have made her financial mistress of the western hemisphere.

Cities Not Self-Dependent.

Not only is she dependent upon the open spaces for men, material and money, but even for trade. As compared to the amount of money spent in this city by out of town buyers, the sum expended by its own inhabitants dwindles into insignificance. In recognition of this, the Merchants Association of New York annually arranges with railroads for cheap transportation, and with hotels for rock bottom rates, and runs excursions to gather in the out-of-town buyers.

During the month of August over 400 buyers from the south and west were in New York, and during September this number largely increased. Reckoning under the average of past years each merchant spent more than $10,000, and thus through the efforts of the Merchants Association alone more than $400,000,000 is left in the city each year. But this is merely a fraction of the trade which the city receives from the rest of the country. A conservative estimate places the gross income at $1,250,000,000.

Each American city is a clearing house for the rural or mining district surrounding it, and New York the main clearing house for the whole country. All the mighty spectacle of commerce is merely the dramatic and gorgeously staged representation of the nation's money, material and men, which build up the metropolitan mechanism and set it in motion.



THE REAL HEART OF THINGS

Prehistoric Sculpture.

An idea of the small brain capacity of primitive man can be gathered from a crude stone head, now on exhibition, which was recently found in a field at Moriches, Long Island. The head, while crude in its workmanship, is pronounced by ethnologists as doubtless true to nature—a representation of some savage and prehistoric people who lived ages ago. The head is not a particularly pleasing bit of sculpture, as it calls up a vision of men and women with small brain development and huge repulsive jaws but a degree above the other animals.

Fortunes in Church Steeples.

It is the opinion of Rev. Dr. Forbes, Secretary of the Board of Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, that enough money has been expended, or it may be said wasted, in building steeples, to pay off all the church debts of the country. Besides, he says, steeples are a relic of barbarism, and money used in their construction can be more usefully expended. A good many people will hardly agree with the reverend doctor in his opinion that church steeples are useless or serve no good end. Grace and beauty are lent to thousands of otherwise commonplace looking towns and cities by the spires rising here and there from their midst. Everything cannot be strictly utilitarian, and if a thing serves to please the eyes and senses of hundreds or thousands of people, it is far from being useless.

THEATRE TRUST WAR.

THE INDOMITABLE BELASCO GIVING THE SHOW COMBINE A FIGHT FOR ITS LIFE.

Threatened With Extinction. He Has Organized an Opposition Which Has Attracted Some of the Brightest of the Theatrical Stars.

David Belasco for a number of years has been waging a war against the theatrical trust. He has been assisted in years past by Minnie Maddern Fiske, the wife of Harrison Grey Fiske, owner and editor of the Dramatic Mirror. This year the Shubert Brothers broke off all business relations with Klaw and Erlanger, the moving spirits of the theatre trust, and now a combination with a capital of $1,500,000, of Belasco, Harrison Grey Fiske, John C. Fisher, Frank L. Perley and the Shubert Brothers has been formed, acquiring about thirty theatres, extending from Boston to St. Louis, in which they might produce theatrical productions without the dictum of the trusts.

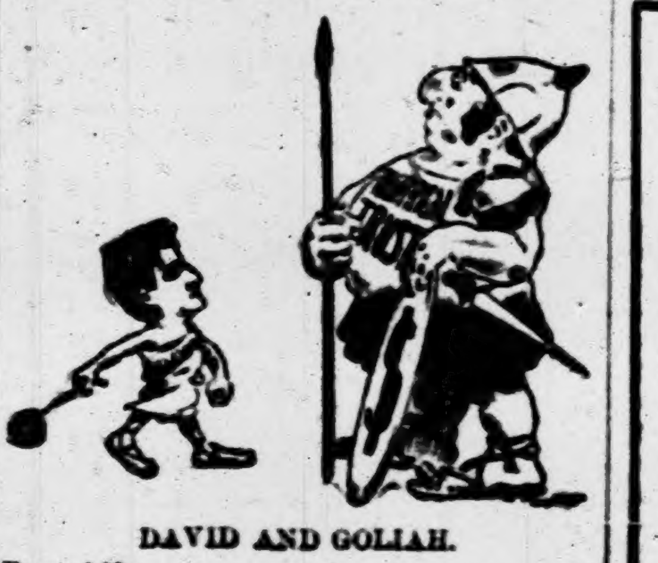
David Belasco, ever since his severance of relations with the trust has made strenuous efforts to acquire a theatre in the nation's capital, as he has found that the cosmopolitan nature of its people assists him greatly in determining whether new productions will be a success or not. In September, however, announcement was made that he, in conjuntion with the Shubert Brothers, had acquired control of the Lafayette Theatre in Washington, and also had taken up a 99-year lease on the ground on which the theatre is built, giving them absolute possession of the property.

BLANCH BATES,
One of Belasco's Stars.

A Famous Theatre Site.

Lafayette Theatre is a comparatively modern playhouse, and occupies the site on which formerly stood the Seward mansion, in which Secretary Seward of Lincoln's cabinet lived when an attempt was made to assassinate him the same night President Lincoln was shot. In later years the house was occupied by Secretary Blaine.

Last year David Belasco found all theatres in the national capital with closely barred doors. He was arranging to make the initial production of "Adrea," Mrs. Leslie Carter's latest success, and found no building in Washington suitable for a conversion into a theatre, except Convention Hall, probably the largest auditorium south of New York, and in years previous used for an ice palace, for six day bicycle races, athletic meetings, and other institutions requiring great space. This had a hall some 150 feet in length by 125 feet in width, with a roof carried on huge semi-circular arches rising to a height of nearly fifty feet above the floor. Such a barn as this Mr. Belasco in a few days converted into a modern playhouse through the magic touch of gold, which he has found to be the most offensive and defensive weapon against the combine.



DAVID AND GOLIAH.
From Life.

Money Spent Like Water.

The regulations of the District of Columbia to protect theatre patrons against the danger of fire, are extremely rigorous, and it was these that the trust used as a weapon to thwart Belasco in his endeavor to have this last production first appear in Washington as have other plays, which are known as general successes. The burden of expense for this work did not fall upon the owners of Convention Hall, but upon Mr. Belasco, who paid, in order to make this hall into a modern fire-proof theatre, an amount aggregating nearly $25,000.

The present theatrical combine or "trust," had first conducted a legitimate booking syndicate, charging for the service five per cent of the profits, an enterprise advantageous alike to actor and manager. The success of this plan opened a larger vista of profit, and the securing of all the theatres in the country has led to the destruction of competition with the two formidable exceptions noted. In the other theatres the manager has become the "janitor," while the syndicate dictates prices, attractions, and other features.

Loosing the Dogs of War.

But it is now war to the knife between the two forces, trust and anti-trust, thrust and anti-thrust. Whether the trust will be successful and absorb the independents, remains to be seen. Probably not, so long as it has to deal with men who know their actor proteges, know the method of the trust, know how to produce a play with unsurpassed taste and know that the American people will pay admission to witness an incomparable production all the more willingly because of the herculean efforts made to present it to them. Belasco, in the new combination which he has organized seems to have gotten his knife well in between the ribs of his antagonist and is beginning already to twist it vigorously.

ENVIRONMENT A MOULDER OF CHARACTER.

By H. S. BIGELOW.

The other day I saw a group of boys carefully scanning a theatre poster. The picture showed a man in the act of plunging a dagger in the throat of a woman. The boys did not run or scream. But their eyes were big and the intensity of their faces showed that the horror of the picture was not lost upon them. Near by were two younger children playing together in the gutter. Their faces were smeared with the mud made by the dish water running over the sidewalk, and the children were amusing themselves floating cigar stumps in the disgusting pool.

Reflecting upon that sad sight there came to mind other childhood scenes. There stood out in memory a little lake that nestled among the hills where sweet-breathed cattle browsed and where the branches of great trees were mirrored in crystal waters. There were the boathouse and the swimming-hole and the spring-board; and there were summer nights, too, when the leaves were still and stars were bright and the spirit of the child looked up in silent wonder.

In the race of life, in the contest of physical endurance, in the moral tests that come, that child has not a fair chance who has sprung out of the mud of the streets.

To know the breath of lilacs and the rustle of autumn leaves, to be up with the lark, to wet one's feet in the dew of the pasture, to go to bed with the song of the whip-poor-will—these memories are like guardian angels.

The children whose horizon is a brick wall, who must play on cobble stones and go swimming in the canal and be chased by the police, if they do not grow up to be ideal citizens, shall we, of holier memories, sit in judgment upon them? Shall we not remember their bonds?

Worse Than Tobacco Cigarettes.

London is reported to be in the throes of a new vice—a vice which is not only getting society into a turmoil, but is also attracting the attention of the medical fraternity. It is the tea-leaf cigarette habit—one in which women are becoming the chief adepts, and which they find great difficulty in overcoming. Once the taste for the new "weed" is acquired, it is said the sensation of smoking tea cigarettes is quite pleasant. Dizziness is caused by constant smoking and the victims clutch madly for invisible and imaginary objects to support themselves. They finally drop in an exhausted and stupefied condition, and then follows that wild state of dreamland said to be as varied as that caused by powerful narcotics.

MARY, MOTHER OF WASHINGTON

Handsome Monument Erected by Patriotic Citizens.

The monument of Mary Washington, the mother of George Washington, stands on the western side of Fredericksburg, Virginia, almost under the shadow of Marye's Heights, of bloody Civil War memory. Mary Washington died of cancer, August 25, 1789. It was in April that year, that Washington rode from Mount Vernon, to say farewell—a final farewell—to his mother before starting for New York to be inaugurated first President of the United States. In a letter to his sister Betty Washington, who lived in Fredericksburg, Washington wrote, after learning of his mother's death, "When I was last in Fredericksburg I took my final leave of my mother, never expecting to see her more."

Neglected Tomb.

For a hundred years the grave of this good woman lay unprotected, on what had been part of the farm of her daughter Betty Washington, but which became a common of the city of Fredericksburg. For half a century the grave was marked by a little stone slab, but this disintegrated, and disappeared. Various fruitless efforts were made to build a monument, and in 1830 a New York banker, Silas E. Burroughs, offered to give an elaborate monument. The cornerstone was laid with imposing ceremonies by President Andrew Jackson, but Burroughs met with financial reverses and the work on the monument was suspended. In 1889 some patriotic women formed the Mary Washington Monument Association, and by subscription erected the monument after buying the land in which the bones of Washington's mother rest.

MONUMENT TO MARY WASHINGTON.

A Story on Balzac.

The French alienist, Esquirol, on being asked by a student, is there any sure test by which the sane can be distinguished from the insane? invited his questioner to dine with him and observe. When the student entered the dining room two other guests were present one an elegantly-dressed and apparently highly educated man, while the other was somewhat uncouth, noisy and extremely conceited. As the pupil bid his host good night, he remarked: "The problem is very simple after all; the quiet, well-dressed gentleman is certainly distinguished in some line, but the other is evidently a lunatic, and ought to be locked up at once." Smiling at his pupil, Esquirol told him that he was wrong. "The quiet well-dressed man," he said, "who talks so rationally, has for years labored under the delusion that he is God, the Father, while the other is M. Honore de Balzac, the greatest French writer of the day."

Every reader of this paper should have this book.
Cut off the coupon and mail to us with $1.50.

Illustrated
by Ernest
Haskell

By
Eugene P. Lyle, Jr.
Published August 1st

12TH THOUSAND
ALREADY

All Bookstores,
$1.50

The Missourian

The romantic adventures of John Dinwiddie Driscoll (nicknamed "The Storm Centre") at the Court of Maximilian in Mexico, where his secret mission comes into conflict with that of the beautiful Jacqueline. The best romantic American novel of recent years.

"Has what so few of its class possess, the elements of reality, wrought by infinite pains of detail, verisimilitude, suggestion."
—St. Louis Republic.

"A remarkable first book, of epic breadth, carried through unswervingly. A brilliant story."—N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

"There is no more dramatic period in history, and the story bears every evidence of careful and painstaking study."—N. Y. Globe.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.
133-137 East 16th St., New York.

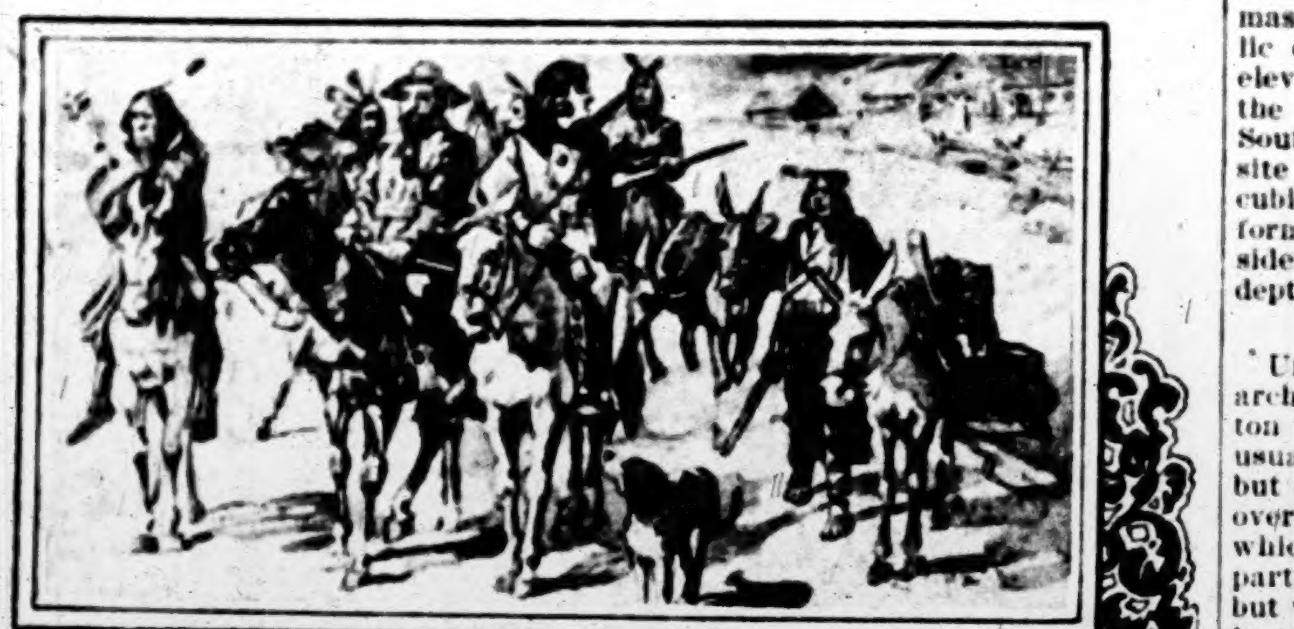
CUT OFF HERE AND MAIL TO US WITH $1.50.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY,
133 East 16th Street, New York.
Dear Sirs:—I enclose $1.50 for which send me, postpaid, one copy of "The Missourian."
Name..........
Address..........

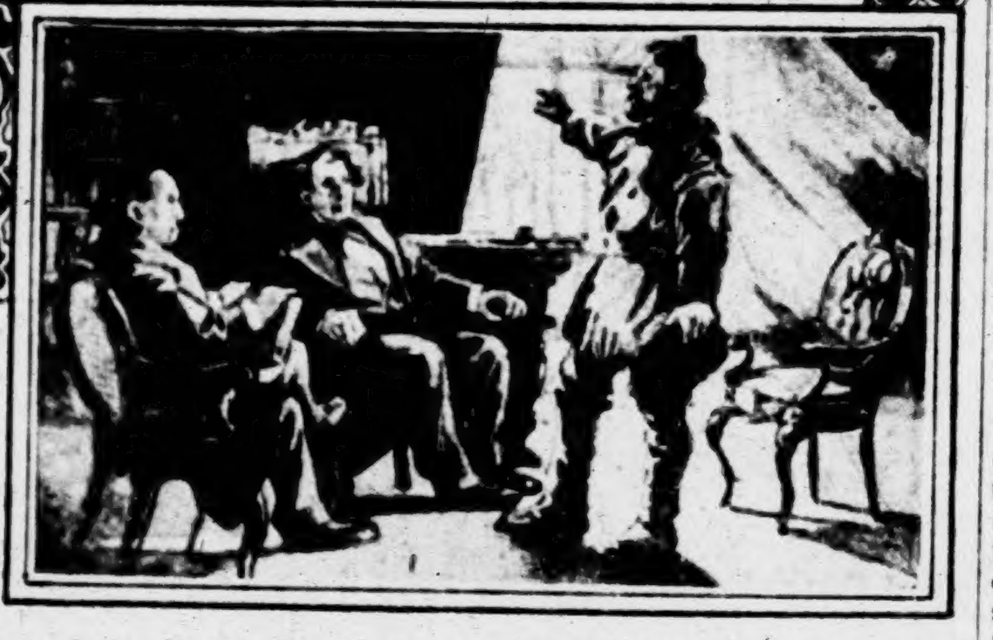
THE SAVING OF OREGON.

HOW DR. WHITMAN BRAVED BLIZZARDS AND DEATH.

Determined to Save Country From British—Daniel Webster Opposed to Retaining Territory.

A bloody trophy in possession of the government at Washington is an Indian hatchet. The tomahawk reeks with red and horid association. It is the weapon with which Dr. Marcus Whitman, the Indian missionary and his wife were slain in 1847 and with which the first blow of the tearsome Whitman masacre was begun—an enormous crime which nearly obliterated the white American settlers in the Oregon country, sent a thrill of horror and indignation throughout the American republic and saved to the American people the great northwest country out of which Oregon, Washington and other states were created. It is one of the very cruel chapters in history-a chapter embracing eight years of war between settlers and savages the result of which was that the Hudson's Bay Company and the British crown were compelled to relinguish their claim to the territory. Another result was the virtual annihilation of the Cayuse tribe of Indians. So much tragic history centers about this rusty hatchet that it is one of the rarest relics of the government. A government official familiar with the period says "The Whitman massacre was the result of the machinations of England to secure by treaty or otherwise all the territory west of the Rockies and north of the 42nd parallel of north latitude."





DR. WHITMAN STARTING EAST ON HIS PERILOUS TRIP ACROSS THE ROCKIES.

PLEADING HIS CAUSE BEFORE WEBSTER AND THE PRESIDENT.

First White Women to Cross Rockies.

It was in 1836 that Dr. Marcus Whitman and the Rev. Mr. Spaulding, with their wives—the first white women to cross the Rock Mountains went among the tribes of the Far Northwest. The country was then in the control of the Hudson's Bay Company a British monopoly with nearly a thousand employes. Its power over the Indian tribes was nearly absolute. It had a string of fortified Canadian posts from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The company owned by men in London desired to exclude American settlements and to foster British immigration. The Washington government so far from having any conception of the value of the northwestern country stubbornly maintained that it was worthless and inaccessible by land. The great Webster said that it was a land fit only for savage beasts and still more savage men.

Dr. Whitman established his mission among the Cayuse in the state of Washington near what is now Walla-Walla, then Fort Walla Walla, trading post. In 1842 while attending a dinner given at the fort in honor of some British officers news came that a company of British immigrants were on their way and had already crossed the Rocky Mountains. There was great excitement at the table and a young officer unconscious of the presence of the American missionary jumped to his feet exclaiming "Hurrah for Columbia; the Oregon country. America is too late; We have got the country."

Dr. Whitman perceived that it was the purpose of the British to claim the country by right of settlement. He left the table rode rapidly to his wilderness home and after a brief pause there set out for Washington. His parting words to his wife were "I am going to cross the Rocky Mountains, reach Washington this winter, God carrying me through and bring out an immigration through the mountains next spring or this country is lost."

An Awful Journey.

Winter had set in and the old chronicles tell it was a severe one marked by terrific storms and deep snows.

